JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 38:7–13 Ebed-melech, an official in King Zedekiah's administration, rescues Jeremiah with the king's permission. Like Jeremiah, God's people today should never give up hope but rather trust in the Lord, especially when things are at their worst. Also, God works through us to help one another in time of need, as Jesus helps us in our greatest need by rescuing us from sin and damnation. • When all seems lost, O Lord, lift up our heads. Keep our hearts faithful and our eyes on You. Amen.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 38:14–16 Third and final interview. Wracked by indecision, Zedekiah turns once more to Jeremiah, hoping to hear of a last-minute escape out of his dilemma.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 38:14 third entrance. Perhaps the king's private entrance to the temple, mentioned in 2Ki 16:18.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 38:16 As the LORD lives. Oath formula. See "oath," p 7.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 38:17 God of hosts. See p 1291.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 38:21 the vision. The Lord enabled His prophet to describe graphically what lay ahead as if he were a witness of the tragedy.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 38:22 He hears the women of the king's court taunting him with a ditty, mockingly lamenting the fact that his trusted friends had left him in the lurch.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 38:24–28 At the end of the meeting, Zedekiah gave further evidence of his craven fear of the princes. He pleaded with Jeremiah not to divulge everything they discussed but to mention only his request not to be sent back to the underground cell. Jeremiah promised to do so and was permitted to remain in the court of the guard.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 38:28 court of the guard. See note, 32:2. Jerusalem was taken. Cf 39:1–10; 2Ki 25; Jer 52.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 38:14–28 King Zedekiah arranges a private meeting with Jeremiah and learns that he can avoid capture and save the city by surrendering to the Babylonian army, yet Zedekiah fears his own advisers more. God mercifully offers Zedekiah and his family their lives and will spare the city if only they will trust Him and leave matters in His hands. God's people have always faced the difficult choice of trusting God and doing things His way or following their own wisdom and the world's way. When faced with such dilemmas, pray that the Lord would grant you both wisdom and courage. Jesus, crucified and risen, is our wisdom (1Co 1:24). His courage in the face of death is the basis of our salvation. • Grant us wisdom and courage, Father, to do Your holy will. Amen.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 39:1–10 As foretold often and clearly in chs 1–38, Jerusalem was taken by the Babylonian army, Zedekiah the king was taken in fetters to Babylon, and the citizens of Jerusalem and Judah were carried into exile.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 39:1 589 BC.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 39:2 Tammuz 9 (July 29), 587 BC. Siege lasted c 1½ years. See notes, 2Ki 25:2, 4.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 39:3 officials. Nebuchadnezzar's commanders and officials listed here are not mentioned in 2Ki 25. Two of them apparently bore the name Nergal-sar-ezer. Rab-saris and Rab-mag are titles of offices in Nebuchadnezzar's administration. See note, 2Ki 18:17. middle gate. Likely the gate separating the new city and the old city.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 39:4 gate between the two walls. Cf Is 22:11. Arabah. See note, Jsh 3:16.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 39:5 plains of Jericho. See color map 1. Riblah. See map, p 609.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 39:8 broke down the walls. See note, Ne 2:13–15.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 39:9 Nebuzaradan. Nebuchadnezzar sent him to destroy Jerusalem by burning the city and breaking down its walls (cf 2Ki 25:8–9). He also oversaw the deportation of Judeans.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 39:10 poor people. Unskilled labor, of little use to the empire. gave them vineyards and fields. To appease them and maintain the land's productivity for purposes of taxation.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 39:1–10 After a siege of one and a half years, Zedekiah and his people experience the consequences of their idolatry and unbelief. Yet, as promised, God rescues a remnant of the people and will later return them to Judah. God's Word of Law is kept, and His Word of Gospel is kept too. • Help us learn, O Lord, that You keep all Your Word, that we might keep the Word through faith in Jesus Christ. Amen.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 39:12 look after him well. Israelite deserters informed Nebuchadnezzar of Jeremiah's repeated advice not to resist the invaders. So Nebuchadnezzar considered the persecuted prophet an advocate of pro-Babylonian policy.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 39:13 See note, v 3.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 39:14 lived among the people. Jeremiah's favorable treatment by the Babylonians, not mentioned in the two other accounts, is recorded here and in the following chapters to provide the setting for his continued ministry among the people left in Israel by Nebuchadnezzar.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 39:16 The pledge of safety given Ebed-melech (cf 38:7–13) is inserted here to show that God did not fail to do for an Ethiopian what He did for His prophet. Lord of hosts. See p 1291.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 39:17 deliver. See p 842.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 39:18 a prize of war. Preserved like Jeremiah, Ebed-melech shared in a prophet's reward (cf Mt 10:41). See note, 21:9.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 39:11–18 Nebuchadnezzar has Jeremiah released from custody and returned to his hometown. Before Jeremiah goes, he brings good news to Ebed-melech, who had rescued him from the dry cistern (38:7–13), that he will survive the fall of Jerusalem because he trusted in the Lord. You cannot avoid what you fear by disobeying God and trusting your own wisdom. Instead, trust that the Lord never forgets His people. Ultimately, He provides for you eternally through Jesus Christ. • Strengthen us, heavenly Father, when our way is difficult and danger seems so near. Show us our Savior, Jesus. Amen.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 40:1 word that came … from the Lord. See p 1080. Nebuzaradan. A Babylonian official. See note, 39:9. Ramah. See note, 31:15.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 40:2 your God. Cf 22:8–9; Ezr 1:2–4; 6:1–12 for similar words by a heathen acknowledging the power of Israel's God.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 40:4 I release you. Jeremiah's prophecies of Jerusalem's defeat were interpreted as loyalty to Babylon.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 40:5 Gedaliah. See note, 2Ki 25:22. allowance … present. The Babylonians wanted to develop cooperative relationships with the people they conquered (see note, 39:10). These grants made it possible for Jeremiah to stay and survive in the land. See notes, 39:12, 14.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 40:6 lived with him. Jeremiah stayed in Mizpah as a citizen of this new Babylonian province.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 40:7 poorest. See note, 39:10.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 40:8 Ishmael. See notes, v 14; 41:1–2. Johanan. A captain in the army of Judah. Cf 41:11–16. Johanan would later break a vow (43:2–6) and lose favor with the Lord and Jeremiah. See note, Lk 1:13.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 40:10 cities that you have taken. Since Jerusalem was razed, people had to move into smaller towns that were not destroyed.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 40:11 Judeans … in other lands. Refugees of the war. remnant. Cf v 7. Residents of Judah, not the prophesied remnant that would return. See p 1080.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 40:13 Johanan. See note, v 8. forces in the open country. Judean troops who had been ignored by the Babylonians.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 40:14 Baalis. King of Ammon, which lay east of the Jordan River, hoped to gain some advantage from the disorder following an overthrow of Judah. Archaeologists have discovered an Ammonite seal with the name Ba'alyasha, which may be the same ruler mentioned here. Ishmael … to take your life? Possibly a matter of envy. See note, 41:1–2.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON Ch 40 Gedaliah, appointed governor by the occupying Babylonians, naively ignores warnings of an assassination plot against him. Gedaliah trusts in his own wisdom and strength, setting the stage for his death and disastrous results for the survivors of Jerusalem. However, the Lord rescues Jeremiah and preserves a faithful remnant of the people in the land. Even in the worst of times, God is at work for the salvation of souls. • Father, always keep the cross of Christ before us, showing us the depth of Your love and reminding us of the cost of discipleship. Amen.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 41:1–2 seventh month. If this incident took place in the year of Jerusalem's fall (587 BC; cf 39:2), Gedaliah was governor in Mizpah for only three months. Perhaps the punitive measures Nebuchadnezzar took four years later (52:30) were in retaliation for Gedaliah's murder. Ishmael. Likely jealous of Gedaliah, who was not a descendant of David. However, he may have acted out of hatred toward a Babylonian governor ruling over Israel or in support of Ammonite aggression.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 41:3 Potential witnesses and successors were likewise killed.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 41:5 Shechem and Shiloh and Samaria. Cities and regions formerly conquered (722 BC) and settled by the Assyrians. Cf 2Ki 17; see color map 1. beards shaved … bodies gashed. Mourning rites, by which the pilgrims expressed grief over the destruction of Jerusalem. God forbade such actions, so this behavior shows how the Israelites had adopted Canaanite practices. Cf 1Ki 18:28. clothes torn. See note, Jb 1:20. grain offerings and incense. See pp 170–71. present at the temple. The Babylonians had already destroyed the temple. These pilgrims would have made offerings at the site, a gesture of solidarity with the suffering Judeans.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 41:6 weeping. False sympathy, meant to deceive.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 41:7 slaughtered them. See note, v 3. cistern. See note, 2:13.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 41:8 stores … hidden. Caches of food were hidden from the invading Babylonians.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 41:10 all the rest. Though not mentioned specifically, Jeremiah evidently was among the people taken captive. cross over to the Ammonites. Sponsors of Ishmael's assassination. See note, 40:14.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 41:11 Johanan. See notes, 40:8; Lk 1:13.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 41:16 eunuchs. See p 228.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 41:17 Geruth Chimham. An inn, or khan, named after the son of David's friend Barzillai (see notes, 2Sm 19:31–39).
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 41:18 afraid. See note, vv 1–2.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON Ch 41 Ishmael murders a number of pilgrims and Gedaliah, Babylon's appointed governor. Johanan, one of Gedaliah's soldiers, and his men overtake Ishmael. Johanan's faithfulness and mercy here contrast sharply with the treachery of Ishmael, who seeks advantage over others who are suffering. Like Johanan, have mercy on those who suffer and are confused by life's troubles. Repent of evil ambitions, and make service to the Lord and His people your highest goal. In mercy, the Lord made your salvation His highest priority, suffering death on the cross to bring you new life. • Teach us to trust You, O Lord, and always follow Your ways, through Jesus Christ. Amen.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 42:1–3 Reaching the vicinity of Bethlehem, Johanan and all the people prevail on Jeremiah to pray. After 10 days, the Word of the Lord came to Jeremiah (v 7). mercy. See pp 842–43. remnant. See note, 40:11.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 42:3 Lord your God. The commanders recognized Jeremiah's special relationship with the Lord.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 42:4 Lord your God. Jeremiah's reply emphasizes that the people, too, are to know the Lord and claim Him as their God.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 42:5 faithful witness. The commanders make a vow with covenant language. See "vow," p 7.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 42:7 word of the Lord came. See p 1080.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 42:10 build … plant. The epitome of the message Jeremiah was commissioned to proclaim (1:10; 18:7–9; 31:4, 28; 33:7). The answer he was authorized to give consisted of advice to "dwell in the land," where God would protect them from the Babylonians (vv 7–12), and a warning that certain death awaited them in Egypt (vv 13–17). relent. See pp 1079–80.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 42:11 Do not fear. The Judeans apparently feared that the Babylonians would punish all the people because of the assassination of their governor. I am with you. See "be with," p 5. save … deliver. See p 842.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 42:12 mercy. See pp 842–43.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 42:14 sound of the trumpet. Sounding an attack. See p 993.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 42:15 remnant. The term is applied to survivors in Judah as well as Judeans who were taken into exile. See p 1080; see also note, 40:11. Lord of hosts. See p 1291.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 42:18 See note, 24:9.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 42:19 Know for a certainty. God's Word is faithful, not simply a rubber stamp for human aspirations.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON Ch 42 Jeremiah promises God's blessings to Johanan and his band of refugees if they will stay in Judah, but warns of certain death if they go to Egypt. God does not want His people to place their confidence in Pharaoh or his army. Today, when you face questions in life, seek the Lord's will through the wisdom of His Word and by commending your life to Him through prayer. He will watch over you faithfully and be with you always. • Help us, heavenly Father, to trust in You above all earthly reason, might, and power, through Jesus Christ, our Lord. Amen.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON Ch 43 The exiled prophet foretold the punishment awaiting the rebellious fugitives: they would perish in the land. Nebuchadnezzar would act as God's servant in conquering and pillaging Egypt. In order to dramatize the certainty of this prophecy, Jeremiah was directed to lay large stones at the entrance to Pharaoh's palace, symbolizing the Babylonian king's throne and undisputed dominion in Egypt (vv 8–13).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 43:2 Azariah … Johanan … insolent men. They violated their vow. See notes, 40:8; 42:5.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 43:3 Baruch. See notes, 32:10, 12. It is not clear why the men believed Baruch would act as an agent of the Babylonians.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 43:5 from all the nations. Moab, Ammon, and Edom are some of the countries from which people returned during Gedaliah's governorship.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 43:6 Nebuzaradan. See note, 39:9. Gedaliah. See note, 2Ki 25:22. Jeremiah … Baruch. Because the commanders thought these men would betray them, they carried them off. Note that the commanders did not react by killing Jeremiah and Baruch, in contrast to the treacherous behavior of Ishmael (cf 40:14; 41:2).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 43:7 Tahpanhes. Border city and fort of Egypt manned by Greek mercenaries (see note, 2:16).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 43:9 large stones and hide them. Preparing an illustration. See p 1220.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 43:10 My servant. See note, 25:9. set his throne. Nebuchadnezzar would conquer Egypt. royal canopy. Set over the king's throne to make a comfortable meeting place.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 43:11 strike the land. A fragment from a Babylonian chronicle records Nebuchadnezzar's invasion of Egypt in 567 BC.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 43:12 clean … of vermin. Just as a shepherd would pick the lice out of his cloak, the Babylonians would pick through and pillage the cities of Egypt.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 43:13 obelisks. Lit, "pillars." Heliopolis. C 25 mi N of Memphis. See color map 3.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON Ch 43 Johanan and the last of the royal family break their vow (42:5–6) and move to Egypt against God's will, taking Jeremiah with them. Human reason often wins out over trust in God and obedience to Him. In grace, God preserves a faithful remnant of His people in Babylon. They will return to the Promised Land after many years, and from them the Lord will raise up a Savior, Christ the Lord. • Teach us to trust You, Lord, both in this life and for eternal salvation, through Jesus Christ. Amen.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON Ch 44 In Egypt, Jeremiah delivers his last recorded oracle and probably suffers martyrdom because of it. The occasion is a great assembly of Judeans whose wives worship false gods (v 15).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 44:1 Migdol. On Egypt's northeastern border. Tahpanhes … Memphis. See note, 2:16. Pathros. Territory on the Upper Nile as far south as Aswan (see note, Is 11:11).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 44:2 Lord of hosts. See p 1291.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 44:4 persistently sent. Jeremiah was not the first prophet to warn the people of the judgment to come (7:25; 25:4; 26:5). My servants. See pp 1077–83. abomination. See note, Pr 6:16.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 44:7 no remnant? See note, 24:8.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 44:8 making offerings to other gods. The nation of Egypt worshiped numerous gods and goddesses. Worship of these false gods and goddesses enticed Israel away from following the Lord God of Israel. curse … taunt. See note, 24:9.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 44:10 feared. See p 1001. walked in My law. See p 7. statutes. See p 971.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 44:11 set My face. See p 1277. all Judah. No one was to think that escape from God was possible, even though a few would survive and return to the land of Judah (v 28). See note, v 14.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 44:12 set their faces. See p 1277. oath … taunt. See note, 24:9.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 44:14 some fugitives. These few would likely return with the prophecies of Jeremiah and the history of their fulfillment.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 44:15 great assembly. Normally, a gathering of God's people at the temple or tabernacle. See "great congregation," p 842. However, the purpose of this assembly was to observe a pagan festival in honor of the queen of heaven, an astral deity and goddess of fertility (cf 7:18). Pathros. See note, v 1.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 44:17 queen of heaven. See note, 7:18. had plenty. Israel once "had plenty," and King Manasseh promoted "the despicable practices of the nations" (2Ki 21:1–9). After his grandson Josiah abolished idolatry (2Ki 23:4–20), everything went wrong, they claimed. This is an example of a worldview that does not reckon with the Lord of history.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 44:19 husbands' approval. The women, who apparently played a major role in honoring the mother-goddess, had their husbands' full support. See note, Nu 30:6–15.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 44:22 abominations. See note, Pr 6:16.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 44:25 confirm your vows. Spoken ironically. See "vow," p 7.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 44:26 sworn by My great name. Cf 2Tm 2:13; see "for Your name's sake," p 842. As the Lord GOD lives. Oath formula. See "vow," p 7.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 44:28 remnant of Judah. See note, 24:8; see also p 1080.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 44:30 Hophra. Mentioned by name only here, this pharaoh tried to come to Jerusalem's aid during Nebuchadnezzar's siege of the city (37:5). As predicted by Jeremiah, Hophra's enemies killed him during the uprising. Zedekiah … Nebuchadnezzar. Cf 2Ki 24–25.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON Ch 44 The Judean refugees who fled to Egypt refuse to give up their idolatry. They are convinced that worshiping false gods brings them peace and prosperity. God cannot tolerate such rebellion. As we see illustrated here, God calls sinners to repent or face His judgment. Sadly, mankind often seeks religions that promise prosperity or personal gratification. These are nothing more than self-centered substitutes for faith. True faith comes only through the faithful proclamation of God's lasting treasure—eternal life through Jesus Christ. • Father, do not let the deceitful wealth of the world tempt us away from You and our Savior Jesus Christ. Amen.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON Ch 45 Baruch's survival came at God's command. God promised to deliver him more than 15 years before Jerusalem's destruction. God promises to keep Baruch safe during a time of continued war (v 5). See notes, 32:10, 12.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 45:1 fourth year of Jehoiakim. 605 BC.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 45:3 Woe is me! The honest scribe admitted that he shared Jeremiah's anguish over a painful and futile task (8:18; 12:1; 15:15–21; 20:7–8). See "woe," p 1080.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 45:4 built … planted. See note, 1:10.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 45:5 great things. Whoever would be great in God's kingdom must surrender selfish ambitions (cf Mt 20:26–28). prize of war. See note, Jer 21:9.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON Ch 45 God reveals His heart in a message of encouragement to Baruch, Jeremiah's secretary. When God disciplines, even faithful servants like Baruch will feel the heat of His wrath. Yet God will protect Baruch throughout the turmoil ahead. Because God is wholly righteous, He must punish sin (Heb 12:6), although it causes Him great pain. God keeps His promises, even when His people break theirs, and He finally sends the Savior for all sinners. • Help us understand Your heart, O Lord, even when we do not understand Your plans for us. Keep our eyes on the cross of Christ Jesus. Amen.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON Chs 46–51 Undated oracles. The Creator and Lord of the universe made known the course of history through Jeremiah, whom He called to be a prophet to the nations and to whom He gave authority over nations (1:5, 10). The oracle declaring what Jeremiah prophesied against all the nations in 25:13–38 is expanded in chs 46–51. Jeremiah's oracles are grouped in consecutive chapters, as in Is 13–33; Ezk 25–32; and Am 1:3–2:3. On the arrangement of these oracles in the LXX, see p 1204.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON Chs 46–49 Proclaims Egypt's supremacy over lesser states (Philistines, Moabites, and Ammonites) stretching from the land of the Nile to the distant northeast and its defeat by the Babylonians.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON Ch 46 Egypt's fight with Babylon for world dominion occurred after the liquidation of the Assyrian Empire in 612 BC. Pharaoh Neco succeeded in reducing Judah to a vassal state for four years after killing King Josiah at Megiddo. However, Pharaoh Neco was no match for Nebuchadnezzar. Neco's crushing defeat in 605 BC, which was caused by the Lord (v 25), comes at Carchemish (vv 1–12). Nebuchadnezzar's invasion of the land of the pharaohs is the subject of a second scintillating poem (vv 14–24). A few lines in prose pick up the prophecy of this invasion (vv 25–26). God directs each nation's rise and fall in order to establish His kingdom through a chastened, restored servant—Israel (vv 27–28).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 46:1 word of the LORD that came. See p 1080.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 46:2 Pharaoh Neco … Carchemish. See note, 2Ki 23:29. Nebuchadnezzar. Cf 2Ki 23–25. fourth year of Jehoiakim. 605 BC.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 46:3 buckler. See note, Ps 35:2.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 46:7 Who is this. Neco (v 2).
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 46:9 Cush … Put … Lud. The Egyptians recruited hired soldiers (v 21) from these countries. Cush (Ethiopia) was situated on the Upper Nile south of Aswan. Put (variant spelling Pul) and Lud were African territories west of the Nile Delta (see notes, Is 66:19; Ezk 30:5; see also color map 3).
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 46:10 day of the Lord. See p 1079. a sacrifice. See note, Is 34:6.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 46:11 Gilead. Famed for its balm (see note, 8:22).
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 46:12 stumbled. Likely in chaotic retreat.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 46:14 Migdol. Likely served as an outpost on the border between Judah and Egypt. Sites excavated in the region included Greek and Egyptian pottery, leading the excavator to propose that the Judean kings had hired mercenaries to supplement their forces. Memphis and Tahpanhes. Cf 43:7; see note, 2:16.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 46:15 mighty ones. Cf Ps 103:20; Is 34:7 (“mighty bulls”); Ps 22:12 (“Many … strong bulls”). Apis is the name of the sacred bull worshiped in Egypt.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 46:17 Noisy one. Pharaoh Neco’s pompous declaration of military prowess turned out to be empty braggadocio (2Ki 18:21; Is 36:6).
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 46:18 As I live. Oath formula. See “vow,” p 7. King. See pp 1565–66. Lord of hosts. See p 1291. Tabor … Carmel. As these mountains tower over Israel, so the Babylonian conqueror would be superior to all opposition.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 46:20 beautiful heifer. References Egypt’s gods. See note, v 15.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 46:21 fattened calves. See note, 1Sm 28:23–24.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 46:22 sound like a serpent. Rustling.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 46:23 locusts. See note, Jl 1:4.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 46:25 Amon. Chief among Egyptian gods.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 46:27 God's plan will preserve Israel against the upheavals of international politics. save. See "salvation," p 843. Jacob shall return. The remnant of Israel's descendants. See note, 24:8.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 46:28 I am with you. See "be with," p 5.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON Ch 46 God declares that He will use Egypt's defeat by Babylon as a pattern for further military losses. Egypt, however, will survive. Added to this prophecy of destruction is a note of comfort for the Judean exiles in Babylon: God will discipline, but not completely destroy, them. God created the world and rules it, administering His righteous justice according to His will. At all times, and through all things, God works for the salvation of His people. Even in the midst of His discipline, God preserves a faithful remnant, out of which came Jesus Christ—His long-promised Messiah. • Help us, O Lord, to keep faith when chaos and warfare erupt. Amen.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON Ch 47 The conquering forces "out of the north" (Babylon) would inundate the Philistines, leaving devastation in their wake.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 47:1 struck down Gaza. Before the Babylonians defeated the Philistines, the city-state of Gaza, one of the Philistines' southernmost strongholds, fell to the Egyptians. Pharaohs Psamtik I (664–610 BC) and Neco II (610–595 BC) were both active in Philistia. See color map 2.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 47:3 look not back. No hope of rescue.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 47:4 Tyre and Sidon. Phoenician allies of the Philistines. Caphtor. Likely the island of Crete, from which the Philistines may have migrated to Canaan. See map, p 1396.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 47:5 Baldness. Shaving the head was a sign of mourning. See note, Mi 1:16. Ashkelon. Another Philistine city-state located north of Gaza along the Great Sea. See color map 2. gash. See note, 41:5.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 47:6 sword of the LORD! Egypt, which punishes the Philistines. See note, v 1.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON Ch 47 Jeremiah proclaims an oracle against the Philistines. God will settle all accounts in the end, bringing perfect justice to the peoples of the world. God rescues faithful Judeans from many earthly enemies, but the greatest rescue He accomplished is saving people from the Law's eternal condemnation. This He accomplished for us through the death and resurrection of Jesus Christ. • Lift our hearts, O Lord, when troubles come into our lives; keep our eyes on Christ Jesus, our Savior. Amen.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON Ch 48 The storm of God's judgment moves to the ancestral territory of the Moabites, along the eastern shore of the Salt Sea. They are descendants of Lot, Abraham's nephew (see note, Gn 19:37). In Jeremiah's time, Moab ravaged Judah after Nebuchadnezzar invaded Israel (2Ki 24:2). Later, emissaries of the king of Moab tried to involve Zedekiah in a plot against the Babylonians (27:1–6). The oracle concerning Moab is surpassed in length only by the threat against the Babylonians (chs 50–51).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 48:1 Nebo … Kiriathaim. A number of the cities are mentioned on the Moabite, or Mesha, Stone found over a century ago (see note, 2Ki 3:4). A few cities, such as Madmen (v 2), are not found anywhere else in Scripture and remain unidentified. For the region of Moab, see color map 2.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 48:2 Heshbon. See color map 1. Madmen. Hbr name, perhaps from Medeba, a Moabite town or region whose name may mean "water of quietness." A wordplay such as, "Silent one, you shall be silenced."

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 48:3 Horonaim. Location uncertain.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 48:4 little ones. Children suffered horribly in the ravages of war (cf 49:20; 50:45). See p 879.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 48:5 Luhith. Location uncertain.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 48:6 like a juniper. Isolated in a vast wilderness.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 48:7 Chemosh. The god of the Moabites (see notes, Nu 21:29; 1Ki 11:7; 2Ki 3:22).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 48:8 destroyer. Babylonians.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 48:10 Those refusing God's appointment as instruments of His wrath will also receive God's curse. See "curse," p 6.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 48:11 at ease. For a long time, Moab escaped the deportations inflicted on Israel and Judah. settled on his dregs. Like wine left undisturbed on its fermented sediment to improve its quality (see note, Is 25:6).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 48:12 The Babylonians will effect the change. They will destroy Moab as if tilting the wine jars, emptying them, and breaking the vessels.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 48:13 Chemosh. See note, Nu 21:29. Bethel. Where Israel worshiped idols such as Chemosh. On the city's role in Israel's apostasy, see notes, 1Ki 12:28–32.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 48:14 mighty men. See notes, Jsh 1:14; 2Sm 23:8.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 48:15 destroyer. Babylonians. King. See pp 1565–66 Lord of hosts. See p 1291.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 48:17 mighty scepter. Moab's ruler.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 48:18 Dibon! See color map 1. destroyer. Babylonians.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 48:19 Aroer! See map, p 615.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 48:20 Arnon. River that bisected Moab and emptied into the Salt Sea. See color map 1.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 48:25 horn … arm. Symbols of power. See p 842.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 48:26 Make him drunk. See notes, 13:13; Is 51:17. Cf Jer 25:15.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 48:27 wagged your head? See p 1277.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 48:28 Like their ancestor Lot, they will be forced to take refuge in remote caves. Cf Gn 19:30–38.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 48:29–33 Jeremiah draws heavily on Isaiah's denunciation of Moab (cf Is 24:7–8).
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 48:31 wail for Moab. Jeremiah expresses sympathy with the Moabites. Kir-hareseth. Likely Kerak, a major Moabite city.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 48:32 Jazer … Sibmah! Amorite and Moabite towns. destroyer. Babylonians.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 48:34 East and south of the Salt Sea.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 48:35 high place. See p 526.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 48:36 moans … like a flute. See "flute," p 993.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 48:37 head is shaved … gashes. See notes, 16:6; 41:5. sackcloth. See note, Jb 16:15.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 48:38 housetops … lamentation. The site of pagan sacrifice becomes the site of despondent mourning. Cf 19:13.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 48:40 eagle. See note, Mi 1:16.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 48:44 year of their punishment. See "day of the Lord," p 1079.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 48:45–46 See notes, Nu 21:27–29.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 48:45 Heshbon. See note, 49:3. Sihon. Amorite king of Moab.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 48:47 restore the fortunes. See p 1080. in the latter days. In the messianic age, Moab will be among the "many peoples" (Is 2:3) constituting the redeemed of the Lord (see note, Is 2:2).
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON Ch 48 Moab was known for its vineyards and wine. Here, Jeremiah prophesies their destruction as a symbol of judgment on the Moabite people (fulfilled in 582 BC). Because of Moab's arrogance, its people will go into exile, as did the Judeans. In His mercy, God promised to preserve some of the population and Moab's identity as a people, at least for a time. Though Moab disappeared from history before the NT era, some of its descendants received the blessings of the new covenant (see notes, Ru 4:14–17). • Father, keep us humble. When others suffer, lead us to reach out to them in love. Teach us also to depend on You and not on ourselves. Amen.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 49:1 Ammonites. Descendants of Lot and therefore a people related to Israel (Gn 19:38; Dt 2:19). See note, 40:14. no sons? When the Assyrians carried the East-Jordan Israelites captive, the Ammonites moved in and occupied the territory allotted to the tribe of Gad, claiming that they, not Israel, were its heir (cf 2Ki 15:29). Cf Jgs 3:13; 1Sm 11:1; 2Ch 20:1 for earlier hostile acts against Israel. After the fall of Jerusalem, the king of Ammon plotted the death of Gedaliah (Jer 40:13–14). Milcom. See note, 1Ki 11:5.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 49:3 Heshbon. A city in Moab (48:34). Perhaps captured by the Ammonites, or there were two cities by this name. See color map 1. Ai. Unidentified site in Ammon, though a place by that name in Israel is well attested (Gn 12:8; Jsh 7–8). sackcloth. See note, Jb 16:15. among the hedges! Stone walls around fields, vineyards, and sheepfolds (Nu 32:16, 24, 36; Ps 89:40; Na 3:17; Zep 2:6), where fleeing people could hide. Milcom. See notes, 1Ki 11:5; Lv 18:21.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 49:5 Lord GOD of hosts. See p 1291.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 49:6 restore the fortunes. See p 1080.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 49:1–6 The Ammonites had opposed Israel and taken some of the territory God had given to the tribe of Gad. For Ammon's hostility toward God's people, Ammon will be destroyed (a prophecy fulfilled in 582 BC). Opposition to the Lord and His people inevitably brings destruction and condemnation. God provides many opportunities for repentance, even for those nations that oppose His people or His will. Through these opportunities, we see God's marvelous grace. • Gracious God, grant us wisdom to humble ourselves before You, to repent, and then to trust Your judgments; in Jesus Christ. Amen.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 49:7 Edom. Descendants of Jacob's twin brother, Esau (Gn 36:1), the Edomites were enemies of Israel. Their ancestral home was south of the Salt Sea. Some of their chief centers of activity were Teman, Dedan, and Bozrah. See color map 2. wisdom. In the ancient world, the Edomites had a reputation of excelling in wisdom (Jb 2:11; 15:1–2, 18; Ob 8).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 49:11 fatherless children … widows trust in Me. See note, Ps 94:6.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 49:12 did not deserve. If less-guilty nations will be punished, then certainly Edom deserved to drink the cup of divine judgment. the cup. See note, Is 51:17. "Troubles are not always punishments for certain past deeds, but they are God's works, intended for our benefit, and that God's power might be made more apparent in our weakness" (Ap XIIB 63).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 49:13 sworn by Myself. Cf 2Tm 2:13; see "for Your name's sake," p 842. Bozrah. A chief city of Edom. horror … curse. See note, 24:9.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 49:14–16 Almost identical with Ob 1–4. Cf ch 48, where Jeremiah quoted from Is (see note, Jer 48:29).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 49:16 See notes, Ob 4; Mi 1:16.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 49:18 Sodom and Gomorrah. See note, 24:9.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 49:19 jungle of the Jordan. See note, Zec 11:3. him. Edom. her. Likely refers to the pasture. appoint … whomever I choose. The Lord would provide a new leader for His flock. shepherd. Leader. See note, 2:8.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 49:20 Teman. See note, Jb 2:11. little ones. See note, 48:4.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 49:21 cry shall be heard at the Red Sea. Their cry would be so loud people at a great distance would hear it.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 49:22 eagle. See note, Mi 1:16. Bozrah. See note, v 13.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 49:7–22 Famous for their wisdom, the Edomites have foolishly opposed God (like their ancestor Esau). They will be "stripped bare" by God's justice. Jeremiah uses a vineyard metaphor to state that none shall escape God's righteous judgment. Human pride inevitably leads to disaster, regardless of a person's wisdom or natural intellect. Wise or foolish by the world's standards, salvation belongs to everyone who trusts in Jesus Christ, for He alone is "the way, and the truth, and the life" (Jn 14:6). • Father, teach us true wisdom through faith and insight through Your Word. Amen.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 49:23 Damascus. Capital of Syria (Aram), c 60 mi NE of the Sea of Chinnereth. Hamath. C 100 mi N of Damascus. Arpad. C 100 mi N of Hamath. Cf 2Ki 10:32–33; 13:3, 7, 22 for earlier invasions of Israel by Syrian kings. See map, p 609.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 49:25 city of My joy? Damascus, one of the oldest continuously occupied cities in the world, is a lively center of trade at the juncture of three continents, a favored location.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 49:27 See note, Am 1:4.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 49:23–27 Damascus (capital of Aram) had long opposed God's people and often plotted against them. Damascus came under Babylonian domination shortly after Jerusalem fell to Nebuchadnezzar. No matter how strong or powerful God's enemies are, they all fall in the end. God's victory over opposing forces accomplishes two things: (1) it shows God's power over the gods of defeated nations, with the purpose of their salvation; (2) it means life and salvation for His people. • Lord, may we always see Your loving hand guiding all nations toward eternal salvation, regardless of how hopeless times may seem. Amen.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 49:28 Kedar … Hazor. Settlements and villages in the desert southeast of Syria (not the city of Hazor north of the Sea of Chinnereth; Jsh 11:1–2). These settlements were occupied by Bedouin descendants of Ishmael, Abraham's son by Hagar (Gn 25:12–13; see note, Jer 2:10). A Babylonian army invaded the area in 599 BC. Nebuchadnezzar. Cf 2Ki 24–25. people of the east! From the desert regions east of Israel, represented by Kedar and Hazor.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 49:31 no gates or bars. The people dwelt in tents, not walled cities.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 49:32 cut … their hair. See note, 9:26.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 49:33 See note, 24:9.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 49:28–33 The people of Kedar and Hazor lived in unwalled villages and presented no obstacle to the armies of Nebuchadnezzar that overran them at the beginning of the sixth century BC. Even those sinners who feel safe from God's judgment will feel the sting of God's wrath. The Lord does not delight in the death of sinners but wants all people to be saved through faith in the Messiah, Jesus (cf Ezk 18:23). • Help us, O Lord, to find our security only in Your love and grace through Jesus Christ. Send Your Holy Spirit to guard our souls unto eternity. Amen.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 49:34 Elam. C 200 mi E of Babylon. Its city of Susa was to become one of the capitals of the Medo-Persian Empire. Elam, which lies east of Babylon, allied with Babylon in her conquest of the Assyrians. See map, p 717. Zedekiah. Cf 2Ki 24:18–25:7.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 49:36 four winds. See note, Ezk 5:10.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 49:39 restore the fortunes. See p 1080. Jews from Elam were a part of the multitude in Jerusalem on Pentecost (Ac 2:9).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 49:34–39 Elam now stands before the Lord to receive His judgment. God finds Elam guilty of supporting Babylon in her war against the Judeans. He will scatter the Elamites throughout the world—their king and officials destroyed (v 38). In mercy, God does not completely destroy Elam. God judges all nations, yet He is Savior for all the earth and every people. • Enable us, heavenly Father, to reach out with the precious Gospel message to all nations, both near and far. Amen.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON Chs 50–51 Oracles spoken against the Babylonian Empire (50:1). Jeremiah draws concentric circles around a central topic: the destruction of Babylon—the necessary preliminary to the restoration of exiled Israel. Jeremiah announced the grim fate of the Babylonians five years before they captured Jerusalem (cf 51:59). Jeremiah spoke in retrospect of the destruction of Jerusalem and the temple as an event that happened in the past and was foretold by him in advance. In prophetic vision, he also looked far beyond current events to the founding of the messianic reign centuries later.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 50:1 The Babylonian Empire was subject to God's eternal purpose. It emerged on the scene when He needed a "servant" (25:9; 27:6; 43:10) to punish His apostate people. It sank beneath the sands of time because it sinned against the Lord (50:14), pursuing its own selfish interest and thus opposing the coming of the kingdom of God.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 50:2 Babylon's trust in false gods was in vain. Bel. See note, Is 46:1. Merodach. Hbr spelling of the Babylonian Marduk; appears in the names Merodach-baladan and Evil-merodach (2Ki 20:12; 25:27).
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 50:3 out of the north. Babylon, the foe "from the north" (see note, 1:13–14), was to become the victim of invaders coming from the same direction, the Medes (51:11, 28). desolation. The city of Babylon, left intact by Cyrus the Mede at the time of its capture, was later reduced to desolation.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 50:4 weeping. See p 1277. seek the LORD. See p 843.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 50:5 way to Zion. See note, Is 2:2. everlasting covenant. See p 127.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 50:6 shepherds. Leaders. See note, 2:8. turning them away. The people wandered from safety, pushed by unfaithful leaders.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 50:7 not guilty. This claim of innocence is refuted in 2:3. their habitation of righteousness. Mount Zion, their sheepfold, from which they strayed.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 50:8 as male goats before the flock. Leaders of the flock.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 50:9 nations, from the north country. Medes and Persians dwelt in the mountains north and east of Babylon. See map, p 717.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 50:11 you. Babylon. My heritage. See p 7.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 50:12 your mother. City of Babylon.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 50:13 hiss. Jeremiah earlier used the same expression to describe Jerusalem's doom (25:9). See p 1276.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 50:15 vengeance. See note, Is 34:8.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 50:17 hunted sheep. Separated from the flock and therefore most vulnerable and subject to pursuit. Nebuchadnezzar. Cf 2Ki 24–25.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 50:19 Carmel … Bashan. Territories in Israel, famous for their fertility. Ephraim … Gilead. See color map 2.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 50:20 In those days. Time of the new covenant (cf 31:1, 31). I will pardon. See notes, Ps 103:11–12; Mi 7:19. remnant. See p 1080.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 50:21 Merathaim … Pekod. Puns on the names of localities in Babylonia. See ESV notes. devote … to destruction. See p 6.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 50:23 hammer. A favorite metaphor for Jeremiah (23:29; 51:20). Babylon serves as God's instrument of punishment.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 50:25 Lord God of hosts. See p 1291.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 50:26 devote … to destruction. See p 6.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 50:28 Zion. See p 844. vengeance for His temple. Babylon's guilt was the arrogant claim that the destruction of the Jerusalem temple proved Marduk's superiority over Israel's God.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 50:29 Holy One of Israel. See p 1227.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 50:30 young men shall fall. Jeremiah repeats words he spoke in announcing the doom of Damascus.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 50:34 Redeemer. See note, Jb 19:25. plead their cause. The Lord will be the advocate of His people, not the accuser. See p 792.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 50:35 sword. Medes and Persians (cf v 9).
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 50:37 become women! Unskilled to fight; therefore, terrified.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 50:38 Babylon's idols are no match for almighty God.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 50:40 See note, 24:9. neighboring cities. Listed in Gn 14:2.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 50:41–43 Applies to the Babylonians the threat of doom previously addressed to Judah.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 50:44–46 Similar words are uttered against Edom. See notes, 49:19–21.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON Ch 50 God holds Babylon responsible for the destruction of Jerusalem and the captivity of its citizens. During the process of Babylon's destruction, the Israelites will come together to seek the Lord to make an everlasting covenant (vv 4–5). God's heart aches when the people He loves turn away from Him. Like the father of the prodigal (Lk 15:21–24), He yearns to forgive those who return to Him with repentant hearts. • Father, lead us by Your Holy Spirit to repentance, and forgive us through Your Son, Jesus Christ. Amen.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 51:1 Thus says the Lord. See p 1080. The oracle against Babylon continues.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 51:2 winnowers. Figurative designation for destroyers. See notes, 4:12; 15:7.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 51:3 In the first two lines, the defenders are told that resistance is in vain, while in the next two lines, the attackers are called upon to prove it. devote to destruction. See p 6.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 51:5 not been forsaken. Cf Is 62:12. Lord of hosts. See p 1291. Holy One of Israel. See p 1227.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 51:6 Addressed to the exiled Israelites.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 51:7 golden cup. Divine judgment portrayed as a cup of wrath. See note, Is 51:17. Babylon, God's instrument of punishment on the nations, is called "golden" because of her imperial might and splendor.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 51:8 Take balm. Spoken ironically to Babylonian sympathizers and confederates who see her wound. See note, 8:22.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 51:10 Israel is reminded that her vindication comes by God's grace. Zion. See p 844.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 51:11 kings of the Medes. Leaders of various tribes, united in the attack on Babylon.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 51:12 watchmen. See note, Is 21:6–12.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 51:13 many waters. The Euphrates River was diverted into a network of irrigation canals as it flowed through Babylon. thread of your life is cut. Babylon's last thread has been stitched or woven in the tapestry of history. God is done with them.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 51:14 sworn by Himself. Cf 2Tm 2:13; see "for Your name's sake," p 842. locusts. See note, Jl 1:4.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 51:15–19 Describes the impotence of idols and warns against trusting "a work of delusion" (v 18) rather than the Creator God. This warning describes both Israel's folly and Babylon's folly for relying on their god Marduk to defend them against the "Lord of hosts" (v 19).
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 51:15 wisdom. See pp 775–78.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 51:19 portion. See p 7.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 51:20 My hammer. As God once used the Assyrians as rods of His anger (Is 10:5–11), so the Babylonians were to "break nations in pieces" in their appointed rise to empire status. Babylon, however, committed its own sin, for which God judged them.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 51:24 Zion. See p 844.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 51:25 mountain. Babylon was located on a flat plain. Figuratively, it rose to towering eminence by its conquests.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 51:27 Ararat, Minni, and Ashkenaz. Districts in Median territory.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 51:28 Medes. See note, 50:9.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 51:31 meet another. Messengers of disaster will come and go in quick succession.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 51:33 like a threshing floor. Trodden and beaten. See p 422.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 51:34 devoured. Zion's delicacies and treasured possessions were removed from Israel and transported to Babylon. Thus, Nebuchadnezzar "devoured" her. Cf 2Ki 24–25. monster. See notes, Is 27:1; 51:9.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 51:36 vengeance. See note, Is 34:8. her sea. The Euphrates with its canals and reservoirs.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 51:38–40 The Babylonians acting like ravenous young lions inflamed with feverish craving for prey will be served food by the Lord, which will stupefy them into "a perpetual sleep" and change them from predatory beasts into domestic victims of "the slaughter."
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 51:39 make them drunk. See note, Is 51:17.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 51:41 Babylon. See note, 25:26; see also ESV note.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 51:42 The sea. Wave after wave of enemies will inundate Babylon.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 51:43 son of man. See p 1080.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 51:44 Bel. See note, Is 46:1.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 51:46 heart faint. The Israelites are not to worry, though rumors of political convulsions make them fearful that their lot in a foreign country could become even worse.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 51:48 heavens… earth. The whole universe was called upon to witness God's charges against His people, so it is summoned also to join in celebrating the defeat of His enemies (cf Dt 4:26; 30:19; Is 49:13). destroyers … out of the north. See note, 50:9.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 51:50 You … go. Having escaped from the sword, the exiles are to consider their liberation as God's calling to return to Jerusalem. Remember the LORD. See p 843.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 51:51 holy places. See diagram, p 541.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 51:53 destroyers … from Me. Cf v 48.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 51:55 waves roar. The attack by the enemy will be like the irresistible force of the sea and its deafening roar.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 51:57 make drunk. See note, Is 51:17. King. See pp 1565–66. Lord of hosts. See p 1291.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 51:58 weary themselves only for fire. The siege will prevail against all preparations.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 51:59–64 A written copy of the words spoken concerning Babylon were to be taken to Babylon, tied to a stone, and cast into the Euphrates to symbolize that Babylon will sink, to rise no more. See p 1220.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 51:59 Seraiah. Baruch's brother. quartermaster. Lit, "the prince of rest." It refers to an administrative position, translated differently over the centuries.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 51:60 a book. A scroll. See notes, 36:8, 20–26.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON Ch 51 Jeremiah continues speaking God's oracle against Babylon, condemning her for the destruction of Jerusalem and its temple. The Lord called His people to come out of Babylon, lest they share the city's fate. Through Babylon's destruction, God teaches other nations of His dominion over them so they may come to faith. At the same time, He spares those He has called by His name. • Lord, lead us to live with compassion toward others, for You lovingly look upon the whole human race through the redeeming blood of Christ. Amen.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON Ch 52 The appendix verifies Jeremiah's claim that he spoke the Word of the Lord (cf 1:11). What he foretold became historical fact. Jeremiah's story began with the reign of Zedekiah, the last king of Judah (vv 1–3). Confirming his prophecies, this chapter describes the fall of Jerusalem and the vandalizing of the temple (vv 4–27), tabulates the deportations to Babylon (vv 28–30), and ends by relating how Jehoiachin (imprisoned by Nebuchadnezzar) was released from confinement and treated with dignity by Evil-merodach, a later Babylonian king (vv 31–34).
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 52:1–27 See notes, 2Ki 24:18–25:21.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 52:12 tenth day. Nebuchadnezzar's general, Nebuzaradan, arrived at Jerusalem three days before he ordered the temple pillaged and burned.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 52:1–23 See application note, 2Ki 25:1–21.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 52:24 keepers of the threshold. See note, 35:4.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 52:28 seventh year. The dating here, as well as in v 12, is based on one system of counting the regnant years of a king, whereas 2Ki 25:8 is based on another equally acceptable way of computing them. See "Chronology," p 527. 3,023 Judeans. This number apparently refers only to the Judeans taken captive in the city of Jerusalem. The figure 10,000 in 2Ki 24:14 represents the total of all prisoners, counting also the 4,600 mentioned in Jer 52:30.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 52:30 This deportation is not mentioned in the parallel accounts.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 52:31–34 See notes, 2Ki 25:27–30.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 52:24–34 Jeremiah concludes on a hopeful note. Despite Judah's rebellion, God never forgot His promises. Years later, God sent Jesus Christ as the atoning sacrifice for the world's sin. All of God's promises find their Yes in Christ (2Co 1:20) • Lead us by Your Holy Spirit, heavenly Father, that we remain faithful to our eternal King, Jesus Christ. Amen.

How Lonely Sits the City

1 [1]†How lonely sits the city
that was full of people!

How like a widow has she become,
she who was great among the nations!
She who was a princess among the provinces has become a slave.
[2]† She weeps bitterly in the night,
with tears on her cheeks;
among all her lovers
she has none to comfort her;
all her friends have dealt treacherously with her;
they have become her enemies.
[3]† Judah has gone into exile because of affliction and hard servitude;
she dwells now among the nations,
but finds no resting place;
her pursuers have all overtaken her in the midst of her distress.[1] [4]† The roads to Zion mourn, for none come to the festival;
all her gates are desolate;
her priests groan;
her virgins have been afflicted,[2]
and she herself suffers bitterly.
[5]† Her foes have become the head;
her enemies prosper,
because the Lord has afflicted her for the multitude of her transgressions;
her children have gone away,
captives before the foe.

6† From the daughter of Zion
all her majesty has departed.
Her princes have become like deer that find no pasture;
they fled without strength
before the pursuer.
7† Jerusalem remembers
in the days of her affliction and wandering all the precious things that were hers from days of old.
When her people fell into the hand of the foe,
and there was none to help her,
her foes gloated over her;
they mocked at her downfall.
8† Jerusalem sinned grievously;
therefore she became filthy;
all who honored her despise her,
for they have seen her nakedness;
she herself groans
and turns her face away.
9† Her uncleanness was in her skirts;
she took no thought of her future;[3] therefore her fall is terrible;
she has no comforter.
"O Lord, behold my affliction, for the enemy has triumphed!" 10† The enemy has stretched out his hands over all her precious things;
for she has seen the nations
enter her sanctuary,
those whom you forbade
to enter your congregation.
11† All her people groan
as they search for bread;
they trade their treasures for food
to revive their strength.

“Look, O Lord, and see,
for I am despised.”
12 “Is it nothing to you, all you who pass by?
Look and see if there is any sorrow like my sorrow, which was brought upon me, which the Lord inflicted on the day of his fierce anger.
13 “From on high he sent fire;
into my bones[1] he made it descend;
he spread a net for my feet;
he turned me back;
he has left me stunned,
faint all the day long.
14 “My transgressions were bound[2] into a yoke;
by his hand they were fastened together;
they were set upon my neck;
he caused my strength to fail;
the Lord gave me into the hands of those whom I cannot withstand.
15 “The Lord rejected
all my mighty men in my midst;
he summoned an assembly against me
to crush my young men;
the Lord has trodden as in a winepress
the virgin daughter of Judah.
16 “For these things I weep;
my eyes flow with tears;
for a comforter is far from me,
one to revive my spirit;
my children are desolate,
for the enemy has prevailed.” 17 Zion stretches out her hands,
but there is none to comfort her;
the Lord has commanded against Jacob that his neighbors should be his foes;

Jerusalem has become a filthy thing among them.
18 “The Lord is in the right,
for I have rebelled against his word;
but hear, all you peoples,
and see my suffering;
my young women and my young men
have gone into captivity.
19† “I called to my lovers,
but they deceived me;
my priests and elders
perished in the city, while they sought food
to revive their strength.
20 “Look, O Lord, for I am in distress;
my stomach churns;
my heart is wrung within me,
because I have been very rebellious.
In the street the sword bereaves;
in the house it is like death.
21† “They heard[3] my groaning,
yet there is no one to comfort me.
All my enemies have heard of my trouble;
they are glad that you have done it.
You have brought[4] the day you announced;
now let them be as I am.
22 “Let all their evildoing come before you,
and deal with them
as you have dealt with me because of all my transgressions;
for my groans are many,
and my heart is faint.”

The Lord Has Destroyed Without Pity

2 [1]† How the Lord in his anger has set the daughter of Zion under a cloud!

He has cast down from heaven to earth
the splendor of Israel;
he has not remembered his footstool
in the day of his anger.

[2]† The Lord has swallowed up without mercy
all the habitations of Jacob;
in his wrath he has broken down
the strongholds of the daughter of Judah;
he has brought down to the ground in dishonor
the kingdom and its rulers.

[3]† He has cut down in fierce anger
all the might of Israel;
he has withdrawn from them his right hand
in the face of the enemy;
he has burned like a flaming fire in Jacob, consuming all around.

[4]† He has bent his bow like an enemy,
with his right hand set like a foe;
and he has killed all who were delightful in our eyes
in the tent of the daughter of Zion;
he has poured out his fury like fire.

[5]† The Lord has become like an enemy;
he has swallowed up Israel;
he has swallowed up all its palaces;
he has laid in ruins its strongholds, and he has multiplied in the daughter of mourning and lamentation.

6† He has laid waste his booth like a garden, laid in ruins his meeting place;
the LORD has made Zion forget festival and Sabbath, and in his fierce indignation has spurned king
and priest.
7† The Lord has scorned his altar, disowned his sanctuary;
he has delivered into the hand of the enemy
the walls of her palaces;
they raised a clamor in the house of the LORD
as on the day of festival.
8† The LORD determined to lay in ruins
the wall of the daughter of Zion;
he stretched out the measuring line;
he did not restrain his hand from destroying;
he caused rampart and wall to lament;
they languished together.
9† Her gates have sunk into the ground;
he has ruined and broken her bars;
her king and princes are among the nations;
the law is no more,
and her prophets find
no vision from the LORD.
10† The elders of the daughter of Zion sit on the ground in silence;
they have thrown dust on their heads and put on sackcloth;
the young women of Jerusalem have bowed their heads to the ground.
11† My eyes are spent with weeping;
my stomach churns;

my bile is poured out to the ground because of the destruction of the daughter of
my people,
because infants and babies faint
in the streets of the city.
12 † They cry to their mothers,
"Where is bread and wine?"
as they faint like a wounded man
in the streets of the city,
as their life is poured out on their mothers' bosom.
13 † What can I say for you, to what compare
you,
O daughter of Jerusalem?
What can I liken to you, that I may comfort you,
O virgin daughter of Zion?
For your ruin is vast as the sea;
who can heal you?
14 † Your prophets have seen for you false and deceptive visions;
they have not exposed your iniquity
to restore your fortunes, but have seen for you oracles that are false and misleading.
15 † All who pass along the way
clap their hands at you;
they hiss and wag their heads
at the daughter of Jerusalem:
"Is this the city that was called the perfection of beauty,
the joy of all the earth?"
16 All your enemies
rail against you;
they hiss, they gnash their teeth,
they cry: "We have swallowed her!

Ah, this is the day we longed for;
now we have it; we see it!”
17 † The Lord has done what he purposed;
he has carried out his word,
which he commanded long ago;
he has thrown down without pity;
he has made the enemy rejoice over you and exalted the might of your foes.
18 Their heart cried to the Lord.
O wall of the daughter of Zion, let tears stream down like a torrent day and night!
Give yourself no rest,
your eyes no respite!
19 † “Arise, cry out in the night, at the beginning of the night watches!
Pour out your heart like water before the presence of the Lord!
Lift your hands to him for the lives of your children, who faint for hunger
at the head of every street.”
20 † Look, O Lord, and see!
With whom have you dealt thus?
Should women eat the fruit of their womb,
the children of their tender care?
Should priest and prophet be killed in the sanctuary of the Lord?
21 In the dust of the streets lie the young and the old;
my young women and my young men
have fallen by the sword;
you have killed them in the day of your anger,
slaughtering without pity.

22 You summoned as if to a festival day
my terrors on every side, and on the day of the anger of the LORD
no one escaped or survived;
those whom I held and raised my enemy destroyed.

Great Is Your Faithfulness

3 [1]†I am the man who has seen affliction
under the rod of his wrath;

[2] he has driven and brought me into darkness without any light; [3] surely against me he turns his hand again and again the whole day long.
[4] He has made my flesh and my skin waste away;
he has broken my bones;
[5] he has besieged and enveloped me with bitterness and tribulation; [6]† he has made me dwell in darkness
like the dead of long ago.
[7] He has walled me about so that I cannot escape;
he has made my chains heavy;
[8]† though I call and cry for help,
he shuts out my prayer;
[9]† he has blocked my ways with blocks of stones;
he has made my paths crooked.
[10] He is a bear lying in wait for me,
a lion in hiding;
[11] he turned aside my steps and tore me to pieces;
he has made me desolate;
[12] he bent his bow and set me as a target for his arrow.
[13] He drove into my kidneys
the arrows of his quiver; [14] I have become the laughingstock of all peoples,

the object of their taunts all day long.
15† He has filled me with bitterness;
he has sated me with wormwood.
16† He has made my teeth grind on gravel,
and made me cower in ashes;
17 my soul is bereft of peace;
I have forgotten what happiness[1] is;
18† so I say, "My endurance has perished;
so has my hope from the Lord."
19† Remember my affliction and my wanderings,
the wormwood and the gall!
20 My soul continually remembers it and is bowed down within me.
21 But this I call to mind,
and therefore I have hope:
22†† The steadfast love of the Lord never ceases;[2]
his mercies never come to an end; 23† they are new every morning;
great is your faithfulness.
24† "The Lord is my portion," says my soul,
"therefore I will hope in him."
25 The Lord is good to those who wait for him, to the soul who seeks him.
26† It is good that one should wait quietly for the salvation of the Lord.
27† It is good for a man that he bear
the yoke in his youth.
28† Let him sit alone in silence
when it is laid on him; 29 let him put his mouth in the dust—
there may yet be hope;
30 let him give his cheek to the one who strikes,
and let him be filled with insults.
31 For the Lord will not cast off forever,

32† but, though he cause grief, he will have compassion
according to the abundance of his steadfast love; 33† for he does not willingly afflict or grieve the children of men.
34† To crush underfoot
all the prisoners of the earth, 35† to deny a man justice in the presence of the Most High, 36 to subvert a man in his lawsuit,
the Lord does not approve.
37† Who has spoken and it came to pass,
unless the Lord has commanded it?
38 Is it not from the mouth of the Most High that good and bad come?
39 Why should a living man complain,
a man, about the punishment of his sins?
40† Let us test and examine our ways,
and return to the Lord!
41† Let us lift up our hearts and hands
to God in heaven: 42† "We have transgressed and rebelled,
and you have not forgiven.
43 "You have wrapped yourself with anger and pursued us,
killing without pity;
44 you have wrapped yourself with a cloud
so that no prayer can pass through.
45† You have made us scum and garbage among the peoples.
46 "All our enemies
open their mouths against us; 47 panic and pitfall have come upon us, devastation and destruction;

48 my eyes flow with rivers of tears because of the destruction of the daughter of
my people.
49 “My eyes will flow without ceasing,
without respite,
50 until the Lord from heaven looks down and sees;
51 my eyes cause me grief
at the fate of all the daughters of my city.
52 “I have been hunted like a bird by those who were my enemies without cause;
53 they flung me alive into the pit
and cast stones on me;
54 water closed over my head;
I said, ‘I am lost.’
55 “I called on your name, O Lord,
from the depths of the pit;
56 you heard my plea, ‘Do not close your ear to my cry for help!’ 57 You came near when I called on you;
you said, ‘Do not fear!’
58 “You have taken up my cause, O Lord;
you have redeemed my life.
59 You have seen the wrong done to me, O Lord;
judge my cause.
60 You have seen all their vengeance,
all their plots against me.
61 “You have heard their taunts, O Lord,
all their plots against me.
62 The lips and thoughts of my assailants are against me all the day long.
63 Behold their sitting and their rising;
I am the object of their taunts.

64 “You will repay them,[1] O Lord,
according to the work of their hands.
65 You will give them[2] dullness of heart;
your curse will be[3] on them.
66 You will pursue them[1] in anger and destroy them from under your heavens, O Lord.”[2]

The Holy Stones Lie Scattered

4 [1]†How the gold has grown dim, how the pure gold is changed!
The holy stones lie scattered
at the head of every street.

[2]† The precious sons of Zion, worth their weight in fine gold,
how they are regarded as earthen pots,
the work of a potter's hands!
[3]† Even jackals offer the breast;
they nurse their young,
but the daughter of my people has become cruel,
like the ostriches in the wilderness.
[4]† The tongue of the nursing infant sticks to the roof of its mouth for thirst;
the children beg for food,
but no one gives to them.
[5]† Those who once feasted on delicacies perish in the streets;
those who were brought up in purple embrace ash heaps.
[6]† For the chastisement[3] of the daughter of my people has been greater than the punishment[4] of Sodom, which was overthrown in a moment,
and no hands were wrung for her.[5] [7]† Her princes were purer than snow, whiter than milk;
their bodies were more ruddy than coral,
the beauty of their form[6] was like sapphire.[7]

8 Now their face is blacker than soot;
they are not recognized in the streets;
their skin has shriveled on their bones;
it has become as dry as wood.
9 Happier were the victims of the sword than the victims of hunger, who wasted away, pierced
by lack of the fruits of the field.
10† The hands of compassionate women have boiled their own children;
they became their food
during the destruction of the daughter of my people.
11† The Lord gave full vent to his wrath;
he poured out his hot anger,
and he kindled a fire in Zion that consumed its foundations.
12† The kings of the earth did not believe,
nor any of the inhabitants of the world, that foe or enemy could enter the gates of Jerusalem.
13† This was for the sins of her prophets and the iniquities of her priests, who shed in the midst of her
the blood of the righteous.
14 They wandered, blind, through the streets;
they were so defiled with blood that no one was able to touch their garments.
15† "Away! Unclean!" people cried at them.
"Away! Away! Do not touch!"
So they became fugitives and wanderers;
people said among the nations,
"They shall stay with us no longer."
16† The Lord himself[1] has scattered them;
he will regard them no more;

no honor was shown to the priests,
no favor to the elders.
17† Our eyes failed, ever watching vainly for help;
in our watching we watched for a nation which could not save.
18 They dogged our steps
so that we could not walk in our streets;
our end drew near; our days were numbered,
for our end had come.
19† Our pursuers were swifter than the eagles in the heavens;
they chased us on the mountains;
they lay in wait for us in the wilderness.
20† The breath of our nostrils, the LORD's anointed,
was captured in their pits,
of whom we said, "Under his shadow
we shall live among the nations."
21† Rejoice and be glad, O daughter of Edom, you who dwell in the land of Uz;
but to you also the cup shall pass;
you shall become drunk and strip yourself bare.
22† The punishment of your iniquity, O daughter of Zion, is accomplished;
he will keep you in exile no longer;[2]
but your iniquity, O daughter of Edom, he will punish;
he will uncover your sins.

Restore Us to Yourself, O Lord

5 [1]Remember, O Lord, what has befallen us;
look, and see our disgrace!

[2]† Our inheritance has been turned over to strangers,
our homes to foreigners.
[3]† We have become orphans, fatherless;
our mothers are like widows.
[4]† We must pay for the water we drink;
the wood we get must be bought.
[5] Our pursuers are at our necks;[3]
we are weary; we are given no rest.
[6]† We have given the hand to Egypt, and to Assyria,
to get bread enough.
[7]† Our fathers sinned, and are no more;
and we bear their iniquities.
[8]† Slaves rule over us;
there is none to deliver us from their hand.
[9]† We get our bread at the peril of our lives, because of the sword in the wilderness.
[10] Our skin is hot as an oven with the burning heat of famine.
[11]† Women are raped in Zion, young women in the towns of Judah.
[12]† Princes are hung up by their hands;
no respect is shown to the elders.
[13]† Young men are compelled to grind at the mill,
and boys stagger under loads of wood.
[14]† The old men have left the city gate,
the young men their music.

15 The joy of our hearts has ceased;
our dancing has been turned to mourning.
16† The crown has fallen from our head;
woe to us, for we have sinned!
17 For this our heart has become sick,
for these things our eyes have grown dim, 18† for Mount Zion which lies desolate;
jackals prowl over it.
19† But you, O Lord, reign forever;
your throne endures to all generations.
20 Why do you forget us forever,
why do you forsake us for so many days?
21† Restore us to yourself, O Lord, that we may be restored!
Renew our days as of old—22† unless you have utterly rejected us, and you remain exceedingly angry with us.

Luther on Lamentations

Sobs and complaints of this kind are usually uttered by those who struggle with unbelief and despair and cannot buoy up their heart or lay hold of any hope of salvation. (AE 8:72)

Oh, we handle these poor young people who are committed to us for training and instruction in the wrong way! We shall have to render a solemn account of our neglect to set the word of God before them. Their lot is as described by Jeremiah in Lamentations 2. [:11–12]…. We do not see this pitiful evil, how today the young people of Christendom languish and perish miserably in our midst for want of the gospel, in which we ought to be giving them constant instruction and training. (AE 44:206)

[God] stands hidden among the sufferings which would separate us from him like a wall, indeed, like a wall of a fortress. And yet he looks upon me and does not forsake me. He stands there and is ready to help in grace, and through the window of dim faith he permits himself to be seen. And Jeremiah says in Lamentations 3[:32–33], "He casts men aside, but that is not the intention of his heart." These people know nothing at all of this kind of a faith, and they give themselves over to thinking that God has forsaken them and is their enemy. They even lay the blame on other men or on the devil, and have simply no confidence at all in God. For this reason, too, their suffering is always an offense to them and harmful. And yet they go on doing their good works, as they think, quite unaware of their serious unbelief. But they who in such suffering trust God and hold on to a good, firm confidence in him, who believe that he is well-pleased with them, see in their sufferings and afflictions nothing but pure and precious merits, the costliest treasures which no man can assess. For faith and confidence make precious before God all that which others think most shameful. (AE 44:28)

Challenges for Readers

Hebrew Poetry. See pp 777–78.

Doom and Hope. As in Jeremiah's much longer Book, he sets his most hopeful passage (3:22–33) in the center of much longer passages of gloom. On this literary feature, see p 1204.

Blessings for Readers

Reading and studying lament poems may seem silly or even wrong in an era when popular preachers emphasize joy and prosperity, psychologists emphasize guilt-free living, and politicians spin out cheery sound bites. Yet this is precisely why Jeremiah's words have so much to offer: they honestly decry the crushing weight of human sin and guilt.

This Book shows us the consequence of ignoring the confession of our sins and daily repentance. Likewise, it firmly proclaims that the Lord's steadfast love never ceases, even amid the worst sufferings.

OUTLINE

Each chapter of Lamentations is a separate lament poem (cf 2Sm 1:19–27; 3:33–34; Ps 79; 83; 89:38–51). Chs 1–4 are written as acrostic poems, so that the first word of a poetic verse begins with a letter of the Hebrew alphabet (see pp 777–78). Because Hebrew has 22 letters, chs 1, 2, and 4 each have 22 verses. Ch 3 is different, devoting 3 verses for each Hebrew letter, yielding a total of 66 verses. Ch 5 has 22 verses, but does not strictly follow the alphabetic pattern.

I. The Desolation and Misery of Jerusalem (ch 1)
II. The Lord's Anger against the Daughter of Zion (ch 2)
III. The Lord Will Discipline and Have Mercy (ch 3)

IV. Zion’s Punishment Is Accomplished (ch 4)
V. Plea That the Lord Would Not Forget Zion (ch 5)

Study Notes

LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON Chs 1–4 Acrostic poetry. See pp 777–78.
LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON Ch 1 In the first lament, Jerusalem is personified as a humiliated, deserted widow. Unsuppressed sobbing rends the air as the bliss of former days are contrasted with the present nightmare of shame and destitution. The stricken mourners repeatedly confess that the Lord was justified in letting the Babylonians destroy Zion, for she had "sinned grievously" and had become "filthy" (vv 8, 17). While the Israelites mourn their transgressions, they know that God hears their penitent cries for restoration. God will again use the chastised and forgiven Israel as an instrument of His gracious will.
LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 1:1 widow. A woman bereft of her husband faced great hardship in ancient Israel, in spite of explicit legislation for her protection (Ex 22:22; Dt 10:18). slave. See p 101.
LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 1:2 lovers … friends. The author describes Israel's reliance on foreign nations such as Egypt as harlotry (Jer 3:1; 4:30).
LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 1:3 exile. See map, p 717. pursuers. Babylonians.
LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 1:4 Zion. See p 844. the festival. See note, Ex 23:14–17. gates are desolate. See p 792. virgins … afflicted. They normally rejoiced by singing and dancing at festivals. See "daughters of Zion," p 1079.
LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 1:5 the head. See "chief," p 228.
LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 1:6 daughter of Zion. See p 1079. princes. See p 228.
LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 1:7 Many points in Lm recount what the people of Jerusalem felt during or after the siege by the Babylonians (589–587 BC). Cf v 19; 2:11–12; 4:4–5.
LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 1:8 filthy. See "clean," p 6. seen her nakedness. See note, Lv 18:6.
LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 1:9 uncleanness was in her skirts. Cf Lv 15:25.
LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 1:10 enter her sanctuary … congregation. The temple.
LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 1:11 See note, v 7.

LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 1:12 Is it nothing. Though the Hbr presents difficulties, it is clear that passersby are hailed to look and see the greatness of Zion's sorrow. fierce anger. In the liturgy of Good Friday, Israel's grief is equated with the suffering of Jesus Christ when the Lord inflicted anger on Him (see LSB Altar Book, pp 518–21).
LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 1:13 fire; into my bones. See note, Jer 8:18–22. net for my feet. Common theme in Ps to describe affliction. See note, Ps 25:15.
LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 1:14 bound into a yoke. Israel could not extricate herself from the consequences of her transgressions.
LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 1:15 mighty men. See notes, Jsh 1:14; 2Sm 23:8. trodden … winepress. See note, Is 63:2. daughter of Judah. See p 1079.
LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 1:17 Zion. See p 844. neighbors. See note, v 2. filthy thing. See "clean," p 6.
LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 1:19 lovers. See note, v 2. priests and elders. See p 228. sought food. See note, v 7.
LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 1:21 They. Enemies. the day You announced. The day of the Lord brought punishment for Israel's sins (Am 5:18–20; Jer 39:15–16). When it dawns again, Israel will be restored and her enemies destroyed (Jer 46:10; 47:4; 50:27). See "day of the LORD," p 1079. let them be. Israel's persecutors were also God's enemies by their "evildoing" (v 22) in opposing His kingdom; prayer for their defeat is justified.
LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON Ch 1 Jeremiah describes the terrible conditions in Jerusalem after it fell to the Babylonians and its leading citizens were taken captive. Contrasted with the wealth and beauty of its former days, the ruins lie as a testimony to God's just response against persistent sin and rebellion. The foundation of sin and rebellion is unbelief, a refusal to trust God and follow Him. Even in the face of His people's faithlessness, God proves Himself faithful to His promise of a Savior by preserving a remnant that will return to Jerusalem. • Teach us to live wisely, O Lord, according to Your will and in the joy of our salvation in Jesus Christ. Amen.
LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON Ch 2 In His righteous anger, God did not spare even His temple. The poet cannot exonerate Israel from guilt. Because it is the Lord who "has thrown down without pity," relief must come from Him. Fervent, incessant prayer alone offers hope (vv 17–19). Responding to this exhortation, the daughter of Zion again appears on the stage to plead for the Lord's mercy.

LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 2:1 set … under a cloud! Rare expression, likely describing how the Lord's wrath has shrouded Jerusalem, hazy with the dust and smoke of destruction. daughter of Zion. See p 1079.

LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 2:2 The Lord fights against His own people. daughter of Judah. See p 1079.

LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 2:3 right hand. See p 843. enemy. Babylon.

LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 2:4 the tent. Israel personified once resided in Jerusalem (her tent). See note, Is 33:20.

LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 2:5 Cf v 2.

LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 2:6 His booth. In the storm of God's wrath, the massive structure of Israel's temple disintegrated as if it were a flimsy hut made of leaves and branches. meeting place. The temple. See note, Ex 27:21. Zion. See p 844. festival and Sabbath. See pp 200–201.

LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 2:7 clamor … of festival. The raucous cries of invaders replace the joyful shouts of worshipers.

LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 2:8 stretched out the measuring line. Demolition of the city walls was carried out with the same precision the builders used in erecting them (Is 34:11).

LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 2:9 sunk. Destroyed and covered with debris. law is no more. Proclamation of God's Word was ended. no vision. God ended prophetic visions. After Jeremiah was carried away into Egypt (Jer 43), no prophetic voice was heard in the region of Israel for decades. See pp 1077–83.

LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 2:10 elders. See p 228. sit on the ground. See p 1277. dust on their heads. See note, Jb 2:12. sackcloth. See note, Jb 16:15. bowed. See p 1276. Ambr: "Jeremiah knew that penitence was a great remedy, which he in his Lamentations took up for Jerusalem… . Here you recognize the intention of the soul, the faithfulness of the mind, the disposition of the body" (NPNF 2 10:351).

LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 2:11 bile is poured out. Vomiting that ends in dry heaves. See note, 1:7.

LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 2:12 faint. Cf 2Ki 25:3; Jer 52:6. poured out on their mothers' bosom. They hug and plead for food (perhaps breast milk), but none is available.

LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 2:13 daughter of Jerusalem … comfort. See p 1079. heal. On God's work, see note, Dt 32:39.
LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 2:14 Your prophets. Cf Jer 14:13; 26:7; 27:10, 15; 37:18–19 for Jeremiah's tirades against false prophets. Those misled by religious charlatans share the guilt of their deceivers. Greg: "While fearing to reprove faults, they vainly flatter evil doers by promising security: neither do they at all discover the iniquity of sinners, since they refrain their voice from chiding. For the language of reproof is the key of discovery, because by chiding it discloses the fault of which even he who has committed it is often himself unaware" (NPNF 2 12:11b). restore your fortunes. See p 1080.
LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 2:15 clap … hiss and wag. See pp 1276–77. perfection of beauty. Jerusalem had the distinction of being the city of the great King (cf Ps 50:2).
LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 2:17 commanded long ago. The Lord fulfilled the curses of Dt 27–28.
LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 2:19 night watches! Prayer continued into the night, which was divided into watches. See p 1567. like water before … the Lord! See note, Lv 23:37. Lift your hands. See p 1276.
LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 2:20 eat the fruit of their womb. Disobedience to God leads to horrific consequences (Lv 26:26; Dt 28:56). See note, 1:7. priest and prophet be killed. The chief priest Seraiah and other temple officials were slain at Riblah by the Babylonians (2Ki 25:18–21; Jer 52:24–27). It appears that others were killed on the spot at Jerusalem.

LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON Ch 2 By the Lord's hand, Babylon has destroyed Jerusalem and razed its temple. The consequences of sin have left people slaughtered and the remaining citizens exiled to Babylon. God has turned His back on His people for turning their back on Him. Their worship of false gods violated the covenant dating back to the exodus from Egypt. Their sin has now born hideous fruit. Despite the apostasy of God's people, He still loves them and will bring them back from their captivity to rebuild Jerusalem and the temple. From these people, God shall raise up a Savior for all nations. • Lord, teach us to heed Your warnings and repent when we stray, that we might receive Your precious forgiveness. Amen.

LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON Ch 3 In this lament, each Hbr letter appears in alphabetical order at the beginning of three verses as if to nail down each thought (see p 1296). Advice on how to bear chastisement reads like a page from Pr or Jb. A full confession of guilt and an unreserved plea for pardon are needed if there is to be an escape from the consequences of sinning against the Lord. Yet deliverance is as certain as if it had already come to pass. In order to awaken faith in God's promises, the poet lets an unnamed person testify how the Lord heard his cry "from the depths of the pit" (vv 52–57).

LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 3:1 rod of His wrath. Cf Jb 16:6–17; 19:8–22; Ps 38; 88; 109; 143 for similar outbursts of pain caused by the Lord.

LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 3:6 in darkness. Death terminates all physical sight. The prophet considers himself dead to God.

LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 3:8 He shuts out my prayer. See note, Jer 7:16.

LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 3:9 made my paths crooked. The prophet cannot see his way out of the dilemma. The rubble in the street becomes a metaphor for the spiritual trouble he experiences.

LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 3:15 wormwood. See note, Pr 5:4.

LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 3:16 grind on gravel. He had only stones and grit to chew rather than bread (cf Mt 7:9). cower in ashes. See note, Jb 2:8.

LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 3:18 My endurance … my hope. Other sufferers were tempted to give up hope.

LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 3:19 wormwood … gall! See notes, Pr 5:4; Jb 16:13.

LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 3:22–24 These verses stand at the center of the laments and offer the clearest expression of hope. On the similar literary strategy in Jer, see pp 1202–4.

LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 3:22 steadfast love … mercies. Plural to show how the Lord will multiply His blessings to the people. See p 843.

LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 3:23 new every morning. Cf Ps 5:3; 30:5. faithfulness. See p 842.

LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 3:24 my portion. He can claim God for himself as confidently as an heir asserts his right to his inheritance (cf Ps 119:57; 142:5). See p 7.

LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 3:26 It is good. Trials are sent by God for a wholesome purpose and should be borne with patient submission (Jb 5:17–18; Ps 37:7–8; Heb 12:6). wait quietly. Bern: "An unlearned person (as I truly confess myself to be) never acts more unlearnedly than when he presumes to teach what he knows not. Therefore, to teach is the business neither of the unlearned in his rashness, nor of the monk in his boldness, nor of the penitent in his distress… . I invite and entreat you … at least by the example of my silence, to learn from me to be silent, you who press me in your words to teach what I do not know" (SLSB, pp 113–14). salvation. See p 843.
LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 3:27 bear the yoke. Undergo training as a young ox would and so learn the Lord's discipline and ways.
LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 3:28 sit alone in silence. Reflection of repentance, without complaint about what God has sent or allowed. See note, Jer 18:4–6.
LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 3:32 compassion … steadfast love. See note, v 22; see also p 843.
LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 3:33 not willingly. God takes no sadistic delight in making His creatures miserable, but His compassion and steadfast love assure us that the pain does not last longer than necessary (Ps 103:9; Jer 3:12; 31:20; Hos 11:8–9).
LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 3:34 Ambr: "The Lord humbles all the prisoners of the earth under His feet, in order that we may escape His judgment" (NPNF 2 10:333).
LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 3:35 justice … presence. See pp 842–43.
LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 3:37–38 See note, Is 45:7.
LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 3:40 test … examine. Hbr verbs for searching. See note, 2Co 13:5. return. See p 1080.
LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 3:41 lift up our hearts. Description of expectant prayer. See "lift up hands," p 1276.
LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 3:42 not forgiven. Unless those who have transgressed and rebelled against the Lord seek His pardon, their sins remain unforgiven, creating a fatal separation between themselves and God (Is 59:2).
LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 3:45 scum and garbage. They are cast out among the nations, which despise them.

LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 3:52–63 Jeremiah details the depths of the deadly disasters from which God delivered him.
LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 3:52 like a bird. See note, Ps 91:3.
LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 3:53 into the pit. Though Jeremiah plunged into a watery pit (cistern; cf v 54), he would have died of starvation rather than by drowning.
LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 3:55 called on Your name. See p 842.
LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 3:58 redeemed. See p 843.
LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 3:64–66 repay them. Jeremiah prays for vindication.
LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 3:65 curse. See p 6.
LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON Ch 3 Jeremiah describes the great suffering of God's people at the hand of the invading Babylonians. He makes no excuse for their sin, but he encourages them (and us today) with God's great compassion and unfailing love. The people have been crushed but not utterly destroyed—their hope must be in the Lord and His great love for them. We are often our own worst enemies, responsible for our suffering through our own choices. No matter how bad things get, our hope is always in the Lord because He loves us in Jesus Christ and never abandons us. • Lord, do not treat us as our sins deserve, but forgive and restore us to Your unfailing love through Jesus Christ. Amen.
LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON Ch 4 Another lament over the fall of Jerusalem. Sometimes, submission to God comes only after a prolonged battle against resentment and bitterness. The poet lets cries of anguish have free reign. The intensity of pain is to call to mind how grievously the nation sinned against God. A penitent realization of having offended a loving God is not in vain, for restoration to favor will follow when the punishment is accomplished (v 22).
LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 4:1 gold has grown dim. Unlike other metals, gold does not tarnish. Yet Judah's "gold" has tarnished, revealing its true character. holy stones. The ashlar (dressed) stones that made up the temple and temple courts.
LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 4:2 sons of Zion … as earthen pots. Regarded as less valuable and therefore smashed.
LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 4:3 ostriches. Known for abandoning their young (cf Jb 39:13–16).
LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 4:4 See note, 1:7.

LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 4:5 purple. See p 141.
LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 4:6 The punishment of Sodom was less severe because it did not suffer the horrors of a long siege and the cruelties perpetuated by human agents. God dealt harshly with Israel because of her apostasy. Cf Jer 23:14; Ezk 16:48–51.
LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 4:7 Her. Jerusalem.
LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 4:10 boiled their own children. Alluded to in 2:20.
LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 4:11 kindled a fire in Zion. Cf Jer 4:4; 5:14.
LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 4:12 Defended by the Lord, Jerusalem was impregnable against even such mighty conquerors as Sennacherib (Is 36–37). God's promise of divine protection gave rise to Israel's false sense of security (Jer 7; 26).
LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 4:13 God holds false religious leaders accountable for the suffering their misleading words cause. These false leaders were also involved in murderous plots against the righteous (Jer 26:20–23).
LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 4:15 Away! Unclean! The lying prophets who came among God's people were eventually shunned like lepers.
LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 4:16 elders. See p 228.
LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 4:17 The people confess that they ignored Jeremiah's warning against the folly of trying to ward off the threatened punishment by alliances with Egypt and other nations (Jer 2:18, 36–37).
LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 4:19 eagles. See note, Mi 1:16.
LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 4:20 As long as a king, "the LORD's anointed" theocratic representative, occupied the throne in Jerusalem, the people felt that their existence among the nations was assured. But their trust in kings, considered essential, was shattered when King Zedekiah was trapped like an animal by the Babylonians (Jer 52:8–11). Jeremiah predicted that Zedekiah's irresponsible administration of his royal office would have tragic results (Jer 37:17). Under his shadow. Royal protection. See note, Ps 17:8–9. Aph: "They were sitting in the shadow of the king, while he was standing at their head. And when the crown of their head fell, they were without shade" (NPNF 2 13:355).
LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 4:21 Edom. The foe of Israel is chosen. Edom exemplifies the fate awaiting all who attempt to thwart the coming of God's kingdom. Cf Jer 49:7–13; Ezk 25:12–14; Ob 10–14; Mal 1:2–5. cup … drunk. See note, Is 51:17.

LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 4:22 daughter of Zion. See p 1079.
LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON Ch 4 Jeremiah contrasts the wealth of Jerusalem's past with the poverty of its residents after the Babylonian conquest. The sins of the religious leaders come into focus as the cause for the destruction of the city. A note of hope appears at the end with a veiled reference to the eventual return of the exiles from Babylon (v 22). Spiritual leaders carry a great responsibility for the welfare of God's people (cf Jas 3:1). God sustained His people, and through their descendants raised up a Savior for all, Christ the Lord. • Father, send Your Spirit to strengthen Your shepherds, that they may teach Your Word in purity and truth. We pray through Jesus Christ. Amen.
LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON Ch 5 God will accept a sincere confession of guilt and be moved to mercy. To that end, the people who remained in the land after Jerusalem's fall mourn to the Lord, for the temple lies desolate (v 18). The plea for the return of "days as of old" asserts the hope that God has not utterly rejected them (vv 21–22). Those who lament count on God to restore them to Himself so that His heavenly kingdom may manifest itself through them.
LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 5:2 inheritance. See "portion," p 7.
LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 5:3 orphans … widows. See note, Ps 94:6.
LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 5:4 pay for the water… . wood. A change in the social order is in view. See note, Jsh 9:21.
LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 5:6 Egypt … Assyria. Extending the hand of friendship and alliance to Egypt and Assyria dated back to the days of Israel's fathers. God's prophets repeatedly warned against rejecting God and seeking protection among men (Is 30:2–3; 31:1; Jer 2:18, 36; Ezk 16:28; 23:5, 12; Hos 5:13; 7:11).
LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 5:7 we bear their iniquities. While the fathers did not live to see the prophets' threats of divine judgment come true, their generation was as guilty as the present generation.
LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 5:8 Slaves. Servants of the Babylonians who "lorded it over the people" (Ne 5:15). See p 101.
LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 5:9 sword in the wilderness. Bedouin raiders threatened Israel as she eked out an existence in the outer limits of the land.

LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 5:11 Crimes of all kinds flourished among the ruins of Jerusalem and other cities of Judah. See "Zion," p 844.
LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 5:12 Princes … elders. See p 228. hung up by their hands. Perhaps executed men were put on display as a warning to others.
LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 5:13 grind at the mill. See note, Jgs 16:21.
LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 5:14 left the city gate. See p 792. young men their music. A glimpse of former youthful activity in Jerusalem. Cf Mt 11:17; see p 993.
LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 5:16 crown has fallen. See note, 4:20. we have sinned! The suppliants did not accuse God of punishing them for sins they did not commit, as some of their contemporaries did by quoting a blasphemous proverb (see note, Jer 31:29).
LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 5:18 Zion. See p 844.
LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 5:19 O LORD, reign. See pp 1565–66.
LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 5:21 Restore us. Sinners cannot be restored to a favorable relationship with God by their "own reason or strength" (SC, p xxxvii). Only the Spirit's enabling initiative and power can bring genuine renewal.
LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 5:22 unless You have utterly rejected us. The impassioned pleading ends with uncertainty and doubt rather than in the exclamation point of firm trust and joyous anticipation. However, Israel boldly appeals to God to be true to Himself. If He is "merciful and gracious … abounding in steadfast love," as He has declared Himself to be (Ex 34:6), He cannot refuse to pardon His penitent children.

LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON Ch 5 Jeremiah points out that the sins of all the people lie at the very root of their current suffering (cf v 16). Because of their unfaithfulness, they struggle just to get enough to eat; they find themselves subjected to abuse and humiliation. Lamenting in anguish, God's people appeal to the Lord for forgiveness and restoration. In our own lives, we easily forget God and our calling as His people at times when it seems that everything is going our way. God stands ready to forgive penitent sinners by restoring His blessing to us through the blood of Jesus Christ. • Father, keep us faithful in good times and secure in our faith during bad times, for we are Yours at all times. Amen.

Ezekiel in Babylon

1 [1]†† In the thirtieth year, in the fourth month, on the fifth day of the month, as I was among the exiles by the Chebar canal, the heavens were opened, and I saw visions of God.[1] [2]† On the fifth day of the month (it was the fifth year of the exile of King Jehoiachin), [3]† the word of the Lord came to Ezekiel the priest, the son of Buzi, in the land of the Chaldeans by the Chebar canal, and the hand of the Lord was upon him there.

The Glory of the Lord

4 ‡ † As I looked, behold, a stormy wind came out of the north, and a great cloud, with brightness around it, and fire flashing forth continually, and in the midst of the fire, as it were gleaming metal.[2] 5 † And from the midst of it came the likeness of four living creatures. And this was their appearance:
they had a human likeness, 6 † but each had four faces, and each of them had four wings. 7 † Their legs were straight, and the soles of their feet were like the sole of a calf's foot. And they sparkled like burnished bronze. 8 † Under their wings on their four sides they had human hands. And the four had their faces and their wings thus: 9 † their wings touched one another. Each one of them went straight forward, without turning as they went. 10 † As for the likeness of their faces, each had a human face. The four had the face of a lion on the right side, the four had the face of an ox on the left side, and the four had the face of an eagle. 11 † Such were their faces. And their wings were spread out above. Each creature had two wings, each of which touched the wing of another, while two covered their bodies. 12 † And each went straight forward. Wherever the spirit would go, they went, without turning as they went. 13 † As for the likeness of the living creatures, their appearance was like burning coals of fire, like the appearance of torches moving to and fro among the living creatures. And the fire was bright, and out of the fire went forth lightning. 14 † And the living creatures darted to and fro, like the appearance of a flash of lightning.

15 † Now as I looked at the living creatures, I saw a wheel on the earth beside the living creatures, one for each of the four of them.[1] 16 † As for the appearance of the wheels and their construction: their appearance was like the gleaming of beryl. And the four had the same likeness, their appearance and construction being as it were a wheel within a wheel. 17 † When they went, they went in any of their four directions[2] without turning as they went. 18 ‡ † And their rims were tall and awesome, and the rims of all four were full of eyes all around. 19 And when the living creatures went, the wheels went beside them; and when the living creatures rose from the earth, the wheels rose. 20 Wherever the spirit wanted to go, they went, and the wheels rose along with them, for the spirit of the living creatures[3] was in the wheels. [21]When those went, these went; and when those stood, these stood; and when those rose from the earth, the wheels rose along with them, for the spirit of the living creatures was in the wheels.

[22] † Over the heads of the living creatures there was the likeness of an expanse, shining like awe-inspiring crystal, spread out above their heads. [23] † And under the expanse their wings were stretched out straight, one toward another. And each creature had two wings covering its body. [24] † And when they went, I heard the sound of their wings like the sound of many waters, like the sound of the Almighty, a sound of tumult like the sound of an army. When they stood still, they let down their wings. [25] † And there came a voice from above the expanse over their heads. When they stood still, they let down their wings.

[26] † And above the expanse over their heads there was the likeness of a throne, in appearance like sapphire;[1] and seated above the likeness of a throne was a likeness with a human appearance. [27] † And upward from what had the appearance of his waist I saw as it were gleaming metal, like the appearance of fire enclosed all around. And downward from what had the appearance of his waist I saw as it were the appearance of fire, and there was brightness around him.[2] [28] † Like the appearance of the bow that is in the cloud on the day of rain, so was the appearance of the brightness all around.

Such was the appearance of the likeness of the glory of the Lord. And when I saw it, I fell on my face, and I heard the voice of one speaking.

Ezekiel's Call

2 [1]‡†And he said to me, "Son of man,[3] stand on your feet, and I will speak with you." [2]†And as he spoke to me, the Spirit entered into me and set me on my feet, and I heard him speaking to me. [3]†And he said to me, "Son of man, I send you to the people of Israel, to nations of rebels, who have rebelled against me. They and their fathers have transgressed against me to this very day. [4]†The descendants also are impudent and stubborn: I send you to them, and you shall say to them, 'Thus says the Lord GOD.'
[5]†And whether they hear or refuse to hear (for they are a rebellious house) they will know that a prophet has been among them. [6]†And you, son of man, be not afraid of them, nor be afraid of their words, though briers and thorns are with you and you sit on scorpions.[4] Be not afraid of their words, nor be dismayed at their looks, for they are a rebellious house. [7]†And you shall speak my words to them, whether they hear or refuse to hear, for they are a rebellious house.

[8]†"But you, son of man, hear what I say to you. Be not rebellious like that rebellious house; open your mouth and eat what I give you." [9]†And when I looked, behold, a hand was stretched out to me, and behold, a scroll of a book was in it. [10]†And he spread it before me. And it had writing on the front and on the back, and there were written on it words of lamentation and mourning and woe.

3 [1]†And he said to me, "Son of man, eat whatever you find here. Eat this scroll, and go, speak to the house of Israel." [2]So I opened my mouth, and he gave me this scroll to eat. [3]†And he said to me, "Son of man, feed your belly with this scroll that I give you and fill your stomach with it."
Then I ate it, and it was in my mouth as sweet as honey.

[4]†And he said to me, "Son of man, go to the house of Israel and speak with my words to them. [5]†For you are not sent to a people of foreign speech and a hard language, but to the house of Israel— [6]†not to many peoples of foreign speech and a hard language, whose words you cannot understand.
Surely, if I sent you to such, they would listen to you. [7]†But the house of Israel will not be willing to listen to you, for they are not willing to listen to me: because all the house of Israel have a hard forehead and a stubborn heart. 8 † Behold, I have made your face as hard as their faces, and your forehead as hard as their foreheads. 9 † Like emery harder than flint have I made your forehead. Fear them not, nor be dismayed at their looks, for they are a rebellious house." 10 † Moreover, he said to me, "Son of man, all my words that I shall speak to you receive in your heart, and hear with your ears. 11 † And go to the exiles, to your people, and speak to them and say to them, 'Thus says the Lord God,' whether they hear or refuse to hear."

12 † Then the Spirit[1] lifted me up, and I heard behind me the voice[2] of a great earthquake: "Blessed be the glory of the Lord from its place!" 13 † It was the sound of the wings of the living creatures as they touched one another, and the sound of the wheels beside them, and the sound of a great earthquake. 14 † The Spirit lifted me up and took me away, and I went in bitterness in the heat of my spirit, the hand of the Lord being strong upon me. 15 † And I came to the exiles at Tel-abib, who were dwelling by the Chebar canal, and I sat where they were dwelling.[1] And I sat there overwhelmed among them seven days.

A Watchman for Israel

16 ‡ † And at the end of seven days, the word of the Lord came to me:
17 † “Son of man, I have made you a watchman for the house of Israel.
Whenever you hear a word from my mouth, you shall give them warning from me. 18 ‡ † If I say to the wicked, ‘You shall surely die,’ and you give him no warning, nor speak to warn the wicked from his wicked way, in order to save his life, that wicked person shall die for[2] his iniquity, but his blood I will require at your hand. 19 † But if you warn the wicked, and he does not turn from his wickedness, or from his wicked way, he shall die for his iniquity, but you will have delivered your soul. 20 † Again, if a righteous person turns from his righteousness and commits injustice, and I lay a stumbling block before him, he shall die. Because you have not warned him, he shall die for his sin, and his righteous deeds that he has done shall not be remembered, but his blood I will require at your hand. 21 † But if you warn the righteous person not to sin, and he does not sin, he shall surely live, because he took warning, and you will have delivered your soul.”
22 ‡ † And the hand of the Lord was upon me there. And he said to me, “Arise, go out into the valley,[1] and there I will speak with you.” 23 † So I arose and went out into the valley, and behold, the glory of the Lord stood there, like the glory that I had seen by the Chebar canal, and I fell on my face. 24 † But the Spirit entered into me and set me on my feet, and he spoke with me and said to me, “Go, shut yourself within your house. 25 † And you, O son of man, behold, cords will be placed upon you, and you shall be bound with them, so that you cannot go out among the people. 26 † And I will make your tongue cling to the roof of your mouth, so that you shall be mute and unable to reprove them, for they are a rebellious house. 27 † But when I speak with you, I will open your mouth, and you shall say to them, ‘Thus says the Lord God.’ He who will hear, let him hear; and he who will refuse to hear, let him refuse, for they are a rebellious house.

The Siege of Jerusalem Symbolized

4 [1]†“And you, son of man, take a brick and lay it before you, and engrave on it a city, even Jerusalem. [2]†And put siegeworks against it, and build a siege wall against it, and cast up a mound against it. Set camps also against it, and plant battering rams against it all around. [3]†And you, take an iron griddle, and place it as an iron wall between you and the city; and set your face toward it, and let it be in a state of siege, and press the siege against it. This is a sign for the house of Israel.

[4]††“Then lie on your left side, and place the punishment[2] of the house of Israel upon it. For the number of the days that you lie on it, you shall bear their punishment. [5]†For I assign to you a number of days, 390 days, equal to the number of the years of their punishment. So long shall you bear the punishment of the house of Israel. [6]†And when you have completed these, you shall lie down a second time, but on your right side, and bear the punishment of the house of Judah. Forty days I assign you, a day for each year. [7]†And you shall set your face toward the siege of Jerusalem, with your arm bared, and you shall prophesy against the city. [8]†And behold, I will place cords upon you, so that you cannot turn from one side to the other, till you have completed the days of your siege.

[9]††“And you, take wheat and barley, beans and lentils, millet and emmer, [1] and put them into a single vessel and make your bread from them. During the number of days that you lie on your side, 390 days, you shall eat it. [10]†And your food that you eat shall be by weight, twenty shekels[2] a day; from day to day[3] you shall eat it. [11]And water you shall drink by measure, the sixth part of a hin;[4] from day to day you shall drink. [12]††And you shall eat it as a barley cake, baking it in their sight on human dung.” [13]†And the Lord said, “Thus shall the people of Israel eat their bread unclean, among the nations where I will drive them.” [14]† Then I said, “Ah, Lord God! Behold, I have never defiled myself.[5] From my youth up till now I have never eaten what died of itself or was torn by beasts, nor has tainted meat come into my mouth.” [15]†Then he said to me, “See, I assign to you cow’s dung instead of human dung, on which you may prepare your bread.”

16 †Moreover, he said to me, “Son of man, behold, I will break the supply[6] of bread in Jerusalem. They shall eat bread by weight and with anxiety, and they shall drink water by measure and in dismay. 17 †I will do this that they may lack bread and water, and look at one another in dismay, and rot away because of their punishment.

Jerusalem Will Be Destroyed

5 [1]†† “And you, O son of man, take a sharp sword. Use it as a barber’s razor and pass it over your head and your beard. Then take balances for weighing and divide the hair. [2]† A third part you shall burn in the fire in the midst of the city, when the days of the siege are completed. And a third part you shall take and strike with the sword all around the city. And a third part you shall scatter to the wind, and I will unsheathe the sword after them.
[3]† And you shall take from these a small number and bind them in the skirts of your robe. [4]† And of these again you shall take some and cast them into the midst of the fire and burn them in the fire. From there a fire will come out into all the house of Israel.

[5]† “Thus says the Lord God: This is Jerusalem. I have set her in the center of the nations, with countries all around her. [6]† And she has rebelled against my rules by doing wickedness more than the nations, and against my statutes more than the countries all around her; for they have rejected my rules and have not walked in my statutes. [7]† Therefore thus says the Lord God: Because you are more turbulent than the nations that are all around you, and have not walked in my statutes or obeyed my rules, and have not[1] even acted according to the rules of the nations that are all around you, [8]† therefore thus says the Lord God: Behold, I, even I, am against you. And I will execute judgments[2] in your midst in the sight of the nations. [9]† And because of all your abominations I will do with you what I have never yet done, and the like of which I will never do again. [10]† Therefore fathers shall eat their sons in your midst, and sons shall eat their fathers. And I will execute judgments on you, and any of you who survive I will scatter to all the winds. [11]† Therefore, as I live, declares the Lord God, surely, because you have defiled my sanctuary with all your detestable things and with all your abominations, therefore I will withdraw.[3] My eye will not spare, and I will have no pity. [12]† A third part of you shall die of pestilence and be consumed with famine in your midst; a third part shall fall by the sword all around you; and a third part I will scatter to all the winds and will unsheathe the sword after them.

[13]†“Thus shall my anger spend itself, and I will vent my fury upon them and satisfy myself. And they shall know that I am the Lord—that I have spoken in my jealousy—when I spend my fury upon them. [14]†Moreover, I will make you a desolation and an object of reproach among the nations all around you and in the sight of all who pass by. [15]You shall be[1] a reproach and a taunt, a warning and a horror, to the nations all around you, when I execute judgments on you in anger and fury, and with furious rebukes—I am the Lord; I have spoken— [16]† when I send against you[2] the deadly arrows of famine, arrows for destruction, which I will send to destroy you, and when I bring more and more famine upon you and break your supply[3] of bread. [17]I will send famine and wild beasts against you, and they will rob you of your children. Pestilence and blood shall pass through you, and I will bring the sword upon you. I am the Lord; I have spoken.”

Judgment Against Idolatry

6 [1]†The word of the Lord came to me: [2]†“Son of man, set your face toward the mountains of Israel, and prophesy against them, [3]†and say, You mountains of Israel, hear the word of the Lord God! Thus says the Lord God to the mountains and the hills, to the ravines and the valleys: Behold, I, even I, will bring a sword upon you, and I will destroy your high places.
[4]†Your altars shall become desolate, and your incense altars shall be broken, and I will cast down your slain before your idols. [5]†And I will lay the dead bodies of the people of Israel before their idols, and I will scatter your bones around your altars. [6]†Wherever you dwell, the cities shall be waste and the high places ruined, so that your altars will be waste and ruined,[4] your idols broken and destroyed, your incense altars cut down, and your works wiped out. [7]†And the slain shall fall in your midst, and you shall know that I am the Lord.

[8]†“Yet I will leave some of you alive. When you have among the nations some who escape the sword, and when you are scattered through the countries, [9]†then those of you who escape will remember me among the nations where they are carried captive, how I have been broken over their whoring heart that has departed from me and over their eyes that go whoring after their idols. And they will be loathsome in their own sight for the evils that they have committed, for all their abominations. [10]†And they shall know that I am the Lord. I have not said in vain that I would do this evil to them.”

[11]‡†Thus says the Lord God: “Clap your hands and stamp your foot and say, Alas, because of all the evil abominations of the house of Israel, for they shall fall by the sword, by famine, and by pestilence. [12]†He who is far off shall die of pestilence, and he who is near shall fall by the sword, and he who is left and is preserved shall die of famine. Thus I will spend my fury upon them. [13]†And you shall know that I am the Lord, when their slain lie among their idols around their altars, on every high hill, on all the mountaintops, under every green tree, and under every leafy oak, wherever they offered pleasing aroma to all their idols. [14]†And I will stretch out my hand against them and make the land desolate and waste, in all their dwelling places, from the wilderness to Riblah.[1] Then they will know that I am the LORD."

The Day of the Wrath of the Lord

7 [1] †The word of the Lord came to me: [2] †“And you, O son of man, thus says the Lord God to the land of Israel: An end! The end has come upon the four corners of the land.[2] [3] †Now the end is upon you, and I will send my anger upon you; I will judge you according to your ways, and I will punish you for all your abominations. [4] †And my eye will not spare you, nor will I have pity, but I will punish you for your ways, while your abominations are in your midst. Then you will know that I am the Lord.

[5] ‡†“Thus says the Lord God: Disaster after disaster![3] Behold, it comes. [6] †An end has come; the end has come; it has awakened against you. Behold, it comes. [7] †Your doom[4] has come to you, O inhabitant of the land. The time has come; the day is near, a day of tumult, and not of joyful shouting on the mountains. [8] †Now I will soon pour out my wrath upon you, and spend my anger against you, and judge you according to your ways, and I will punish you for all your abominations. [9] †And my eye will not spare, nor will I have pity. I will punish you according to your ways, while your abominations are in your midst. Then you will know that I am the Lord, who strikes.

[10] †“Behold, the day! Behold, it comes! Your doom has come; the rod has blossomed; pride has budded. [11] †Violence has grown up into a rod of wickedness. None of them shall remain, nor their abundance, nor their wealth; neither shall there be preeminence among them.[5] [12] †The time has come; the day has arrived. Let not the buyer rejoice, nor the seller mourn, for wrath is upon all their multitude.[1] [13] †For the seller shall not return to what he has sold, while they live. For the vision concerns all their multitude; it shall not turn back; and because of his iniquity, none can maintain his life.[2]

[14] †“They have blown the trumpet and made everything ready, but none goes to battle, for my wrath is upon all their multitude. [15] †The sword is without; pestilence and famine are within. He who is in the field dies by the sword, and him who is in the city famine and pestilence devour. [16] †And if any survivors escape, they will be on the mountains, like doves of the valleys, all of them moaning, each one over his iniquity. 17 † All hands are feeble, and all knees turn to water. 18 † They put on sackcloth, and horror covers them. Shame is on all faces, and baldness on all their heads.

19 ‡ † They cast their silver into the streets, and their gold is like an unclean thing. Their silver and gold are not able to deliver them in the day of the wrath of the Lord. They cannot satisfy their hunger or fill their stomachs with it. For it was the stumbling block of their iniquity. 20 † His beautiful ornament they used for pride, and they made their abominable images and their detestable things of it. Therefore I make it an unclean thing to them.
21 † And I will give it into the hands of foreigners for prey, and to the wicked of the earth for spoil, and they shall profane it. 22 † I will turn my face from them, and they shall profane my treasured[3] place. Robbers shall enter and profane it.

23 ‡ † "Forge a chain![4] For the land is full of bloody crimes and the city is full of violence. 24 † I will bring the worst of the nations to take possession of their houses. I will put an end to the pride of the strong, and their holy places[5] shall be profaned. 25 † When anguish comes, they will seek peace, but there shall be none. 26 † Disaster comes upon disaster; rumor follows rumor. They seek a vision from the prophet, while the law[6] perishes from the priest and counsel from the elders. 27 † The king mourns, the prince is wrapped in despair, and the hands of the people of the land are paralyzed by terror. According to their way I will do to them, and according to their judgments I will judge them, and they shall know that I am the Lord."

Abominations in the Temple

8 [1]†In the sixth year, in the sixth month, on the fifth day of the month, as I sat in my house, with the elders of Judah sitting before me, the hand of the Lord God fell upon me there. [2]†Then I looked, and behold, a form that had the appearance of a man.[1] Below what appeared to be his waist was fire, and above his waist was something like the appearance of brightness, like gleaming metal.[2] [3]†He put out the form of a hand and took me by a lock of my head, and the Spirit lifted me up between earth and heaven and brought me in visions of God to Jerusalem, to the entrance of the gateway of the inner court that faces north, where was the seat of the image of jealousy, which provokes to jealousy. [4]†And behold, the glory of the God of Israel was there, like the vision that I saw in the valley.

[5]†Then he said to me, "Son of man, lift up your eyes now toward the north." So I lifted up my eyes toward the north, and behold, north of the altar gate, in the entrance, was this image of jealousy. [6]†And he said to me,
"Son of man, do you see what they are doing, the great abominations that the house of Israel are committing here, to drive me far from my sanctuary?
But you will see still greater abominations."

[7]†And he brought me to the entrance of the court, and when I looked, behold, there was a hole in the wall. [8]†Then he said to me, "Son of man, dig in the wall." So I dug in the wall, and behold, there was an entrance. [9]†And he said to me, "Go in, and see the vile abominations that they are committing here." [10]†So I went in and saw. And there, engraved on the wall all around, was every form of creeping things and loathsome beasts, and all the idols of the house of Israel. [11]†And before them stood seventy men of the elders of the house of Israel, with Jaazaniah the son of Shaphan standing among them. Each had his censer in his hand, and the smoke of the cloud of incense went up. [12]†Then he said to me, "Son of man, have you seen what the elders of the house of Israel are doing in the dark, each in his room of pictures? For they say, 'The Lord does not see us, the Lord has forsaken the land.'" [13]He said also to me, "You will see still greater abominations that they commit."

14 †Then he brought me to the entrance of the north gate of the house of the LORD, and behold, there sat women weeping for Tammuz. 15 †Then he said to me, “Have you seen this, O son of man? You will see still greater abominations than these.”
16 †And he brought me into the inner court of the house of the LORD. And behold, at the entrance of the temple of the LORD, between the porch and the altar, were about twenty-five men, with their backs to the temple of the LORD, and their faces toward the east, worshiping the sun toward the east.
17 †Then he said to me, “Have you seen this, O son of man? Is it too light a thing for the house of Judah to commit the abominations that they commit here, that they should fill the land with violence and provoke me still further to anger? Behold, they put the branch to their[1] nose. 18 †Therefore I will act in wrath. My eye will not spare, nor will I have pity. And though they cry in my ears with a loud voice, I will not hear them.”

Idolaters Killed

9 [1]†Then he cried in my ears with a loud voice, saying, “Bring near the executioners of the city, each with his destroying weapon in his hand.”
[2]†And behold, six men came from the direction of the upper gate, which faces north, each with his weapon for slaughter in his hand, and with them was a man clothed in linen, with a writing case at his waist. And they went in and stood beside the bronze altar.

[3]†Now the glory of the God of Israel had gone up from the cherub on which it rested to the threshold of the house. And he called to the man clothed in linen, who had the writing case at his waist. [4]†And the Lord said to him, “Pass through the city, through Jerusalem, and put a mark on the foreheads of the men who sigh and groan over all the abominations that are committed in it.” [5]†And to the others he said in my hearing, “Pass through the city after him, and strike. Your eye shall not spare, and you shall show no pity. [6]†Kill old men outright, young men and maidens, little children and women, but touch no one on whom is the mark. And begin at my sanctuary.” So they began with the elders who were before the house.
[7]†Then he said to them, “Defile the house, and fill the courts with the slain.
Go out.” So they went out and struck in the city. [8]†And while they were striking, and I was left alone, I fell upon my face, and cried, “Ah, Lord God!
Will you destroy all the remnant of Israel in the outpouring of your wrath on Jerusalem?”

[9]†Then he said to me, “The guilt of the house of Israel and Judah is exceedingly great. The land is full of blood, and the city full of injustice.
For they say, ‘The Lord has forsaken the land, and the Lord does not see.’ [10]†As for me, my eye will not spare, nor will I have pity; I will bring their deeds upon their heads.”

[11]†And behold, the man clothed in linen, with the writing case at his waist, brought back word, saying, “I have done as you commanded me.”

The Glory of the Lord Leaves the Temple

10 [1]†Then I looked, and behold, on the expanse that was over the heads of the cherubim there appeared above them something like a sapphire,[1] in appearance like a throne. [2]†And he said to the man clothed in linen, "Go in among the whirling wheels underneath the cherubim. Fill your hands with burning coals from between the cherubim, and scatter them over the city."

And he went in before my eyes. [3]†Now the cherubim were standing on the south side of the house, when the man went in, and a cloud filled the inner court. [4]†And the glory of the Lord went up from the cherub to the threshold of the house, and the house was filled with the cloud, and the court was filled with the brightness of the glory of the Lord. [5]†And the sound of the wings of the cherubim was heard as far as the outer court, like the voice of God Almighty when he speaks.

[6]‡†And when he commanded the man clothed in linen, "Take fire from between the whirling wheels, from between the cherubim," he went in and stood beside a wheel. [7]†And a cherub stretched out his hand from between the cherubim to the fire that was between the cherubim, and took some of it and put it into the hands of the man clothed in linen, who took it and went out. [8]†The cherubim appeared to have the form of a human hand under their wings.

[9]‡†And I looked, and behold, there were four wheels beside the cherubim, one beside each cherub, and the appearance of the wheels was like sparkling beryl. [10]†And as for their appearance, the four had the same likeness, as if a wheel were within a wheel. [11]†When they went, they went in any of their four directions[1] without turning as they went, but in whatever direction the front wheel[2] faced, the others followed without turning as they went. [12]†And their whole body, their rims, and their spokes, their wings,[3] and the wheels were full of eyes all around—the wheels that the four of them had. [13]†As for the wheels, they were called in my hearing "the whirling wheels." [14]†And every one had four faces: the first face was the face of the cherub, and the second face was a human face, and the third the face of a lion, and the fourth the face of an eagle.

15 †And the cherubim mounted up. These were the living creatures that I saw by the Chebar canal. 16And when the cherubim went, the wheels went beside them. And when the cherubim lifted up their wings to mount up from the earth, the wheels did not turn from beside them. 17 †When they stood still, these stood still, and when they mounted up, these mounted up with them, for the spirit of the living creatures[4] was in them.

18 †Then the glory of the Lord went out from the threshold of the house, and stood over the cherubim. 19†And the cherubim lifted up their wings and mounted up from the earth before my eyes as they went out, with the wheels beside them. And they stood at the entrance of the east gate of the house of the Lord, and the glory of the God of Israel was over them.

20 ‡ †These were the living creatures that I saw underneath the God of Israel by the Chebar canal; and I knew that they were cherubim. 21Each had four faces, and each four wings, and underneath their wings the likeness of human hands. 22 †And as for the likeness of their faces, they were the same faces whose appearance I had seen by the Chebar canal. Each one of them went straight forward.

Judgment on Wicked Counselors

11 [1]†‡†The Spirit lifted me up and brought me to the east gate of the house of the Lord, which faces east. And behold, at the entrance of the gateway there were twenty-five men. And I saw among them Jaazaniah the son of Azzur, and Pelatiah the son of Benaiah, princes of the people. [2]‡And he said to me, “Son of man, these are the men who devise iniquity and who give wicked counsel in this city; [3]†who say, ‘The time is not near[5] to build houses. This city is the cauldron, and we are the meat.’ [4]† Therefore prophesy against them, prophesy, O son of man.”

[5]†And the Spirit of the Lord fell upon me, and he said to me, “Say, Thus says the Lord: So you think, O house of Israel. For I know the things that come into your mind. [6]†You have multiplied your slain in this city and have filled its streets with the slain. [7]†Therefore thus says the Lord God: Your slain whom you have laid in the midst of it, they are the meat, and this city is the cauldron, but you shall be brought out of the midst of it. [8]†You have feared the sword, and I will bring the sword upon you, declares the Lord God. [9]†And I will bring you out of the midst of it, and give you into the hands of foreigners, and execute judgments upon you. [10]†You shall fall by the sword. I will judge you at the border of Israel, and you shall know that I am the Lord. [11]†This city shall not be your cauldron, nor shall you be the meat in the midst of it. I will judge you at the border of Israel, [12]†and you shall know that I am the Lord. For you have not walked in my statutes, nor obeyed my rules, but have acted according to the rules of the nations that are around you.”

[13]†And it came to pass, while I was prophesying, that Pelatiah the son of Benaiah died. Then I fell down on my face and cried out with a loud voice and said, “Ah, Lord God! Will you make a full end of the remnant of Israel?”

Israel's New Heart and Spirit

14 ‡† And the word of the Lord came to me: 15 † "Son of man, your brothers, even your brothers, your kinsmen,[1] the whole house of Israel, all of them, are those of whom the inhabitants of Jerusalem have said, 'Go far from the Lord; to us this land is given for a possession.' 16 † Therefore say, 'Thus says the Lord God: Though I removed them far off among the nations, and though I scattered them among the countries, yet I have been a sanctuary to them for a while[2] in the countries where they have gone.' 17 † Therefore say,
'Thus says the Lord God: I will gather you from the peoples and assemble you out of the countries where you have been scattered, and I will give you the land of Israel.' 18 † And when they come there, they will remove from it all its detestable things and all its abominations. 19 ‡† And I will give them one heart, and a new spirit I will put within them. I will remove the heart of stone from their flesh and give them a heart of flesh, 20 † that they may walk in my statutes and keep my rules and obey them. And they shall be my people, and I will be their God. 21 † But as for those whose heart goes after their detestable things and their abominations, I will[1] bring their deeds upon their own heads, declares the Lord God."

22 ‡ Then the cherubim lifted up their wings, with the wheels beside them, and the glory of the God of Israel was over them. 23 † And the glory of the Lord went up from the midst of the city and stood on the mountain that is on the east side of the city. 24 † And the Spirit lifted me up and brought me in the vision by the Spirit of God into Chaldea, to the exiles. Then the vision that I had seen went up from me. 25 † And I told the exiles all the things that the Lord had shown me.

Judah's Captivity Symbolized

12 [1]†The word of the Lord came to me: [2]†"Son of man, you dwell in the midst of a rebellious house, who have eyes to see, but see not, who have ears to hear, but hear not, for they are a rebellious house. [3]††As for you, son of man, prepare for yourself an exile's baggage, and go into exile by day in their sight. You shall go like an exile from your place to another place in their sight. Perhaps they will understand, though[2] they are a rebellious house. [4]†You shall bring out your baggage by day in their sight, as baggage for exile, and you shall go out yourself at evening in their sight, as those do who must go into exile. [5]†In their sight dig through the wall, and bring your baggage out through it. [6]†In their sight you shall lift the baggage upon your shoulder and carry it out at dusk. You shall cover your face that you may not see the land, for I have made you a sign for the house of Israel."

[7]†And I did as I was commanded. I brought out my baggage by day, as baggage for exile, and in the evening I dug through the wall with my own hands. I brought out my baggage at dusk, carrying it on my shoulder in their sight.

[8]In the morning the word of the Lord came to me: [9]†"Son of man, has not the house of Israel, the rebellious house, said to you, 'What are you doing?'
[10]†Say to them, 'Thus says the Lord God: This oracle concerns[1] the prince in Jerusalem and all the house of Israel who are in it.'[2] [11]†Say, 'I am a sign for you: as I have done, so shall it be done to them. They shall go into exile, into captivity.' [12]†And the prince who is among them shall lift his baggage upon his shoulder at dusk, and shall go out. They shall dig through the wall to bring him out through it. He shall cover his face, that he may not see the land with his eyes. [13]†And I will spread my net over him, and he shall be taken in my snare. And I will bring him to Babylon, the land of the Chaldeans, yet he shall not see it, and he shall die there. [14]†And I will scatter toward every wind all who are around him, his helpers and all his troops, and I will unsheathe the sword after them. [15]†And they shall know that I am the Lord, when I disperse them among the nations and scatter them among the countries. [16]†But I will let a few of them escape from the sword, from famine and pestilence, that they may declare all their abominations among the nations where they go, and may know that I am the Lord.”

17 ‡And the word of the Lord came to me: 18 †“Son of man, eat your bread with quaking, and drink water with trembling and with anxiety. 19 †And say to the people of the land, Thus says the Lord God concerning the inhabitants of Jerusalem in the land of Israel: They shall eat their bread with anxiety, and drink water in dismay. In this way her land will be stripped of all it contains, on account of the violence of all those who dwell in it. 20 †And the inhabited cities shall be laid waste, and the land shall become a desolation; and you shall know that I am the Lord.”

21 And the word of the Lord came to me: 22 ‡†“Son of man, what is this proverb that you[3] have about the land of Israel, saying, ‘The days grow long, and every vision comes to nothing’? 23 †Tell them therefore, ‘Thus says the Lord God: I will put an end to this proverb, and they shall no more use it as a proverb in Israel.’ But say to them, The days are near, and the fulfillment[4] of every vision. 24 †For there shall be no more any false vision or flattering divination within the house of Israel. 25 †For I am the Lord; I will speak the word that I will speak, and it will be performed. It will no longer be delayed, but in your days, O rebellious house, I will speak the word and perform it, declares the Lord God.”

26 And the word of the Lord came to me: 27 ‡“Son of man, behold, they of the house of Israel say, ‘The vision that he sees is for many days from now, and he prophesies of times far off.’ 28 Therefore say to them, Thus says the Lord God: None of my words will be delayed any longer, but the word that I speak will be performed, declares the Lord God.”

False Prophets Condemned

13 [1]The word of the Lord came to me: [2]†“Son of man, prophesy against the prophets of Israel, who are prophesying, and say to those who prophesy from their own hearts: ‘Hear the word of the Lord!’ [3]†Thus says the Lord God, Woe to the foolish prophets who follow their own spirit, and have seen nothing! [4]†Your prophets have been like jackals among ruins, O Israel. [5]†You have not gone up into the breaches, or built up a wall for the house of Israel, that it might stand in battle in the day of the Lord. [6]†They have seen false visions and lying divinations. They say, ‘Declares the Lord,’ when the Lord has not sent them, and yet they expect him to fulfill their word. [7]†Have you not seen a false vision and uttered a lying divination, whenever you have said, ‘Declares the Lord,’ although I have not spoken?”

[8]†Therefore thus says the Lord God: “Because you have uttered falsehood and seen lying visions, therefore behold, I am against you, declares the Lord God. [9]†My hand will be against the prophets who see false visions and who give lying divinations. They shall not be in the council of my people, nor be enrolled in the register of the house of Israel, nor shall they enter the land of Israel. And you shall know that I am the Lord God. [10]†Precisely because they have misled my people, saying, ‘Peace,’ when there is no peace, and because, when the people build a wall, these prophets smear it with whitewash,[1] [11]†say to those who smear it with whitewash that it shall fall! There will be a deluge of rain, and you, O great hailstones, will fall, and a stormy wind break out. [12]†And when the wall falls, will it not be said to you, ‘Where is the coating with which you smeared it?’ [13]†Therefore thus says the Lord God: I will make a stormy wind break out in my wrath, and there shall be a deluge of rain in my anger, and great hailstones in wrath to make a full end. [14]And I will break down the wall that you have smeared with whitewash, and bring it down to the ground, so that its foundation will be laid bare. When it falls, you shall perish in the midst of it, and you shall know that I am the Lord. [15]Thus will I spend my wrath upon the wall and upon those who have smeared it with whitewash, and I will say to you, The wall is no more, nor those who smeared it, [16]†the prophets of Israel who prophesied concerning Jerusalem and saw visions of peace for her, when there was no peace, declares the Lord God.

17 † "And you, son of man, set your face against the daughters of your people, who prophesy out of their own minds. Prophesy against them 18 † and say, Thus says the Lord God: Woe to the women who sew magic bands upon all wrists, and make veils for the heads of persons of every stature, in the hunt for souls! Will you hunt down souls belonging to my people and keep your own souls alive? 19 † You have profaned me among my people for handfuls of barley and for pieces of bread, putting to death souls who should not die and keeping alive souls who should not live, by your lying to my people, who listen to lies.

20 † "Therefore thus says the Lord God: Behold, I am against your magic bands with which you hunt the souls like birds, and I will tear them from your arms, and I will let the souls whom you hunt go free, the souls like birds. 21 † Your veils also I will tear off and deliver my people out of your hand, and they shall be no more in your hand as prey, and you shall know that I am the Lord. 22 † Because you have disheartened the righteous falsely, although I have not grieved him, and you have encouraged the wicked, that he should not turn from his evil way to save his life, 23 † therefore you shall no more see false visions nor practice divination. I will deliver my people out of your hand. And you shall know that I am the Lord."

Idolatrous Elders Condemned

14 [1]†† Then certain of the elders of Israel came to me and sat before me. [2]And the word of the Lord came to me: [3]† "Son of man, these men have taken their idols into their hearts, and set the stumbling block of their iniquity before their faces. Should I indeed let myself be consulted by them? [4]† Therefore speak to them and say to them, Thus says the Lord God:
Any one of the house of Israel who takes his idols into his heart and sets the stumbling block of his iniquity before his face, and yet comes to the prophet, I the Lord will answer him as he comes with the multitude of his idols, [5]that I may lay hold of the hearts of the house of Israel, who are all estranged from me through their idols.

[6]† "Therefore say to the house of Israel, Thus says the Lord God: Repent and turn away from your idols, and turn away your faces from all your abominations. [7]† For any one of the house of Israel, or of the strangers who sojourn in Israel, who separates himself from me, taking his idols into his heart and putting the stumbling block of his iniquity before his face, and yet comes to a prophet to consult me through him, I the Lord will answer him myself. [8]† And I will set my face against that man; I will make him a sign and a byword and cut him off from the midst of my people, and you shall know that I am the Lord. [9]† And if the prophet is deceived and speaks a word, I, the Lord, have deceived that prophet, and I will stretch out my hand against him and will destroy him from the midst of my people Israel. [10]And they shall bear their punishment[1]—the punishment of the prophet and the punishment of the inquirer shall be alike— [11]† that the house of Israel may no more go astray from me, nor defile themselves anymore with all their transgressions, but that they may be my people and I may be their God, declares the Lord God."

Jerusalem Will Not Be Spared

12 ‡ ‡ And the word of the Lord came to me: 13 “Son of man, when a land sins against me by acting faithlessly, and I stretch out my hand against it and break its supply[2] of bread and send famine upon it, and cut off from it man and beast, 14 † even if these three men, Noah, Daniel, and Job, were in it, they would deliver but their own lives by their righteousness, declares the Lord God.

15 ‡ “If I cause wild beasts to pass through the land, and they ravage it, and it be made desolate, so that no one may pass through because of the beasts, 16 even if these three men were in it, as I live, declares the Lord God, they would deliver neither sons nor daughters. They alone would be delivered, but the land would be desolate.

17 † “Or if I bring a sword upon that land and say, Let a sword pass through the land, and I cut off from it man and beast, 18 though these three men were in it, as I live, declares the Lord God, they would deliver neither sons nor daughters, but they alone would be delivered.

19 † “Or if I send a pestilence into that land and pour out my wrath upon it with blood, to cut off from it man and beast, 20 even if Noah, Daniel, and Job were in it, as I live, declares the Lord God, they would deliver neither son nor daughter. They would deliver but their own lives by their righteousness.

21 † “For thus says the Lord God: How much more when I send upon Jerusalem my four disastrous acts of judgment, sword, famine, wild beasts, and pestilence, to cut off from it man and beast! 22 † But behold, some survivors will be left in it, sons and daughters who will be brought out; behold, when they come out to you, and you see their ways and their deeds, you will be consoled for the disaster that I have brought upon Jerusalem, for all that I have brought upon it. 23 † They will console you, when you see their ways and their deeds, and you shall know that I have not done without cause all that I have done in it, declares the Lord God.”

Jerusalem, a Useless Vine

15 [1]And the word of the Lord came to me: [2]“Son of man, how does the wood of the vine surpass any wood, the vine branch that is among the trees of the forest? [3]Is wood taken from it to make anything? Do people take a peg from it to hang any vessel on it? [4]Behold, it is given to the fire for fuel. When the fire has consumed both ends of it, and the middle of it is charred, is it useful for anything? [5]Behold, when it was whole, it was used for nothing. How much less, when the fire has consumed it and it is charred, can it ever be used for anything! [6]Therefore thus says the Lord God: Like the wood of the vine among the trees of the forest, which I have given to the fire for fuel, so have I given up the inhabitants of Jerusalem. [7]And I will set my face against them. Though they escape from the fire, the fire shall yet consume them, and you will know that I am the Lord, when I set my face against them. [8]And I will make the land desolate, because they have acted faithlessly, declares the Lord God.”

The Lord's Faithless Bride

16 [1]Again the word of the Lord came to me: [2]"Son of man, make known to Jerusalem her abominations, [3]and say, Thus says the Lord God to Jerusalem: Your origin and your birth are of the land of the Canaanites; your father was an Amorite and your mother a Hittite. [4]And as for your birth, on the day you were born your cord was not cut, nor were you washed with water to cleanse you, nor rubbed with salt, nor wrapped in swaddling cloths. [5]No eye pitied you, to do any of these things to you out of compassion for you, but you were cast out on the open field, for you were abhorred, on the day that you were born.

[6]"And when I passed by you and saw you wallowing in your blood, I said to you in your blood, 'Live!' I said to you in your blood, 'Live!' [7]I made you flourish like a plant of the field. And you grew up and became tall and arrived at full adornment. Your breasts were formed, and your hair had grown; yet you were naked and bare.

[8]"When I passed by you again and saw you, behold, you were at the age for love, and I spread the corner of my garment over you and covered your nakedness; I made my vow to you and entered into a covenant with you, declares the Lord God, and you became mine. [9]Then I bathed you with water and washed off your blood from you and anointed you with oil. [10]I clothed you also with embroidered cloth and shod you with fine leather. I wrapped you in fine linen and covered you with silk.[1] [11]And I adorned you with ornaments and put bracelets on your wrists and a chain on your neck. [12]And I put a ring on your nose and earrings in your ears and a beautiful crown on your head. [13]Thus you were adorned with gold and silver, and your clothing was of fine linen and silk and embroidered cloth. You ate fine flour and honey and oil. You grew exceedingly beautiful and advanced to royalty. [14]And your renown went forth among the nations because of your beauty, for it was perfect through the splendor that I had bestowed on you, declares the Lord God.

[15]"But you trusted in your beauty and played the whore[2] because of your renown and lavished your whorings[3] on any passerby; your beauty[4] became his. 16 † You took some of your garments and made for yourself colorful shrines, and on them played the whore. The like has never been, nor ever shall be.[5] 17 † You also took your beautiful jewels of my gold and of my silver, which I had given you, and made for yourself images of men, and with them played the whore. 18 † And you took your embroidered garments to cover them, and set my oil and my incense before them. 19 Also my bread that I gave you—I fed you with fine flour and oil and honey—you set before them for a pleasing aroma; and so it was, declares the Lord God.

20 † And you took your sons and your daughters, whom you had borne to me, and these you sacrificed to them to be devoured. Were your whorings so small a matter 21 that you slaughtered my children and delivered them up as an offering by fire to them? 22 And in all your abominations and your whorings you did not remember the days of your youth, when you were naked and bare, wallowing in your blood.

23 † "And after all your wickedness (woe, woe to you! declares the Lord God), 24 † you built yourself a vaulted chamber and made yourself a lofty place in every square. 25 † At the head of every street you built your lofty place and made your beauty an abomination, offering yourself[6] to any passerby and multiplying your whoring. 26 † † You also played the whore with the Egyptians, your lustful neighbors, multiplying your whoring, to provoke me to anger. 27 † Behold, therefore, I stretched out my hand against you and diminished your allotted portion and delivered you to the greed of your enemies, the daughters of the Philistines, who were ashamed of your lewd behavior. 28 † You played the whore also with the Assyrians, because you were not satisfied; yes, you played the whore with them, and still you were not satisfied. 29 † You multiplied your whoring also with the trading land of Chaldea, and even with this you were not satisfied.

30 † "How sick is your heart,[1] declares the Lord God, because you did all these things, the deeds of a brazen prostitute, 31 † building your vaulted chamber at the head of every street, and making your lofty place in every square. Yet you were not like a prostitute, because you scorned payment.
32 † † Adulterous wife, who receives strangers instead of her husband! 33 Men give gifts to all prostitutes, but you gave your gifts to all your lovers, bribing them to come to you from every side with your whorings. 34 So you were different from other women in your whorings. No one solicited you to play the whore, and you gave payment, while no payment was given to you; therefore you were different.

35 “Therefore, O prostitute, hear the word of the Lord: 36 Thus says the Lord God, Because your lust was poured out and your nakedness uncovered in your whorings with your lovers, and with all your abominable idols, and because of the blood of your children that you gave to them, 37 therefore, behold, I will gather all your lovers with whom you took pleasure, all those you loved and all those you hated. I will gather them against you from every side and will uncover your nakedness to them, that they may see all your nakedness. 38 And I will judge you as women who commit adultery and shed blood are judged, and bring upon you the blood of wrath and jealousy. 39 And I will give you into their hands, and they shall throw down your vaulted chamber and break down your lofty places. They shall strip you of your clothes and take your beautiful jewels and leave you naked and bare. 40 They shall bring up a crowd against you, and they shall stone you and cut you to pieces with their swords. 41 And they shall burn your houses and execute judgments upon you in the sight of many women. I will make you stop playing the whore, and you shall also give payment no more. 42 So will I satisfy my wrath on you, and my jealousy shall depart from you. I will be calm and will no more be angry. 43 Because you have not remembered the days of your youth, but have enraged me with all these things, therefore, behold, I have returned your deeds upon your head, declares the Lord God. Have you not committed lewdness in addition to all your abominations?

44 “Behold, everyone who uses proverbs will use this proverb about you: ‘Like mother, like daughter.’ 45 You are the daughter of your mother, who loathed her husband and her children; and you are the sister of your sisters, who loathed their husbands and their children. Your mother was a Hittite and your father an Amorite. 46 And your elder sister is Samaria, who lived with her daughters to the north of you; and your younger sister, who lived to the south of you, is Sodom with her daughters. 47 Not only did you walk in their ways and do according to their abominations; within a very little time you were more corrupt than they in all your ways. 48 As I live, declares the Lord God, your sister Sodom and her daughters have not done as you and your daughters have done. 49 Behold, this was the guilt of your sister

Sodom: she and her daughters had pride, excess of food, and prosperous ease, but did not aid the poor and needy. 50They were haughty and did an abomination before me. So I removed them, when I saw it. 51†Samaria has not committed half your sins. You have committed more abominations than they, and have made your sisters appear righteous by all the abominations that you have committed. 52† Bear your disgrace, you also, for you have intervened on behalf of your sisters. Because of your sins in which you acted more abominably than they, they are more in the right than you. So be ashamed, you also, and bear your disgrace, for you have made your sisters appear righteous.

53† "I will restore their fortunes, both the fortunes of Sodom and her daughters, and the fortunes of Samaria and her daughters, and I will restore your own fortunes in their midst, 54†that you may bear your disgrace and be ashamed of all that you have done, becoming a consolation to them. 55As for your sisters, Sodom and her daughters shall return to their former state, and Samaria and her daughters shall return to their former state, and you and your daughters shall return to your former state. 56†Was not your sister Sodom a byword in your mouth in the day of your pride, 57†before your wickedness was uncovered? Now you have become an object of reproach for the daughters of Syria[1] and all those around her, and for the daughters of the Philistines, those all around who despise you. 58You bear the penalty of your lewdness and your abominations, declares the Lord.

The Lord's Everlasting Covenant

59 ‡ ‡ "For thus says the Lord God: I will deal with you as you have done, you who have despised the oath in breaking the covenant, 60 † yet I will remember my covenant with you in the days of your youth, and I will establish for you an everlasting covenant. 61 † Then you will remember your ways and be ashamed when you take your sisters, both your elder and your younger, and I give them to you as daughters, but not on account of[1] the covenant with you. 62 † I will establish my covenant with you, and you shall know that I am the Lord, 63 † that you may remember and be confounded, and never open your mouth again because of your shame, when I atone for you for all that you have done, declares the Lord God."

Parable of Two Eagles and a Vine

17 [1]The word of the Lord came to me: [2]†“Son of man, propound a riddle, and speak a parable to the house of Israel; [3]†say, Thus says the Lord God: A great eagle with great wings and long pinions, rich in plumage of many colors, came to Lebanon and took the top of the cedar. [4]†He broke off the topmost of its young twigs and carried it to a land of trade and set it in a city of merchants. [5]†Then he took of the seed of the land and planted it in fertile soil.[2] He placed it beside abundant waters. He set it like a willow twig, [6]†and it sprouted and became a low spreading vine, and its branches turned toward him, and its roots remained where it stood. So it became a vine and produced branches and put out boughs.

[7] †“And there was another great eagle with great wings and much plumage, and behold, this vine bent its roots toward him and shot forth its branches toward him from the bed where it was planted, that he might water it. [8]†It had been planted on good soil by abundant waters, that it might produce branches and bear fruit and become a noble vine.

[9]†“Say, Thus says the Lord God: Will it thrive? Will he not pull up its roots and cut off its fruit, so that it withers, so that all its fresh sprouting leaves wither? It will not take a strong arm or many people to pull it from its roots. [10]†Behold, it is planted; will it thrive? Will it not utterly wither when the east wind strikes it—wither away on the bed where it sprouted?”

[11]Then the word of the Lord came to me: [12]†“Say now to the rebellious house, Do you not know what these things mean? Tell them, behold, the king of Babylon came to Jerusalem, and took her king and her princes and brought them to him to Babylon. [13]†And he took one of the royal offspring[3] and made a covenant with him, putting him under oath (the chief men of the land he had taken away), [14]†that the kingdom might be humble and not lift itself up, and keep his covenant that it might stand. [15]†But he rebelled against him by sending his ambassadors to Egypt, that they might give him horses and a large army. Will he thrive? Can one escape who does such things? Can he break the covenant and yet escape?

16 † “As I live, declares the Lord God, surely in the place where the king dwells who made him king, whose oath he despised, and whose covenant with him he broke, in Babylon he shall die. 17 † Pharaoh with his mighty army and great company will not help him in war, when mounds are cast up and siege walls built to cut off many lives. 18 He despised the oath in breaking the covenant, and behold, he gave his hand and did all these things; he shall not escape. 19 † Therefore thus says the Lord God: As I live, surely it is my oath that he despised, and my covenant that he broke. I will return it upon his head. 20 † I will spread my net over him, and he shall be taken in my snare, and I will bring him to Babylon and enter into judgment with him there for the treachery he has committed against me. 21 † And all the pick[1] of his troops shall fall by the sword, and the survivors shall be scattered to every wind, and you shall know that I am the Lord; I have spoken.”

22 †† Thus says the Lord God: “I myself will take a sprig from the lofty top of the cedar and will set it out. I will break off from the topmost of its young twigs a tender one, and I myself will plant it on a high and lofty mountain. 23 † On the mountain height of Israel will I plant it, that it may bear branches and produce fruit and become a noble cedar. And under it will dwell every kind of bird; in the shade of its branches birds of every sort will nest. 24 † And all the trees of the field shall know that I am the Lord; I bring low the high tree, and make high the low tree, dry up the green tree, and make the dry tree flourish. I am the Lord; I have spoken, and I will do it.”

The Soul Who Sins Shall Die

18 [1]The word of the Lord came to me: [2]†"What do you[2] mean by repeating this proverb concerning the land of Israel, 'The fathers have eaten sour grapes, and the children's teeth are set on edge'? [3]As I live, declares the Lord God, this proverb shall no more be used by you in Israel. [4]†Behold, all souls are mine; the soul of the father as well as the soul of the son is mine: the soul who sins shall die.

[5]‡†"If a man is righteous and does what is just and right— [6]‡†if he does not eat upon the mountains or lift up his eyes to the idols of the house of Israel, does not defile his neighbor's wife or approach a woman in her time of menstrual impurity, [7]†does not oppress anyone, but restores to the debtor his pledge, commits no robbery, gives his bread to the hungry and covers the naked with a garment, [8]†does not lend at interest or take any profit,[1] withholds his hand from injustice, executes true justice between man and man, [9]†walks in my statutes, and keeps my rules by acting faithfully—he is righteous; he shall surely live, declares the Lord God.

[10]‡"If he fathers a son who is violent, a shedder of blood, who does any of these things [11](though he himself did none of these things), who even eats upon the mountains, defiles his neighbor's wife, [12]oppresses the poor and needy, commits robbery, does not restore the pledge, lifts up his eyes to the idols, commits abomination, [13]†lends at interest, and takes profit; shall he then live? He shall not live. He has done all these abominations; he shall surely die; his blood shall be upon himself.

[14]‡†"Now suppose this man fathers a son who sees all the sins that his father has done; he sees, and does not do likewise: [15]he does not eat upon the mountains or lift up his eyes to the idols of the house of Israel, does not defile his neighbor's wife, [16]does not oppress anyone, exacts no pledge, commits no robbery, but gives his bread to the hungry and covers the naked with a garment, [17]†withholds his hand from iniquity,[2] takes no interest or profit, obeys my rules, and walks in my statutes; he shall not die for his father's iniquity; he shall surely live. [18]† As for his father, because he practiced extortion, robbed his brother, and did what is not good among his people, behold, he shall die for his iniquity.

19 ‡ “Yet you say, ‘Why should not the son suffer for the iniquity of the father?’ When the son has done what is just and right, and has been careful to observe all my statutes, he shall surely live. 20 The soul who sins shall die. The son shall not suffer for the iniquity of the father, nor the father suffer for the iniquity of the son. The righteousness of the righteous shall be upon himself, and the wickedness of the wicked shall be upon himself.

21 ‡ † “But if a wicked person turns away from all his sins that he has committed and keeps all my statutes and does what is just and right, he shall surely live; he shall not die. 22 † None of the transgressions that he has committed shall be remembered against him; for the righteousness that he has done he shall live. 23 † Have I any pleasure in the death of the wicked, declares the Lord God, and not rather that he should turn from his way and live? 24 † But when a righteous person turns away from his righteousness and does injustice and does the same abominations that the wicked person does, shall he live? None of the righteous deeds that he has done shall be remembered; for the treachery of which he is guilty and the sin he has committed, for them he shall die.

25 † “Yet you say, ‘The way of the Lord is not just.’ Hear now, O house of Israel: Is my way not just? Is it not your ways that are not just? 26 When a righteous person turns away from his righteousness and does injustice, he shall die for it; for the injustice that he has done he shall die. 27 † Again, when a wicked person turns away from the wickedness he has committed and does what is just and right, he shall save his life. 28 Because he considered and turned away from all the transgressions that he had committed, he shall surely live; he shall not die. 29 Yet the house of Israel says, ‘The way of the Lord is not just.’ O house of Israel, are my ways not just? Is it not your ways that are not just?

30 † “Therefore I will judge you, O house of Israel, every one according to his ways, declares the Lord God. Repent and turn from all your transgressions, lest iniquity be your ruin.[1] 31 † Cast away from you all the transgressions that you have committed, and make yourselves a new heart and a new spirit! Why will you die, O house of Israel? 32 † For I have no pleasure in the death of anyone, declares the Lord God; so turn, and live.”

A Lament for the Princes of Israel

19 [1]†And you, take up a lamentation for the princes of Israel, [2]†and say:

What was your mother? A lioness!
Among lions she crouched;
in the midst of young lions she reared her cubs.
[3]† And she brought up one of her cubs;
he became a young lion,
and he learned to catch prey;
he devoured men.
[4]† The nations heard about him;
he was caught in their pit,
and they brought him with hooks
to the land of Egypt.
[5]† When she saw that she waited in vain,
that her hope was lost,
she took another of her cubs
and made him a young lion.
[6]† He prowled among the lions;
he became a young lion,
and he learned to catch prey;
he devoured men,
[7]† and seized[1] their widows.
He laid waste their cities, and the land was appalled and all who were in it
at the sound of his roaring.
[8]†† Then the nations set against him from provinces on every side;
they spread their net over him;
he was taken in their pit.

9 With hooks they put him in a cage[2] and brought him to the king of Babylon;
they brought him into custody,
that his voice should no more be heard on the mountains of Israel.

10 Your mother was like a vine in a vineyard[3]
planted by the water, fruitful and full of branches
by reason of abundant water.

11 Its strong stems became rulers' scepters;
it towered aloft
among the thick boughs;[4]
it was seen in its height with the mass of its branches.

12 But the vine was plucked up in fury,
cast down to the ground;
the east wind dried up its fruit;
they were stripped off and withered.
As for its strong stem,
fire consumed it.

13 Now it is planted in the wilderness,
in a dry and thirsty land.

14 And fire has gone out from the stem of its shoots,
has consumed its fruit,
so that there remains in it no strong stem,
no scepter for ruling.

This is a lamentation and has become a lamentation.

Israel's Continuing Rebellion

20 [1]‡‡†In the seventh year, in the fifth month, on the tenth day of the month, certain of the elders of Israel came to inquire of the Lord, and sat before me. [2]And the word of the Lord came to me: [3]†"Son of man, speak to the elders of Israel, and say to them, Thus says the Lord God, Is it to inquire of me that you come? As I live, declares the Lord God, I will not be inquired of by you. [4]†Will you judge them, son of man, will you judge them? Let them know the abominations of their fathers, [5]‡†and say to them, Thus says the Lord God: On the day when I chose Israel, I swore[1] to the offspring of the house of Jacob, making myself known to them in the land of Egypt; I swore to them, saying, I am the Lord your God. [6]†On that day I swore to them that I would bring them out of the land of Egypt into a land that I had searched out for them, a land flowing with milk and honey, the most glorious of all lands. [7]†And I said to them, Cast away the detestable things your eyes feast on, every one of you, and do not defile yourselves with the idols of Egypt; I am the Lord your God. [8]†But they rebelled against me and were not willing to listen to me. None of them cast away the detestable things their eyes feasted on, nor did they forsake the idols of Egypt.

"Then I said I would pour out my wrath upon them and spend my anger against them in the midst of the land of Egypt. [9]†But I acted for the sake of my name, that it should not be profaned in the sight of the nations among whom they lived, in whose sight I made myself known to them in bringing them out of the land of Egypt. [10]So I led them out of the land of Egypt and brought them into the wilderness. [11]†I gave them my statutes and made known to them my rules, by which, if a person does them, he shall live. [12]†Moreover, I gave them my Sabbaths, as a sign between me and them, that they might know that I am the Lord who sanctifies them. [13]But the house of Israel rebelled against me in the wilderness. They did not walk in my statutes but rejected my rules, by which, if a person does them, he shall live; and my Sabbaths they greatly profaned.

"Then I said I would pour out my wrath upon them in the wilderness, to make a full end of them. [14]†But I acted for the sake of my name, that it should not be profaned in the sight of the nations, in whose sight I had brought them out. 15 † Moreover, I swore to them in the wilderness that I would not bring them into the land that I had given them, a land flowing with milk and honey, the most glorious of all lands, 16 because they rejected my rules and did not walk in my statutes, and profaned my Sabbaths; for their heart went after their idols. 17 Nevertheless, my eye spared them, and I did not destroy them or make a full end of them in the wilderness.

18 ‡ † "And I said to their children in the wilderness, Do not walk in the statutes of your fathers, nor keep their rules, nor defile yourselves with their idols. 19 I am the Lord your God; walk in my statutes, and be careful to obey my rules, 20 and keep my Sabbaths holy that they may be a sign between me and you, that you may know that I am the Lord your God. 21 † But the children rebelled against me. They did not walk in my statutes and were not careful to obey my rules, by which, if a person does them, he shall live;
they profaned my Sabbaths.

"Then I said I would pour out my wrath upon them and spend my anger against them in the wilderness. 22 † But I withheld my hand and acted for the sake of my name, that it should not be profaned in the sight of the nations, in whose sight I had brought them out. 23 † Moreover, I swore to them in the wilderness that I would scatter them among the nations and disperse them through the countries, 24 because they had not obeyed my rules, but had rejected my statutes and profaned my Sabbaths, and their eyes were set on their fathers' idols. 25 † Moreover, I gave them statutes that were not good and rules by which they could not have life, 26 and I defiled them through their very gifts in their offering up all their firstborn, that I might devastate them. I did it that they might know that I am the Lord.

27 † "Therefore, son of man, speak to the house of Israel and say to them, Thus says the Lord God: In this also your fathers blasphemed me, by dealing treacherously with me. 28 ‡ For when I had brought them into the land that I swore to give them, then wherever they saw any high hill or any leafy tree, there they offered their sacrifices and there they presented the provocation of their offering; there they sent up their pleasing aromas, and there they poured out their drink offerings. 29 (I said to them, What is the high place to which you go? So its name is called Bamah[1] to this day.)

30 † "Therefore say to the house of Israel, Thus says the Lord God: Will you defile yourselves after the manner of your fathers and go whoring after their detestable things? 31 † When you present your gifts and offer up your children in fire,[2] you defile yourselves with all your idols to this day. And shall I be inquired of by you, O house of Israel? As I live, declares the Lord God, I will not be inquired of by you.

32 † "What is in your mind shall never happen—the thought, 'Let us be like the nations, like the tribes of the countries, and worship wood and stone.'

The Lord Will Restore Israel

33 ‡ ‡ ‡ “As I live, declares the Lord God, surely with a mighty hand and an outstretched arm and with wrath poured out I will be king over you. 34 I will bring you out from the peoples and gather you out of the countries where you are scattered, with a mighty hand and an outstretched arm, and with wrath poured out. 35 And I will bring you into the wilderness of the peoples, and there I will enter into judgment with you face to face. 36 As I entered into judgment with your fathers in the wilderness of the land of Egypt, so I will enter into judgment with you, declares the Lord God. 37 † I will make you pass under the rod, and I will bring you into the bond of the covenant.
38 † I will purge out the rebels from among you, and those who transgress against me. I will bring them out of the land where they sojourn, but they shall not enter the land of Israel. Then you will know that I am the Lord.

39 † “As for you, O house of Israel, thus says the Lord God: Go serve every one of you his idols, now and hereafter, if you will not listen to me; but my holy name you shall no more profane with your gifts and your idols.

40 † “For on my holy mountain, the mountain height of Israel, declares the Lord God, there all the house of Israel, all of them, shall serve me in the land. There I will accept them, and there I will require your contributions and the choicest of your gifts, with all your sacred offerings. 41 † As a pleasing aroma I will accept you, when I bring you out from the peoples and gather you out of the countries where you have been scattered. And I will manifest my holiness among you in the sight of the nations. 42 And you shall know that I am the Lord, when I bring you into the land of Israel, the country that I swore to give to your fathers. 43 † And there you shall remember your ways and all your deeds with which you have defiled yourselves, and you shall loathe yourselves for all the evils that you have committed. 44 And you shall know that I am the Lord, when I deal with you for my name’s sake, not according to your evil ways, nor according to your corrupt deeds, O house of Israel, declares the Lord God.”

45 † [1] And the word of the Lord came to me: 46 † “Son of man, set your face toward the southland;[2] preach against the south, and prophesy against the forest land in the Negeb. 47 † Say to the forest of the Negeb, Hear the word of the LORD: Thus says the Lord GOD, Behold, I will kindle a fire in you, and it shall devour every green tree in you and every dry tree. The blazing flame shall not be quenched, and all faces from south to north shall be scorched by it. [48]All flesh shall see that I the LORD have kindled it; it shall not be quenched.” [49]†Then I said, “Ah, Lord GOD! They are saying of me, ‘Is he not a maker of parables?’”

The Lord Has Drawn His Sword

21 1 † [3] The word of the Lord came to me: 2 †“Son of man, set your face toward Jerusalem and preach against the sanctuaries.[4] Prophesy against the land of Israel 3 †and say to the land of Israel, Thus says the Lord: Behold, I am against you and will draw my sword from its sheath and will cut off from you both righteous and wicked. 4Because I will cut off from you both righteous and wicked, therefore my sword shall be drawn from its sheath against all flesh from south to north. 5And all flesh shall know that I am the Lord. I have drawn my sword from its sheath; it shall not be sheathed again.

6 †“As for you, son of man, groan; with breaking heart and bitter grief, groan before their eyes. 7 †And when they say to you, ‘Why do you groan?’
you shall say, ‘Because of the news that it is coming. Every heart will melt, and all hands will be feeble; every spirit will faint, and all knees will be weak as water. Behold, it is coming, and it will be fulfilled,’” declares the Lord God.

8And the word of the Lord came to me: 9 †“Son of man, prophesy and say,
Thus says the Lord, say:

“A sword, a sword is sharpened and also polished, 10 † sharpened for slaughter,
polished to flash like lightning!

(Or shall we rejoice? You have despised the rod, my son, with everything of wood.)[5] 11So the sword is given to be polished, that it may be grasped in the hand. It is sharpened and polished to be given into the hand of the slayer. 12 †Cry out and wail, son of man, for it is against my people. It is against all the princes of Israel. They are delivered over to the sword with my people. Strike therefore upon your thigh. 13 †For it will not be a testing—what could it do if you despise the rod?”[6] declares the Lord God.

14 †“As for you, son of man, prophesy. Clap your hands and let the sword come down twice, yes, three times,[7] the sword for those to be slain. It is the sword for the great slaughter, which surrounds them, 15 † that their hearts may melt, and many stumble.[8] At all their gates I have given the glittering sword. Ah, it is made like lightning; it is taken up[9] for slaughter. 16 Cut sharply to the right; set yourself to the left, wherever your face is directed.

17 † I also will clap my hands, and I will satisfy my fury; I the Lord have spoken."

18 ‡ The word of the Lord came to me again: 19 ‡ † "As for you, son of man, mark two ways for the sword of the king of Babylon to come. Both of them shall come from the same land. And make a signpost; make it at the head of the way to a city. 20 † Mark a way for the sword to come to Rabbah of the Ammonites and to Judah, into Jerusalem the fortified. 21 † For the king of Babylon stands at the parting of the way, at the head of the two ways, to use divination. He shakes the arrows; he consults the teraphim;[1] he looks at the liver. 22 † Into his right hand comes the divination for Jerusalem, to set battering rams, to open the mouth with murder, to lift up the voice with shouting, to set battering rams against the gates, to cast up mounds, to build siege towers. 23 † But to them it will seem like a false divination. They have sworn solemn oaths, but he brings their guilt to remembrance, that they may be taken.

24 ‡ † "Therefore thus says the Lord God: Because you have made your guilt to be remembered, in that your transgressions are uncovered, so that in all your deeds your sins appear—because you have come to remembrance, you shall be taken in hand. 25 † And you, O profane[2] wicked one, prince of Israel, whose day has come, the time of your final punishment, 26 † thus says the Lord God: Remove the turban and take off the crown. Things shall not remain as they are. Exalt that which is low, and bring low that which is exalted. 27 † A ruin, ruin, ruin I will make it. This also shall not be, until he comes, the one to whom judgment belongs, and I will give it to him.

28 ‡ ‡ † "And you, son of man, prophesy, and say, Thus says the Lord God concerning the Ammonites and concerning their reproach; say, A sword, a sword is drawn for the slaughter. It is polished to consume and to flash like lightning— 29 † while they see for you false visions, while they divine lies for you—to place you on the necks of the profane wicked, whose day has come, the time of their final punishment. 30 † Return it to its sheath. In the place where you were created, in the land of your origin, I will judge you.

[31]†And I will pour out my indignation upon you; I will blow upon you with the fire of my wrath, and I will deliver you into the hands of brutish men, skillful to destroy. [32]You shall be fuel for the fire. Your blood shall be in the midst of the land. You shall be no more remembered, for I the Lord have spoken.”

Israel's Shedding of Blood

22 [1]And the word of the Lord came to me, saying, [2]"And you, son of man, will you judge, will you judge the bloody city? Then declare to her all her abominations. [3]You shall say, Thus says the Lord God: A city that sheds blood in her midst, so that her time may come, and that makes idols to defile herself! [4]You have become guilty by the blood that you have shed, and defiled by the idols that you have made, and you have brought your days near, the appointed time of[1] your years has come. Therefore I have made you a reproach to the nations, and a mockery to all the countries. [5]Those who are near and those who are far from you will mock you; your name is defiled; you are full of tumult.

[6]"Behold, the princes of Israel in you, every one according to his power, have been bent on shedding blood. [7]Father and mother are treated with contempt in you; the sojourner suffers extortion in your midst; the fatherless and the widow are wronged in you. [8]You have despised my holy things and profaned my Sabbaths. [9]There are men in you who slander to shed blood, and people in you who eat on the mountains; they commit lewdness in your midst. [10]In you men uncover their fathers' nakedness; in you they violate women who are unclean in their menstrual impurity. [11]One commits abomination with his neighbor's wife; another lewdly defiles his daughter-in-law; another in you violates his sister, his father's daughter. [12]In you they take bribes to shed blood; you take interest and profit[2] and make gain of your neighbors by extortion; but me you have forgotten, declares the Lord God.

[13]"Behold, I strike my hand at the dishonest gain that you have made, and at the blood that has been in your midst. [14]Can your courage endure, or can your hands be strong, in the days that I shall deal with you? I the Lord have spoken, and I will do it. [15]I will scatter you among the nations and disperse you through the countries, and I will consume your uncleanness out of you. [16]And you shall be profaned by your own doing in the sight of the nations, and you shall know that I am the Lord."

[17]And the word of the Lord came to me: [18]†“Son of man, the house of Israel has become dross to me; all of them are bronze and tin and iron and lead in the furnace; they are dross of silver. [19]Therefore thus says the Lord God: Because you have all become dross, therefore, behold, I will gather you into the midst of Jerusalem. [20]†As one gathers silver and bronze and iron and lead and tin into a furnace, to blow the fire on it in order to melt it, so I will gather you in my anger and in my wrath, and I will put you in and melt you. [21]I will gather you and blow on you with the fire of my wrath, and you shall be melted in the midst of it. [22]As silver is melted in a furnace, so you shall be melted in the midst of it, and you shall know that I am the Lord; I have poured out my wrath upon you.”

[23]And the word of the Lord came to me: [24]†“Son of man, say to her, You are a land that is not cleansed or rained upon in the day of indignation.
[25]†The conspiracy of her prophets in her midst is like a roaring lion tearing the prey; they have devoured human lives; they have taken treasure and precious things; they have made many widows in her midst. [26]†Her priests have done violence to my law and have profaned my holy things. They have made no distinction between the holy and the common, neither have they taught the difference between the unclean and the clean, and they have disregarded my Sabbaths, so that I am profaned among them. [27]†Her princes in her midst are like wolves tearing the prey, shedding blood, destroying lives to get dishonest gain. [28]†And her prophets have smeared whitewash for them, seeing false visions and divining lies for them, saying, ‘Thus says the Lord God,’ when the Lord has not spoken. [29]The people of the land have practiced extortion and committed robbery. They have oppressed the poor and needy, and have extorted from the sojourner without justice. [30]†And I sought for a man among them who should build up the wall and stand in the breach before me for the land, that I should not destroy it, but I found none.
[31]†Therefore I have poured out my indignation upon them. I have consumed them with the fire of my wrath. I have returned their way upon their heads, declares the Lord God.”

Oholah and Oholibah

23 [1]The word of the Lord came to me: [2]†“Son of man, there were two women, the daughters of one mother. [3]†They played the whore in Egypt; they played the whore in their youth; there their breasts were pressed and their virgin bosoms[1] handled. [4]†Oholah was the name of the elder and Oholibah the name of her sister. They became mine, and they bore sons and daughters. As for their names, Oholah is Samaria, and Oholibah is Jerusalem.

[5]†“Oholah played the whore while she was mine, and she lusted after her lovers the Assyrians, warriors [6]† clothed in purple, governors and commanders, all of them desirable young men, horsemen riding on horses.
[7]She bestowed her whoring upon them, the choicest men of Assyria all of them, and she defiled herself with all the idols of everyone after whom she lusted. [8]She did not give up her whoring that she had begun in Egypt; for in her youth men had lain with her and handled her virgin bosom and poured out their whoring lust upon her. [9]Therefore I delivered her into the hands of her lovers, into the hands of the Assyrians, after whom she lusted. [10]†These uncovered her nakedness; they seized her sons and her daughters; and as for her, they killed her with the sword; and she became a byword among women, when judgment had been executed on her.

[11]†“Her sister Oholibah saw this, and she became more corrupt than her sister[1] in her lust and in her whoring, which was worse than that of her sister. [12]† She lusted after the Assyrians, governors and commanders, warriors clothed in full armor, horsemen riding on horses, all of them desirable young men. [13]And I saw that she was defiled; they both took the same way. [14]†But she carried her whoring further. She saw men portrayed on the wall, the images of the Chaldeans portrayed in vermilion, [15]wearing belts on their waists, with flowing turbans on their heads, all of them having the appearance of officers, a likeness of Babylonians whose native land was Chaldea. [16]When she saw them, she lusted after them and sent messengers to them in Chaldea. [17]†And the Babylonians came to her into the bed of love, and they defiled her with their whoring lust. And after she was defiled

by them, she turned from them in disgust. [18]When she carried on her whoring so openly and flaunted her nakedness, I turned in disgust from her, as I had turned in disgust from her sister. [19]†Yet she increased her whoring, remembering the days of her youth, when she played the whore in the land of Egypt [20]†and lusted after her paramours there, whose members were like those of donkeys, and whose issue was like that of horses. [21]† Thus you longed for the lewdness of your youth, when the Egyptians handled your bosom and pressed[2] your young breasts."

[22]†† Therefore, O Oholibah, thus says the Lord God: "Behold, I will stir up against you your lovers from whom you turned in disgust, and I will bring them against you from every side: [23]† the Babylonians and all the Chaldeans, Pekod and Shoa and Koa, and all the Assyrians with them, desirable young men, governors and commanders all of them, officers and men of renown, all of them riding on horses. [24]†And they shall come against you from the north[3] with chariots and wagons and a host of peoples. They shall set themselves against you on every side with buckler, shield, and helmet; and I will commit the judgment to them, and they shall judge you according to their judgments. [25]†And I will direct my jealousy against you, that they may deal with you in fury. They shall cut off your nose and your ears, and your survivors shall fall by the sword. They shall seize your sons and your daughters, and your survivors shall be devoured by fire. [26]They shall also strip you of your clothes and take away your beautiful jewels. [27]Thus I will put an end to your lewdness and your whoring begun in the land of Egypt, so that you shall not lift up your eyes to them or remember Egypt anymore.

[28]"For thus says the Lord God: Behold, I will deliver you into the hands of those whom you hate, into the hands of those from whom you turned in disgust, [29]and they shall deal with you in hatred and take away all the fruit of your labor and leave you naked and bare, and the nakedness of your whoring shall be uncovered. Your lewdness and your whoring [30]have brought this upon you, because you played the whore with the nations and defiled yourself with their idols. [31]†You have gone the way of your sister; therefore I will give her cup into your hand. [32]Thus says the Lord God:

“You shall drink your sister’s cup that is deep and large;
you shall be laughed at and held in derision,
for it contains much;
33 you will be filled with drunkenness and sorrow.
A cup of horror and desolation,
the cup of your sister Samaria; 34† you shall drink it and drain it out,
and gnaw its shards,
and tear your breasts;

for I have spoken, declares the Lord God. 35Therefore thus says the Lord God: Because you have forgotten me and cast me behind your back, you yourself must bear the consequences of your lewdness and whoring.”

36 ‡ The Lord said to me: “Son of man, will you judge Oholah and Oholibah? Declare to them their abominations. 37†For they have committed adultery, and blood is on their hands. With their idols they have committed adultery, and they have even offered up[1] to them for food the children whom they had borne to me. 38‡Moreover, this they have done to me: they have defiled my sanctuary on the same day and profaned my Sabbaths. 39For when they had slaughtered their children in sacrifice to their idols, on the same day they came into my sanctuary to profane it. And behold, this is what they did in my house. 40†They even sent for men to come from afar, to whom a messenger was sent; and behold, they came. For them you bathed yourself, painted your eyes, and adorned yourself with ornaments. 41† You sat on a stately couch, with a table spread before it on which you had placed my incense and my oil. 42†The sound of a carefree multitude was with her; and with men of the common sort, drunkards[2] were brought from the wilderness; and they put bracelets on the hands of the women, and beautiful crowns on their heads.

43 † “Then I said of her who was worn out by adultery, Now they will continue to use her for a whore, even her![3] 44For they have gone in to her, as men go in to a prostitute. Thus they went in to Oholah and to Oholibah, lewd women! 45† But righteous men shall pass judgment on them with the sentence of adulteresses, and with the sentence of women who shed blood, because they are adulteresses, and blood is on their hands.”

46For thus says the Lord God: “Bring up a vast host against them, and make them an object of terror and a plunder. 47† And the host shall stone them and cut them down with their swords. They shall kill their sons and their daughters, and burn up their houses. 48† Thus will I put an end to lewdness in the land, that all women may take warning and not commit lewdness as you have done. 49And they shall return your lewdness upon you, and you shall bear the penalty for your sinful idolatry, and you shall know that I am the Lord God.”

The Siege of Jerusalem

24 [1]†††In the ninth year, in the tenth month, on the tenth day of the month, the word of the Lord came to me: [2]"Son of man, write down the name of this day, this very day. The king of Babylon has laid siege to Jerusalem this very day. [3]††And utter a parable to the rebellious house and say to them, Thus says the Lord God:

"Set on the pot, set it on;
pour in water also;
[4] put in it the pieces of meat,
all the good pieces, the thigh and the shoulder;
fill it with choice bones.
[5] Take the choicest one of the flock;
pile the logs[1] under it;
boil it well;
seethe also its bones in it.

[6]†"Therefore thus says the Lord God: Woe to the bloody city, to the pot whose corrosion is in it, and whose corrosion has not gone out of it! Take out of it piece after piece, without making any choice.[2] [7]†For the blood she has shed is in her midst; she put it on the bare rock; she did not pour it out on the ground to cover it with dust. [8]To rouse my wrath, to take vengeance, I have set on the bare rock the blood she has shed, that it may not be covered. [9]†Therefore thus says the Lord God: Woe to the bloody city! I also will make the pile great. [10]†Heap on the logs, kindle the fire, boil the meat well, mix in the spices,[3] and let the bones be burned up. [11]†Then set it empty upon the coals, that it may become hot, and its copper may burn, that its uncleanness may be melted in it, its corrosion consumed. [12]†She has wearied herself with toil;[4] its abundant corrosion does not go out of it. Into the fire with its corrosion! [13]On account of your unclean lewdness, because I would have cleansed you and you were not cleansed from your uncleanness, you shall not be cleansed anymore till I have satisfied my fury upon you. [14]†I am the Lord. I have spoken; it shall come to pass; I will do it. I will not go back; I will not spare; I will not relent; according to your ways and your deeds you will be judged, declares the Lord God."

Ezekiel's Wife Dies

15 ‡ ‡The word of the Lord came to me: 16 †"Son of man, behold, I am about to take the delight of your eyes away from you at a stroke; yet you shall not mourn or weep, nor shall your tears run down. 17 †Sigh, but not aloud; make no mourning for the dead. Bind on your turban, and put your shoes on your feet; do not cover your lips, nor eat the bread of men." 18So I spoke to the people in the morning, and at evening my wife died. And on the next morning I did as I was commanded.

19And the people said to me, "Will you not tell us what these things mean for us, that you are acting thus?" 20Then I said to them, "The word of the Lord came to me: 21 †'Say to the house of Israel, Thus says the Lord God:
Behold, I will profane my sanctuary, the pride of your power, the delight of your eyes, and the yearning of your soul, and your sons and your daughters whom you left behind shall fall by the sword. 22And you shall do as I have done; you shall not cover your lips, nor eat the bread of men. 23Your turbans shall be on your heads and your shoes on your feet; you shall not mourn or weep, but you shall rot away in your iniquities and groan to one another.
24Thus shall Ezekiel be to you a sign; according to all that he has done you shall do. When this comes, then you will know that I am the Lord God.'

25 †"As for you, son of man, surely on the day when I take from them their stronghold, their joy and glory, the delight of their eyes and their soul's desire, and also their sons and daughters, 26 †on that day a fugitive will come to you to report to you the news. 27 †On that day your mouth will be opened to the fugitive, and you shall speak and be no longer mute. So you will be a sign to them, and they will know that I am the Lord."

Prophecy Against Ammon

25 [1]‡The word of the Lord came to me: [2]†"Son of man, set your face toward the Ammonites and prophesy against them. [3]†Say to the Ammonites, Hear the word of the Lord God: Thus says the Lord God, Because you said,
'Aha!' over my sanctuary when it was profaned, and over the land of Israel when it was made desolate, and over the house of Judah when they went into exile, [4]†therefore behold, I am handing you over to the people of the East for a possession, and they shall set their encampments among you and make their dwellings in your midst. They shall eat your fruit, and they shall drink your milk. [5]†I will make Rabbah a pasture for camels and Ammon[1] a fold for flocks. Then you will know that I am the Lord. [6]†For thus says the Lord God: Because you have clapped your hands and stamped your feet and rejoiced with all the malice within your soul against the land of Israel, [7]†therefore, behold, I have stretched out my hand against you, and will hand you over as plunder to the nations. And I will cut you off from the peoples and will make you perish out of the countries; I will destroy you. Then you will know that I am the Lord.

Prophecy Against Moab and Seir

8 ✝✝✝ “Thus says the Lord God: Because Moab and Seir[2] said, ‘Behold, the house of Judah is like all the other nations,’ 9 therefore I will lay open the flank of Moab from the cities, from its cities on its frontier, the glory of the country, Beth-jeshimoth, Baal-meon, and Kiriathaim. 10 I will give it along with the Ammonites to the people of the East as a possession, that the Ammonites may be remembered no more among the nations, 11 ✝ and I will execute judgments upon Moab. Then they will know that I am the Lord.

Prophecy Against Edom

12 ‡‡‡“Thus says the Lord God: Because Edom acted revengefully against the house of Judah and has grievously offended in taking vengeance on them, 13 †therefore thus says the Lord God, I will stretch out my hand against Edom and cut off from it man and beast. And I will make it desolate; from Teman even to Dedan they shall fall by the sword. 14 † And I will lay my vengeance upon Edom by the hand of my people Israel, and they shall do in Edom according to my anger and according to my wrath, and they shall know my vengeance, declares the Lord God.

Prophecy Against Philistia

15 ✝✝✝“Thus says the Lord God: Because the Philistines acted revengefully and took vengeance with malice of soul to destroy in never-ending enmity, 16 ✝therefore thus says the Lord God, Behold, I will stretch out my hand against the Philistines, and I will cut off the Cherethites and destroy the rest of the seacoast. 17 ✝I will execute great vengeance on them with wrathful rebukes. Then they will know that I am the Lord, when I lay my vengeance upon them.”

Prophecy Against Tyre

26 [1]In the eleventh year, on the first day of the month, the word of the Lord came to me: [2]"Son of man, because Tyre said concerning Jerusalem, 'Aha, the gate of the peoples is broken; it has swung open to me. I shall be replenished, now that she is laid waste,' [3]therefore thus says the Lord God: Behold, I am against you, O Tyre, and will bring up many nations against you, as the sea brings up its waves. [4]They shall destroy the walls of Tyre and break down her towers, and I will scrape her soil from her and make her a bare rock. [5]She shall be in the midst of the sea a place for the spreading of nets, for I have spoken, declares the Lord God. And she shall become plunder for the nations, [6]and her daughters on the mainland shall be killed by the sword. Then they will know that I am the Lord.

[7]"For thus says the Lord God: Behold, I will bring against Tyre from the north Nebuchadnezzar[1] king of Babylon, king of kings, with horses and chariots, and with horsemen and a host of many soldiers. [8]He will kill with the sword your daughters on the mainland. He will set up a siege wall against you and throw up a mound against you, and raise a roof of shields against you. [9]He will direct the shock of his battering rams against your walls, and with his axes he will break down your towers. [10]His horses will be so many that their dust will cover you. Your walls will shake at the noise of the horsemen and wagons and chariots, when he enters your gates as men enter a city that has been breached. [11]With the hoofs of his horses he will trample all your streets. He will kill your people with the sword, and your mighty pillars will fall to the ground. [12]They will plunder your riches and loot your merchandise. They will break down your walls and destroy your pleasant houses. Your stones and timber and soil they will cast into the midst of the waters. [13]And I will stop the music of your songs, and the sound of your lyres shall be heard no more. [14]I will make you a bare rock. You shall be a place for the spreading of nets. You shall never be rebuilt, for I am the Lord; I have spoken, declares the Lord God.

[15]"Thus says the Lord God to Tyre: Will not the coastlands shake at the sound of your fall, when the wounded groan, when slaughter is made in your midst? [16]† Then all the princes of the sea will step down from their thrones and remove their robes and strip off their embroidered garments. They will clothe themselves with trembling; they will sit on the ground and tremble every moment and be appalled at you. [17]† And they will raise a lamentation over you and say to you,

"'How you have perished,
you who were inhabited from the seas,
O city renowned,
who was mighty on the sea;
she and her inhabitants imposed their terror
on all her inhabitants!
[18] Now the coastlands tremble
on the day of your fall,
and the coastlands that are on the sea
are dismayed at your passing.'

[19]† "For thus says the Lord GOD: When I make you a city laid waste, like the cities that are not inhabited, when I bring up the deep over you, and the great waters cover you, [20]† then I will make you go down with those who go down to the pit, to the people of old, and I will make you to dwell in the world below, among ruins from of old, with those who go down to the pit, so that you will not be inhabited; but I will set beauty in the land of the living. [21]I will bring you to a dreadful end, and you shall be no more. Though you be sought for, you will never be found again, declares the Lord GOD."

A Lament for Tyre

27 [1]The word of the LORD came to me: [2]"Now you, son of man, raise a lamentation over Tyre, [3]and say to Tyre, who dwells at the entrances to the sea, merchant of the peoples to many coastlands, thus says the Lord GOD:

"O Tyre, you have said,
'I am perfect in beauty.'
[4] Your borders are in the heart of the seas;
your builders made perfect your beauty.
[5] They made all your planks of fir trees from Senir;
they took a cedar from Lebanon
to make a mast for you.
[6] Of oaks of Bashan
they made your oars;
they made your deck of pines
from the coasts of Cyprus, inlaid with ivory.
[7] Of fine embroidered linen from Egypt was your sail,
serving as your banner;
blue and purple from the coasts of Elishah
was your awning.
[8] The inhabitants of Sidon and Arvad were your rowers;
your skilled men, O Tyre, were in you;
they were your pilots.
[9] The elders of Gebal and her skilled men were in you,
caulking your seams;
all the ships of the sea with their mariners

were in you to barter for your wares.

10 ‡† “Persia and Lud and Put were in your army as your men of war. They hung the shield and helmet in you; they gave you splendor. 11 † Men of Arvad and Helech were on your walls all around, and men of Gamad were in your towers. They hung their shields on your walls all around; they made perfect your beauty.
12 ‡ † “Tarshish did business with you because of your great wealth of every kind; silver, iron, tin, and lead they exchanged for your wares.
13 † Javan, Tubal, and Meshech traded with you; they exchanged human beings and vessels of bronze for your merchandise. 14 From Beth-togarmah they exchanged horses, war horses, and mules for your wares. 15 † The men of Dedan[1] traded with you. Many coastlands were your own special markets; they brought you in payment ivory tusks and ebony. 16 † Syria did business with you because of your abundant goods; they exchanged for your wares emeralds, purple, embroidered work, fine linen, coral, and ruby.
17 † Judah and the land of Israel traded with you; they exchanged for your merchandise wheat of Minnith, meal,[2] honey, oil, and balm. 18 Damascus did business with you for your abundant goods, because of your great wealth of every kind; wine of Helbon and wool of Sahar 19 † and casks of wine[3] from Uzal they exchanged for your wares; wrought iron, cassia, and calamus were bartered for your merchandise. 20 Dedan traded with you in saddlecloths for riding. 21 Arabia and all the princes of Kedar were your favored dealers in lambs, rams, and goats; in these they did business with you. 22 The traders of Sheba and Raamah traded with you; they exchanged for your wares the best of all kinds of spices and all precious stones and gold. 23 Haran, Canneh, Eden, traders of Sheba, Asshur, and Chilmad traded with you. 24 † In your market these traded with you in choice garments, in clothes of blue and embroidered work, and in carpets of colored material, bound with cords and made secure. 25 † The ships of Tarshish traveled for you with your merchandise. So you were filled and heavily laden in the heart of the seas.

26 “Your rowers have brought you out into the high seas.
The east wind has wrecked you
in the heart of the seas.
27 Your riches, your wares, your merchandise, your mariners and your pilots,
your caulkers, your dealers in merchandise,
and all your men of war who are in you,
with all your crew
that is in your midst, sink into the heart of the seas
on the day of your fall.
28 At the sound of the cry of your pilots
the countryside shakes, 29 and down from their ships
come all who handle the oar.
The mariners and all the pilots of the sea stand on the land
30 and shout aloud over you and cry out bitterly.
They cast dust on their heads and wallow in ashes;
31 they make themselves bald for you and put sackcloth on their waist,
and they weep over you in bitterness of soul,
with bitter mourning.
32 In their wailing they raise a lamentation for you and lament over you:
‘Who is like Tyre,
like one destroyed in the midst of the sea?
33 When your wares came from the seas,
you satisfied many peoples;
with your abundant wealth and merchandise
you enriched the kings of the earth.
34 Now you are wrecked by the seas,
in the depths of the waters;

your merchandise and all your crew in your midst have sunk with you.
35† All the inhabitants of the coastlands
are appalled at you,
and the hair of their kings bristles with horror;
their faces are convulsed.
36† The merchants among the peoples hiss at you;
you have come to a dreadful end
and shall be no more forever.’”

Prophecy Against the Prince of Tyre

28 [1] The word of the Lord came to me: [2] "Son of man, say to the prince of Tyre, Thus says the Lord God:

"Because your heart is proud,
and you have said, 'I am a god,
I sit in the seat of the gods,
in the heart of the seas,'
yet you are but a man, and no god, though you make your heart like the heart of a god—
[3] you are indeed wiser than Daniel;
no secret is hidden from you;
[4] by your wisdom and your understanding you have made wealth for yourself, and have gathered gold and silver into your treasuries;
[5] by your great wisdom in your trade
you have increased your wealth, and your heart has become proud in your wealth—
[6] therefore thus says the Lord God:
Because you make your heart
like the heart of a god,
[7] therefore, behold, I will bring foreigners
upon you,
the most ruthless of the nations;
and they shall draw their swords against the beauty of your wisdom and defile your splendor.
[8] They shall thrust you down into the pit, and you shall die the death of the slain
in the heart of the seas.

9 Will you still say, ‘I am a god,’ in the presence of those who kill you, though you are but a man, and no god,
in the hands of those who slay you?
10† You shall die the death of the uncircumcised
by the hand of foreigners;
for I have spoken, declares the Lord God.”

A Lament over the King of Tyre

11 Moreover, the word of the Lord came to me: 12 “Son of man, raise a lamentation over the king of Tyre, and say to him, Thus says the Lord God:

“You were the signet of perfection,[1] full of wisdom and perfect in beauty.
13 You were in Eden, the garden of God;
every precious stone was your covering,
sardius, topaz, and diamond,
beryl, onyx, and jasper,
sapphire,[2] emerald, and carbuncle;
and crafted in gold were your settings and your engravings.[3]
On the day that you were created they were prepared.
14 You were an anointed guardian cherub.
I placed you;[4] you were on the holy mountain of God;
in the midst of the stones of fire you walked.
15 You were blameless in your ways from the day you were created, till unrighteousness was found in you.
16 In the abundance of your trade
you were filled with violence in your midst, and you sinned;
so I cast you as a profane thing from the mountain of God,
and I destroyed you,[5] O guardian cherub,
from the midst of the stones of fire.
17 Your heart was proud because of your beauty;
you corrupted your wisdom for the sake of your splendor.
I cast you to the ground;

I exposed you before kings,
to feast their eyes on you.
18 By the multitude of your iniquities, in the unrighteousness of your trade
you profaned your sanctuaries;
so I brought fire out from your midst;
it consumed you,
and I turned you to ashes on the earth
in the sight of all who saw you.
19 All who know you among the peoples
are appalled at you;
you have come to a dreadful end
and shall be no more forever.”

Prophecy Against Sidon

20 The word of the Lord came to me: 21 “Son of man, set your face toward Sidon, and prophesy against her 22 and say, Thus says the Lord God:

“Behold, I am against you, O Sidon, and I will manifest my glory in your midst.
And they shall know that I am the Lord
when I execute judgments in her and manifest my holiness in her; 23 for I will send pestilence into her,
and blood into her streets;
and the slain shall fall in her midst,
by the sword that is against her on every side.
Then they will know that I am the Lord.

24 “And for the house of Israel there shall be no more a brier to prick or a thorn to hurt them among all their neighbors who have treated them with contempt. Then they will know that I am the Lord God.

Israel Gathered in Security

25 ††“Thus says the Lord God: When I gather the house of Israel from the peoples among whom they are scattered, and manifest my holiness in them in the sight of the nations, then they shall dwell in their own land that I gave to my servant Jacob. 26 †And they shall dwell securely in it, and they shall build houses and plant vineyards. They shall dwell securely, when I execute judgments upon all their neighbors who have treated them with contempt.
Then they will know that I am the Lord their God.”

Prophecy Against Egypt

29 [1]†In the tenth year, in the tenth month, on the twelfth day of the month, the word of the Lord came to me: [2]† "Son of man, set your face against Pharaoh king of Egypt, and prophesy against him and against all Egypt; [3]†speak, and say, Thus says the Lord God:

"Behold, I am against you,
Pharaoh king of Egypt,
the great dragon that lies in the midst of his streams, that says, 'My Nile is my own;
I made it for myself.'
[4]† I will put hooks in your jaws, and make the fish of your streams stick to your scales;
and I will draw you up out of the midst of your streams,
with all the fish of your streams
that stick to your scales.
[5]† And I will cast you out into the wilderness,
you and all the fish of your streams;
you shall fall on the open field,
and not be brought together or gathered.
To the beasts of the earth and to the birds of the heavens
I give you as food.

[6]††Then all the inhabitants of Egypt shall know that I am the Lord.

"Because you[1] have been a staff of reed to the house of Israel, [7]when they grasped you with the hand, you broke and tore all their shoulders; and when they leaned on you, you broke and made all their loins to shake.[2] [8]Therefore thus says the Lord God: Behold, I will bring a sword upon you, and will cut off from you man and beast, [9]†and the land of Egypt shall be a desolation and a waste. Then they will know that I am the Lord.

"Because you[3] said, 'The Nile is mine, and I made it,' [10]†therefore, behold, I am against you and against your streams, and I will make the land of Egypt an utter waste and desolation, from Migdol to Syene, as far as the border of Cush. [11]†No foot of man shall pass through it, and no foot of beast shall pass through it; it shall be uninhabited forty years. [12]†And I will make the land of Egypt a desolation in the midst of desolated countries, and her cities shall be a desolation forty years among cities that are laid waste. I will scatter the Egyptians among the nations, and disperse them through the countries.

[13]†"For thus says the Lord God: At the end of forty years I will gather the Egyptians from the peoples among whom they were scattered, [14]†and I will restore the fortunes of Egypt and bring them back to the land of Pathros, the land of their origin, and there they shall be a lowly kingdom. [15]†It shall be the most lowly of the kingdoms, and never again exalt itself above the nations. And I will make them so small that they will never again rule over the nations. [16]†And it shall never again be the reliance of the house of Israel, recalling their iniquity, when they turn to them for aid. Then they will know that I am the Lord God."

[17]†In the twenty-seventh year, in the first month, on the first day of the month, the word of the Lord came to me: [18]†"Son of man, Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon made his army labor hard against Tyre. Every head was made bald, and every shoulder was rubbed bare, yet neither he nor his army got anything from Tyre to pay for the labor that he had performed against her. [19]†Therefore thus says the Lord God: Behold, I will give the land of Egypt to Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon; and he shall carry off its wealth[4] and despoil it and plunder it; and it shall be the wages for his army. [20]†I have given him the land of Egypt as his payment for which he labored, because they worked for me, declares the Lord God.

[21]†"On that day I will cause a horn to spring up for the house of Israel, and I will open your lips among them. Then they will know that I am the Lord."

A Lament for Egypt

30 1 The word of the Lord came to me: 2 “Son of man, prophesy, and say, Thus says the Lord God:

“Wail, ‘Alas for the day!’
3 For the day is near,
the day of the Lord is near;
it will be a day of clouds,
a time of doom for[1] the nations.
4 A sword shall come upon Egypt, and anguish shall be in Cush,
when the slain fall in Egypt,
and her wealth[2] is carried away,
and her foundations are torn down.

5 Cush, and Put, and Lud, and all Arabia, and Libya,[3] and the people of the land that is in league,[4] shall fall with them by the sword.

6 “Thus says the Lord:
Those who support Egypt shall fall,
and her proud might shall come down;
from Migdol to Syene
they shall fall within her by the sword,
declares the Lord God.
7 And they shall be desolated in the midst of desolated countries,
and their cities shall be in the midst of cities
that are laid waste.
8 Then they will know that I am the Lord,
when I have set fire to Egypt,
and all her helpers are broken.

9 † “On that day messengers shall go out from me in ships to terrify the unsuspecting people of Cush, and anguish shall come upon them on the day of Egypt’s doom;[5] for, behold, it comes!
10 †† “Thus says the Lord God:

“I will put an end to the wealth of Egypt, by the hand of Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon.
11 He and his people with him, the most ruthless of nations,
shall be brought in to destroy the land,
and they shall draw their swords against Egypt
and fill the land with the slain.
12 † And I will dry up the Nile and will sell the land into the hand of evildoers;
I will bring desolation upon the land and everything in it,
by the hand of foreigners;
I am the Lord; I have spoken.
13 †† “Thus says the Lord God:
“I will destroy the idols
and put an end to the images in Memphis;
there shall no longer be a prince from the land of Egypt;
so I will put fear in the land of Egypt.
14 I will make Pathros a desolation and will set fire to Zoan
and will execute judgments on Thebes.
15 † And I will pour out my wrath on Pelusium,
the stronghold of Egypt,
and cut off the multitude[1] of Thebes.
16 And I will set fire to Egypt;
Pelusium shall be in great agony;
Thebes shall be breached,
and Memphis shall face enemies[2] by day.

17 The young men of On and of Pi-beseth shall fall by the sword,
and the women[3] shall go into captivity.
18† At Tehaphnehes the day shall be dark,
when I break there the yoke bars of Egypt,
and her proud might shall come to an end
in her;
she shall be covered by a cloud,
and her daughters shall go into captivity.
19† Thus I will execute judgments on Egypt.
Then they will know that I am the Lord.”

Egypt Shall Fall to Babylon

[20] In the eleventh year, in the first month, on the seventh day of the month, the word of the Lord came to me: [21] "Son of man, I have broken the arm of Pharaoh king of Egypt, and behold, it has not been bound up, to heal it by binding it with a bandage, so that it may become strong to wield the sword. [22] Therefore thus says the Lord God: Behold, I am against Pharaoh king of Egypt and will break his arms, both the strong arm and the one that was broken, and I will make the sword fall from his hand. [23] I will scatter the Egyptians among the nations and disperse them through the countries. [24] And I will strengthen the arms of the king of Babylon and put my sword in his hand, but I will break the arms of Pharaoh, and he will groan before him like a man mortally wounded. [25] I will strengthen the arms of the king of Babylon, but the arms of Pharaoh shall fall. Then they shall know that I am the Lord, when I put my sword into the hand of the king of Babylon and he stretches it out against the land of Egypt. [26] And I will scatter the Egyptians among the nations and disperse them throughout the countries. Then they will know that I am the Lord."

Pharaoh to Be Slain

31 [1]In the eleventh year, in the third month, on the first day of the month, the word of the LORD came to me: [2]"Son of man, say to Pharaoh king of Egypt and to his multitude:

"Whom are you like in your greatness?
[3] Behold, Assyria was a cedar in Lebanon, with beautiful branches and forest shade,
and of towering height,
its top among the clouds.[4] [4] The waters nourished it;
the deep made it grow tall, making its rivers flow around the place of its planting, sending forth its streams
to all the trees of the field.
[5] So it towered high above all the trees of the field;
its boughs grew large and its branches long from abundant water in its shoots.
[6] All the birds of the heavens made their nests in its boughs;
under its branches all the beasts of the field gave birth to their young, and under its shadow
lived all great nations.
[7] It was beautiful in its greatness,
in the length of its branches;
for its roots went down to abundant waters.
[8] The cedars in the garden of God could not rival it,

nor the fir trees equal its boughs;
neither were the plane trees
like its branches;
no tree in the garden of God
was its equal in beauty.
9 † I made it beautiful in the mass of its branches, and all the trees of Eden envied it,
that were in the garden of God.

10 ††“Therefore thus says the Lord God: Because it[1] towered high and set its top among the clouds, and its heart was proud of its height, 11 †I will give it into the hand of a mighty one of the nations. He shall surely deal with it as its wickedness deserves. I have cast it out. 12 † Foreigners, the most ruthless of nations, have cut it down and left it. On the mountains and in all the valleys its branches have fallen, and its boughs have been broken in all the ravines of the land, and all the peoples of the earth have gone away from its shadow and left it. 13 †On its fallen trunk dwell all the birds of the heavens, and on its branches are all the beasts of the field. 14 †All this is in order that no trees by the waters may grow to towering height or set their tops among the clouds, and that no trees that drink water may reach up to them in height. For they are all given over to death, to the world below, among the children of man,[2] with those who go down to the pit.

15 †“Thus says the Lord God: On the day the cedar[3] went down to Sheol I caused mourning; I closed the deep over it, and restrained its rivers, and many waters were stopped. I clothed Lebanon in gloom for it, and all the trees of the field fainted because of it. 16 †I made the nations quake at the sound of its fall, when I cast it down to Sheol with those who go down to the pit. And all the trees of Eden, the choice and best of Lebanon, all that drink water, were comforted in the world below. 17 They also went down to Sheol with it, to those who are slain by the sword; yes, those who were its arm, who lived under its shadow among the nations.

18 †“Whom are you thus like in glory and in greatness among the trees of Eden? You shall be brought down with the trees of Eden to the world below. You shall lie among the uncircumcised, with those who are slain by the sword.

A Lament over Pharaoh and Egypt

32 [1]†In the twelfth year, in the twelfth month, on the first day of the month, the word of the Lord came to me: [2]†"Son of man, raise a lamentation over Pharaoh king of Egypt and say to him:

"You consider yourself a lion of the nations, but you are like a dragon in the seas;
you burst forth in your rivers,
trouble the waters with your feet,
and foul their rivers.
[3]† Thus says the Lord God:
I will throw my net over you with a host of many peoples, and they will haul you up in my dragnet.
[4]† And I will cast you on the ground;
on the open field I will fling you,
and will cause all the birds of the heavens to settle on you,
and I will gorge the beasts of the whole earth with you.
[5] I will strew your flesh upon the mountains and fill the valleys with your carcass.[1] [6] I will drench the land even to the mountains with your flowing blood,
and the ravines will be full of you.
[7]† When I blot you out, I will cover the heavens
and make their stars dark;
I will cover the sun with a cloud,
and the moon shall not give its light.
[8] All the bright lights of heaven will I make dark over you, and put darkness on your land,

declares the Lord God.

9"I will trouble the hearts of many peoples, when I bring your destruction among the nations, into the countries that you have not known. 10† I will make many peoples appalled at you, and the hair of their kings shall bristle with horror because of you, when I brandish my sword before them. They shall tremble every moment, every one for his own life, on the day of your downfall.

11"For thus says the Lord God: The sword of the king of Babylon shall come upon you. 12I will cause your multitude to fall by the swords of mighty ones, all of them most ruthless of nations.

"They shall bring to ruin the pride of Egypt, and all its multitude[2] shall perish.
13† I will destroy all its beasts
from beside many waters;
and no foot of man shall trouble them anymore,
nor shall the hoofs of beasts trouble them.
14† Then I will make their waters clear, and cause their rivers to run like oil,
declares the Lord God.
15† When I make the land of Egypt desolate, and when the land is desolate of all that fills it,
when I strike down all who dwell in it,
then they will know that I am the Lord.

16†This is a lamentation that shall be chanted; the daughters of the nations shall chant it; over Egypt, and over all her multitude, shall they chant it, declares the Lord God."

17††In the twelfth year, in the twelfth month,[3] on the fifteenth day of the month, the word of the Lord came to me: 18† "Son of man, wail over the multitude of Egypt, and send them down, her and the daughters of majestic nations, to the world below, to those who have gone down to the pit:

[19]† ‘Whom do you surpass in beauty?
Go down and be laid to rest with the uncircumcised.’

[20]They shall fall amid those who are slain by the sword. Egypt[1] is delivered to the sword; drag her away, and all her multitudes. [21]†The mighty chiefs shall speak of them, with their helpers, out of the midst of Sheol: ‘They have come down, they lie still, the uncircumcised, slain by the sword.’

[22]†“Assyria is there, and all her company, its graves all around it, all of them slain, fallen by the sword, [23]†whose graves are set in the uttermost parts of the pit; and her company is all around her grave, all of them slain, fallen by the sword, who spread terror in the land of the living.

[24]†“Elam is there, and all her multitude around her grave; all of them slain, fallen by the sword, who went down uncircumcised into the world below, who spread their terror in the land of the living; and they bear their shame with those who go down to the pit. [25]They have made her a bed among the slain with all her multitude, her graves all around it, all of them uncircumcised, slain by the sword; for terror of them was spread in the land of the living, and they bear their shame with those who go down to the pit; they are placed among the slain.

[26]†“Meshech-Tubal is there, and all her multitude, her graves all around it, all of them uncircumcised, slain by the sword; for they spread their terror in the land of the living. [27]†And they do not lie with the mighty, the fallen from among the uncircumcised, who went down to Sheol with their weapons of war, whose swords were laid under their heads, and whose iniquities are upon their bones; for the terror of the mighty men was in the land of the living. [28]†But as for you, you shall be broken and lie among the uncircumcised, with those who are slain by the sword.

[29]†“Edom is there, her kings and all her princes, who for all their might are laid with those who are killed by the sword; they lie with the uncircumcised, with those who go down to the pit.

[30]†“The princes of the north are there, all of them, and all the Sidonians, who have gone down in shame with the slain, for all the terror that they caused by their might; they lie uncircumcised with those who are slain by the sword, and bear their shame with those who go down to the pit.

[31]†“When Pharaoh sees them, he will be comforted for all his multitude, Pharaoh and all his army, slain by the sword, declares the Lord God. [32]†For I spread terror in the land of the living; and he shall be laid to rest among the uncircumcised, with those who are slain by the sword, Pharaoh and all his multitude, declares the Lord God.”

Ezekiel Is Israel's Watchman

33 [1]‡‡The word of the Lord came to me: [2]†"Son of man, speak to your people and say to them, If I bring the sword upon a land, and the people of the land take a man from among them, and make him their watchman, [3]†and if he sees the sword coming upon the land and blows the trumpet and warns the people, [4]†then if anyone who hears the sound of the trumpet does not take warning, and the sword comes and takes him away, his blood shall be upon his own head. [5]†He heard the sound of the trumpet and did not take warning; his blood shall be upon himself. But if he had taken warning, he would have saved his life. [6]†But if the watchman sees the sword coming and does not blow the trumpet, so that the people are not warned, and the sword comes and takes any one of them, that person is taken away in his iniquity, but his blood I will require at the watchman's hand.

[7]†"So you, son of man, I have made a watchman for the house of Israel. Whenever you hear a word from my mouth, you shall give them warning from me. [8]If I say to the wicked, O wicked one, you shall surely die, and you do not speak to warn the wicked to turn from his way, that wicked person shall die in his iniquity, but his blood I will require at your hand. [9]†But if you warn the wicked to turn from his way, and he does not turn from his way, that person shall die in his iniquity, but you will have delivered your soul.

Why Will You Die, Israel?

10 ‡ ‡ “And you, son of man, say to the house of Israel, Thus have you said:
‘Surely our transgressions and our sins are upon us, and we rot away because of them. How then can we live?’ 11 † Say to them, As I live, declares the Lord God, I have no pleasure in the death of the wicked, but that the wicked turn from his way and live; turn back, turn back from your evil ways, for why will you die, O house of Israel?
12 † “And you, son of man, say to your people, The righteousness of the righteous shall not deliver him when he transgresses, and as for the wickedness of the wicked, he shall not fall by it when he turns from his wickedness, and the righteous shall not be able to live by his righteousness[1] when he sins. 13 † Though I say to the righteous that he shall surely live, yet if he trusts in his righteousness and does injustice, none of his righteous deeds shall be remembered, but in his injustice that he has done he shall die. 14 Again, though I say to the wicked, ‘You shall surely die,’ yet if he turns from his sin and does what is just and right, 15 † if the wicked restores the pledge, gives back what he has taken by robbery, and walks in the statutes of life, not doing injustice, he shall surely live; he shall not die. 16 None of the sins that he has committed shall be remembered against him. He has done what is just and right; he shall surely live.
17 † “Yet your people say, ‘The way of the Lord is not just,’ when it is their own way that is not just. 18 When the righteous turns from his righteousness and does injustice, he shall die for it. 19 And when the wicked turns from his wickedness and does what is just and right, he shall live by this. 20 † Yet you say, ‘The way of the Lord is not just.’ O house of Israel, I will judge each of you according to his ways.”

Jerusalem Struck Down

21 In the twelfth year of our exile, in the tenth month, on the fifth day of the month, a fugitive from Jerusalem came to me and said, “The city has been struck down.” 22 Now the hand of the Lord had been upon me the evening before the fugitive came; and he had opened my mouth by the time the man came to me in the morning, so my mouth was opened, and I was no longer mute.
23 The word of the Lord came to me: 24 “Son of man, the inhabitants of these waste places in the land of Israel keep saying, ‘Abraham was only one man, yet he got possession of the land; but we are many; the land is surely given us to possess.’ 25 Therefore say to them, Thus says the Lord God: You eat flesh with the blood and lift up your eyes to your idols and shed blood; shall you then possess the land? 26 You rely on the sword, you commit abominations, and each of you defiles his neighbor’s wife; shall you then possess the land? 27 Say this to them, Thus says the Lord God: As I live, surely those who are in the waste places shall fall by the sword, and whoever is in the open field I will give to the beasts to be devoured, and those who are in strongholds and in caves shall die by pestilence. 28 And I will make the land a desolation and a waste, and her proud might shall come to an end, and the mountains of Israel shall be so desolate that none will pass through. 29 Then they will know that I am the Lord, when I have made the land a desolation and a waste because of all their abominations that they have committed.
30 “As for you, son of man, your people who talk together about you by the walls and at the doors of the houses, say to one another, each to his brother, ‘Come, and hear what the word is that comes from the Lord.’ 31 And they come to you as people come, and they sit before you as my people, and they hear what you say but they will not do it; for with lustful talk in their mouths they act; their heart is set on their gain. 32 And behold, you are to them like one who sings lustful songs with a beautiful voice and plays[1] well on an instrument, for they hear what you say, but they will not do it. 33 When this comes—and come it will!—then they will know that a prophet has been among them.”

Prophecy Against the Shepherds of Israel

34 [1]‡‡The word of the Lord came to me: [2]†“Son of man, prophesy against the shepherds of Israel; prophesy, and say to them, even to the shepherds, Thus says the Lord God: Ah, shepherds of Israel who have been feeding yourselves! Should not shepherds feed the sheep? [3]You eat the fat, you clothe yourselves with the wool, you slaughter the fat ones, but you do not feed the sheep. [4]† The weak you have not strengthened, the sick you have not healed, the injured you have not bound up, the strayed you have not brought back, the lost you have not sought, and with force and harshness you have ruled them. [5]†So they were scattered, because there was no shepherd, and they became food for all the wild beasts. [6]†My sheep were scattered; they wandered over all the mountains and on every high hill. My sheep were scattered over all the face of the earth, with none to search or seek for them.

[7]“Therefore, you shepherds, hear the word of the Lord: [8]† As I live, declares the Lord God, surely because my sheep have become a prey, and my sheep have become food for all the wild beasts, since there was no shepherd, and because my shepherds have not searched for my sheep, but the shepherds have fed themselves, and have not fed my sheep, [9]therefore, you shepherds, hear the word of the Lord: [10]† Thus says the Lord God, Behold, I am against the shepherds, and I will require my sheep at their hand and put a stop to their feeding the sheep. No longer shall the shepherds feed themselves. I will rescue my sheep from their mouths, that they may not be food for them.

The Lord God Will Seek Them Out

11 ‡ † “For thus says the Lord God: Behold, I, I myself will search for my sheep and will seek them out. 12 As a shepherd seeks out his flock when he is among his sheep that have been scattered, so will I seek out my sheep, and I will rescue them from all places where they have been scattered on a day of clouds and thick darkness. 13 † And I will bring them out from the peoples and gather them from the countries, and will bring them into their own land.
And I will feed them on the mountains of Israel, by the ravines, and in all the inhabited places of the country. 14 I will feed them with good pasture, and on the mountain heights of Israel shall be their grazing land. There they shall lie down in good grazing land, and on rich pasture they shall feed on the mountains of Israel. 15 † I myself will be the shepherd of my sheep, and I myself will make them lie down, declares the Lord God. 16 I will seek the lost, and I will bring back the strayed, and I will bind up the injured, and I will strengthen the weak, and the fat and the strong I will destroy.[1] I will feed them in justice.

17 ‡ † “As for you, my flock, thus says the Lord God: Behold, I judge between sheep and sheep, between rams and male goats. 18 ‡ Is it not enough for you to feed on the good pasture, that you must tread down with your feet the rest of your pasture; and to drink of clear water, that you must muddy the rest of the water with your feet? 19 And must my sheep eat what you have trodden with your feet, and drink what you have muddied with your feet?

20 † “Therefore, thus says the Lord God to them: Behold, I, I myself will judge between the fat sheep and the lean sheep. 21 † Because you push with side and shoulder, and thrust at all the weak with your horns, till you have scattered them abroad, 22 I will rescue[1] my flock; they shall no longer be a prey. And I will judge between sheep and sheep. 23 ‡ † And I will set up over them one shepherd, my servant David, and he shall feed them: he shall feed them and be their shepherd. 24 † And I, the Lord, will be their God, and my servant David shall be prince among them. I am the Lord; I have spoken.

The Lord's Covenant of Peace

25 ‡ † "I will make with them a covenant of peace and banish wild beasts from the land, so that they may dwell securely in the wilderness and sleep in the woods. 26 † And I will make them and the places all around my hill a blessing, and I will send down the showers in their season; they shall be showers of blessing. 27 † And the trees of the field shall yield their fruit, and the earth shall yield its increase, and they shall be secure in their land. And they shall know that I am the Lord, when I break the bars of their yoke, and deliver them from the hand of those who enslaved them. 28 They shall no more be a prey to the nations, nor shall the beasts of the land devour them.
They shall dwell securely, and none shall make them afraid. 29 † And I will provide for them renowned plantations so that they shall no more be consumed with hunger in the land, and no longer suffer the reproach of the nations. 30 † And they shall know that I am the Lord their God with them, and that they, the house of Israel, are my people, declares the Lord God. 31 † And you are my sheep, human sheep of my pasture, and I am your God, declares the Lord God."

Prophecy Against Mount Seir

35 [1]The word of the Lord came to me: [2]†"Son of man, set your face against Mount Seir, and prophesy against it, [3]and say to it, Thus says the Lord God: Behold, I am against you, Mount Seir, and I will stretch out my hand against you, and I will make you a desolation and a waste. [4]†I will lay your cities waste, and you shall become a desolation, and you shall know that I am the Lord. [5]†Because you cherished perpetual enmity and gave over the people of Israel to the power of the sword at the time of their calamity, at the time of their final punishment, [6]†therefore, as I live, declares the Lord God, I will prepare you for blood, and blood shall pursue you; because you did not hate bloodshed, therefore blood shall pursue you. [7]I will make Mount Seir a waste and a desolation, and I will cut off from it all who come and go. [8]And I will fill its mountains with the slain. On your hills and in your valleys and in all your ravines those slain with the sword shall fall. [9]I will make you a perpetual desolation, and your cities shall not be inhabited.
Then you will know that I am the Lord.

[10]†"Because you said, 'These two nations and these two countries shall be mine, and we will take possession of them'—although the Lord was there— [11]therefore, as I live, declares the Lord God, I will deal with you according to the anger and envy that you showed because of your hatred against them. And I will make myself known among them, when I judge you. [12]†And you shall know that I am the Lord.

"I have heard all the revilings that you uttered against the mountains of Israel, saying, 'They are laid desolate; they are given us to devour.' [13]And you magnified yourselves against me with your mouth, and multiplied your words against me; I heard it. [14]Thus says the Lord God: While the whole earth rejoices, I will make you desolate. [15]† As you rejoiced over the inheritance of the house of Israel, because it was desolate, so I will deal with you; you shall be desolate, Mount Seir, and all Edom, all of it. Then they will know that I am the Lord.

Prophecy to the Mountains of Israel

36 [1]‡‡“And you, son of man, prophesy to the mountains of Israel, and say, O mountains of Israel, hear the word of the Lord. [2]‡†Thus says the Lord God: Because the enemy said of you, ‘Aha!’ and, ‘The ancient heights have become our possession,’ [3]†therefore prophesy, and say, Thus says the Lord God: Precisely because they made you desolate and crushed you from all sides, so that you became the possession of the rest of the nations, and you became the talk and evil gossip of the people, [4]therefore, O mountains of Israel, hear the word of the Lord God: Thus says the Lord God to the mountains and the hills, the ravines and the valleys, the desolate wastes and the deserted cities, which have become a prey and derision to the rest of the nations all around, [5]†therefore thus says the Lord God: Surely I have spoken in my hot jealousy against the rest of the nations and against all Edom, who gave my land to themselves as a possession with wholehearted joy and utter contempt, that they might make its pasturelands a prey. [6]† Therefore prophesy concerning the land of Israel, and say to the mountains and hills, to the ravines and valleys, Thus says the Lord God: Behold, I have spoken in my jealous wrath, because you have suffered the reproach of the nations.
[7]Therefore thus says the Lord God: I swear that the nations that are all around you shall themselves suffer reproach.

[8]†“But you, O mountains of Israel, shall shoot forth your branches and yield your fruit to my people Israel, for they will soon come home. [9]†For behold, I am for you, and I will turn to you, and you shall be tilled and sown. [10]And I will multiply people on you, the whole house of Israel, all of it. The cities shall be inhabited and the waste places rebuilt. [11]†And I will multiply on you man and beast, and they shall multiply and be fruitful. And I will cause you to be inhabited as in your former times, and will do more good to you than ever before. Then you will know that I am the Lord. [12]†I will let people walk on you, even my people Israel. And they shall possess you, and you shall be their inheritance, and you shall no longer bereave them of children. [13]Thus says the Lord God: Because they say to you, ‘You devour people, and you bereave your nation of children,’ [14]therefore you shall no longer devour people and no longer bereave your nation of children, declares the Lord God. [15]And I will not let you hear anymore the reproach of the nations, and you shall no longer bear the disgrace of the peoples and no longer cause your nation to stumble, declares the Lord God."

The Lord's Concern for His Holy Name

16 The word of the Lord came to me: 17 "Son of man, when the house of Israel lived in their own land, they defiled it by their ways and their deeds.
Their ways before me were like the uncleanness of a woman in her menstrual impurity. 18 So I poured out my wrath upon them for the blood that they had shed in the land, for the idols with which they had defiled it.
19 I scattered them among the nations, and they were dispersed through the countries. In accordance with their ways and their deeds I judged them.
20 But when they came to the nations, wherever they came, they profaned my holy name, in that people said of them, 'These are the people of the Lord, and yet they had to go out of his land.' 21 But I had concern for my holy name, which the house of Israel had profaned among the nations to which they came.

I Will Put My Spirit Within You

22 ‡ ‡ ‡ “Therefore say to the house of Israel, Thus says the Lord God: It is not for your sake, O house of Israel, that I am about to act, but for the sake of my holy name, which you have profaned among the nations to which you came. 23 † And I will vindicate the holiness of my great name, which has been profaned among the nations, and which you have profaned among them. And the nations will know that I am the Lord, declares the Lord God, when through you I vindicate my holiness before their eyes. 24 I will take you from the nations and gather you from all the countries and bring you into your own land. 25 † I will sprinkle clean water on you, and you shall be clean from all your uncleannesses, and from all your idols I will cleanse
you. 26 † And I will give you a new heart, and a new spirit I will put within you. And I will remove the heart of stone from your flesh and give you a heart of flesh. 27 † And I will put my Spirit within you, and cause you to walk in my statutes and be careful to obey my rules.[1] 28 You shall dwell in the land that I gave to your fathers, and you shall be my people, and I will be your God. 29 † And I will deliver you from all your uncleannesses. And I will summon the grain and make it abundant and lay no famine upon you. 30 I will make the fruit of the tree and the increase of the field abundant, that you may never again suffer the disgrace of famine among the nations.
31 † Then you will remember your evil ways, and your deeds that were not good, and you will loathe yourselves for your iniquities and your abominations. 32 It is not for your sake that I will act, declares the Lord God; let that be known to you. Be ashamed and confounded for your ways, O house of Israel.

33 † “Thus says the Lord God: On the day that I cleanse you from all your iniquities, I will cause the cities to be inhabited, and the waste places shall be rebuilt. 34 And the land that was desolate shall be tilled, instead of being the desolation that it was in the sight of all who passed by. 35 † And they will say, ‘This land that was desolate has become like the garden of Eden, and the waste and desolate and ruined cities are now fortified and inhabited.’ 36 † Then the nations that are left all around you shall know that I am the LORD; I have rebuilt the ruined places and replanted that which was desolate. I am the LORD; I have spoken, and I will do it.

37 "Thus says the Lord GOD: This also I will let the house of Israel ask me to do for them: to increase their people like a flock. 38 † Like the flock for sacrifices,[2] like the flock at Jerusalem during her appointed feasts, so shall the waste cities be filled with flocks of people. Then they will know that I am the LORD."

The Valley of Dry Bones

37 [1]†‡†The hand of the Lord was upon me, and he brought me out in the Spirit of the Lord and set me down in the middle of the valley;[1] it was full of bones. [2]†And he led me around among them, and behold, there were very many on the surface of the valley, and behold, they were very dry.
[3]†And he said to me, “Son of man, can these bones live?” And I answered, “O Lord God, you know.” [4]‡ Then he said to me, “Prophesy over these bones, and say to them, O dry bones, hear the word of the Lord. [5]Thus says the Lord God to these bones: Behold, I will cause breath[2] to enter you, and you shall live. [6]And I will lay sinews upon you, and will cause flesh to come upon you, and cover you with skin, and put breath in you, and you shall live, and you shall know that I am the Lord.”

[7]So I prophesied as I was commanded. And as I prophesied, there was a sound, and behold, a rattling,[3] and the bones came together, bone to its bone. [8]†And I looked, and behold, there were sinews on them, and flesh had come upon them, and skin had covered them. But there was no breath in them. [9]†Then he said to me, “Prophesy to the breath; prophesy, son of man, and say to the breath, Thus says the Lord God: Come from the four winds, O breath, and breathe on these slain, that they may live.” [10]†So I prophesied as he commanded me, and the breath came into them, and they lived and stood on their feet, an exceedingly great army.

[11]†Then he said to me, “Son of man, these bones are the whole house of Israel. Behold, they say, ‘Our bones are dried up, and our hope is lost; we are indeed cut off.’ [12]†Therefore prophesy, and say to them, Thus says the Lord God: Behold, I will open your graves and raise you from your graves, O my people. And I will bring you into the land of Israel. [13]And you shall know that I am the Lord, when I open your graves, and raise you from your graves, O my people. [14]†And I will put my Spirit within you, and you shall live, and I will place you in your own land. Then you shall know that I am the Lord; I have spoken, and I will do it, declares the Lord.”

I Will Be Their God, They Shall Be My People

15 ‡ ‡ The word of the Lord came to me: 16 † “Son of man, take a stick[4] and write on it, ‘For Judah, and the people of Israel associated with him’; then take another stick and write on it, ‘For Joseph (the stick of Ephraim) and all the house of Israel associated with him.’ 17 † And join them one to another into one stick, that they may become one in your hand. 18 And when your people say to you, ‘Will you not tell us what you mean by these?’ 19 say to them, Thus says the Lord God: Behold, I am about to take the stick of Joseph (that is in the hand of Ephraim) and the tribes of Israel associated with him. And I will join with it the stick of Judah,[1] and make them one stick, that they may be one in my hand. 20 When the sticks on which you write are in your hand before their eyes, 21 then say to them, Thus says the Lord God: Behold, I will take the people of Israel from the nations among which they have gone, and will gather them from all around, and bring them to their own land. 22 † And I will make them one nation in the land, on the mountains of Israel. And one king shall be king over them all, and they shall be no longer two nations, and no longer divided into two kingdoms.
23 † They shall not defile themselves anymore with their idols and their detestable things, or with any of their transgressions. But I will save them from all the backslidings[2] in which they have sinned, and will cleanse them; and they shall be my people, and I will be their God.

24 † “My servant David shall be king over them, and they shall all have one shepherd. They shall walk in my rules and be careful to obey my statutes.
25 They shall dwell in the land that I gave to my servant Jacob, where your fathers lived. They and their children and their children’s children shall dwell there forever, and David my servant shall be their prince forever. 26 † I will make a covenant of peace with them. It shall be an everlasting covenant with them. And I will set them in their land[3] and multiply them, and will set my sanctuary in their midst forevermore. 27 † My dwelling place shall be with them, and I will be their God, and they shall be my people.
28 † Then the nations will know that I am the Lord who sanctifies Israel, when my sanctuary is in their midst forevermore.”

Prophecy Against Gog

38 [1]†The word of the Lord came to me: [2]†“Son of man, set your face toward Gog, of the land of Magog, the chief prince of Meshech[4] and Tubal, and prophesy against him [3]†and say, Thus says the Lord God: Behold, I am against you, O Gog, chief prince of Meshech[5] and Tubal. [4]†And I will turn you about and put hooks into your jaws, and I will bring you out, and all your army, horses and horsemen, all of them clothed in full armor, a great host, all of them with buckler and shield, wielding swords. [5]†Persia, Cush, and Put are with them, all of them with shield and helmet; [6]Gomer and all his hordes; Beth-togarmah from the uttermost parts of the north with all his hordes—many peoples are with you.

[7]“Be ready and keep ready, you and all your hosts that are assembled about you, and be a guard for them. [8]† After many days you will be mustered. In the latter years you will go against the land that is restored from war, the land whose people were gathered from many peoples upon the mountains of Israel, which had been a continual waste. Its people were brought out from the peoples and now dwell securely, all of them. [9]You will advance, coming on like a storm. You will be like a cloud covering the land, you and all your hordes, and many peoples with you.

[10]“‘Thus says the Lord God: On that day, thoughts will come into your mind, and you will devise an evil scheme [11]†and say, ‘I will go up against the land of unwalled villages. I will fall upon the quiet people who dwell securely, all of them dwelling without walls, and having no bars or gates,’ [12]†to seize spoil and carry off plunder, to turn your hand against the waste places that are now inhabited, and the people who were gathered from the nations, who have acquired livestock and goods, who dwell at the center of the earth. [13]† Sheba and Dedan and the merchants of Tarshish and all its leaders[1] will say to you, ‘Have you come to seize spoil? Have you assembled your hosts to carry off plunder, to carry away silver and gold, to take away livestock and goods, to seize great spoil?’

[14]“‘Therefore, son of man, prophesy, and say to Gog, Thus says the Lord God: On that day when my people Israel are dwelling securely, will you not know it? 15 †You will come from your place out of the uttermost parts of the north, you and many peoples with you, all of them riding on horses, a great host, a mighty army. 16 †You will come up against my people Israel, like a cloud covering the land. In the latter days I will bring you against my land, that the nations may know me, when through you, O Gog, I vindicate my holiness before their eyes.

17 ‡†"Thus says the Lord God: Are you he of whom I spoke in former days by my servants the prophets of Israel, who in those days prophesied for years that I would bring you against them? 18 †But on that day, the day that Gog shall come against the land of Israel, declares the Lord God, my wrath will be roused in my anger. 19 For in my jealousy and in my blazing wrath I declare, On that day there shall be a great earthquake in the land of Israel.
20 The fish of the sea and the birds of the heavens and the beasts of the field and all creeping things that creep on the ground, and all the people who are on the face of the earth, shall quake at my presence. And the mountains shall be thrown down, and the cliffs shall fall, and every wall shall tumble to the ground. 21 † I will summon a sword against Gog[2] on all my mountains, declares the Lord God. Every man's sword will be against his brother. 22 †With pestilence and bloodshed I will enter into judgment with him, and I will rain upon him and his hordes and the many peoples who are with him torrential rains and hailstones, fire and sulfur. 23 †So I will show my greatness and my holiness and make myself known in the eyes of many nations. Then they will know that I am the Lord.

39 1 †"And you, son of man, prophesy against Gog and say, Thus says the Lord God: Behold, I am against you, O Gog, chief prince of Meshech[1] and Tubal. 2 And I will turn you about and drive you forward, and bring you up from the uttermost parts of the north, and lead you against the mountains of Israel. 3 †Then I will strike your bow from your left hand, and will make your arrows drop out of your right hand. 4 †You shall fall on the mountains of Israel, you and all your hordes and the peoples who are with you. I will give you to birds of prey of every sort and to the beasts of the field to be devoured. 5 You shall fall in the open field, for I have spoken, declares the Lord God. 6 †I will send fire on Magog and on those who dwell securely in the coastlands, and they shall know that I am the Lord.

7 † “And my holy name I will make known in the midst of my people Israel, and I will not let my holy name be profaned anymore. And the nations shall know that I am the Lord, the Holy One in Israel. 8 Behold, it is coming and it will be brought about, declares the Lord God. That is the day of which I have spoken.
9 † “Then those who dwell in the cities of Israel will go out and make fires of the weapons and burn them, shields and bucklers, bow and arrows, clubs[2] and spears; and they will make fires of them for seven years, 10 † so that they will not need to take wood out of the field or cut down any out of the forests, for they will make their fires of the weapons. They will seize the spoil of those who despoiled them, and plunder those who plundered them, declares the Lord God.
11 † “On that day I will give to Gog a place for burial in Israel, the Valley of the Travelers, east of the sea. It will block the travelers, for there Gog and all his multitude will be buried. It will be called the Valley of Hamongog.[3] 12 † For seven months the house of Israel will be burying them, in order to cleanse the land. 13 † All the people of the land will bury them, and it will bring them renown on the day that I show my glory, declares the Lord God. 14 † They will set apart men to travel through the land regularly and bury those travelers remaining on the face of the land, so as to cleanse it.
At[4] the end of seven months they will make their search. 15 † And when these travel through the land and anyone sees a human bone, then he shall set up a sign by it, till the buriers have buried it in the Valley of Hamon-gog.
16 † (Hamonah[5] is also the name of the city.) Thus shall they cleanse the land.
17 † “As for you, son of man, thus says the Lord God: Speak to the birds of every sort and to all beasts of the field, ‘Assemble and come, gather from all around to the sacrificial feast that I am preparing for you, a great sacrificial feast on the mountains of Israel, and you shall eat flesh and drink blood. 18 † You shall eat the flesh of the mighty, and drink the blood of the princes of the earth—of rams, of lambs, and of he-goats, of bulls, all of them fat beasts of Bashan. 19 And you shall eat fat till you are filled, and drink blood till you are drunk, at the sacrificial feast that I am preparing for you. 20 † And you shall be filled at my table with horses and charioteers, with mighty men and all kinds of warriors,’ declares the Lord God.

[21] † “And I will set my glory among the nations, and all the nations shall see my judgment that I have executed, and my hand that I have laid on them. [22]The house of Israel shall know that I am the Lord their God, from that day forward. [23] † And the nations shall know that the house of Israel went into captivity for their iniquity, because they dealt so treacherously with me that I hid my face from them and gave them into the hand of their adversaries, and they all fell by the sword. [24]I dealt with them according to their uncleanness and their transgressions, and hid my face from them.

The Lord Will Restore Israel

25 ††“Therefore thus says the Lord God: Now I will restore the fortunes of Jacob and have mercy on the whole house of Israel, and I will be jealous for my holy name. 26 †They shall forget their shame and all the treachery they have practiced against me, when they dwell securely in their land with none to make them afraid, 27 †when I have brought them back from the peoples and gathered them from their enemies’ lands, and through them have vindicated my holiness in the sight of many nations. 28 †Then they shall know that I am the Lord their God, because I sent them into exile among the nations and then assembled them into their own land. I will leave none of them remaining among the nations anymore. 29 †And I will not hide my face anymore from them, when I pour out my Spirit upon the house of Israel, declares the Lord God.”

Vision of the New Temple

40 [1]†† In the twenty-fifth year of our exile, at the beginning of the year, on the tenth day of the month, in the fourteenth year after the city was struck down, on that very day, the hand of the Lord was upon me, and he brought me to the city.[1] [2]† In visions of God he brought me to the land of Israel, and set me down on a very high mountain, on which was a structure like a city to the south. [3]† When he brought me there, behold, there was a man whose appearance was like bronze, with a linen cord and a measuring reed in his hand. And he was standing in the gateway. [4]And the man said to me, “Son of man, look with your eyes, and hear with your ears, and set your heart upon all that I shall show you, for you were brought here in order that I might show it to you. Declare all that you see to the house of Israel.”

The East Gate to the Outer Court

5 ‡ ‡ † And behold, there was a wall all around the outside of the temple area, and the length of the measuring reed in the man's hand was six long cubits, each being a cubit and a handbreadth[1] in length. So he measured the thickness of the wall, one reed; and the height, one reed. 6 † Then he went into the gateway facing east, going up its steps, and measured the threshold of the gate, one reed deep.[2] 7 † And the side rooms, one reed long and one reed broad; and the space between the side rooms, five cubits; and the threshold of the gate by the vestibule of the gate at the inner end, one reed.
8 † Then he measured the vestibule of the gateway, on the inside, one reed.
9 † Then he measured the vestibule of the gateway, eight cubits; and its jambs, two cubits; and the vestibule of the gate was at the inner end. 10 † And there were three side rooms on either side of the east gate. The three were of the same size, and the jambs on either side were of the same size. 11 † Then he measured the width of the opening of the gateway, ten cubits; and the length of the gateway, thirteen cubits. 12 † There was a barrier before the side rooms, one cubit on either side. And the side rooms were six cubits on either side. 13 † Then he measured the gate from the ceiling of the one side room to the ceiling of the other, a breadth of twenty-five cubits; the openings faced each other. 14 † He measured also the vestibule, twenty cubits.
And around the vestibule of the gateway was the court.[3] 15 From the front of the gate at the entrance to the front of the inner vestibule of the gate was fifty cubits. 16 † And the gateway had windows all around, narrowing inwards toward the side rooms and toward their jambs, and likewise the vestibule had windows all around inside, and on the jambs were palm trees.

The Outer Court

17 ‡ † Then he brought me into the outer court. And behold, there were chambers and a pavement, all around the court. Thirty chambers faced the pavement. 18 † And the pavement ran along the side of the gates, corresponding to the length of the gates. This was the lower pavement.
19 † Then he measured the distance from the inner front of the lower gate to the outer front of the inner court,[1] a hundred cubits on the east side and on the north side.[2]

The North Gate

[20] ‡ † As for the gate that faced toward the north, belonging to the outer court, he measured its length and its breadth. [21] † Its side rooms, three on either side, and its jambs and its vestibule were of the same size as those of the first gate. Its length was fifty cubits, and its breadth twenty-five cubits.
[22] † And its windows, its vestibule, and its palm trees were of the same size as those of the gate that faced toward the east. And by seven steps people would go up to it, and find its vestibule before them. [23] † And opposite the gate on the north, as on the east, was a gate to the inner court. And he measured from gate to gate, a hundred cubits.

The South Gate

[24] † And he led me toward the south, and behold, there was a gate on the south. And he measured its jambs and its vestibule; they had the same size as the others. [25] Both it and its vestibule had windows all around, like the windows of the others. Its length was fifty cubits, and its breadth twenty-five cubits. [26] And there were seven steps leading up to it, and its vestibule was before them, and it had palm trees on its jambs, one on either side.
[27] † And there was a gate on the south of the inner court. And he measured from gate to gate toward the south, a hundred cubits.

The Inner Court

28 ‡† Then he brought me to the inner court through the south gate, and he measured the south gate. It was of the same size as the others. 29 Its side rooms, its jambs, and its vestibule were of the same size as the others, and both it and its vestibule had windows all around. Its length was fifty cubits, and its breadth twenty-five cubits. 30 † And there were vestibules all around, twenty-five cubits long and five cubits broad. 31 † Its vestibule faced the outer court, and palm trees were on its jambs, and its stairway had eight steps.

32 † Then he brought me to the inner court on the east side, and he measured the gate. It was of the same size as the others. 33 Its side rooms, its jambs, and its vestibule were of the same size as the others, and both it and its vestibule had windows all around. Its length was fifty cubits, and its breadth twenty-five cubits. 34 Its vestibule faced the outer court, and it had palm trees on its jambs, on either side, and its stairway had eight steps.

35 Then he brought me to the north gate, and he measured it. It had the same size as the others. 36 Its side rooms, its jambs, and its vestibule were of the same size as the others,[3] and it had windows all around. Its length was fifty cubits, and its breadth twenty-five cubits. 37 Its vestibule[4] faced the outer court, and it had palm trees on its jambs, on either side, and its stairway had eight steps.

38 † There was a chamber with its door in the vestibule of the gate,[5] where the burnt offering was to be washed. 39 † And in the vestibule of the gate were two tables on either side, on which the burnt offering and the sin offering and the guilt offering were to be slaughtered. 40 And off to the side, on the outside as one goes up to the entrance of the north gate, were two tables; and off to the other side of the vestibule of the gate were two tables.
41 † Four tables were on either side of the gate, eight tables, on which to slaughter. 42 † And there were four tables of hewn stone for the burnt offering, a cubit and a half long, and a cubit and a half broad, and one cubit high, on which the instruments were to be laid with which the burnt offerings and the sacrifices were slaughtered. 43 † And hooks,[1] a handbreadth long, were fastened all around within. And on the tables the flesh of the offering was to be laid.

Chambers for the Priests

44 ‡ † On the outside of the inner gateway there were two chambers[2] in the inner court, one[3] at the side of the north gate facing south, the other at the side of the south[4] gate facing north. 45 † And he said to me, This chamber that faces south is for the priests who have charge of the temple, 46 † and the chamber that faces north is for the priests who have charge of the altar.
These are the sons of Zadok, who alone[5] among the sons of Levi may come near to the LORD to minister to him. 47 † And he measured the court, a hundred cubits long and a hundred cubits broad, a square. And the altar was in front of the temple.

The Vestibule of the Temple

48 † Then he brought me to the vestibule of the temple and measured the jambs of the vestibule, five cubits on either side. And the breadth of the gate was fourteen cubits, and the sidewalls of the gate[6] were three cubits on either side. 49 † The length of the vestibule was twenty cubits, and the breadth twelve[7] cubits, and people would go up to it by ten steps.[8] And there were pillars beside the jambs, one on either side.

The Inner Temple

41 [1]†Then he brought me to the nave and measured the jambs. On each side six cubits[9] was the breadth of the jambs.[10] [2]†And the breadth of the entrance was ten cubits, and the sidewalls of the entrance were five cubits on either side. And he measured the length of the nave,[11] forty cubits, and its breadth, twenty cubits. [3]†Then he went into the inner room and measured the jambs of the entrance, two cubits; and the entrance, six cubits; and the sidewalls on either side[12] of the entrance, seven cubits. [4]And he measured the length of the room, twenty cubits, and its breadth, twenty cubits, across the nave. And he said to me, “This is the Most Holy Place.”

[5]‡†Then he measured the wall of the temple, six cubits thick, and the breadth of the side chambers, four cubits, all around the temple. [6]†And the side chambers were in three stories, one over another, thirty in each story. There were offsets[1] all around the wall of the temple to serve as supports for the side chambers, so that they should not be supported by the wall of the temple. [7]†And it became broader as it wound upward to the side chambers, because the temple was enclosed upward all around the temple. Thus the temple had a broad area upward, and so one went up from the lowest story to the top story through the middle story. [8]†I saw also that the temple had a raised platform all around; the foundations of the side chambers measured a full reed of six long cubits. [9]†The thickness of the outer wall of the side chambers was five cubits. The free space between the side chambers of the temple and the [10]other chambers was a breadth of twenty cubits all around the temple on every side. [11]†And the doors of the side chambers opened on the free space, one door toward the north, and another door toward the south. And the breadth of the free space was five cubits all around.

[12]†The building that was facing the separate yard on the west side was seventy cubits broad, and the wall of the building was five cubits thick all around, and its length ninety cubits.

[13]‡Then he measured the temple, a hundred cubits long; and the yard and the building with its walls, a hundred cubits long; [14]also the breadth of the east front of the temple and the yard, a hundred cubits.

15 Then he measured the length of the building facing the yard that was at the back and its galleries[2] on either side, a hundred cubits.

The inside of the nave and the vestibules of the court, 16 † the thresholds and the narrow windows and the galleries all around the three of them, opposite the threshold, were paneled with wood all around, from the floor up to the windows (now the windows were covered), 17 to the space above the door, even to the inner room, and on the outside. And on all the walls all around, inside and outside, was a measured pattern.[3] 18 † It was carved of cherubim and palm trees, a palm tree between cherub and cherub. Every cherub had two faces: 19 a human face toward the palm tree on the one side, and the face of a young lion toward the palm tree on the other side. They were carved on the whole temple all around. 20 From the floor to above the door, cherubim and palm trees were carved; similarly the wall of the nave.

21 The doorposts of the nave were squared, and in front of the Holy Place was something resembling 22 † an altar of wood, three cubits high, two cubits long, and two cubits broad.[4] Its corners, its base,[5] and its walls were of wood. He said to me, “This is the table that is before the Lord.” 23 The nave and the Holy Place had each a double door. 24 The double doors had two leaves apiece, two swinging leaves for each door. 25 † And on the doors of the nave were carved cherubim and palm trees, such as were carved on the walls. And there was a canopy[6] of wood in front of the vestibule outside.
26 † And there were narrow windows and palm trees on either side, on the sidewalls of the vestibule, the side chambers of the temple, and the canopies.

The Temple’s Chambers

42 [1]†Then he led me out into the outer court, toward the north, and he brought me to the chambers that were opposite the separate yard and opposite the building on the north. [2]The length of the building whose door faced north was a hundred cubits,[1] and the breadth fifty cubits. [3]†Facing the twenty cubits that belonged to the inner court, and facing the pavement that belonged to the outer court, was gallery[2] against gallery in three stories. [4]†And before the chambers was a passage inward, ten cubits wide and a hundred cubits long,[3] and their doors were on the north. [5]†Now the upper chambers were narrower, for the galleries took more away from them than from the lower and middle chambers of the building. [6]For they were in three stories, and they had no pillars like the pillars of the courts. Thus the upper chambers were set back from the ground more than the lower and the middle ones. [7]† And there was a wall outside parallel to the chambers, toward the outer court, opposite the chambers, fifty cubits long. [8]For the chambers on the outer court were fifty cubits long, while those opposite the nave[4] were a hundred cubits long. [9]Below these chambers was an entrance on the east side, as one enters them from the outer court.

[10]In the thickness of the wall of the court, on the south[5] also, opposite the yard and opposite the building, there were chambers [11]†with a passage in front of them. They were similar to the chambers on the north, of the same length and breadth, with the same exits[6] and arrangements and doors, [12]as were the entrances of the chambers on the south. There was an entrance at the beginning of the passage, the passage before the corresponding wall on the east as one enters them.[7]

[13]†Then he said to me, “The north chambers and the south chambers opposite the yard are the holy chambers, where the priests who approach the Lord shall eat the most holy offerings. There they shall put the most holy offerings—the grain offering, the sin offering, and the guilt offering—for the place is holy. [14]†When the priests enter the Holy Place, they shall not go out of it into the outer court without laying there the garments in which they minister, for these are holy. They shall put on other garments before they go near to that which is for the people.”

15 †Now when he had finished measuring the interior of the temple area, he led me out by the gate that faced east, and measured the temple area all around. 16†He measured the east side with the measuring reed, 500 cubits by the measuring reed all around. 17He measured the north side, 500 cubits by the measuring reed all around. 18He measured the south side, 500 cubits by the measuring reed. 19Then he turned to the west side and measured, 500 cubits by the measuring reed. 20†He measured it on the four sides. It had a wall around it, 500 cubits long and 500 cubits broad, to make a separation between the holy and the common.

The Glory of the Lord Fills the Temple

43 [1]‡‡Then he led me to the gate, the gate facing east. [2]†And behold, the glory of the God of Israel was coming from the east. And the sound of his coming was like the sound of many waters, and the earth shone with his glory. [3]†And the vision I saw was just like the vision that I had seen when he[8] came to destroy the city, and just like the vision that I had seen by the Chebar canal. And I fell on my face. [4]As the glory of the Lord entered the temple by the gate facing east, [5]†the Spirit lifted me up and brought me into the inner court; and behold, the glory of the Lord filled the temple.

[6]†While the man was standing beside me, I heard one speaking to me out of the temple, [7]†and he said to me, "Son of man, this is the place of my throne and the place of the soles of my feet, where I will dwell in the midst of the people of Israel forever. And the house of Israel shall no more defile my holy name, neither they, nor their kings, by their whoring and by the dead bodies[1] of their kings at their high places,[2] [8]† by setting their threshold by my threshold and their doorposts beside my doorposts, with only a wall between me and them. They have defiled my holy name by their abominations that they have committed, so I have consumed them in my anger. [9]Now let them put away their whoring and the dead bodies of their kings far from me, and I will dwell in their midst forever.

[10]†"As for you, son of man, describe to the house of Israel the temple, that they may be ashamed of their iniquities; and they shall measure the plan. [11]†And if they are ashamed of all that they have done, make known to them the design of the temple, its arrangement, its exits and its entrances, that is, its whole design; and make known to them as well all its statutes and its whole design and all its laws, and write it down in their sight, so that they may observe all its laws and all its statutes and carry them out. [12]†This is the law of the temple: the whole territory on the top of the mountain all around shall be most holy. Behold, this is the law of the temple.

The Altar

13 ‡ ‡ ‡ “These are the measurements of the altar by cubits (the cubit being a cubit and a handbreadth):[3] its base shall be one cubit high[4] and one cubit broad, with a rim of one span[5] around its edge. And this shall be the height of the altar: 14 from the base on the ground to the lower ledge, two cubits, with a breadth of one cubit; and from the smaller ledge to the larger ledge, four cubits, with a breadth of one cubit; 15 † and the altar hearth, four cubits;
and from the altar hearth projecting upward, four horns. 16 The altar hearth shall be square, twelve cubits long by twelve broad. 17 † The ledge also shall be square, fourteen cubits long by fourteen broad, with a rim around it half a cubit broad, and its base one cubit all around. The steps of the altar shall face east.”

18 ‡ ‡ And he said to me, “Son of man, thus says the Lord God: These are the ordinances for the altar: On the day when it is erected for offering burnt offerings upon it and for throwing blood against it, 19 † you shall give to the Levitical priests of the family of Zadok, who draw near to me to minister to me, declares the Lord God, a bull from the herd for a sin offering. 20 † And you shall take some of its blood and put it on the four horns of the altar and on the four corners of the ledge and upon the rim all around. Thus you shall purify the altar and make atonement for it. 21 † You shall also take the bull of the sin offering, and it shall be burned in the appointed place belonging to the temple, outside the sacred area. 22 † And on the second day you shall offer a male goat without blemish for a sin offering; and the altar shall be purified, as it was purified with the bull. 23 When you have finished purifying it, you shall offer a bull from the herd without blemish and a ram from the flock without blemish. 24 † You shall present them before the Lord, and the priests shall sprinkle salt on them and offer them up as a burnt offering to the Lord. 25 For seven days you shall provide daily a male goat for a sin offering; also, a bull from the herd and a ram from the flock, without blemish, shall be provided. 26 † Seven days shall they make atonement for the altar and cleanse it, and so consecrate it.[1] 27 † And when they have completed these days, then from the eighth day onward the priests shall offer on the altar your burnt offerings and your peace offerings, and I will accept you, declares the Lord GOD."

The Gate for the Prince

44 [1]‡Then he brought me back to the outer gate of the sanctuary, which faces east. And it was shut. [2]†And the Lord said to me, “This gate shall remain shut; it shall not be opened, and no one shall enter by it, for the Lord, the God of Israel, has entered by it. Therefore it shall remain shut. [3]†Only the prince may sit in it to eat bread before the Lord. He shall enter by way of the vestibule of the gate, and shall go out by the same way.”

[4]‡† Then he brought me by way of the north gate to the front of the temple, and I looked, and behold, the glory of the Lord filled the temple of the Lord. And I fell on my face. [5]†And the Lord said to me, “Son of man, mark well, see with your eyes, and hear with your ears all that I shall tell you concerning all the statutes of the temple of the Lord and all its laws. And mark well the entrance to the temple and all the exits from the sanctuary. [6]‡And say to the rebellious house,[2] to the house of Israel, Thus says the Lord God: O house of Israel, enough of all your abominations, [7]in admitting foreigners, uncircumcised in heart and flesh, to be in my sanctuary, profaning my temple, when you offer to me my food, the fat and the blood. You[3] have broken my covenant, in addition to all your abominations. [8]And you have not kept charge of my holy things, but you have set others to keep my charge for you in my sanctuary.

[9]† “Thus says the Lord God: No foreigner, uncircumcised in heart and flesh, of all the foreigners who are among the people of Israel, shall enter my sanctuary. [10]†But the Levites who went far from me, going astray from me after their idols when Israel went astray, shall bear their punishment.[1] [11]‡They shall be ministers in my sanctuary, having oversight at the gates of the temple and ministering in the temple. They shall slaughter the burnt offering and the sacrifice for the people, and they shall stand before the people, to minister to them. [12]Because they ministered to them before their idols and became a stumbling block of iniquity to the house of Israel, therefore I have sworn concerning them, declares the Lord God, and they shall bear their punishment. [13]They shall not come near to me, to serve me as priest, nor come near any of my holy things and the things that are most holy, but they shall bear their shame and the abominations that they have committed. [14]Yet I will appoint them to keep charge of the temple, to do all its service and all that is to be done in it.

Rules for Levitical Priests

15 ‡ ‡ “But the Levitical priests, the sons of Zadok, who kept the charge of my sanctuary when the people of Israel went astray from me, shall come near to me to minister to me. And they shall stand before me to offer me the fat and the blood, declares the Lord God. 16 They shall enter my sanctuary, and they shall approach my table, to minister to me, and they shall keep my charge. 17 † When they enter the gates of the inner court, they shall wear linen garments. They shall have nothing of wool on them, while they minister at the gates of the inner court, and within. 18 † They shall have linen turbans on their heads, and linen undergarments around their waists. They shall not bind themselves with anything that causes sweat. 19 † And when they go out into the outer court to the people, they shall put off the garments in which they have been ministering and lay them in the holy chambers.
And they shall put on other garments, lest they transmit holiness to the people with their garments. 20 † They shall not shave their heads or let their locks grow long; they shall surely trim the hair of their heads. 21 † No priest shall drink wine when he enters the inner court. 22 † They shall not marry a widow or a divorced woman, but only virgins of the offspring of the house of Israel, or a widow who is the widow of a priest. 23 † They shall teach my people the difference between the holy and the common, and show them how to distinguish between the unclean and the clean. 24 † In a dispute, they shall act as judges, and they shall judge it according to my judgments. They shall keep my laws and my statutes in all my appointed feasts, and they shall keep my Sabbaths holy. 25 † They shall not defile themselves by going near to a dead person. However, for father or mother, for son or daughter, for brother or unmarried sister they may defile themselves. 26 After he has become clean, they shall count seven days for him. 27 † And on the day that he goes into the Holy Place, into the inner court, to minister in the Holy Place, he shall offer his sin offering, declares the Lord God.

28 † “This shall be their inheritance: I am their inheritance: and you shall give them no possession in Israel; I am their possession. 29 ‡ They shall eat the grain offering, the sin offering, and the guilt offering, and every devoted thing in Israel shall be theirs. 30 And the first of all the firstfruits of all kinds, and every offering of all kinds from all your offerings, shall belong to the priests. You shall also give to the priests the first of your dough, that a blessing may rest on your house. [31]The priests shall not eat of anything, whether bird or beast, that has died of itself or is torn by wild animals.

The Holy District

45 [1]‡†“When you allot the land as an inheritance, you shall set apart for the Lord a portion of the land as a holy district, 25,000 cubits[1] long and 20,000[2] cubits broad. It shall be holy throughout its whole extent. [2]†Of this a square plot of 500 by 500 cubits shall be for the sanctuary, with fifty cubits for an open space around it. [3]And from this measured district you shall measure off a section 25,000 cubits long and 10,000 broad, in which shall be the sanctuary, the Most Holy Place. [4]It shall be the holy portion of the land. It shall be for the priests, who minister in the sanctuary and approach the Lord to minister to him, and it shall be a place for their houses and a holy place for the sanctuary. [5]† Another section, 25,000 cubits long and 10,000 cubits broad, shall be for the Levites who minister at the temple, as their possession for cities to live in.[3]

[6]†“Alongside the portion set apart as the holy district you shall assign for the property of the city an area 5,000 cubits broad and 25,000 cubits long. It shall belong to the whole house of Israel.

The Portion for the Prince

7 ‡ † “And to the prince shall belong the land on both sides of the holy district and the property of the city, alongside the holy district and the property of the city, on the west and on the east, corresponding in length to one of the tribal portions, and extending from the western to the eastern boundary 8 † of the land. It is to be his property in Israel. And my princes shall no more oppress my people, but they shall let the house of Israel have the land according to their tribes.

9 † “Thus says the Lord God: Enough, O princes of Israel! Put away violence and oppression, and execute justice and righteousness. Cease your evictions of my people, declares the Lord God.

10 † “You shall have just balances, a just ephah, and a just bath.[4] 11 The ephah and the bath shall be of the same measure, the bath containing one tenth of a homer,[5] and the ephah one tenth of a homer; the homer shall be the standard measure. 12 † The shekel shall be twenty gerahs;[6] twenty shekels plus twenty-five shekels plus fifteen shekels shall be your mina.[7]

13 † “This is the offering that you shall make: one sixth of an ephah from each homer of wheat, and one sixth of an ephah from each homer of barley, 14 and as the fixed portion of oil, measured in baths, one tenth of a bath from each cor[1] (the cor, like the homer, contains ten baths).[2] 15 † And one sheep from every flock of two hundred, from the watering places of Israel for grain offering, burnt offering, and peace offerings, to make atonement for them, declares the Lord God. 16 † All the people of the land shall be obliged to give this offering to the prince in Israel. 17 † It shall be the prince’s duty to furnish the burnt offerings, grain offerings, and drink offerings, at the feasts, the new moons, and the Sabbaths, all the appointed feasts of the house of Israel: he shall provide the sin offerings, grain offerings, burnt offerings, and peace offerings, to make atonement on behalf of the house of Israel.

18 ‡ “Thus says the Lord God: In the first month, on the first day of the month, you shall take a bull from the herd without blemish, and purify the sanctuary. 19 The priest shall take some of the blood of the sin offering and put it on the doorposts of the temple, the four corners of the ledge of the altar, and the posts of the gate of the inner court. 20 You shall do the same on the seventh day of the month for anyone who has sinned through error or ignorance; so you shall make atonement for the temple.

21 ✝ “In the first month, on the fourteenth day of the month, you shall celebrate the Feast of the Passover, and for seven days unleavened bread shall be eaten. 22On that day the prince shall provide for himself and all the people of the land a young bull for a sin offering. 23And on the seven days of the festival he shall provide as a burnt offering to the Lord seven young bulls and seven rams without blemish, on each of the seven days; and a male goat daily for a sin offering. 24And he shall provide as a grain offering an ephah for each bull, an ephah for each ram, and a hin[3] of oil to each ephah. 25In the seventh month, on the fifteenth day of the month and for the seven days of the feast, he shall make the same provision for sin offerings, burnt offerings, and grain offerings, and for the oil.

The Prince and the Feasts

46 [1]‡‡“Thus says the Lord God: The gate of the inner court that faces east shall be shut on the six working days, but on the Sabbath day it shall be opened, and on the day of the new moon it shall be opened. [2]‡The prince shall enter by the vestibule of the gate from outside, and shall take his stand by the post of the gate. The priests shall offer his burnt offering and his peace offerings, and he shall worship at the threshold of the gate. Then he shall go out, but the gate shall not be shut until evening. [3]‡The people of the land shall bow down at the entrance of that gate before the Lord on the Sabbaths and on the new moons. [4]‡The burnt offering that the prince offers to the Lord on the Sabbath day shall be six lambs without blemish and a ram without blemish. [5]And the grain offering with the ram shall be an ephah,[4] and the grain offering with the lambs shall be as much as he is able, together with a hin[1] of oil to each ephah. [6]On the day of the new moon he shall offer a bull from the herd without blemish, and six lambs and a ram, which shall be without blemish. [7]As a grain offering he shall provide an ephah with the bull and an ephah with the ram, and with the lambs as much as he is able, together with a hin of oil to each ephah. [8]When the prince enters, he shall enter by the vestibule of the gate, and he shall go out by the same way.

[9]‡“When the people of the land come before the Lord at the appointed feasts, he who enters by the north gate to worship shall go out by the south gate, and he who enters by the south gate shall go out by the north gate: no one shall return by way of the gate by which he entered, but each shall go out straight ahead. [10]When they enter, the prince shall enter with them, and when they go out, he shall go out.

[11]‡‡“At the feasts and the appointed festivals, the grain offering with a young bull shall be an ephah, and with a ram an ephah, and with the lambs as much as one is able to give, together with a hin of oil to an ephah.
[12]‡When the prince provides a freewill offering, either a burnt offering or peace offerings as a freewill offering to the Lord, the gate facing east shall be opened for him. And he shall offer his burnt offering or his peace offerings as he does on the Sabbath day. Then he shall go out, and after he has gone out the gate shall be shut.

13 † "You shall provide a lamb a year old without blemish for a burnt offering to the LORD daily; morning by morning you shall provide it. 14 †And you shall provide a grain offering with it morning by morning, one sixth of an ephah, and one third of a hin of oil to moisten the flour, as a grain offering to the LORD. This is a perpetual statute. 15 Thus the lamb and the meal offering and the oil shall be provided, morning by morning, for a regular burnt offering.

16 † "Thus says the Lord GOD: If the prince makes a gift to any of his sons as his inheritance, it shall belong to his sons. It is their property by inheritance. 17 †But if he makes a gift out of his inheritance to one of his servants, it shall be his to the year of liberty. Then it shall revert to the prince; surely it is his inheritance—it shall belong to his sons. 18 The prince shall not take any of the inheritance of the people, thrusting them out of their property. He shall give his sons their inheritance out of his own property, so that none of my people shall be scattered from his property."

Boiling Places for Offerings

19 Then he brought me through the entrance, which was at the side of the gate, to the north row of the holy chambers for the priests, and behold, a place was there at the extreme western end of them. 20 And he said to me, “This is the place where the priests shall boil the guilt offering and the sin offering, and where they shall bake the grain offering, in order not to bring them out into the outer court and so transmit holiness to the people.”

21 Then he brought me out to the outer court and led me around to the four corners of the court. And behold, in each corner of the court there was another court— 22 in the four corners of the court were small[2] courts, forty cubits[3] long and thirty broad; the four were of the same size. 23 On the inside, around each of the four courts was a row of masonry, with hearths made at the bottom of the rows all around. 24 Then he said to me, “These are the kitchens where those who minister at the temple shall boil the sacrifices of the people.”

Water Flowing from the Temple

47 [1] ‡ † Then he brought me back to the door of the temple, and behold, water was issuing from below the threshold of the temple toward the east (for the temple faced east). The water was flowing down from below the south end of the threshold of the temple, south of the altar.
[2] † Then he brought me out by way of the north gate and led me around on the outside to the outer gate that faces toward the east; and behold, the water was trickling out on the south side.

[3] ‡ Going on eastward with a measuring line in his hand, the man measured a thousand cubits,[1] and then led me through the water, and it was ankle-deep. [4] Again he measured a thousand, and led me through the water, and it was knee-deep. Again he measured a thousand, and led me through the water, and it was waist-deep. [5] Again he measured a thousand, and it was a river that I could not pass through, for the water had risen. It was deep enough to swim in, a river that could not be passed through. [6] And he said to me, “Son of man, have you seen this?”

Then he led me back to the bank of the river. [7] As I went back, I saw on the bank of the river very many trees on the one side and on the other.
[8] † And he said to me, “This water flows toward the eastern region and goes down into the Arabah, and enters the sea;[2] when the water flows into the sea, the water will become fresh.[3] [9] And wherever the river goes,[4] every living creature that swarms will live, and there will be very many fish. For this water goes there, that the waters of the sea[5] may become fresh; so everything will live where the river goes. [10] † Fishermen will stand beside the sea. From Engedi to Eneglaim it will be a place for the spreading of nets. Its fish will be of very many kinds, like the fish of the Great Sea.[6] [11] † But its swamps and marshes will not become fresh; they are to be left for salt.
[12] † And on the banks, on both sides of the river, there will grow all kinds of trees for food. Their leaves will not wither, nor their fruit fail, but they will bear fresh fruit every month, because the water for them flows from the sanctuary. Their fruit will be for food, and their leaves for healing.”

Division of the Land

13 †††Thus says the Lord God: “This is the boundary[7] by which you shall divide the land for inheritance among the twelve tribes of Israel. Joseph shall have two portions. 14 And you shall divide equally what I swore to give to your fathers. This land shall fall to you as your inheritance.
15 † “This shall be the boundary of the land: On the north side, from the Great Sea by way of Hethlon to Lebo-hamath, and on to Zedad,[8] 16 Berothah, Sibraim (which lies on the border between Damascus and Hamath), as far as Hazer-hatticon, which is on the border of Hauran. 17 So the boundary shall run from the sea to Hazar-enan, which is on the northern border of Damascus, with the border of Hamath to the north.[1] This shall be the north side.[2]
18 † “On the east side, the boundary shall run between Hauran and Damascus; along the Jordan between Gilead and the land of Israel; to the eastern sea and as far as Tamar.[3] This shall be the east side.
19 † “On the south side, it shall run from Tamar as far as the waters of Meribah-kadesh, from there along the Brook of Egypt[4] to the Great Sea.
This shall be the south side.
20 “On the west side, the Great Sea shall be the boundary to a point opposite Lebo-hamath. This shall be the west side.
21 † “So you shall divide this land among you according to the tribes of Israel. 22 † You shall allot it as an inheritance for yourselves and for the sojourners who reside among you and have had children among you. They shall be to you as native-born children of Israel. With you they shall be allotted an inheritance among the tribes of Israel. 23 In whatever tribe the sojourner resides, there you shall assign him his inheritance, declares the Lord God.

48 1 “These are the names of the tribes: Beginning at the northern extreme, beside the way of Hethlon to Lebo-hamath, as far as Hazar-enan (which is on the northern border of Damascus over against Hamath), and[5] extending from the east side to the west,[6] Dan, one portion. 2 Adjoining the territory of Dan, from the east side to the west, Asher, one portion.

[3]Adjoining the territory of Asher, from the east side to the west, Naphtali, one portion. [4]Adjoining the territory of Naphtali, from the east side to the west, Manasseh, one portion. [5]Adjoining the territory of Manasseh, from the east side to the west, Ephraim, one portion. [6]Adjoining the territory of Ephraim, from the east side to the west, Reuben, one portion. [7]Adjoining the territory of Reuben, from the east side to the west, Judah, one portion.

[8]† "Adjoining the territory of Judah, from the east side to the west, shall be the portion which you shall set apart, 25,000 cubits[7] in breadth, and in length equal to one of the tribal portions, from the east side to the west, with the sanctuary in the midst of it. [9]The portion that you shall set apart for the LORD shall be 25,000 cubits in length, and 20,000[8] in breadth. [10]† These shall be the allotments of the holy portion: the priests shall have an allotment measuring 25,000 cubits on the northern side, 10,000 cubits in breadth on the western side, 10,000 in breadth on the eastern side, and 25,000 in length on the southern side, with the sanctuary of the LORD in the midst of it. [11]† This shall be for the consecrated priests, the sons of Zadok, who kept my charge, who did not go astray when the people of Israel went astray, as the Levites did. [12]And it shall belong to them as a special portion from the holy portion of the land, a most holy place, adjoining the territory of the Levites. [13]And alongside the territory of the priests, the Levites shall have an allotment 25,000 cubits in length and 10,000 in breadth. The whole length shall be 25,000 cubits and the breadth 20,000.[9] [14]† They shall not sell or exchange any of it. They shall not alienate this choice portion of the land, for it is holy to the LORD.

[15]"The remainder, 5,000 cubits in breadth and 25,000 in length, shall be for common use for the city, for dwellings and for open country. In the midst of it shall be the city, [16]and these shall be its measurements: the north side 4,500 cubits, the south side 4,500, the east side 4,500, and the west side 4,500. [17]And the city shall have open land: on the north 250 cubits, on the south 250, on the east 250, and on the west 250. [18]† The remainder of the length alongside the holy portion shall be 10,000 cubits to the east, and 10,000 to the west, and it shall be alongside the holy portion. Its produce shall be food for the workers of the city. [19]And the workers of the city, from all the tribes of Israel, shall till it. [20]The whole portion that you shall set apart shall be 25,000 cubits square, that is, the holy portion together with the property of the city.

21 “What remains on both sides of the holy portion and of the property of the city shall belong to the prince. Extending from the 25,000 cubits of the holy portion to the east border, and westward from the 25,000 cubits to the west border, parallel to the tribal portions, it shall belong to the prince. The holy portion with the sanctuary of the temple shall be in its midst. 22 It shall be separate from the property of the Levites and the property of the city, which are in the midst of that which belongs to the prince. The portion of the prince shall lie between the territory of Judah and the territory of Benjamin.

23 † “As for the rest of the tribes: from the east side to the west, Benjamin, one portion. 24 Adjoining the territory of Benjamin, from the east side to the west, Simeon, one portion. 25 Adjoining the territory of Simeon, from the east side to the west, Issachar, one portion. 26 Adjoining the territory of Issachar, from the east side to the west, Zebulun, one portion. 27 Adjoining the territory of Zebulun, from the east side to the west, Gad, one portion. 28 And adjoining the territory of Gad to the south, the boundary shall run from Tamar to the waters of Meribah-kadesh, from there along the Brook of Egypt[1] to the Great Sea.[2] 29 This is the land that you shall allot as an inheritance among the tribes of Israel, and these are their portions, declares the Lord God.

The Gates of the City

30 ‡‡“These shall be the exits of the city: On the north side, which is to be 4,500 cubits by measure, 31three gates, the gate of Reuben, the gate of Judah, and the gate of Levi, the gates of the city being named after the tribes of Israel. 32On the east side, which is to be 4,500 cubits, three gates, the gate of Joseph, the gate of Benjamin, and the gate of Dan. 33On the south side, which is to be 4,500 cubits by measure, three gates, the gate of Simeon, the gate of Issachar, and the gate of Zebulun. 34On the west side, which is to be 4,500 cubits, three gates,[3] the gate of Gad, the gate of Asher, and the gate of Naphtali. 35 †The circumference of the city shall be 18,000 cubits. And the name of the city from that time on shall be, The Lord Is There.”

Introduction to Ezekiel

Reading Ezekiel

The workman's trowel slathers mortar across the face of a mud brick. The trowel clinks and scrapes the excess from the brick's edges. Brick by brick, the workman slowly raises the walls of a new home. When he pauses for a drink, he stares westward, away from the village. Babylon's horizon appears as flat as a brick. He thinks of Judah's distant hills, the walls of stone his family raised there. Then he remembers how the walls toppled, the beams burned, and the people fled. He wonders if they will ever be restored.

From the plains of Babylon, the priest Ezekiel looked back upon the defeat of Judah and prophesied the destruction of Jerusalem and its temple. He explained to the exiled Judeans that God's glory had departed from them because they had abandoned Him. But the Lord also showed Ezekiel a new day when His glory would return and the kingdom would become an everlasting blessing to the nations.

Luther on Ezekiel

This vision in the first part of Ezekiel [1:4–28], however, is nothing else than a revelation of the kingdom of Christ in faith here upon earth, in all four corners of the whole world as said in Psalm 19[:4]: In omnem terram. This is how I understand it (let someone else improve on it). For no one can be a prophet, as St. Peter testifies, unless he have the Spirit of Christ [II Pet. 1:21]…. To put it briefly: this vision is the spiritual chariot of Christ in which he rides here in the world, meaning thereby his entire holy church….

This vision, moreover (as Ezekiel himself shows in chapters 8–9), signified the end … of the priesthood, the worship, and the church organization instituted and given them by Moses. For all of these were instituted only until Christ should come, as St. Paul says in Romans 8[:2–3] and II Corinthians 3[:6], as Christ himself says in Matthew 11[:13], and as the Epistle to the Hebrews says repeatedly….

For this prophecy contains two things. The first is that Israel and Judah shall return to their land after their captivity. This came to pass through King Cyrus and the Persians, before the birth of Christ, at the time when the Jews returned to their land and to Jerusalem from all countries. They also came to Jerusalem every year to the feasts, even from foreign countries where they maintained their residence, drawing many Gentiles with them and to them.

But the hope of the Jews that there shall yet be another physical return, when all of them together shall come back into the land and set up again the old Mosaic order of things, this is something they have dreamed up themselves. There is not a letter in the prophets or in Scripture which says or signifies anything of the kind. It is written, indeed, that they shall return out of all lands whither they have been driven; not all of them, however, but only some of them out of all lands….

The second thing, and the best thing in this prophecy … is that God promises to create something new in the land, to make a new covenant unlike the old covenant of Moses that they dream about. This is plain from Jeremiah 31[:31–32] and from many more passages. No longer are there to be two kingdoms but one kingdom, under their King David who is to come; and his shall be an everlasting kingdom, even in that same physical land.

This, too, has been fulfilled. For when Christ came and found the people of both Israel and Judah gathered again out of all lands so that the country was full, he started something new: he established the promised new covenant. He did this not at a spiritual place, or at some other physical place, but exactly in that same physical land of Canaan, and at that same physical Jerusalem—as had been promised—to which they had been brought back out of all lands….

These two things Ezekiel teaches us when he comforts the people concerning the return from Babylon, but even more when he prophesies the new Israel and the kingdom of Christ. That is his vision of the chariot, and also really his temple, in the last part of his book [40:2–48:35]….

Ezekiel says neither that this city shall be called Jerusalem, nor that it shall stand at the place where Jerusalem was situated…. He says, "It shall be called Dominus ibi," "There God," or "God there," that is, "Where God himself is." The temple shall not be in the city…. There shall also be a great flow of water out of the temple into the Dead Sea [Ezek. 47:1–12] … but this in no way squares with the topography of Israel.

Besides the tribes and the land of Israel are very differently divided and arranged, so that the city and the temple shall not lie in the land of any tribe of Israel, though Jerusalem was previously located in the land of the tribe of Benjamin [Josh. 18:28]. All this and much more is plainly given in the text….

Therefore this building of Ezekiel is not to be understood to mean a physical building, but like the chariot at the beginning [1:4–28] so this building at the end [40–48] is nothing else than the kingdom of Christ, the holy church or Christendom here on earth until the last day. (AE 35:284–290)

Challenges for Readers

A Difficult Book. According to Jerome, the rabbis had decided that Jews should not read the first and final few chapters (40–48) of Ezekiel's prophecy until they were 30 years old. It appears they were concerned about misinterpretations of Ezekiel's visions, given the difficulty of interpreting and applying them. A further complication for readers is that the Hebrew text of Ezekiel is especially difficult. The ESV translators' notes supply numerous examples of the challenges. In some cases, the difficulties may be a result of the overwhelming experiences that accompanied Ezekiel's visions and the rapid way he recorded what he saw. One may generally agree that this prophecy is best approached by readers with a mature understanding of biblical teaching.

The Prophet Who Was a Priest. A common opinion among critical scholars of the nineteenth century was that prophets represented sincere, ethical religion and that priests represented dead legalism. The example of Ezekiel defies this caricature. He was a sincere priest and a prophet who cared deeply about the priestly code. See "The Prophets and Liberal Protestantism," p 1204; see also "Ritual and Devotion," p 5.

Repeated Expressions. Like the prophet Jeremiah, Ezekiel has favorite expressions that appear throughout his work: "know that I am the LORD," "son of man," "abomination," "declares the Lord GOD," and "the word of the LORD came to me." For more on these expressions, see pp 1079–80; see also note, Pr 6:16. Ezekiel's descriptive writing also naturally includes repeated attention to features of his visions, such as the wheels of God's throne (chs 1; 10) and the measurements of the new temple (chs 40–42).

Action Prophecies. Also like Jeremiah, Ezekiel tends to communicate God's Word through actions, which symbolize things to come. At times, these actions are difficult to understand. The notes help to unpack the setting and the symbolism. See note, chs 4–5; see also p 1220.

Bawdy Language. The satires in chs 16 and 23 contain shocking descriptions of lust, prostitution, and adulterous behaviors. Readers should surely understand that Ezekiel does not wish to stir up such desires in his readers but to illustrate the extreme unfaithfulness of Israel and Judah. Since God calls us to live a chaste and decent life, preachers and teachers of the Word should exercise care before using similar examples in their messages. When teaching on these chapters, they should promote a mature and sober understanding of the prophet's message.

Oracles against the Nations. As with other OT prophets, a portion of Ezekiel is written against nations other than Israel and Judah (chs 25–32). Some interpreters have understood this as an example of Israelite nationalism or prejudice. However, a more careful consideration reveals how these passages emphasize God's rule and judgment over all creation as well as His desire to establish His reign for the salvation of the nations, not their destruction.

Kingdom of God. As Luther's preface explained, God gave Ezekiel visions that illustrated the character of His reign in time and eternity (chs 1; 40–48). He does not promise an earthly, political kingdom by which God's people may rule over others. For more on this issue, see pp 1375, 1565–66.

Blessings for Readers

Despite the challenges in understanding and applying the Book of Ezekiel, one may give thanks to God for this remarkable prophecy. Ezekiel provides important insights on the doctrine of repentance (chs 3; 18), the promise of salvation God revealed in the new covenant (chs 11; 33–37), a prophecy of Holy Baptism (36:25–27), and God's goal for a united and holy people among whom His glory would dwell (chs 40–48). Ezekiel beautifully describes the coming of God's Messiah, the Prince of David who will shepherd God's people (ch 34).

As you read Ezekiel's condemnations of Israel, Judah, and the nations, look also for these bright and glorious beams of hope that stream from God's heavenly throne and promise new life. The Lord—our shepherd and holy refuge—will grant you greater appreciation for His patience and a vision of heavenly bliss.

God's Throne

The most beautiful thing that has ever been found in Egypt" is how Howard Carter described the golden throne of King Tutankhamun (Thomas Hoving, Tutankhamun: The Untold Story [New York: Simon and Schuster, 1978], 95). Upon first seeing it, the archaeology team grew silent with awe. The chair back showed the young king and queen greeting each other gently. Below them—supporting the throne—stared two lions, symbols of royal power.

In the Bible, God's throne also shows both His gentleness and His power. God surrounds Himself with numerous heavenly beings and glorified saints. Unlike the lifeless carvings and gold decorations on the thrones of earthly rulers, the beings of God's throne actively worship Him and lead all creation in eternal praise (cf Dn 7; Rv 4:6).

The Creatures around God's Throne

We first read about the special creatures called cherubim in Gn 3:24. The Lord placed them at the entrance to Eden to prevent Adam and Eve from returning to the garden. We find them again in God's directions to Moses for the building of the ark of the covenant and the tabernacle curtain (Ex 25:18–22; 36:8; 37:7–9).

The cherubim held a special place in the tabernacle. They were among the only beings depicted in three-dimensional form, despite the rules against making any "carved image" (Ex 20:4; in fact, we should read the commandment as a prohibition against creating idols—objects of worship—rather than as a prohibition against creating three-dimensional artwork). Four cherubim stood in Solomon's temple (1Ki 8:6–7; two cherubim on the cover of the ark, two standing above the ark), comparable to Revelation's description of the four living creatures standing about God's throne in heaven (Rv 4:6b–8).

In the Old Testament, the ark of the covenant served as God's throne on earth. In fact, 1Sm 4:4 states that "the LORD of hosts … is enthroned on the cherubim" of the ark (cf 2Sm 6:2; Ps 80:1; 99:1). However, Solomon understood that this was only a model of God's heavenly temple. He asked, "Will God indeed dwell on the earth? Behold, heaven and the highest heaven cannot contain You; how much less this house that I have built!" (1Ki 8:27). The Lord added through Isaiah, "Heaven is My throne, and the earth is My footstool" (Is 66:1). The ark surrounded by carved cherubim pointed to the heavenly throne room above (Heb 9:23–24).

The Appearance of the Creatures

The Jewish historian Flavius Josephus wrote that in his day no one really knew what the cherubim looked like (Ant 8:73). However, the priests would have seen the depictions of the cherubim when they served in the tabernacle and temple. God's own description or Moses' eyewitness testimony about these special angels would have guided their depiction. In fact, God inspired the craftsmen who created the images of the cherubim (Ex 31:1–7). Ezekiel also saw cherubim during his heavenly visions (Ezk 1; 10). He describes them with animal features and faces.

Some memories of the cherubim may also appear in the numerous statues of sphinxes and griffins in Egyptian and Near Eastern culture. Winged creatures with animal and human forms at least correspond to the descriptions of the cherubim that appeared in the Israelite temple. Images of such creatures have appeared on the thrones and other sacred furniture of ancient temples (cf 1Ki 10:18–20).

These Old Testament descriptions and ancient depictions may give us the best possible understanding of how the four living creatures appeared by God's throne and how they serve.

God’s Throne and You

If you trust in Christ Jesus for your salvation and have been baptized in His name, be assured that you will one day appear before God’s glorious throne as described in Scripture. You will take your place in that “great multitude that no one could number, from every nation, from all tribes and peoples and languages, standing before the throne and before the Lamb, clothed in white robes, with palm branches in their hands” (Rv 7:9). Do not wait until that day to join the heavenly shout, “Salvation belongs to our God who sits on the throne, and to the Lamb!” (Rv 7:10). Like the four living creatures, cast yourself down today and worship God Most High (Rv 7:11–12). Mingle your voice and praise with the voices and praises of heaven.

The cherubim and living creatures rightly take their place around God’s throne. Heaven is their natural environment, and their fearsome presence demonstrates God’s power. But through the blood of the Lamb, heaven belongs to you too. Your presence among God’s saints demonstrates not only God’s royal power but also His gentle mercy. Christ has prepared a place for you on His own throne (Rv 3:21) that you might dwell and reign with Him.

Humor and Comedy in the Bible

Numerous biblical passages take humorous turns—something serious students of the Bible may easily overlook. Mockery, ridicule, and taunts are common rhetorical devices in Scripture and may powerfully illustrate biblical truths.

When biblical writers point out the humor in a situation, it does not mean the situation is unreal or contrived. Comedy happens. A skillful writer will naturally play up the humorous aspects of a true story. Also, satires, parodies, proverbs, and parables are often epitomes of real events and experiences.

The following examples will help you recognize some of the ways humor appears in the Bible. (Many of the passages have humor that fits in more than one category; the list is far from exhaustive.) However, be forewarned—laughter is rarely carefree in the Bible (cf Gn 21:1–7; Jb 22:19; Ps 22:7; 37:12–13; 52:6; 59:8). Its humor is often bitter and unpleasant. Occasionally, it is bawdy. Before resorting to humor, students of Scripture should take to heart the lessons of Pr 12:18; 15:1; 25:11.

Euphemism: Describing something embarrassing or offensive with a more polite expression, which can have a humorous result.

Plowing with Samson's heifer (Jgs 14:18)

Foolishness: Embarrassing situations that reveal a person's lack of intelligence or character. This is perhaps the most common element of biblical humor and is used in contrast with biblical wisdom (comparable to modern situational comedy). See p 1016.

Joseph's brothers fear going to Joseph's house (Gn 43:18); Aaron's poor excuse (Ex 32:24); Balaam's argument with his donkey (Nu 22:22–35); Balak cannot get Balaam to curse Israel (Nu 23–24); Dagon bows before the ark of the covenant (1Sm 5:1–5); Achish regrets David's presence at his home (1Sm 21:10–15); Micaiah embarrasses Ahab (1Ki 22:5–23); Haman must lead Mordecai in procession of honor (Est 6); Jonah runs away from God (Jnh 1); James and John request glory (Mk 10:35–45); two disciples discuss Jesus' death and resurrection (Lk 24:13–35); Rhoda leaves Peter at the door (Ac 12:11–16)

Irony: Subtle, mocking comment that states something opposite to or surpassing its literal meaning; humor resulting from contrasts.

Puns: Play on the sounds or meanings of words that results in irony or ridicule.

The Gospel as Comedy

Some early Christian writers described Jesus' person and work in terms of a joke on death or the devil. Like a great fish, death or the devil gobbles up the man Jesus, not realizing that He is also true God. Christ's divinity, like a hook, catches the evil one and so allows Jesus to set free those who suffered death or the devil's oppression (e.g., Aug in NPNF 1 3:178; Gr Nys in NPNF 2 5:493–94; Jn D in NPNF 2 9:72).

Luther, too, loved the comic elements of Scripture and described God's work in our lives in terms of comedy:

For what could be said or thought that would be more wretched than those first fathers, Adam, Noah, and Abraham? Nevertheless, in the catastrophe of the comedy it appears that God has been playing with them in a most kindly manner and has not dealt otherwise with them than with dearly beloved sons. (AE 7:225)

Joseph plays this comedy in a very kindly manner and leads his brothers to despair, destruction, and hell; and when all is lost, the element of comedy appears and scatters all dangers…. When matters are in such a bad way and so desperate that no hope of deliverance is seen, we should know that it is the epitasis or the climax of the comedy and that the catastrophe is very near…. God is the Poet, and we are the verses or songs He writes. (AE 7:366)

Though disaster and death are truly serious matters, count on the Lord to overturn the tragedies of your life. From the catastrophe of His Son's death, He has brought forth for you new life, comfort, and joy.

New Life through Baptism

From Gn 3:15 onward, Scripture contains promises, prophecies, and types of Christ and His gracious work on our behalf (see p 1245). Because Holy Baptism plays such an important part in delivering Christ's work of redemption personally to us, the Bible foreshadows and prophesies the "washing of regeneration" (Ti 3:5) that God gives us through His Son.

Christian Baptism is more than a ceremony representing what God did for us in Christ, and being baptized is more than just obeying God's command with no personal benefit. Baptism is not an afterthought, as if God decided to add a subplot with no real significance or connection to the main story about Jesus. The Bible records that from the very beginning, God intended to join water to His Word to create new life.

Creating Life

Compare Gn 1 with Jn 1. Note that the first three words of both chapters are the same (“In the beginning”). Moses records that while the Holy Spirit hovered over the waters (Gn 1:2), God created our world and everything in it by speaking His Word (Gn 1:3, 6, 9, 11, 14, 20, 24, 26; cf Ps 33:6, 9; 148:5; Heb 11:3). John writes about God’s Word, the Son of God: “All things were made through Him, and without Him was not any thing made that was made” (Jn 1:3). By looking at Gn 1 and Jn 1 together, we see the Holy Trinity—Father, Son, and Holy Spirit—bringing forth new life in connection with water.

Notice that God did not recite a fancy incantation or wave a magic wand. Instead, He spoke His Word, and the water and the air teemed with life. It is the same way with Baptism, which is not a magical ceremony. In Baptism, just as at creation, God speaks His Word and brings forth abundant life, received through saving faith. As the Spirit of God hovered over the waters at creation, so too the Spirit is present at our Baptism (cf Mt 3:16; Ac 2:38–39).

Other examples of this Old Testament foundation for Holy Baptism appear below.

All That We Need

From its opening chapters, the Bible points to the main plot in God's great salvation story: the coming of His one and only Son, Jesus Christ, to live, to die, and to rise again for us. But God's Word also foreshadows Baptism as an integral part of God's story to personally deliver to us what Christ has done for us.

With Christ, you have all that you need. Through His Word, His name—Father, Son, and Holy Spirit—attached to the water of Baptism (Mt 28:19), God creates saving faith and brings forth new life. He separates you far from His wrath and punishment. He delivers you from attacks of the sinful nature that would drive you to the brink of destruction. And He graciously welcomes you into the promised land, allowing you to cross over from death into life. See p 1920.

When to Baptize

Does the Bible restrict Baptism on the basis of age, accountability, or mental ability? No. When Christ instituted Baptism, He did not apply such restrictions but simply instituted Baptism for "all nations" (Mt 28:19; on the nonbiblical "age of accountability," see note, Is 7:16). Such issues as age did not arise among the earliest Christians, who are known to have baptized whole households of people (see notes, Ac 16:15, 33).

In the third century AD, some people in North Africa proposed that, because the immature may fall into sin after Baptism, perhaps it should be withheld until a person is more mature (Ter, ANF 3:677–78). However, Christian leaders continued to practice Baptism as they had before—without restrictions on age. A report about a council of 66 bishops in North Africa illustrates this. The prevailing practice there was to baptize a child within two or three days of birth (ANF 5:353). These bishops even rejected the argument that Baptism should be withheld until a child was eight days old so its age could correspond to the age of Old Testament circumcision (Gn 17:12)! They pointed out that God, as Father, could be a father to anyone at any age. Cyp: "[God] shows Himself a Father to all with well-weighted equality for the attainment of heavenly grace…. No one ought to be hindered from baptism and from the grace of God, who is merciful and kind and loving to all" (ANF 5:354). Baptism, like life, does not depend on the maturity of the one who receives it, but on the grace of the One who bestows it: the Father.

OT Example: The flood (Gn 6–9)
NT Affirmation: 1Pt 3:20–21
Meaning: The flood shows God washing away sinners who corrupted His creation. But Peter emphasizes the blessing of salvation God provides to Noah and his family because the water lifted them up. God gave them new life.

OT Example: Circumcision (Gn 17)
NT Affirmation: Col 2:11–12
Meaning: Paul compares OT circumcision with NT Baptism, by which God grants new life.

OT Example: The exodus (Ex 14)
NT Affirmation: 1Co 10:1–2; Col 2:12–15
Meaning: The Israelites faced death on every side. We are hopeless before the onslaught of the devil, the world, and our own sinful flesh. Like Israel, though, God gives us deliverance through water—the water of Baptism. Paul wrote that we are "buried" with Christ in Baptism (Col 2:12). In that burial, God joins our death to Christ's death. Our Baptism swallows up death, just as surely as the Red Sea swallowed up Pharaoh's army.

OT Example: Ritual cleansing (cf Ex 19:22; 24:7–8; Lv 11–15)
NT Affirmation: Mk 7:1–5; Heb 9:11–14, 19–22; 10:22
Meaning: Washing was central to consecration and purity in the OT covenant. Unclean people faced exclusion from the sanctuary and from the community. Defilement was even punished with death. Cleansing brought people back into the life and holiness of the community. The NT uses the Gk word baptizo to describe such washings. The Book of Hebrews mingles the blood of the covenant with references to Baptism.

OT Example: Entering the Promised Land (Jsh 3)
NT Affirmation: 1Pt 2:2–3, 9–12
Meaning: With great anticipation, the Israelites stood on the banks of the Jordan River, ready to enter the Promised Land. God told Joshua to lead the priests into the Jordan River with the ark of the Lord. They would open the way for the people. God called Canaan a "land flowing with milk and honey" (Ex 3:8). In contrast to the wilderness, it must have seemed like heaven. But before the Israelites could enter upon their new life, they would need to pass through the water. Early Christians symbolized this new life by drinking from a cup of milk and honey after Baptism.

OT Example: New life and the Spirit (Ezk 36:25–27)
NT Affirmation: Jn 3:5; Ac 2:38–39
Meaning: Through Ezekiel, the Lord prophesied that He would give a new heart and His Holy Spirit to those sprinkled in Baptism.

The Final Battle and the Defeat of Gog

All commentators seem to agree that chapters 38 and 39 are really a unit and their division into two chapters is artificial…. But there is no agreement on how best to outline the chapters….

The oracle is undated and leaves no clues as to any historical occasion that might have elicited it. Closely related is the question of the positioning of the sermon at just this point in the book, especially because initially it appears to interrupt the sequence of chapters 33–37 and 40–48. Those earlier chapters promise the advent of the new David, Jesus Christ, and the regeneration of God's people (e.g., 34:23–25; 36:25–28; 37:22–28). The later chapters (40–48) give us an eschatological picture of a golden age of everlasting peace, security, and proper worship in the transformed promised land—the new heavens and new earth—parallel to the portrait of the eternal state in Revelation 21–22.

But here in Ezekiel 38–39 we have a description of a fearsome, climactic battle between the forces of evil and the people of God, who have already been redeemed and restored (e.g., "gathered" in 38:8; "peaceful … resettled … regathered" in 38:11–12). If we read Ezekiel 33–48 as presenting a chronological end-time sequence, this means that after the first advent of Jesus Christ (as prophesied in chapters 33–37), those who believe in him will be raised to new spiritual life already now. Thus the resurrection in Ezek 37:1–14 corresponds to dying and rising with Christ in Baptism (Rom 6:1–4) and to the "first resurrection" in Rev 20:5–6. Baptized believers in Christ have already undergone this spiritual "first resurrection," though we still await the bodily resurrection at the return of Christ.

Yet during this N[ew] T[estament] era, the powers of darkness are still present on earth and they continue to wage war against the church. Eventually they will mount a final attack against God's redeemed in Christ, but they will be overthrown (Ezekiel 38–39) before the dawning of the eternal state (Ezekiel 40–48)…. This chronological sequence fits the common biblical picture that persecution shall increase in intensity during the present church age and reach its peak before the parousia [coming, presence] of Christ. That biblical picture is presented by Christ himself in Matthew 24 and is the gist of the entire book of Revelation. Thus both

Ezekiel 38–39 and Rev 20:7–9, which alludes to these Ezekiel chapters by way of "Gog and Magog" (Rev 20:8), describe the warfare that Satan and his minions now wage against the church, with a final all-out battle coming before the end.

Therefore Ezekiel 33–48 supports the traditional understanding of biblical eschatology. In particular, chapters 38–39 offer no support for any of the complicated dispensational schemes involving a seven-year tribulation and a rapture of believers to be followed by an earthly reign of Christ on the present earth for a literal millennium.

Since Ezekiel 38–39 has some similarities with the Gentile oracles (chapters 25–32), some ask why they were not placed there. However, one will note that those oracles dealt with close and easily identifiable neighbors of Jerusalem, who were her enemies during the OT era. These chapters deal with enemies who are more distant, both geographically (see the commentary on 38:2–3) and temporally ("in the latter years/days," 38:8, 16)….

The first major biblical reuse [of chs 38–39] occurs in Revelation 19. Preparations are being made for the celebration of the marriage feast of the Lamb: at the return of Christ, all believers, who comprise his church and bride, will dine with him (Rev 19:7–9). The counterpart to that feast is the scene of the birds gathered for their great feast on the carnage of the enemies of God and his people in Rev 19:17–21, which is clearly a reworking of Ezek 39:17–20. Gog is never mentioned by name here, but plainly the "beast" ([Gk therion] Rev 19:19–20) represents him. Like Gog, he leads a worldwide coalition against God's church, accompanied by a false prophet and his various charms. At the conclusion of the last great battle, in which the beast and his coalition are defeated, the beast and the false prophet are cast alive into the lake of fire (Rev 19:20).

"Gog and Magog" figure explicitly in the account of the defeat of the beast in Rev 20:7–10. Yahweh putting hooks in Gog's jaws and summoning him from the far north to wage war on Israel (Ezek 38:4–23) is OT language for the same event now described as God releasing [Gk ho satanas], "Satan," the adversary, from his prison for a short time after the millennium (toward the close of the church age) so that he can assemble his army, consisting of "Gog and Magog." One should note that while Ezekiel describes God as orchestrating the whole scenario, Revelation gives prominence at this point to Satan. This is, of course, no ultimate contradiction, and [commentator C. F.] Keil nicely compares this contrast to the famous one between 2 Sam 24:1 and 1 Chr 21:1 (on who prompts David to take a census). Again, the miraculous defeat of the army coincides with the return of Jesus Christ. Ultimately, the deceiver of the nations, now identified as [Gk diabolos], "the devil," is recaptured and thrown into the fiery lake to join the beast and his false prophet (Rev 20:10; cf. Rev 19:20).

What has happened is that Ezekiel's prophecy of a penultimate event in human history ("the latter years/days," 38:8, 16) has become a prophecy of the final, ultimate, universal victory by the Messiah over the cosmic forces of evil. In NT context, this means that the victory Jesus won on Calvary over our sin, death, and the devil is in principle complete ("it is finished," Jn 19:30), but still awaits its consummation at the end of human history. Every time we partake of the Eucharist, we proleptically join the celestial victors in "a foretaste of the feast to come."

Study Notes

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 1:1 In the thirtieth year. Likely refers to the prophet's age. As a priest (v 3), this was the age when, if he were still in Jerusalem, he could assume full priestly duties in the temple. The date may be calculated as July 31, 593 BC. The true God is not confined to the temple, but comes to Ezekiel and calls him to a ministry of another sort. Chebar. Exact location unknown; likely in southwest Babylon (modern Iraq), near the ancient city of Nippur. Chebar is usually identified with the modern silted up river Shat-en-Nil, once fed by the Euphrates. canal. Hbr "river"; often specifically the Euphrates. Feeder canals often are as large as many rivers. the heavens were opened. The vision did not arise from within Ezekiel but from without. The almighty God came to him at a time and place of His choosing. visions of God. See ESV note. In the divine vision, Ezekiel saw God's glory but not God Himself (cf v 28). Iren: "The prophets saw the dispensations of God in part, but not actually God Himself… . When he set forth all the rest of the vision of the thrones, lest anyone might happen to think that in those [visions] he had actually seen God, he added: 'This was the appearance of the likeness of the glory of God' " (ANF 1:490–91). visions. Probably not a typical plural, but intensive, a Hbr idiom for the greatness of the vision.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 1:2 fifth year of the exile of King Jehoiachin. Mid-593 BC, counting inclusively, as the OT usually does. Twelve other dates throughout Ezk follow the same pattern, the last in 40:1. All of these record times when Ezekiel received divine messages, except for 33:21, which reports the arrival of a messenger reporting the fall of Jerusalem. Even more noteworthy, all are in chronological order with the one exception of 29:17, which is dated 571 BC, the latest date in the Book. Ezekiel ministered some 22 years. See chronology, p ci. Jehoiachin. The rightful heir to the Davidic throne. Faithful Israelites centered their messianic hopes on him. (Cf 2Ki 24:8–17; 25:27–30; Jer 52.)

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 1:3 The rest of his Book is autobiographical. Ezekiel likely added this historical note for the benefit of later readers. This chronological reckoning will be used throughout Ezk. the word of the LORD came. The Bible often uses "word" and "vision" interchangeably. An actual vision comes in ch 1, but we hear no words until ch 2. Neither are artificial or magical means used to induce inspiration, as was common in paganism. God cannot be manipulated; He comes in grace of His own free will. See p 1080. Lord. See p 1227. Ezekiel … him. The only place in the entire Book where Ezekiel does not use the first person ("I"). the priest, the son of Buzi. Implies that his father was also a priest. Priesthood was hereditary in the OT. See p 228. Chaldeans. Used almost interchangeably with "Babylonians" (e.g., 12:13; 23:15, 23). The city of Babylon was the capital, but had been invaded by the Chaldeans, an Aramaic-speaking people from the northwest (modern Syria). In alliance with the Medes, the Chaldeans defeated and replaced the original Babylonian people as the world power at about the time Ezekiel came of age. This explains why Aramaic appears in Dn and Ezr and also influences Ezekiel's language at points. See p 720. Since there had been a great Babylonian Empire a millennium earlier, historians call the empire of Ezekiel's era "neo-Babylonian." the hand of the Lord. First of seven appearances in Ezk. See p 842. Ezekiel esp associates this expression with his receipt of a vision.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 1:1–3 The presence of the exiles "in the land of the Chaldeans" far from home is a manifestation of God's judgment upon an unfaithful people. But a remnant has remained faithful, among them Ezekiel the priest, whom God chooses as His instrument to explain why that judgment had come. Ezekiel will call the exiles to repentance and describe God's mercy promised to them. • Lord, because of our sins, we are in "exile" from our true home. But we give You thanks daily that You send ministers to preach the Gospel of Christ's death and resurrection, to absolve us of our sins in His name, and thus lead us to our spiritual home, now and in eternity. Amen.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 1:4 stormy wind came out of the north. The head of the Persian Gulf is characterized by strong sand storms in the summer months. Ezekiel may be describing this natural phenomenon, which God transfigures for him (cf Ex 3, the burning bush). Neighboring pagans associated such storms with a storm-god. But here, the almighty Creator uses the storm to address the prophet in a land where He was not worshiped. fire flashing. Perhaps lightning. as it were. One of many expressions (including "like," "likeness," and "appearance") Ezekiel uses to show he describes the indescribable. gleaming metal. Something bright and reddish-yellow in color. Ancient translators often translated the Hbr word as "electrum," a natural alloy of gold and silver. Another ancient parallel suggests "amber" (see ESV note).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 1:5 likeness. See note, v 4. four. Frequently used in Ezk, perhaps signifying completeness or totality. See p 217. living creatures. Later, Ezekiel will call these creatures "cherubim" (10:1); he may be reluctant to do so initially because their appearance was different from the cherubim above the ark of the covenant in both the tabernacle and the temple. See note, 10:1; see also p 1323.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 1:6 four faces … four wings. The creatures could see and move in all directions. A contrast may be intended with the hybrid creatures of Babylonian mythology, to which magical powers were ascribed. This vision stresses that all power and activity is under the control of the one omnipotent and omnipresent God.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 1:7 Their legs were straight. Could imply "unjointed" (i.e., having no knees) because the creatures did not walk, but flew. Alternatively, it may mean they were standing, not lying down with their legs folded beneath them. sole of a calf's foot. Probably a hoof. they sparkled. Likely the creatures as a whole, not merely their legs (cf v 4).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 1:8 Unlike birds, these hybrid creatures had human hands under their wings.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 1:9 wings touched one another. Cf 1Ki 6:27. Although there were four distinct creatures, they appeared to be a single creature (cf v 11). touched. Or, "joined," implying that each wing moved in perfect concert with the others. straight forward. In unison of purpose. Any direction was straight ahead for one of the creatures.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 1:10 They appear to be listed in the order in which they came into the prophet's field of vision. So, looking at the creatures head-on, the human face was the first discernible, then the lion on the right, the ox on the left, and finally an eagle at the rear. See note, v 6. At the head of all three is man, made in the image of God, but also to have dominion over the rest (see note, Gn 1:26). See note, Nu 2:2. Early in the history of the Christian Church, these four faces came to be identified with the four evangelists, who, in spite of their different accents, all proclaim the same Gospel. likeness. See note, v 4. The four. Described as a unit. lion. Representing strength, courage, and royalty ("the king of beasts"). ox. Common symbol of fertility and divinity in addition to its domestic utility. eagle. Renowned for its speed and stateliness.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 1:11 Partially repeats v 9. two covered their bodies. Apparently out of modesty, just as in Isaiah's inaugural vision.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 1:12 Wherever the spirit would go, they went. Neither wings nor legs play any role in the movement of the creatures. spirit. Hbr ruach. In v 4, it meant "wind." Here, it must mean "spirit," but whose? It could refer to the will of the creatures. But God's Spirit plays a prominent role elsewhere in Ezk, often lifting Ezekiel himself up and carrying him various places. The divine element cannot be eliminated here, much as the NT describes our human spirits as indwelt by the Holy Spirit. Christians will not hesitate to identify this divine Spirit with the Third Person of the Trinity. Bas: "Now of the rest of the Powers each is believed to be in a circumscribed place… . But the Spirit is believed to have been operating at the same time in Habakkuk and in Daniel at Babylon, and to have been at the prison with Jeremiah, and with Ezekiel at the Chebar. For the Spirit of the Lord fills the world" (NPNF 2 8:34–35).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 1:13 like burning coals of fire … torches moving to and fro. See note, v 4.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 1:14 darted to and fro. See note, v 12.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 1:15 wheel on the earth. Appears to anticipate the vehicle's landing in v 24b. Such a premature notice is an indication of Ezekiel's excitement. When the vision is repeated in ch 10, Ezekiel is calmer.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 1:16 beryl. Likely a bluish-green stone, one of the precious stones in the breastpiece of the high priest (Ex 28:30; 39:13). Cf 28:13. wheel within a wheel. Two wheels intersecting at right angles. Concentric rims is also possible, but less likely.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 1:17 The wheels can move freely in any direction (like a round caster on chair legs allowing the chair to roll in any direction without turning the direction the chair faces). See notes, 1Ki 1:46; 7:27.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 1:18–21 full of eyes. Stresses that the entire vehicle is alive. Even the wheels were under the guidance of the Spirit.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 1:18 rims. Outer surfaces of the wheels.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 1:22 expanse. Traditionally translated "firmament"; used in Gn 1:6–8 for the vault of heaven, which to the naked eye looks like an inverted bowl stretching to the horizon. God's throne stands in heaven above. God reigns over the entire universe, everything beneath the heavens. King Jehoiachin may have been dethroned (v 2), but God's universal rule continues forever. See pp 1565–66, 1291. crystal. Usually means "ice," which looks very much like glass.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 1:23–24 Cf v 11. Their flight now ends and they relax.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 1:24 Three similes describe the sound the creatures make while active. many waters. Like the awesome roar of ocean breakers (cf Ps 93:4). Sometimes, esp in Ps, waters represent the forces of threatening evil, although sometimes God uses water for salvation (e.g., the exodus). sound of the Almighty. Or, "voice of the Almighty." Almighty. See p 1227. tumult … sound of an army. Preparing for battle will make quite a din.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 1:25 When the living creatures fall silent, Ezekiel is able to make out another sound—a voice coming from the expanse above. The words of the voice are not reported until ch 2.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 1:26 likeness … appearance like. Ezekiel attempts to describe the new scene surrounding God Himself. See note, v 4. throne. Meant to be occupied by the King of heaven. sapphire. Not the blue stone we know by that name, but rather lapis lazuli. human. Hbr 'adam, "man."

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 1:27 gleaming … fire … brightness. Different words describe the same appearance. gleaming metal. See note, v 4. fire enclosed all around. Seems to imply that fire was enclosed in the metal-like upper torso.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 1:28 Climax and conclusion. Such was the appearance. See note, v 1. glory of the LORD. Hbr kebod yahweh. Esp important in Ezk. Sometimes "glory" simply implies "splendor, fame." But here it implies nothing less than God Himself in preincarnate revelation (cf Ex 33:18). The word refers not only to the divine figure on the throne but also to the apparatus underneath it. After the incarnation, the NT describes Christ as glorious (e.g., at the transfiguration [Mt 17:2; Mk 9:2–3; Lk 9:29–31]; at the throne scene [Rv 4]; in Isaiah's vision [Jn 12:41]; at the second coming, [Mt 19:28; 25:31]). See p 1227. fell on my face. Act of submission and worship. the voice of one speaking. God's message forms the contents of chs 2–3.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 1:4–28 Ezekiel describes the movement of the living creatures and the revelation of God's glory and voice. Today, God does not send us visions with new revelations, but works through the Word to convince us that we are "poor, miserable sinners." Yet God does not show His glory in Christ to terrify us. Through repentance and absolution, He desires to raise us with Christ in newness of life (see SC, Baptism, pp xxxix–xl). • Lord, lead us to daily repentance and a life of thanksgiving for the revelation of Your glory in Your Son, who will through His Holy Spirit lead us into the blessings of eternal life. Amen.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON Ch 2–3 Sometimes these chapters are artificially separated from ch 1, but they are a unit. See note, 1:3.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 2:1 He. God Himself, but under His revealed form as the "glory." See note, 1:28. Son of man. God never addresses Ezekiel by name, but by "son of man" 93 times throughout Ezk. The expression accents the prophet's weakness as a creature in contrast to the Creator's omnipotence displayed in the vision. See p 1080.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 2:2 The Spirit works through the Word, and so enters Ezekiel's spirit and raises him, as it were, from the dead. Cf Rm 8:11.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 2:3 send you. An official assignment. The word "apostle" is derived from the Gk equivalent. See p 1901. the people of Israel. Lit, "sons of Israel," emphasizing the theme of hereditary guilt (or original sin). The phrase is relatively rare in Ezk. Israel. Ambiguous in the OT. Originally it is the covenant name of God's chosen people (see note, Gn 32:28). The religious significance was preempted for political purposes when the 10 northern tribes broke away and used it as the name of their country (1Ki 12). Ezekiel uses "Israel" for (1) the conquered Northern Kingdom, (2) the exiles with him in Babylon, and (3) those still in the land of Israel. Ezekiel's audience here was those exiled with him, but it often sounds as though he is also writing to those still in Jerusalem. There was communication between the two communities, and their religious ideas were essentially the same. nations of rebels. Parallel to "people of Israel." In later Hbr, "nations" assumed the meaning of "Gentiles" (i.e., heathen unbelievers). The implication here seems to be that the rebellious Israelites were like another heathen nation before God.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 2:4 Ezekiel's primary mission was to his present generation. They were born rebels, but they could not evade personal responsibility by blaming their ancestors. impudent. Lit, "hard of face" (anticipating "face" in 3:8). stubborn. Lit, "strong, hard of heart." Thus says the Lord GOD. God sends Ezekiel to preach His Word, not Ezekiel's own judgments. This expression is used far more frequently in Ezk than in the rest of the OT, so much so that it almost becomes Ezekiel's signature. See p 1080.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 2:5 hear. In the sense of "listen" or "obey." rebellious house. Instead of "house of Israel." they will know that a prophet has been among them. Variant of Ezekiel's recognition formula, "Then you will know that I am the LORD." They may have to learn the hard way, but learn they will! See "know that I am the LORD," p 1079. A prophet (or pastor) who preaches only what his audience wants to hear is rebellious and unfaithful. A prophet or pastor is not called to be successful by earthly standards, but to be faithful.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 2:6 The opposition is pictured as inflicting pain that will hurt but not prove fatal.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 2:7 rebellious house. Lit, "rebellion," as though this were their very essence.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 2:8 Transitional verse. Be not rebellious. Lit, "Be not rebellion." Underscores the intensity of the opposition that Ezekiel faces. eat what I give you. Unexpected command to the prophet; faithfulness to the Word does not include the option to pick and choose.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 2:9 a hand was stretched out. God's outstretched hand will appear again in 8:3; a cherub's hand appears in 10:7. Those instances speak of the hand as an instrument, not as an overpowering force (see p 842). a scroll of a book. Or, "a rolled-up scroll." Books as we know them (codices) did not appear until about the time of Christ, but scrolls were commonly used.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 2:10 He spread it. God unrolled the scroll. writing on the front … back. Common on scrolls. This detail also tells us the scroll was made of papyrus (only in NT times did they develop the technique of preparing skins so that they could be written on both sides). lamentation and mourning and woe. Hbr syntax indicates that this was a title written on the outside of the scrolls, essentially as is done with books today. It accurately summarizes the contents of the scroll, representing the bulk of the first part of Ezekiel's preaching (chs 4–24), until his constant prophecy of the fall of Jerusalem comes true.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 3:1 house of Israel. Phrase appears 78 times in Ezk but rarely in the rest of the OT. "House" would accent a family solidarity in the covenant. Although the Israelites are descendants, they have abandoned the heritage of the family of God.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 3:3 fill your stomach. The Word must permeate every fiber of Ezekiel's being so he will be prepared for the unpopular ministry ahead of him. as sweet as honey. Frequent simile in the Bible. Cf Ps 119:103; Rv 10:8–10, which appear to be only figures of speech. Here it seems Ezekiel actually did eat the papyrus scroll, which would not normally taste sweet.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 3:4 speak with My words. Implies a verbatim repetition of God's own words.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 3:5 Ezekiel is called to preach to his own people, who, of course, speak the same language. foreign speech. Hbr idiom. Lit, "deep of lips." hard language. Lit, "heavy of tongues." Is 28:11–12 vividly predicts how painfully difficult it will be for other exiles to learn a foreign language.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 3:6 Surely … they would listen. Hyperbole. Underscores the unexpectedness of Israel's obstinacy. Compare the Ninevites' reaction to Jonah's preaching (Jnh 3:5–9) with the Lord's denunciation of Capernaum and its neighbors (Mt 11:20–24). It is often harder to regain those who once belonged but have fallen away.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 3:7 hard forehead and a stubborn heart. See note, 2:4. Conversion is a matter of the will, which only God can move. Ezekiel should not take their rejection personally, because they are really rejecting the One who sent him (cf 1Sm 8:7; Lk 10:16).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 3:8 God promises to equip Ezekiel with the same unyielding determination as his foes show (cf Jer 1:18, Jeremiah's call). hard. From Hbr word for "strong," repeated three times in vv 8–9, and also found in Ezekiel's name, which means "God will strengthen." Deliberate wordplay. Ezekiel's "strong" name will characterize him.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 3:9 emery harder than flint. Restating v 8 in picture language. emery. Precise meaning of the Hbr is unknown. Used for sharpening hard objects. flint. Proverbial for its hardness. Fear them not … rebellious house. Nearly verbatim restatement of elements of 2:6–7.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 3:10 Son of man. Address signals a change of topic or a summary of a section. See note, 2:1. all My words. Placed first for emphasis. receive in your heart, and hear with your ears. Reinforcement of physical eating of the scroll (v 1).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 3:11 the exiles. Those exiled with him, not those left behind. your people. This phrase is used again in ch 33, with the same

"watchman" theme as follows in 3:17–21.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 3:12 Spirit. See note, 2:2. We shall meet the Spirit in a similar capacity five more times in Ezk. a great earthquake. Hbr word may refer to a roar or rumbling of any sort. Blessed be the glory of the LORD from its place! Could imply that the glory had stood still on the ground since 1:24 until now. More likely, this is a spontaneous salute to the departing glory, spoken by heavenly, angelic creatures. Cf 9:3; 10:4, 18–19; 11:22. Blessed. See p 842. place! Frequently means "holy place, sanctuary." Ordinarily, God's earthly place would be between the cherubim in the Jerusalem temple, but now He is specially present for the exiles a thousand miles away, as demonstrated by the voice/earthquake.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 3:13 See note, 1:24.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 3:14 in bitterness in the heat of my spirit. His psychological disposition. Such a notice is unexpected in a prophet who so rarely shares his emotions (in contrast to his contemporary, Jeremiah). Some other prophets were reluctant to answer God's call (cf Ex 4:1–17; Jnh 1:3; 4:1), but Ezekiel evidences no such mood. The words imply Ezekiel's identification with God's own emotions, a result of swallowing the scroll. bitterness. Hbr sounds similar to the frequent description of the exiles as a "rebellious" house. heat of my spirit, the hand of the LORD. Both God's Spirit and His hand influence Ezekiel here, and, as often, the two are not easy to distinguish. heat. Can be translated "fury," "rage"; frequently used in Ezk of God's wrath at His people's disobedience. being strong upon me. Apparently refers to the Lord compelling Ezekiel to do exactly as He commands. strong. May be another play on Ezekiel's name. See note, v 8.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 3:15 I came to the exiles. Ezekiel was somewhere outside the settlement itself at the time of the call and now returns to exercise his ministry. Tel-abib. The mound where Ezekiel and the other exiles settled. A "tell" is an artificial mound built up by layers of occupation (cf Jsh 11:13); modern villages are still often located on such mounds. Chebar canal. See note, 1:1. overwhelmed … days. Adjusting to the entirely different lifestyle or vocation that was now to begin. seven. Literal, and likely also symbolic use to indicate completion (e.g., Jb 2:13; Ezr 6:22). Seven is also prominent in the consecration of a priest (Ex 29:29–37; Lv 8:33–35). See p 217. Though Ezekiel will never exercise a normal priesthood in Jerusalem, God "ordained" him into a prophetic priesthood.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 2:1–3:15 God calls Ezekiel to witness to all sorts of conditions of men, even though prospects are bleak and the audience is hostile. As the Lord strengthened Ezekiel, He will also strengthen us to proclaim the Gospel. Our life may be one of lamentation, mourning, and woe, but that may be the only way to break through pride and lead us to see how hopeless our natural condition is. If, however, God's accusing message is ingested, His word of forgiveness in Christ's atonement will be "as sweet as honey." • Lord, drown our stubbornness daily in Baptism and raise us with Christ that we may gladly perform the service He gives us. Amen.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 3:16 the word of the LORD came. See note, 1:3.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 3:17 watchman … warning. Military metaphor; often applied to prophets (Is 21:6–12; Hos 9:8; Hab 2:1). In the NT, it is applied to all Christians, esp in final judgment contexts. The "warning" ultimately comes from the Lord, but the prophet is responsible for relaying it to those in danger. See note, Is 21:6–12.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 3:17b–21 Nearly duplicated in 33:1–9, though the contexts are entirely different. Here the passage is a private message and digression for the prophet alone, concerned with the message of judgment to which the prophet has been called. In 33:1–9, after the fall of Jerusalem, the message is virtually a second commissioning to proclaim Gospel promises.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 3:18–21 Four examples are given in "if … then" form. Each case involves individual accountability before God, both for the speaker (the prophet) and the listener. Each example classifies the listener as either wicked or righteous. (The word "wicked" was used rarely in the ancient Near East outside of Israel.) Great care must be taken that the distinction between "righteous" and "wicked" is heard in full biblical context. Ethics will be involved, but that is secondary. The starting point is one's standing before the heavenly throne, whether one has been declared guilty or not guilty, depending on believing or rejecting the promise (the Gospel fulfilled in the Messiah as Savior). If, in the OT, the final judgment were based on works, not grace, the religion of the OT would have been diametrically opposed to the NT, and the OT would not belong in the Bible.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 3:18 In this first example, the prophet is derelict in his duty, and both he and the wicked will die. The prophet is accountable as an individual. Death here involves the fates of individuals in the coming sack of Jerusalem, but unless the thought really is fatalistic, death or life in these contexts also involves ultimate destinies, i.e., eternal life or damnation. Bern: "Why do you [ministers] lay your heavy yoke upon those whose burden it is rather your duty to bear? Why does the young son who has been bitten by a serpent avoid displaying his wound to the priest, to whom he ought rather to resort as to the bosom of a mother? If you are spiritual, restore such an one in the spirit of meekness; considering yourself, lest you also be tempted (Gal. 6:1)" (WDC, p 154). Bern: "These and similar warnings, You, O Christ, did invisibly thunder to each, I appeal to their conscience as witness. You did knock at the doors of the mind of each with kindly terrors" (SLSB, p 185).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 3:19 In a second "if … then" example, the prophet is faithful, but the one warned refuses to "turn." The unrepentant person will die, but it is not the prophet's fault. not turn. Unrepentant. See "turn," p 1080. delivered your soul. Potentially misleading. Hbr has no word exactly corresponding to "soul." In the OT, people do not "have" souls; they "are" souls (cf Gn 2:7). In OT usage, "soul" is the life principle, i.e., what distinguishes a living person from a corpse; "soul" is synonymous with "life."

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 3:20 The third "if … then" example is more complex. In this case, a once-faithful person falls away and dies as a result. righteous person. See p 843. lay a stumbling block. A favorite expression of Ezekiel. It cannot be that God has caused the apostasy, but the "block" is something placed in a person's path that forces him to make a decision. What is in his heart must come to open expression. Cf Rm 9:32–33; Gal 5:11. The prophet's warning might have stopped the man's defection. his righteous deeds … not be remembered. The Bible frequently describes God in human terms as "remembering" or "forgetting" sins (cf Jer 31:34; Heb 8:12). The formerly righteous person has no merit to which he can appeal to balance the scales of justice on the Day of Judgment. Cf Ezk 18; Heb 9:27.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 3:21 The fourth example is the exact reverse of v 20. The prophet is faithful, the one tempted heeds the warning, and both live.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 3:22–27 Returns to the main matter: Ezekiel's call (v 25; see note, vv 17b–21). This is the most complex call narrative in all Scripture. There remains yet an additional instruction and also a directive such as no other prophet was required to observe. These verses may also be considered the beginning of the action prophecies (see note, chs 4–5). If the commands given Ezekiel here are read in that light, we have powerful action prophecies of the siege and fall of Jerusalem. Its inhabitants will be banned, at least in the sense of inability to move about the whole land freely. When Jerusalem does fall, its people will be stunned into speechlessness—at the very time when Ezekiel's muteness will be lifted (33:22).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 3:22 the valley. Far enough removed from the Tel-abib settlement that God could instruct Ezekiel in privacy.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 3:23 the glory of the LORD stood there. See note, 1:28; cf 3:12; 8:4; 43:2. I fell on my face. Ezekiel's response is the same as when he first saw the glory (1:28). Too casual a familiarity with God, as our "spirituality" is prone to become, suggests that we are no longer worshiping the true God.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 3:24 Spirit entered. See note, 2:2. shut yourself within your house. As the following instructions will amplify, Ezekiel is to do nothing without God's explicit command, esp in public. All other passages that specify Ezekiel's preaching speak of his house; often the elders or people came to him there (8:1; 14:1; 20:1; 33:30–31).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 3:25 cords … be bound. The question here is whether the cords are literal or metaphorical. One could conceive of a mob being so incensed at the prophet that they would literally tie him up. But there is no evidence in Ezk to indicate hostility toward the prophet's person, as was true of other prophets (e.g., Jeremiah). He may speak symbolically of the people's apathy or contempt. In 4:8, in a different context, God will declare Himself to be the one who ultimately does the binding.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 3:26 tongue cling … unable to reprove them. Ezekiel's muteness is not an unalterable, permanent condition, but is lifted whenever God speaks to him. It is made plain in 24:27 and 33:22 that his ordinary speechlessness was permanently lifted when his basic prophecy came true, i.e., when Jerusalem fell.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 3:27 He who will hear, let him hear. Our Lord Jesus uses almost exactly the same formula (e.g., Lk 8:8; Rv 22:15–20). God calls all to repent and believe, but, unfortunately, not all will respond positively. We do not by nature have the freedom to come to faith, but we are "free" to spurn it.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 3:16–27 All Christians are called to watch not only themselves but also others who profess to believe. It is a matter of life and death, and the one who fails to warn the backslider is just as culpable as the one who falls away. The true God is a God of justice (His justice as revealed on the cross) and He offers it to all. Disobedience or faithlessness will bring full judgment, perhaps in this life and certainly in eternity. But full forgiveness is available freely to all who heed the watchman's warning. • O Lord, through Your Holy Spirit, open our ears that we may heed the warnings of Scripture and open our mouths that with Ezekiel we may say to all, "Thus says the Lord GOD." Amen.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON Chs 4–5 Contains three or four of Ezekiel's action prophecies (depending on how one classifies them). Their oddity has caused some to prefer reading other prophets who are easier to understand. The prophecies here concern the siege of Jerusalem and are undated. It is impossible to say whether the siege was already going on, but the context suggests that they are predictive prophecies, not contemporaneous. On action prophecies, see p 1220. By usual count, Ezekiel performed a total of 12 action prophecies, two more than his contemporary Jeremiah (cf Ac 21:10–11). Greg: "It is the duty of a ruler to show by the voice of preaching the glory of the supernal country, to disclose what great temptations of the old enemy are lurking in this life's journey, and to correct with great asperity [roughness] of zeal such evils among those who are under his sway as ought not to be gently borne with; lest, in being too little incensed against faults, of all faults he be himself held guilty" (NPNF 2 12:22b).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 4:1 brick … engrave on it a city. Ezekiel is to sketch a city on a common mud-brick, before it had dried and hardened in the sun. See note, Ex 5:7.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 4:2 Ancient bricks were often large enough that quite a bit could be sketched on them. But the vocabulary here leaves open the possibility that some of the details may have been represented by other objects placed near the brick. siegeworks. General term with components following. siege wall. Rampart erected by the enemy to stop passage of people or material in or out of the city. camps. The enemy placed garrisons all around the city for an overview and supervision of everything. mound … plant battering rams. See note, 2Ki 18:14.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 4:3 iron griddle. Unclear purpose; possibly it represented metal plates or shields often fastened to the wooden battering rams to keep them from being set afire. Less likely, it is a figurative interpretation, understanding it as a barrier between God and the doomed city. set your face toward it. Ezekiel is to glare at the miniature city, as a sign of God's wrath. See p 1277. a sign. The entire action prophecy.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 4:4–8 The second and most difficult action prophecy. As though crushed by a heavy burden, Ezekiel is to lie on his two sides, to bear the people's punishments. (In the Agnus Dei, the original wording says "bear the iniquity of the world," not "take away.") Ezekiel was not operating as a sacrificial priest, but as a prophet—representing Israel's sin, which still required atonement.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 4:4 lie on your left side. Ezekiel was facing north (assuming his feet pointed eastward). The left side was also generally considered the less significant side (cf Gn 48:13–19; Ec 10:2). Looking northward would suggest the Northern Kingdom, Israel, which v 5 will confirm. He obviously did not spend the entire day (or even night) in a rigid posture. Evidently, he lay on one side and then another long enough for the people to see him lying there and infer the desired lesson. it. Ezekiel's left side.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 4:5 A day stands for a year, the total corresponding to 390 years of Israel's history. Ezekiel gives no clue about when the historic period begins or ends. The LXX has 150, which could approximate the period of years from Solomon's apostasy to the fall of Samaria (c 950–722 BC) or perhaps some other period. The span of 390 years fits fairly well with the time from the dedication of the temple (when the glory last moved [3:12]; see p 495) to the fall of Jerusalem. (Together, 390 and 40 [v 6] make 430, approximating the years Israel was in Egypt [Gn 15:13; Ex 12:40].) The lack of clarity and many proposed interpretations encourage a loose, symbolic interpretation; the figures prophesy God's judgment against His sinful people, yet He shall deliver them in the end.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 4:6 right side … Forty days. This number may stand for the long, wicked reign of Manasseh before his repentance (2Ch 33:12–13). Since 40 is a favorite figure of Ezekiel, it could represent a repetition of the 40 years in the wilderness (cf Ezk 29:11–13). Another ancient line of interpretation applies the numbers to the final judgment. The lack of clarity suggests that we not insist on precise application of the numbers. See p 217.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 4:7 arm bared. An indication of God's hostility. Similar phrases are used of God's saving activity, recalling the exodus, but Jer 21:5 depicts God warring against unfaithful Jerusalem. See p 842.

prophesy against the city. Might include the action prophecy itself, but usually implies speaking, most likely referring to prophecies that came later, beginning in ch 5.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 4:8 cords. See note, 3:25. God is in control of Ezekiel's action prophecies as much as his verbal ones.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 4:9–17 A third action prophecy begins—and probably a fourth as well, all about food. Two separate diets, or rations, are spoken of—a siege diet and an exile diet. The initial and concluding verses (9–11 and 16–17) speak of the siege diet of those left in Jerusalem, forming a framework for the whole section. Within that framework, vv 12–15 describe the mundane diet of Ezekiel and his fellow exiles in Babylon.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 4:9 There will not be enough of any one grain to make a loaf of flat bread (such as pita or variants, still common in the Near East). Vegetables (legumes, beans, and lentils) would not ordinarily be made into bread. Only 390 days of this diet are mentioned; the other 40 may be taken for granted. See p 236.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 4:10–11 During the siege, food and water will be scarce enough to be strictly rationed. twenty shekels. C 8 oz. sixth part of a hin. C 2/3 qt. These are near-starvation rations (cf Jer 37:21). from day to day. Suggests that Ezekiel ate and drank these rations while lying down, perhaps when the most people were likely to see it. Otherwise, he could perform his normal activities and eat at least the exilic diet.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 4:12–15 The exile diet.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 4:12 barley cake. Not dessert, but flat bread, as was the bread of the siege. On barley, see p 236. on human dung. The use of animal dung (which God will shortly allow as a substitute) was and is fairly common in areas where other fuels are scarce.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 4:13 eat their bread unclean. See "clean," p 6. When the people of Jerusalem are exiled, they will have no choice but to eat unclean food associated with pagan sacrifices. Cf 1Co 10:20–21. where I will drive them. Into exile.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 4:14 defiled myself. Ezekiel thinks he will make himself unclean if he eats bread baked on human dung. The Bible contains no prohibition of such activity, though there could have been an oral prohibition, at least among priests.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 4:15 God compassionately accedes to Ezekiel's sensitivities and allows him to use cow's dung, a practice that was common and obviously not offensive to the prophet. See note, v 12. Even with God's concession, the point of the action prophecy would still stand—the shame of those in exile forced to eat unclean food among the Gentiles.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 4:16 He said to me … Son of man. Signals the shift of topic back to an interpretation of the action prophecy of vv 9–11 (the siege diet). supply of bread. Lit, "staff of bread." As a broken staff is useless, a broken supply signals starvation.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 4:17 look at one another … rot away. Vivid language for the horror of starvation, as people can see in others how they themselves look.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON Ch 4 Ezekiel's action prophecies illustrate the dreadful judgment that God would visit upon the Israelites for their infidelity. God's ultimate purpose was to save as many as possible, who would repent before the judgment. God's wrath is a reality (see SC, Close of the Commandments, p xxxvi). Calvary's cross represents the maximum of God's wrath as well as the maximum of His love and great desire to deliver us. • Lord, lead us in true repentance and steadfastness of faith out of our Babylonian captivity, through Jesus, the author and finisher of our faith. Amen.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 5:1–12 Hair is the subject of this final action prophecy because it burns easily and because it is light enough that wind easily blows it about.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 5:1 sharp sword. Or, "sharp blade," used as a razor because a sword will be used in the judgments on the people. It is surprising that Ezekiel does not object as he did earlier to preparing his food on human dung. Scripture clearly prohibits priests from shaving their heads or beards. Near Eastern culture generally considered it dishonorable for a man to appear beardless (cf 2Sm 10:4; 1Ch 19:4).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 5:2 all around the city. Jerusalem is the real object of the shaving. God is the real wielder of the sword. (God Himself speaks concerning the third portion of the hair.) Cf 4:1–3.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 5:3 small number. Representing a few survivors of the catastrophic fall of the city. skirts of your robe. Folds in the loose-fitting outer garment commonly worn at that time.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 5:4 a fire will come out. Even the small number who escape (v 3) will nevertheless suffer the fire of the city's destruction. That fire will affect even those in exile with Ezekiel.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 5:5 Thus says the Lord God. Topic transition. See p 1080. This is Jerusalem. Ezekiel is to point at the brick (4:1). center of the nations. In medieval times, the phrase was often misunderstood as a geographical statement, but it is a theological one. The election of Zion as the city of David was part of the pivotal messianic promise. The people were misinterpreting God's promise to Zion as a magical guarantee of Jerusalem's impregnability (cf Jer 7:4), and God must demolish that fantasy. The grace God showed to Jerusalem and His chosen people in the past was well known; now its neighbors will note the imminent judgment upon Jerusalem (and Israel) for its infidelity.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 5:6 more. Gentiles had only natural law written on their hearts, but Israel had God's special revelation, and so they were judged more guilty before God, even if externally they were no worse (cf Lk 12:48; Rm 2:12–14).
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 5:7 Introduces the punishment after the previous indictment (vv 5–6). turbulent. Hbr unclear. Possibly "flagrant" or "brazen." statutes … rules. See p 971. not even acted according to the rules of the nations. Even pagan nations have rules and statutes as expression of the "natural law" in their hearts. Israel did not even meet the pagan standards.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 5:8 I, even I, am against you. Hostile orientation formula used 14 times by Ezekiel, more often than by any other prophet. judgments. See "rules," p 971.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 5:9 abominations. Ezekiel's all-purpose word for everything contrary to God's will and provoking His wrath. Ezekiel uses it 43 times, more than the rest of the prophets combined. See note, Pr 6:16.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 5:10 fathers shall eat their sons. Cannibalism, even of family members, will occur in Jerusalem's siege. scatter. When the city falls, God will scatter the few survivors. to all the winds. Possibly even a stronger expression than "to the four winds" used elsewhere (see "four," p 217).
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 5:11 God summarizes the reasons for His judgment. defiled My sanctuary. Illustrated in ch 8. Since God's promise to David and Zion centered on His presence in the Most Holy Place of the temple, all of Israel's brazen misbehavior was a personal affront toward Him who is holiness. abominations. See note, v 9. My eye will not spare. God is not mocked (Gal 6:7). He sees all. Such harshness does not contradict God's love and desire that all should be saved (cf ch 18), but He is also a God of justice.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 5:12 A third. Cf v 2. pestilence. Likely the bubonic plague, which would spread among the starving residents of a besieged city. See note, Ps 91:3.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 5:13 My anger spend itself … satisfy Myself. Virtually synonymous clauses piled up to emphasize that God's justice must be satisfied. they shall know that I am the LORD. See p 1079. jealousy. For a husband to share his bride with anyone else is contrary to the nature of things. See note, Ex 20:5.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 5:14–15 The focus shifts from God's anger to the emotional and psychological effects of the city's fall upon surrounding nations. Zion, the city set on a hill (Mt 5:14) as a light to the nations (Is 42:6; 49:6), will become a symbol of shame and contempt. Various pictures are used to drive the point home. I am the LORD*; I have spoken*. Unique to Ezk, appearing 10 times. God's Word will accomplish what it proclaims (Is 55:11).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 5:16–17 Ezekiel brings his first major judgment sermon to a conclusion, adding new word pictures to describe the judgment.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON Ch 5 The Lord condemns Israel for its brazen, sometimes worse-than-heathen, misbehavior. Because God loves deeply, He responds vigorously to those who violate His covenant. The outpouring of His wrath on obstinate unbelievers reminds us that He operates by the same principle in salvation; His Son bore the wrath our sins deserved. His love is costly—a price we could never pay—complete holiness. • Lord, through Your Holy Spirit, instill in us true thankfulness and a holy life that honors Your gift of Your own Son, who paid the price through His blood. Amen.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON Ch 6 Consists of two oracles (vv 2–10, 11–14), each of which subdivides into a main section (vv 2–7, 11–13a) followed by a sort of echo (vv 8–10, 13b–14). Both major sections close with variations of the recognition formula (see note, 2:5).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 6:1 The word of the LORD came to me. Formula emphasizing that what follows is not human thought but a product of divine revelation. See p 1080.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 6:2 set your face toward. See note, 4:3. The Lord commands an action prophecy. See note, chs 4–5. the mountains of Israel. Phrase Ezekiel uses 16 times; used by no other prophet. Several factors are involved: (1) nostalgia for the hilly land of Israel is held in contrast to relatively flat terrain of lower Mesopotamia; (2) Ezekiel expands his scope from besieged Jerusalem (chs 3–5) to the whole land of Israel; and (3) the mountains were often centers of pagan worship (see p 526). A sequel comes in ch 36, describing Israel's return to the mountains of Israel in a faithful age.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 6:3 high places. Only Hezekiah and Josiah are credited with reforms thorough enough to abolish the high places. But their successors reversed their achievements, and in Ezekiel's day the high places were flourishing. See p 526.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 6:4 altars. Larger structures, primarily for animal sacrifices. incense altars. Smaller structures. Archaeologists find little four-horned limestone altars in abundance. idols. See p 1079.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 6:5 To remain unburied was a great shame. Cf Jer 7:33; 16:4. Instead of kneeling or prostrating themselves, as worshipers normally would, the dead Israelite bodies would lie motionless before their "dead" idols.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 6:6 Wherever you dwell. There judgment will happen. high places. See note, v 3. works wiped out. All efforts to please false gods will end in failure.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 6:7 know that I am the LORD. See p 1079.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 6:8 I will leave some of you alive. See "remnant," p 1080. The first time Ezekiel proclaims God's mercy. This theme surfaces again, each time in more detail, until after Jerusalem falls. In chs 34–48, God's mercy becomes the overriding theme.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 6:9 remember. The remnant will have true contrition. broken. Heartbroken. In the Bible, God is frequently described in human terms as grieving over the way His people have responded to His love with ingratitude (e.g., Ps 78:40; Mi 6:3–4). whoring. See note, Hos 4:13; cf Ezk 16; 23. heart … eyes. Should express faithfulness to God; instead, they wander. loathsome … abominations. They are poor, miserable sinners. Knowledge of the absolution God offers to the truly penitent is assumed in such a context. The alternative is despair. See note, 5:9.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 6:10 evil. Hbr word does not necessarily imply moral infractions as in v 9. When God is the subject, "calamity, disaster" might better reproduce the meaning. See note, Is 45:7.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 6:11–14 Second, shorter oracle commands Ezekiel to perform an action prophecy (cf v 2). The context first explains God's motives, and then specifies how God's wrath will manifest itself. This second oracle repeats the first (vv 2–10), except that here we only hear of God's certain judgment.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 6:11 Clap … stamp. Mocking actions. See p 1276. evil abominations. See note, 5:9. Expresses the depths of Israelite depravity.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 6:12 No one will escape from God's punishment. pestilence … sword … famine. Conventional summary of punishments (5:12, 17; 12:16; 14:21); most common in Jer. They come from the covenant curses of Lv 26:25–26. (Cf 1Ch 21:12.)
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 6:13 on every high hill. See note, v 3. pleasing aroma. Probably a reference to incense, or perhaps to sacrifices of any sort. See note, 16:18–19.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 6:14 stretch out My hand. See note, Is 5:25. wilderness. Probably the Negeb, the semi-arid southern part of the land, gradually merging into the great desert of Sinai. Riblah. Defines the nation's northern limit, situated in central Syria, north of Damascus, on the upper Orontes River. It is just a bit south of the city of Hamath, specified elsewhere as the northern limit of the land. Riblah had painful historical associations: Pharaoh Neco (2Ki 23:33) and Nebuchadnezzar (2Ki 25:4–7) used Riblah as their campaign headquarters. See map, p 609.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON Ch 6 The Lord condemns the people, but, for the first time, salvation is clearly declared for the contrite remnant. Because God Himself was brokenhearted at their previous faithlessness, He will remember them now and so fulfill for them His promises, including the promise of the Savior. • O Lord, we are truly by nature sinful and unclean. Bless us with Your Word and Sacraments that we may remember and give genuine thanks for Your forgiveness through the sacrifice of Your Son. Amen.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON Ch 7 Excited or agitated in tone, which probably represents Ezekiel's state of mind when he proclaimed the message. He may have intended to arouse the audience to the imminence of judgment. There are difficulties in translation, as the ESV footnotes attest. Ch 7 gives three announcements of Israel's end (vv 2–4; 5–9; 10–27).
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 7:1 word of the LORD came to me. See p 1080.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 7:2 son of man. See note, 2:1. An end! Serves as a heading for the entire chapter. Lit, "End," since Hbr has no indefinite article. four corners. Probably implies something more universal than the earlier land of Israel (cf 7:23). See "four," p 217.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 7:3 abominations. See note, 5:9.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 7:4 My eye will not spare you. See note, 5:11.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 7:5–9 Six different Hbr words are used in this section to express the idea of disaster. comes. Emphasized by the fivefold repetition in this section.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 7:5 Disaster after disaster! A second announcement and stark title of doom opens again with a word without an article (see note, v 2).
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 7:6 awakened. Synonym for "comes," chosen for literary reasons.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 7:7 doom … the day is near. See "day of the LORD," p 1079. a day of tumult. May recall earlier prophecies of Zep 1:14 and Is 22:5.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 7:8 pour out. First use of a common expression in Ezk. Perhaps derived from the practice of defenders on a city wall pouring hot liquid on attackers below.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 7:9 I am the LORD, who strikes. The recognition formula (see note, 2:5) is amplified with speaking of God as the striker (cf Is 9:13).
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 7:10 This oracle opens by repeating v 7, but shifts to a botanical image. blossomed … budded. A plant is cut down when it is ripe or mature. So the final harvest is coming to nip the blossoms and buds of sin. Harvest imagery for the judgment is common in both testaments.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 7:11 After the harvest, nothing will be left standing.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 7:12 Commercial activity ends. Neither buyer nor seller will be able to react to the price paid in a transaction, because they will not be around.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 7:13 Refers to the Year of Jubilee, when all property was to revert to the original owner. See p 206. Loss of all property makes the law irrelevant. Cf Mt 24:17–18.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 7:14 When they sound the trumpet, calling people to battle, they will be so weak or petrified with fear that no one will respond. See "trumpet," p 993.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 7:15 See notes, 5:12; 6:12. without … within. The first threat will massacre those outside the city; the other threats will overtake those trapped inside.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 7:16 doves of the valleys. The few who might escape are compared to doves, who can do nothing but mournfully moan about their fate. each one over his iniquity. Implies they may bemoan their guilt, but not repent.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 7:17 Pictures either paralyzing fright or weakness of starvation. turn to water. Lit, "run with water," implying loss of bladder control.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 7:18 Four expressions of grief are mentioned—the first and last voluntary, the middle two involuntary. sackcloth. See note, Jb 16:15. horror … Shame. Figurative articles of clothing. baldness. Expression of mourning. See note, Lv 21:5.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 7:19–22 God judges the sin of materialism, no less a danger in antiquity than in modern times. Their silver and gold are now useless, so they discard it.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 7:19 unclean thing. Refers primarily to menstrual impurity, but can also refer to anything polluted and causing pollution (cf 36:17; see note, Is 64:6). stumbling block of their iniquity. A favorite phrase of Ezekiel (see note, Ezk 3:20). Their attachment to silver and gold is a manifestation of their iniquity.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 7:20 His beautiful ornament. Might refer to gold and silver jewelry, which they idolized, either figuratively or literally, as when they made the golden calf at Sinai (Ex 32). Or, "his" may refer to the temple (used as the national treasury; see notes, 1Ch 18:11; 26:20–28), which would highlight the magnitude of their greedy pride. See note, Is 3:18–23.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 7:21 foreigners. Babylonian besiegers. wicked of the earth. Perhaps generalizing to include any who oppose Jerusalem.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 7:22 turn My face from them. God will abandon them. See "lift up the face," p 1276. treasured place. The temple and Zion.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 7:23–27 God will also hold accountable the Israelites and their leaders, who corrupted the judicial system and legalized all sorts of criminal behavior.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 7:23 Forge a chain! To bind the captive Israelites together into a long train to be led into captivity.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 7:24 worst. Describes the Babylonians who, as the world power, most immediately threatened Jerusalem. pride of the strong. Probably refers to the Jerusalem temple. Cf 24:21; 33:28. Alongside of it were illegitimate, pagan "holy places" (including the high places).
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 7:25 Jeremiah's refrain: the false prophets had been preaching "peace, peace" (Jer 6:14; 8:11). On "peace," see p 7.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 7:26 The people turn desperately, but in vain, to traditional spiritual and tribal leaders. vision. A prophecy, but true prophets in this context prophesy only judgment. the law. See p 971. priest … elders. Traditional repositories of wisdom, but they are no more faithful than other Israelites. See p 228. "The Church does not allow itself to change Christ's ordinances into unimportant matters" (Ap XXII 15).
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 7:27 king … prince … people. A tripartite hierarchy of Israelite society. See p 228. people of the land. See p 228. they shall know that I am the LORD. Repetition of the recognition formula shows that they will learn the hard way that God is in control. See p 1079.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON Ch 7 Ezekiel describes God's coming wrath. The Law is necessary to the message of salvation. A weak preaching of the Law inevitably sets one up for a deficient or weak understanding of the Gospel. All of us constantly stand at the edge of the void, with the devil, the world, and our flesh ever-active and formidable enemies before whom we can never hope to stand by our own resources. Thanks be to God there is a day of mercy, too, which Ezekiel will proclaim and we may celebrate with joy in Christ, our Savior. • Heavenly Father, when the end comes for us, safely usher us through the grave to rest with Christ, and finally, to resurrection and eternal life. In the name of the Father and of the Son and of the Holy Spirit. Amen.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON Chs 8–11 A single visionary experience, climaxing in God's (the "glory's") abandonment of Jerusalem and the temple.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 8:1 sixth year … fifth day. C Sept 18, 592 BC; 14 months after the inaugural vision (1:2). elders. Apparently leaders selected by the exilic community (cf 33:30–31). See p 228. the hand of the Lord GOD. God's overwhelming power first came upon Ezekiel at his inaugural vision. Since God cannot be described directly, He is identified with "the form of a hand" in v 3. See note, v 2. fell upon me there. Expresses a sudden manifestation.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 8:2 a form … appearance. Hesitant to describe the supernatural "man" who appears. See p 39. fire … metal. In reverse order from 1:27. See notes, 1:4, 27.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 8:3 hand … Spirit. Appear to be virtually interchangeable (see note, 3:14). Spirit. Obviously God, the Third Person of the Trinity. Spirit lifted me … to Jerusalem. The "form of a hand" now becomes active, and the Spirit transports the prophet to Jerusalem. in visions of God. See note, 1:1. inner court. Ezekiel is transported to the area of the temple that directly surrounded the great altar of burnt offering and the temple itself. image of jealousy. First of the four "abominations" he will witness on this trip. provokes to jealousy. Arouses God's wrath and brings His punishment. See note, Ex 20:5.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 8:4 glory. See note, 1:28. vision … in the valley. Identifies the figure here with the one Ezekiel first saw at his call (ch 1).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 8:5 Ezekiel is directed to look toward the north gate, where he again spies the "image of jealousy." Son of man. See note, 2:1.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 8:6 great abominations. See note, 5:9. drive Me far from My sanctuary? As the only true God, He cannot share His home with any other object of worship. See "holy," p 7.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 8:7 hole in the wall. Noted as Ezekiel proceeds through the gateway from its northern entrance.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 8:8 entrance. Ezekiel enlarges a hole and discovers it leads to some larger room.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 8:9 vile abominations. Superlative. All we know about these sights must be deduced from the following verses.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 8:10 engraved … idols. Apparently scratched or painted on the walls, representing the vast number of idolatrous cults flourishing in Jerusalem at the time. creeping things and loathsome beasts. Language suggests Egyptian influence, where many gods were depicted as animals, birds, snakes, etc., and where wall paintings and carvings are well known. The language also echoes the creation account, where God had made man to have dominion over such creatures (Gn 1:26). But these idolaters had turned the created order upside down!

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 8:11 seventy men of the elders. Perhaps the same elders mentioned in v 1, although "seventy" suggests a representative number for completeness. See p 217. Jaazaniah. May have been the leader.

His father, Shaphan, may be mentioned to distinguish him from another Jaazaniah, a son of Azzur (11:1). Ironically, Jaazaniah means "The Lord will hear." Shaphan. A man of this name, three of his sons, and a grandson play a prominent role as defenders and allies of Jeremiah (cf Jer 26:24; 29:3; 36; 39–40). If this is the same Shaphan, this Jaazaniah would be a notorious rebel of an otherwise godly family. censer. Container for incense, which played a prominent role in both pagan and Israelite worship. In paganism, it was thought to placate angry deities. In biblical worship, its rising smoke was associated with prayer (cf Ps 141:2; Lk 1:10). It continued to be used in Christian worship (cf Rv 5:8; 8:3–4), and Christ's atonement is often described in terms of its pleasant aroma (Eph 5:2; 2Co 2:14, 16). See note, Lv 10:1.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 8:12 in the dark. Perhaps they were trying to hide their activities from others, or this was intended as a substitute for the Most Holy Place with its "thick darkness" (1Ki 8:12). room of pictures? Summarizes v 10. The LORD does not see us, the LORD has forsaken the land. The many invasions they had suffered for over a century led them to a typical pagan thought: a god who could not protect them must have been defeated by other gods. So they invoke the other gods to meet their needs. Ironically, the Lord is about to forsake the land, not in impotence, but in judgment and in the hope that at least a remnant will repent.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 8:14 north gate. Inner entrance of gateway, in contrast to its outer entrance at v 3. Ezekiel's path is uncertain, but appears to move closer to the temple. weeping for Tammuz. This god is mentioned only here in the Bible, but is probably the same god known as Adonis in Greece and Rome (noted by Jerome and Cyril of Alexandria). In mythology, Adonis died every spring when the rainy season stopped. The weeping was intended magically to help make the rains resume the next fall. The women joined in the idolatry.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 8:15 Cf v 6.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 8:16 The worst of the abominations. with their backs to the temple of the LORD. Ignoring the true God Himself, whose "house" the temple was. This is overt paganism, where the sun-god was normally at the head of the pantheon, and temples were oriented toward the rising sun (whereas the ark of the covenant stood on the west end of the Israelite temple, see diagram, p 541.). Traditionally, Christian churches (and graves) have been oriented toward the east because Christ, the sun of righteousness (Mal 4:2), rose at dawn in the east.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 8:17 God's rhetorical question implies that violence crowned all the abominations (cf Gn 6:11, 13). Abandonment of God's truth has led to loose ethical standards in many civilizations, including our own. Greg: "Now by Ezekiel are personified men in authority; by the wall is signified the hardness of their subordinates. And what is digging in a wall but opening the hardness of the heart by sharp inquisitions? … First a hole in the wall, and afterwards a door, is perceived, and that then at length the hidden abomination is made apparent; because, in fact, of every single sin signs are first seen outwardly, and afterwards a door is pointed out for opening the iniquity to view; and then at length every evil that lies hidden within is disclosed" (NPNF 2 12:21b). branch to their nose. See ESV note. Ezekiel is likely using a popular Israelite idiom for some supremely offensive gesture. The point of the expression is a maximal affront to God.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 8:18 wrath. With His love spurned, God's only alternative. See p 1904. My eye will not spare. Implies fulfillment of their apostasy. See note, 5:11. cry in My ears. See "call," p 842.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON Ch 8 At the beginning of Ezekiel's visionary visit to Jerusalem, he is led to witness four "abominations" that entail rank syncretism or even outright rejection of the true faith. Only when people realize the ever-present and insidious depth of their bondage to sin will they feel any need for a Savior. Ch 9 will show that there were at least some faithful in Jerusalem. The Lord always preserves His remnant by grace. • O Lord, open our eyes to our own idolatries, that we may cling all the more closely to the forgiveness You offer us in Word and Sacrament. Amen.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON Ch 9 Begins with nearly the same phrase that ends ch 8, but with radically different applications.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 9:1 He. God, in His earthly manifestation as the "glory." See note, 1:28. executioners. Unspecified attendants, probably angels, are sent by God to those who are going to punish the city. destroying weapon. Typically used for executions.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 9:2 At the command, a total of seven "men" (probably angels, cf Rv 8:2, 6) entered the city. Six are equipped to execute the judgment, while a seventh is prepared to write. On scribes, see notes, Jer 36:8, 10. a writing case at his waist. Often pictured in Egyptian paintings: a board with a slot for a pen and hollowed places for ink. beside the bronze altar. Traditionally, in the center of the temple courtyard, although Ahaz had once shoved it into a corner and replaced it with a pagan altar (2Ki 16:14). It was the location of most sacrificial activity.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 9:3 glory. Interrupts the narrative flow. The glory can be identified with God, who will begin to abandon the temple (cf 11:23). cherub. See note, 10:1. threshold. Previously the glory had sat enthroned on the cherubim in the Most Holy Place, but now He has moved to the threshold of the temple structure, poised to move still further away.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 9:4 The scribe mentioned in v 2 receives different instructions from the Lord. mark. Lit, "make a tau," the last letter in the Hbr alphabet. Its shape in the ancient script was that of an Eng "X" or a cross. Cypr: "The sign pertains to the passion and blood of Christ, and that whoever is found in this sign is kept safe and unharmed… . When Egypt was smitten, the Jewish people could not escape except by the blood and the sign of the lamb; so also, when the world shall begin to be desolated and smitten, whoever is found in the blood and the sign of Christ alone shall escape" (ANF 5:464).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 9:5 The other six men are to slaughter pitilessly and spare no one (cf 9:10). God's desire is that all shall be saved (e.g., 18:32), but His justice requires that unrepentant sinners must die. A one-sided emphasis that "God is love" dare not eclipse the severity of His wrath. Christ's cross is the maximal expression of both.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 9:6 old men … little children and women. In the horror of war, innocent civilians commonly suffer as much as the combatants. See p 879. God is not indifferent, even if it seems so to the human eye (cf the Book of Job). In any case, God knows those who are His, as the rest of the verse indicates. The faithful have received the saving mark on their foreheads. See note, Rv 7:3. Christians still make the sign of the cross upon those being baptized and may cross themselves. See SC, Daily Prayers, pp xli–xlii. begin at My sanctuary. Cf Mal 3:1–4; Lk 12:48.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 9:7 Defile … with the slain. Idolatrous worship had already made the temple unclean, but the dead would defile the sanctuary (lit, "a holy place") even more.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 9:8 remnant of Israel. A remainder is faithful. Ezekiel does not challenge God's right to do as He pleases, but intercedes with God to remember His promises. In his excited frame of mind, Ezekiel seems to have momentarily forgotten that a remnant had already been marked and thus saved (v 4).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 9:9 full of blood … injustice. People operated by a code of ethics at total variance with Yahweh's. The LORD has forsaken … does not see. God quotes their own words.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 9:10 eye will not spare. See note, 5:11. bring their deeds upon their heads. Pervasive evil requires pervasive punishment (cf v 5; Gal 6:7).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 9:11 Scribe's report will also remind Ezekiel that some were marked with the cross and had, indeed, been spared.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON Ch 9 The vision vividly describes God's final judgment on His disobedient people. But a remnant, bearing a mark of salvation on their foreheads, will escape. The road to perdition is broad, but God does not fail to place His mark of salvation on all who repent, "who sigh and groan over all the abominations that are committed" in the holy city (v 4). • Lord, by Your grace, keep our eyes fixed on the cross of salvation and with Your Holy Spirit help us ward off the temptations to follow the heedless masses who ignore and reject Your Word. Amen.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON Ch 10 The chapter divides into two parts, each introduced by "I looked, and behold." The first part describes the earthly judgment executed by the "man clothed in linen" (vv 2, 6–7). The second part describes the heavenly judgment as the glory abandons the temple (vv 4, 15, 18–19), expanding on the descriptions in ch 1.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 10:1 cherubim. The "living creatures" of 1:5, having animal and human features. These beings, mentioned over 90 times in the Bible, are most commonly associated with the presence of God (cf Ex 25:22). They guard the throne of God (Ps 80:1) and are probably the "living creatures" referred to as standing around the throne in Rv 4:6. "Cherubim" is probably best understood as a common noun referring to a variety of beings (described differently in the Bible) rather than as the name of a specific type of being. The term is also known from the ancient Near East, where it is sometimes used for the mythological beasts that stand guard over the gates of cities, an example of how the truth about God and His ways is often preserved in a distorted form in ancient mythology (e.g., the widespread accounts of the flood in various cultures). sapphire … throne. See note, 1:26.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 10:2 man clothed in linen. Appeared in 9:2; here he has an entirely different assignment. whirling wheels. Cf 10:9–13; see notes, 1:15, 16.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 10:3 standing on the south side. Possibly to distance themselves as far as possible from the "image of jealousy" at the north gate (8:5) or the gate from which the executioners entered (9:2). cloud. Signifies God's presence, as on the desert journeys (Ex 13:21) and at the consecration of the tabernacle (Ex 40:34–35) and the temple (1Ki 8:10–11). See p 39.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 10:4 God begins His abandonment of the temple (9:3) by moving from the cherubim in the Most Holy Place to the threshold of the temple. glory of the LORD. See p 1227. cherub. Singular here but probably collective. brightness. Cf 1:4, 13.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 10:5 sound … heard as far as the outer court. Since Ezekiel is in the inner court (8:3), the description illustrates how loud the wing beats were. voice. See note, 1:24. God Almighty. See p 1227.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 10:6–7 Essentially completes the account in this ch; resumed and concluded in vv 18–19.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 10:6 fire. Easily obtained from the burning coals (v 2).
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 10:7 Clarifies v 2; the man obtained the coals through the agency of a cherub (cf Rv 8:5).
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 10:8 a human hand under their wings. The mention of the hands (see note, 1:8) leads into a description of the cherubim in their entirety, concentrating esp on the wheels.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 10:9–13 Parallel to 1:18–21, but with some differences.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 10:9 sparkling beryl. See note, 1:16.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 10:10 wheel … within a wheel. See note, 1:16.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 10:11 four directions. See note, 1:17.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 10:12 full of eyes. See note, 1:18–21.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 10:13 whirling wheels. Cf v 2. Here, the motion is explicitly called to the prophet's attention.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 10:14 four faces. The subject shifts from the wheels to the cherubim as a whole. We were introduced to their four faces already in 1:6, 10 (see notes there). The face of an ox (1:10) is replaced with that of a cherub, the features of which may have resembled an ox.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 10:15 mounted. A brief note of the action, anticipating v 19. The identity of the living creatures of ch 1 with the cherubim here is made explicit. Chebar canal. See note, 1:1.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 10:17 See note, 1:18–21. This spirit or life force animated both the wheels and the cherubim.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 10:18 glory of the Lord. See note, 1:28. went out from the threshold. The Lord's abandonment of the temple takes place in stages. The first stage was reported in 9:3 and 10:4; the third and final stage will be reported at the end of ch 11. In this second phase, the glory resumes His place on the throne above the cherubim, though no longer in the Most Holy Place.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 10:19 The divine chariot now moves to the east gate of the temple compound, poised to leave the defiled area completely.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 10:20–22 Underscores what was already stated.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 10:20 living creatures … they were cherubim. Expands v 15b. underneath the God of Israel. The cherubim bore the platform on which God was enthroned (cf 1:26–28). Chebar canal. See note, 1:1; cf 10:15.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 10:22 straight forward. See notes, 1:9, 12.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON Ch 10 The vision of the throne-chariot on which the glory sat, first described in ch 1, is here repeated and expanded. The glory takes another step away from the Most Holy Place; the Lord will totally abandon His temple. Yet, the glory of our incarnate Lord will not depart forever. He is gloriously enthroned through Baptism in those who have died with Him and risen again in holiness (cf Rm 6). • Lord, keep us from rejecting Your Word, of which the fate of Jerusalem warns. In the Savior's name we pray. Amen.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 11:1 Spirit lifted me. Mention of God's Spirit returns (cf 8:3). The Spirit transports the prophet to the east gate of the temple compound, where the cherubim and the glory had gone (cf 1:12–14). Jaazaniah … Pelatiah. Ezekiel is shown 25 men, the same number as in 8:16. But this is a different group. There is a Jaazaniah mentioned in 8:11, but he is obviously a different person with a different father. We know nothing further of Jaazaniah or Pelatiah except the latter's death in 11:13. princes. See p 228. New people had somehow assumed positions of influence in the vacuum created by the deportation from Jerusalem.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 11:2–12 A private communication from God to Ezekiel about the 25 men (vv 2–4) leads into a public sermon (vv 5–12).
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 11:3 The leaders smugly say they need not build houses now, either because of the imminent Babylonian threat, or because there are plenty of abandoned houses. cauldron. Cooking pot. we are the meat. They regard themselves as safe within the city; they see no need for God. See note, v 7.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 11:4 prophesy against them. Preach in condemnation. The imperative is repeated for emphasis.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 11:5 Spirit of the LORD. The Spirit here inspires Ezekiel instead of transporting him, as in v 1. fell upon me. See note, 8:1. mind. Lit, "spirit," but obviously not God's Spirit. Their "spirituality" is their own invention, not the gift of revelation.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 11:6 This indictment implies a ruthless elimination of any opposition by those who considered themselves blessed. slain. Not limited to murder, but used metaphorically for injustice of various kinds. See SC, Fifth Commandment, p xxxv.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 11:7 The Lord turns the leaders' boasts in v 3 against them. They are not prime cuts protected by the cauldron, but butchers who have filled it with the meat of their victims (cf Mi 3:1–3).
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 11:8 God will remove them from the safety of the pot and leave them defenseless against the sword.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 11:9 foreigners. Babylonians, who are threatening Jerusalem a second time. See chronology, pp ci–cii. execute judgments. Carry out a sentence (cf 5:6–10).
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 11:10 at the border. Implies movement into exile away from the homeland. God implies here, and in the following verses, a double punishment—one at the fall of Jerusalem and a worse one in exile.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 11:11 See notes, vv 7–10.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 11:12 Repeats the recognition formula from the end of v 10 (see note, 2:5). They may not repent, but they will be forced, however unwillingly, to acknowledge God's rule. not walked … nor obeyed. The sermon ends with the charge made already in 5:6–7. Israel had become like the heathen nations: her walk, or way of life, was the same as theirs. See "walk," p 7. rules of the nations. In that culture war, paganism had won. (Consider how Eng "culture" includes Lat cultus, i.e., "worship"—of the Lord or of idols.)

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 11:13 I fell down. Because of the shock of Pelatiah's sudden death while Ezekiel was preaching. remnant of Israel? Ezekiel receives an extended promise of a restored and regenerate remnant in a new Israel. See p 1080.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 11:1–13 Using the metaphor of Jerusalem as a cooking pot with meat inside, God contradicts the inhabitants' arrogant self-assurance that the city walls will protect them. Ezekiel's outcry at Pelatiah's sudden death provides an occasion for the comforting Gospel sermon that follows. God certainly will not make a full end of the remnant of Israel, but will provide salvation. • Lord, through our Savior, who bore our offenses for us on the cross, strengthen us to resist temptation. Grant us refuge in You alone. Amen.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 11:14 A new oracle, a private communication to the prophet. It may answer Ezekiel's despairing outcry in v 13.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 11:15 your brothers, your kinsmen. Inhabitants of Jerusalem who had escaped the first deportation of the city in 597 BC. Go far from the LORD. Those not exiled urged the exiles to forget about ever returning to Jerusalem and worshiping the God they had once worshiped there. They argue that their survival in Jerusalem proves that they are the true heirs of the ancient promises. Like the 25 leaders (v 3), they interpret their physical presence in the Holy Land as a guarantee of security. This argument will reappear after the final destruction of the city in 587 BC (cf 33:24).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 11:16 God answers that the future lies with those who have "died" in exile, not with those who have escaped with their present lives. He had not abandoned the exiles. them. The exiles. sanctuary to them for a while. The temple sanctuary in Jerusalem was inaccessible and would soon be destroyed, but God was not imprisoned in that place where He caused His name to dwell for a time (cf ch 10). Wherever His name is invoked in true faith, even by only two or three present (Mt 18:20), there is a little church. One day we shall go to our promised land, the new Jerusalem (Rv 21:22).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 11:17 gather … assemble. Synonyms; the exiles' return to the land of Israel. The preliminary fulfillment of this promise came after Cyrus's 538 BC decree allowed some Israelites to return and rebuild the temple. But that was only a foretaste of the fulfillment. The promise given to God's people had further implications (cf Rv 7).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 11:18 detestable things and all its abominations. See note, 5:9.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 11:19–20 "The Holy Scriptures do not credit the human powers of the natural free will with conversion, faith in Christ, regeneration, renewal, and all that belongs to their effective beginning and end. They do not credit free will the whole way, half way, or in any way, even in the smallest or most trivial way. They credit conversion solely and completely to the Holy Spirit's divine work, as also the Apology teaches. Reason and free will are able to live an outwardly decent life to a certain extent. But only the Holy Spirit causes a person to be born anew [John 3:5] and to have inwardly another heart, mind, and natural desire. He opens the mind and heart to understand the Scriptures and to listen to the Word" (FC SD II 25–26).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 11:19 The heart of the Gospel message of Ezk, repeated almost verbatim in 36:26–27. Ezekiel is speaking of realities that transcend history and which only God can accomplish. St Paul's language in 2Co 3:3 appears to be derived from it. Also, Ezk 11:19–20 parallel Jeremiah's famous new covenant (or testament) prophecy (Jer 31:31–34), often quoted in the NT. What is needed is a supernatural gift, a "heart transplant" that only the Great Physician can accomplish. one heart. A single-mindedness, or unanimity, in faith. By nature, we pursue our own selfish interests (Is 53:6). new spirit. Often interchangeable with "heart"; a radically different human attitude, a gift of God's Holy Spirit. remove the heart of stone. Impenetrable, stubborn. God will replace it with faith created by the Holy Spirit's work through Word and Sacrament. their flesh. Their bodies. heart of flesh. Living. The OT does not use "flesh" in the negative sense that the NT does (e.g., "works of the flesh"; see "flesh," p 1902).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 11:20 External change in behavior will naturally accompany the radical internal change. The obedience will not only be to the letter of the law, but to its spirit. statutes … rules. See p 971. I will be their God. The Gospel message, the covenant formula, is repeated many times in both testaments, from Gn 17:7–8 to Rv 21:3.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 11:21 A reminder that they were not in paradise yet. They, like us, still daily sin much. detestable things … abominations. See note, 5:9. upon their own heads. If they (and we) did not repent, the punishment implicit in their sins would return.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 11:22–25 Climax of chs 9–11. The glory finally abandoned Jerusalem and the temple, which no longer had any special promise of divine protection. Jerusalem was as vulnerable as any other city. Cf 9:3.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 11:23 mountain … on the east. Across the Kidron Valley to the Mount of Olives. In 43:1–5, the glory returns by the east gate —to a new temple and a new Jerusalem in a new world.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 11:24 Spirit lifted me. See note, v 1. into Chaldea, to the exiles. Where Ezekiel had been bodily all along. went up. Out of his trancelike state and back to his natural senses.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 11:25 When the vision is over, Ezekiel tells the elders what he had seen and heard on his journey in the Spirit. Their response is not told.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 11:14–25 Ezekiel the prophet is assured that a remnant will be saved. The glory then leaves the city for the Mount of Olives to the east. This is the final judgment upon those who remain in Jerusalem below (cf Gal 4:26). Thanks be to God; He gives us His Word and Spirit, new hearts, and new lives in His promises of mercy. • Lord, through our Baptism, You have brought us out of the exile of our natural bondage to sin. Send Your Spirit upon us that we remain faithful until death and share in the return of the glory on the Last Day. Amen.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 12:1 This formula, emphasizing that what follows is God's Word, not man's, will be repeated several times in the chapter. See p 1080.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 12:2 a rebellious house. See note, 2:7; cf vv 3, 9, 25.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 12:3–20 Two major action prophecies appear in this chapter (vv 3–16 and 17–20), the first since ch 5. They appear to be directed more to those in Jerusalem than to Ezekiel's immediate audience, which has already been exiled. See p 1220.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 12:3 exile's baggage. Basic necessities that exiles could gather before the long trip ahead. Ancient reliefs often depict lines of captives with knapsacks slung over their shoulders. your place to another place. From Ezekiel's own dwelling to other places. in their sight. Ezekiel is to perform the action (emphasized seven times in vv 3–7).
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 12:4 at evening. Avoiding the daytime heat.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 12:5 dig through the wall. Houses in that part of the world were (and often still are) made of mud brick. If this was to be done in the people's sight, Ezekiel must have dug from the outside in and then retrieved his baggage.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 12:6 cover your face. Implies losing sight of the homeland in exile. This need not mean blindfolding. Israel. Here, synonymous with Judah.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 12:7 Ezekiel rarely reports his obedience to God's commands (cf 24:18; 37:7), but here it needs to be emphasized. He had dug through the wall with his own hands, not the easiest of tasks.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 12:9 Ezekiel has gotten his audience's attention, which gives him an opportunity to explain the action prophecy they have just witnessed.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 12:10 oracle. See p 1079. prince in Jerusalem. Zedekiah, the puppet the Babylonians had placed over Jerusalem. Jehoiachin, the legitimate king, had been exiled together with Ezekiel. Cf 2Ki 24–25.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 12:11 The significance of Ezekiel's action (cf v 6) is now made clear. All of them will go into exile—precisely what they refuse to believe.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 12:12 prince … shall lift his baggage. The prince and the populace are treated virtually as a unit. The prince will be forced to carry his own baggage (v 3) as Ezekiel has done and to abandon his homeland. See p 228.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 12:13 My net … My snare. Metaphors to emphasize God's control over the capture of the prince, in spite of his attempts to escape. Babylon, the land of the Chaldeans. The first time Ezekiel uses the name Babylon. Years earlier, Babylon had been politically important under the Amorites, but by Ezekiel's time it was ruled by Aramaic-speaking Chaldeans (cf 1:3; 11:24). The details of the fulfillment of this prophecy are recorded in 2Ki 25:4–7; Jer 52:7–11.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 12:14 toward every wind. Beginning of Jewish Diaspora (Dispersion), a situation evidenced in St Paul's later missionary journeys. Cf Ac 13–20; see "Dispersion," p 1556. helpers … troops. King's supporters. Babylon deported the bulk of the survivors of the sack of Jerusalem; others were scattered. See note, Jer 52. the sword. Cf Ezk 5:2, 12.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 12:15 they shall know that I am the LORD. Does not necessarily imply repentance, but the admission, however grudging, that the Lord is in control. See p 1079. when I disperse them. Cf v 14.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 12:16 declare all their abominations. Gospel theme of a remnant escaping is hinted at here. The few who survive can testify to the Gentiles that their plight was not the result of God's weakness but of His just punishment for their many abominations.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 12:17–20 Brief but powerful second action prophecy.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 12:18 quaking … trembling … anxiety. Picture of uncontrollable fright in connection with the fall of Jerusalem.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 12:19 Apparently, the people remain so convinced that Jerusalem could never fall, that Ezekiel must explain his actions to them. people of the land. See p 228. violence. Summarizes the social aspects of their apostasy.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 12:20 Almost total depopulation of the land (not only Jerusalem) is described. The language harks back to the covenant curses in Lv 26:14–26.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 12:22–28 God commands Ezekiel to refute complaints by which the people were discounting his prophecies. This indicates that Ezekiel was being heard, but not believed.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 12:22 proverb. Popular saying. The days grow long. Day after day goes by without anything significant happening. every vision comes to nothing? They complained that prophecies go unfulfilled.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 12:23 God's rejoinder to the popular "proverb" is a direct contradiction of it.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 12:24 false. Lit, "vain." Cf Ex 23:1; Ps 12:3; 24:4; 41:7; 144:8; Pr 30:8. false vision or flattering divination. What the audience wants to hear, inflating the high opinion they have of themselves. This implies the cessation of false prophecy, which was apparently encouraging the people's skepticism.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 12:25 speak the word … and it will be performed. Ezekiel's refutation is anchored in the certainty of the fulfillment of God's Word.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 12:27–28 A repetition of vv 22–25 in different words. The problem Ezekiel was confronting is a perennial one (cf 2Pt 3:3–13). Because Christ's second coming has been delayed for two thousand years, many weak believers scarcely give it a thought. The Bible closes with Christ's assurance, "Surely I am coming soon" (Rv 22:20), but God's time is not our time (2Pt 3:8).
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON Ch 12 Two action prophecies forecast the forthcoming deportation after Jerusalem's fall and its attendant horrors, followed by refutations of two complaints the people are using to discount God's warnings. Yet, God's overarching purpose in judgment is to bring forth repentance and create trust in His salvation, offered freely in Christ's death and resurrection. • Lord, keep us ever mindful of our sinfulness. United by Baptism with Christ's death and resurrection and through Word and Sacrament, keep us firm in the faith until the day of our Lord. Amen.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON Ch 13 Denunciation of false prophets and prophetesses.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 13:2 prophesy from their own hearts. Of their own devising, bereft of divine revelation. They may have been charlatans or actually believed they were recipients of divine revelation. Hear the word of the LORD*!* Remedy to falsehood. The problem is the same today. There are many claimants to God's truth. Our sure judge of what is true is the Scriptures. Obviously, not all Scripture had been written in Ezekiel's day, but they had "Moses and the Prophets" (Lk 16:29, 31).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 13:3 Woe. See p 1080. foolish. Often (esp in Proverbs) contrasted with wise, which in the Bible means confessing the true faith (cf Pr 1:7; 1Co 1–2). See p 1016. follow their own spirit. Synonymous with "hearts" in the previous verse. Their "spirituality" was not of the Holy Spirit. seen nothing! Corresponds to the frequent use of "vision" for prophecy; not necessarily implying use of the eyes.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 13:4 jackals. Commonly inhabited ruins and made a lot of noise without saying anything. They tend to act furtively at night, not in broad daylight.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 13:5 breaches. Place in the city walls that attackers had weakened or opened. If defenders did not assemble there, the enemy would soon come pouring in. They could repair the breach by patching it or building a new wall. day of the LORD. See p 1079.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 13:6 false visions and lying divinations. Parallel terms; "divinations" nearly always implies some pagan procedure that is supposed to reveal God's will. See note, 12:24. Declares the LORD. False prophets might use the same citation formula as the true prophets. God's Word is not validated by any subjective human "faith." Use of the externally correct words or rituals does not magically produce validation either.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 13:7 Rhetorical question implying a positive answer. Ezekiel accuses them of deception, however much they may have deluded themselves. Declares the LORD. See p 1079.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 13:8 Therefore. Signals the transition from indictment to verdict (cf vv 13, 20). If the Lord is against them, there is not the slightest chance that their "prophecies" will be fulfilled.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 13:9 My hand. Implies divine power deployed against false prophets. See note, 1:3. not … nor … nor. Three parallel negative results of God's hand against the false prophets are specified. the council of My people. The communion of the elect on earth, who are supposed to represent God's heavenly council of advisers. Cf Jer 23:18, 22. (The phrase "My people" will appear six more times in this chapter.) God has not abandoned His covenantal promises to His people, but they have spurned His gracious offer. register. Scripture sometimes speaks of a heavenly list of the faithful, corresponding to an (inevitably imperfect) earthly list of the true Church (e.g., Rv 3:5; 13:8; 17:8; 20:12, 15; 21:27). enter the land of Israel. Applies immediately to a return to the homeland, but, ultimately, to the homeland above. know that I am the Lord GOD. By their very exclusion, they will have to admit that He is the Lord God. See p 1079.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 13:10 'Peace,' when there is no peace. False prophets further the people's vain hopes that Jerusalem would not fall and they could soon return home. Cf Jer 23:13–40. peace. See p 7. when the people build a wall. Metaphor referring to their expressions of false hope. smear it with whitewash. Annual maintenance for preserving a mud brick building. The false prophets cover over their fallacies with a thin veneer, which conceals the wall's fatal cracks.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 13:11 God will expose the weakness of that wall by a great storm. The hailstones are personified, and God is pictured as addressing them directly. God controls the elements.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 13:12 Rhetorical question implies the result of the storm described in vv 13–16.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 13:13–15 Description of the storm's utter destruction of the flimsy wall and those who had covered it superficially.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 13:16 The false prophets had said that the city was safe and the exile would be short. They were undoubtedly very popular, since this was what the people wanted to hear, but God's coming storm would demolish everything.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 13:17 daughters … who prophesy. False prophetesses who are denounced for giving their own opinions. Ezekiel's language here is virtually identical to that used of their male counterparts in vv 2–3. See p 389.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 13:18 magic bands. Might signify the supposed binding power of the spell or incantation. veils. Hbr unclear. Objects used as head coverings of some sort. souls! Or, "lives." Will you … keep your own souls alive? Rhetorical question implies a negative answer. When the judgment comes, their lives would not be spared any more than their victims had been.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 13:19 profaned Me. By their magic, the women had denied God's holiness and treated Him as some occult power they could manipulate. barley … bread. May have been part of the magical ritual.

More likely, the pittance of payment the women received. putting to death … keeping alive. Supposed effects of the spells. souls who should not die. Israelites whom the magicians had seduced into sin. souls who should not live. Magicians and their accomplices.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 13:20 hunt the souls like birds. Depicts the casual, almost sportlike, nature of the attempts to ensnare people with their bands.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 13:21 veils. See note, v 18. God will deliver His people from the spell of the false prophetesses, as He had from the bands.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 13:22 disheartened the righteous falsely. Result of their magic has been demoralization of the believers, who know that salvation comes only through the true God. encouraged the wicked. Magicians have emboldened the wicked in their apostasy. not turn. Lacking repentance, they forfeit their lives. See "turn," p 1080.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 13:23 When Jerusalem falls, the magicians will fall with it.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON Ch 13 All religions do not lead to the same place. There is only one true Gospel of salvation by grace through faith in Christ; anyone who preaches or practices otherwise is condemned. By repeating phrases such as "My people," the Lord expresses His offer of salvation to all who believe. • "Lord, keep us steadfast in Your Word; Curb those who by deceit or sword Would wrest the kingdom from Your Son And bring to naught all He has done." Amen. (LSB 655:1)
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 14:1 certain of the elders of Israel. See note, 8:1. The phrase suggests a smaller number and men in some religious position. Vv 3–5 indicate that they had come with a question, which is not recorded. sat before me. Awaiting an answer.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 14:3 idols into their hearts. The elders' devotion to false gods is not superficial, but thoroughly internalized. stumbling block. See note, 3:20. iniquity. Idolatry is what had caused them to make the wrong decision and stumble. before their faces. Indicates that it was no occasional error, but a god or faith that they constantly pursued. consulted. Semi-technical term for a petition or request of God. The Lord is under no obligation to hear prayers of those who worship other gods.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 14:4–5 God will answer, but in the form of a lawsuit against the duplicity of those who are really expecting an answer from other gods. The Lord alone knows what is in human hearts; their insincerity is not hidden from Him.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 14:6 Repent and turn. Repetition (two forms of the same Hbr verb) and thus emphatic. See p 1080. The situation can change only if there is a change of heart. abominations. See note, 5:9.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 14:7 strangers who sojourn. Probably refers to proselytes who had attached themselves to Israel. See note, Nu 11:4. If these people joined the community in exile, they were probably no more sincere than most of the rest of the exiles.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 14:8 set My face against. See p 1277. sign. Visible warning or lesson. byword. Proverbial representative of all who would presume upon God's grace. cut him off. Implies a counterpart of churchly excommunication and perhaps other divine punishment, even death.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 14:9 Ezekiel here turns to a variant of the problem of two-faced seekers, a case where a false prophet answers them but tells them what they want to hear. More shocking is the Lord's statement that He has done the deceiving. The Lord Himself acts to ensure the hypocrites' well-deserved judgment. There are many parallels to this strange work (Is 28:21) of God (cf Ex 10:20, 27; 1Ki 22:20–22; Jer 20:7; Ezk 20:25–26). stretch out My hand against him. Not in salvation, as with the exodus, but to destroy him.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 14:11 no more go astray … defile … transgressions. When least expected, we have a beautiful note of God's mercy. The purpose of God's harsh judgment is to redeem the people from their errors. be My people. Bonded with the Lord and living as His people. For Christians, this relationship began at our Baptism, but will not be complete until the second coming, when the fullness of the new covenant will be written on our hearts (Jer 31:31–34).
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 14:1–11 God does not answer the prayers of those who do not pray in His name, not even when false prophets claim to speak for Him. We are rejected because we first rejected Him, even if false preachers have seduced us. The last verse of this section is a beautiful statement of the purpose of the Law—to convict and convince us of our unfaithfulness and bring us to repentance so that we may enjoy His salvation. • O Lord, be our God, and make us truly Your people, through the merits of Jesus Christ, Your Son. Amen.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 14:12–23 The theme is no longer false prophecy (12:21–14:11) but the main theme of chs 1–24: the inevitability of God's judgment on Jerusalem. Four divine judgments (cf v 21) are discussed at some length; the first, famine, is mentioned in v 13 as punishment upon a land that acts faithlessly.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 14:14 No one else's righteousness can be transferred to that land's account and save it. Each person must personally believe and answer to God. Noah, Daniel, and Job. Three paragons of righteousness. Noah lived in ancient times (during the flood). Job is not dated precisely in the Bible, but likely belongs to patriarchal times (see p 781). Daniel was Ezekiel's close contemporary (see p 1394). Jer 15:1–3 speaks similarly, using Moses and Samuel as examples. their righteousness. Would deliver only themselves. Transfer of merit is not possible. Cf 1Pt 3:19–20; 2Pt 2:5; see p 843. Cypr: "Who was more righteous than Noah, who, when the earth was filled with sins, was alone found righteous on the earth? Who more glorious than Daniel? Who more strong for suffering martyrdom in firmness of faith, more happy in God's condescension, who so many times, both when he was in conflict conquered, and, when he had conquered, lived on? Was any more ready in good works than Job, braver in temptations, more patient in sufferings, more submissive in his fear, more true in his faith?" (ANF 5:442).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 14:15–16 God would use judgment through an invasion by wild animals, depopulating the land.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 14:17 sword. Represents war.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 14:19 pestilence. See note, Ps 91:3.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 14:21 How much more. Righteousness will not transfer (v 14). This will certainly still apply when God sends His judgments upon Jerusalem.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 14:22 survivors … when they come out to you. Apparently captives who are marched into exile, where their parents are already. These random survivors have not been spared by anyone's righteousness. consoled. Applies to parents who had been worrying about their children who were left behind in the first exile.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 14:23 They will console you. Children will encourage their parents, as both groups will see that they had been guilty of the same depraved ways and deeds. God was just in destroying Jerusalem and leading a few into captivity. not done without cause. They will realize that the Lord had acted appropriately, not in some fit of temper.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 14:12–23 Using four vivid pictures, Ezekiel emphasizes that righteousness (faith and life) is not transferable from one person to the next. We should not think that salvation can come from any other human source, but only from the righteousness won by Christ on the cross. The exiles' concession that God does not punish without cause is described in vv 22–23. The Law was beginning to work, opening the door for repentance and faith. • Teach us, Lord, how to regard the saints—not as sources of faith or merit for us, but as examples in fighting the good fight in Christ. Amen.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON Ch 15 Ezekiel uses an extended metaphor, similar to a parable.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 15:2–5 Series of rhetorical questions.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 15:2 the wood of the vine. Grapevine. surpass any wood. Sarcastic. Of course, its wood is far inferior to wood from any other source.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 15:3 Two questions illustrate the vine's inferiority.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 15:4–5 If the vine was nearly useless to begin with, it will be totally useless after being reduced to ashes or a half-burned stick. Aph: "Its two branches are the two kingdoms, and its inward part which is laid waste is Jerusalem" (NPNF 2 13:360).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 15:6 As God has given the vine for burning, the inhabitants of Jerusalem face the same destiny. Both are givens, things that are a certain way and cannot be changed.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 15:7 the fire shall yet consume them … I am the LORD. Metaphor is abandoned now for straight pronouncement of judgment. Even if they have escaped the first deportation, they should not think that they will escape the major destruction coming shortly.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 15:8 Using some of the same vocabulary, this verse links ch 15 with the previous chapter (cf 14:13–16).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON Ch 15 Jerusalem is a vine that is good for nothing but burning, a vivid illustration of the city's fall in 587 BC. By this catastrophe, the Lord prepares the way for restoration and salvation. In Christ, the true vine, we can bear much fruit (Jn 15:1–11). • Spare us, O Lord, as inhabitants of the new Jerusalem, from the defection and destruction of the old Jerusalem that in Christ we may finally enter the Jerusalem above. Amen.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON Ch 16 A satire of Jerusalem's unfaithfulness. The comparison of idolatry with adultery is common in the Bible, and far older than Ezk. See note, Hos 1:2. Ch 16 (esp vv 43–58) has many affinities with ch 23. It is the longest single oracle in the OT. The theme is Israel's gross unfaithfulness in contrast to God's constant love and fidelity.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 16:2 abominations. See note, 5:9.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 16:3 Ezekiel is not offering a biological genealogy here, but a record of how Israel mixed its religious beliefs with the beliefs of its neighbors. Canaanites were the original inhabitants of the Promised Land and are sometimes used interchangeably with Amorites. There were several major Amorite kingdoms along the Euphrates in the middle of the second millennium BC, and Hittites ruled in eastern Asia Minor a few centuries later. When the kingdoms collapsed, many tribes migrated to Canaan and elsewhere. "Canaanite" seems often to be an umbrella term for all the various groups. They were noted for their depravity, and the Israelites, failing to eliminate them, often adopted their religion and immorality. See p 345.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 16:4–5 Picture of infant exposure, common among ancient pagan cultures. See note, Ex 2:3. Rubbing with salt was probably thought to cleanse and toughen the skin, and oil was applied to soften it at the same time. Failure to cut the umbilical cord would soon bring death.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 16:6 God is pictured as a passerby. wallowing in your blood. Situation immediately after birth (placental fluids, etc.). Live! In the metaphor, physical life is implied, but the wider application is to spiritual life. In either case, life is a gift only God can dispense. See p 983.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 16:7 arrived at full adornment. Maturation into early adulthood. naked and bare. Before God, Israel was spiritually nothing until God gave her His covenant and promises. See notes, Dt 7:6–8.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 16:8 age for love. The woman's physical maturity indicates that she is marriageable. corner of My garment. OT idiom for marrying her. It may have been only a verbal part of the ceremony or an action in the ceremonies. See note, Ru 3:9. covered your nakedness. She must remain covered, i.e., unavailable to any man except her husband. See note, Lv 18:6. vow … covenant. Refers both to the repeated oaths to the patriarchs as well as at Mount Sinai. The words also apply to human marriages, as well as to God's promises to Israel. The Bible usually speaks of "making," "establishing," or "giving" His covenants—not "entering into"—thus emphasizing their unilateral nature, initiated by God out of grace. See pp 6–7. became Mine. Refers both to the chosenness of Israel and to the "one flesh" aspect of human marriage (cf Gn 2:24).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 16:9–13 In the allegory, the birth and wedding rituals seem to have merged. The jewelry is typically for the wedding ceremony (cf Is 3:18–21). Anointing with fragrant oil is mentioned several times as part of bridal preparations (cf Est 2:12).
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 16:10 fine leather. Hide of sea mammals from the Red Sea. See p 141.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 16:13 fine flour and honey and oil. Highest quality food. advanced to royalty. Connects with the beautiful crown of v 12.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 16:14 the splendor that I had bestowed on you. Her beauty and other luxurious possessions were not a natural endowment or birthright, but gifts of pure grace.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 16:15 The queen descended into depravity. trusted in. She confused gift and Giver, virtually deifying her beauty. She dedicated her gifts not to the Giver but to herself (self-gratification). Greg: "The deluded mind admires itself for the great things that it has done. And, being exalted in its own sight through hidden tumour, it is deprived of the grace of Him Who bestowed the gift" (NPNF 2 13:36). played the whore. Summary of vv 16–58. Some form of the word "whore" occurs 21 times through v 41. Ezekiel depicts a deliberate affront and rejection of God. your beauty became his. Opposite of v 8.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 16:16 May reflect common practice of prostitutes in antiquity. colorful shrines. Often translated "high places." Associated with pagan rites, esp "sacred" prostitution. Israel's maximal ingratitude is described as without parallel in human history. See p 526.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 16:17 My … My … I had given you. Emphasizes the absolute reversal of God's intent with Israel's gifts. The verse seems to describe worship of male deities, esp Baal, the main male fertility god in Canaanite religion. See note, Nu 25:3.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 16:18–19 The subject is sacrificial offerings to idols. Some of them parallel the proper worship in the tabernacle/temple. But there are telling differences. Israel had no images to cover. Feeding and clothing idols played a prominent role in pagan rites. (Scripture mocks this practice; cf Ps 50:7–15.) The use of honey in sacrifice is explicitly forbidden (Lv 2:11). The description of sacrifice as a "pleasing aroma" is used of both proper and pagan worship, but the motivations are radically different.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 16:20–21 The most offensive pagan worship practice of all—the sacrifice of children. Child sacrifice to the god Molech is often referred to in the Bible and elsewhere in Ezk (20:25–26). The practice is attested archaeologically, esp in certain North African cemeteries used by Phoenician settlers.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 16:23 woe, woe. Indication of God's increasing exasperation. The necessity of judgment becomes more urgent. See p 1080.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 16:24 vaulted chamber … lofty place in every square. Probably structures readily recognizable as places of prostitution (cf Pr 7, 9).
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 16:25 offering yourself. The translation is euphemistic here and at other points.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 16:26–29 Three neighbors are listed with whom Israel "played the whore." They appear in roughly the order in which Israel became acquainted with them. Political alliances inevitably involved recognition and veneration of the deities of the partner nations. As the smaller of the two allies, Israel was vulnerable to mixing its religion with idolatry.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 16:26 to provoke Me. The more Israel succumbed, the more she enraged God to anger.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 16:27 Historical reference is probably to events after the period of the judges. The period of Egypt's influence over Canaan was past, and only David would gradually succeed in eliminating the Philistine threat.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 16:28 By Ezekiel's time, the once-mighty Assyrian Empire had ceased to exist, but in much of the ninth to seventh centuries BC it had flourished. The Northern Kingdom was incorporated into the Assyrian Empire, and Judah was reduced to vassaldom. not satisfied. Returning to the theme of her insatiable lust, i.e., infidelity to the Lord.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 16:29 trading land of Chaldea. Babylon was Israel's current "lover." Because of its location and power, it naturally carried on trade.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 16:30 Describes a prostitute who seeks and seduces customers. Cf Pr 7.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 16:31 you scorned payment. Emphasizes the woman's almost pathological behavior. There may be a reference to trade relations that impoverished Israel, but Ezekiel's interest is primarily in religion and morals.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 16:32–34 The accent here is not only whoredom, but the adultery of a philandering wife who even pays illegitimate lovers. The abandoned husband is the Lord. bribing. Describes the odd flow of money from prostitute to client; dramatizes exceptional lust.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 16:32 Adulterous wife. Addressed directly to Israel.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 16:35–37 God's judgment is described as a reversal of the whore's own actions. As she gathered lovers, God will gather them against her. As she had bared herself for her lovers, she will be stripped bare at her trial. There is copious evidence outside the Bible that this was a common punishment for unfaithfulness, leading to a divorce. Here it is a reversal of the Lord's spreading the edge of His robe over her (v 8).
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 16:38 Her blood would be shed because of her adultery and her sacrifice of the children she had borne to the Lord (v 20). This comes full circle to the condition in which God first found her wallowing in her blood (v 6). wrath and jealousy. See notes, 3:14; Ex 20:5.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 16:39–41 strip … take … leave … stone … cut … burn. String of verbs relates the intense action of punishment for Jerusalem. The Lord will deputize her former paramours to carry out the actions.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 16:41 She will be publicly removed from the scene. women. Rivals in her profession (politically, allies in revolt against Babylon).
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 16:42 I satisfy My wrath … jealousy … I will be calm. Language is that of God's satisfaction of the penalty for all her sin (the same language the Church uses to describe Christ's crucifixion in full satisfaction for mankind's sin, effecting God's calm).
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 16:43 returned your deeds upon your head. The punishment has fit the crime. lewdness in addition to all your abominations? The punishment was almost inexpressibly severe, as her deviancy had almost been beyond words.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 16:44–45 proverb. Israel's wild behavior had been so flagrant that it could be summarized into a wise saying. Like mother, like daughter. As in v 3, the mother, called a Hittite, represents the pagan Canaanites, and her daughter is Jerusalem, or ultimately all Israel.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 16:46 elder sister is Samaria … younger sister … Sodom. A more literal translation would be "larger" and "smaller"

(geographically). The Northern Kingdom, with its 10 tribes, encompassed vastly more territory than Judah. While there are no explicit statements about Sodom's size, surrounded by desert, it was not very large.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 16:47 more corrupt. As God's covenanted people, Israel was held to a higher standard than her sisters. See note, Lk 10:11–12.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 16:49–50 Sodom's pride, gluttony, and neglect of the poor describes a decadent society in which gross immorality might easily thrive. an abomination. Probably refers to sodomy (Gn 19:1–22). At times, "abomination" is applied specifically to homosexual behavior (Lv 18:22; 20:13). See p 1911.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 16:51 Samaria has not committed half your sins. Typically, Ezekiel expresses himself in hyperbole. The corruption may be described as more intense because Judah has the center of holiness in its midst: the temple. Precisely because Jerusalem was the elect city, anyone aware of that fact would hold her to a higher standard.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 16:52 Bear your disgrace. Imperative in form, but when God is the speaker, it often has the force of a prediction. The reference may be to Jerusalem's imminent destruction. intervened. Jerusalem's greater judgment in the heavenly court had served as an argument in her sisters' defense.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 16:53 restore their fortunes. See p 1080. In the new creation, even sinners like Sodom can be redeemed. Here, Jerusalem's restoration is mentioned last, almost as an afterthought. As lesser offenders, it is only right that the sisters should be restored first. Israel is in special need of sheer grace because, as heir of the promise, she has transgressed more.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 16:54 becoming a consolation. Because God will forgive her flagrant behavior, Jerusalem will be an example of comfort to Samaria and Sodom. Unbelievers today also console themselves by the misdeeds of Christians and may use them as an excuse to reject the Gospel.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 16:56 byword. Jerusalem thought of herself highly and could look down on Sodom to excuse herself as not being so wicked.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 16:57 object of reproach. Because of her depravity and its punishment, others will use her name as she had once used "Sodom" (cf 5:14–15; Jer 23:14; 49:18; 50:40). See note, Jer 24:9. Syria … Philistines. Almost any of Israel's neighbors could have been mentioned to illustrate the point.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 16:1–58 In a long allegorical satire, Ezekiel equates idolatry with adultery. The underlying theme is one of base ingratitude. Forgetting God's unmerited grace, Jerusalem chases after the favors of idolatrous nations. God has no alternative but to punish her severely. If the Lord can restore someone who has fallen as far as Jerusalem, He can restore anyone. His grace is broad enough to cover even your greatest sin. • Lord, keep us ever mindful of all the undeserved mercies You have showered upon us from birth, especially the forgiveness of sin and eternal life, lest, like Jerusalem, we fall into great shame and vice. Amen.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 16:59 I will deal with you as you have done. Before repentance, the principle of reciprocity will apply: as Israel had "punished" the Lord, He will punish them. the oath. The covenant in which God has promised them so much (cf 44:7). See "vow," p 7.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 16:60 The great reversal from condemnation to mercy begins here. Abrupt transitions like this are found elsewhere in prophetic books. See p 320. I will remember My covenant. Remembering is not just a matter of the intellect, but it is also an action word. Israel may have forgotten completely, but God had not. See "remember," p 843. I will establish for you an everlasting covenant. Through Ezekiel, God reaffirms His promises. See p 127; see also notes, 2Sm 7:11–17; cf Jer 23; 31.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 16:61 I give them to you as daughters. Samaria and Sodom had originally been described as sisters of Israel (cf vv 48–49) but in the new creation they will be received as daughters. God's boundless grace is not limited to the chosen people but is extended to all.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 16:62 you shall know that I am the LORD. See p 1079.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 16:63 confounded. No words are adequate to express God's goodness. when I atone for you. See "atonement," p 5.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 16:59–63 The livid chapter on Israel's whoredom is followed by a beautiful affirmation of God's unwavering faithfulness to His everlasting covenant. The Gospel stands in stunning contrast to the Law's condemnation. With repentant joy, entrust your life and hope to the Lord. • Thanks be to You, O Lord, for choosing and saving even the chief of sinners, as all of us must account ourselves before You. Amen.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON Ch 17 Builds on events of Ezekiel's time. In vv 1–10, the history is related allegorically; vv 11–24 interpret the allegory. The interpretation may be subdivided into three parts: (1) the historical meaning of the allegory (vv 11–18), (2) its theological meaning (vv 19–21), and (3) its messianic application (vv 22–24).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 17:2 riddle … parable. The two nouns are similar in meaning, but not entirely synonyms. A riddle implies any saying or story that requires interpretation. A parable implies a comparison of one thing with another. See notes, Jgs 9:8–15; 14:12; see also p 1609.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 17:3 A great eagle. Nebuchadnezzar, king of Babylon. Cf v 12. Lebanon. Greater Canaan, the northward, coastal extension of traditional Israelite territory. That name is chosen because of its prized species of cedar trees. cedar. Here, the tree must represent Jerusalem in southern Canaan.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 17:4 Reference to the deportation of Jehoiachin (with Ezekiel) to Babylon in 597 BC and the installation of Zedekiah in his stead. Babylon, with the surrounding area, was known as a major trade emporium (cf 16:29).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 17:5 set it like a willow twig. Willow grows rapidly along streams. The picture changes here: the eagle has become a gardener. It means Zedekiah is established in Jerusalem and could have thrived there.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 17:6 Another transformation. The vine is Zedekiah in Jerusalem. low spreading vine. Because of the intense summer heat, Near Eastern grapevines are often trained to hug the ground.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 17:7 another great eagle. Representing Egypt's Twenty-sixth Dynasty, probably under Pharaoh Hophra (cf Jer 44:30) or his predecessor, who encouraged Zedekiah to revolt and promised assistance. that he might water it. The vine (Zedekiah) responded favorably and sought water (support) from Egypt.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 17:8. Nebuchadnezzar had planted Jerusalem on good, well-watered soil so that, as a noble vine, it could bear fruit without turning to Egypt. As v 23 will indicate, it was God's will for that vine to thrive under the first eagle (Babylon), but the vine's defection forced God to respond in a different way.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 17:9 Will it thrive? Rhetorical question. Zedekiah and Jerusalem would certainly feel God's wrath for their unfaithfulness.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 17:10 The rhetorical question (v 9) is now restated in terms of surviving the hot, dry winds that blow from the eastern desert. See notes, Jb 1:19; 27:21.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 17:12 what these things mean? Here begins the prophet's own explanation. Until v 19, the explanation is historical; then he predicts the future. king of Babylon came to Jerusalem. The invasion of 597 BC.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 17:13 royal offspring. Jehoiachin's uncle Mattaniah, named Zedekiah by Nebuchadnezzar. covenant … oath. A treaty or pact was normally sealed by an oath, a promise of fealty by the vassal and of protection by the overlord. See pp 6–7. chief men of the land. Summarizes the scope of the 597 BC deportation.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 17:14 By taking captive Jerusalem's ruling classes, the city might not be tempted to rebel. See map, p 717.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 17:15 See note, 2Ki 24:20. sending his ambassadors to Egypt. Zedekiah did rebel in response to Egypt's promises. horses and a large army. Historical evidence indicates that when Nebuchadnezzar returned, Egypt's contribution was relatively small and ineffectual. See note, v 17.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 17:16 in Babylon he shall die. Fulfilled (cf Jer 52:11).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 17:17 Pharaoh Hophra's effort to help Zedekiah proved to be a failure. mounds … siege walls. Standard features of ancient sieges of cites. See note, 4:2.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 17:19–21 Ezekiel turns to a more theological explanation of the consequences of Zedekiah's actions. The Lord says that He will see to it that the punishment is carried out. On breach of covenant, cf 16:59; 44:7.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 17:20 net … snare. See note, Ps 91:3. These metaphors describe Zedekiah's capture. treachery. Commonly used of infidelity against God.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 17:21 pick of his troops. His mighty men. See note, Jsh 1:14. survivors … scattered. Implies an utter rout of the rebellion.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 17:22–24 A messianic prophecy spoken to a descendant of David, to whom the prophet Nathan promised an everlasting kingdom (2Sm 7).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 17:22 sprig. The kingdom of God, which came in a way beyond what OT believers would know; the NT describes the fulfillment, and the Church still awaits its final fruition. See p 1245. cedar. A return to the original imagery of the parable; see note, v 3. the topmost of its young twigs. As (in v 4) Nebuchadnezzar is figuratively described as breaking the top twigs (i.e., Jehoiachin, the legitimate king and of Davidic descent), so in the messianic era the Lord God will do something comparable (although on a vastly higher plane). tender. Unique expression but one probably ultimately derived from the common description of the Messiah as a branch or shoot (cf Is 11:1; Jer 23:5; Zec 3:8). One could think of Jesus' virginal birth as a tiny infant, though this may press the figure too far. high and lofty mountain. Cf v 24. Zion (Jerusalem) was situated on a small mountain, but this messianic abode far transcends earthly geography. Cf Ps 48:1–2; Is 11:9; 25:6–8. It can scarcely be accidental that high mountains figure so prominently in the NT (e.g., the scene of our Lord's temptations [Mt 4:1–11], the unnamed mount of transfiguration [Mt 17:1–13], and the new Jerusalem [Rv 21:2, 10]). Ezekiel will also describe the new temple of a restored Israel on "a very high mountain" (Ezk 40:2).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 17:23 a noble cedar. See note, v 3. every kind of bird. Symbolizing people of all nations. shade … nest. Symbols of shelter, which the Lord provides to those who take refuge in His chosen servant.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 17:24 all the trees. The nations will either bow in sincere faith or break in humiliation (cf Php 2:10–11). bring low … make high. Christ and the sinner changing places, as it were, so that none may boast but confess that it was all pure grace (cf Lk 1:46–55; 1Co 1–2).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON Ch 17 An allegory describes Nebuchadnezzar's placement of Zedekiah over Jerusalem and the deportation of the rightful king, Jehoiachin. Ezekiel builds a glorious picture of God establishing His eternal kingdom in a descendant of David (and Jehoiachin): the Messiah. Ezekiel also describes how God makes a new creation for you, established through Christ's birth, life, death, and resurrection. • Lord, avert our eyes of faith from the kingdom of this world with its politics and power struggles. Show us the kingdom of heaven that You have already established. Sustain us on our journey to the high mountain above. Amen.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON Ch 18 Theologically, this chapter ranks as one of the most important in the Book. Its overall theme is individual accountability before God. A person's ultimate judgment comes when he must face the heavenly Judge at death. Ezekiel addresses the issue through three examples or case studies (vv 5–9; 10–13; 14–17). Ch 18 has affinities with chs 3; 33.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 18:2 Ezekiel is not asking for a direct answer, but challenging his audience to defend their shallow attempt to deny their guilt. proverb. See note, Jer 31:29; Jeremiah's refutation is oriented more to the future time of the new covenant.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 18:4 souls. Persons. See note, 3:19. the soul who sins shall die. Summarizes ch 18. Since all souls were created by God, He guides their destinies and judges them. Death is the punishment for unrepentant sinners. Throughout ch 18, life and death are used in their ultimate, beyond-this-world aspects. Gr Nys: "The death of the body consists in the extinction of the means of sensible perception, and in the dissolution of the body into its kindred elements: but 'the soul that sinneth,' he says, 'it shall die.' Now sin is nothing else than alienation from God, Who is the true and only life" (NPNF 2 5:126–27). Ambr: "[The soul] dies to the Lord, through the weakness not of nature but of guilt. But this death is not the discharge from this life, but a fall through error" (NPNF 2 10:179). Bern: "Who, then, is righteous, except he who returns to God, who loves him, His meed of love? … And he receives by one and the same Spirit both the reason for thinking that he is loved and the power of returning love, lest the love of God for us should be left without return" (SLSB, p 157).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 18:5–9 Ezekiel's first example.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 18:5 righteous. Follows from God's declaring a person righteous by grace through faith. See p 843. does what is just and right. Ezekiel stresses righteous acts in the prophecy.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 18:6–9 Major examples of what the Lord considered just and right.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 18:6 Idolatry, evidenced by participation in pagan sacrificial meals, is condemned first. mountains. Probably high places. See p 526. lift up his eyes. Trust in the false gods worshiped by apostate Israelites. See p 1276. defile … approach a woman. Sexual transgressions: adultery and relations during a woman's period (see note, Lv 15:19–24).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 18:7 oppress. Exploit. pledge. Collateral on a loan. robbery. Implying violence or force. In contrast, the righteous person provides food and clothing to the needy.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 18:8 lend at interest or take any profit. May refer to inordinate profit on the loan (Hbr term for "interest" is similar to word for "bite"). There are three similar passages in the Books of Moses (Ex 22:25; Lv 25:36–37; Dt 23:20). God's people should distinguish reasonable interest from usury. justice. See p 842.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 18:9 by acting faithfully—he is righteous. Righteousness is not merely adherence to some checklist, but a result of the right relation with God (see note, v 5). See pp 842–43.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 18:10–13 In Ezekiel's second case study, we meet a son who is a polar opposite of his father. The list of his wicked actions contrasts negatively to the father's righteous actions.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 18:13 his blood shall be upon himself. He has no one but himself to blame for his condemnation. The righteousness of the father cannot be inherited.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 18:14–17 The third case study involves a righteous grandson. An example of this sequence (righteous grandfather, unrighteous father, and righteous son/grandson) is seen in the reigns of Jotham, Ahaz, and Hezekiah of Judah (2Ki 15:32–17:5; 18:1–20:21).
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 18:14 this man. Refers to the wicked father (vv 10–13).
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 18:17 he shall not die for his father's iniquity. The father's wickedness is no more inheritable than the grandfather's righteousness had been. The grandson had been righteous himself and so shall live.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 18:18 Ezekiel glances back briefly at the unrighteous middle generation. Although each person is judged individually, the behavior of each member will affect the broader population.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 18:19–20 The people are not yet convinced and imply that God does not judge fairly. They prefer to blame God rather than themselves. God answers by simply repeating His principle of individual answerability.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 18:21–22 "Righteousness is faith in the heart. Furthermore, sins are redeemed by repentance. In other words, the obligation or guilt is removed because God forgives those who repent" (Ap V 142).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 18:21 turns. Repents. See p 1080. He returns to the true God whom he had abandoned. His new life is characterized by specific creeds and deeds, and his whole life has a different orientation.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 18:22 None … shall be remembered. See "remember," p 843. Chem: "Our righteousness consists in the fact that the Lord has not kept a record of our sins and does not impute them against us, as is explicitly stated in other passages of Scripture" (LTh 2:641). for the righteousness that he has done he shall live. His new relation with God leads to a change in behavior (cf v 9).
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 18:23 It seems the people were not only accusing God of injustice but also of sadistic delight in punishing people. Just the opposite is true, as many scriptural passages affirm (cf Dt 30:15–20; 1Tm 2:4). Ter: "It was not merely that he might live the natural life that God had produced man, but that he should live virtuously, that is, in relation to God and to His law. Accordingly, God gave him to live when he was formed into a living soul; but He charged him to live virtuously when he was required to obey a law. So also God shows that man was not constituted for death, by now wishing that he should be restored to life, preferring the sinner's repentance to his death" (ANF 3:303).
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 18:24 If someone who is righteous defects (and thus is no longer righteous), he will not live. His former righteous status is not remembered. God views things holistically. A person will be judged by his status before God at the moment of judgment. Cf Heb 9:27.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 18:25 The people still protest that the Lord's ways are not fair, but arbitrary or unpredictable. It is the other way around—God acts consistently according to His rules of justice, while people are fickle and reject God's revelation. Ath: "A servant would not dare to say, because I worked yesterday, I will not work today; and considering the past [I] will do no work in the future; … so let us daily abide firm in our discipline" (NPNF 2 4:201).
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 18:27 he shall save his life. As throughout ch 18, the life Ezekiel refers to seems to be eternal life. Temporal life or death may or may not be included.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 18:30 Repent and turn. Two forms of the Hbr "turn," here repeated for emphasis. From the totality of Scripture, we know that this is possible only through the gracious gift of the Holy Spirit. See p 1080. lest iniquity be your ruin. As the ESV note indicates, "ruin" is a free translation of "stumbling block," i.e., lest there be another relapse into apostasy. See note, 3:20.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 18:31 Cast away … new spirit! May be read as a condition: If you cast away … then you will get a new heart and spirit. (Cf 36:26.) Chem: "Just as there is an old and a new man, so the Law exercises control over the old man or his nature, coerces, crushes and mortifies it by outward discipline, punishments, and threats; but the consolation of the Gospel pertains to the new man and indeed produces the new man. For it is the ministration of renewal through which, when the man is outside he is brought low and when he is inside he is renewed from day to day" (LTh 2:664). make yourselves a new heart and a new spirit! Hbr idiom is involved, which may be translated "get/acquire for yourselves" (cf 28:4; Dt 8:17; 2Sm 15:1; 1Ki 1:5). Sinners do not have a free will or ability to make their hearts new (see note, Ex 35:29).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 18:32 Repeats v 23 as a conclusion and as an invitation to repent and live as God intended before the fall into sin. Through His Son, God has provided the means for such a change of heart. See notes, 11:19; 36:26. Cypr: "While God is provoked with frequent, yea, with continual offences, He softens His indignation, and in patience waits for the day of retribution, once for all determined; and although He has revenge in His power, He prefers to keep patience for a long while, bearing, that is to say, mercifully, and putting off, so that, if it might be possible, the long protracted mischief may at some time be changed, and man, involved in the contagion of errors and crimes, may even though late be converted to God" (ANF 5:485).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON Ch 18 God gives a clear, almost dogmatic, statement of how His justice operates. Life or death depends upon whether or not one believes and, as a result, lives out that faith. God severely condemns natural man's tendency to justify himself on the basis of his own supposed righteousness, or to blame God (or someone else) for unfairness. Ezekiel also beautifully asserts God's desire for everyone to be saved ("live"). • Lord, keep us steadfast in Christ's righteousness, which has satisfied Your justice and has given us new lives. Amen.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON Ch 19 Ezekiel issues a call to repentance in parabolic language, as in chs 15–18. Here, he composes a lament poem appropriate for a funeral (cf Lm). He mourns the last leaders of Judah, described as offspring of a lioness (vv 1–9) and as the strongest stem growing on a vine (vv 10–14). Two of the kings who are mourned were sons of the same father; the third was a grandson. Though they are not expressly named, their identity emerges from allusions to circumstances in their lives.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 19:1 lamentation. See pp 839–46, 1295. princes. See p 228.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 19:2 your mother? Judah. lioness! Asian lion was an emblem of Judah. The first king was Josiah's son Jehoahaz (vv 2–4; cf 2Ki 23:31–33).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 19:3 devoured men. Said also of the next king (v 6). During the regime of both rulers, many people lost their lives.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 19:4 he was caught … pit … hooks. Together with vv 8–9, likely outlines ancient practices for capturing and controlling a lion. The animal was surrounded, driven by cries to a pit, netted, subdued with hooked poles, and bound.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 19:5 waited in vain. Hbr implies that the first lion disappointed the mother's expectations. another of her cubs. The second king was Jehoiachin, son of Jehoiakim and nephew of Jehoahaz (vv 5–9; cf 2Ki 24:8–15).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 19:6 devoured men. See note, v 3.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 19:7 seized their widows. Charges the ruler with killing men and taking their wives. Cf 2Sm 11.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 19:8–9 See note, v 4.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 19:8 nations … every side. Hbr can be translated: "Nations attacked him from provinces all around."

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 19:10–14 The third and last to hold a ruler's scepter in Judah was Zedekiah, another son of Josiah (cf Jer 52:1–11).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 19:10 in a vineyard. "In your blood," as the KJV translates (see ESV note), suggests the organic affinity of the stem (v 11) to the vine.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 19:11 Difficult Hbr. The text seems to move from describing the kings of David's line to the one king under whom Judah collapsed. rulers' scepters. Members of the royal family. See note, Gn 49:10. it towered aloft. Instead of hugging the ground as a fruitful vine. See note, Ezk 17:6.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 19:12 plucked up. By Babylon. east wind. See notes, Jb 1:19; 27:21.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 19:13 Deported to Babylon.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 19:14 The king's treachery brought on his and the monarchy's downfall (cf ch 15). has gone out. Ezekiel may have written the lamentation over Zedekiah after the fall of Jerusalem. However, a dirge may also be prophetic of a future calamity (cf Am 5). become a lamentation. Encloses or frames the passages (circling back to v 1). The wording also hints that Ezekiel wrote the lament for the fall of Jerusalem in 587 BC and so affirmed that his prophecy would come true.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON Ch 19 Ezekiel laments the corrupt line of Judah. Instead of ruling through exemplary lives, the last three kings symbolize God's judgment. God withdrew His blessings from Judah, whose leaders rebelled against Him. However, God did not abandon His covenant promise to David (2Sm 7:16), fulfilling it in Jesus Christ, the descendant of David (Mt 1:6–16), the descendant of Abraham (Mt 1:2–5, 17). • Lord, we thank You for Your mercy. You remain faithful, fulfilling Your promise in Christ. Grant us true repentance and faithfulness. Amen.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 20:1–4 A third visit by the elders of Israel showed that they continued to ignore Ezekiel's unrelenting, impassioned preaching. The repetition in his preaching illustrates God's infinite patience. Ezekiel had to tell the inquiring elders that they still have not removed their idols from their hearts (cf vv 31–32). Instead of granting the kind of favorable answer they sought, Ezekiel is instructed to judge them, pronouncing them guilty of the same abominations as their fathers.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 20:1 seventh year … tenth day of the month. Aug 14, 591 BC, the seventh year of captivity. elders of Israel. See note, 8:1. came to inquire. See notes, 14:1, 3.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 20:3 As I live. Oath formula. See "vow," p 7.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 20:4 abominations. See note, 5:9.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 20:5–32 From Israel's beginning and throughout its history, God would have been justified if He had poured out His wrath on the people. They escaped destruction solely because God did not want His holy name to "be profaned in the sight of the nations" (vv 14, 22). See note, Ex 32:12.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 20:5 I chose Israel, I swore. See notes, Dt 7:6–8.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 20:6 a land flowing with milk and honey. See p 6.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 20:7 detestable things … idols of Egypt. Cf 5:11.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 20:8 None. Hyperbole, since Moses and Joshua remained steadfast even during the idolatry with the golden calf (Ex 32).
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 20:9 for the sake of My name. Mentioned frequently as the reason for Israel's survival; the honor of God's name is cited also by Isaiah and Jeremiah as motivating Him to restrain His anger (cf Jer 14:7; Ex 32:11–12; Nu 14:15–16; Dt 9:27–28). See p 842.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 20:11 statutes … rules. See p 971. shall live. Cf Jsh 1:7–8; Lk 10:27–28.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 20:12 Sabbaths. A sign of covenant faithfulness. See note, Ex 20:8; cf Jer 17:21. sanctifies them. See "holy," p 7.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 20:14 See note, v 9.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 20:15 a land flowing with milk and honey. See p 6.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 20:18–19 "Doesn't God forbid people everywhere in the Prophets from setting up peculiar rites of worship without His commandment?" (Ap XV 14).
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 20:18 their children. The generation born during the 40 years of wandering.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 20:21 the children rebelled. E.g., the murmurers and the sons of Korah (Nu 16).
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 20:22 withheld My hand. Withheld full punishment.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 20:23 scatter … disperse. Cf Dt 4:27.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 20:25 statutes … not good. The laws God gave that man shall live (v 11) can also become "a fragrance from death to death" (2Co 2:14, 16). When executing judgment on willful, hardened sinners, He sends them a strong delusion (2Th 2:11) so that they fall into perverting wholesome ordinances and make them an excuse for committing the most detestable crimes. Cf Rm 7:7–8. "Not even to His Law has God assigned the honor that it should merit eternal life, as He clearly says" (Ap XXVII 30).
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 20:27 son of man. See note, 2:1. blasphemed Me. With the actions described in vv 28–29.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 20:28–29 See p 526.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 20:30 whoring. Cf ch 16.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 20:31 children in fire. See notes, 16:20–21; 2Ki 16:3. I will not be inquired of by you. Cf Ezk 14:1; 20:1.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 20:32 be like the nations. Exiles of Ezekiel's day hoped for favorable treatment from the Babylonians if they adopted their idols.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 20:1–32 The stench of Israel's sin is great. Verse by verse, God recounts how generations of Israelites compounded their sins. God desired to pour His wrath against them (vv 8, 13, 21) but, by His grace, stilled His own hand (vv 9, 14, 22). Today, make repentance a way of life. The heavenly Father will pardon your sins for the sake of Jesus, our Savior. He will raise His hand in blessing and incline His ear to hear your prayer. • Lord God, thankfully we do not receive what our sins deserve—eternal death. By Your grace, we receive eternal life. Amen.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 20:33–44 As in the past, God would not make a full end of the unfaithful people, because the honor of His name was still at stake (vv 39, 44). He would manifest His holiness in the sight of the nations by doing again what He did at the time of the exodus from Egypt.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 20:33 a mighty hand and an outstretched arm. See note, 4:7.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 20:37 As a shepherd wields his staff to judge which sheep belong in his flock, so the Lord will judge those who desire to acknowledge Him as their King (cf Jer 33:13).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 20:38 rebels … shall not enter the land of Israel. The rebellious generation after the exodus perished in the wilderness. The exile will provide a similar purging.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 20:39 My holy name. See "LORD," p 1227.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 20:40 My holy mountain. Zion. See p 844. contributions … gifts … offerings. Technical terms for the wave offerings, firstfruits, and other offerings described by Moses. See pp 170–71.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 20:41 Restored to their status as His covenant people, they will no longer be the object of ridicule.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 20:43 loathe yourselves. Ashamed of their misdeeds (cf 16:61; 36:31; Hos 5:15).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 20:45–49 In the Hbr Bible, vv 45–49 are the opening section of the next ch, in which Ezekiel continues his efforts to convince his calloused hearers of inevitable judgment to come.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 20:46 forest land in the Negeb. See note, Jsh 17:15.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 20:47 kindle … devour. Fire as divine wrath. Cf Is 10:17–18; Jer 44:6; Am 2:5.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 20:49 a maker of parables? Hbr mashal used here as a verb and a noun together, a pun expressing their disdain for Ezekiel's repeated admonitions. See p 778.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 20:33–49 God continues His prophetic dialogue with Ezekiel. While the elders come seeking counsel, God speaks only to Ezekiel and reveals how the withdrawal of His blessings will ultimately lead to Israel's repentance. God will use the Babylonian captivity to bring Israel back into a covenant agreement with Himself (v 37). When difficulties or even disasters enter your life, let them remind you of the need for daily repentance and the refreshing blessings of the Gospel extended to you through Christ. • Merciful Father, forgive my sins and restore me to a right relationship through Your Son, Jesus Christ. Amen.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 21:1–17 Though Ezekiel's hearers complained that he spoke in riddles, he continued to sound the alarm of God's judgment. He now describes a sword drawn for a great slaughter. The victims of the sword are identified at the very outset as Jerusalem and the land of Israel (v 2).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 21:2–3 Israel. See note, 2:3.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 21:3 both righteous and wicked. In catastrophes of nature and national disasters, there is no distinction in the outward fate that overtakes an entire community (see note, 18:24).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 21:6 son of man. See note, 2:1.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 21:7 Every heart will melt. See note, Jsh 2:9.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 21:9 A sword. The instrument of death is personified. Jeremiah also addressed a sword and invoked it to slaughter the Philistines and Babylonians (Jer 47:6–7; 50:35–38).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 21:10 shall we rejoice? Ezekiel's hearers still were tempted to think the sword was drawn to destroy their enemies. Ezekiel unmasked their hypocrisy with a terse statement of the facts.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 21:12 princes of Israel. See p 228. Strike therefore upon your thigh. Gesture to express anguish and despair. See "clap" and "smite," pp 1276–1277.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 21:13 not be a testing. God must use a sword to punish a nation that He chose to be His people, because chastisements with a rod did not bring them to their senses.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 21:14 Clap your hands. See note, 6:11. twice, yes, three times. The Lord urged Ezekiel to keep striking the people with his prophecies.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 21:15 stumble. See note, 3:20. At all their gates. Babylonians surrounded them for a siege.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 21:17 clap My hands. See note, 6:11.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 21:18–27 The sword of the Lord is more than a figure of speech. It had already been "given into the hand of the slayer" (v 11). Nebuchadnezzar, chosen to serve God as His executioner (see note, Is 42:1), is already marching. When he captures the people within Jerusalem, they will know that he is divinely commissioned to bring their guilt to remembrance, even though Nebuchadnezzar may act out of selfish motives. For breaking a sworn covenant, the prince of Israel will be disgraced and dethroned (cf Ezk 17:14–21). Nothing will remain of his kingdom but ruin (21:27).
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 21:19 make a signpost. An advance unit marks the way for the main force to close in.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 21:20 Rabbah. See note, Jer 49:2. Ammonites. For the role they played in Israel's history and their ultimate fate, see note, Nu 21:24. Cf vv 28–32; see note, Jer 49:1.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 21:21 divination. Nebuchadnezzar did not reach a decision until he received favorable omens from three kinds of augury: (1) Arrows, marked to indicate divergent options, were shaken in a quiver. When the king drew out one of them with his right hand, the divination for Jerusalem (v 22) emerged. (2) Teraphim, carved or sculptured images in human form, were consulted (see note, Gn 31:19). How they were manipulated to foretell the future is not known. (3) Professional soothsayers were engaged to examine the liver of slain animals. They interpreted the coloring and the lines of the organ to indicate whether a contemplated action would succeed or not. Archaeologists have discovered clay diagrams of livers, which assisted with such interpretations. One was found at Megiddo in northern Israel.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 21:22 open the mouth with murder. Describes battle cries.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 21:23 them. The people of Jerusalem, who believed that Nebuchadnezzar's favorable omens would prove to be a false divination. sworn solemn oaths. Lit, "oaths of oaths are to them." They were so sure that Nebuchadnezzar was being deceived that they swore oath upon oath. See "vow," p 7. The Hbr noun for "oaths" may denote "weeks." If translated "weeks of weeks are to them," the meaning is that the people are saying, "It will not be for ages, if ever, that the divination will come true."

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 21:24 made your guilt to be remembered. The people flaunted their sins.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 21:25 O profane wicked one, prince of Israel. Zedekiah. Cf 2Ki 24:18–25:7.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 21:26 Remove the turban … crown. Resign. Exalt … bring low. The fall of Jerusalem and exile will overturn Judah's society.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 21:27 the one to whom judgment belongs. When Zedekiah dies in disgrace, the house of David will become defunct until the messianic King establishes His rule (see note, Gn 49:10; cf Is 9:6–7; Lk 1:32, 69).
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 21:28–32 The sword of the Lord, deflected from the Ammonites for a time, will in due course be drawn for the slaughter.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 21:28 son of man. See note, 2:1. Ammonites. See note, v 20. concerning their reproach. When their day has come (v 29), the Ammonites will no longer rejoice over Jerusalem's ruin.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 21:29 An execution is described. However, the nouns and pronouns are unclear. Some wicked people are under threat, whether Ammonites or Judeans.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 21:30 Return it. If addressed to Ezekiel, God directs him to cease brandishing the sword that symbolized God's wrath. If addressed to Ammon, it is an ironic summons to give up the fight, because all resistance is in vain.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 21:31 brutish men. Cyrus would lead Medes and Persians against the Babylonians (the swords) and overthrow them in 539 BC. See notes, Is 45:1–3.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON Ch 21 God's hand draws His sword of judgment: Nebuchadnezzar. The righteous and unrighteous will both perish as Babylon strikes Jerusalem. In a section of Scripture filled with foreboding, destruction, and doom, there seems scant room for God's peace, salvation, and forgiveness. Yet, as quickly as God drew His sword, He returns it to its scabbard. God claps His hands and His fury abates (v 17). Today, He is equally ready to put away His wrath and forgive your sins. • Father, daily we witness Your infinite mercy. Though our sins are numerous, Your Word and Sacraments call us to forgiveness in Jesus Christ. Amen.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 22:1–16 Nebuchadnezzar was about to besiege Jerusalem, which would result in a great slaughter of its citizens and reduce every structure to rubble (21:14, 27). God made it clear that He decreed the horrors of war and the defeat of Jerusalem. Acting as God's prosecuting attorney, Ezekiel hauled the inhabitants of Jerusalem into court, indicting them for committing abominable deeds.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 22:2 son of man. See note, 2:1. bloody city? Jerusalem is as infamous in God's sight as Nineveh, the notoriously wicked capital of Assyria, against which the prophet Nahum uttered the execration, "Woe to the bloody city" (Na 3:1). The crimes committed in Jerusalem are so heinous that the charge of shedding blood is repeated six times in the next 11 verses. abominations. See note, 5:9.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 22:4 appointed time. God planned Jerusalem's downfall. reproach … mockery. See note, Jer 24:9.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 22:6 princes of Israel. See p 228.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 22:7–12 treated with contempt. Legislation, well known to the accused, prohibited the wrongs enumerated here.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 22:7 the sojourner … the fatherless and the widow. Cf Dt 14:29; 16:11, 14; 24:19–22.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 22:8 holy things. Cf Lv 10:10; 11:47; 20:25. Sabbaths. Cf Ex 20:8–10; Is 56:2.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 22:9 on the mountains. See note, 18:6. lewdness. Cf Lv 18:8–20; 20:10–21.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 22:10 their fathers' nakedness. See note, Lv 18:6. menstrual impurity. See note, Lv 15:19–24.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 22:12 bribes … extortion. Cf Ex 23:8; Dt 16:19. Me you have forgotten. Abominations (v 2) that wrong fellow human beings are regarded as offenses against God Himself.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 22:13 strike My hand. To express aroused feelings of indignation. (See note, 6:11.)
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 22:14 Can your courage endure. Until now they had put on a bold, brazen front, confident that the Lord could not destroy the Holy City. (Cf Jer 7:4.)
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 22:15 scatter. Exile. consume your uncleanness. The walls of Jerusalem will not offer them security. For God will turn the city, filled with refugees, into a smelting furnace in which the fire of His wrath will melt them into a heap of slag.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 22:18 dross … dross of silver. See note, Jer 6:27–30. Israel is like ore that when melted down leaves no valuable residue of silver, but only worthless dross.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 22:20 blow the fire. Heat intensified by bellows.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 22:24 not … rained upon. If not blessed by rainfall, a land is a worthless desert, unable to sustain life (cf Jer 14:2–6).
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 22:25 conspiracy of her prophets. False prophets would encourage members of the royal family to commit the crimes.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 22:26 Her priests have done violence. See note, 7:23–27. the holy and the common. See "holy," p 7. the unclean and the clean. See "clean," p 6.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 22:27 princes … like wolves. They are false shepherds (cf ch 34). princes. Hbr very likely refers to "high officials," as in 1Ki 4:2.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 22:28 smeared whitewash. To cover over the princes' evil deeds. See note, 13:10.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 22:30 stand in the breach. A few righteous individuals such as Noah, Daniel, and Job would no longer avert the doom of a nation in which all strata of the citizenry were addicted to a wanton life of crime (14:13–14). E.g., Jeremiah was sent to preach repentance but was rebuffed, ridiculed, and persecuted. "Such prayer, then, is to be our protection and defense now… . Let them all rage and attempt their utmost and deliberate and resolve how they may suppress and exterminate us, so that their will and counsel may prevail. Over and against this one or two Christians with this petition alone shall be our wall [Ezekiel 22:30], against which they shall run and dash themselves to pieces" (LC III 69).
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 22:31 I have returned their way upon their heads. They will suffer the abuse they heaped on others.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON Ch 22 Like a prosecuting attorney, Ezekiel presents God's charges against Judah. He outlines Judah's total disregard of God's Laws presented at Mount Sinai. Above all else, Judah has forgotten her Lord (v 12). Through the suffering of the exiles, the Lord would lead His people to repentance and ultimately forgiveness. He still works this way in our lives today, ever seeking our good and salvation. • Lord, our sins are above counting. Forgive us, we pray, through Christ. Amen.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON Ch 23 Ezekiel tried to break through the hard resistance to his preaching of repentance by confronting the rebellious house with an allegorical satire as shocking to their self-righteous sensibilities as the one recorded in ch 16.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 23:2 After Solomon's death, the kingdom was divided into two independent states. The capital of the seceding northern tribes came to be Samaria, while Jerusalem remained the seat of government in the south. The blood relationship of the two separate kingdoms is expressed in the satire by calling them daughters of one mother. See note, v 4.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 23:3 played the whore. Idolatry. See notes, 16:15; Jer 2:20; Hos 2:4.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 23:4 Oholah … Oholibah. Common element in the names is Hbr 'ohel, "tent." Its figurative significance derives from its use to designate Israel's place of worship before the temple was built, called "the tent of meeting" (Ex 29:42; 33:7; Nu 11:24). Oholah. Lit, "her tent," because the northern tribes established sanctuaries of their own in opposition to the only legitimate worship center. elder. Samaria is called the elder of the sisters because it was destroyed more than 100 years before Ezekiel spoke this satire. Oholibah. Lit, "My tent is in her," because God's approved place of meeting with His people remained in Jerusalem. became Mine. Figurative way of saying that the covenant made by God with the entire nation was like the marriage vow of a bride and groom, which is to be kept inviolate.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 23:5 her lovers the Assyrians. The Northern Kingdom made overtures of alliance to the Assyrians. These diplomatic maneuvers deserve to be called harlotries. They violated the relationship of total trust and unreserved dependence that the people pledged to maintain exclusively with God. The felony was compounded by the fact that treaties with heathen nations required adopting the worship of their idols. (See note, 16:26–29; cf Hos 5:13; 7:11; 12:1.)
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 23:6 clothed in purple. Afforded by the wealthy. See p 141. riding on horses. See note, Ps 20:7.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 23:10 uncovered her nakedness. See note, Lv 18:6. byword. See note, Jer 24:9. judgment. Oholah came to a tragic end when the very lovers with whom she defiled herself turned against her and slew her.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 23:11–21 Instead of learning from the fate of her elder sister, Oholibah was even more corrupt.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 23:12 the Assyrians. Cf 2Ki 16:7–9.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 23:14 men portrayed on the wall. Engraved in low-relief carvings. See note, 8:10. Chaldeans. Ruling house of the Babylonians. See note, 2Ki 20:12. vermilion. See note, Jer 22:14.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 23:17 the bed of love. Euphemism for intercourse. she turned from them in disgust. Desire turned to revulsion. See note, 2Sm 13:15.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 23:19–21 Driven by vulgar, uninhibited lust, Oholibah increased her whoring with the Egyptians to exceed what she did in the days of her youth.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 23:20 paramours. Hbr term is likely borrowed from another language and is usually translated "concubines," but cannot refer to women here, as the rest of the verse makes clear. Some deviant Egyptian behavior is involved.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 23:21 you. Oholibah is directly addressed, as follows in vv 22–35.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 23:22–35 Fourfold legal sentencing introduced by "thus says the Lord GOD." (1) Her lovers will become her executioners (vv 22–27). (2) They will leave her denuded of resources, the fruit of her labor (vv 28–31). (3) The rapacious men will act at God's judgment (vv 32–34). (4) Convicted of lewdness and whoring, she will bear the consequences of her deeds (v 35).
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 23:22 I will stir up against you. Introduces a great reversal of Oholibah's fortunes. As prostitutes commonly experience, she will become an object of abuse and violence rather than affection.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 23:23 Pekod and Shoa and Koa. Babylonian army will be composed in part of Aramean tribes located east of the Tigris River. Their names appear on Assyrian records.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 23:24 from the north. Hbr word occurring only here is so translated by the LXX. buckler. See note, Ps 35:2. I will commit the judgment to them. They act on God's behalf.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 23:25 My jealousy. See note, Ex 20:5. cut off your nose and your ears. Abuses the Assyrians used to humiliate some prisoners.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 23:31–34 See notes, Jer 13:13; Is 51:17.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 23:34 Act of insane delirium produced by the content of the cup.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 23:36–49 The abominable deeds and punishment of destroyed Samaria and the adultery and still-impending judgment of Jerusalem merge into a single picture of guilt followed by punishment. In the perspective of God's unchanging justice, what will happen has already happened, and what has happened must happen again. The wages of sin never go unpaid.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 23:37 See note, 2Ki 16:3.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 23:38–39 on the same day. Adding insult to injury, the idolaters who sacrificed their children have the defiant effrontery to enter the temple on a Sabbath with the blood of the ghastly crime still on their hands. (See notes, Lv 18:21; 2Ki 23:10.)

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 23:40 painted your eyes. In order to enhance their beauty. (See notes, 2Ki 9:30; Jb 42:14.)

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 23:41 couch. Designed for reclining at meals. My incense and My oil. Cf Ex 25:6.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 23:42 Some features of the revelry and debauchery cannot be translated with certainty. The sisters embrace the dregs of society. bracelets … beautiful crowns. Cheap gifts to entice them.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 23:43 adultery. She was a woman of habitual, unrestrained lewdness. She did not yield to temptation in a weak moment, but permitted men to commit adultery with her as readily as a professional harlot plies her trade.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 23:45 righteous men. Though the Babylonians and Assyrians were no better than their victims, they executed righteous judgment because they carried out the sentence that God's Holy Law demands. See note, vv 22–35.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 23:47 stone them and cut them down. Cf Lv 20:10; Dt 21:21.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 23:48 all women may take warning. A warning to other nations.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON Ch 23 Both the Northern and Southern Kingdoms of Israel prostituted themselves by worshiping foreign gods and forming alliances with foreign governments. God's use of sexually explicit language calls attention to His wrath against spiritual adultery. Modern lewdness in films, songs, and on the Internet similarly mislead people today by alienating them from God, who forbids such things. It also alienates people from their families, who cannot endure such unfaithfulness. Today, repent of lusts and from spiritual adulteries that mix true devotion with falsehood. No matter how deep the stain of your sins, trust that the Lord Jesus can cleanse you with His precious blood and renew positive relationships with heaven and at home. • Father, forgive us for foolishly bowing to our own lusts and sinful imaginations. Renew us in the purity of Holy Baptism. Amen.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 24:1–14 For four years (cf 1:2; 24:1), God's appointed watchman over Israel sounded the alarm in vain (3:7). Informed by "the word of the LORD," he announces that, as he now speaks, the king of Babylon is no longer in far-off Riblah (see note, 21:18–27) but "has laid siege to Jerusalem this very day" (24:1–2).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 24:1 ninth year … tenth month … tenth day. Jan 15, 588 BC, the ninth year of the exile. Cf 1:1–2; 8:1; 2Ki 25:1; Jer 52:4. After the exile, the day was observed annually by fasting (Zec 8:19).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 24:3–5 The pieces of meat represent the people of Jerusalem (see note, 11:3). The upper stratum of the citizenry will share the same fate as the rank and file. In order to make sure that the bones too are thoroughly boiled, they are to be placed under the meat and the water is to be brought to a high boiling point (see ESV note).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 24:3 parable. See pp 775–78.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 24:6 bloody city. For its criminal record, see 22:1–12. corrosion. Copper pot has oxidized and was not cleaned, spoiling the food. without making any choice. Stabbing and removing meat at random—all get treated the same.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 24:7 bare rock. Blood was shed so brazenly and openly that no attempt was made to cover the crime or to bring the murderer to justice. Therefore the blood, like Abel's, cries to God for vengeance (cf Gn 4:10; Jb 16:18; Ps 32:1; Is 26:21; Rm 4:7).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 24:9 bloody city! Not because of her godly sacrifices at her temple, but because of her heinous sacrifice of firstborn children to foreign gods. See note, 16:20–21.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 24:10 Keep cooking as though nothing were wrong.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 24:11 copper … corrosion. See note, v 6.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 24:12 wearied herself. Also translated "she has wearied Me." The thought is that God's previous chastisements were wasted efforts because they failed to produce repentance and so cleanse the city of her filthy lewdness (v 13).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 24:14 I will do it. God will allow the Babylonians to complete the siege.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 24:1–14 By God's own hand, the Babylonians besiege Jerusalem (v 2). Judah's offenses against God earn her the hideous title of "the bloody city" (v 6). God sets afire Judah's uncleanness (v 11). This cleansing fire subsides when God has satisfied His fury (v 13). Thanks be to God; for our sakes, Jesus satisfied God's fury on the cross and atoned for all our uncleanness with His precious blood. • Father, only the precious blood of Jesus makes us holy. Purify us from all unrighteousness for His sake. Amen.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 24:15–27 Ezekiel was directed to perform another action prophecy (see note, chs 4–5). This is likely the most difficult assignment he received.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 24:16 take the delight of your eyes. Contrary to appearances, Ezekiel was not devoid of tender love, as this term of endearment for his wife shows. you shall not mourn. He was to give no outward expression of his grief and to refrain from observing the customary mourning rites. His highly unconventional behavior prompted the people to ask what these things meant.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 24:17 Sigh. According to prevailing funeral customs, the mourner was expected to (1) engage women to lament aloud (Mk 5:38); (2) take off the turban and go barefoot (2Sm 15:30; Is 20:2); (3) pull down a head-covering over his face to his lips (Mi 3:7); and (4) eat "the bread of men," prepared by relatives and friends (Jer 16:7; Hos 9:4).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 24:21 I will profane My sanctuary. Destruction of the temple by the Babylonians. the pride of your power. Cf Ps 27:4; 137:6; Lm 2:4.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 24:25 son of man. See note, 2:1. their stronghold. The temple.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 24:26 on that day. Hbr idiom also translated "when" or "then." See p 1079. Ezekiel is not saying that a fugitive leaving Jerusalem on the day of its capture (v 25) could arrive in Babylon within 24 hours. In prophetic perspective, the tragic event and the arrival of the report are telescoped into a single view. See p 1258. a fugitive … to report. Someone would escape the destruction to share the news.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 24:27 no longer mute. Cf 33:22. On the nature of the prophet's temporary muteness, see note, 3:26.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 24:15–27 Ezekiel must hold in his sorrow over the death of his wife as a sign to the exiles that they have no right to mourn over the destruction of the temple and Jerusalem. False tears offend God. He calls for true sorrow and contrition as genuine results of repentance. Our sins profaned His most glorious temple—the body and life of His Son. Yet the Father quietly gave Him over to death so that we might have life. Thankfully, Jesus cleanses our pain-filled hearts and will wipe away all our tears. • O Jesus, when our sin profaned the temple of Your body, You prepared for us a place in Your eternal glory. Return and deliver us. Amen.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON Chs 25–32 Oracles against seven nations surrounding Israel, which serve as an interlude, leave the reader in suspense about the future of Jerusalem (see note, 24:26). The doom pronounced on the foreign nations constitutes a prelude to the third and final section of Ezk. For similar collections of oracles against Israel's enemies, cf Is 13–23; Jer 46–51; Am 1:2–2:3. The nations are Ammon east of the Jordan, Moab east of the Salt Sea, Edom to the south, Philistia to the west (ch 25), and Tyre and Sidon to the northwest (chs 26–28). The seventh is Egypt, contender for the control of all Israel (chs 29–32). See color map 2. The indicted nations add up to a total of seven, and the seventh (Egypt) is condemned by seven words of the Lord that came to Ezekiel on seven occasions (29:1, 17; 30:1, 20; 31:1; 32:1, 17). See p 217. Every earthly power that seeks to hinder the coming of God's kingdom must go down in defeat. Note that Babylon is not included; in Ezekiel's day, the Babylonian king was not obstructing God's purposes. Though acting out of selfish motives, the Babylonian king was carrying out a divinely assigned task when he destroyed Jerusalem. Although Israel had dealings with other peoples, the seven nations indicted and condemned represent the totality of worldly powers answerable to God's direction (cf Dt 7:1). Ezekiel underscores the miracle of Israel's survival among hostile nations and empires by noting the exact date when he received seven of the oracles directed against them, thus accounting for half of the dated passages in the entire Book (26:1; 29:1, 17; 30:20; 31:1; 32:1, 17).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 25:2 Son of man. See note, 2:1. set your face. Cf 4:3; see p 1277. the Ammonites. Region of modern Jordan. See color map 2.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 25:3 Aha! Cry of vindictive joy. Cf Jb 39:25; Ps 35:21, 25; Is 44:16. when it was profaned. Fall of Jerusalem, 587 BC.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 25:4 the people of the East. Nomadic tribes of the desert to the east of Israel or more distant Babylon.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 25:5 Rabbah … Ammon. See note, 21:20.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 25:6 clapped … stamped. See note, 6:11.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 25:7 know that I am the LORD. See note, 2:5.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 25:1–7 Ezekiel pronounces the first of seven prophecies against nations surrounding Israel. God directs world events by faithfully protecting those whom He loves and punishing those who disobey Him. God continues to do the same today. He will not allow nations or individuals to mock Him. He will call straying people to repentance, that He might forgive them and restore blessings to them so that others may come to know the Lord (vv 5, 7). • Almighty God, grant that we never rejoice at the misfortune of others; we pray that all may come to know You by faith. Amen.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 25:8–11 Territory east of the Salt Sea and south of the Ammonites. See color map 2; see also notes, Is 15; Jer 48; cf Gn 19:37–38.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 25:8 Judah is like all the other nations. They certainly share the same sins but have greater responsibility because of their rebellion (cf 2:3–7).
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 25:11 know that I am the LORD. See note, 2:5.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 25:8–11 Moab falls under the Lord's judgment. God accuses Moab of believing that Judah is like the other nations (v 8), when in truth they are called and blessed by God. Today, bear His name with repentant joy and sincere faith so that others may know the Lord. God expects His people to be different. Indeed, He makes a difference in the lives of those baptized in His name by forgiving their sins. • Merciful God, show us how to live in Your righteousness by Your Spirit's power, through Christ, our Lord. Amen.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 25:12–14 Living in the territory south of the Salt Sea, the Edomites refused to allow Israel to pass through their nation on their march to the Promised Land (Nu 20:18–21). See notes, Is 21:11; Jer 49:7, 12; Am 1:11; cf Ezk 35.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 25:12 acted revengefully. See note, Ob 14.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 25:13 Teman. In central Edom. See note, Jer 49:7.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 25:14 vengeance … by the hand of My people Israel. See note, Mal 1:3. The Edomites were later dominated by the Nabateans, Maccabees, and Romans until they disappeared from history. they shall know My vengeance. Cf v 7.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 25:12–14 In Ezekiel's day, the Edomites joined forces with the Babylonians besieging Jerusalem, and they participated in the slaughter of God's people (Ob 8–14). They did not simply ignore Judah's trouble, but actively exploited them. Today, when you see someone struggling, pray for him and actively seek his good. Leave vengeance to God and those whom God charges with matters of justice. Your hope and pride as God's child is not in your power over others but in the mercy He shed upon you by your Savior, Jesus. • Almighty God, we pray that You would forgive us, for at times we fail to help others in need. Lead us to strongly defend Your Holy Word. Amen.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 25:15–17 See notes, Jer 47.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 25:15 never-ending enmity. Books of Jgs and 1Sm–2Ch include God's many grievances against the Philistines. The trouble began in Jgs 3.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 25:16 the Cherethites. See note, 2Sm 15:18.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 25:17 they will know. Statement of God's ultimate purpose occurs frequently in sermons addressed to Israel (see note, 2:5). When it appears repeatedly also in these oracles, it holds out hope that people of heathen origin will also be led to knowledge of the saving truth, vouchsafed in God's everlasting covenant of grace (25:7, 11; 1Tm 2:4).
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 25:15–17 Looking westward, God directs His fourth prophecy against the Philistines. Far from an act of revenge, God reaches out to the Philistines, that they may know He is God. To this day, God continues to reach out to people who do not know Him. He desires the salvation of all (1Tm 2:3–4), as He emphasized to Ezekiel (Ezk 18:23, 32). Pray for those who fight against God's people. The Lord can change their lives and grant them repentance, just as He has granted repentance and life to you in Christ Jesus. • Lord, You are merciful. By Your grace through Christ, deliver the nations from evil. Amen.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 26:1–14 C 35 mi NW of the Sea of Chinnereth lay the port city Tyre, "mighty on the sea" (v 17). Together with her sister city Sidon, c 25 mi up the Great Sea's coast, these Phoenician cities established a commercial empire unrivaled in their day. See color map 1. Their ships brought the merchandise of the nations into their storehouses and filled their coffers with treasures (cf Is 23). However, the amassed riches of the world did not put them beyond God's control. On five occasions, "the word of the LORD came" to Ezekiel to announce their doom (26:1; 27:1; 28:1, 11, 20).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 26:1 the eleventh year. 587 BC. Because Jerusalem was captured in the same year, the news of its fall must have quickly reached Tyre, where it was greeted with malicious glee.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 26:2 Son of man. See note, 2:1. the gate of the peoples. Situated astride the corridor between the Great Sea and the desert, Jerusalem was in a position to control the overland trade routes between the nations of antiquity and to levy taxes on wares in transit through its territory. See note, Jb 29:7.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 26:3 as the sea brings up its waves. Nations will rise against the city like a storm surge. Befitting her greater prominence at the time, Tyre bears the brunt of the denunciation. The Lord will make her a bare rock (vv 4, 14). One of the Lord's agents of destruction will be the king of Babylon.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 26:5 a place for the spreading of nets. Destroyed and sunk below water level so fishermen will fish over the ruins.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 26:6 her daughters. Phoenician towns of lesser prominence. know that I am the LORD. See note, 2:5.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 26:7 thus says the Lord GOD. Repeated three times to shatter Tyre's false sense of security (vv 7, 15, 19). See p 1080. Nebuchadnezzar. After the capture of Jerusalem, he besieged Tyre for 13 years. He destroyed the city on the mainland, but its island defenses, one-half mile offshore, held out. king of kings. Hbr superlative; i.e., the greatest of kings.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 26:8 siege wall … mound. See note, 4:2. raise a roof of shields. Or simply, "raise shields." The Greco-Roman testudo technique of joining shields to cover a group of men during an attack is not evident in Assyrian or Babylonian depictions of siege warfare.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 26:9 battering rams. See note, 4:3.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 26:14 a place for the spreading of nets. See note, v 5. never be rebuilt. Demolished in 332 BC by Alexander the Great. Before taking the fortified rock, he had to build a causeway into the sea and out to it. Alexander's conquest permanently altered the site, making the island of Tyre a peninsula.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 26:15–18 Tyre's satellites and maritime colonies will be appalled at the sudden fall of an apparently invincible power structure. Their spokesmen, called princes of the sea, will lament over the wreckage as if it were a corpse.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 26:16 clothe themselves with trembling. Picturesque description of mourning, as royalty shiver in sackcloth.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 26:17 raise a lamentation. See note, 2:10.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 26:19–21 The dirge over Tyre's demise is appropriate, because as the dead cannot return from the pit to the land of the living, so the city will never be found again.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 26:20 the pit … the world below. See p 792. I will set beauty in the land of the living. A word of hope for the repentant, which heightens the contrast for the unrepentant. Life and beauty will go on without them.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON Ch 26 The Lord speaks against Phoenicia and its principal city, Tyre. Mocking the Lord brings His retribution. People who pride themselves on criticizing and persecuting God's people will suffer His wrath here or in the grave. Yet, there is hope and beauty for the repentant. Though Tyre would sink down, those who trust the Lord will rise up in blessing. • Lord, by Your hand all nations rise and fall. Protect us by Your Holy Spirit, through Christ. Amen.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 27:1–9 The Lord tells Ezekiel to raise a lamentation over Tyre as mourners would over someone brought down to the pit (26:20). The prophet opens with a eulogy customarily spoken over the deceased (cf 2Sm 1:17–27). Tyre is compared with a magnificent ship, "perfect in beauty," sturdily built, excellently equipped, lavishly arrayed, and manned by experienced mariners. On Great Sea trade, see p 1892. Cf Ac 27–28.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 27:2 lamentation. Cf 19:1–14; see p 1295.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 27:3 merchant of the peoples. People of many nations who frequented Tyre.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 27:4 borders are in the heart of the seas. Tyre's ships dominated the Great Sea and established its trade routes and colonies as far away as Spain. See note, vv 12–25a.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 27:5–6 fir … cedar … oaks … pines. Nearby Lebanon mountains were a rich source of shipbuilding timber.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 27:5 Senir. Lofty peak in the Anti-Lebanon Range better known as Mount Hermon (see note, Dt 3:8).
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 27:7 linen … sail, serving as your banner. Emblem of Tyre emblazoned on the sail. blue and purple. See p 141. Elishah. Tentatively identified as a city on Cyprus.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 27:8 Arvad. Island c 100 mi N of Tyre. rowers. To get ships out of port and to guide them during contrary winds.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 27:9 Gebal. Or, Byblos. Seaport south of Arvad. caulking. Or, "repairing." all … barter for your wares. Bursting with trade.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 27:10–11 The Tyrian luxury liner could sail confidently to distant ports because its home base was protected by mercenaries assembled from far and wide.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 27:10 Lud and Put. Territories on the African coast, west of the delta. your men of war. Foreign mercenaries.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 27:11 Helech. Or, Cilicia. Gamad. Unidentified; possibly the Syrian town Kumidi.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 27:12–25a The Tyrian ship of state boasted of splendor and opulence because of lucrative trade in choice wares obtained from nations in all parts of the ancient world. The list of countries with which Tyre had profitable commercial relations constitutes a veritable map of antiquity. Javan (v 13) is Greece; Tubal and Meshech (v 13) are in Asia Minor; Beth-togarmah (v 14) is the territory later known as Armenia; Dedan (v 15) is possibly the island of Rhodes off the coast of Asia Minor; Syria (v 16) is north of Judah; Damascus (v 18) is the capital of Syria; Helbon (v 18) is north of Damascus; Uzal (v 19) is a trading center in southern Arabia; Dedan (v 20) is in central Arabia; Kedar (v 21) is in northern Arabia; Sheba and Raamah (v 22) with Canneh and Eden (v 23) are at the southern end of Arabia; Haran (v 23) is in Mesopotamia; Asshur (v 23) is in Assyria; Chilmad (v 23) remains unidentified. See color maps at the front of the Bible.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 27:12 did business with you. Great Sea shipping trade.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 27:13 exchanged human beings. Slave trade.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 27:15 ivory tusks and ebony. African luxuries.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 27:16 Syria. Lit, Aram.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 27:17 See "flowing with milk and honey," p 6.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 27:19 cassia, and calamus. See notes, Ps 45:8; Sg 4:14.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 27:24 blue and embroidered work. See p 141. carpets. Similar to modern Persian rugs.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 27:25 ships of Tarshish. Vessels capable of carrying heavy cargoes and going great distances (cf 1Ki 10:22).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 27:26 rowers. See note, v 8.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 27:27 Your riches. Tyre typifies godless self-sufficiency and self-determination. Every such anti-God power structure will share its fate. In Rv 18, John makes Babylon the symbol of opposition to God and describes its downfall in terms reminiscent of Tyre's shipwreck.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 27:28–31 Ships lost in v 27 evoke mourning by sailors and traders.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 27:34 all your crew … sunk. Cf v 27.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 27:35 bristles with horror. Cf Jer 2:12.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 27:36 hiss at you. See p 1276. no more forever. See note, 26:14.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON Ch 27 God requests that nations sing a funeral lament over the destruction of Tyre. His arm is stretching out to oppose His enemies and to reach His people, to save them from themselves. Today, take His hand and ask Him to lead you on life's way. His arm of salvation, stretched out at Calvary, reaches across time to save you. • Father, the nations bow before You. Keep us steadfast in Your ways, for You alone provide eternal salvation. Through our service, further Your kingdom. Amen.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 28:2 prince of Tyre. Ithobaal II. See "prince," p 228. I am a god. Tyre's sin is epitomized in the pride of the chief of state, the prince. Ezekiel condemns the prince out of his own mouth, quoting him.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 28:3 wiser than Daniel. Nebuchadnezzar said to Daniel, "No mystery is too difficult for you" (Dn 4:9; cf Dn 1:20; see note, Ezk 14:14). Ambr: "[Daniel] was willing to endure danger for the law of God rather than to be turned from his purpose in order to gain the favor of men" (NPNF 2 10:52). The king of Tyre lacked the fear of the Lord, without which the most highly endowed intellect is prone to work havoc (cf Pr 3:7; 9:10; 26:12; Is 5:21; Jer 9:23–24).
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 28:4 wisdom and your understanding. See pp 775–77.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 28:6 like the heart of a god. Describes his overconfidence and self-delusion.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 28:7 most ruthless of the nations. The Babylonians are given this distinction (cf 30:11; 32:12).
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 28:8 the pit. See p 792.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 28:10 the death of the uncircumcised. Circumcision was the sign of the covenant with God (Gn 17:10–14). In contrast to his claim to royal honor, the king will die a shameful death like the uncircumcised Philistine slain by David and left unburied on the battlefield (1Sm 17:26, 36, 51).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 28:1–10 Tyre symbolizes God's concern to destroy sinful self-pride. Her ruins remain as Tyre's legacy of disgrace to surrounding nations. Unfortunately, like Tyre, we often deify ourselves. We pridefully boast in the works of our own hands instead of rejoicing in what God has worked through us. Paul states, "Let the one who boasts, boast in the Lord" (1Co 1:31), who alone is the author of life and salvation. • Heavenly Father, raise up God-fearing leaders and prevent us from suffering Tyre's fate. Amen.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 28:11–19 Cf Is 14:12–21.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 28:12 lamentation. The defeat and death of the king are so certain to come to pass that Ezekiel is told to raise a lamentation over him in anticipation of his funeral. He will share the fate of all who rise against their Maker in rebellious pride, the primordial sin that destroyed God's perfect creation. king of Tyre. See note, v 2. signet of perfection. On stamping seals, see note, Jer 32:10. When properly handled, the seal makes an accurate copy of the pattern engraved on it. Tyre's king was a paragon of wisdom and beauty. He exhibited these traits as perfectly as if he were a living facsimile of them in their ideal form. Pride is not a slight misdemeanor but an anti-God orientation of life. It is insidious, for it beguiled God's creatures when they were perfect in beauty and blameless (cf Ezk 28:15).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 28:13 The proud monarch claimed to sit in the seat of the gods (v 2). In this Eden, he was covered with precious stones and walked amid the stones of fire (v 14). Eden, the garden of God. The elegy Ezekiel composed scintillates with figurative allusions to Adam's fall in Eden and to Satan's expulsion from heaven to the ground (v 17). As in vv 1–10, the poet borrowed descriptive details from the corrupted mythical accounts of primeval events with which the king of Tyre was acquainted (cf Gn 2). In the biblical account, the garden of God was an earthly paradise of luxurious trees (cf 31:16, 18; 36:35; Jl 2:3). every precious stone. The nine jewels listed were also set in three rows on the breastpiece of the high priest, cf Ex 28:17–20. (The LXX adds three more, bringing the total to 12—the number prescribed for the priestly vestment.)

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 28:14–16 The king of Tyre is described as a cherub. Creatures similar to biblical cherubim appear in Phoenician art (see diagram, p 544). Elements of the passage are unclear.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 28:14 an anointed guardian cherub. This translation, based on the LXX, makes an angelic being the companion and protector of the prince on the holy mountain of God or the gods (as in pagan societies). However, after the king sinned, the same cherub drove him out from his celestial abode and God cast the sinner down to earth (vv 16–17; cf ch 10). The KJV interprets the text as saying that the prince is the cherub who is addressed as the guardian of the garden both here and in v 16. you were on the holy mountain of God. Perhaps equated with Eden. stones of fire. Perhaps the stars of ethereal heights (cf Is 14:12–13).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 28:15 blameless. See note, Jb 1:1. unrighteousness was found in you. See "righteousness," p 843.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 28:16 your trade. The figurative language momentarily gives way to a factual description of Tyre's source of wealth, the basis of its pride. O guardian cherub … stones of fire. See note, v 14.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 28:18 your sanctuaries. By the multitude of iniquities, he profaned the sacred precincts on the holy mountain (v 14). fire out from your midst. Cf Lv 10:2.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 28:19 no more forever. See note, 26:14.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 28:11–19 The funerary song continues. The rulers of Tyre once adorned themselves with precious stones like those that once adorned the high priest's vestment (v 13). Tyre's trade among nations brought wealth almost like that of the Garden of Eden (v 13). However, the sin of self-pride brought unrighteousness (v 15). Pride may replace wisdom in our lives as well. In response to our self-delusion, Jesus humbled Himself by taking up the cross to bear our sin and raise us up from the depths of corruption. • Father, nations like Tyre warn us against sinful pride. Send Your Spirit, that we may heed Your warning and trust in Your humble, righteous Son. Amen.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 28:21 set your face toward Sidon. See note, 4:3; see also p 1277. Situated c 25 mi N of Tyre, Sidon will share the fate of her sister city. See color map 1.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 28:22 manifest My glory … holiness. See "glory of the LORD" and "holy," pp 6–7. know that I am the LORD. See note, 2:5; see also p 1079.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 28:24–26 In marked contrast to Tyre and Sidon, the house of Israel has a glorious future. The chosen people will survive captivity, return from exile, and dwell securely in their own land. So God's plan of salvation, seemingly thwarted by the exile, will again get under way. Rescued from sin's bondage, a spiritual Israel will be gathered from all nations under the blissful rule of the Messiah, described in chs 33–48. (Cf Is 43:1–28; 52:1–15; 58–66; Jer 23:1–8; 33.) Iren: "The church is the seed of Abraham; and for this reason, that we may know that He who in the New Testament 'raises up from the stones children unto Abraham,' is He who will gather, according to the Old Testament, those that shall be saved from all the nations" (ANF 1:563–64).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 28:24 a brier to prick or a thorn to hurt. The Lord will provide an Edenlike peace for the remnant. Cf Gn 3:17–19; see note, Ezk 28:13. know that I am the Lord GOD. See p 1079.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 28:20–24 God speaks against Sidon. He desires to be exalted among all the nations (Ps 46:10). He will make His glory known in judgment (Ezk 28:22–23) but finally in mercy. Notice God's gracious promise of Israel's return from their Babylonian captivity (v 24). He promises to hallow and glorify His people through Christ Jesus (cf Rm 8:18; 1Co 1:30). • Lord, You graciously work for the salvation of many. May we learn to appreciate Your ways and partake of Your glorious goodness. Amen.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 28:25 Cf chs 40–48.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 28:26 build houses and plant vineyards. See note, Is 65:22. know that I am the LORD their God. See p 1079.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 28:25–26 God plans to lead Israel back into the land promised to their ancestors. In this instance, God directs Israel back to His covenant with their namesake Jacob—"Israel" (Gn 28:13–15; 32:28). God's mercy provides a recurring theme throughout the Bible. His promises point to the cross, where He willingly sacrificed His Son—the ultimate judgment against sin and the fullness of our redemption.• Lord, You are faithful; through Baptism, You have called us out of sin into eternal life. Strengthen us through Holy Communion and protect us with Your Spirit. Amen.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON Chs 29–32 The seventh nation addressed is Egypt (see note, chs 25–32). Seven times, the word of the Lord came to Ezekiel to announce the coming downfall of the proud land of the pharaohs (29:1, 17; 30:1, 20; 31:1; 32:1, 17).
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 29:1 The word of the Lord recorded in the opening verses of ch 29 came to Ezekiel after the siege of Jerusalem had begun (cf 24:1). No concentration of human might, whether specifically mentioned or not, is able to obstruct God's plan of salvation.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 29:2 Son of man. See note, 2:1. Pharaoh. An embodiment of the nation. See note, 17:7. Half of chs 25–32 is devoted to a sevenfold prophecy against Egypt. Unlike the six other nations, Egypt had achieved the status of a world empire and could be considered a formidable obstruction to God's government. As Ezekiel wrote his denunciations, Pharaoh was challenging Babylonian supremacy in the ancient world. The armies from the Nile would not be able to prevent Nebuchadnezzar from doing the task God assigned to him—the capture of Jerusalem and the chastening of the chosen people.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 29:3 dragon. Likely a crocodile. Because God created the great sea creatures (Gn 1:21), they cannot begin to dispute His control of them, for He can dispose of them as readily as He called them into being (Ps 74:13–14; 148:7). Opposition to God is at times represented by a dragon, identified as Rahab or Leviathan (see notes, Jb 9:13; 41:1; Is 30:7; 51:9).
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 29:4 hooks. See notes, Jb 41:1; Am 4:2. fish … stick to your scales. Trapped along with the monster who rules them. fish. Satellite nations dependent on Egypt.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 29:5 Cf 39:17–20.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 29:6–12 Egypt's overthrow will be as complete as if its fertile land along the Nile had become a desolation and a waste.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 29:6 know that I am the LORD. See note, 2:5. a staff of reed. Zedekiah found out that to rely on Egypt for help was as foolish as leaning one's weight on one of the many stalks or reeds growing on the banks of the Nile (cf Jer 37:6–7; see note, Jer 44:30).
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 29:9 a desolation and a waste. Wrecked as if by new plagues (cf Ex 7–11). know that I am the LORD. See note, 2:5.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 29:10 from Migdol to Syene. The entire north-to-south length of the land of Egypt, from the northernmost area in the delta to the far south (modern Aswan).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 29:11 forty years. Symbolic number to indicate the full duration of the imposed punishment. See note, Nu 14:34–35; see also p 217.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 29:12 scatter … disperse. Egypt's surrender to foreign domination would be as complete as when Israel was dragged into exile.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 29:13–16 Egypt's revival described in terms of Israel's return after the exile from where they were scattered (28:25). However, God will make the Egyptians a minor power.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 29:14 restore the fortunes. See p 1080. Pathros. Situated in Upper (southern) Egypt, where the pharaohs once held sway from the ancient capital of Thebes. See map, p 33.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 29:15 the most lowly of the kingdoms. In his role as God's rod of punishment on Israel, the Babylonian king would bring divine judgment on the land of the pharaohs and humble it. Prostrate and decadent, it would not be able to interfere with Israel after the return from exile, when the descendants of Abraham would once again serve as the bearers of promises to all mankind.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 29:16 know that I am the Lord GOD. See note, 2:5. Expression implies promised mercy for Israel and Egypt. Cf Is 19:16–25.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 29:17 twenty-seventh year. 571 BC, c 15 years after the fall of Jerusalem.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 29:18 Egypt's humiliation would begin when Nebuchadnezzar would plunder it. According to a fragment of a Babylonian chronicle, he invaded Egypt in 567 BC (see note, Jer 43:11). When he did so, he worked for God, who did not want Egypt to interfere with Israel's restoration. Son of man. See note, 2:1. made bald … rubbed bare. Reference to mourning practices (see note, Dt 14:1) and the exertions of the besieging army, which wore itself out. anything from Tyre. No doubt the Tyrians removed their treasures to the offshore island, which Nebuchadnezzar could not conquer (see note, Ezk 26:7).
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 29:19 Egypt … shall be the wages for his army. The Babylonians plunder Egypt to compensate for their fruitless efforts at Tyre.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 29:20 they worked for Me. See note, v 18.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 29:21 a horn. Frequent symbol of strength and kingship (cf Ps 89:17, 24; Jer 48:25; see p 842). When Christ was born, God "raised up a horn of salvation … in the house of His servant David" (Lk 1:69; cf Ps 132:17). open your lips. After the fall of Jerusalem, Ezekiel would renew his prophesying (see notes, Ezk 3:22–27). In chs 33–48, he received special eloquence to proclaim redemption through the coming deliverer. know that I am the LORD. See note, 2:5.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON Ch 29 At God's command, Egypt never again rises to its former greatness, for it shall "never again be the reliance of the house of Israel" (v 16). The efforts of the world are finally brought to naught. The future belongs to the Lord, who promises Israel a deliverer who will bring salvation also to the nations. • Lord, we humbly thank You for protecting us and providing us with a Savior, Jesus Christ. Grant godly leaders among the nations and open our lips to proclaim Your salvation for all. Amen.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 30:1–19 Undated oracle.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 30:1–4 Egypt's inevitable and imminent doom is described as a catastrophe precipitated by "the day of the LORD," which will overtake not only Israel but also the nations. See notes, 7:7, 10; Is 2:12; see also p 1258.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 30:2 Son of man. See note, 2:1.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 30:3 the day of the LORD. See p 1079.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 30:5–9 The destruction of Egypt's power will have widespread and serious consequences. Those who support her will fall also.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 30:5 Put, and Lud. Frequently mentioned together, these names seem to refer to territories situated in Africa, west of the Delta (Jer 46:9). Arabia. Hbr noun is best vocalized to be read "the mingled people," meaning groups of mixed racial and social affinities that were associated with the Egyptian army or citizenry. Libya. Hbr kub, an unidentifiable place-name. Possibly a scribal misspelling for lub, Libya. the people of the land that is in league. Unclear. Possibly a treaty partner with Egypt. league. Hbr berith, "covenant," typically used with Israel/Judah. Judean mercenaries may be in view. All the allies are defeated with Egypt. See notes, 29:3–6.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 30:9 messengers shall go out. Angelic servants to administer God's judgment (cf ch 9). from Me. Lit, "from before Me," referring to God's court. See notes, 1Ki 22:19; Ps 103:19–22.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 30:10–12 Cf 29:17–21.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 30:10 wealth. Same Hbr word is translated "multitude" in 31:2.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 30:12 I will dry up the Nile. See note, Is 19:5–7.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 30:13–19 No area of Egypt will be spared. On city after city, in every part of the land, God will execute judgment. Located in the region of the Delta are Zoan, Pelusium, Pi-beseth, and Tehaphnehes; up the Nile lie Memphis and On (Heliopolis); and in southern Egypt is the area called Pathros, in which was the city of Thebes (Karnak). See map, p 33.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 30:13 idols. See p 1079. Memphis. An important religious and political center, often the home of the pharaohs.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 30:15 the stronghold of Egypt. Pelusium was a fort on Egypt's northeastern frontier, near Philistia.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 30:18 covered by a cloud. Cf v 3; Is 13:10.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 30:19 know that I am the LORD. See note, 2:5.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 30:1–19 Egypt's influence over the Mediterranean area comes to an end. God sends Babylon, the most ruthless of nations (v 11), as the executioner of His divine plan of justice. God's wrath will destroy the idols worshiped by Egypt (v 13; cf Jsh 24:14). Mercenary faith lusts after material possessions and lacks sincere devotion. Today, repent of self-interested religion and call upon the Lord with sincere devotion. He is no idol and gives you real faith through Christ. • Lord, in awe we watch You sweep away the plans of men to implement Your plan of salvation. Forgive us our sins. Amen.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 30:20 Apr 587 BC, before the fall of Jerusalem.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 30:21 Son of man. See note, 2:1. Pharaoh. Hophra, the reed on which Israel leaned in vain for support (Is 36:6; cf Jer 37:5–10; 2Ki 24:7; see note, 29:6).
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 30:22 break his arms. His land would lie defenseless before the king of Babylon.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 30:24 My sword. God's judgment, like a weapon, decides the fate of nations.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 30:26 scatter … disperse. See note, 29:12. know that I am the LORD. See note, 2:5.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 30:20–26 God speaks a fourth prophecy of judgment against Egypt. Just as the strength or weakness of Pharaoh and Nebuchadnezzar were a matter for God's judgment, your life and future are in God's hands. Pray that He would bless and guide the work of your hands today. Do not regret your weakness. Note that, through the trembling arms and nail-pierced hands of Jesus, the Lord accomplished His greatest work of salvation. • Heavenly Father, thank You for Your tender mercy. Uphold the hands of Your servant in the cause of righteousness. Amen.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 31:1 June 21, 587 BC.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 31:2 Son of man. See note, 2:1. greatness? Egypt's fall from imperial glory to disgrace and servitude would be like the sudden crashing to earth of a magnificent cedar. So Assyria (cf v 3), only three decades earlier, went down to oblivion from heights of world dominion. Egypt also has attained great height, dwarfing all rivals. The question is whether Assyria's fate will be a warning to Pharaoh that pride goes before destruction (Pr 16:18; cf Ezk 27).
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 31:3 The Assyrian Empire towered high above the nations like a cedar in Lebanon. But when it stood at the pinnacle of glory, it suddenly disappeared from sight as if it were a tall tree felled in its prime. Egypt, like it in its greatness, will be like it also as it topples into irreversible ruin.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 31:5–6 Assyria had been a haven or ruler to many lesser nations and city-states.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 31:8 in the garden of God. Not even the trees of Eden were the cedar's equal in beauty and stature.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 31:9 I made it beautiful. Assyria's wonders were due to God's work. He had even granted Nineveh repentance and deliverance through Jonah's preaching.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 31:10–14 Because the cedar refused to acknowledge that God had made it beautiful (v 9), but it was proud of its height, He cut it down and left it to decay.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 31:10 its heart was proud. Personification of a nation as a tree at times gives way to a description of actual aspects of a human being. Thus the cedar is said to have a proud heart and to go down to the netherworld like all mortal men. Cf Ps 90:5–6; 103:14; Is 40:6.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 31:11 a mighty one. Nebuchadnezzar is called the king of "the most ruthless of nations" in 30:11.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 31:12 Allies and trade partners fled from troubled Assyria.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 31:13 Others exploit Assyria's downfall.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 31:14 See note, v 16.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 31:15 The cedar's fall from towering strength to helpless impotence is like a cosmic upheaval affecting the deep, its rivers and many waters, Lebanon, and all the trees of the field—the nations without exception. Sheol. See note, Dt 32:22; see also p 792. closed. Or, "covered," shrouded as a mourner.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 31:16 Sheol … the pit. The fate decreed on the proud tree is as irreversible as it is impossible for those who go down to the pit to return to their former scene of activity. Death cuts down all attainments, whether great or small. comforted in the world below. People who have not become cedars of success will be comforted to know that the most powerful people must end where the weakest do—in the grave. See p 792.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 31:18 you. The pharaoh, king of Egypt. trees of Eden? See notes, vv 3–9. the uncircumcised. See note, 28:10. Pharaoh and all his multitude. There will be no exception to this axiom of the Creator's decree.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON Ch 31 Ezekiel speaks God's fifth prophecy against Egypt. God compares Egypt to Assyria, a nation that grew in power under God's guidance and whose capital once repented (cf Jnh 3). But proud Assyria turned away from God. All nations over time have collapsed under the weight of their own pride. Consider that God calls Christians to be in the world, yet not of the world (Jn 15:19). Though we honor God by serving our nation well, our ultimate reward is in His mercy and the homeland He has promised in Christ. • Lord God, even today Your Holy Word stands as testimony against prideful nations. May we honor and serve our nation by honoring and serving You. Amen.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 32:1 Mar 3, 585 BC. A year and a half after the fall of Jerusalem.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 32:2 Son of man. See note, 2:1. lamentation. The dirge Ezekiel was to compose was not to express pity or sadness over the king's impending end but to mock his pretensions to be "a lion of the nations," frightening them into submission by his roaring. He will not be safe, even in his homeland. dragon. See note, 29:3; cf 29:3–5; 32:2–6. This lament is a prophecy of destruction.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 32:3 throw My net. Forced submission to God's power is asserted by the same figure of speech in 12:13; 17:20. The following description of the monster's disposal resembles the language of an ancient myth in which a god in the heathen pantheon establishes supremacy by slaying a rival dragon (cf Is 27:1; 51:9). Defeat of God's enemies is at times expressed by similar terms, though there is a vast difference in substance. The authority of the Lord of hosts is never in question. He has only to speak His omnipotent word to have men, angels, and devils do His will. The forces of nature are at His beck and call. See note, Mt 4:20.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 32:4–6 Cf 39:17–20.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 32:7–8 The judgment to be executed on Egypt was certain to materialize, for it would overtake the land with the force of the day of the Lord. God's commands are obeyed by the stars, the sun, the moon. Cf Is 2:12; Jl 2:10–11; Am 8:9.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 32:10 hair … shall bristle with horror. Other rulers would experience hair-raising fear when they saw how God condemned Egypt.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 32:13 With the inhabitants of Egypt eliminated, none will wade in the Nile anymore.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 32:14 to run like oil. The silt will settle out of the water, restoring a darker, oily appearance.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 32:15 know that I am the LORD. See note, 2:5.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 32:16 the daughters of the nations shall chant. They will play the part of professional mourning women and chant this doleful lament (vv 12–15). See note, Mt 9:23.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 32:17–31 In the seventh and last oracle against Egypt, Ezekiel brings to a climax his portrayal of the utter futility of all attempts to interfere with God's plans and decrees. He wails "over the multitude of Egypt" by conjuring up a scene from the netherworld, surpassing Milton's Paradise Lost for unearthly grandeur.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 32:17 in the twelfth month. Omitted in Hbr text and supplied from the LXX. C Mar 585 BC.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 32:18 Son of man. See note, 2:1. the world below. See p 792.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 32:19 with the uncircumcised. The Egyptians practiced circumcision. Being associated with uncircumcised people may have been just as repugnant to them as it was to faithful Israelites. See notes, 28:10; Ex 4:25.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 32:21 mighty chiefs … with their helpers. When Egypt is doomed to go the way of mortal flesh, the mighty chiefs who earlier have gone down to the pit are there to welcome the new arrival. Sheol. See p 792. uncircumcised. See note, 28:10.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 32:22 Assyria. The mighty empire disappeared from the face of the earth in 612 BC, less than 30 years before Ezekiel spoke this elegy (cf ch 31).
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 32:23 graves … in the uttermost parts of the pit. Every corner was filled. who spread terror. Egypt shares the same fate with such stalwarts as Assyria (v 22), Edom (v 29), and the princes of the north (v 30). land of the living. Earth.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 32:24 Elam. Occupying territory east of Babylon, this nation was a formidable power in the ancient world until the Assyrians subjugated it. See map, p 609. the world below. See p 792. bear their shame. Humiliation in defeat.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 32:26–27 Meshech-Tubal. Peoples in Asia Minor, cf 38:2. See note, Gn 10:2. They do not lie with heroic warriors, who were granted a funeral with military honors.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 32:27 swords … under their heads. A burial practice.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 32:28 you. Pharaoh.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 32:29 Edom. See note, 25:12–14.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 32:30 princes of the north are there. Syrian states and Phoenician cities, such as Sidon, were north of Israel.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 32:31 As Pharaoh joins them, he can comfort himself only with the thought that others fare no better than he.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 32:32 I spread terror in the land of the living. The Lord bumps them from their pride of place and takes their tauntings as His spoil.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON Ch 32 After the fall of Jerusalem, God commands Ezekiel to record laments for Pharaoh, his sixth and seventh prophecies against Egypt. God lists nations like Egypt who turned away and are no more (vv 22–30). In truth, the grave awaits us all. But the One who "spread terror in the land of the living" also holds the keys of death and hell (Rv 1:18). Our champion, the resurrected Lord, will deliver us. • Father, send Your Holy Spirit to dampen our pride; let us boast only in You and Your grace through Jesus Christ. Amen.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON Chs 33–48 Third major division of Ezekiel's prophecies. Leaving the foreign, hostile nations buried and forgotten (chs 25–32), these final oracles proclaim that Israel, apparently also doomed to extinction, will figuratively rise from the grave of exile to serve God's plan of salvation. In carrying it forward, God will, as it were, begin where He left off. The chosen people will experience a new exodus, return to the Promised Land, and again enjoy the special care of the Lord. However, its restoration is not an end in itself. It serves at the same time as a blueprint of what God ultimately will do through the descendants of Abraham to bless all nations in a restored fellowship with Him.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 33:1–9 Before the news of Jerusalem's capture by Nebuchadnezzar arrives in the land of the Chaldeans, Ezekiel is prepared for his new assignment: to be the preacher of restoration. The instructions he receives are, in effect, a recommissioning to the prophetic office. Such a basic orientation was necessary. Because the message of redemption was radically different from the threat of God's wrath, delivered to the rebellious house in chs 1–24, Ezekiel might have concluded that the good news could be proclaimed on a different basis.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 33:2 Son of man. See note, 2:1. your people. Judeans exiled in Babylon. watchman. See note, 3:17. Ezekiel's work is still a matter of life and death. The task is still fraught with the greatest responsibilities for both the preacher and the hearers.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 33:3 See "trumpet," p 993.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 33:4 his blood shall be upon his own head. See note, 18:13.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 33:5 he would have saved his life. Ezekiel warns that unless each individual receives the proffered escape from impending death, that person will not save his life.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 33:6 taken away in his iniquity. Condemned and punished with exile. his blood I will require at the watchman's hand. See note, 3:18.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 33:7 son of man. See note, 2:1. watchman for the house of Israel. See note, 3:17. a word from My mouth. See note, 3:4.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 33:9 delivered your soul. See note, 3:19.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 33:1–9 God changes Ezekiel's focus. No longer does Ezekiel speak against the nations. Instead, God calls Ezekiel to serve once again as Israel's watchman "to warn the wicked to turn from his way"

(v 8). Today, God calls us not only to repent of our sins and receive the forgiveness He offers through Christ but also to warn others and to announce the Lord's forgiveness for all who repent. Thankfully, the Lord is watching over us and will sustain us in this vital service. • Lord, You continually provide leadership and guidance through servants of Your Word. Grant us swiftness to answer Your call of repentance and service. Amen.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 33:10 son of man. See note, 2:1. our transgressions and our sins are upon us. Cf ch 18 for the principle of individual responsibility. As preacher of restoration, Ezekiel has to cope with negative responses such as despair. When his fellow prisoners came face-to-face with the consequences of sin (as predicted by Ezekiel), they stoically resigned themselves to rot away.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 33:11 See note, 18:32. "God does not will sin and has no pleasure in sin … nor has He pleasure in [the sinner's] condemnation" (FC SD XI 81). Ter: "To all sins, then, committed whether by flesh or spirit, whether by deed or will, the same God who has destined penalty by means of judgment, has withal engaged to grant pardon by means of repentance" (ANF 3:659). Chem: "God clearly says in the case of the sins of the ungodly, which He foresees, that He neither wills, approves, aids, nor effects them, nor does He force their wills" (LTh 1:207).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 33:12 See note, 18:24.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 33:13 trusts in his righteousness. See "righteous," p 843; see also note, Is 64:6.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 33:15 restores the pledge. See note, 18:7. statutes of life. See p 971.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 33:17 your people. See note, v 2. The way of the Lord is not just. See note, 18:25.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 33:20 I will judge … according to his ways. Cf Mt 25:31–46.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 33:10–20 As a watchman for the Lord, Ezekiel carries God's Word to His people. God's Word remains effective: God's Law causes despair in sinful hearts, leading them to repent. Then, God's Word reaches out with the life-giving power of the Gospel to absolve the sinner and create a new life in Christ. His Word bears the same life-giving power that raised Jesus from the dead. • Lord, we thank You for Your mercy. Grant us sincere repentance and new life in Christ. Amen.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 33:21–22 News that the city has been struck down marked a new epoch in Ezekiel's ministry. Not only did he become the prophet of restoration, but in preaching redemption, he also was no longer to be restricted in communication as before (see notes, 3:22–27; 24:27).
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 33:21 the twelfth year. It took the fugitive one and a half years to elude the Babylonian occupation forces and to make his way to the exiles. Some Hbr manuscripts and the ancient versions read "the eleventh year," thus reducing the interval to six months.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 33:22 the hand of the LORD had been upon me. See note, 1:3. I was no longer mute. As a sign for the people, Ezekiel had not spoken since his wife died.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 33:23 See p 1080.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 33:24 inhabitants of these waste places in the land of Israel. They escaped massacre and captivity when Jerusalem fell. Abraham … one man. Ezekiel had to confront two groups (vv 23, 30) with the demand that they change their attitude and conduct. The impenitent survivors of the fall of Jerusalem made the arrogant claim that they would have possession of the land simply because Abraham, who received it by promise, was only one individual whereas they are many. But they will find out that willful perpetrators of crime will not inherit the Kingdom. By their impenitence (vv 23–29; cf 18:6–13; 22:6–12), they excluded themselves from its blessings, even though Ezekiel, the prophet of restoration, offered these blessings to all people.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 33:25–26 Sins against the Law of Moses, which the arrogant survivors continued to violate.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 33:27 waste places. See note, v 24. strongholds and in caves. Natural places of refuge in the Shephelah or the Judean wilderness, such as the many caves near the Salt Sea. pestilence. See note, 5:12.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 33:29 know that I am the LORD. See note, 2:5.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 33:30 your people. The second group, Ezekiel's fellow prisoners, was to be told that God's Word of promise is not a cheap commodity. Come, and hear. They thought his preaching to be like the singing of love songs (v 32), to which they could listen for their amusement yet without committing themselves to do what his message required of them.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 33:31 set on their gain. They do not heed the Word, being preoccupied with material gain. How firmly this indicts complacent hearts today, who know the message of the Lord and His Church and can comment on whether or not a sermon or teaching is "good," but remain unmoved to believe the Word or fulfill it. In the end, they turn back to a discussion of their own prosperity and satisfaction.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 33:32 lustful songs. Cf chs 16; 23.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 33:21–33 A turning point has occurred in Ezekiel's ministry. When word of the destruction of Jerusalem reaches Ezekiel, he knows God has freed him from his previous assignment (24:27). Today, God continues to call individuals into His service, whether as full-time church workers or as volunteers. He likewise calls us to let go of earlier assignments and move into new areas of service. God knows our needs as His people, and He will provide for us and sustain us in fruitful service. • Gracious God, You provide pastors, teachers, and leaders to guide us in Your ways, calling them by grace. Give me a ready heart and steady hands. Amen.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 34:1–10 Having reviewed the principles governing the proclamation of restoration (ch 33), Ezekiel proceeds at once to speak promises of redemption into a situation marked by defeat and enshrouded in dark pessimism. Previously, a few rays of hope flashed through the lowering gloom of dire judgment (cf 11:16–20; 16:60; 20:40–44; 28:25–26; 29:21). These brief glimpses into a bright future gave Ezekiel and his hearers assurance that God's plan of salvation did not lie buried in the exile. Now, the sun of redemptive grace is allowed to break out from the clouds as God promises to care for the people in an even more direct and personal way.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 34:2 Son of man. See note, 2:1. shepherds. Political and religious leaders have exploited and fleeced the sheep (i.e., the people) instead of caring for them (cf 22:25–30; Jer 10:21; 23:1–4). feeding yourselves! Hoarding wealth. See notes, Mi 2:2; Zec 7:10.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 34:4 Ezekiel lists the common practices of a diligent shepherd, who would know his flock intimately. Cypr: "What else ought we to do, dearest brother, than to exhibit full diligence in gathering together and restoring the sheep of Christ, and to apply the medicine of paternal affection to cure the wounds of the lapsed?" (ANF 5:369).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 34:5 no shepherd. Jesus would also lament over the people of His day.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 34:6 As a result of the false shepherds' rapacious rule, the flock was exiled into foreign lands.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 34:8 As I live. An oath formula. See "vow," p 7. My shepherds. God had a right to expect them to rule as His representatives.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 34:10 I will require My sheep at their hand. Because God chose the offspring of Abraham to serve His plan of salvation, they are called "the people of His pasture, and the sheep of His hand" (Ps 95:7; cf 74:1; 79:13; 100:3). rescue. Sheep who hear the voice of the Good Shepherd and follow Him are safe, for no one is able to snatch them out of His hand (Jn 10:27–29).
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 34:1–10 It would do little good for God to replace Israel's bad shepherds with other earthly rulers. Human society cannot lift itself out of the quicksand of pervasive corruption. God Himself must come to the rescue, which He has done in the person of His Son (Jn 10) and in the power of His Holy Spirit. Christian, serve with confidence, knowing that your Good Shepherd is ever vigilant to deliver you from evil. • Bind my wounds, Good Shepherd, and restore me to Your sheepfold, that I may be strengthened by Your caring hand. Amen.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 34:11 search for My sheep. In these verses, the tender, loving care for His miserable fallen creatures demonstrates that the God of the OT is not a wrathful ogre delighting in crushing helpless victims. He is the Father who sent His Son to seek and to save the lost.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 34:13 their own land. See "portion," p 7.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 34:15 make them lie down. A shepherd leads the flock to the best areas for grazing and rest.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 34:17–22 Not only did the shepherds abuse the flock, but members of the flock abused one another. There were stronger and fatter ones who oppressed and injured the weak and lean ones. God threatens to execute justice on those who prey on the weak.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 34:17 I judge. A regular duty of animal husbandry, which assures the flock's future and growth, is to compare and distinguish the animals to discern which will be retained in the flock.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 34:18–19 Certain animals dominate the pasture and the water hole, plying their advantage against the health of the whole flock. Greg: "The shepherds drink most pure water, when with a right understanding they imbibe the streams of truth. But to foul the same water with their feet is to corrupt the studies of holy meditation by evil living. And verily the sheep drink the water fouled by their feet, when any of those subject to them follow not the words which they hear, but only imitate the bad examples which they see. Thirsting for the things said, but perverted by the works observed, they take in mud with their draughts, as from polluted fountains" (NPNF 2 12:2b).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 34:20 I, I Myself will judge. Cf Mt 25:31–46.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 34:21 horns. See p 842.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 34:23–24 If God is to break the power and reign of sin, He must send into this world His own vice-regent, His servant David. This future human-divine Shepherd and Prince will not destroy the sheep but feed them with bread from heaven (Jn 6:32–40). The brilliance of divine revelation shines into coming centuries. Ezekiel sees this transformation from doom to delight in the perspective of prophetic vision. Past, present, and future merge into a single dimension of timeless fact. See p 1258. The old covenant blends into the new covenant.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 34:23 one shepherd. The 12 tribes of Jacob were divided into two kingdoms after Solomon's death. Under great David's greater Son, there will be one flock, one shepherd.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 34:24 prince. No one will occupy the throne after Him, for He will be the Prince forever (37:25). Cf 2Sm 7:11–16; Is 9:5–6; 11:1–2; Jer 30:9. For Jesus' human ancestry from David's royal house, see p 1245. On the term "prince," see p 228.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 34:11–24 In place of unfaithful shepherds, God will provide one Shepherd, Jesus Christ ("My servant David"; v 24). Notice how Matthew captures King David's ancestry and how it culminates in Jesus Christ as Savior (Mt 1:6b–16). Jesus is the Good Shepherd who faithfully provides God's Word to all generations. He brings restoration to a world weary with sin. • Precious Savior, thank You for taking my sins on Yourself and restoring my relationship with the Father. Amen.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 34:25 covenant of peace. God pledges Himself to bring back the harmony and bliss He once provided in an unmarred paradise. His flock will know the peace that "surpasses all understanding" (Php 4:7). Israel's restoration is the rescue from estrangement from God. He will welcome the redeemed into the eternal Kingdom of His beloved Son, where there are pleasures forevermore (Col 1:13; Ps 16:11). He heals and makes whole again the brokenness of human existence. Man can be at peace with God and with himself. Because its provisions will never be abrogated, Ezekiel calls it an everlasting covenant (cf 16:60; Is 24:5; 55:3; 61:8; Jer 32:40). On "covenant," see p 127. securely. As Israel of old was safe under the mighty hand of the Creator of the universe, so the combined forces of the fiercest foes will not be allowed to harm God's people of the new covenant. The Kingdom of great David's greater Son will not be confined to the borders of the Holy Land, promised and given to the 12 tribes of Israel. His blessings will flow in ever-growing streams of living water to all parts of the sin-cursed world.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 34:26 blessing. Fruitful and nourishing for the flock. See "blessed," p 842. showers in their season. See calendar, p 262. showers of blessing. For the bliss of restored communion with God, see notes, Is 2:4; 11:6.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 34:27 deliver. See p 842.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 34:29 renowned plantations. God assures abundant harvests for them.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 34:30 I am the LORD their God with them. See "be with," p 5.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 34:31 human sheep. God's eternal plan of redemption will get under way again when He gathers the Israelites, scattered like lost sheep on the hills, and brings them back from exile to their homeland. From their midst will arise a Prince of the lineage of David (Lk 2:4). Not an earthly king of limited authority, He will found a spiritual kingdom. His subjects will represent broad racial and national affiliation. Even the poorest and the weakest will have all they need for time and eternity. The injustice and suffering of a sinful, heartless world will be left behind when the King says: "Come, you who are blessed by My Father, inherit the kingdom prepared for you from the foundation of the world" (Mt 25:34). He is the Good Shepherd who lays down His life for the sheep (Jn 10:1–18; Heb 13:20–21; 1Pt 2:25; 5:4).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 34:25–31 God describes the tranquility of the new creation. A world like this once existed, a long time ago in the Garden of Eden. However, the bars of Adam and Eve's yoke (v 27) enslaved the Israelites, just as they enslaved you and me. Because of sin, we find ourselves bound to an endless cycle of hopelessness. Yet, God frees us from bondage through Jesus Christ, who breaks slavery's yoke and delivers us from the hand of Satan. • Heavenly Father, we are famished for righteousness. Shower Your blessings upon us, and direct us to the verdant pastures of Your Word. Amen.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON Ch 35 God promised great things in ch 34. Now He declares that Edom (Mount Seir) will not be able to prevent the restoration of Israel. All attempts to seize the Promised Land would fail, even though Jerusalem lay in ruins and the whole country was open to invasion. Instead, Edom would be reduced to a waste and a desolation (vv 1–9). The wicked design to devour what once was the two nations of Judah and Israel would end in dismal failure (vv 10–15). Edom, already denounced in 25:12–14, is not only the epitome of hostility to the ancient people of God but also typifies every evil counsel and will that God must hinder and break if His kingdom is to come (cf Ps 137:7; see notes, Jer 13:19; 49:7–22).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 35:2 Son of man. See note, 2:1. Mount Seir. Though mentioned by name only once in ch 35, Edom is immediately identified by the mountain range that traverses its territory south of the Salt Sea.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 35:4 know that I am the LORD. Repeated throughout ch 35 to emphasize God's action in judgment. See note, 2:5.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 35:5 cherished perpetual enmity. See note, Gn 27:39–40.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 35:6 blood shall pursue you. Ominous imagery, perhaps referring to the practices of blood vengeance in tribal society. Cf 1Ki 2:31.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 35:10 These two nations. Regions of Judah and Israel. the LORD was there. For a time, it seemed that God had abandoned the Holy Land when He let the Babylonians desecrate and denude it. Yet it was to remain the land of deliverance and hope. For in it, God would begin to fulfill the promises of mankind's freedom from spiritual tyranny. When the "inheritance of the house of Israel" (v 15) no longer would have geographic boundaries and Jerusalem would be the spiritual mother of the redeemed from all nations, it would be called "The LORD Is There" (48:35; cf Gal 4:26). See "be with," p 5.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 35:12 know that I am the LORD. See note, v 4. revilings. Or, "blasphemies."

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 35:15 know that I am the LORD. See note, v 4.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON Ch 35 Although God has spoken against Edom (25:12–14), He does so again. Nothing can hinder God's plan of salvation. He will push out those who interfere, so all may know that He is God (vv 4, 9, 11–12, 15). Today, we often think about God's grace in terms of what God has provided. This is good. However, we should also consider what God has prevented. God has prevented many calamities from striking us as part of His work of salvation for our lives. • Father, we rejoice knowing that You are the God of promises kept and disasters prevented. When the troubles of life do not make sense to us, strengthen us in faith through Christ. Amen.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 36:1–15 In order to implement His plan of mankind's redemption, seemingly halted by the exile, God will reserve and preserve the Promised Land for Israel's return from captivity. He will repopulate it and shower blessings on it. He makes these promises dramatic by addressing them directly to the mountains of Israel. With a solemn oath (v 7), He assures the mountains that their fate will be different from that of Mount Seir (Edom), destined to become a perpetual desolation (35:9).
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 36:2–7 Because … therefore. The unbreakable sequence of cause and effect in God's direction of history is spoken repeatedly.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 36:2 Aha! See note, 25:3.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 36:3 the talk and evil gossip of the people. Cf 33:30.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 36:5 jealousy. See note, Ex 20:5. against all Edom. In His jealous wrath, God will turn the tables on the greedy, malicious predator epitomized in Edom.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 36:6 jealous wrath. See note, Ex 20:5; see also p 1134.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 36:8 soon. In God's measure of time, the day is at hand, even though decades were to elapse before the exile was to end (cf Hab 2:3; Rm 13:12; 1Pt 4:7; Rv 1:3; 22:10). See p 1258.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 36:9 tilled and sown. The exile caused the fields to be fallow. See p 206.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 36:11 multiply and be fruitful. Cf Gn 1:22. know that I am the LORD. See note, 2:5.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 36:12 inheritance. See "portion," p 7. bereave them. The ravages of sword, famine, and pestilence, inflicted on Israel as punishment, devoured young and old (cf 6:11).
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 36:1–15 Ezekiel prophesies the return of God's people to the land promised to their ancestor Abraham; imagine the elation for those dwelling in exile. God's grace fills this prophecy. Today, Christians may rejoice in God's gift through Christ. Sin places us in exile, just as sin exiled Israel. Yet, Christ has redeemed and forgiven us, setting us free once again to rejoice in His abundant blessings. He grants us the promised land of eternal life. • Lord, creation rejoices in Your wondrous act of redemption. To You be all honor and glory. Amen.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 36:17 Son of man. See note, 2:1. defiled it. The exile was no accident of history. God brought it about because the people had defiled the land with their ways and their deeds, for which He poured out His wrath on them. uncleanness of a woman. See note, 7:19.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 36:19 Cf 24:14.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 36:20 they profaned My holy name. The victors attributed Israel's disgrace to the Lord's inability to protect His people and to make them His instruments of worldwide blessings (vv 16–21; cf Nu 14:15–16). Such heathen blasphemy was to stop because it defeated the purpose for which God called Israel. By intervening in the course of history and bringing Israel back from extinction, God will vindicate the holiness of His name through them, so that the nations will know that He is the Lord (Ezk 36:22–24).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 36:16–21 The Lord characterizes Israel's sin by referring to the holiness code of Lv 11:1–15:33. God's name and reputation are precious to Him. How remarkable that He places His name on sinners like us (Nu 6:23–27), that all may know that we belong to Him. • O Lord, bless us and keep us, that we may call on Your name in every trouble and give You thanks and praise. Amen.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 36:22–38 This prophecy of cleansing is based on the imagery of ritual washings practiced under the old covenant (see "clean" and "holy," pp 6–7). However, the results of this washing (vv 25–27) are clearly connected with the new covenant fulfilled in Christ (cf Jer 31:31–34) and describe His work through Holy Baptism. See pp 1369, 1920; see also notes, Eph 5:26; Ti 3:5; Heb 10:22. In the Hbr of these verses, the Lord used the first person "I" a remarkable 34 times to affirm the certainty of His acts to His people (some examples of the grammar are obscured in the Eng). He emphasizes that His work is solely by grace. "If the 'new spirits' say, as they are accustomed, 'Still Baptism is itself a work, and you say works are of no use for salvation. What, then, becomes of faith?' Answer, 'Yes, our works, indeed, do nothing for salvation. Baptism, however, is not our work, but God's.' For, as was stated, you must completely distinguish Christ's Baptism from a bathkeeper's baptism. God's works are saving and necessary for salvation. They do not exclude, but demand, faith. For without faith they could not be grasped. By allowing the water to be poured upon you, you have not yet received Baptism in a way that benefits you at all. But it becomes beneficial to you if you have yourself baptized with this thought: this is according to God's command and ordinance, and besides, it is done in God's name. In this way you may receive the promised salvation in the water. Now, your fist cannot do this, nor your body; but the heart must believe it" (LC IV 35–36).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 36:22 holy name. God's name is a capsule-word for everything He is and has revealed about Himself (see notes, Ex 6:3; Ps 8:1). Its essential characteristic is "holiness," i.e., transcendence above all limited human concepts, definitions, and comprehension. If His prime motive in rescuing Israel from exile is concern for His holy name, none of His fallen, rebellious creatures should presume to dictate to Him that His first consideration in saving them should be love and compassion (cf ch 20). It is not accidental that Jesus instructed His followers to let their first petition be "hallowed be Your name," followed by two requests to vindicate His name —by letting His kingdom come and by executing His will (Mt 6:9–10). Cf Ps 115:1; see "name," p 843.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 36:23 vindicate the holiness. The nations had indicted the Lord and blasphemed Him for disciplining His people (v 20). Now the Lord will set the matter straight.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 36:25 sprinkle clean water on you. Such consecration was used for the priests and Levites of the old covenant (cf Ex 29:4; Lv 16:4, 24; Nu 8:6–7; 19). If the exiles were to be worthy bearers of God's promises, He must not only give them back their homeland but also cleanse them. Yet this is no ordinary washing, as v 26 demonstrates. sprinkle. Term most often used with the blood of the atonement and covenant (Ex 24:8; Lv 1:5, 11; 3:2, 8, 13; cf Heb 12:24; 1Pt 1:1–2). Cypr: "The divine benefits can in no respect be mutilated and weakened [by the mode of sprinkling]… . For in the sacrament of salvation the contagion of sins is not in such wise washed away, as the filth of the skin" (ANF 5:400–401). idols. See p 1079.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 36:26 a new heart, and a new spirit. Equipped and empowered, they will respond to His goodness by walking in His statutes and observing His ordinances. Cf v 27; Jer 31:31–34. heart of stone … heart of flesh. See note, Ezk 11:19.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 36:27 I will put My Spirit within you. See pp 1850, 1920. statutes … rules. See p 971. Chem: "We must also teach how to begin this obedience, on what foundations to build it and where to seek it, that is, not from the natural effort of our free choice but from the Spirit of renewal. In this way and in this order faith comes first, which accepts or receives the remission of sins and offers peace and joy of conscience. As a result of this, by the same faith we receive the promise of the Spirit who creates the new man unto good works and turns our hearts to obedience" (LTh 2:339).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 36:29 deliver you from … uncleannesses. See note, 7:19. summon the grain. God is providentially and intimately involved in His creation, even in things we regard as purely "natural" processes, such as the ripening of grain. Cf Ps 145:15.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 36:31 remember. See p 843. loathe yourselves for your iniquities and your abominations. Mark of repentance. See note, 5:9. The sincerity of their repentance and changed attitude will manifest itself (see note, 20:43).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 36:33 On the day. See p 1079.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 36:35 the garden of Eden. A return to the luxuriant fertility and undisturbed tranquility of paradise will become a reality in the spiritual bliss and peace of the promised kingdom of God (see notes, Is 2:2, 4; 35:1–10; 55:13).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 36:36 nations that are left all around. Restoration of the land from desolation to well-populated cities and the inner transformation of the chastened people will so impress the nations that they will acknowledge that it was the Lord who made it come to pass. know that I am the LORD. Likely intends that the nations will be brought to true faith. See notes, 2:5; Is 2:2. I am the LORD; I have spoken, and I will do it. See note, Ezk 36:22–38.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 36:38 Compares the crowd of animals that formerly stood near the temple with the crowded, renewed cities of the Promised Land.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 36:22–38 Ezekiel reveals the reason God will restore His blessings to Israel. Their return will "vindicate the holiness of [God's] great name" (v 23). God made a promise of a land inheritance to Abraham (Gn 12:2–3). Included in that promise were these words: "and in you all the families of the earth shall be blessed" (Gn 12:3), a messianic promise God fulfills in Christ and through Holy Baptism in His name. • Lord God, turn our hearts away from self-glorification, and focus us on the blessed inheritance You bestowed in Holy Baptism. Amen.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 37:1–14 After Ezekiel deflated the pride and self-conceit of his hearers (ch 36), he had to overcome their reluctance to accept the Gospel of restoration. Because the heart of the exiles was "deceitful … and desperately sick" (Jer 17:9), they did not greet the glorious promise of redemption with jubilation but with the doleful lament of despair: "Our hope is lost; we are indeed cut off" (Ezk 37:11). However, the Good Shepherd does not hesitate to seek out also the sheep that have strayed into the desolate country of sullen doubt and bleak hopelessness. He granted Ezekiel a vision that was to convince his hearers that their despair grew out of their refusal to believe in a Creator who "calls into existence the things that do not exist" (Rm 4:17; cf Dt 32:39; Ps 33:9).
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 37:1 The hand of the LORD. See note, 1:3. the Spirit. Hbr ruach, also denotes "breath" (vv 5, 6, 8, 9, 10) and "winds" (v 9). the valley. Apparently the same "plain" (see ESV note) where the Lord appeared to Ezekiel earlier in his ministry (3:22).
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 37:2 very dry. Utterly dead. Cf v 11.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 37:3 Son of man. See note, 2:1. O Lord GOD, You know. Cf Jn 21:17; Rv 7:14.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 37:4–6 Through His Word, God promises miraculous change, despite the description in v 2. The bones, arranged according to their former function and position, are covered with sinews and flesh.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 37:8 no breath. Their form and appearance were restored but not yet life, which only God can give.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 37:9 Prophesy to the breath. See note, v 1. four winds. See note, 5:10; see also p 217.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 37:10 breath came into them. Humanly speaking, Israel's hopes for survival appeared dead and buried in the exile. Prospects of national revival were as unlikely as expecting a vast array of skeletons, dried and dismembered, to come to life again. Yet at God's command, spoken by His prophet, death must surrender its victims. great army. The expression can have military or nonmilitary senses. Ezekiel typically uses the military sense.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 37:11 our hope is lost. Ezekiel explains his symbolism from v 2.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 37:12 I will open your graves and raise you. Vision was to remind the exiles that He who promised to revive their dead nation was the same God who "formed the man of dust from the ground and breathed into his nostrils the breath of life" (Gn 2:7). Through His prophets, God demonstrated His power to force death to give up its victims (cf 1Ki 17:17–24; 2Ki 4:18–37).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 37:14 The revelation of God's power to raise the dead sends beams of light into the future beyond Israel's rescue from death in the Babylonian graveyard. A revived Israel is but the earthly clay that He will use to call into being a Spirit-filled people of all nations, once dead in trespasses but made alive in Christ Jesus (Rm 6:11; Eph 2:1). He who is "the resurrection and the life" will awaken those who sleep in the dust of the earth—"some to everlasting life, and some to … everlasting contempt" (Jn 11:25; Dn 12:2; cf Jb 19:25; Ps 49:19; 73:24; Is 26:19; Jn 5:25–29).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 37:1–14 In a dream, God carries Ezekiel to a valley filled with dry bones and calls him to prophesy over them. Through Ezekiel's word, the dead receive life. The people receive hope of restoration. God's Word is effective and still has power to give new life and hope. • Almighty God, You alone speak the words of eternal life. Save us, Lord, for we cannot save ourselves. Amen.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 37:15–28 God will restore the Kingdom through new hope and faith. According to ch 34, it will be unlike any earthly dominion in that there will not be a succession of rulers, but only one Shepherd or King—God's "servant David" (Jesus Christ). His unending rule will claim the allegiance of all nations the world over (see note, v 28). Jesus fulfilled this prophecy of His messianic reign when He spoke of "one flock, one shepherd" (Jn 10:16; cf Gal 3:26–29).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 37:16 Son of man. See note, 2:1. stick. As Ezekiel in his early ministry was directed to dramatize the judgment about to overtake Israel (chs 4–5), so he also used an action prophecy to portray the promises of the Gospel. For Judah. The southern part of Solomon's divided kingdom. For Joseph. The northern 10 tribes that seceded (1Ki 12) and were often called Ephraim, a leading tribe that descended from Joseph. See "Ephraim," p 1079.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 37:17 join them. Ezekiel enclosed the ends of the sticks in his fisted hand, giving them the appearance of having become a single rod.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 37:22 one king. The pantomimed healing of this ancient political rupture was to visualize the one nation and the one King who will rule forever, in accord with an everlasting covenant of peace. See note, 44:3; cf Jer 33:14–26.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 37:23 defile. See note, 36:17. save. See "salvation," p 843. backslidings. See p 1078. cleanse. See note, 36:25; see also p 6.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 37:24 My servant David. The messianic King is so designated in 34:23.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 37:26 covenant of peace. See note, 34:25. multiply. Cf Gn 1:28. set My sanctuary in their midst forevermore. See note, Ezk 43:1–12.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 37:27 My dwelling place. God will be present wherever and whenever His people worship Him "in spirit and truth" (Jn 4:19–26).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 37:28 I am the LORD who sanctifies Israel. See "holy," p 7. My sanctuary. Before Ezekiel elaborates on the homage and service rendered by the new covenant people to their Redeemer and King (chs 40–48), he assures them in advance that no enemy will be able to silence their song of praise or prevent the extension of the Kingdom.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 37:15–28 Ezekiel prophesies that God will unite Israel again. No longer will two kingdoms exist, but one under "My servant David" (v 24). God fulfills this messianic prophecy for us in Jesus Christ at Calvary when the Church (God's new Israel) "was crucified with Him in order that the body of sin might be brought to nothing" (Rm 6:6). In Christ, God is our God and we are His people. • Almighty Father, through Christ, You hallowed us from all uncleanness. We rejoice in our salvation as Your pure gift. Amen.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON Chs 38–39 Answers this question: Will God's "servant David," the one King of one nation, actually rule forever and put into effect an everlasting covenant (37:22–26), or will sinister forces combine to destroy His reign of peace? In order to allay fears for all time, God shows Ezekiel the very end of time. A literalistic interpretation of such prophecies, which identifies the foes with individual nations on the historical scene, is not only highly speculative but also does violence to biblical imagery. See p 307.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 38:2 set your face. See p 1277. Gog … chief prince. Ringleader of this confederacy of evil. His name occurs nowhere else as the head of a foreign state. His base of operations must be inferred from the location of his allies. Gog appears also in the NT (Rv 20) and is defeated.

This assurance of God's enduring kingdom of grace is being fulfilled in the preservation of the Holy Christian Church (Mt 16:18). Meshech and Tubal. See note, Ezk 32:26–27.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 38:3 I am against you. Cf Ps 2. Their doom is sealed by the sevenfold "thus says the Lord GOD" (Ezk 38:3, 10, 14, 17; 39:1, 17, 25). As the attack is to come in the remote future, so those who launch it are likewise described as hailing from the farthest borders of the world known to ancient Israel.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 38:4 turn you about. God will give free reign to the evil scheme (v 10) and base human motives, but will overrule them and make them serve His purposes. So He used the lust for power of the Assyrians (Is 10:5) and the Babylonians (Chaldeans; Hab 1:6). See note, 2Sm 24:1. hooks into your jaws. See note, Jb 41:1. horses and horsemen. Typically describes chariots. buckler. See note, Ps 35:2.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 38:5–6 Gomer … Beth-togarmah. Descendants of Japheth, they represent peoples living in the north (cf v 15). Allied with these attackers from the north are Persia in the east and Cush and Put (Egypt) in the south. On the political and military pressures faced by Israel, see map, p 1205.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 38:8 mustered. God lines them up for battle. the latter years. See note, Is 2:2. all of them. Ezekiel's immediate audience was the faithful exiles of Israel. The end-times fulfillment will apply to their spiritual descendants—the new Israel, the Church (cf Gal 6:16).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 38:11 unwalled villages. Gog expects little or no resistance in conquering and plundering cities. This feature of the prophecy looks beyond the physical defenses of restored Israel (e.g., soon after the return from Babylon, Nehemiah enclosed Jerusalem with a wall; Ne 1–7).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 38:12 spoil … plunder. Robbing God and His people.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 38:13 Sheba. Mentioned as trading with Tyre (27:22). See note, 1Ki 10:1. Dedan. Associated with Edom (Ezk 25:13). Tarshish. See note, 1Ki 10:22.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 38:15 many peoples … a great host. Just how vast their numbers were is evident from these facts: (1) after their defeat, their discarded weapons provided Israel with firewood for seven years; (2) their corpses filled a valley; (3) an organized effort over a period of seven months was necessary to search out and bury all the enemy dead (39:9–16). riding on horses. Cavalry.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 38:16 latter days. The seven heathen nations denounced in chs 25–32 did not prevent the rehabilitation of the Babylonian exiles in the Promised Land. Proceeding from this point of fulfilled prophecy, Ezekiel envisions the era when Israel is no longer the name of a nation but the symbolic title of a spiritual fellowship open to all races and peoples. In these latter days of the messianic age, demonic attempts will indeed be made to destroy the Kingdom of the Prince of Peace, which is not of this world and therefore seems to be an easy prey for its enemies. I will bring you against My land. Israel, as a representation of God's spiritual kingdom. nations may know Me. See "know that I am the LORD," p 1079. vindicate My holiness. Cf 36:22.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 38:17–23 The assault on Israel is no sneak attack. God knew about it before it was even conceived. His prophets spoke about it in former days.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 38:17 prophets … prophesied. Though they did not mention Gog by name, they foretold the defeat of God's enemies who, like Gog, rise up against Him.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 38:18 on that day. See p 1079.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 38:21 a sword. The sword, together with pestilence and famine, is frequently mentioned as a divine implement of punishment (cf 5:1, 12, 17; 6:3; 11:8).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 38:22 Three pairs of plagues are in God's arsenal: (1) war, including disease that comes with war; (2) violent storms; and (3) the volcano-like destruction God used on Sodom and Gomorrah (Gn 19:24).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 38:23 make Myself known. See "know that I am the LORD," p 1079.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 39:1 O Gog, chief prince. See note, 38:2. In accord with a Hbr literary convention, the onslaught and defeat of Gog are repeated (vv 1–6) in a brief summary of ch 38 in order to dwell more at length on features previously mentioned more or less in passing.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 39:3 strike your bow. Cf Ps 46:8–11.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 39:4 See note, 1Ki 21:24.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 39:6 those who dwell securely in the coastlands. All people will be affected by the conflict and God's judgment. know that I am the LORD. See note, 2:5.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 39:7 holy name. Yahweh. See "for Your name's sake," p 842. profaned. See notes, Lv 20:3; Ex 20:7. Holy One in Israel. See p 1227.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 39:9 fires … for seven years. See note, 38:15.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 39:10 seize the spoil. Any losses the people experienced from Gog will be returned to them, as well as the goods of the attackers.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 39:11 Valley of the Travelers. On the route from east of the Salt Sea. Burial of Gog and his multitude was to be made beyond the borders of the Holy Land. block the travelers. Pile of corpses will be so great. Hamon-gog. See ESV note; cf v 15.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 39:12 seven months. Illustrates the enormous size of Gog's army. cleanse the land. Unburied corpses made the land ceremonially unclean (cf Nu 9:6; 19:11; 35:33–34).
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 39:13 I show My glory. See note, 1:28.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 39:14 set apart men … bury. Unclean profession.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 39:15 set up a sign. Such a marker would warn people against defiling themselves by stumbling onto the remains (cf v 12) and would also guide the burial team's work.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 39:16 Hamonah. Both valley (v 11) and city derive from Hbr hamon, "multitude."
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 39:17 sacrificial feast. See note, Is 34:6. In judgment, God shows His greatness and holiness and so makes Himself known "in the eyes of many nations" (Ezk 38:23). By the horrible outcome of their sinister plan, Gog and every like-minded enemy of the Lord are to know how futile it is to try to destroy His kingdom. Instead of dethroning Him, they end up becoming a sacrificial feast, helplessly slaughtered like the animals offered on Israel's altars (39:17–21).
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 39:18 Bashan. Transjordan grazing area, known for producing herds of strong, fat cattle. See note, Nu 21:33.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 39:20 horses and charioteers. Cf 38:15. The best-equipped and mightiest warriors will not escape becoming the prey of the birds and the beasts invited to the feast at the table set for them by the Lord.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 39:21 set My glory among the nations. See note, 1:28. My hand that I have laid on them. Judgment on the nations will contribute to His glory because they will understand the character of God's justice. See note, 36:20.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 39:23 captivity for their iniquity. See note, 36:23. hid My face. See note, Is 45:7.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 38:1–39:24 Gog represents the evil forces arrayed against Christ's Church. God's Word seals the doom of this unholy alliance. His powerful Word, through Ezekiel and through Christ, provides comfort to Christians today. "The gates of hell shall not prevail" (Mt 16:18). Judgment on His enemies is mercy for His people. God makes His holy name known to the nations and vindicates His holiness before their eyes (Ezk 38:16). • Lord, we take comfort in Your Word. Protect us and guard our faith through Your Holy Spirit. Amen.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 39:25 restore the fortunes. See p 1080. Jacob. See p 1079. jealous for My holy name. See note, Ex 20:5.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 39:26 forget their shame. Or, "bear their shame." Cf 6:9; 16:61; 20:43; 36:31.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 39:27 through them have vindicated My holiness. Though Ezekiel foretold things in ages to come, the vindication of God's holiness is not a utopian dream. It will begin in the near future—in the deliverance from the Babylonian captivity. Physical resettlement in their homeland will be followed by spiritual renewal (cf 36:22–32).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 39:28 leave none. Although some exiles did not want to return, God made it possible for all to do so.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 39:29 I pour out My Spirit. See notes, 36:27; 37:1.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 39:25–29 Israel will return to "dwell securely in their land with none to make them afraid" (v 26). Israel's return under the reign of Cyrus the Persian vindicates God's holiness and makes Him known to many nations. On Calvary's cross, God most fully revealed the character of His justice—He ransoms all by Christ's blood. No longer exiles, believers receive the blessings of His promises. • Father, we humbly thank You for our salvation, guaranteed by Christ's own blood. Guard us in our faith. Amen.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON Chs 40–48 The Lord shows Ezekiel a vision of fulfillment regarding the things he had proclaimed in chs 33–39. The difficult Hbr text adds to the mysterious character of the prophecies. (The LXX translation is much easier to read, though it may draw the reader away from important insights in the Hbr.) The notes frequently refer to the temple diagram, p 1379. Because Ezekiel was to declare all he saw in the vision to his immediate audience, he describes the coming covenant of peace in terms of the old covenant (its worship, its ordinances governing the religious and civic life, its locale in the Promised Land). But Ezekiel did not see a mirage without body or substance, or a literal blueprint for an end-times temple. We rejoice to be the benefactors of his fulfilled prophetic vision: restoration to communion with God through "the offering of the body of Jesus Christ" (Heb 10:10), "worship in spirit and truth" (Jn 4:24) as a living sacrifice, and fellowship in the Holy Christian Church, which will endure forever. When St John had a vision of what awaits us on Judgment Day, he, too, described its perfect bliss in the same figures of the old covenant we find in Ezk (Rv 21:9–22:5). See Luth, pp 1306–7.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 40:1 twenty-fifth year. Apr 28, 573 BC. God showed the vision to Ezekiel when the Jerusalem temple, destroyed for 14 years, seemed destined to remain a heap of ruins.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 40:2 In visions of God. See note, 1:1. He brought me. As in previous instances, the "hand of the LORD" made possible prophetic flight through time and space (see p 1258). high mountain. Mount Zion (see note, Is 2:2). like a city. The structure that appeared was of such size and complexity as to resemble not a single unit but a series of buildings that make up an entire city. Ezekiel's report would reverse what the exiles heard when, on a previous occasion, he told the exiles all that "the LORD had shown" him (Ezk 11:25)—the Lord's departure from Jerusalem and the burning of the city and the temple (chs 8–11).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 40:3 a man. An ethereal being, appearing in human form, was to be Ezekiel's companion on a tour of the site and its structures. The services of the angelic guide are mentioned seven times in ch 40, twice in ch 41, once in ch 43, twice in both chs 44 and 46, and four times in ch 47. The repeated references to the man connect the diverse elements of the vision. appearance was like bronze. See notes, 1:4, 7. a linen cord and a measuring reed. Cf v 5. Measurements and numerical descriptions dominate the vision. Some interpreters may be tempted to construct elaborate systems of number symbolism. Avoid such methods. First, as stated earlier, the Hbr is very difficult, and the manuscripts include variant readings, which would naturally undermine interpretations based on calculations. Second, the measurements often serve simply as practical descriptions of how the temple was laid out, a matter of special interest to a priest such as Ezekiel. Third, many figures relate to or stem from regulations in the Law of Moses (e.g., amounts for sacrifices) or from the layouts of earlier temples (see diagrams, pp 541, 544). Such figures are not intended to introduce new symbolism. Given these cautions, three observations about the symbolism can be made. First, the design emphasizes equality, balance, and symmetry, illustrating the orderly and harmonious character of the new Israel God will establish (e.g., all the gates are exactly the same size). This would be esp comforting to a people who experienced the destruction of their homeland and were suffering in the chaos of exile in a foreign land. On God's order, see p 1291. Second, multiples of 10, a number associated with order and completeness, dominate the figures. See p 217. Third, at times the numbers illustrate distinctions in holiness, as can be seen in the seven steps for the outer gates, the eight steps for the priests at the inner gates, and the ten steps leading into the temple proper. See notes, 40:22, 31, 49.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 40:1–4 Symbolism forms the basis for the rest of Ezk. Already God has promised to deliver His people from captivity. He now describes an even greater deliverance through His promised Messiah. We also rejoice in God's deliverance! God makes us the beneficiaries of His abundant grace. Through Baptism, we belong to God's heavenly kingdom. By His precious Word and Sacraments, God holds us close to Him for all eternity. • Lord, at times we become disheartened. Grant us eyes of faith to see the blessings and the future You prepare for us in Christ. Amen.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 40:5–16 The man with a measuring reed began to provide specific dimensions of the various structural elements. The profusion of figures may discourage some readers, but the specifications remind us that our worship dare never be slovenly, disorderly, or haphazard. Detailed as the measurements are, they are not complete enough to serve as an architect's blueprint. (E.g., such details as the height of the structure and the material to be used are not given.) Instead, Ezekiel sees an existing, complete temple. There is symmetry throughout, symbolizing the perfection required of a holy habitation of the Lord.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 40:5 a wall. See point A, p 1379. The wall surrounding the temple was not designed to protect but to distinguish it from the profane world all around it. temple area. Outer court. See point D, p 1379. long cubits. Israelites had different cubit measurements. Ezekiel's guide uses a cubit equal to seven handbreadths, rather than the typical six, possibly because of the numerical symbolism for seven. See p 217.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 40:6 its steps. Another device to impress the worshiper that he is approaching the transcendent Lord are the series of steps leading to ever higher levels (cf vv 31, 49). There were also steps rising to the top of the altar (43:17). threshold of the gate, one reed deep. Going up the first of these stairways, Ezekiel was led through a huge gateway in the eastern wall. As he walked across the threshold, he saw rooms on either side of the massive entrance. In these rectangular niches, separated from the passageway by barriers (perhaps low walls), the temple guards stood watch. See p 792.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 40:7 side rooms. Guardrooms within the gates. See point B, p 1379. Before emerging into the outer court, he passed through a vestibule with jambs or decorative pillars.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 40:8 vestibule of the gateway. The main "room" that forms the gateway.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 40:9 Textual variants in the Hbr and early translations suggest some accidental duplication of phrases has taken place. jambs. Or, "gateposts." inner end. Standing within the city walls. See point B, p 1379.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 40:10 three side rooms. See note, v 7.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 40:11 width … and the length of the gateway. Exactly which proportions of the gateway are being measured is not clear.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 40:12 barrier. Or, "boundary." Perhaps a small wall.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 40:13 Inside the gateway, rooms stood on either side. See point B, p 1379.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 40:14 vestibule, twenty cubits. Cf vv 8–9. court. Outer court (see point D, p 1379). He is measuring beside the inner portion of the east gate.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 40:16 windows all around, narrowing inwards. A common design for military purposes, allowing the person inside maximum view of the outside with minimum exposure to those who might shoot at him. on the jambs were palm trees. A favored decorative element. See note, 1Ki 6:29; see also diagram, p 544.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 40:5–16 Ezekiel begins his temple tour and sees the exacting standards by which God measures man. Because God holds us to His standards, we find ourselves woefully inadequate. Yet, God graciously covers our inadequacies with Christ's blood and makes us partakers of His holiness. • Lord, have mercy on us. We are sinful and unclean. Wash us in the blood of the Lamb; make us wholly Yours. Amen.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 40:17 outer court. See point D, p 1379. The temple rooms faced a pavement that, while higher than the ground outside the gate, was lower than the surface of the inner court (vv 18–19). Thirty chambers faced the pavement. Probably designed for Gentile worshipers. See point C, p 1379; see also point A, p 1838.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 40:18 lower pavement. See point E, p 1379.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 40:19 Approximately from point B to point F, p 1379.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 40:17–19 Ezekiel's tour guide meticulously measures the outer court of the new temple. Traditionally, Gentiles could pass no farther than the outer court, while Israelites could pass farther. By the blood of Jesus Christ, our great High Priest, all may enter God's presence (Heb 9:11–14). • Lord, fill us with the marvel, the wonder, and the joy of an eternity spent in Your presence. Amen.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 40:20 the gate. On the north and the south sides, access could be gained to the court through gateways similar to the east gate Ezekiel had entered.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 40:21 same size as those of the first gate. Cf vv 5–16.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 40:22 seven steps. Extending outside the gates, as seen at point B (p 1379).
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 40:23 from gate to gate, a hundred cubits. See note, v 19.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 40:24 same size. Cf vv 5–16.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 40:27 See note, v 19.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 40:20–27 Ezekiel learns about two more gates. The measurements for them are exactly the same as for the east gate. People from every direction, tribe, and nation will flow into God's presence. Thank God that He did not leave us in our sin, but provided the means of our perfection through Jesus Christ. • Lord, You are perfect. We are sinners. Grant that we may dwell with You because You covered our sin with Christ's righteousness. Amen.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 40:28 south gate. See point F, left of center, p 1379. Continuing up a flight of steps and through another gateway in a wall, Ezekiel stepped into an inner court. This entrance, directly opposite the one through the outer wall, was duplicated on the north and the south sides (vv 28–37). same size. Cf vv 5–16.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 40:30 Not in the LXX. A scribe may have duplicated it from another passage.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 40:31 vestibule faced the outer court. The inner gates stand within the larger court rather than within the walls to which they provide access. its stairway had eight steps. A new point of symbolism, eight representing a new beginning. See p 217; see also note, v 3.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 40:32 same size. Dimensions provided in vv 5–16.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 40:38 chamber … where the burnt offering was to be washed. See point G, p 1379.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 40:39 On these offerings, see pp 170–71.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 40:41 eight tables, on which to slaughter. For the inner court, 12 tables were needed for the preparation of the sacrifices (vv 38–43).
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 40:42 tables … instruments. Needed for butchering.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 40:43 hooks. Meat hooks.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 40:28–43 In the inner courtyard, Ezekiel saw the 12 tables used for the preparation of the burnt offerings, sin offerings, and guilt offerings before the Lord (vv 38–43). These sacrifices proclaimed the atonement fulfilled when Jesus Christ "offered for all time a single sacrifice for sins" (Heb 10:12). • We praise You, Lord, that Your ancient sacrifices pointed to a great reversal—Christ's sinless life in exchange for our sinful lives. Amen.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 40:44 Along the north and the south walls, he observed rooms reserved for the officiating priests. See point I, p 1379. In the very center of this court stood an altar described in 43:13–17. See point J, p 1379.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 40:45 priests who have charge of the temple. Descendants of Aaron, but not of Zadok, this group of priests served as guardians and managers.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 40:46 sons of Zadok. The most holy group of Aaron's descendants. Cf 44:15–31. See p 1557.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 40:47 hundred cubits. Equal to the distance from an outer gate to an inner gate. See note, v 19.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 40:48 vestibule of the temple. Climbing 10 more steps and passing between two pillars, Ezekiel arrived at an enclosure that served like a narthex to the temple proper. See point K, p 1379.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 40:49 ten steps. The number of steps has increased compared to those for the gates. See note, v 3. pillars. See diagram, p 672.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 40:44–49 Ezekiel records the final figures that describe the chambers and the vestibule located in the inner court. He notes how holy the place is by mentioning that only the sons of Zadok could approach and minister there. How marvelous then is our salvation, which makes us a holy priesthood through Baptism and permits us to approach God's throne of grace! • Hallow all our service, dear Savior, that we may minister with joy in Your presence. Amen.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON Ch 41 On the temple proper, see also the diagrams for the tabernacle on p 139 and for the various temples on pp 541, 730, and 1838.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 41:1 the nave. The Holy Place.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 41:2 sidewalls. Formed the space of the nave.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 41:3 inner room. The Most Holy Place. Only the heavenly guide went into the Most Holy Place. As in Solomon's temple, the Most Holy Place is likely a perfect cube.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 41:5–11 Description of the walls of the temple proper, including its side chambers. See the walls surrounding points L and M on the diagram (p 1379). The side chambers were probably used for storage of equipment and provisions.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 41:5 On the north and the south sides, and partly on the east side, the temple proper was surrounded by an outer paved platform and a double wall. side chambers. From a paved area, entrances on the north and south sides led to a space between the walls where Ezekiel found side chambers built above one another in three stories.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 41:6 offsets. Meaning uncertain.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 41:7 broader as it wound upward. Likely describes the need for the lower, foundational walls to be thicker. Second- and third-story walls could be thinner, so their rooms could have more interior space.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 41:8 raised platform. Terrace between the two walls. Its purpose is not indicated.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 41:9 free space. See point N, p 1379.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 41:11 free space was five cubits. Second measure of free space. See point O, p 1379.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 41:12 building that was facing the separate yard. To the west and abutting the outer wall of the temple complex. See point P, p 1379. Its function is never described.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 41:13–15a Summary of the temple measurements, all adding up to 100 cubits. They testify to its symmetrical perfection. See note, v 3.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 41:16 paneled with wood. See note, 1Ki 6:15–22. covered. Perhaps with lattice, common style in the ancient Near East.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 41:18 cherubim and palm trees. See notes, 1Ki 6:23, 29; see also diagram, p 544. two faces. The cherubim that Ezekiel saw bearing up the glory of the Lord had four faces (Ezk 1:10; 10:21). Perhaps only a human face and a young lion face came into Ezekiel's line of vision. Cherubim in the tabernacle and in Solomon's temple are not described as multifaced (Ex 25:18–22; 1Ki 6:23). See note, Ezk 10:1.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 41:22 an altar of wood. See note, Ex 27:1. table that is before the LORD. Likely to be set with the bread of the Presence (Ex 25:23, 30).
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 41:25 cherubim and palm trees. See notes, 1Ki 6:23, 29. canopy. Hbr architectural term of uncertain meaning.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 41:26 narrow windows. See note, 40:16.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON Ch 41 As Ezekiel tours the Holy Place of the temple, his guide continues to measure the building. On the walls of the Holy Place, Ezekiel sees carvings of cherubim that appear different from the cherubim he described at the beginning of his prophecy. How wonderful is God's creation. How much more amazing, when we shall see angels face-to-face surrounding God's throne! Yet even now the Lord regards us as His holy temple (1Co 6:19), His dwelling place prepared by the sacrifice of His beloved Son. • Lord, You are the author and perfecter of our faith. Build us up in unity for Jesus' sake. Amen.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 42:1 chambers. North and south of the inner court, and still within the area enclosed by the wall separating it from the outer court, were two series of chambers in addition to those mentioned in 41:6. The one row of rooms faced inward to the temple yard. Here the priests were to eat the most holy offerings and store them (v 13). See point Q, p 1379.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 42:3 gallery. Or, "balcony." The second row of chambers faced the outer court. In them, the priests were to leave the garments in which they minister and change garments before mingling with the people (v 14).
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 42:4 passage. See point R, p 1379.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 42:5 Galleries were larger on the upper levels, making the rooms on those levels smaller.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 42:7 See point S, p 1379.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 42:11–12 passage. See point R, p 1379.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 42:13 he said. Cf 40:3, Ezekiel's guide. eat the most holy offerings. See pp 170–71.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 42:14 laying there the garments. Holy garments must stay in the holy area belonging to the priests. See notes, Lv 6:10–11; 16:23. that which is for the people. Courtyard.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 42:15 all around. Overall dimensions of the entire temple area are as symmetrical as those of the temple proper.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 42:16–20 The totals are 500 cubits, compared with 100 cubits for the interior structure (41:13). The four sides form a perfect square. If the holy God is to take up residence in this place, it must be devoid of anything uneven, incomplete, incongruous, or unharmonious. Cf Rv 21:15–16.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 42:20 a separation between the holy and the common. See "holy," p 7.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON Ch 42 Having completed their tour of the temple complex, the man of bronze leads Ezekiel out the east entrance, heading back to the location where their tour had begun. Again, the man stops, this time to measure the entire temple complex. In the symbolism of this vision, we see a glimpse of the Lord's heavenly dwelling place, which He prepares for us in Christ. • Lord God and Savior, You rescued us through the waters of Baptism and nourish us with Your Supper. Teach us the way of holiness. Amen.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 43:1–12 Sanctuary described in chs 40–42 is deemed worthy of God's presence. Through the gate facing east, through which Ezekiel was guided into the temple complex (40:5–19), he now would see "the glory of the God of Israel" enter and fill the temple. See note, 1:28.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 43:2 glory … coming from the east. See note, 1:28. sound of many waters. See note, 1:24. earth shone with His glory. God's presence hallows the land again. See "glory of the LORD," pp 6–7.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 43:3 Cf chs 1–2. I fell on my face. See p 1276.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 43:5 Spirit lifted me. See note, 11:1.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 43:6 the man. See note, 40:3. speaking to me out of the temple. God had returned and would dwell in it forever (see note, 1:28). However, it must remain undefiled (vv 7–9; cf 1Ki 6:13; 8:10–13, 27; Ps 99:5; 132:7; Jer 3:17; 17:12).
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 43:7 place of My throne. See p 495. whoring … dead bodies. Two ways are cited in which the temple, now lying in ruins, had forfeited God's presence and protection: (1) The people were guilty of idolatry, often described as marital unfaithfulness (Is 54:5–6; Jer 3:6; Hos 2:2; cf 2Ki 23:6–7). (2) Kings contaminated the temple when they were buried too near to the holy precincts and when they erected secular structures with only a wall separating the profane from the holy. Cf Lv 21:1; 22:4; Nu 5:2; 6:6; 9:10; 19:16 for ceremonial uncleanness resulting from contact with the dead. high places. See p 526.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 43:8 Ezekiel protests and warns against placing the palace, royal tombs, or unclean activities near the temple or even its outer wall. In the kingdom period, the palace and temple were quite close (cf 1Ki 6–7; 2Ki 11; 21:4–5). abominations. See note, 5:9.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 43:10 be ashamed. No desecration was to touch any part of the entire temple area on the top of the mountain, for the whole territory was to be as inviolate as the Most Holy Place. This was the law of the temple Ezekiel was to proclaim to the house of Israel (vv 11–12).
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 43:11 statutes … laws. See p 971.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 43:12 Not a new covenant but a renewal of the covenant, which expands its holy boundaries and extends into the lives of the people (vv 10–11).
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 43:1–12 Ezekiel watched the glory of the God of Israel (v 2) enter the restored temple from the east, whence it had departed (11:22–24). God will protect His holy name and the sanctity of His dwelling place among men. One of the names for Jesus is Immanuel, "God with us"; through His Word and precious Sacraments, He continually dwells with us. Through the cross, we hear God's words, "I will never leave you nor forsake you" (Heb 13:5), a promise sealed in Christ's blood. • Almighty God, because of Christ's atoning sacrifice, we are Your dwelling place (2Co 6:16). Sanctify us, we pray. Amen.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 43:13–46:24 Ezekiel's temple had some features in common with Solomon's building, and the services to be rendered in it resembled the ritual prescribed in Mosaic legislation. Yet there were significant differences. These differences were not accidental, for they fit into an overall pattern Ezekiel saw like the pieces of a jigsaw puzzle. E.g., there is no mention of the ark of the covenant, which earlier played an indispensable part in Israel's worship. Furthermore, as will become evident, the function of a high priest, who alone was permitted to enter the Most Holy Place and to bring the mediating offering, will no longer be necessary. For the same reason, there will no longer be a need to observe the Day of Atonement, the annual high festival when this sacrificial act was performed. See note, 44:3.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 43:13–17 Under the old covenant, an altar was an absolute necessity. Mentioned in passing in 40:47, the altar is now described in characteristic detail. See point J, p 1379.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 43:15 altar hearth. Hbr word transliterated as "Ariel" in Is 29:1. four horns. See notes, Ex 21:14; 27:2; 29:12; 1Ki 1:50.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 43:17 The altar's overall structural features gave it the appearance of a symmetrical step-pyramid. The topmost level, where the sacrifice burned, rose above the base by means of squares or blocks of graduated size. The officiating priests needed steps to reach a height far enough removed from the profane earth below.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 43:18–27 If an altar built of earthly material by sinful hands was to serve its sacred purpose, the priest was to "purify … and make atonement for it" (v 20) by dedication rites similar to those carried out in former days (cf Lv 8; 1Ki 8:62–66). Only descendants of the high priest Zadok (v 19) were to minister at the altar. For the banishment from the high priestly office of Abiathar's family, see note, 1Ki 2:26.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 43:18 burnt offerings. See pp 170–71. throwing blood. See notes, Ex 24:6; Lv 1:5.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 43:19 Levitical priests. All priests were Levites, but as ch 44 makes clear, not all Levites were priests (see notes, Dt 18:1, 6–8). a bull from the herd. A young, domesticated bull.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 43:20 purify … and make atonement. See pp 5–7.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 43:21 burned in the appointed place. Cf Lv 4:12, 21.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 43:22 without blemish. See notes, Ex 29:1; Lv 1:3.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 43:24 sprinkle salt. See note, Lv 2:13.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 43:26 atonement … cleanse … consecrate. See pp 5–6.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 43:27 burnt offerings … peace offerings. They symbolize the worshipers' unreserved gifts of gratitude to God and sacramental communion with Him who restored them to His favor. See pp 170–71. accept you. Outward rituals, carefully and minutely prescribed for Israel's sanctuary, foreshadowed what even now constitutes service pleasing to God: a heart totally dedicated in holy obedience to Him who rescued the worshiper from death and restored him to fellowship with his Creator.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 43:13–27 God instructs Ezekiel on the rebuilding of the altar and the sacrifices necessary to sanctify it so that God can again dwell with His people. Today, Christ's cross is your altar by which the Lord has consecrated you as His child. • Lord, keep me mindful of the sacrifice of Your dear Son for my salvation. Amen.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 44:2 remain shut. Ordinance signified that only God Himself can open the way that leads to communion with Him. When rebellious sons and daughters of Adam arrogate to themselves the right to come into His presence, they insult and profane "the glory of the LORD" which "filled the temple" (v 4).
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 44:3 prince. This individual had an unusual but significant relationship to the restored community. He did not, in the first place, exercise royal functions of a civic or political nature. His main responsibility lay rather in promoting worship. Though not granted priestly status and the authority to offer sacrifices, he nevertheless personified the privilege of a reconciled people to commune with God as well as the obligation to bring Him continual sacrifices in an orderly, sanctified way. In this person, unique among the functionaries of the old covenant, we see embodied everything the spiritual Israel of the new covenant may and should do to praise, extol, and glorify God for redemption from Satan's dominion and from the curse of sin. Just: "He is the chosen Priest and eternal King, the Christ, inasmuch as He is the Son of God" (ANF 1:258).
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 44:4–8 The kind of worship acceptable to the reconciled Lord continues to be defined in the forms and regulations prescribed in the old covenant.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 44:4 Cf 43:3–4.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 44:5 statutes of the temple … laws. Cf 43:12 and note.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 44:6–8 foreigners, uncircumcised in heart and flesh. To be excluded from the sanctuary in Jerusalem. In a similar way, only those who repent, believe, and amend their lives are members of the communion of saints; thus they may appear before God's throne. See notes, Ps 15; 24; Jer 4:4.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 44:9 The Lord underscores the holy awe by which reconciled sinners are to regard the privilege of worship. The priests who earlier ministered to idols were permitted only to engage in menial tasks (vv 9–14). They retained the title as priests but could not fulfill the duties as priests.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 44:10 far from Me. On idol worship in Israel's past, see the reforms that King Josiah carried out (2Ki 23:4). Those assuming leadership in such abominations "became a stumbling block" (v 12).
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 44:11–14 The Lord reclassifies descendants of Aaron who are not descendants of Zadok. The non-Zadokites are given responsibilities like those of Levites, though they retain their title as priests. Cf vv 15–31; see note, 40:46.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 44:1–14 Detestable practices in the past drove God from His dwelling place, so God institutes regulations preventing those who are "uncircumcised in heart and flesh" from entering His sanctuary (v 9). Today, God's Holy Law guides your relationship with Him and with others. Unfortunately, you cannot keep His Law rightly. Yet, Christ kept them for you. He kept God's Laws perfectly in your stead and for your consecration. Through Christ, you are appointed to a holy priesthood (1Pt 2:5). • Father, I daily sin much and do not deserve Your mercy. Grant me daily repentance and renew me through Christ, my Lord. Amen.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 44:15 kept the charge of My sanctuary. The faithful sons of Zadok (see note, 43:18–27), who perform priestly functions, must observe strict ceremonial regulations, many of which are found in the Law of Moses. offer Me the fat and the blood. See note, Lv 1:8.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 44:17 linen garments. See notes, Ex 28:42; Lv 6:10–11.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 44:18 sweat. Priestly vestments were to be made of lightweight linen rather than of wool, which tends to make the wearer perspire. In the relatively dry, highland region of central Israel, sweat would normally evaporate quickly. Excessive sweat, like other bodily excretions, likely rendered the priests ceremonially unclean (cf Lv 15; Dt 23:12–14). Sweat may also be associated with the penalty of sin (cf Gn 3:19).
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 44:19 transmit holiness. If the priests wore their sacred vestments among the people, it would obliterate "the difference between the holy and the common" (v 23), which they were to teach the people. People might be led to lose respect for the holy office of the priesthood. Cf Hg 2:12; see note, Lv 6:18.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 44:20 Judean men likely wore their hair trimmed short by a razor, though they were not to shave their heads bald, as Egyptians might.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 44:21 See note, Lv 10:9.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 44:22 divorced. See note, Dt 22:19.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 44:23 See note, v 19.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 44:24 act as judges. See note, Dt 17:8–13.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 44:25 defile themselves by … a dead person. See notes, 39:12, 15.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 44:27 sin offering. See pp 170–71.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 44:28 I am their inheritance. See "portion," p 7. Ezekiel envisions worshipers who have been restored to God's favor, reconciled by a great High Priest (Heb 9:12). The redeemed need not fear coming into God's presence, because He "counts no iniquity" to them but "counts righteousness" (Ps 32:2; Rm 4:6–8). no possession. See note, Dt 18:1; cf Ezk 48:8. See also "portion," p 7.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 44:29–31 The communion of saints still lives in a fallen world. Its members succumb to temptations and lapse into unholy thoughts, words, and deeds. Therefore, Ezekiel sees them bringing a sin offering and a guilt offering, confessing their wrongs to God and pleading for forgiveness (40:39; 42:13; 46:20). Yet, everything they think, say, and do becomes "a living sacrifice" (Rm 12:1).
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 44:15–31 God reiterates Levitical standards for His priests with some new regulations. In the NT, the Father has made Jesus our High Priest. "He is able to save to the uttermost those who draw near to God through Him, since He always lives to make intercession for them"

(Heb 7:25). Christ has fulfilled the old order of sacrifice and permanently replaced it with a new order sealed in His blood. • Lord Jesus, Your victory at Calvary provides eternal salvation for me and all who trust in You. I give You all praise. Amen.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 45:1 allot the land. This reallotment did not take place after exile, but envisioned how holy relationships should work among God's people. as a holy district. C 6 or 7 mi, divided into three parallel strips. To ensure acceptable worship within the temple complex, the area immediately beyond and surrounding the outer walls must be orderly.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 45:2 square plot. In the center of the first zone stood the sanctuary, surrounded by the residences of the priests.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 45:5 The second zone of the square was reserved for the Levites.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 45:6 Alongside the portion. The lower and smaller zone was to be city land. belong to the whole house of Israel. Other Israelites could dwell in this area.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 45:1–6 God pronounces regulations designed to prevent future temple defilement. He zealously guards His house of worship but also allows means by which the people may approach Him and serve Him. Today, the Lord continues to consecrate a place for Himself—souls and bodies of believers, which He will raise to dwell in His eternal sanctuary of heaven. • Father, we ask that You guard and protect Your Church by the power of Your holy name. Amen.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 45:7 prince. See note, 44:3. land on both sides. On the sides of the sacred square were two rectangular territories that were assigned to the prince. One territory extended westward to the Great Sea, and the other extended eastward to the Jordan River.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 45:8 no more oppress My people. Cf 22:6. Luth: "The old, worldly, temporal government remains in all the world, and does not at all prevent the establishment upon earth of the new, spiritual, everlasting rule and kingdom of Christ under it and within it, a kingdom that has its own peculiar nature, as we clearly see. Especially is this the case where there are righteous kings and princes, who in their old government tolerate this new everlasting kingdom of Christ, or who themselves accept it, promote it, and desire as Christians to be in it" (AE 35:289).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 45:9 execute justice. Worship was to go on without hindrance and hardships. Cease your evictions. Cf Hos 5:10; see note, Dt 19:14.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 45:10 You. Plural, admonishing all the people.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 45:12 See note, Ex 30:13; see also p cx.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 45:13 you. Singular, yet contributions from all the people are envisioned (v 16).
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 45:15 make atonement for them. Though reconciled to God and admitted into fellowship with Him, the redeemed community must plead guilty of committing sins and depend on God's mercy (cf Dt 21:8; Ps 51; Is 44:22; Ac 3:19). See "atonement," p 5.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 45:16 offering to the prince. After providing the temple with a peaceful setting, ordinances were issued to regulate the worship services within the holy precincts. The offerings found here do not appear in the Law of Moses. The Lord is commanding something new.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 45:17 prince's duty to furnish … offerings. The people were to give an offering for the prince, who in turn was to provide everything needed for the sacrifices. This is not mere taxation; the prince is acting as a mediator for the people. See note, 44:3.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 45:18–20 "The difference between the holy and the common" (44:23) was to be marked by dedicatory rites that would make atonement for the profane nature of a building and render it a sacred dwelling place (cf Lv 14:53).
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 45:21–25 Three annual festivals were to be observed. The second of these is identified by name as "the Passover" (v 21). The other two are known in Mosaic legislation as New Year's Day (vv 18–20) and the Feast of Booths (v 25). See note, Ex 23:17; see also pp 200–201.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 45:7–25 God gives the Israelites a prince, not a king; the heavenly Father is Israel's King. The Israelites must present their offerings to the prince (vv 13–16). In the OT, God ordained days and times of worship with ceremonies pointing to the coming Messiah. As NT believers, we have more freedom by God's grace through Christ (Col 2:16–17). In fact, the Lord makes us a living temple (Eph 2:21). • Father, send Your Holy Spirit to work in us a faithful zeal for Your Holy Word and Sacraments. Amen.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 46:1 Presumably, the gate was to prevent unauthorized persons from entering the inner court when the prince was not standing guard in the gate. six working days. See notes, Ex 20:8, 11. on the Sabbath day … the new moon. The prince was to provide various offerings also for these minor festivals (Ezk 45:17). On these occasions, he would pass through the gate leading into the inner court but was to stop at the threshold of the sanctuary, which only priests and Levites were allowed to enter.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 46:2 worship at the threshold. From this vantage point, he could observe the priests bringing the specified offerings.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 46:3 bow down. See p 1276. at the entrance. People were to remain in the outer court. In order to keep the assembly orderly, worshipers who entered by the north gate were to leave by the south gate and vice versa. On the six working days, when the prince did not represent the people, he was also to observe this ordinance.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 46:4–8 Describes the prince's offerings for the Sabbath and new-moon sacrifices. Compared with the regulations in Nu 28:29, the prince makes a greater offering. See note, Hos 2:11.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 46:9–10 People would move in and out of the court in a continuous line, providing better flow and crowd control.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 46:11–15 Specifies three things. The first is the size of the grain offering to supplement the animal sacrifices (v 11). Second, there is an exception to the rule laid down in v 1—the east gate is to be opened when the prince provides a freewill offering (i.e., a voluntary gift not required by law; v 12). Also described is the kind of daily offering to be brought "morning by morning" (vv 13–15).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 46:11 as much as one is able to give. Could mean the maximum one could offer or a voluntary amount.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 46:12 freewill offering. See note, Ex 35:29.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 46:13 You. Singular, possibly addressed to the prince or to Ezekiel.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 46:14 perpetual statute. A similar expression, "a statute forever," is common in the Books of Moses (Ex 12:14, 17; Lv 3:17; 10:9; 16:29, 31, 34).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 46:16 Only sons of the prince were to inherit gifts of real estate and hold them in perpetuity.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 46:17 As the inheritance of the prince was not to be diminished in size, so it was not to be increased by dispossessing the people and acquiring their property in any kind of transaction. For the abuse of royal power by Ahab; cf 1Ki 21. year of liberty. When servants were to return such grants to the family estate (cf Jer 34:8–17). See p 206.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 46:1–18 God presents Ezekiel with additional ordinances for the prince and for worship. The prince embodied Israel's role in worship, enacting roles of both a priest and a king, as David and Solomon had. What Ezekiel describes anticipates the coming of the greatest Son of David, your Lord Jesus Christ, who hallows your worship and presents your prayers to the heavenly Father. • Lord Jesus, watch over my worship, I earnestly pray. Feed me and nourish me with Your Holy Word. Amen.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 46:20 priests shall boil. After Ezekiel learned about the kinds of sacrifices to be offered and the laws governing them, he finally was shown the kitchens (v 24) in which the priests and Levites cooked and baked the offerings. His angelic guide showed him the priests' chambers in the inner court (42:1–12), for the kitchens were located "at the extreme western end of them" (v 19). transmit holiness. See note, 44:19.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 46:21–24 Facilities to be manned by Levites for the purpose of preparing sacrifices were provided in the four corners of the outer wall.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 46:23–24 hearths … kitchens. See "Animal Sacrifice," p 164.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 46:19–24 Ezekiel's host escorts him to the far west end of the temple complex (v 19). Then the angel guides Ezekiel to the four corners of the outer court. God graciously provides regulations for the distinction between the sacred and the ordinary. Today, the Lord also distinguishes and hallows your life through Holy Baptism, Holy Communion, and the communion of saints. • Lord, make my life sacred in Your sight. Watch over me, I humbly pray, through Jesus Christ. Amen.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 47:1 water was issuing from below the threshold. Water is the symbol of life-giving blessings flowing in the channels of divine grace (cf Ps 65:9; Is 33:20–21; 43:20; see p 1369). When, as here, it emanates from the temple where the reconciled God resides, it prefigures the restoration to life in the new covenant (cf Jn 4:14; 7:37–38; Eph 2:1–10; Col 2:13–15; Rv 22:1–2). The flow of this water never stops.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 47:2 See diagram, p 1379.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 47:3–6 In its course, it grew in depth and width. Yet it was not fed by tributaries.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 47:8 Arabah. Desert land including the area of the Salt Sea and extending southward from it (see note, 1Sm 23:24). the sea. The Salt Sea, rightly called because its salt kills vegetation and marine life. The sea could sustain life when the river flowed into it, overcoming its deadly properties. the water will become fresh. See note, v 1.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 47:10 Engedi to Eneglaim. Two springs. See note, 1Sm 23:29.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 47:11 swamps and marshes. Unchanged by the river. will not become fresh. Salt was necessary for the sacrifices of the temple (see note, Lv 2:13).
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 47:12 Cf 36:33–38. fresh fruit. The miraculously increasing supply of water irrigated and fructified ever-widening banks, turning them into a paradise of trees bearing fruit every month. leaves for healing. In ancient Israel, various leaves and plants had medicinal uses. Here, God provides a most beneficial cure. Cf Rv 22:14, 19.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 47:1–12 Ezekiel's guide takes him to the inner court, where a stream of water begins flowing, transforming the Salt Sea (cf Rv 22:1–2). God's grace transforms what was dead to bring forth new life. How great is His power! How gentle His kindness toward you. • Precious Lord Jesus, transform me. I find myself dead in sin, but Your grace can make me alive again. Amen.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 47:13–23 God reestablishes the borders of the Promised Land, within which His people will dwell securely (38:11), unhampered in their desire to worship their Redeemer and uncontaminated by foreign influence. The northern limits extended from the Great Sea near Tyre to the vicinity of Damascus, once the capital of Syria. The Jordan and the Salt Sea formed the eastern border (cf Nu 34:3). The latter was also the point marking the southern extremity, which cut across westward to the Brook of Egypt, a stream emptying into the Great Sea, which was the western border. These borders differ somewhat from Israel's earlier borders. See note, Ezk 47:18; see also color maps at the front of the Bible.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 47:13 Joseph. Because Levi's inheritance is in the temple area (45:5), the number of the 12 tribes is maintained by allotting a portion to Ephraim and Manasseh, the sons of Joseph blessed by Jacob (Gn 48:20).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 47:15 Hethlon. This place, as well as others in this section, remains unidentified. For the entrance of Hamath, see note, 1Ki 8:65.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 47:18 the land of Israel. The land beyond the Jordan, where two and a half tribes had been located, was no longer to be a part of restored Israel. The place-names here may indicate Babylonian divisions.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 47:19 Tamar. Possibly the Edomite fortress (Mezad Hazeva) in the northern Arabah, near an important crossroad.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 47:21 divide this land. Cf ch 48.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 47:22 sojourners. Peoples of heathen ancestry were to have an inheritance among the descendants of Abraham (Lv 19:33–34; Gal 3:7–9). native-born children. Naturally part of the holy nation. Luth: "According to the second part of the prophecy and the new covenant, the Jews are no longer Israel, for all things are to be new, and Israel too must become new. Those alone are the true Israel who have accepted the new covenant which was established and begun at Jerusalem. For according to the old covenant I am no Israelite, or Jew. But I claim now that I am the son of St. Paul, and an Israelite or Benjamite. For Paul is my father, not the old Paul but the new Paul. He is still the old Paul, but out of the old Paul there has arisen a new Paul in Christ; and he has begotten me in Christ by the gospel [I Cor. 4:15], so that I am in his likeness according to the new covenant. Thus all the Gentiles who are Christians are the true Israelites and new Jews, born of Christ, the noblest Jew. Everything, therefore, depends upon the new covenant, which the Messiah was to found, making all things new, as he has done" (AE 35:287–88).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON Ch 48 Two aspects of restoration to God's favor are highlighted: (1) all the redeemed share alike in its privileges and obligations, and (2) the blessings bestowed are a permanent possession. The 12 tribes of Israel and the land they receive for an inheritance foreshadow what is in store for all among whom God is pleased to dwell. The land is divided into parallel strips of equal width and length, in contrast to the division of the land under Joshua, which was based on the sizes of the various tribes (Jsh 14–21). The equal divisions here emphasize that each tribe will have a place among God's people, despite their earlier disobedience and failures (cf Ac 20:32; Col 1:12–14).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 48:8–22 Before listing the inheritances in the south, the holy portion, the allotment for the city, and the property of the prince are described once more (cf 45:7–8).
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 48:10 Cf 45:1–6.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 48:11 See note, 44:11–14.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 48:14 Cf 45:1–6.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 48:18–19 workers of the city. The city is not exclusive to the Levites.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 48:23–29 The first territory below this well-defined area (vv 8–22) was assigned to Benjamin. The portions of Simeon, Issachar, Zebulun, and Gad followed in that order, from east to west. The focus in ch 48 is decidedly on Judah; cf 48:1–7. The glorious future has appeared in prophetic vision. The new covenant is described in terms of the old provisions. The immediate future and the more distant scenes of the messianic Kingdom merge in a single panoramic view of God's accomplished salvation to the ends of the earth.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 47:13–48:29 Just as the temple complex symbolized ideal worship and the river symbolized God's blessings flowing to His people, the land apportionment symbolizes God's abundant grace. Each tribe is welcomed back. In the new covenant, God has reconciled every person to Himself—including you. The blood that flowed from Christ's hands, feet, and riven side supply life to all who believe. • Father, I know that many still do not believe in Your Son. Use me to carry this message of salvation to all. Amen.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 48:30–35 As all the tribes receive a portion of land, so they all have access to the holy city—through four gates, each of which is assigned to three tribes. The city is not an earthly Jerusalem. Revered and worshiped in His sanctuary, God's presence will also hallow the labors and lives of all redeemed, reconciled sinners.
EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 48:35 The Lord Is There. Reconciled with God and declared a communion of saints, the former servants of sin bring to their Redeemer the sacrifices of praise and a sanctified life. They need not worry that the supply of royal gifts will give out, for they flow from the throne of grace in streams that grow in abundance. Nor will there ever be a moment when the gracious, protecting presence of the Shepherd/King in His flock will be in doubt, for it will always be true that "The Lord Is There" (cf 34:23–24; Rv 21:2, 4; see "be with," p 5). Luth: "This everlasting kingdom, however, contains in addition such immeasurable, glorious blessings as forgiveness of sins, peace with God, security against everlasting death and all evil, communion with the Divine Majesty and with all angels and saints, joy and pleasure in the whole creation, even in a physical sense. For this same body, which is now the old body, shall also become new, together with the whole creation, as the soul has already begun to become new in faith" (AE 35:290).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 48:30–35 The idealized promised land is the prophetic symbol of a place in time in which the type of worship described previously will be possible. This is the era of the Holy Christian Church and of heaven; the place is the redeemed, restored community of saints, gathered from every nation and race on the earth. "The LORD Is There" (v 35) symbolizes what God has done for you through Jesus Christ. He has become your God. Through the forgiveness of sins, He dwells with you forever. God keeps His covenant! • Lord, You are faithful. Your mercy grants me eternal life through the blood of Christ Jesus, my Lord. Amen.

Daniel Taken to Babylon

1 [1] In the third year of the reign of Jehoiakim king of Judah, Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon came to Jerusalem and besieged it. [2] And the Lord gave Jehoiakim king of Judah into his hand, with some of the vessels of the house of God. And he brought them to the land of Shinar, to the house of his god, and placed the vessels in the treasury of his god. [3] Then the king commanded Ashpenaz, his chief eunuch, to bring some of the people of Israel, both of the royal family[1] and of the nobility, [4] youths without blemish, of good appearance and skillful in all wisdom, endowed with knowledge, understanding learning, and competent to stand in the king's palace, and to teach them the literature and language of the Chaldeans. [5] The king assigned them a daily portion of the food that the king ate, and of the wine that he drank. They were to be educated for three years, and at the end of that time they were to stand before the king. [6] Among these were Daniel, Hananiah, Mishael, and Azariah of the tribe of Judah. [7] And the chief of the eunuchs gave them names: Daniel he called Belteshazzar, Hananiah he called Shadrach, Mishael he called Meshach, and Azariah he called Abednego.

Daniel’s Faithfulness

8 ‡ †But Daniel resolved that he would not defile himself with the king’s food, or with the wine that he drank. Therefore he asked the chief of the eunuchs to allow him not to defile himself. 9 †And God gave Daniel favor and compassion in the sight of the chief of the eunuchs, 10 †and the chief of the eunuchs said to Daniel, “I fear my lord the king, who assigned your food and your drink; for why should he see that you were in worse condition than the youths who are of your own age? So you would endanger my head with the king.” 11 †Then Daniel said to the steward whom the chief of the eunuchs had assigned over Daniel, Hananiah, Mishael, and Azariah, 12 † “Test your servants for ten days; let us be given vegetables to eat and water to drink. 13 Then let our appearance and the appearance of the youths who eat the king’s food be observed by you, and deal with your servants according to what you see.” 14 So he listened to them in this matter, and tested them for ten days. 15 †At the end of ten days it was seen that they were better in appearance and fatter in flesh than all the youths who ate the king’s food. 16 So the steward took away their food and the wine they were to drink, and gave them vegetables.

17 † As for these four youths, God gave them learning and skill in all literature and wisdom, and Daniel had understanding in all visions and dreams. 18 †At the end of the time, when the king had commanded that they should be brought in, the chief of the eunuchs brought them in before Nebuchadnezzar. 19 †And the king spoke with them, and among all of them none was found like Daniel, Hananiah, Mishael, and Azariah. Therefore they stood before the king. 20 † And in every matter of wisdom and understanding about which the king inquired of them, he found them ten times better than all the magicians and enchanters that were in all his kingdom. 21 †And Daniel was there until the first year of King Cyrus.

Nebuchadnezzar’s Dream

2 [1] In the second year of the reign of Nebuchadnezzar, Nebuchadnezzar had dreams; his spirit was troubled, and his sleep left him.
[2] Then the king commanded that the magicians, the enchanters, the sorcerers, and the Chaldeans be summoned to tell the king his dreams. So they came in and stood before the king. [3]And the king said to them, “I had a dream, and my spirit is troubled to know the dream.” [4]Then the Chaldeans said to the king in Aramaic,[1] “O king, live forever! Tell your servants the dream, and we will show the interpretation.” [5]The king answered and said to the Chaldeans, “The word from me is firm: if you do not make known to me the dream and its interpretation, you shall be torn limb from limb, and your houses shall be laid in ruins. [6]But if you show the dream and its interpretation, you shall receive from me gifts and rewards and great honor.
Therefore show me the dream and its interpretation.” [7]They answered a second time and said, “Let the king tell his servants the dream, and we will show its interpretation.” [8] The king answered and said, “I know with certainty that you are trying to gain time, because you see that the word from me is firm— [9]if you do not make the dream known to me, there is but one sentence for you. You have agreed to speak lying and corrupt words before me till the times change. Therefore tell me the dream, and I shall know that you can show me its interpretation.” [10]The Chaldeans answered the king and said, “There is not a man on earth who can meet the king’s demand, for no great and powerful king has asked such a thing of any magician or enchanter or Chaldean. [11] The thing that the king asks is difficult, and no one can show it to the king except the gods, whose dwelling is not with flesh.”

[12]Because of this the king was angry and very furious, and commanded that all the wise men of Babylon be destroyed. [13]So the decree went out, and the wise men were about to be killed; and they sought Daniel and his companions, to kill them. [14] Then Daniel replied with prudence and discretion to Arioch, the captain of the king’s guard, who had gone out to kill the wise men of Babylon. [15]He declared[1] to Arioch, the king’s captain, “Why is the decree of the king so urgent?” Then Arioch made the matter known to Daniel. [16]† And Daniel went in and requested the king to appoint him a time, that he might show the interpretation to the king.

God Reveals Nebuchadnezzar's Dream

17 † Then Daniel went to his house and made the matter known to Hananiah, Mishael, and Azariah, his companions, 18 †and told them to seek mercy from the God of heaven concerning this mystery, so that Daniel and his companions might not be destroyed with the rest of the wise men of Babylon. 19 † Then the mystery was revealed to Daniel in a vision of the night. Then Daniel blessed the God of heaven. 20 †Daniel answered and said:

"Blessed be the name of God forever and ever,
to whom belong wisdom and might.
21 † He changes times and seasons;
he removes kings and sets up kings;
he gives wisdom to the wise and knowledge to those who have understanding;
22 † he reveals deep and hidden things;
he knows what is in the darkness,
and the light dwells with him.
23 To you, O God of my fathers,
I give thanks and praise,
for you have given me wisdom and might,
and have now made known to me what we asked of you,
for you have made known to us the king's matter."

24 †Therefore Daniel went in to Arioch, whom the king had appointed to destroy the wise men of Babylon. He went and said thus to him: "Do not destroy the wise men of Babylon; bring me in before the king, and I will show the king the interpretation." 25 †Then Arioch brought in Daniel before the king in haste and said thus to him: "I have found among the exiles from Judah a man who will make known to the king the interpretation." 26 The king declared to Daniel, whose name was Belteshazzar, “Are you able to make known to me the dream that I have seen and its interpretation?” [27]Daniel answered the king and said, “No wise men, enchanters, magicians, or astrologers can show to the king the mystery that the king has asked, [28]† but there is a God in heaven who reveals mysteries, and he has made known to King Nebuchadnezzar what will be in the latter days. Your dream and the visions of your head as you lay in bed are these: [29]To you, O king, as you lay in bed came thoughts of what would be after this, and he who reveals mysteries made known to you what is to be. [30]† But as for me, this mystery has been revealed to me, not because of any wisdom that I have more than all the living, but in order that the interpretation may be made known to the king, and that you may know the thoughts of your mind.

Daniel Interprets the Dream

31 “You saw, O king, and behold, a great image. This image, mighty and of exceeding brightness, stood before you, and its appearance was frightening. 32 The head of this image was of fine gold, its chest and arms of silver, its middle and thighs of bronze, 33 its legs of iron, its feet partly of iron and partly of clay. 34 As you looked, a stone was cut out by no human hand, and it struck the image on its feet of iron and clay, and broke them in pieces. 35 Then the iron, the clay, the bronze, the silver, and the gold, all together were broken in pieces, and became like the chaff of the summer threshing floors; and the wind carried them away, so that not a trace of them could be found. But the stone that struck the image became a great mountain and filled the whole earth.

36 “This was the dream. Now we will tell the king its interpretation.
37 You, O king, the king of kings, to whom the God of heaven has given the kingdom, the power, and the might, and the glory, 38 and into whose hand he has given, wherever they dwell, the children of man, the beasts of the field, and the birds of the heavens, making you rule over them all—you are the head of gold. 39 Another kingdom inferior to you shall arise after you, and yet a third kingdom of bronze, which shall rule over all the earth. 40 And there shall be a fourth kingdom, strong as iron, because iron breaks to pieces and shatters all things. And like iron that crushes, it shall break and crush all these. 41 And as you saw the feet and toes, partly of potter’s clay and partly of iron, it shall be a divided kingdom, but some of the firmness of iron shall be in it, just as you saw iron mixed with the soft clay. 42 And as the toes of the feet were partly iron and partly clay, so the kingdom shall be partly strong and partly brittle. 43 As you saw the iron mixed with soft clay, so they will mix with one another in marriage,[1] but they will not hold together, just as iron does not mix with clay. 44 And in the days of those kings the God of heaven will set up a kingdom that shall never be destroyed, nor shall the kingdom be left to another people. It shall break in pieces all these kingdoms and bring them to an end, and it shall stand forever, 45 just as you saw that a stone was cut from a mountain by no human hand, and that it broke in pieces the iron, the bronze, the clay, the silver, and the gold. A great God has made known to the king what shall be after this. The dream is certain, and its interpretation sure."

Daniel Is Promoted

46 ‡ † Then King Nebuchadnezzar fell upon his face and paid homage to Daniel, and commanded that an offering and incense be offered up to him.
47 † The king answered and said to Daniel, “Truly, your God is God of gods and Lord of kings, and a revealer of mysteries, for you have been able to reveal this mystery.” 48 † Then the king gave Daniel high honors and many great gifts, and made him ruler over the whole province of Babylon and chief prefect over all the wise men of Babylon. 49 † Daniel made a request of the king, and he appointed Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego over the affairs of the province of Babylon. But Daniel remained at the king’s court.

Nebuchadnezzar’s Golden Image

3 [1]†King Nebuchadnezzar made an image of gold, whose height was sixty cubits[1] and its breadth six cubits. He set it up on the plain of Dura, in the province of Babylon. [2]†Then King Nebuchadnezzar sent to gather the satraps, the prefects, and the governors, the counselors, the treasurers, the justices, the magistrates, and all the officials of the provinces to come to the dedication of the image that King Nebuchadnezzar had set up. [3]Then the satraps, the prefects, and the governors, the counselors, the treasurers, the justices, the magistrates, and all the officials of the provinces gathered for the dedication of the image that King Nebuchadnezzar had set up. And they stood before the image that Nebuchadnezzar had set up. [4]†And the herald proclaimed aloud, “You are commanded, O peoples, nations, and languages, [5]†that when you hear the sound of the horn, pipe, lyre, trigon, harp, bagpipe, and every kind of music, you are to fall down and worship the golden image that King Nebuchadnezzar has set up. [6]†And whoever does not fall down and worship shall immediately be cast into a burning fiery furnace.” [7]Therefore, as soon as all the peoples heard the sound of the horn, pipe, lyre, trigon, harp, bagpipe, and every kind of music, all the peoples, nations, and languages fell down and worshiped the golden image that King Nebuchadnezzar had set up.

The Fiery Furnace

8 ‡ † Therefore at that time certain Chaldeans came forward and maliciously accused the Jews. 9They declared[2] to King Nebuchadnezzar, “O king, live forever! 10You, O king, have made a decree, that every man who hears the sound of the horn, pipe, lyre, trigon, harp, bagpipe, and every kind of music, shall fall down and worship the golden image. 11And whoever does not fall down and worship shall be cast into a burning fiery furnace. 12 † There are certain Jews whom you have appointed over the affairs of the province of Babylon: Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego.
These men, O king, pay no attention to you; they do not serve your gods or worship the golden image that you have set up.”
13 † Then Nebuchadnezzar in furious rage commanded that Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego be brought. So they brought these men before the king. 14Nebuchadnezzar answered and said to them, “Is it true, O Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego, that you do not serve my gods or worship the golden image that I have set up? 15†Now if you are ready when you hear the sound of the horn, pipe, lyre, trigon, harp, bagpipe, and every kind of music, to fall down and worship the image that I have made, well and good.
[1] But if you do not worship, you shall immediately be cast into a burning fiery furnace. And who is the god who will deliver you out of my hands?”
16†Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego answered and said to the king, “O Nebuchadnezzar, we have no need to answer you in this matter. 17†If this be so, our God whom we serve is able to deliver us from the burning fiery furnace, and he will deliver us out of your hand, O king.[2] 18†But if not, be it known to you, O king, that we will not serve your gods or worship the golden image that you have set up.” 19†Then Nebuchadnezzar was filled with fury, and the expression of his face was changed against Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego. He ordered the furnace heated seven times more than it was usually heated. 20†And he ordered some of the mighty men of his army to bind Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego, and to cast them into the burning fiery furnace. 21 † Then these men were bound in their cloaks, their tunics,[3] their hats, and their other garments, and they were thrown into the burning fiery furnace.

[22] † Because the king's order was urgent and the furnace overheated, the flame of the fire killed those men who took up Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego. [23] † And these three men, Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego, fell bound into the burning fiery furnace.

[24] † Then King Nebuchadnezzar was astonished and rose up in haste. He declared to his counselors, "Did we not cast three men bound into the fire?" They answered and said to the king, "True, O king." [25] † He answered and said, "But I see four men unbound, walking in the midst of the fire, and they are not hurt; and the appearance of the fourth is like a son of the gods."

[26] † Then Nebuchadnezzar came near to the door of the burning fiery furnace; he declared, "Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego, servants of the Most High God, come out, and come here!" Then Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego came out from the fire. [27] † And the satraps, the prefects, the governors, and the king's counselors gathered together and saw that the fire had not had any power over the bodies of those men. The hair of their heads was not singed, their cloaks were not harmed, and no smell of fire had come upon them. [28] † Nebuchadnezzar answered and said, "Blessed be the God of Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego, who has sent his angel and delivered his servants, who trusted in him, and set aside[1] the king's command, and yielded up their bodies rather than serve and worship any god except their own God. [29] † Therefore I make a decree: Any people, nation, or language that speaks anything against the God of Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego shall be torn limb from limb, and their houses laid in ruins, for there is no other god who is able to rescue in this way." [30] † Then the king promoted Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego in the province of Babylon.

Nebuchadnezzar Praises God

4 [1] ‡ † [2] King Nebuchadnezzar to all peoples, nations, and languages, that dwell in all the earth: Peace be multiplied to you! [2] † It has seemed good to me to show the signs and wonders that the Most High God has done for me.

[3] † How great are his signs,
how mighty his wonders!
His kingdom is an everlasting kingdom, and his dominion endures from generation to generation.

Nebuchadnezzar’s Second Dream

4 I, Nebuchadnezzar, was at ease in my house and prospering in my palace. 5 I saw a dream that made me afraid. As I lay in bed the fancies and the visions of my head alarmed me. 6 So I made a decree that all the wise men of Babylon should be brought before me, that they might make known to me the interpretation of the dream. 7 Then the magicians, the enchanters, the Chaldeans, and the astrologers came in, and I told them the dream, but they could not make known to me its interpretation. 8 At last Daniel came in before me—he who was named Belteshazzar after the name of my god, and in whom is the spirit of the holy gods[4]—and I told him the dream, saying, 9 “O Belteshazzar, chief of the magicians, because I know that the spirit of the holy gods is in you and that no mystery is too difficult for you, tell me the visions of my dream that I saw and their interpretation. 10 The visions of my head as I lay in bed were these: I saw, and behold, a tree in the midst of the earth, and its height was great. 11 The tree grew and became strong, and its top reached to heaven, and it was visible to the end of the whole earth. 12 Its leaves were beautiful and its fruit abundant, and in it was food for all. The beasts of the field found shade under it, and the birds of the heavens lived in its branches, and all flesh was fed from it.

13 “I saw in the visions of my head as I lay in bed, and behold, a watcher, a holy one, came down from heaven. 14 He proclaimed aloud and said thus:
‘Chop down the tree and lop off its branches, strip off its leaves and scatter its fruit. Let the beasts flee from under it and the birds from its branches.
15 But leave the stump of its roots in the earth, bound with a band of iron and bronze, amid the tender grass of the field. Let him be wet with the dew of heaven. Let his portion be with the beasts in the grass of the earth. 16 Let his mind be changed from a man’s, and let a beast’s mind be given to him; and let seven periods of time pass over him. 17 The sentence is by the decree of the watchers, the decision by the word of the holy ones, to the end that the living may know that the Most High rules the kingdom of men and gives it to whom he will and sets over it the lowliest of men.’ 18 This dream I, King Nebuchadnezzar, saw. And you, O Belteshazzar, tell me the interpretation, because all the wise men of my kingdom are not able to make known to me the interpretation, but you are able, for the spirit of the holy gods is in you."

Daniel Interprets the Second Dream

19 ‡ † Then Daniel, whose name was Belteshazzar, was dismayed for a while, and his thoughts alarmed him. The king answered and said, “Belteshazzar, let not the dream or the interpretation alarm you.” Belteshazzar answered and said, “My lord, may the dream be for those who hate you and its interpretation for your enemies! 20 The tree you saw, which grew and became strong, so that its top reached to heaven, and it was visible to the end of the whole earth, 21 † whose leaves were beautiful and its fruit abundant, and in which was food for all, under which beasts of the field found shade, and in whose branches the birds of the heavens lived—22 † it is you, O king, who have grown and become strong. Your greatness has grown and reaches to heaven, and your dominion to the ends of the earth.
23 † And because the king saw a watcher, a holy one, coming down from heaven and saying, ‘Chop down the tree and destroy it, but leave the stump of its roots in the earth, bound with a band of iron and bronze, in the tender grass of the field, and let him be wet with the dew of heaven, and let his portion be with the beasts of the field, till seven periods of time pass over him,’ 24 this is the interpretation, O king: It is a decree of the Most High, which has come upon my lord the king, 25 † that you shall be driven from among men, and your dwelling shall be with the beasts of the field. You shall be made to eat grass like an ox, and you shall be wet with the dew of heaven, and seven periods of time shall pass over you, till you know that the Most High rules the kingdom of men and gives it to whom he will.
26 And as it was commanded to leave the stump of the roots of the tree, your kingdom shall be confirmed for you from the time that you know that Heaven rules. 27 † Therefore, O king, let my counsel be acceptable to you:
break off your sins by practicing righteousness, and your iniquities by showing mercy to the oppressed, that there may perhaps be a lengthening of your prosperity.”

Nebuchadnezzar’s Humiliation

28 All this came upon King Nebuchadnezzar. 29 At the end of twelve months he was walking on the roof of the royal palace of Babylon, 30 and the king answered and said, “Is not this great Babylon, which I have built by my mighty power as a royal residence and for the glory of my majesty?” 31 While the words were still in the king’s mouth, there fell a voice from heaven, “O King Nebuchadnezzar, to you it is spoken: The kingdom has departed from you, 32 and you shall be driven from among men, and your dwelling shall be with the beasts of the field. And you shall be made to eat grass like an ox, and seven periods of time shall pass over you, until you know that the Most High rules the kingdom of men and gives it to whom he will.” 33 Immediately the word was fulfilled against Nebuchadnezzar. He was driven from among men and ate grass like an ox, and his body was wet with the dew of heaven till his hair grew as long as eagles’ feathers, and his nails were like birds’ claws.

Nebuchadnezzar Restored

34 ‡† At the end of the days I, Nebuchadnezzar, lifted my eyes to heaven, and my reason returned to me, and I blessed the Most High, and praised and honored him who lives forever,

for his dominion is an everlasting dominion, and his kingdom endures from generation
to generation;
35 † all the inhabitants of the earth are accounted as nothing,
and he does according to his will among the host of heaven
and among the inhabitants of the earth;
and none can stay his hand or say to him, “What have you done?”

36 † At the same time my reason returned to me, and for the glory of my kingdom, my majesty and splendor returned to me. My counselors and my lords sought me, and I was established in my kingdom, and still more greatness was added to me. 37 †Now I, Nebuchadnezzar, praise and extol and honor the King of heaven, for all his works are right and his ways are just;
and those who walk in pride he is able to humble.

The Handwriting on the Wall

5 [1] ‡ †King Belshazzar made a great feast for a thousand of his lords and drank wine in front of the thousand.
[2] † Belshazzar, when he tasted the wine, commanded that the vessels of gold and of silver that Nebuchadnezzar his father[1] had taken out of the temple in Jerusalem be brought, that the king and his lords, his wives, and his concubines might drink from them. [3]Then they brought in the golden vessels that had been taken out of the temple, the house of God in Jerusalem, and the king and his lords, his wives, and his concubines drank from them. [4] † They drank wine and praised the gods of gold and silver, bronze, iron, wood, and stone.
[5] † Immediately the fingers of a human hand appeared and wrote on the plaster of the wall of the king's palace, opposite the lampstand. And the king saw the hand as it wrote. [6] † Then the king's color changed, and his thoughts alarmed him; his limbs gave way, and his knees knocked together.
[7] † The king called loudly to bring in the enchanters, the Chaldeans, and the astrologers. The king declared[2] to the wise men of Babylon, "Whoever reads this writing, and shows me its interpretation, shall be clothed with purple and have a chain of gold around his neck and shall be the third ruler in the kingdom." [8] † Then all the king's wise men came in, but they could not read the writing or make known to the king the interpretation. [9] † Then King Belshazzar was greatly alarmed, and his color changed, and his lords were perplexed.
[10] † The queen,[3] because of the words of the king and his lords, came into the banqueting hall, and the queen declared, "O king, live forever! Let not your thoughts alarm you or your color change. [11] † There is a man in your kingdom in whom is the spirit of the holy gods.[4] In the days of your father, light and understanding and wisdom like the wisdom of the gods were found in him, and King Nebuchadnezzar, your father—your father the king —made him chief of the magicians, enchanters, Chaldeans, and astrologers, [12] † because an excellent spirit, knowledge, and understanding to interpret dreams, explain riddles, and solve problems were found in this Daniel, whom the king named Belteshazzar. Now let Daniel be called, and he will show the interpretation."

Daniel Interprets the Handwriting

13 ‡† Then Daniel was brought in before the king. The king answered and said to Daniel, “You are that Daniel, one of the exiles of Judah, whom the king my father brought from Judah. 14 † I have heard of you that the spirit of the gods[5] is in you, and that light and understanding and excellent wisdom are found in you. 15 † Now the wise men, the enchanters, have been brought in before me to read this writing and make known to me its interpretation, but they could not show the interpretation of the matter. 16 But I have heard that you can give interpretations and solve problems. Now if you can read the writing and make known to me its interpretation, you shall be clothed with purple and have a chain of gold around your neck and shall be the third ruler in the kingdom.”

17 † Then Daniel answered and said before the king, “Let your gifts be for yourself, and give your rewards to another. Nevertheless, I will read the writing to the king and make known to him the interpretation. 18 † O king, the Most High God gave Nebuchadnezzar your father kingship and greatness and glory and majesty. 19 † And because of the greatness that he gave him, all peoples, nations, and languages trembled and feared before him. Whom he would, he killed, and whom he would, he kept alive; whom he would, he raised up, and whom he would, he humbled. 20 † But when his heart was lifted up and his spirit was hardened so that he dealt proudly, he was brought down from his kingly throne, and his glory was taken from him.
21 † He was driven from among the children of mankind, and his mind was made like that of a beast, and his dwelling was with the wild donkeys. He was fed grass like an ox, and his body was wet with the dew of heaven, until he knew that the Most High God rules the kingdom of mankind and sets over it whom he will. 22 † And you his son,[1] Belshazzar, have not humbled your heart, though you knew all this, 23 † but you have lifted up yourself against the Lord of heaven. And the vessels of his house have been brought in before you, and you and your lords, your wives, and your concubines have drunk wine from them. And you have praised the gods of silver and gold, of bronze, iron, wood, and stone, which do not see or hear or know, but the God in whose hand is your breath, and whose are all your ways, you have not honored.

24“Then from his presence the hand was sent, and this writing was inscribed. 25‡And this is the writing that was inscribed: Mene, Mene, Tekel, and Parsin. 26This is the interpretation of the matter: Mene, God has numbered[2] the days of your kingdom and brought it to an end; 27Tekel, you have been weighed[3] in the balances and found wanting; 28Peres, your kingdom is divided and given to the Medes and Persians.”[4]

29† Then Belshazzar gave the command, and Daniel was clothed with purple, a chain of gold was put around his neck, and a proclamation was made about him, that he should be the third ruler in the kingdom.

30† That very night Belshazzar the Chaldean king was killed. 31† [5] And Darius the Mede received the kingdom, being about sixty-two years old.

Daniel and the Lions' Den

6 [1] †It pleased Darius to set over the kingdom 120 satraps, to be throughout the whole kingdom; [2] †and over them three presidents, of whom Daniel was one, to whom these satraps should give account, so that the king might suffer no loss. [3] †Then this Daniel became distinguished above all the other presidents and satraps, because an excellent spirit was in him. And the king planned to set him over the whole kingdom. [4] †Then the presidents and the satraps sought to find a ground for complaint against Daniel with regard to the kingdom, but they could find no ground for complaint or any fault, because he was faithful, and no error or fault was found in him. [5] †Then these men said, "We shall not find any ground for complaint against this Daniel unless we find it in connection with the law of his God."

[6] †Then these presidents and satraps came by agreement[1] to the king and said to him, "O King Darius, live forever! [7] †All the presidents of the kingdom, the prefects and the satraps, the counselors and the governors are agreed that the king should establish an ordinance and enforce an injunction, that whoever makes petition to any god or man for thirty days, except to you, O king, shall be cast into the den of lions. [8] †Now, O king, establish the injunction and sign the document, so that it cannot be changed, according to the law of the Medes and the Persians, which cannot be revoked." [9] Therefore King Darius signed the document and injunction.

[10] †When Daniel knew that the document had been signed, he went to his house where he had windows in his upper chamber open toward Jerusalem. He got down on his knees three times a day and prayed and gave thanks before his God, as he had done previously. [11] †Then these men came by agreement and found Daniel making petition and plea before his God. [12] Then they came near and said before the king, concerning the injunction, "O king! Did you not sign an injunction, that anyone who makes petition to any god or man within thirty days except to you, O king, shall be cast into the den of lions?" The king answered and said, "The thing stands fast, according to the law of the Medes and Persians, which cannot be revoked." [13] Then they answered and said before the king, "Daniel, who is one of the exiles from Judah, pays no attention to you, O king, or the injunction you have signed, but makes his petition three times a day."

14 †Then the king, when he heard these words, was much distressed and set his mind to deliver Daniel. And he labored till the sun went down to rescue him. 15Then these men came by agreement to the king and said to the king, "Know, O king, that it is a law of the Medes and Persians that no injunction or ordinance that the king establishes can be changed."

16 †Then the king commanded, and Daniel was brought and cast into the den of lions. The king declared[2] to Daniel, "May your God, whom you serve continually, deliver you!" 17 †And a stone was brought and laid on the mouth of the den, and the king sealed it with his own signet and with the signet of his lords, that nothing might be changed concerning Daniel. 18 † Then the king went to his palace and spent the night fasting; no diversions were brought to him, and sleep fled from him.

19Then, at break of day, the king arose and went in haste to the den of lions. 20 †As he came near to the den where Daniel was, he cried out in a tone of anguish. The king declared to Daniel, "O Daniel, servant of the living God, has your God, whom you serve continually, been able to deliver you from the lions?" 21 †Then Daniel said to the king, "O king, live forever! 22 †My God sent his angel and shut the lions' mouths, and they have not harmed me, because I was found blameless before him; and also before you, O king, I have done no harm." 23 †Then the king was exceedingly glad, and commanded that Daniel be taken up out of the den. So Daniel was taken up out of the den, and no kind of harm was found on him, because he had trusted in his God. 24 †And the king commanded, and those men who had maliciously accused Daniel were brought and cast into the den of lions —they, their children, and their wives. And before they reached the bottom of the den, the lions overpowered them and broke all their bones in pieces.

25Then King Darius wrote to all the peoples, nations, and languages that dwell in all the earth: "Peace be multiplied to you. 26 †I make a decree, that in all my royal dominion people are to tremble and fear before the God of Daniel,

for he is the living God,
enduring forever;
his kingdom shall never be destroyed,

and his dominion shall be to the end.
27† He delivers and rescues;
he works signs and wonders
in heaven and on earth, he who has saved Daniel from the power of the lions.”

28†So this Daniel prospered during the reign of Darius and the reign of Cyrus the Persian.

Daniel’s Vision of the Four Beasts

7 [1] ‡ † In the first year of Belshazzar king of Babylon, Daniel saw a dream and visions of his head as he lay in his bed. Then he wrote down the dream and told the sum of the matter. [2] † Daniel declared,[1] “I saw in my vision by night, and behold, the four winds of heaven were stirring up the great sea. [3] ‡ And four great beasts came up out of the sea, different from one another. [4] The first was like a lion and had eagles’ wings. Then as I looked its wings were plucked off, and it was lifted up from the ground and made to stand on two feet like a man, and the mind of a man was given to it. [5] And behold, another beast, a second one, like a bear. It was raised up on one side. It had three ribs in its mouth between its teeth; and it was told, ‘Arise, devour much flesh.’ [6] † After this I looked, and behold, another, like a leopard, with four wings of a bird on its back. And the beast had four heads, and dominion was given to it. [7] † After this I saw in the night visions, and behold, a fourth beast, terrifying and dreadful and exceedingly strong. It had great iron teeth; it devoured and broke in pieces and stamped what was left with its feet. It was different from all the beasts that were before it, and it had ten horns. [8] † I considered the horns, and behold, there came up among them another horn, a little one, before which three of the first horns were plucked up by the roots. And behold, in this horn were eyes like the eyes of a man, and a mouth speaking great things.

The Ancient of Days Reigns

9 ‡‡‡“As I looked,

thrones were placed,
and the Ancient of Days took his seat;
his clothing was white as snow,
and the hair of his head like pure wool;
his throne was fiery flames;
its wheels were burning fire.
10 ‡ A stream of fire issued and came out from before him;
a thousand thousands served him,
and ten thousand times ten thousand stood before him;
the court sat in judgment,
and the books were opened.

11 ‡“I looked then because of the sound of the great words that the horn was speaking. And as I looked, the beast was killed, and its body destroyed and given over to be burned with fire. 12 ‡As for the rest of the beasts, their dominion was taken away, but their lives were prolonged for a season and a time.

The Son of Man Is Given Dominion

13 “I saw in the night visions, and behold, with the clouds of heaven

there came one like a son of man, and he came to the Ancient of Days
and was presented before him.
14 And to him was given dominion and glory and a kingdom, that all peoples, nations, and languages
should serve him;
his dominion is an everlasting dominion,
which shall not pass away,
and his kingdom one that shall not be destroyed.

Daniel's Vision Interpreted

15 ‡ ‡ "As for me, Daniel, my spirit within me[1] was anxious, and the visions of my head alarmed me. 16 ‡ I approached one of those who stood there and asked him the truth concerning all this. So he told me and made known to me the interpretation of the things. 17 ‡ 'These four great beasts are four kings who shall arise out of the earth. 18 ‡ But the saints of the Most High shall receive the kingdom and possess the kingdom forever, forever and ever.'

19 ‡ "Then I desired to know the truth about the fourth beast, which was different from all the rest, exceedingly terrifying, with its teeth of iron and claws of bronze, and which devoured and broke in pieces and stamped what was left with its feet, 20 ‡ and about the ten horns that were on its head, and the other horn that came up and before which three of them fell, the horn that had eyes and a mouth that spoke great things, and that seemed greater than its companions. 21 ‡ As I looked, this horn made war with the saints and prevailed over them, 22 ‡ until the Ancient of Days came, and judgment was given for the saints of the Most High, and the time came when the saints possessed the kingdom.

23 ‡ "Thus he said: 'As for the fourth beast,

there shall be a fourth kingdom on earth, which shall be different from all the kingdoms,
and it shall devour the whole earth,
and trample it down, and break it to pieces.
24 ‡ As for the ten horns,
out of this kingdom ten kings shall arise,
and another shall arise after them;
he shall be different from the former ones,
and shall put down three kings.
25 ‡ He shall speak words against the Most High,
and shall wear out the saints of the Most High,

and shall think to change the times and the law;
and they shall be given into his hand
for a time, times, and half a time.
26 But the court shall sit in judgment,
and his dominion shall be taken away,
to be consumed and destroyed to the end.
27 And the kingdom and the dominion and the greatness of the kingdoms under the whole heaven
shall be given to the people of the saints of the Most High;
their kingdom shall be an everlasting kingdom,
and all dominions shall serve and obey
them.'[1]

28 "Here is the end of the matter. As for me, Daniel, my thoughts greatly alarmed me, and my color changed, but I kept the matter in my heart."

Daniel’s Vision of the Ram and the Goat

8 [1] In the third year of the reign of King Belshazzar a vision appeared to me, Daniel, after that which appeared to me at the first. [2] And I saw in the vision; and when I saw, I was in Susa the capital,[1] which is in the province of Elam. And I saw in the vision, and I was at the Ulai canal.
[3] I raised my eyes and saw, and behold, a ram standing on the bank of the canal. It had two horns, and both horns were high, but one was higher than the other, and the higher one came up last. [4] I saw the ram charging westward and northward and southward. No beast could stand before him, and there was no one who could rescue from his power. He did as he pleased and became great.

[5] As I was considering, behold, a male goat came from the west across the face of the whole earth, without touching the ground. And the goat had a conspicuous horn between his eyes. [6] He came to the ram with the two horns, which I had seen standing on the bank of the canal, and he ran at him in his powerful wrath. [7] I saw him come close to the ram, and he was enraged against him and struck the ram and broke his two horns. And the ram had no power to stand before him, but he cast him down to the ground and trampled on him. And there was no one who could rescue the ram from his power. [8] Then the goat became exceedingly great, but when he was strong, the great horn was broken, and instead of it there came up four conspicuous horns toward the four winds of heaven.

[9] Out of one of them came a little horn, which grew exceedingly great toward the south, toward the east, and toward the glorious land. [10] It grew great, even to the host of heaven. And some of the host and some[2] of the stars it threw down to the ground and trampled on them. [11] It became great, even as great as the Prince of the host. And the regular burnt offering was taken away from him, and the place of his sanctuary was overthrown.
[12] And a host will be given over to it together with the regular burnt offering because of transgression,[3] and it will throw truth to the ground, and it will act and prosper. [13] Then I heard a holy one speaking, and another holy one said to the one who spoke, “For how long is the vision concerning the regular burnt offering, the transgression that makes desolate, and the giving over of the sanctuary and host to be trampled underfoot?” 14 † And he said to me,[4] “For 2,300 evenings and mornings. Then the sanctuary shall be restored to its rightful state.”

The Interpretation of the Vision

15 ‡ † When I, Daniel, had seen the vision, I sought to understand it. And behold, there stood before me one having the appearance of a man. 16 † And I heard a man's voice between the banks of the Ulai, and it called, "Gabriel, make this man understand the vision." 17 † So he came near where I stood.
And when he came, I was frightened and fell on my face. But he said to me, "Understand, O son of man, that the vision is for the time of the end."

18 † And when he had spoken to me, I fell into a deep sleep with my face to the ground. But he touched me and made me stand up. 19 † He said, "Behold, I will make known to you what shall be at the latter end of the indignation, for it refers to the appointed time of the end. 20 ‡ As for the ram that you saw with the two horns, these are the kings of Media and Persia.
21 † And the goat[1] is the king of Greece. And the great horn between his eyes is the first king. 22 † As for the horn that was broken, in place of which four others arose, four kingdoms shall arise from his[2] nation, but not with his power. 23 † And at the latter end of their kingdom, when the transgressors have reached their limit, a king of bold face, one who understands riddles, shall arise. 24 † His power shall be great—but not by his own power; and he shall cause fearful destruction and shall succeed in what he does, and destroy mighty men and the people who are the saints. 25 † By his cunning he shall make deceit prosper under his hand, and in his own mind he shall become great. Without warning he shall destroy many. And he shall even rise up against the Prince of princes, and he shall be broken—but by no human hand. 26 † The vision of the evenings and the mornings that has been told is true, but seal up the vision, for it refers to many days from now."

27 † And I, Daniel, was overcome and lay sick for some days. Then I rose and went about the king's business, but I was appalled by the vision and did not understand it.

Daniel’s Prayer for His People

9 [1] In the first year of Darius the son of Ahasuerus, by descent a Mede, who was made king over the realm of the Chaldeans— [2] in the first year of his reign, I, Daniel, perceived in the books the number of years that, according to the word of the Lord to Jeremiah the prophet, must pass before the end of the desolations of Jerusalem, namely, seventy years.

[3] Then I turned my face to the Lord God, seeking him by prayer and pleas for mercy with fasting and sackcloth and ashes. [4] I prayed to the Lord my God and made confession, saying, “O Lord, the great and awesome God, who keeps covenant and steadfast love with those who love him and keep his commandments, [5] we have sinned and done wrong and acted wickedly and rebelled, turning aside from your commandments and rules. [6] We have not listened to your servants the prophets, who spoke in your name to our kings, our princes, and our fathers, and to all the people of the land. [7] To you, O Lord, belongs righteousness, but to us open shame, as at this day, to the men of Judah, to the inhabitants of Jerusalem, and to all Israel, those who are near and those who are far away, in all the lands to which you have driven them, because of the treachery that they have committed against you. [8] To us, O Lord, belongs open shame, to our kings, to our princes, and to our fathers, because we have sinned against you. [9] To the Lord our God belong mercy and forgiveness, for we have rebelled against him [10] and have not obeyed the voice of the Lord our God by walking in his laws, which he set before us by his servants the prophets. [11] All Israel has transgressed your law and turned aside, refusing to obey your voice. And the curse and oath that are written in the Law of Moses the servant of God have been poured out upon us, because we have sinned against him. [12] He has confirmed his words, which he spoke against us and against our rulers who ruled us,[1] by bringing upon us a great calamity. For under the whole heaven there has not been done anything like what has been done against Jerusalem. [13] As it is written in the Law of Moses, all this calamity has come upon us; yet we have not entreated the favor of the Lord our God, turning from our iniquities and gaining insight by your truth.

14 †Therefore the Lord has kept ready the calamity and has brought it upon us, for the Lord our God is righteous in all the works that he has done, and we have not obeyed his voice. 15 †And now, O Lord our God, who brought your people out of the land of Egypt with a mighty hand, and have made a name for yourself, as at this day, we have sinned, we have done wickedly.

16 ‡†“O Lord, according to all your righteous acts, let your anger and your wrath turn away from your city Jerusalem, your holy hill, because for our sins, and for the iniquities of our fathers, Jerusalem and your people have become a byword among all who are around us. 17 †Now therefore, O our God, listen to the prayer of your servant and to his pleas for mercy, and for your own sake, O Lord,[2] make your face to shine upon your sanctuary, which is desolate. 18 †O my God, incline your ear and hear. Open your eyes and see our desolations, and the city that is called by your name. For we do not present our pleas before you because of our righteousness, but because of your great mercy. 19 †O Lord, hear; O Lord, forgive. O Lord, pay attention and act. Delay not, for your own sake, O my God, because your city and your people are called by your name.”

Gabriel Brings an Answer

20 ‡ ‡ While I was speaking and praying, confessing my sin and the sin of my people Israel, and presenting my plea before the Lord my God for the holy hill of my God, 21 † while I was speaking in prayer, the man Gabriel, whom I had seen in the vision at the first, came to me in swift flight at the time of the evening sacrifice. 22 He made me understand, speaking with me and saying, “O Daniel, I have now come out to give you insight and understanding. 23 † At the beginning of your pleas for mercy a word went out, and I have come to tell it to you, for you are greatly loved. Therefore consider the word and understand the vision.

The Seventy Weeks

24 ‡‡‡“Seventy weeks[1] are decreed about your people and your holy city, to finish the transgression, to put an end to sin, and to atone for iniquity, to bring in everlasting righteousness, to seal both vision and prophet, and to anoint a most holy place.[2] 25 †Know therefore and understand that from the going out of the word to restore and build Jerusalem to the coming of an anointed one, a prince, there shall be seven weeks. Then for sixty-two weeks it shall be built again with squares and moat, but in a troubled time.
26 †And after the sixty-two weeks, an anointed one shall be cut off and shall have nothing. And the people of the prince who is to come shall destroy the city and the sanctuary. Its[1] end shall come with a flood, and to the end there shall be war. Desolations are decreed. 27 †And he shall make a strong covenant with many for one week,[2] and for half of the week he shall put an end to sacrifice and offering. And on the wing of abominations shall come one who makes desolate, until the decreed end is poured out on the desolator.”

Daniel's Terrifying Vision of a Man

10 [1]†In the third year of Cyrus king of Persia a word was revealed to Daniel, who was named Belteshazzar. And the word was true, and it was a great conflict.[3] And he understood the word and had understanding of the vision.

[2]†In those days I, Daniel, was mourning for three weeks. [3]†I ate no delicacies, no meat or wine entered my mouth, nor did I anoint myself at all, for the full three weeks. [4]†On the twenty-fourth day of the first month, as I was standing on the bank of the great river (that is, the Tigris) [5]†I lifted up my eyes and looked, and behold, a man clothed in linen, with a belt of fine gold from Uphaz around his waist. [6]†His body was like beryl, his face like the appearance of lightning, his eyes like flaming torches, his arms and legs like the gleam of burnished bronze, and the sound of his words like the sound of a multitude. [7]†And I, Daniel, alone saw the vision, for the men who were with me did not see the vision, but a great trembling fell upon them, and they fled to hide themselves. [8]†So I was left alone and saw this great vision, and no strength was left in me. My radiant appearance was fearfully changed,[4] and I retained no strength. [9]†Then I heard the sound of his words, and as I heard the sound of his words, I fell on my face in deep sleep with my face to the ground.

[10]†And behold, a hand touched me and set me trembling on my hands and knees. [11]†And he said to me, "O Daniel, man greatly loved, understand the words that I speak to you, and stand upright, for now I have been sent to you." And when he had spoken this word to me, I stood up trembling.
[12]†Then he said to me, "Fear not, Daniel, for from the first day that you set your heart to understand and humbled yourself before your God, your words have been heard, and I have come because of your words. [13]†The prince of the kingdom of Persia withstood me twenty-one days, but Michael, one of the chief princes, came to help me, for I was left there with the kings of Persia, [14]†and came to make you understand what is to happen to your people in the latter days. For the vision is for days yet to come."

15 †When he had spoken to me according to these words, I turned my face toward the ground and was mute. 16 †And behold, one in the likeness of the children of man touched my lips. Then I opened my mouth and spoke. I said to him who stood before me, “O my lord, by reason of the vision pains have come upon me, and I retain no strength. 17How can my lord’s servant talk with my lord? For now no strength remains in me, and no breath is left in me.”
18Again one having the appearance of a man touched me and strengthened me. 19 †And he said, “O man greatly loved, fear not, peace be with you; be strong and of good courage.” And as he spoke to me, I was strengthened and said, “Let my lord speak, for you have strengthened me.” 20 †Then he said, “Do you know why I have come to you? But now I will return to fight against the prince of Persia; and when I go out, behold, the prince of Greece will come. 21 †But I will tell you what is inscribed in the book of truth: there is none who contends by my side against these except Michael, your prince.

The Kings of the South and the North

11 [1]†“And as for me, in the first year of Darius the Mede, I stood up to confirm and strengthen him.

[2]†“And now I will show you the truth. Behold, three more kings shall arise in Persia, and a fourth shall be far richer than all of them. And when he has become strong through his riches, he shall stir up all against the kingdom of Greece. [3]†Then a mighty king shall arise, who shall rule with great dominion and do as he wills. [4]†And as soon as he has arisen, his kingdom shall be broken and divided toward the four winds of heaven, but not to his posterity, nor according to the authority with which he ruled, for his kingdom shall be plucked up and go to others besides these.

[5]†“Then the king of the south shall be strong, but one of his princes shall be stronger than he and shall rule, and his authority shall be a great authority. [6]†After some years they shall make an alliance, and the daughter of the king of the south shall come to the king of the north to make an agreement. But she shall not retain the strength of her arm, and he and his arm shall not endure, but she shall be given up, and her attendants, he who fathered her, and he who supported[1] her in those times.

[7]†“And from a branch from her roots one shall arise in his place. He shall come against the army and enter the fortress of the king of the north, and he shall deal with them and shall prevail. [8]†He shall also carry off to Egypt their gods with their metal images and their precious vessels of silver and gold, and for some years he shall refrain from attacking the king of the north. [9]Then the latter shall come into the realm of the king of the south but shall return to his own land.

[10]†“His sons shall wage war and assemble a multitude of great forces, which shall keep coming and overflow and pass through, and again shall carry the war as far as his fortress. [11]Then the king of the south, moved with rage, shall come out and fight against the king of the north. And he shall raise a great multitude, but it shall be given into his hand. [12]And when the multitude is taken away, his heart shall be exalted, and he shall cast down tens of thousands, but he shall not prevail. [13]For the king of the north shall again raise a multitude, greater than the first. And after some years[1] he shall come on with a great army and abundant supplies.

14 †“In those times many shall rise against the king of the south, and the violent among your own people shall lift themselves up in order to fulfill the vision, but they shall fail. 15 †Then the king of the north shall come and throw up siegeworks and take a well-fortified city. And the forces of the south shall not stand, or even his best troops, for there shall be no strength to stand. 16 †But he who comes against him shall do as he wills, and none shall stand before him. And he shall stand in the glorious land, with destruction in his hand. 17 †He shall set his face to come with the strength of his whole kingdom, and he shall bring terms of an agreement and perform them. He shall give him the daughter of women to destroy the kingdom,[2] but it shall not stand or be to his advantage. 18 †Afterward he shall turn his face to the coastlands and shall capture many of them, but a commander shall put an end to his insolence. Indeed,[3] he shall turn his insolence back upon him. 19 †Then he shall turn his face back toward the fortresses of his own land, but he shall stumble and fall, and shall not be found.

20 †“Then shall arise in his place one who shall send an exactor of tribute for the glory of the kingdom. But within a few days he shall be broken, neither in anger nor in battle. 21 †In his place shall arise a contemptible person to whom royal majesty has not been given. He shall come in without warning and obtain the kingdom by flatteries. 22 †Armies shall be utterly swept away before him and broken, even the prince of the covenant. 23 †And from the time that an alliance is made with him he shall act deceitfully, and he shall become strong with a small people. 24 Without warning he shall come into the richest parts[4] of the province, and he shall do what neither his fathers nor his fathers’ fathers have done, scattering among them plunder, spoil, and goods. He shall devise plans against strongholds, but only for a time. 25 †And he shall stir up his power and his heart against the king of the south with a great army. And the king of the south shall wage war with an exceedingly great and mighty army, but he shall not stand, for plots shall be devised against him. 26 †Even those who eat his food shall break him. His army shall be swept away, and many shall fall down slain. 27 †And as for the two kings, their hearts shall be bent on doing evil. They shall speak lies at the same table, but to no avail, for the end is yet to be at the time appointed. [28]†And he shall return to his land with great wealth, but his heart shall be set against the holy covenant. And he shall work his will and return to his own land.

[29]†"At the time appointed he shall return and come into the south, but it shall not be this time as it was before. [30]†For ships of Kittim shall come against him, and he shall be afraid and withdraw, and shall turn back and be enraged and take action against the holy covenant. He shall turn back and pay attention to those who forsake the holy covenant. [31]†Forces from him shall appear and profane the temple and fortress, and shall take away the regular burnt offering. And they shall set up the abomination that makes desolate. [32]†He shall seduce with flattery those who violate the covenant, but the people who know their God shall stand firm and take action. [33]†And the wise among the people shall make many understand, though for some days they shall stumble by sword and flame, by captivity and plunder. [34]When they stumble, they shall receive a little help. And many shall join themselves to them with flattery, [35]†and some of the wise shall stumble, so that they may be refined, purified, and made white, until the time of the end, for it still awaits the appointed time.

[36]†† "And the king shall do as he wills. He shall exalt himself and magnify himself above every god, and shall speak astonishing things against the God of gods. He shall prosper till the indignation is accomplished; for what is decreed shall be done. [37]† He shall pay no attention to the gods of his fathers, or to the one beloved by women. He shall not pay attention to any other god, for he shall magnify himself above all. [38]†He shall honor the god of fortresses instead of these. A god whom his fathers did not know he shall honor with gold and silver, with precious stones and costly gifts. [39]† He shall deal with the strongest fortresses with the help of a foreign god. Those who acknowledge him he shall load with honor. He shall make them rulers over many and shall divide the land for a price.[1] [40]†"At the time of the end, the king of the south shall attack[2] him, but the king of the north shall rush upon him like a whirlwind, with chariots and horsemen, and with many ships. And he shall come into countries and shall overflow and pass through. [41]†He shall come into the glorious land. And tens of thousands shall fall, but these shall be delivered out of his hand:

Edom and Moab and the main part of the Ammonites. [42]He shall stretch out his hand against the countries, and the land of Egypt shall not escape. [43]†He shall become ruler of the treasures of gold and of silver, and all the precious things of Egypt, and the Libyans and the Cushites shall follow in his train. [44]†But news from the east and the north shall alarm him, and he shall go out with great fury to destroy and devote many to destruction. [45]†And he shall pitch his palatial tents between the sea and the glorious holy mountain. Yet he shall come to his end, with none to help him.

The Time of the End

12 [1]†“At that time shall arise Michael, the great prince who has charge of your people. And there shall be a time of trouble, such as never has been since there was a nation till that time. But at that time your people shall be delivered, everyone whose name shall be found written in the book.
[2]†And many of those who sleep in the dust of the earth shall awake, some to everlasting life, and some to shame and everlasting contempt. [3]†And those who are wise shall shine like the brightness of the sky above;[1] and those who turn many to righteousness, like the stars forever and ever. [4]†But you, Daniel, shut up the words and seal the book, until the time of the end. Many shall run to and fro, and knowledge shall increase.”

[5]†Then I, Daniel, looked, and behold, two others stood, one on this bank of the stream and one on that bank of the stream. [6]†And someone said to the man clothed in linen, who was above the waters of the stream,[2] “How long shall it be till the end of these wonders?” [7]†And I heard the man clothed in linen, who was above the waters of the stream; he raised his right hand and his left hand toward heaven and swore by him who lives forever that it would be for a time, times, and half a time, and that when the shattering of the power of the holy people comes to an end all these things would be finished. [8]‡I heard, but I did not understand. Then I said, “O my lord, what shall be the outcome of these things?” [9]†He said, “Go your way, Daniel, for the words are shut up and sealed until the time of the end. [10]†Many shall purify themselves and make themselves white and be refined, but the wicked shall act wickedly. And none of the wicked shall understand, but those who are wise shall understand. [11]‡And from the time that the regular burnt offering is taken away and the abomination that makes desolate is set up, there shall be 1,290 days. [12]Blessed is he who waits and arrives at the 1,335 days. [13]†But go your way till the end. And you shall rest and shall stand in your allotted place at the end of the days.”

Introduction to Daniel

Reading Daniel

He sits up suddenly, drenched with sweat. His heart pounds as he tries to catch his breath. The events of his dream seemed so real and yet so very strange. Though moats, walls, and hundreds of guards surround his bedchamber, they cannot secure him from his dreams.

The prophet Daniel recounts dreams of kings and kingdoms. He shows how no ruler on earth is out of reach of the God of heaven. The hand of the Most High measures, weighs, and moves the hearts of men for the sake of His people. By grace He establishes an everlasting kingdom through His Anointed One, Jesus, the Christ (7:13–14; 9:24, 26).

Luther on Daniel

Daniel came to Babylon some years before the destruction of Jerusalem, during the reign of King Jehoiakim. King Nebuchadnezzar had had Jehoiakim captured and bound, and would have brought him to Babylon too, had he not changed his mind and let him remain. As it was, Nebuchadnezzar brought some of the best people back with him (including Daniel) as well as vessels from the temple in Jerusalem. We can read all about this in II Kings 24, and in II Chronicles 36….

From this book [of Daniel] we see what a splendid, great man Daniel was in the sight of both God and the world. First in the sight of God, he above all other prophets had this special prophecy to give. That is, he not only prophesies of Christ, like the others, but also reckons, determines, and fixes with certainty the times and years. Moreover he arranges the kingdoms with their doings so precisely and well, in the right succession down to the fixed time of Christ, that one cannot miss the coming of Christ unless one does it wilfully….

In the sight of the world, too, Daniel was a splendid and great man. For we see here that he rules the first two kingdoms as their chief prefect. It is as though God were to say, "I must provide leaders [Leute] for these kingdoms, even if I have to let my Jerusalem and my people be destroyed in order to do so." Though Daniel was never a king, and never had great wealth or honor out of it, nevertheless, he did possess and perform the functions, duties, and offices of a king. That is the way the world operates: those who work most about the place have the least, and those who do nothing get the most; in the words of the gospel saying, "One sows and another reaps" (John 4[:37]). Indeed, what is worse, he had to take hatred, envy, perils, and persecution as his reward for it all, for that is the reward with which the world is accustomed to repay all services and benefits.

However this does not hurt Daniel. He is the dearer to God because of it, and God rewards him all the more bountifully, looking upon Daniel as king in Babylon and Persia. For God reckons and judges according to the deed and fruit, not according to the person and name. Daniel is therefore, in deed the true king of Babylon and Persia, even though he lacks the royal person and name, and gets out of it no wealth but only unhappiness and all kinds of peril. Behold how God is able to console and to honor his captive Jews [Judeans], by taking the son of a townsman from destroyed Jerusalem and making him a twofold emperor, in Babylon and Persia. In short, among all the children of Abraham, none was so highly exalted in the world as Daniel. Joseph was indeed great in Egypt with King Pharaoh. David and Solomon were great in Israel. But they were all little kings and lords compared with the kings of Babylon and Persia; and it was among these that Daniel was the chief ruler. He miraculously converted them to God, and doubtless produced great fruit among the people in both empires; through him they came to a knowledge of God and were saved. This is well indicated by the documents and decrees of these emperors that the God of Daniel was to be honored in every land (Daniel 2 and 6).

This Daniel we commend to the reading of all good Christians, to whom he is comforting and useful in these wretched, last times. But to the wicked he is of no use, as he himself says at the end [12:10], “The wicked shall remain wicked and shall not understand.” For the > prophecies of Daniel, and others like them, are not written simply that men may know history and the tribulations that are to come, and thus satisfy their curiosity, as with a news report, but in order that the righteous shall be encouraged and made joyful, and strengthened in faith and hope and patience. For here the righteous see and hear that their misery shall have an end, that they are to be freed from sins, death, the devil, and all evil—a freedom for which they yearn—and be brought into heaven, to Christ, into his blessed, everlasting kingdom. This is how Christ too, in Luke 21[:28], comforts his own by means of the terrible news, saying, "When you shall see these things, look up and raise your heads, because your redemption is near," etc. For this reason we see that here too Daniel always ends all his visions and dreams, however terrible, with joy, namely, with Christ's kingdom and advent. It is on account of this advent, the last and most important thing, that these visions and dreams were given, interpreted, and written.

> Whoever would read them with profit must not depend entirely on the histories or stick exclusively to history, but rather refresh and comfort his heart with the promised and certain advent of our Savior Jesus Christ, who is the blessed and joyful redemption from this vale of misery and wretchedness. To this may he help us, our dear Lord and Savior, to whom with the Father and the Holy Spirit be praise for ever and ever. Amen. (AE 35:294, 313–16)

Challenges for Readers

Daniel and Dan'el. The Hebrew name Daniel is found outside the Book of Daniel. The earliest example of the Hebrew name refers to a son of David (1Ch 3:1). The name also appears in Ezr 8:2; Ne 10:6; Ezk 14:14, 20; 28:3. Based on Ezekiel's heroic characterization of Daniel, some critical scholars suggest the prophet Daniel is actually named after a Canaanite hero Dan'el, who is described in Ugaritic literature written c 1400 BC. It is interesting to note that Ezekiel listed Daniel with two non-Israelites (Noah and Job). Critical scholars use this association to suggest that the prophet Daniel is merely a legendary figure and not a real person. However, one should note that the biblical prophet served in non-Israelite administrations. Also, all the biblical passages referenced above were written during or near the time of the prophet Daniel's life, as Scripture describes it. Associating Daniel with Dan'el is unwarranted.

Different Texts of Daniel. The social and political upheaval of the Time between the Testaments (pp 1553–56) created confusion among Jews, who were switching from Hebrew and Aramaic as their primary languages to Greek. The Hebrew/Aramaic text of Daniel exhibits great unity (see chart, p 1395) and is much shorter than later Greek and Latin translations. The reliability of the Hebrew/Aramaic text was confirmed by the discovery of portions of all 12 chapters of Daniel at Qumran (fragments dating from the second century BC to mid-first century AD). However, early Christian scholar Jerome noted, "The Septuagint version of Daniel the prophet is not read by the Churches of our Lord and Savior. They use Theodotion's version…. This one thing I can affirm—that [the LXX] differs widely from the original [Hebrew], and is rightly rejected" (*NPNF*2 6:492). The LXX and editions influenced by it included small changes in their versions of Daniel and also three larger passages, which were originally independent compositions but which Greek scribes merged with Daniel: the Prayer of Azariah and the Song of the Three Holy Children (between Dn 3:23 and 3:24 in LXX and Vulg); Susanna (Dn 13 in LXX and Vulg); and Bel and the Dragon (Dn 14 in LXX and Vulg). Theodosius placed Susanna before the Book of Daniel, and Bel and the Dragon after the Book of Daniel. While working on the German Bible, Luther investigated these issues. He used the Hebrew/Aramaic text of Daniel and placed the three large additions to Daniel in the Apocrypha. For Luther's comments on the additions, see pp 1562–64.

Apocalyptic. Daniel's style is often described as apocalypsis (Greek, "revelation"), a category of literature defined by modern scholars as writings that include dreams or visions, unusual symbolic imagery (e.g., the beasts in Dn 7:1–8), number symbolism, and interest in end-times events. Other proposed examples of this style in the Bible are Is 24–27; Ezk 38–39; Jl 2:28–3:21; Zec 9–14; and the Book of Revelation. Critical scholars often regard apocalyptic style as late in development and thus propose late dates for works that include this style (note the circular reasoning). However, one may readily compare the style of apocalyptic literature with the accounts of dreams and their interpretations in Gn 37; 40–41; Jgs 7. The interpretation of dreams has a long history in biblical and ancient Near Eastern literature (see p 74; see also note, Dn 2:2). So this feature of Daniel cannot be used to prove a late date for the Book.

Judeans and Jews. The term "Judean" describes a member of the Israelite tribe of Judah. Descendants of the Judeans formed the religious ideals of latter Judaism. See note, Ezr 4:12; see also pp 1905–6. In Luther's German writings cited for Daniel, one finds Jüden, which usually refers to the people of ancient Judah and should not be confused with later practitioners of the Jewish religion.

Blessings for Readers

As you read Daniel, take to heart the example of this great leader of God's people who devoted himself to God's Word amid the disappointments and temptations of exile. Beware of overinterpreting the symbolism of Daniel's prophecies, a mistake that has led many people into error. Instead, cling to this general message: your God reigns, and He works to deliver you from evil, especially in the gift of His Son, Jesus, the Anointed One (9:24–26).

OUTLINE

Daniel is particularly easy to outline. Each chapter is a separate section. The only exception is the last section, which covers chs 10–12. In chs 1–6, Daniel describes what happens to him in the third person ("he"). In chs 7–12, Daniel describes what happens to him in the first person ("I").

I. Judeans Steadfast in Practicing Their Faith (ch 1)
II. Nebuchadnezzar's Dream: Four Kingdoms and the Establishment of the Kingdom of God (ch 2)
III. God's Faithful Servants Are Rescued from Death (ch 3)
IV. Nebuchadnezzar Judged for His Arrogance against God (ch 4)
V. Belshazzar Judged for His Arrogance against God (ch 5)
VI. God's Faithful Servant Is Rescued from Death (ch 6)
VII. Daniel's Vision: Four Kingdoms and the Establishment of the Kingdom of God (ch 7)
VIII. Daniel's Vision concerning the Post-Babylonian Kingdoms (ch 8)
IX. Daniel's Prayer and Vision concerning Jerusalem during the Post-Babylonian Kingdoms (ch 9)
X. Daniel's Vision concerning the Post-Babylonian Kingdoms (chs 10–12)

These sections are organized in two interlocking structures (chiasms); see pp 777–78. This thoughtful literary development attests to the Book's unity.

Simple Ways to Witness

A thorough course on evangelism is great for every Christian to take (see pp 1425–26). But to get started as a witness, all you need to know is the Apostles' Creed and a few things to say about matters of faith. The creed provides a simple outline.

I Believe in God the Father

Add to your conversations the following (or similar) simple statements:

"God has given us a beautiful day/night."

"I'll pray for you."

"God bless your day."

These are great ways to start, continue, or end a conversation. People do not take offense when you use such expressions. So share these thoughts with confidence. When you are comfortable doing so, follow up with a question:

"Can we talk about matters of faith?"

For most people, this is a nonthreatening question because it simply invites them to share their thoughts about God and faith. You are not requiring them to know a lot, so they will not feel quizzed. You are not promising to have all the answers, so you do not need to worry that you will say something wrong.

After you have asked this question, just listen. Be cordial and respectful, learning about what they believe and have experienced. Polite conversation allows that, if they share their thoughts about matters of faith and you have listened, you may share your thoughts about matters of faith with them. They will most likely listen. You can talk about your church, praying to God, or how much faith means to you. Most people are quite comfortable with such conversation.

I Believe in Jesus Christ

You have not really borne witness as a Christian until you have spoken with someone about the Lord Jesus Christ. Any religious person might talk about God or a religious upbringing. But Christians believe in and talk about Jesus Christ. Begin this important conversation with a simple question:

"What do you believe about Jesus Christ?"

As before, just listen to the answer. Try to understand where they are coming from and what they know about Jesus. If they seem uncomfortable, apologize for making them uncomfortable and suggest that perhaps you could talk another time. If they seem comfortable, wait for an opportunity to share what you know and believe about Jesus, such as "Jesus is my Savior." Or, "I pray to Jesus when I'm facing challenges in life." Let the conversation develop naturally from there. Once again, you do not have to have all the answers. Just share what you know, what you understand. If they ask questions you cannot answer, say, "I don't know about that. I'd like to talk with my pastor/Bible teacher about that. Okay?" Follow up later.

I Believe in the Holy Spirit and the Holy Christian Church

The Holy Spirit makes people Christians and brings them into the fellowship of the Church through Holy Baptism and God's Word. Many people today believe they can be Christians without the Church. But Jesus clearly taught that His followers would be part of the Church, and He taught His disciples how to care for one another in a community of faith.

Follow up your conversation by simply inviting them to church, Bible class, Vacation Bible School, or any event that brings them into contact with other Christians. Surprisingly, most people say that they would attend a church service if someone invited them. Pray that the Holy Spirit would strengthen you as a witness and pray for the persons to whom you witness. If they come to church with you, introduce them to others who may share their interests or experiences so that they can bear witness to them as well. It is really that simple.

To grow more confident and comfortable as a witness, read Milton I. Rudnick, How to Share Christ Confidently (St. Louis: Concordia, 2009).

Maturing in Faith and Service

As the Lord grants you faith and new life in Holy Baptism, He likewise moves you through the Gospel to desire growth in faith and in service. The apostle Paul explains, "It is God who works in you, both to will and to work for His good pleasure" (Php 2:13). Also, "we are His workmanship, created in Christ Jesus for good works, which God prepared beforehand, that we should walk in them" (Eph 2:10).

Because The Lutheran Study Bible will be an important tool for education in many Lutheran congregations, this article will provide you with some suggestions for courses of study. The suggestions are built on foundational passages of Christian education: (1) Moses' call to love the Lord (Dt 6:4–7), (2) the Mission Psalm (Ps 145:4–13), (3) Christ's call to confess the faith (Mt 10:32–33), (4) Christ's mandate to make disciples (Mt 28:19–20), and (5) Luther's Preface to the Small Catechism (see pp xxxiii–xxxv).

Basic Goals for Every Lutheran

For a thorough grounding in the Christian faith and for continuity with the expression of that faith in Lutheran congregations, every Lutheran should study the following topics:

Bible/Doctrine: Luther's Small Catechism as a Summary of the Bible Christian Piety: Daily Prayer and Weekly Worship
Works of Love: How to Share the Faith with Family and Friends

For these purposes, Luther's Small Catechism with Explanation, Lutheran Service Book, and other devotional resources will be most helpful to you. As you grow in faith, you will naturally also grow in the desire to share Christ's peace and joy with others (2Th 1:3). You should receive intentional training in how to do so (e.g., friendship evangelism; see also "Simple Ways to Witness," p 1425).

According to Luther's explanation of the Third Commandment, the Lord calls you to grow in love for God's Word and to gladly hear and learn it each week. The New Testament clearly expresses this truth by emphasizing that Christians mature in the faith (1Co 14:20; Eph 4:11–13; Php 3:12–16; Col 1:28; 4:12; Heb 6:1). They long to be like Christ, who declares them righteous by grace through faith (Php 3:8–11).

Below are study topics that will foster your growth in the Word, sincere piety, works of love, and appreciation of your heritage. This chart may serve as a guide for comprehensive parish education. Topics at the top of the list should be viewed as foundational for topics farther down the list. (E.g., Ezk, Dn, and Rv are more difficult to interpret and apply.) Congregational leaders should adapt the course offerings to the needs of their congregations.

Studies for continued growth should have greater depth. However, such studies should not be viewed as surpassing the basics, since a Christian never outgrows the catechism (LC Preface). Courses under the topic "Works of Love" should include activities. Congregations may wish to thank God publicly as their members reach goals and grow in faith and service.

Life Goals

Sound goals that Lutherans may hope to reach during their lifetime include the following:

Living and acting as faithful witnesses to the Gospel

Supporting the growth of their congregation

Reading through the entire Holy Bible and the Apocrypha

Reading through the entire Book of Concord

Rev. Dr. C. F. W. Walther noted that some Christians might say to themselves, "After [working] all day, I can't sit down and study in the evening. If I read my morning and evening devotions, that's enough." Certainly the challenges of daily life will collide with our growth and service as believers. Certainly our daily prayers have ongoing importance for us. But Walther also noted, "No, that is not enough! The Lord doesn't want us to remain children, who are blown to and fro by every wind of doctrine; instead of that, He wants us to grow in knowledge so that we can teach others" (cited in Concordia, pp xv–xvi).

As the Lord grants you strength and opportunity, pursue these good goals, not because you must attain them but because the Lord's mercy and love moves you to do so. He will help you set reasonable personal goals and grant His Spirit so that you may attain them. In all things, be assured of His surpassing love for you in Christ Jesus, who has taken away your sins and made you God's own child.

The Ptolemies and the Seleucids

Many names for the rulers listed here appear in the notes for Dn 11. This diagram will help you see the relationships between them.

Diagram from Andrew E. Steinmann, Daniel, CC (St. Louis: Concordia, 2008), 521.

The Seventy Weeks (Dn 9:24–27)

The traditional Christian interpretation of 9:24–27 is that the Messiah in 9:25–26 is Jesus Christ and that the seventy weeks culminate in the first advent of Christ.

A typological messianic interpretation held by notable Lutherans of the nineteenth and twentieth centuries (Klieforth, Keil, Leupold) is that the vision covers the entire time between the time of Daniel and the second coming of Christ.

Charts from Andrew E. Steinmann, Daniel, CC (St. Louis: Concordia, 2008), 454.

The Messiah's Enthronement

Daniel's vision climaxes with the installation of the Son of Man as eternal king. The vision is essentially ended with 7:14. Therefore, at this point, it is appropriate to compare the enthronement of the Son of Man in Daniel 7 with other passages in the OT that speak of the enthronement of the Messiah.

Two psalms are particularly relevant, and they follow much the same pattern as Daniel's vision: Psalms 2 and 110. Both of these psalms speak of the decree of God concerning the Messiah's installation as king. While not every element in Daniel is present in these two psalms nor is every element in the psalms present in Daniel, these three passages present complementary pictures of the enthronement of the Messiah. Jesus explicitly connects Psalm 110 and Daniel 7 in Mt 26:64 and Mk 14:62. The heavenly vision of Christ shown to Stephen at his martyrdom (Acts 7:55–56) probably reflects a combination of Psalm 110 and Daniel 7.

THE MESSIAH'S ENTHRONEMENT IN DANIEL 7 AND PSALMS 2 AND 110

Daniel 7	Psalm 2	Psalm 110
A. Four beasts (nations) emerge from the sea to rule oppressively over God's people before the advent of the Messiah (7:1–8, 17, 19–21, 23–25).	A. Nations oppose God and his Messiah (2:1–3).
B. The Ancient of Days convenes his heavenly court (7:8–10).
C. Decree of the heavenly court: the Son of Man is installed as eternal king over all nations (7:13–14).	C. God's decree: God mocks the rebels and installs his Messiah as King to rule the nations (2:4–9).	C. God's decree: God installs David's Lord as King at his right hand to rule over his enemies (110:1–3). D. God's decree: the Messiah is Priest forever (110:4).
E. Decree of the heavenly court: the beasts are shorn of power and slain (7:11–12, 26).	E. Admonition to the nations: serve the Lord and kiss the Son or you will perish (2:10–12a).	E. The Lord and his Messiah crush kings and fill nations with corpses (110:5–6).
F. The Ancient of Days comes and decrees in favor of his saints; they receive the kingdom for eternity (7:18, 22, 27).	F. Those who take refuge in the Son are blessed (2:12b).

Study Notes

DANIEL—NOTE ON Ch 1 Luth: "The first chapter brings us a fine example from Daniel's life. We see how holy, how God-fearing, and how possessed he was of a great and noble faith in God; and all this in the very midst of the wild and pagan life and the abominable offenses which he had to listen to and look upon every day at Babylon. In spite of it all, he remained firm and steadfast, and conquered all these temptations in his heart. For this reason there follows almost immediately [the account of] how God showed him great mercy, first highly honoring him in things of the spirit by granting him wisdom and understanding beyond that of other men, and then by elevating him also in worldly affairs and doing nothing but great and mighty deeds and miracles through him. God did this to show us all how much he loves and cherishes those who fear and trust in him; with such an impressive example he prods us in a kindly way to faith and the fear of God" (AE 35:294–95).

DANIEL—NOTE ON 1:1 third year ... of Jehoiakim. Ruled 609–598 BC. In 605 BC, Nebuchadnezzar defeated Pharaoh Neco of Egypt at Carchemish (Jer 46:2) and took control of Judah. Nebuchadnezzar. Also spelled "Nebuchadrezzar" (see ESV note, Jer 21:2). besieged. Cf 2Ki 24. Jer 27–28 also provides some context for the Babylonian attacks.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 1:2 Lord gave Jehoiakim … into his hand. Jehoiakim was subjected to Nebuchadnezzar as punishment for his sins (2Ki 23:35–24:1). vessels of the house of God. Made by Solomon for temple worship (2Ch 4:19–22). See diagram, p 541. Shinar. Archaic name for land between the Euphrates and Tigris rivers. his god. Chief Babylonian god, named Marduk or Bel (cf Jer 50:2; see note, Is 46:1). treasury. Ancient temples often doubled as banks. See notes, 1Ch 18:11; 26:20–28.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 1:3 Ashpenaz, his chief eunuch. Important Babylonian officials were often eunuchs. See p 228. royal family. Jehoiakim's family. nobility. Judean government officials.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 1:4 youths without blemish. Nebuchadnezzar sought first-rate Israelites to educate for three years (v 5). stand in the king's palace. Once assimilated, well-trained servants could advise the king (vv 5, 19) regarding the governance of their home territory and their conquered countrymen. Chaldeans. Ancient name for Babylonians (Gn 11:28); their language was Akkadian, written with cuneiform script. Intellectually elite culture in the Babylonian Empire. See note, Ezk 12:13.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 1:5 food ... wine. See note, v 8. stand before the king. See note, v 4.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 1:6 Names of these youths all end with "el" (Hbr 'elohim, "God") or "iah" (Hbr yahweh, "LORD") and so proclaim the God of Israel. See p 1227. tribe of Judah. From which Jesus would come (Mt 1:2, 16).

DANIEL—NOTE ON 1:7 chief of the eunuchs. See p 228. Belteshazzar. Daniel's new name referred to the god Bel (akin to Hbr ba'al; probably here Babylonian Marduk). All the new names likely referred to Babylonian gods.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 1:1–7 God punishes unrepentant Jehoiakim and allows many Judeans to become exiles in Babylon. Yet Daniel and his friends will learn that the Lord is still in control, even though they are in the hand of Nebuchadnezzar (chs 2–6). God will protect the young men and use them to glorify His name. He likewise uses the testimony of Christians today to proclaim His saving name and work, even in the most challenging circumstances. • Jesus, may we never be ashamed of confessing You as our Lord and Savior. Amen.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 1:8 God's Law prohibited His OT people from eating certain foods (Lv 11; Dt 14:3–21). See p 236. In moderate amounts, wine is healthful and was not forbidden by OT Law (cf Ps 104:15). However, too much wine disrupts sleep and often causes headaches and lethargy (cf Pr 23:29–35).

DANIEL—NOTE ON 1:9 Daniel had an unseen, powerful protector. favor. See p 6. compassion. See "mercy," pp 842–43.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 1:10 The chief eunuch knew Nebuchadnezzar's capacity for violence. endanger my head. Should Daniel's physical appearance worsen, the king might punish his official with beheading.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 1:11 steward. Or, "superintendent." Guardian assistant to the chief eunuch.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 1:12 Test ... for ten days. Short period in which to observe change. Hipp: "They teach that it is not earthly meats that give to men their beauty and strength, but the grace of God bestowed by the Word" (ANF 5:186). vegetables. No vegetables were forbidden in OT food laws. On the Israelite diet, see p 236.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 1:15 Compared to the youths who ate the king's diet, the Judeans appeared healthier. A sound diet maintains the body's hydration and muscle tone. However, the noticeable difference between the Judeans and the other youths in such a short amount of time should be attributed to God's intervention.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 1:17 God gave them learning and skill. This blessing was in addition to their natural abilities (v 4). wisdom. See pp 775–77. understanding in all visions and dreams. Like Joseph in Egypt, Daniel would use this special gift (chs 2; 4; 5). See p 74.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 1:18 end of the time. Three years. chief of the eunuchs. See p 228.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 1:19 stood before the king. See note, v 4.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 1:20 ten times better. Their superior wisdom and understanding was the result of God's grace (v 17). magicians and enchanters. Consulted for advice and guidance. See note, Dt 18:10–11. God will show His superiority over these false prophets.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 1:21 C 66 years after his exile began (see note, v 1), Daniel survived the transition of the kingdom from the Babylonians to the Persians. Chs 1–5; 7–8 relate to the Babylonian period; chs 6; 9–12 relate to the Persian period. Cyrus. Persian king who conquered Babylon (539 BC) and allowed the Judean exiles to return home (cf Ezr 1:1–4).

DANIEL—NOTE ON 1:8–21 Daniel and his friends determine not to violate God's laws, even though they live in a heathen environment. God, the source of all wisdom, blesses and preserves them in faithfulness. When you are tempted by worldly pressures to sin against the Lord, call to mind the example of these God-fearing youths. Your Lord, the Savior, is with you even now, and He will not forsake you. • Heavenly King, strengthen my resolve to follow Your Word. Amen.

DANIEL—NOTE ON Ch 2 Luth: "The honoring of Daniel begins; it is occasioned by the king's dream which Daniel, with the help of divine revelation, discerns and interprets. As a result Daniel becomes a ruler of the entire Babylonian realm and a bishop or chief prefect over all the priests and learned men. This takes place also for the comforting of the whole Jewish [Judean] community, that despite their wretched condition they should neither despair nor grow impatient, as if God had abandoned them or withdrawn his promise of Christ…. So wondrously does God lead his faithful ones; he bestows upon them far more than anyone could wish" (AE 35:295).

DANIEL—NOTE ON 2:1 second year. Nebuchadnezzar's dream occurred during Daniel's three-year educational period (cf 1:5–6). Some time likely elapsed before the king consulted his dream experts (v 2). dreams. See p 74. spirit was troubled. Disturbed by the content of the dreams.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 2:2 magicians … enchanters … sorcerers … Chaldeans. See note, 1:20. Each group used slightly different occult methods to interpret dreams. Archaeologists have discovered Mesopotamian, Ugaritic, and Egyptian documents written esp for dream interpretation. Chaldeans. See note, 1:4.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 2:4 Aramaic. Common language in the Near East. Dn was written in both Hbr (1:1–2:4a; 8:1–12:13) and Aram (2:4b–7:28). See pp 720, 1394–95. O king, live forever! Common form of address. show the interpretation. Explain the dream's meaning.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 2:5 Nebuchadnezzar sought an explanation of what he had seen. Perhaps he also had some difficulty recalling the details of this disturbing experience (cf v 9). word … is firm. Nebuchadnezzar's mind was made up (v 8). torn limb from limb … ruins. The dream's importance to the king was reinforced by the severity of punishment.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 2:8 trying to gain time. Stalling, since the king's request placed them in a life-threatening position.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 2:9 Nebuchadnezzar did not fully trust his dream experts. His angry request implies that they had been unreliable. till the times change. Hoping the king would tell his dream.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 2:10 The dream experts assert that the king will find no help in understanding the dream because he refuses to work within the typical rules. not a man on earth. Anticipates God's intervention through Daniel.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 2:11 gods. Babylonian gods were remote and inaccessible. The wise men could only hope that they could learn divine mysteries through forms of magic, divination, and sorcery.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 2:13 Daniel and his companions. They "stood before the king" (1:19) and so were included among the wise men to be destroyed. However, as vv 15, 17 show, Daniel and his companions were not a part of the discussion recorded in vv 3–11.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 2:14 captain of the king's guard. Lit, "chief of the slaughterers."
DANIEL—NOTE ON 2:15 See note, v 13.
DANIEL—NOTE ON 2:16 appoint him a time. As the king's adviser, Daniel had access to Nebuchadnezzar and asked for an appointment to interpret the dream.
DANIEL—NOTE ON 2:1–16 The many Babylonian wise men are unable to recount or interpret Nebuchadnezzar's dream, and their gods are mute idols. But Daniel is confident that his God will help. Today, when life's mysteries or challenges threaten you, turn for guidance and comfort to the Lord and His Word. He knows all things and will hear your prayer. He knows what is best for you, and His Son, your Savior, intercedes for you. • Dear Jesus, may I never think of You as being distant or absent but always present for me in Your Word and Sacrament. Amen.
DANIEL—NOTE ON 2:18 Since Daniel had confidently promised Nebuchadnezzar an interpretation of his dream, he and his companions turned to God in prayer, seeking His help. mercy. See pp 842–43. God of heaven. See note, Ezr 1:2. mystery. Word borrowed from old Persian and always used in Dn for a revelatory dream; key word in ch 2 (vv 19, 27–30, 47; cf 4:9). Here it describes the dream and its meaning. wise men. Cf 1:20; 2:2.
DANIEL—NOTE ON 2:19 In contrast to pagan gods, the God of heaven reveals mysteries (cf v 47). This revelation is the critical turning point in the story. vision of the night. Dream. blessed. Daniel's confession of praise follows in vv 20–23. See p 842.
DANIEL—NOTE ON 2:20 Blessed. See p 842. name of God. See "LORD," p 1227. to whom belong wisdom. See note, Jb 28:23.
DANIEL—NOTE ON 2:21 He changes times and seasons. God is the master of human history. See pp 335–37. kings. Even one so powerful as Nebuchadnezzar was ruled by God's will. See note, Pr 21:1.
DANIEL—NOTE ON 2:22 He reveals deep and hidden things. Including esp the mystery of the Gospel (Eph 6:19; Col 4:3). darkness … light. All realms are ultimately under His control.
DANIEL—NOTE ON 2:24 Do not destroy the wise men of Babylon. Compassionately, God allowed Daniel to save the lives of these pagan Chaldeans.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 2:25 Arioch was no doubt surprised that this foreigner and young apprentice ventured to interpret Nebuchadnezzar's dream (see note, v 1).
DANIEL—NOTE ON 2:28 reveals mysteries. Cf v 19. latter days. End times.
DANIEL—NOTE ON 2:30 not because of any wisdom that I have. Daniel humbly attributed all his wisdom to God alone. See pp 775–77.
DANIEL—NOTE ON 2:17–30 Daniel would not have known Nebuchadnezzar's dream and its interpretation except for God's revelation. Neither are we able to know the mysteries of God, except what the Father has revealed to us in Christ (Rm 16:25–27). Like Daniel, we praise God for His mercy to us and His revelation in the Gospel. • Heavenly Father, thank You for making me wise unto salvation through faith in Christ. Amen.
DANIEL—NOTE ON 2:31 great image. Colossal statues and figures were common art in Babylon and Persia.
DANIEL—NOTE ON 2:32–33 Statue consisted of an odd mixture of four metals: gold, silver, bronze, and iron (mixed with clay).
DANIEL—NOTE ON 2:34 stone. Natural material; used as a hammer to break the statue's feet into pieces. by no human hand. Implying divine intervention. See note, v 45.
DANIEL—NOTE ON 2:35 like the chaff. See p 422. not a trace of them could be found. Setting up a contrast to what follows. great mountain ... whole earth. Symbolic of its dominance and importance. Aph: "He showed beforehand with regard to Christ that the whole earth shall be filled with Him. For lo! by the faith of Christ are all the ends of the earth filled" (NPNF 2 13:347).
DANIEL—NOTE ON 2:36 we will tell. Daniel alone had knowledge of the dream, but his companions may have worked with him to provide the interpretation. This would separate the Israelites from the other counselors.
DANIEL—NOTE ON 2:37 king of kings. Title; most appropriate for Christ (Rv 19:16). God of heaven. See note, Ezr 1:2.
DANIEL—NOTE ON 2:38 head of gold. Nebuchadnezzar had great power, might, and glory.
DANIEL—NOTE ON 2:39–41 Second, third, and fourth kingdoms are not named. Suggested identifications are Media, Persia, and Greece (cf 7:17; 8:20–21). The chief message is that whichever kingdoms are meant, all have disappeared. But the kingdom established by God will remain.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 2:43 marriage. Kings often sought to increase their power through marriage. See note, 1Ki 3:1–2.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 2:44 days of those kings. Refers ultimately to the time of the fourth beast (7:7–8, 19–27), which most likely represents the Roman Empire. break … all these kingdoms. Aph: "When King Messiah shall reign, then He will humble the fourth kingdom, and will break the whole image; for by the whole image the world is meant" (NPNF 2 13:357). stand forever. God's kingdom ends the other kingdoms and endures forever (Rv 11:15).

DANIEL—NOTE ON 2:45 stone. Christ, who will ultimately break into pieces all earthly kingdoms (Ps 118:22; Eph 1:20–22; 1Pt 2:6–8). by no human hand. Iren: "His coming into this world was not by the operation of human hands…. So, then, we understand that His advent in human nature was not by the will of a man, but by the will of God…. The great God showed future things by Daniel, and confirmed them by His Son; … Christ is the stone which is cut out without hands, who shall destroy temporal kingdoms, and introduce an eternal one, which is the resurrection of the just" (ANF 1:453, 555). Gr Nys: "Christ was born without a man. For as it is a new and marvelous thing that a stone should be cut out of the rock without a hewer or stone-cutting tools, so it is a thing beyond all wonder that an offspring should appear from an unwedded Virgin" (NPNF 2 5:521).

DANIEL—NOTE ON 2:31–45 God reveals through Nebuchadnezzar's dream the final dissolution of all earthly kingdoms. Only one Kingdom will endure forever, the one proclaimed by Jesus: "The time is fulfilled, and the kingdom of God is at hand; repent and believe in the gospel" (Mk 1:15). That Kingdom awaits its full revelation at the end of history. We inherit His kingdom now in repentance and faith. • O King of kings, grant me hope and confidence in view of Your eternal rule. Amen.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 2:46 paid homage … offering and incense. Nebuchadnezzar honored Daniel as though he were a god (cf Ac 14:11–13).

DANIEL—NOTE ON 2:47 Though mistaking Daniel for a god, Nebuchadnezzar did catch Daniel's reference to "a great God" (v 45). He acknowledged that Israel's God was greater than all other gods—an important step away from idolatry, though he still had much to learn. Nebuchadnezzar now understood how Daniel could outrate his other wise men (cf 1:20).

DANIEL—NOTE ON 2:48 made him ruler ... chief prefect. Daniel was placed over Babylon and all its wise men.
DANIEL—NOTE ON 2:49 Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego. Daniel's companions are reintroduced because they will be subjected to a severe test in ch 3. king's court. Lit, "king's gate." See p 792.
DANIEL—NOTE ON 2:46–49 Nebuchadnezzar is obviously impressed with the wisdom Daniel received from the God of heaven. This gives Daniel an opportunity to reveal more about the true God and His promise of a Savior. Today, pray for opportunities to proclaim the Gospel to others. The true God of heaven blesses and watches over you and will keep you to the end. • I praise You, God of heaven, for every evidence of Your wisdom and power. Help me use such knowledge as I witness to Your love in Christ. Amen.
DANIEL—NOTE ON Ch 3 Luth: "Daniel again records a great miracle of faith. There the three men are preserved in the fiery furnace, so that God is confessed and praised by the king [Nebuchadnezzar] throughout the entire realm, even in writing. This, too, happened for the consolation of the Jews [Judeans] who, along with their God, were despised nobodies at Babylon under the tyrants and false gods. But now their God is highly honored above all gods, in order that they may firmly believe that at the proper time he can and will indeed save them, and meanwhile hold fast to and console themselves with this honor he receives and this miracle he performs" (AE 35:297).
DANIEL—NOTE ON 3:1 image. Probably of the Babylonian god Bel. sixty cubits … six cubits. C 90 ft tall and 9 ft in diameter. set ... up. Repeated often in ch 3, as are other terms and phrases that suggest satire in the telling of the story. The false god could not make or present himself. Dura. Akkadian word meaning "fortress," a name given to many locations. Probably near the city of Babylon.
DANIEL—NOTE ON 3:2 Exact meaning of the seven named offices is uncertain; perhaps listed in order of descending importance. satraps. See note, Ezr 4:10. dedication. Significant public event.
DANIEL—NOTE ON 3:4 peoples, nations, and languages. Indicating the multiracial, multiethnic composition of the empire.
DANIEL—NOTE ON 3:5 Ensemble of three wind and three stringed instruments provided ceremonial music. See p 993. fall down and worship. Aram sagad; used of Nebuchadnezzar paying homage to Daniel and often in Dn. Isaiah used the related Hbr term to describe idol worship (Is 44:15–19; 46:6).

DANIEL—NOTE ON 3:6 fall down. See p 1276. burning fiery furnace. Probably a smelting kiln with openings on the top and side. Burning was an ancient method of execution (cf Lv 20:14; 21:9).

DANIEL—NOTE ON 3:1–7 Nebuchadnezzar builds a golden statue and at its dedication commands all people to worship it. Such worship is forbidden in the First Commandment (Ex 20:3–6). Today, the gods we are tempted to worship may take subtler forms: material things, power, self. Only one "image" brings life and salvation—the incarnate Son of God (Col 1:15–20). • Triune God, may I never worship anyone or anything but You alone. Amen.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 3:8 Chaldeans. See note, 1:4. They no doubt felt professional jealousy against these Judeans who had positions of authority (v 12; 2:49). Jews. See "Judeans and Jews," p 1395.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 3:12 Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego. Referred to only by their Babylonian names. Daniel was evidently not present for the ceremony. pay no attention to you ... your gods. Note the personal references. Their failure to worship the image was an affront to Nebuchadnezzar.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 3:13 furious rage. Nebuchadnezzar had forgotten his previous expressions of goodwill (2:46–49).

DANIEL—NOTE ON 3:15 well and good. Words added to the translation, which make clear Nebuchadnezzar's offer (see ESV note). who is the god who will deliver you. Nebuchadnezzar knew no god that could rescue these youths from the punishment he had decreed.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 3:16 no need to answer you. Their minds were made up.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 3:17 If this be so. If they must be cast into the fiery furnace. our God … deliver us. The youths confessed that the God of Israel was able to save them. See "deliver," p 842. Ter: "O martyrdom even without suffering perfect! Enough did they suffer! enough were they burned, whom on this account God shielded, that it might not seem that they had given a false representation of His power" (ANF 3:640–41). Ambr: "What good friends those Hebrew children were whom the flames of the fiery furnace did not separate from their love of each other!" (NPNF 2 10:88).

DANIEL—NOTE ON 3:18 But if not. There are times when it is not God's will to rescue believers from danger or death. Genuine faith trusts God whether or not He preserves believers when they face trials. E.g., consider how both the wicked and the righteous experienced suffering when God used Babylon to overthrow Judah. See pp 779–82. According to Church historians, all the apostles except John were put to death for their faith. Cypr: "Let us imitate the three children Ananias, Azarias, and Misael, who, neither frightened by their youthful age nor broken down by captivity, Judea being conquered and Jerusalem taken, overcame the king by the power of faith…. This is the strength of courage and of faith, to believe and to know that God can deliver from present death, and yet not to fear death nor give way, that faith may be the more mightily proved" (ANF 5:348).
DANIEL—NOTE ON 3:19 expression … changed. Because they defied Nebuchadnezzar's authority. heated seven times more. The king's unreasonable rage is matched by the excesses of the raging furnace. On the symbolic use of seven, see p 217.
DANIEL—NOTE ON 3:20 They were possibly cast into an opening on the top of the furnace. The front door (v 26) would be used for removing materials from the furnace.
DANIEL—NOTE ON 3:21 bound in their ... garments. These will testify to the miracle (v 27).
DANIEL—NOTE ON 3:22 In their rush to please the enraged king, the executioners failed to take proper precautions.
DANIEL—NOTE ON 3:23 Following this verse, the LXX included the Prayer of Azariah and the Song of the Three Holy Children. See pp 1394–95; see also LSB 931.
DANIEL—NOTE ON 3:24 After checking on the execution by having the front of the furnace opened, the king himself announced the amazing miracle to his counselors.
DANIEL—NOTE ON 3:25 four men unbound, walking in the midst of the fire. The three youths were not saved "from" the fire but "in" the fire. Like the burning bush (Ex 3:1–6), they were not consumed. son of the gods. See note, Jb 1:6. Cf Ps 34:7. Nebuchadnezzar clearly recognized (but did not describe) some feature that set this fourth person apart.
DANIEL—NOTE ON 3:26 door. Front opening (see note, v 20). Most High. Term non-Israelites used when referring to the true God (cf Nu 24:16; Is 14:14). See p 1227.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 3:27 Babylonian officials witnessed this miracle. not singed ... no smell of fire. As the Lord had promised: "When you walk through fire you shall not be burned" (Is 43:2).
DANIEL—NOTE ON 3:28 He who had blasphemed the true God by setting up a golden image now praised Him. The arrogant king was humbled. Blessed. See p 842. angel. See note, v 25. yielded up their bodies. Nebuchadnezzar esp marvels at their willingness to face martyrdom for their faith, a theme that begins with Israel's oppression in exile and appears throughout later Jewish and Christian literature. Israel as a nation suffered oppression from their enemies, but they increasingly suffered as individuals in hostile lands. Cf Heb 11.
DANIEL—NOTE ON 3:29 Nebuchadnezzar made the faith of Judah a legal religion with rights of toleration and respect. This was an important event since many Judeans would remain in Babylon after the end of the exile in 538 BC (e.g., the Judean community described in Est). rescue. See "redeem," p 843.
DANIEL—NOTE ON 3:30 promoted. Gave them additional responsibilities and privileges.
DANIEL—NOTE ON 3:8–30 The three youths who did not obey the idolatrous king's command were delivered because God's angel protected them. You have God's promise that "He will command His angels concerning you to guard you in all your ways" (Ps 91:11). You can be sure that His angels are watching over you at all times. • Heavenly Father, I entrust my life into Your loving hands, knowing that You care for me always. Amen.
DANIEL—NOTE ON Ch 4 Luth: "A pointed example is directed against the bloodthirsty and the tyrants. For the great and mighty king [Nebuchadnezzar] is here robbed of his reason. He becomes so raving mad that he has to be treated like a mad dog, chained and put out in the field because people cannot stand his presence. Today, because we simply read this in a book, it may appear as a minor matter. If we had been present, however, and seen something like this, we would have been witnessing a terrifying and horrible judgment of God. Everyone would have been moved with compassion for all the overlords and evil tyrants, that they have to expect such gruesome judgment when they abuse their position as rulers. This too, however, happened for purposes of consolation—at that time the consolation of the wretched captive Jews [Judeans], today and evermore the consolation of those who are plagued by tyrants or who suffer injustice—that men may see how God intends and is able to avenge us against our enemies even more fully than we dare to dream. As Psalm 58[:10] declares" (AE 35:297).

DANIEL—NOTE ON 4:1 Salutation of Nebuchadnezzar's open letter relating what had happened to him. peoples, nations, and languages. See note, 3:4.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 4:2 signs and wonders. What Nebuchadnezzar experienced was a miracle. See note, Ex 7:3. Most High. See note, 3:26. Occurs again in vv 17, 24, 25, 32, 34.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 4:3 Nebuchadnezzar began and ended with praise (vv 34–35). kingdom. Lit, "rule of a king." dominion. Lit, "rule of a lord" (Lat dominus). See pp 1565–66.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 4:1–3 Nebuchadnezzar wants others to know how the eternal King has changed his life. God likewise works in our lives to convict us of sin and assure us of His grace and forgiveness. • Holy Spirit, may I ever acknowledge Your work in me through Word and Sacrament. Amen.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 4:4 Things were going well for Nebuchadnezzar (cf v 27). Babylon was near the height of its power.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 4:5 dream. Cf 2:1. See p 74.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 4:7 See note, 2:2.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 4:8 Belteshazzar ... my god. See note, 1:7. spirit of the holy gods. See ESV note. Nebuchadnezzar recognized that Daniel was specially blessed by God (1:17), though his own knowledge of the true God remained quite limited.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 4:9 chief of the magicians. See note, 2:48. mystery. See note, 2:18.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 4:10–12 The gigantic tree in Nebuchadnezzar's dream was so great that it reached to heaven, provided sustenance for all creatures, and held everyone's attention.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 4:13 watcher. Angelic messenger. See note, v 17.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 4:14 Chop ... lop ... strip ... scatter. Shows that the Most High rules (v 17).

DANIEL—NOTE ON 4:15 stump. Suggests possible regrowth (cf Is 11:1). band of iron and bronze. To help preserve the stump. him. Masculine pronoun indicates that the tree represented the king (v 22). wet with the dew of heaven. Having no shelter from moisture. Repeated in vv 25, 33. portion. See p 7.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 4:16 beast's mind. Mental illness called "lycanthropy." seven periods of time. Exact time needed to effect change. Typically regarded as seven years, though the equating of "periods of time" and "years" is not absolutely certain.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 4:17 decree of the watchers … holy ones. This sentence of the angelic council (see notes, 1Ki 22:19; Jb 1:6) was meant to convince "the living … that the Most High rules the kingdom of men." Most High. See note, 3:26.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 4:18 spirit of the holy gods. See note, v 8.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 4:4–18 In Nebuchadnezzar's dream, the great tree overshadowing the whole world represents a ruler who would be humbled. He has to learn that God rules all earthly kingdoms. We need constantly to be reminded that, although earthly kingdoms have great power and authority, the Most High rules. Thankfully, He rules mercifully (cf vv 34–37). • Thank You, heavenly Father, for exalting Jesus to Your right hand, where He rules for the benefit of His Church. Amen.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 4:19 dismayed … alarmed. Daniel realized the dream's meaning. may the dream be ... for your enemies! Pious wish intended to prepare Nebuchadnezzar for the worst.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 4:21 leaves ... fruit. Luth: "For the righteous lords and princes this is also a comforting and lovely image, that God the Lord depicts even this tyrannical king as a beautiful tree which nourishes all the beasts and lets them rest in its shade. Hereby God makes it clear that through civil authority [Oberkeit] he provides and maintains peace and tranquility, protection and defense, sustenance and possessions, and this entire temporal life, and that it is pleasing to him wherever a lord or prince practices his office conscientiously. For these are fine fruits, fine leaves, fine foliage, Daniel [4:21–22] says; that is, these are precious, noble, good works. Because it is so pleasing to God himself that he thus portrays, praises, and adorns it, a lord should indeed exercise his office with all eagerness and delight, even though it be full of toil and trouble. By the same token, we too ought not to pay attention to how evil the tyrants may be but to how precious and useful is the office which they have from God, instituted for our benefit and welfare" (AE 35:297–98).

DANIEL—NOTE ON 4:22 it is you, O king. Nebuchadnezzar's life parallels that of the tree. ends of the earth. Hyperbole, although the empire did reach from the Great Sea to the Persian Gulf. See map, p 717.
DANIEL—NOTE ON 4:23 watcher, a holy one. See note, v 17.
DANIEL—NOTE ON 4:25 driven from among men. Nebuchadnezzar was banished from society, just as Adam and Eve were cast out of Paradise. till you know. The king needed to learn that he ruled only by the will of the Most High.
DANIEL—NOTE ON 4:27 Call to repentance. "Daniel knew that the forgiveness of sins in Christ was promised not only to the Israelites, but also to all nations. Otherwise, he could not have promised to the king the forgiveness of sins. For without God's sure Word about His will, a person has no power to claim, especially when terrified by sin, that God ceases to be angry" (Ap V 141). Cyr Jer: "The LORD is loving unto man, and swift to pardon, but slow to punish. Let no man therefore despair of his own salvation" (NPNF 2 7:13). prosperity. Cf v 4.
DANIEL—NOTE ON 4:19–27 Daniel interprets the dream for the king and urges him to repent. Today, God does not normally use dreams to make clear His will that we repent, for He has given us the Scriptures, which are filled with such admonitions. To all who repent, God promises prosperity even greater than Nebuchadnezzar's: forgiveness of sins and eternal rest in heaven. • Holy God, I repent of my sins and plead for Your mercy. Grant me the rich blessing of Your Word of life. Amen.
DANIEL—NOTE ON 4:29 twelve months. Significant time elapsed with no change in Nebuchadnezzar's attitude.
DANIEL—NOTE ON 4:30 Nebuchadnezzar admired the many fine buildings for which he was famous, including one of the seven wonders of the ancient world, the Hanging Gardens. Under his reign, Babylon was 2 mi by 1.5 mi and completely enclosed by a high defensive wall with beautiful gates.
DANIEL—NOTE ON 4:31 Nebuchadnezzar had barely finished speaking when he heard God's voice of judgment.
DANIEL—NOTE ON 4:33 eagles' feathers. Could refer to vultures. Such birds of prey may have feathers more than a foot long. See note, Ob 4.
DANIEL—NOTE ON 4:28–33 Since Nebuchadnezzar goes on living as before, the decree of the Most High (v 24) comes to pass. For a period of time, he lives like a beast. This is to be a learning experience for him. God may also allow trouble and illness in our lives to discipline us for our good (Heb 12:3–11). When this happens, we may trust His loving purpose and call on Him for strength and healing. • Loving Lord, when I experience trouble in my life, comfort me with the remembrance of what You suffered for my healing and salvation. Amen.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 4:34 end of the days. Seven periods of time completed (vv 16, 25). lifted my eyes to heaven. Nebuchadnezzar had learned his lesson. I blessed the Most High. His praise resumed (v 3) and was sincere. dominion ... kingdom. See note, v 3.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 4:35 host of heaven. Army of angels. See p 1291. hand. See p 842.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 4:36 kingdom ... returned. When Nebuchadnezzar's reason returned, he also resumed his kingly rule. counselors ... sought me. Government was back to normal.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 4:37 all His works ... just. This earthly king acknowledged that the King of heaven had treated him as he deserved. He is able to humble. Mary expressed the same thought in her Magnificat (Lk 1:52).

DANIEL—NOTE ON 4:34–37 After Nebuchadnezzar "lifted [his] eyes to heaven," his reason and the glory of his kingdom returned. He praised the King of heaven, who is able to humble those who walk in pride. As a disciple of Jesus, take to heart the words of Peter: "Humble yourselves, therefore, under the mighty hand of God so that at the proper time He may exalt you" (1Pt 5:6). • Jesus, You humbled Yourself for me. Give me the same mind, that all I say and do may glorify You. Amen.

DANIEL—NOTE ON Ch 5 Luth: "Another example against the tyrants…. The hardened and unrepentant tyrant [Belshazzar] is punished mercilessly for his evil. At one blow he loses everything, land, people, and his own life. This is surely written to terrify all similar tyrants" (AE 35:298).

DANIEL—NOTE ON 5:1 Belshazzar. Ruled as Babylonian king while his father, Nabonidus, was elsewhere. thousand of his lords. Many nobles (and their wives) attended the great feast (v 3).

DANIEL—NOTE ON 5:2 vessels … out of the temple in Jerusalem. Nebuchadnezzar had brought these to Babylon (1:2). father. See ESV note. Nebuchadnezzar was a powerful king (vv 18–19) and regarded as father of the nation. wives … concubines. See pp 54–55.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 5:4 Using these sacred vessels for a toast to Babylonian idols at a boisterous drinking party was a sacrilegious act, mocking the Lord God (v 23). A letter (407 BC) from a Judean settlement in Elephantine, Egypt, complains of a similar abuse of sacred vessels taken from their temple.
DANIEL—NOTE ON 5:5 fingers of a human hand. The sudden appearance of this remarkable portent was not on the evening's program. plaster. Used to seal mud bricks; an excellent painting or writing surface. opposite the lampstand. The writing was well illuminated so all could read it.
DANIEL—NOTE ON 5:6 color changed. See note, 7:28.
DANIEL—NOTE ON 5:7 enchanters … Chaldeans … astrologers. See note, 2:2. clothed with purple ... gold. Symbols of royal honor. third ruler. High government office, likely third in rank after Belshazzar and his father Nabonidus, who was away at that time.
DANIEL—NOTE ON 5:8 Only the consonants were written, perhaps in an older script. See note, vv 25–28. The Babylonian wise men were unable to get the sense of the message.
DANIEL—NOTE ON 5:9 color changed. See note, 7:28.
DANIEL—NOTE ON 5:10 queen. See ESV note. May have been Nebuchadnezzar's widow.
DANIEL—NOTE ON 5:11 spirit of the holy gods. See note, 4:8. wisdom. Highly valued by Israelites and pagans. See pp 775–78. father. See note, v 2. chief. See note, 2:48.
DANIEL—NOTE ON 5:12 riddles. See note, Jgs 14:12. this Daniel. The person whom the queen described in such glowing terms was finally named. Daniel would have been an aged man by this time (see note, 1:21).
DANIEL—NOTE ON 5:1–12 Belshazzar hosts a great feast at which he and his guests drink toasts to their idols from the sacred vessels of the Jerusalem temple. God, whom Belshazzar mocks, suddenly shows His presence. This is a warning for us all. "Do not be deceived: God is not mocked" (Gal 6:7). God calls for repentance and faith. He likewise provides faithful interpreters of His Word to make His Law and promises known. • Holy God, may I ever respect Your almighty power and heed Your saving Word. Amen.
DANIEL—NOTE ON 5:13 exiles of Judah. See map, p 717.
DANIEL—NOTE ON 5:14 I have heard. Belshazzar had not met Daniel previously.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 5:15 wise men, the enchanters. See note, 1:20.
DANIEL—NOTE ON 5:17 gifts ... rewards to another. Daniel refused to allow any prospect of reward to influence his interpretation of the message.
DANIEL—NOTE ON 5:18 Most High. See note, 3:26. gave Nebuchadnezzar … kingship. Nebuchadnezzar learned that this was true (v 21).
DANIEL—NOTE ON 5:19 he killed … he kept alive. Had the power of life and death over those he ruled. God has similar yet far greater power. See note, Dt 32:39.
DANIEL—NOTE ON 5:20 spirit was hardened. Became proud of his achievements.
DANIEL—NOTE ON 5:21 mind was made like that of a beast. See note, 4:16. wild donkeys. See note, Jer 2:24. Most High. See note, 3:26.
DANIEL—NOTE ON 5:22 not humbled ... knew all this. Daniel condemned Belshazzar for the same sin of pride.
DANIEL—NOTE ON 5:23 lifted up yourself. Contrast Nebuchadnezzar, who finally lifted his eyes to heaven (4:34). Drinking from the sacred vessels and praising Babylonian gods was an affront to the Lord of heaven. God in whose hand is your breath. The true God, who had sent the writing hand (vv 5, 24), held in His hand the life of Belshazzar as surely as He holds the life of every person. Cf Ps 139.
DANIEL—NOTE ON 5:25–28 Mene, Mene, Tekel, and Parsin. Each Aram word had several meanings. As nouns, they could refer to three weights: "mina, shekel, and half (of a mina or shekel)." As verbs: "he counted (numbered), he weighed, he halved (divided)." Peres. Singular of Parsin; sounds like "Persia." Daniel interpreted these words to mean that God had judged Belshazzar, found him guilty, and would bring his kingdom to an end by giving it to the Medes and Persians. Medes and Persians. Peoples to the north and east of Babylon; often no distinction was made between the two groups. See map, p 717.
DANIEL—NOTE ON 5:29 Though Daniel's interpretation was not pleasing to the king, the king kept his promise.
DANIEL—NOTE ON 5:30 God was ultimately responsible for Belshazzar's death, as the vision of judgment showed.
DANIEL—NOTE ON 5:31 Darius the Mede. Not mentioned in any other ancient document. May be an alternate name for some other person who governed Babylon after its capture in 539 BC. A likely candidate is Cyrus, whose mother was a Mede and did not give him the name Cyrus (Hdt 1:113–14). See note, 6:28. The prophets attributed the conquest of Babylon to the Medes (Is 13:17; Jer 51:11). There are further references to Darius the Mede in Dn 6; 9:1; 11:1. This person must be distinguished from the more famous Darius I, king of Persia (522–486 BC). sixty-two. Detail to distinguish the ruler from others of similar name.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 5:13–31 Daniel, after being introduced to Belshazzar, reminds him of how God has chastened Nebuchadnezzar for his pride. Belshazzar does not learn from this lesson, and so, as the writing reveals, he will be humbled and his kingdom given to another. The fall of Babylon made a deep impression on the biblical writers (Is 21:9; Rv 18:2) and came to symbolize the end of the world. All human history will end. Only the kingdom of God is forever, and He rules for the sake of our justification. • Lord Jesus, keep me watchful for Your coming and prepared for Your rule. Amen.

DANIEL—NOTE ON Ch 6 Luth: "The fine and precious example of a good and righteous king [Darius] who loved Daniel…. Once again God proves himself righteous and comforting; for he so marvelously reverses the plot [so] that that which Daniel's enemies had prepared for him they had to swallow themselves. This is just as Psalm 7[:14, 16] declares…. Thus Daniel's life is nothing but a fine, clear mirror. In it we see the conflict and victory of faith, which, by the grace of God, triumphs over all men and devils; we see too the great fruit and use of faith, which it produces through patience and cross-bearing, before both God and the world" (AE 35:298–99).

DANIEL—NOTE ON 6:1 Darius. See note, 5:31. satraps. Persian term for provincial officials. See note, Ezr 4:10.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 6:2 three presidents. Oversaw the work of the satraps.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 6:3 Daniel became distinguished. Age and experience were highly regarded in the ancient world. excellent spirit. See note, 4:8.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 6:4 sought to find a … complaint. Prompted by political jealousy of this exiled Judean (v 13; cf 3:8). faithful. Daniel performed his official duties faultlessly.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 6:5 law of his God. Daniel's rivals were well aware of his religious practices.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 6:6 came by agreement. Hatched a plot to trap Daniel.
DANIEL—NOTE ON 6:7 presidents ... governors. The plotters claimed weighty support for their proposed law. ordinance … injunction. Law with enforcement procedures. petition. Prayer. except to you, O king. Elevated the king to divine status. den. Lit, "pit," closed by a stone (v 17). lions. Asiatic lions, smaller than African lions. Probably kept in captivity for royal hunting parties.
DANIEL—NOTE ON 6:8 cannot be changed. Making a mockery of his supposed divine authority.
DANIEL—NOTE ON 6:10 toward Jerusalem. See note, 1Ki 8:30. on his knees three times a day. Daniel did not protest the new law but witnessed to his faith by his actions. Judeans usually stood for public prayer and knelt in private. See "kneel," p 1276. Luther suggests that kneeling shows we are beggars before God. Ter: "We pray at least not less than thrice in the day, debtors as we are to Three—Father, Son, and Holy Spirit" (ANF 3:690).
DANIEL—NOTE ON 6:11 by agreement. Cf vv 6, 15. Every move was carefully plotted. found Daniel. He made no attempt to conceal the fact that he was violating the king's law.
DANIEL—NOTE ON 6:14–15 King Darius had come to depend on Daniel's expertise and wise counsel (v 3). But much to his distress, the law was unalterable.
DANIEL—NOTE ON 6:16 May your God ... deliver you! This heathen king expressed the hope that Daniel's God would save him. This may signal the king's doubts about the powers of his own gods.
DANIEL—NOTE ON 6:17 Daniel's fate was sealed; his death seemed inevitable.
DANIEL—NOTE ON 6:18 spent the night fasting; no diversions. Evidence of the king's distress (v 14). See p 189.
DANIEL—NOTE ON 6:20 living God. Cf Dt 5:26; see notes, Jsh 3:10; Mt 16:16. Only time a non-Israelite makes this confession. able to deliver you. Darius hoped that his wish was fulfilled (v 16). See "deliver," p 842.
DANIEL—NOTE ON 6:21 O king, live forever! See note, 2:4.
DANIEL—NOTE ON 6:22 angel. See note, Jb 1:6. found blameless. The expression can mean he was not guilty of "great transgression" (Ps 19:13). However, see note, Jb 1:1.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 6:23 trusted. Daniel demonstrated his faith when he continued to pray to the true God (v 10).
DANIEL—NOTE ON 6:24 those men. Plotters against Daniel (vv 5–6). children ... wives. Gk historian Herodotus reported that fear of conspiracy might cause a Persian ruler to kill the family of a criminal (Hdt 3:119). before they reached the bottom. Evidence of God's power in preserving Daniel's life.
DANIEL—NOTE ON 6:26 tremble and fear. Darius's decree went even further than Nebuchadnezzar's had (3:29) in commanding respect for the God of Israel. kingdom … dominion. See note, 4:3.
DANIEL—NOTE ON 6:27 delivers and rescues … saved. God protected Daniel as He had protected Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego (3:25–27). See "deliver," p 842. signs and wonders. Miracles.
DANIEL—NOTE ON 6:28 and the reign of Cyrus the Persian. Or, "that is, in the reign of Cyrus the Persian," which would make Darius the Mede and Cyrus the Persian the same person. See note, 5:31.
DANIEL—NOTE ON Ch 6 Daniel is cast into the lions' den for continuing to pray to the true God. When Daniel is saved from death, Darius issues a new decree ordering all people in his kingdom to fear the God of Daniel. These events are a preview of God's ultimate triumph over all the forces of evil. Then every knee shall bow (Is 45:23; Php 2:10), and every nation will come and worship the Lord (Rv 15:4). The devil, that roaring lion (1Pt 5:8), means deadly woe, but we tremble not (LSB 656)! For Christ is our protector. • All praise to You, O Christ, for conquering Satan and rescuing me from his deadly threats. Amen.
DANIEL—NOTE ON Ch 7 Hipp: "In distinguishing the kingdoms that are to rise after these things, he showed also the coming of Antichrist in the last times, and the consummation of the whole world…. Now if we set Daniel's own visions [ch 7] also side by side with this [ch 2], we shall have one exposition to give of the two together, and shall (be able to) show how concordant with each other they are, and how true" (ANF 5:208). Luth: "In the seventh chapter begin the visions and prophecies of the future kingdoms, especially of the kingdom of Christ, for whose sake all these visions came to pass. To begin with, the four kingdoms, which he pointed out above in chapter 2[:31–43] in the great image, he now sees again in another form, namely in the four beasts" (AE 35:299).

DANIEL—NOTE ON 7:1 first year of Belshazzar. 553 BC. See note, 5:1. dream and visions. Now Daniel receives revelations instead of interpreting them, in contrast to his previous experiences (chs 2; 4; 5). he wrote. Because he realized his dream was a revelation from God for His people.
DANIEL—NOTE ON 7:2 four winds. See note, Ezk 5:10. great sea. Often symbolic of chaos and evil (cf Is 27:1). Hipp: "By the great sea he means the whole world" (ANF 5:188).
DANIEL—NOTE ON 7:3–7 four great beasts. Daniel saw strange hybrid creatures whose appearances and actions had symbolic and prophetic meaning. See notes, vv 15–27.
DANIEL—NOTE ON 7:6 dominion. See note, 4:3.
DANIEL—NOTE ON 7:7 Whereas the appearances of the other beasts could be associated with various animals, the fourth beast had no natural counterpart. It is a living contrast to the created order. iron teeth. Hybrid of natural and man-made parts, with hideous results. ten horns. See note, v 24; see also "horn," p 842.
DANIEL—NOTE ON 7:8 another horn, a little one. It pushed up among the 10 horns of the fourth beast. eyes … mouth. Further hybrid features, with human characteristics.
DANIEL—NOTE ON 7:1–8 Daniel has a vision of four beasts coming out of the great sea. Though Daniel does not yet understand his vision, he knows that it is a revelation from God and so records it for us to read as well. We find much that is hard to understand in such visions. Thank God that He "has spoken to us by His Son" (Heb 1:2). In Christ, we have God's fullest and clearest revelation. • Heavenly Father, thank You for revealing all grace and truth in Your Son, Jesus. Deliver us from the beastly evils of this age. Amen.
DANIEL—NOTE ON 7:9–10 thrones … court. Daniel next saw a court scene with judgment thrones set up (cf Ps 122:5). See note, Ezk 1:26.
DANIEL—NOTE ON 7:9 Ancient of Days. God the Father. white as snow … pure wool. Symbolizes God's eternity and holiness (cf Is 1:18). fiery flames. Throne, wheels, and stream (v 10) were all fiery, as was God's appearance on Mount Sinai (Ex 19:16–18). On God's throne, see p 1323.
DANIEL—NOTE ON 7:10 a thousand thousands. 1 Clem: "Let us consider the whole multitude of His angels, how they stand ever ready to minister to His will…. Let us therefore, conscientiously gathering together in harmony, cry to Him earnestly, as with one mouth, that we may be made partakers of His great and glorious promises" (ANF 1:14). Ter: "The Divine Monarchy also is administered by so many legions and hosts of angels; … it has not from this circumstance ceased to be the rule of one" (ANF 3:599). Cyr Jer: "Not that the multitude is only so great, but because the Prophet could not express more than these. So there will be present at the judgment in that day, God, the Father of all, Jesus Christ being seated with Him, and the Holy Ghost present with Them; and an angel's trumpet shall summon us all to bring our deeds with us" (NPNF 2 7:112). served … stood. God's throne was surrounded by myriads of angels. See "stand," p 1277. books. Records of human conduct.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 7:11 great words. Boasts "against the Most High" (v 25). killed. Body of the monster beast (vv 7–8) was destroyed and burned.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 7:12 First three beasts lost their power but continued to exist. for a season and a time. Lit, "until a season and a time," i.e., "for a period of time," which is not specified.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 7:9–12 The Ancient of Days presides over a court of judgment and condemns the fourth beast to be burned. This judgment scene, repeated in v 26, is a prelude to the final judgment, when all people will appear before the throne of God (Mt 25:32). For those who are in Christ Jesus, the verdict will be "not guilty" (Rm 8:1; 1Jn 2:1–2). • Praise to You, Lord Jesus, for serving as my advocate before God's throne. Amen.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 7:13 with the clouds. Different origin from the beasts, which came from the sea. See note, v 2. like a son of man. Daniel uses comparison as he did with the first three beasts earlier in the vision ("like," vv 4–6). There is something special about this figure, however. This vision describes the commissioning of the Christ as our Lord and Savior. See note, Ezk 2:1; see also p 1080. presented. Introduced at the court of the Ancient of Days (vv 9–10).

DANIEL—NOTE ON 7:14 In contrast to the beasts whose dominion was taken away (v 12), the Ancient of Days invested the "one like a son of man" with an everlasting reign. Just: "There would be two advents of His, —one in which He was pierced by you; a second, when you shall know Him whom you have pierced" (ANF 1:210). Cyr Jer: "We preach not one advent only of Christ, but a second also, far more glorious than the former. For the former gave a view of His patience; but the latter brings with it the crown of a divine kingdom. For all things, for the most part, are twofold in our Lord Jesus Christ: a twofold generation; one, of God, before the ages; and one, of a Virgin, at the close of the ages: His descents twofold; one, the unobserved, like rain on a fleece; and a second His open coming, which is to be. In His former advent, He was wrapped in swaddling clothes in the manger; in His second, He covers Himself with light as with a garment" (NPNF 2 7:104). dominion … kingdom. See note, 4:3. all peoples, nations, and languages. His reign defies all boundaries. everlasting. Contrasts with the reigns of others, which are subject to God's limited plans for them.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 7:13–14 Daniel sees "one like a son of man," coming with the clouds of heaven, who is given eternal rule over the whole earth. We recognize that this King is Jesus, fully divine and fully human, Son of Mary and Son of the Most High, whose kingdom will never end (Lk 1:32–33). May we ever "live under Him in His kingdom and serve Him" (SC, p xxxvii). • Jesus, my King, rule me body and soul as You know best. Amen.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 7:15 Daniel had interpreted the dreams of others (1:17; 2:36; 4:19), but he was mystified and perplexed by his own dream (cf v 28).

DANIEL—NOTE ON 7:16 Daniel seeks the meaning of the vision even as it unfolds. one … who stood there. One serving the Ancient of Days (v 10); perhaps Gabriel (8:16).

DANIEL—NOTE ON 7:17 four kings. Note "kingdom" in v 23 (cf 2:39–41). Readers should be cautious about unequivocally linking representations in Daniel's visions with specific rulers; they might represent a succession of rulers for a particular kingdom. Because kings of Babylon (1:1), Media and Persia (5:31; 8:20; 10:1), and Greece (8:21) are mentioned in Dn, the first three beasts may be associated with these kingdoms.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 7:18 saints. Lit, "holy ones." See p 843. They will live forever in the kingdom ruled by "one like a son of man" (vv 13–14). Most High. See note, 3:26; see also p 1227.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 7:19 Daniel was less curious about the first three beasts than the terrible fourth beast, which may represent the Roman Empire.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 7:20 other horn that came up. Daniel was most interested in the little horn. Some interpreters regard it as a prophetic portrayal of Syrian king Antiochus IV Epiphanes (175–164 BC). The apocryphal books of 1 and 2Macc describe how this king savagely persecuted the Jewish people. See pp 1562–64. However, the fourth kingdom more likely represents the Roman Empire and points forward to the reign of Antichrist. See "The Restrainer," p 2060. On prophetic perspective, see p 1258. Hipp: "Who, then, are meant by this but the Romans … ?" (ANF 5:178). Cyr Jer: "That this kingdom is that of the Romans, has been the tradition of the Church's interpreters" (NPNF 2 7:108).

DANIEL—NOTE ON 7:21 Daniel's vision was expanded, and he foresaw affliction for God's people.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 7:22 God the Father stepped in to save His people by destroying the beast with its many horns (cf vv 11, 26). judgment was given. Saints were vindicated and possessed the kingdom.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 7:23 he said. The interpreter (v 16) elaborated on his previous explanations.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 7:24 ten horns … ten kings. Rather than representing specific rulers, the number may be symbolic of the kingdom's greatness. See p 217. another shall arise. The little horn (vv 8, 20). put down three kings. The little horn will defeat three kings or kingdoms. See note, v 17.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 7:25 speak words. Cf vv 8, 11, 20; 11:36. This ruler's eloquence is emphasized. Cyr Jer: "A blasphemer the man is and lawless, not having received the kingdom from his fathers, but having usurped the power by means of sorcery…. And who is this, and from what sort of working? Interpret to us, O Paul. [2Th 2:9]" (NPNF 2 7:108). Most High. See note, 3:26. wear out. Harass and persecute. change the times and the law. Show antagonism to the Most High by changing the religious calendar and law. given into his hand. Cf v 21. a time, times, and half a time. Precise time when the suffering would end is not stated. Symbolically could mean that though the time of affliction for the saints seems like it will go on forever ("a time, times"), there will be a termination point ("half a time"). However, see note, 12:7.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 7:26–27 Cf v 22.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 7:27 all dominions shall serve and obey them. The saints will share in the rule of the "one like a son of man" (vv 13–14; 2Tm 2:12).

DANIEL—NOTE ON 7:28 alarmed. The vision's interpretation did not lessen Daniel's anxieties. color changed. Due to his alarm, he likely grew pale. See p 1276.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 7:15–28 Daniel's visions are interpreted to mean that the Ancient of Days will destroy all earthly kingdoms, including that of the little horn, and that the saints of the Most High will possess an everlasting kingdom. Yet Daniel is alarmed and perplexed over what he sees and hears; this may be comforting to us, since we do not fully comprehend God's ways and purposes either. Though we may understand the basics of what God is teaching us, still an element of mystery surrounds His promises and their future fulfillment. Powerful earthly kingdoms may sometimes persecute God's people, but we know that God has given us the Kingdom in His dear Son (Lk 12:32). • O Ancient of Days, give me the confidence that You rule all things for my good. Amen.
DANIEL—NOTE ON Chs 8–12 Hbr language resumes for the remainder of the Book (see note, 2:4). See also p 1395.
DANIEL—NOTE ON Ch 8 Luth: "Daniel experiences a special vision. Unlike the former, this one pertains not to the whole world but to his own people, the Jews [Judeans]; it shows how they were to fare prior to the Roman empire and before the coming of Christ, namely, under the third empire, that of Alexander the Great. Once again the purpose is to console the Jews, that they may not despair amid the wretchedness that is to engulf them, as if Christ would leave them again and not come" (AE 35:300).
DANIEL—NOTE ON 8:1 third year. C 551 BC (see note, 5:1). vision. Here Daniel was awake and not dreaming (cf 2:19).
DANIEL—NOTE ON 8:2 Susa. Future capital of the Persian Empire (Est 1:2); 200 mi E of Babylon. Elam. Between Babylon and Persia. Ulai canal. Waterway near Susa. See map, p 717.
DANIEL—NOTE ON 8:3–14 Notes for these verses focus on the imagery as Daniel experienced it. The vision is interpreted in vv 20–26.
DANIEL—NOTE ON 8:3 ram. Male sheep. horns. Typically represent kings or kingdoms in Daniel's visions (cf 7:24). one was higher. Represents greater strength.
DANIEL—NOTE ON 8:5 See note, v 21. male goat. Worthy rival. Cf Mt 25:32, where people are compared to sheep and goats. Goats tend to be more curious and courageous than sheep. from the west. Direction of Greece and Asia Minor. without touching the ground. Emphasizes his rapid progress. horn between his eyes. Most unusual position.
DANIEL—NOTE ON 8:8 four conspicuous horns. See note, v 22. horns. See note, v 3.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 8:9 glorious land. Israel, the Promised Land.
DANIEL—NOTE ON 8:10 Daniel envisioned the little horn trampling on the stars it had thrown down. It grew great. Cf 11:36. host of heaven. God's angelic army, which it defiled. See p 1291.
DANIEL—NOTE ON 8:11 Prince of the host. God. See note, Ezk 44:3; see also p 1291. taken away. Morning and evening sacrifices were stopped in the Jerusalem temple. See pp 170–71. His sanctuary was overthrown. See notes, vv 24, 25.
DANIEL—NOTE ON 8:12 Some Judeans joined in these transgressions of God's truth.
DANIEL—NOTE ON 8:13 holy one ... another holy one said. Daniel heard two angels talking. how long. First question of those who face suffering (cf Ps 74:10). regular burnt offering. See note, v 11. transgression that makes desolate. See note, v 25.
DANIEL—NOTE ON 8:14 2,300 evenings and mornings. Unclear whether number is literal or symbolic. If literal, the time period would be less than seven years, seven being a symbolic number (see p 217). In any case, the period of distress would end, and the sanctuary would be restored.
DANIEL—NOTE ON 8:1–14 In the vision of a ram and a male goat, God assures His people that His sanctuary will be restored. When trouble comes into our lives, no matter what its source, we may also ask, "How long?" Whether our time of suffering is long or short, we know that God hears our prayers and will help us according to His timetable. • Heavenly Father, comfort me with the assurance that Your love surrounds me every moment of my life. Amen.
DANIEL—NOTE ON 8:15 appearance of a man. Proved to be the angel Gabriel (v 16), whose name means "man of God."
DANIEL—NOTE ON 8:16 Unidentified human voice spoke from Ulai canal (see note, v 2).
DANIEL—NOTE ON 8:17 fell on my face. Result of being overcome by fear. See p 1276. son of man. Emphasizing Daniel's human weakness. See note, Ezk 2:1. time of the end. End of the distress caused by Antiochus IV (see notes, vv 23–25).
DANIEL—NOTE ON 8:18 deep sleep. He lost consciousness as a result of his visionary experience. touched me. To strengthen him (cf 1Ki 19:5, 7).
DANIEL—NOTE ON 8:19 Gabriel revealed to Daniel that the period of wrath experienced by God's people would indeed end. appointed. God had determined the time.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 8:20–22 Cf vv 3–8. In the vision of ch 7, the kings/kingdoms were never named by the heavenly interpreter. Here Daniel receives more specific insight about his vision.
DANIEL—NOTE ON 8:21 Refers to Alexander the Great (356–323 BC), commander of the Gk army that conquered Persia.
DANIEL—NOTE ON 8:22 After Alexander's death, his empire split into four parts: Greece, Asia Minor, Syria, and Egypt. See map, p 1554.
DANIEL—NOTE ON 8:23 transgressors have reached their limit. Period of turmoil following Alexander's death when his generals vied for power. bold face. Refers to Antiochus IV, the little horn, who displayed insolence and defiance (vv 9–10). He titled himself Epiphanes, "god manifest." His rule points forward to the rule of Antichrist (see note, 7:20). understands riddles. Smart and clever. See note, Jgs 14:12.
DANIEL—NOTE ON 8:24 great. Cf vv 9, 11, 25. destroy mighty men ... saints. Antiochus IV destroyed his political enemies as well as some of God's holy people. He exalted himself, seeking to usurp God's place in the lives of His people.
DANIEL—NOTE ON 8:25 he shall even rise up. Antiochus IV committed blasphemous acts. As happened during the Babylonian conquest of Jerusalem, God's temple would again be defiled by pagans (1Macc 1:45–47, 59). Antiochus IV used the temple for worship of Zeus (Dn 11:31; 2Macc 6:2). See pp 1553–56. Prince of princes. God. See note, Ezk 44:3. broken—but by no human hand. Antiochus IV died in late 164 BC while campaigning in Persia; he reportedly lost his mind. So God ended his reign of terror (11:45).
DANIEL—NOTE ON 8:26 vision of the evenings and the mornings. There will be a period of time before the end comes. seal up. Daniel's vision was not for his own day but for the comfort of the saints at the time of Antiochus IV.
DANIEL—NOTE ON 8:27 overcome … sick ... appalled. Daniel grieved over what his people would have to suffer in future years.
DANIEL—NOTE ON 8:15–27 The angel Gabriel explains Daniel's vision. The wars between Persia and Greece will lead finally to the emergence of Antiochus IV, who will defy God and His people. But Daniel is assured that God has appointed this evil ruler's end. Today, we also face a wicked foe, Satan, who prowls around like a roaring lion seeking to devour us (1Pt 5:8). Yet his end is also guaranteed because Christ died to "destroy the one who has the power of death" (Heb 2:14). Take comfort in Christ's victory. • Lord Jesus, thank You for defeating Satan and assuring us that we also will be conquerors through Christ. Amen.

DANIEL—NOTE ON Ch 9 Luth: "The ninth chapter opens with a splendid prayer in which Daniel prays for his people who are held captive in Babylon, and for the city of Jerusalem and the temple. He prays that the Jews [Judeans] might return to Jerusalem and there resume their worship of God. The prayer is answered, and to Daniel is revealed the number of years until Christ should come and begin his eternal kingdom. Now this is a remarkable and great revelation of Christ which sets the time so surely and accurately" (AE 35:303).

DANIEL—NOTE ON 9:1 first year. 539 BC. Darius ... a Mede. See note, 5:31. Cf ch 6. Ahasuerus. Not the king mentioned in Ezr 4:6; Est 1:1. Chaldeans. Babylonians (see note, 1:4).

DANIEL—NOTE ON 9:2 books. Scrolls. Daniel searched the Scriptures after learning in his previous vision that the Jerusalem sanctuary would be restored after "2,300 evenings and mornings" (8:14; cf 8:26). Scribes were collecting the Books of the Prophets (the second portion of the Hbr Bible) and regarded them as divine and authoritative. See pp 1081–83. Daniel's prophecy would later also be collected for the third portion of the Hbr Bible, the Writings, which included the Books of Wisdom and most later historical books (Ru, Lam, Est, Ezr, Ne, 1Ch, 2Ch). seventy years. Jeremiah prophesied that 70 years must pass before the exiles would return to Jerusalem and the desolations of the city would end (Jer 29:10). This was a punishment for the Judeans and a period of rest for the land they had exploited. See note, 2Ch 36:21; see also p 206.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 9:3 Daniel prayed three times a day (6:10). What follows in vv 4–19 is an example of his pleas for mercy, addressed to the Lord shortly before Cyrus issued his decree in 538 BC allowing the Judean exiles to return home (Ezr 1:2–3). mercy. See pp 842–43. fasting. See p 189. sackcloth and ashes. See notes, Jb 2:8; 16:15.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 9:4 confession. Daniel was conscious of his own sins and those of Israel. Cf Ne 9. keeps covenant and steadfast love. In contrast to Israel's unfaithfulness, the Lord's love for His people did not waver. See notes, Ex 34:6–7; see also pp 127, 843.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 9:5 sinned. Hbr chata', "miss the mark." See p 959. Daniel repeatedly characterized Israel's rebellion and lawlessness with this word (vv 8, 11, 16, 20).
DANIEL—NOTE ON 9:6 On the prophets' ministry, see pp 1081–83.
DANIEL—NOTE ON 9:7–10 Daniel contrasted God's righteousness with Israel's glaring wickedness. Whereas Israel walked in sin, the Lord is distinguished by mercy and forgiveness. See notes, Ex 34:6–7.
DANIEL—NOTE ON 9:7 righteousness. See p 843.
DANIEL—NOTE ON 9:9 mercy. See pp 842–43.
DANIEL—NOTE ON 9:10 His servants the prophets. See pp 1081–83.
DANIEL—NOTE ON 9:11 curse and oath. Moses had warned the people of Israel that the Lord would pronounce curses on them for their sins. See pp 6–7.
DANIEL—NOTE ON 9:12 confirmed His words. Fulfilled the prophetic warnings spoken by Moses and other prophets. done against Jerusalem. City and temple had been destroyed by the Babylonians and still lay in ruins (v 17).
DANIEL—NOTE ON 9:13 not ... turning from our iniquities. Exiles were guilty of continuing in the sins of their ancestors. See notes, Ezk 20:1–4, 5–32.
DANIEL—NOTE ON 9:14 kept ready the calamity. Cf Jer 31:28; 44:27. righteous. See p 843.
DANIEL—NOTE ON 9:15 brought Your people out of ... Egypt. Daniel concluded his confession of sin by reminding the Lord of His great act of salvation on behalf of Israel. mighty hand. See "hand," p 842. made a name for Yourself. See "name" and "for Your name's sake," pp 843, 842.
DANIEL—NOTE ON 9:16–19 Repeated plea that the Lord would have mercy on Jerusalem.
DANIEL—NOTE ON 9:16 holy hill. Mount Zion, location of the temple in Jerusalem. See "Zion," p 844; see also map, p 493.
DANIEL—NOTE ON 9:17 mercy. See pp 842–43. for Your own sake. See "for Your name's sake," p 842. make Your face to shine. Sign of God's favor. See note, Nu 6:25; see also p 1276.
DANIEL—NOTE ON 9:18 Open Your eyes. Vivid way of appealing to God to take note of the desolations in Jerusalem (cf Ps 44:23). See note, Is 45:15. called by Your name. See p 842. because of Your great mercy. "Faith saves because it takes hold of mercy, or the promise of grace, even though our works are unworthy" (Ap V 217).

DANIEL—NOTE ON 9:19 hear ... forgive ... pay attention and act. Daniel concluded his appeal for the Lord's mercy with a litany of petitions. "So Daniel teaches us in praying to seize mercy, that is, to trust in God's mercy and not to trust in our own merits before God" (Ap V 210). called by Your name. See p 842.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 9:1–19 Daniel fervently longs for the restoration of Jerusalem and the temple. His search of the Scriptures leads him to Jeremiah's prophecy that the captivity would end after 70 years. Daniel is aware that Israel's sins brought God's curse on them. His long prayer is a heartfelt confession of sins and an earnest plea for the Lord's mercy. The pattern of Daniel's prayer is one that we continue to follow in worship and private devotions. We are confident of being heard because Jesus is seated at the right hand of the Father. • O Christ, Lamb of God, have mercy on me, a sinner, and grant me peace. Amen.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 9:20 holy hill. See note, v 16.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 9:21 man Gabriel. Angel who had appeared to Daniel previously and interpreted his vision of the ram, goat, and little horn. swift flight. Gabriel came at once in answer to Daniel's prayer. Hipp: "You see how the prophet likens the speed of the angels to a winged bird, on account of the light and rapid motion with which these spirits fly so quickly in discharge of orders" (ANF 5:190). evening sacrifice. Daniel's evening prayer coincided with the time the evening sacrifice would normally have been offered in the temple (cf Ps 141:2). See p 1567.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 9:23 word went out. God commanded Gabriel to go to Daniel. you are greatly loved. Daniel needed this assurance after confessing his sins and deploring Jerusalem's desolations. consider the word and understand the vision. Gabriel links the word of Jeremiah (v 2) with the previous vision (ch 8). We are helped to understand Gabriel's answer in vv 24–27 (see notes) by recalling his interpretation of the previous vision (8:19–26) and what follows in ch 11.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 9:20–23 God demonstrates His love for Daniel by immediately responding to his prayer. Today, we have Jesus' assurance that He will hear and answer the prayers of His disciples (Jn 14:13–14; 15:16; 16:23–24). Therefore, we may pray with confidence and patience, knowing that God will hear. • Lord, hear my prayer and answer me as You know best. Grant me great patience and faith in Your love. Amen.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 9:24–27 One of the more difficult and controverted texts of the OT. Of the many suggested interpretations, two are most noteworthy. They are presented together on p 1417. Notes on these verses follow the traditional messianic interpretation.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 9:24 Seventy weeks. Likely related to the "seventy years" of which Jeremiah spoke (v 2). Numbers like seven, seventy, and other multiples of seven are often symbolic (cf Mt 18:21–22). See p 217. The figure here is not a literal 70 weeks referring to the restoration of the temple, because the second temple was not completed until 516 BC (c 23 years after Daniel's vision). The Hbr word for "week" is literally "seven" (see ESV note). Seventy "sevens" is 490 units of time, which some regard as symbolic for c 490 years, from the end of the exile to the time of Christ. holy city. Jerusalem. finish the transgression ... iniquity. The people and city would continue to suffer for their sins, as God had threatened. righteousness. See p 843. seal both vision and prophet. See note, 8:26; cf 12:4. Wording indicates that the prophecy of 70 weeks has to do with the future, when it would be unsealed. (On the practical use of seals, see note, Jer 32:10.) The prophecy of Jeremiah was fulfilled literally during the 70 years of the exile. But here Gabriel uses the symbolic quality of the number to introduce another topic of prophecy. (On prophetic perspective, see p 1258.) The idea of 70 weeks may also connect with the OT theme of Sabbath rest for the land during the exile. See note, 2Ch 36:21; see also p 206. to anoint a most holy place. This translation implies rededication of the temple (cf Ezr 6:13–18; 1Macc 4:42–59). However, the Hbr literally says "to anoint a holy of holies" or "to anoint a most holy one" (see ESV note), which could refer to a person such as the Messiah (cf "anointed one," v 25). Hipp: "The Most Holy is none else but the Son of God alone" (ANF 5:181).

DANIEL—NOTE ON 9:25 the word to restore. Possibly refers to the decree of Cyrus in 538 BC (Ezr 1:2), which ended the exile. anointed one, a prince. May refer to either Zerubbabel or Joshua (see note, Zec 4:13–14). See also p 228. anointed. See note, 1Sm 10:1. seven weeks. Relatively short period of time, perhaps to the completion of the second temple. sixty-two weeks. Bulk of the time period, which may extend to the NT era. built again with squares and moat. Nehemiah would rebuild the walls and city of Jerusalem. moat. Defensive trench, not necessarily filled with water. troubled time. Jerusalem was dominated by the Persians, Alexander the Great and his successors (cf 8:1–8; 11:2–4), the Maccabees, and finally the Romans. However, the city was continually inhabited amid all this trouble and became the capital of the region. Only during the reign of Antiochus IV were temple services disrupted.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 9:26 Luth: "Then after sixty-two weeks (he says) Christ shall be put to death. Here he shows what is to happen when these sixty-nine weeks are up, and Christ has begun [his ministry], namely, that Christ shall be crucified" (AE 35:305). Aph: "Daniel testifies that, when Christ comes and is slain, Jerusalem shall be destroyed, and shall continue in desolation until the accomplishment of the things which are determined, for ever" (NPNF 2 13:390). people of the prince ... destroy. Romans destroyed Jerusalem and the temple in AD 70. Its end ... flood. The end would come suddenly. Cf Mk 13:14–23 for Jesus' warnings.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 9:27 strong covenant. Luth: "The preaching of Christ spread mightily … proclaiming to the people the promised grace" (AE 35:305). one week. Short period of time. half of the week. About midway through the final period. end to sacrifice and offering. Luth: "Christ was put to death. And then the sacrifice ceased; that is, through Christ's death, which is the true sacrifice, the Jewish sacrifice and worship were abolished" (AE 35:305). wing of abominations. Luth: "The Romans under Emperor Caius Caligula placed an idol in the temple (as the angel says here [9:27]) as a sign that the temple and Judaism were to be at an end" (AE 35:305). decreed end. God is also speaking about the end of Rome.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 9:24–27 Gabriel directs Daniel to expand his vision of the future. Daniel was to think not of seventy years but of seventy times seven. The things of which Gabriel spoke remain somewhat mysterious. What we can learn from Gabriel's message is that God's vision of the future surpasses all our thinking and calculating. We walk by faith and not by sight (2Co 5:7), trusting that the One who kept His promise to send the Messiah, the Anointed One, will keep all His promises to us in His own time and way. • Take my hand and lead me, dear Lord, for then I know I am safe. Amen.

DANIEL—NOTE ON Chs 10–12 Though quoting other speakers, Daniel is the narrator (except for 10:1, which characterizes the contents). He describes an encounter with a heavenly messenger.

DANIEL—NOTE ON Ch 10 Luth: "The tenth chapter is a prologue to the eleventh. Yet in it Daniel writes something special about the angels, the like of which we find nowhere else in the Scriptures, namely, that the good angels do battle with the evil angels in defense of men. Besides Daniel calls also the evil angels princes, as when he speaks of 'the prince of Greece' [10:20]. Hence we may understand why things are so wild and dissolute at the courts of kings and princes, and why they hinder the good and bring on war and unhappiness. For there are devils there, hounding and goading, or hindering to such an extent that nothing goes as it should" (AE 35:305–6).
DANIEL—NOTE ON 10:1 third year. 536 BC (after the capture of Babylon in 539 BC). Cyrus king of Persia. See notes, 1:21; 6:28. Belteshazzar. See note, 1:7. great conflict. Described in ch 11. vision. Daniel's previous vision (ch 8) disclosed information similar to that found in ch 11.
DANIEL—NOTE ON 10:2 Daniel continued to grieve for his people and Jerusalem (9:3, 16). Two years had passed since the Judeans were allowed to return to Jerusalem. Daniel was too old to return. Perhaps he heard of the hardships the returnees were facing.
DANIEL—NOTE ON 10:3 anoint myself. Use of oil was normal hygiene in a dry climate (cf Ec 9:8), but a mourner abstained from anointing (2Sm 14:2).
DANIEL—NOTE ON 10:4 first month. Nisan (Mar/Apr). Tigris. Large river east of Babylon. His previous vision was at the Ulai canal (8:2).
DANIEL—NOTE ON 10:5 man clothed in linen. Divine messenger; called a "man," as was Gabriel previously (8:15; 9:21). Uphaz. Location unknown.
DANIEL—NOTE ON 10:6 beryl. See note, Ezk 1:16.
DANIEL—NOTE ON 10:7 The vision was intended only for Daniel. great trembling … fled. They knew something unusual was taking place, perhaps from Daniel's reactions.
DANIEL—NOTE ON 10:8 no strength. Daniel repeatedly spoke of his weakness and need to be strengthened (cf vv 16–19). my radiant appearance. Reflecting the glory of the Lord.
DANIEL—NOTE ON 10:9 fell on my face. See note, 8:17. deep sleep. See note, 8:18.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 10:10 hand touched me. Daniel may have been met by a number of heavenly beings (cf vv 5, 10, 16, 18). This could have been either the hand of the messenger (v 5) or another divine being who had been sent (v 11).
DANIEL—NOTE ON 10:11 man greatly loved. Daniel was held in high esteem. See note, Ezk 14:14.
DANIEL—NOTE ON 10:12 Daniel's prayers were heard (v 2), but the answer was delayed.
DANIEL—NOTE ON 10:13 prince of the kingdom of Persia. Spiritual being, perhaps a fallen angel, who contended for Persia. withstood me twenty-one days. God's messenger was held up for three weeks (v 2) before coming to Daniel. Michael. Israel's prince/angel, whose name means "who is like God." Helped the messenger in his spiritual struggle against the prince of Persia.
DANIEL—NOTE ON 10:14 What the messenger had to say to Daniel concerned a time that lay in the future. See note, 8:26.
DANIEL—NOTE ON 10:15 face toward the ground. See "bow," p 1276.
DANIEL—NOTE ON 10:16 one ... children of man. See note, v 10. touched my lips. So Daniel could speak again (see note, v 8). lord. Hbr 'adonai. Not the Lord God but an address showing respect.
DANIEL—NOTE ON 10:19 Daniel was strengthened (cf v 8) and thus made ready to hear what the messenger had to say. peace be with you. See p 7.
DANIEL—NOTE ON 10:20 return to fight. The messenger had to resume his struggle with the Persian prince. See note, v 13. prince of Greece. Another battle loomed.
DANIEL—NOTE ON 10:21 The messenger would first fulfill his assignment to tell Daniel what had been written about Israel's future (v 1; 11:2). This thought is continued in ch 11. Michael. See note, v 13.
DANIEL—NOTE ON Ch 10 Daniel continues to grieve over the fate of his people and Jerusalem. Once again, the Lord sends a divine messenger to strengthen Daniel and prepare him spiritually for the word of truth he will hear. That Daniel is strengthened by an angel reminds us of Jesus' experience in Gethsemane (Lk 22:43) and His promise that angels watch over us (Mt 18:10). Our knowledge of how angels serve God's people is very limited. We know they guard our ways (Ps 91:11–12), which may also include strengthening us when we are weak. • Lord of heaven and earth, send Your holy angels to care for me, that I may be strengthened to do Your will. Amen.

DANIEL—NOTE ON Ch 11 Luth: "Daniel prophesies to his people, the Jews [Judeans]—almost exactly as he does in the eighth chapter—concerning Alexander the Great and the two kingdoms, Syria and Egypt, chiefly on account of Antiochus (called the Noble) who is to plague the Jews. But he describes Antiochus in such a way that his words ultimately tend under the figure of Antiochus to portray the very Antichrist. And so Daniel is actually referring here to these last times of ours just before the Last Day. For all teachers are unanimously agreed that these prophecies about Antiochus point to the Antichrist" (AE 35:306).

DANIEL—NOTE ON 11:1 first year. 539 BC. Darius the Mede. See note, 5:31. confirm and strengthen. The messenger had helped Michael during the reign of Darius.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 11:2 three more kings … a fourth. Persian kings Cambyses (528–523 BC); Bardiya, or Gaumata or Pseudo-Smerdis (522 BC); Darius I (522–486 BC); and Xerxes I (486–465 BC). kingdom of Greece. Xerxes invaded Greece and was defeated at Salamis (480 BC).

DANIEL—NOTE ON 11:3 mighty king. Alexander the Great invaded and conquered lands from modern Turkey to India and ruled the largest empire of the ancient world. See map, p 1554.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 11:4 divided toward the four winds. See note, 8:22.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 11:5 king of the south. Ptolemy I, ruler of Egypt (see p 1421). one of his princes. Seleucus I, who established his kingdom in Syria.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 11:6 daughter. Ptolemy II of Egypt gave his daughter Berenice in marriage to Antiochus II, ruler in Syria, who divorced his first wife, Laodice. king of the north. Antiochus II. she shall not retain the strength of her arm. Laodice regained power and killed Berenice. he who supported her. Antiochus II, who was also killed.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 11:7 branch from her roots. Ptolemy III, brother of Berenice, avenged his sister by executing Laodice.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 11:8 carry off to Egypt. Ptolemy III plundered Syria, a sign of his superior power.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 11:10–13 Seleucus II was succeeded by his sons, Seleucus III and Antiochus III. A large part of Israel was captured. In response, Ptolemy IV of Egypt went to war against Antiochus III. After Antiochus lost c 7,000 men in a battle at Raphia in 217 BC, he raised an even larger army to invade the Ptolemaic Kingdom.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 11:14 Judean men would join the fight against Egypt.
DANIEL—NOTE ON 11:15 siegeworks. See note, 2Ki 18:14. well-fortified city. Sidon, belonging to Egypt.
DANIEL—NOTE ON 11:16 glorious land. Israel, the Promised Land.
DANIEL—NOTE ON 11:17 terms of an agreement. Antiochus III made peace with Egypt. daughter of women to destroy the kingdom. Antiochus III gave his daughter Cleopatra to Ptolemy V, hoping she would influence Egyptian policy in favor of Syria. But she was loyal to her husband and Egypt.
DANIEL—NOTE ON 11:18 commander. Roman general Scipio Africanus soundly defeated Antiochus III and took his son, later Antiochus IV, hostage.
DANIEL—NOTE ON 11:19 not be found. Antiochus III was assassinated in 187 BC while attempting to rob a temple to pay tribute to Rome.
DANIEL—NOTE ON 11:20 exactor of tribute. Seleucus IV succeeded his father and sent Heliodorus to seize the temple treasury in Jerusalem. Cf 2Macc 3:7–40. neither in anger nor in battle. In 175 BC, Seleucus was poisoned by Heliodorus.
DANIEL—NOTE ON 11:21 Antiochus IV, who may have been involved in the plot to murder his brother (v 20). See note, 8:23.
DANIEL—NOTE ON 11:22 prince of the covenant. Probably Onias III, the high priest at Jerusalem.
DANIEL—NOTE ON 11:23 alliance. Possibly with Ptolemy VI of Egypt. small people. Only a small number of people supported Antiochus IV at first.
DANIEL—NOTE ON 11:25 king of the south ... shall not stand. Ptolemy VI was taken prisoner when Antiochus IV occupied Egypt.
DANIEL—NOTE ON 11:26 those who eat his food. Ptolemy's advisers Eulaeus and Lenaeus foolishly counseled him to attack Antiochus.
DANIEL—NOTE ON 11:27 two kings. Antiochus IV and Ptolemy VI. speak lies at the same table. Both kings were committed to serving their own interests. time appointed. The Lord controls the time when evil will be defeated.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 11:28 set against the holy covenant. Antiochus would enact laws and take actions opposing God's holy will. See pp 1553–56. covenant. See p 127.
DANIEL—NOTE ON 11:29 Second campaign of Antiochus against Egypt.
DANIEL—NOTE ON 11:30 Kittim. Originally referred to the island of Cyprus but came to mean generally the coastlands of the Great Sea. A Roman fleet came to Egypt and ordered Antiochus not to attack. action against the holy covenant. See note, v 28.
DANIEL—NOTE ON 11:31 Antiochus made every effort to obliterate the religion of God's people and introduce pagan practices. See notes, 8:11, 25. abomination that makes desolate. A "desolating sacrilege" was erected in the temple on the altar of burnt offering, and pagan sacrifices were offered (1Macc 1:41–64).
DANIEL—NOTE ON 11:32 people who know their God. Opponents of Antiochus, led by the Maccabees (Hasmoneans), resisted his orders (167 BC). Hus: "Blessed be God and the Father of our Lord Jesus Christ who has hidden the way of truth from the wise and prudent and revealed it unto simple laymen and little priests who choose rather to obey God than men, who in acts generically good and acts neutral have the life of Christ before their eyes" (The Church, p 254).
DANIEL—NOTE ON 11:33 wise. Faithful religious teachers who would instruct the people.
DANIEL—NOTE ON 11:35 refined, purified, and made white. Figurative expressions indicating that the wise would be made clean by their sufferings (cf 12:10). time of the end. When the period of oppression seen in the vision would come to an end. Cf 12:4, 9.
DANIEL—NOTE ON 11:36–12:13 The description turns from Antiochus IV to the Antichrist; the reign of the former wicked ruler foreshadows that of the latter. Cf 2Th 2:3–4, 8–12. On prophetic perspective, see p 1258. Hipp: "The prophet set forth these things concerning the Antichrist, who shall be shameless, a war-maker, and despot…. Him the impious will worship as God, and will bend to him the knee, thinking him to be the Christ" (ANF 5:184).
DANIEL—NOTE ON 11:36 magnify himself above every god. Antiochus called himself "god manifest" (see note, 8:23). The Antichrist will make similar bold claims. speak. See note, 7:25. God of gods. The true God, above all other gods.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 11:37 gods of his fathers. Or, "God of his fathers." one beloved by women. Lit, "the desire of women." He will suppress natural affection that leads to marriage.
DANIEL—NOTE ON 11:38 gold … costly gifts. "The true adornment of the churches is godly, useful, and clear doctrine, the devout use of the Sacraments, fervent prayer, and the like. Candles, golden vessels, and similar adornments are fitting, but they are not the specifically unique adornment belonging to the Church. If the adversaries make these things the focus of worship, and not the preaching of the Gospel, in faith (and the struggles of faith) they are to be numbered among those whom Daniel describes as worshiping their god with gold and silver" (Ap XXIV 51).
DANIEL—NOTE ON 11:39 foreign god. Directing people away from the true God. Those who acknowledge him. He will honor his supporters, some of whom were Judeans. divide the land for a price. Reward for those who follow his false religion.
DANIEL—NOTE ON 11:40 time of the end. See note, v 35. king of the south. See notes, vv 5, 25.
DANIEL—NOTE ON 11:41 glorious land. Israel, the Promised Land. Edom and Moab ... Ammonites. Countries east and south of Israel. See color map 2. Emblematic of Israel's enduring enemies.
DANIEL—NOTE ON 11:43 Libyans and the Cushites. Countries west and south of Egypt. follow in his train. Submit to him.
DANIEL—NOTE ON 11:44 devote many to destruction. Planned further conquests. See p 6.
DANIEL—NOTE ON 11:45 palatial tents. Large tents were commonly used by royalty when they traveled. sea. Lit, "the waters," perhaps the Great Sea and Salt Sea. holy mountain. See note, 9:16. he shall come to his end. Cf 2Th 2:8.

DANIEL—NOTE ON Ch 11 The Lord's messenger reveals to Daniel the coming conflicts between Persia and Greece, Egypt and Syria, culminating in the wicked reign of that "contemptible person," King Antiochus IV Epiphanes (175–164 BC). War and violence have never been absent from human history. At times, evil rulers have persecuted the people of God, bringing great affliction on them. But such suffering will be only for the time appointed by the Lord. Even in the midst of turmoil and tribulation, believers have the peace that the world cannot give, the peace that is in Jesus Christ, our deliverer (Jn 14:27; 2Th 3:16). • Gracious heavenly Father, thank You for sending Jesus, the Prince of Peace. Grant me steadfast faith amid all troubles. Amen.

DANIEL—NOTE ON Ch 12 Luth: "The twelfth chapter of Daniel … has to do wholly with the Antichrist and with these last times in which we are living. For this reason we do not have to consult the histories any longer at this point. Rather it is the clear gospel" (AE 35:313).

DANIEL—NOTE ON 12:1 Michael. Archangel. See note, 10:13. your people. Michael was charged to care for Israel but this reference may include "new Israel," the Church. time of trouble. God's people would suffer greatly because of the great conflict (9:25; 10:1; 11:5–45). delivered. See p 842. written in the book. God's Book of Life, listing those who remain faithful.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 12:2 sleep ... awake. The dead will be raised to live again. Ambr: "Well, then, did he speak of the rest of those that sleep, that one may understand that death lasts not for ever, which like sleep is undergone for a time, and is put off at its time" (NPNF 2 10:184). Jn D: "The words … clearly show that there will be a resurrection of bodies" (NPNF 2 9:100b). everlasting life. For those written in the book (v 1). shame and everlasting contempt. For those who cooperated with Antichrist.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 12:3 shine. Like stars. Their glory is a blessing of God's grace. Ambr: "The progress of that life which shall be after death is better than that which is passed in sorrow and pain before death" (NPNF 2 10:184). turn many. Ambr: "So the choirs of apostles, martyrs, and priests, shining like glorious stars, might give light throughout the world" (NPNF 2 10:226). righteousness. See p 843.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 12:4 seal the book. See notes, 8:26; 9:24. run to and fro. Seeking some word from God (Am 8:11–12). knowledge shall increase. Worldly learning, which is no help in knowing God's will. This concludes Daniel's report of what the messenger said to him (10:20–12:4).

DANIEL—NOTE ON 12:5 two others. As in his previous vision (8:13), Daniel heard two angels speaking.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 12:6 man clothed in linen. See note, 10:5. How long. Key question continued to be asked (see note, 8:13). wonders? Awesome events described in chs 11–12.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 12:7 raised his right … left hand … and swore. Raising both hands emphasized the solemnity of his oath. a time, times, and half a time. Yields three and a half "times," half of the symbolic number seven. See p 217. So the reign of Antichrist stands in opposition to God's order and is chaotic and cut short. Commentators have also noted that Antiochus IV desecrated the temple for c three years. The messenger may use Antiochus's actions to symbolize the chaos and blasphemy of Antichrist's reign. See note, 7:25. power of the holy people. In the OT and the Time between the Testaments, believers often held civil as well as spiritual authority. Here, the messenger likely describes the influence of God's people upon larger society.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 12:8–13 Daniel is told to go on with his life, even if he does not understand what he has seen and heard. We, too, should take special note of this counsel: God does not want His people caught up in endless speculation about His timing (cf Ac 1:7). He calls us to serve Him and gives clear ways to do so. Focus here on the general point of the angel's message rather than the difficult symbolism describing matters that are sealed up until God fulfills them.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 12:9 sealed. See notes, 8:26; 9:24; Jer 32:10.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 12:10 purify ... refined. See note, 11:35. wicked. Those who side with Antichrist (v 2). understand. Though Daniel did not understand, wise people would understand when the events later took place. Despite the trials they would experience, the Lord would preserve them. The general message is that God's wisdom and kingdom will prevail.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 12:11–12 Matters described here could be any of three events, all of which were future to Daniel: (1) the desecration of the temple by Antiochus IV Epiphanes in 167 BC; (2) the destruction of the temple by the Romans in AD 70; or (3) an abomination to be committed by the Antichrist in the last days. See note, 11:31. Hipp: "Daniel has spoken, therefore, of two abominations; the one of destruction, and the other of desolation. What is that of destruction, but that which Antiochus established there at the time? And what is that of desolation, but that which shall be universal when Antichrist comes?" (ANF 5:184). 1,290 days ... 1,335 days. Difference of 45 days. How these two figures relate to history or the future is not entirely clear. They likely apply to one of the events described above. Commentators offer numerous proposals. However, bear in mind the angel's advice to Daniel in v 9: focus on your calling, not speculation. A helpful observation is that God promises to bless those who endure hardship. This promise is made throughout Scripture and applies to believers of all eras. Blessed. See p 842. he who waits. Person of faith who hopes in the Lord's deliverance (cf Ps 130:5–6).

DANIEL—NOTE ON 12:13 go your way. See note, vv 8–13. your allotted place. Daniel was assured that after death he would stand with the wise and receive his eternal reward.

DANIEL—NOTE ON Ch 12 The long discourse of the man clothed in linen (chs 10–12) concludes with encouragement for Daniel. He is assured that Michael is in charge of Israel; the people will be delivered; and those whose names are written in God's book will rise to everlasting life in the end. Believers have always been curious about when the end of the world is coming. Some have tried to precisely determine that date based on the various numbers found in Dn and other biblical books. Jesus made clear that no one knows that day and hour (Mk 13:32; trying to guess the year has led to numerous false prophecies [see p 307]). The angel's advice to Daniel, to "go your way," is good for us all. Know that you are in God's hand, and take comfort that He has allotted a place in heaven for you. • Almighty Father, I wait for You to guide my life as I go on my way to my heavenly home. Amen.

1 [1]†The word of the LORD that came to Hosea, the son of Beeri, in the days of Uzziah, Jotham, Ahaz, and Hezekiah, kings of Judah, and in the days of Jeroboam the son of Joash, king of Israel.

Hosea’s Wife and Children

2 † † When the Lord first spoke through Hosea, the Lord said to Hosea, “Go, take to yourself a wife of whoredom and have children of whoredom, for the land commits great whoredom by forsaking the Lord.” 3 †So he went and took Gomer, the daughter of Diblaim, and she conceived and bore him a son.

4 †And the Lord said to him, “Call his name Jezreel, for in just a little while I will punish the house of Jehu for the blood of Jezreel, and I will put an end to the kingdom of the house of Israel. 5 †And on that day I will break the bow of Israel in the Valley of Jezreel.”

6 †She conceived again and bore a daughter. And the Lord said to him, “Call her name No Mercy,[1] for I will no more have mercy on the house of Israel, to forgive them at all. 7 †But I will have mercy on the house of Judah, and I will save them by the Lord their God. I will not save them by bow or by sword or by war or by horses or by horsemen.”

8 †When she had weaned No Mercy, she conceived and bore a son. 9 †And the Lord said, “Call his name Not My People,[2] for you are not my people, and I am not your God.”[3]

10 † [4] Yet the number of the children of Israel shall be like the sand of the sea, which cannot be measured or numbered. And in the place where it was said to them, “You are not my people,” it shall be said to them, “Children[5] of the living God.” 11 †And the children of Judah and the children of Israel shall be gathered together, and they shall appoint for themselves one head.
And they shall go up from the land, for great shall be the day of Jezreel.

Israel's Unfaithfulness Punished

2 [1] ‡ † [1] Say to your brothers, "You are my people,"[2] and to your sisters, "You have received mercy."[3]

[2] † "Plead with your mother, plead—for she is not my wife, and I am not her husband—
that she put away her whoring from her face, and her adultery from between her breasts;
[3] † lest I strip her naked and make her as in the day she was born, and make her like a wilderness,
and make her like a parched land,
and kill her with thirst.
[4] † Upon her children also I will have no mercy,
because they are children of whoredom.
[5] † For their mother has played the whore;
she who conceived them has acted shamefully.
For she said, 'I will go after my lovers,
who give me my bread and my water,
my wool and my flax, my oil and my drink.'
[6] † Therefore I will hedge up her[4] way with thorns,
and I will build a wall against her,
so that she cannot find her paths.
[7] † She shall pursue her lovers
but not overtake them, and she shall seek them
but shall not find them.
Then she shall say,
'I will go and return to my first husband,
for it was better for me then than now.' [8] † And she did not know that it was I who gave her the grain, the wine, and the oil, and who lavished on her silver and gold,

which they used for Baal.
9 Therefore I will take back my grain in its time,
and my wine in its season,
and I will take away my wool and my flax,
which were to cover her nakedness.
10† Now I will uncover her lewdness in the sight of her lovers,
and no one shall rescue her out of my hand.
11† And I will put an end to all her mirth,
her feasts, her new moons, her Sabbaths,
and all her appointed feasts.
12† And I will lay waste her vines and her fig trees,
of which she said,
'These are my wages,
which my lovers have given me.'
I will make them a forest,
and the beasts of the field shall devour them.
13† And I will punish her for the feast days of the Baals
when she burned offerings to them and adorned herself with her ring and jewelry,
and went after her lovers
and forgot me, declares the LORD.

The Lord's Mercy on Israel

14 "Therefore, behold, I will allure her,
and bring her into the wilderness,
and speak tenderly to her.
15 And there I will give her her vineyards and make the Valley of Achor[1] a door of hope.
And there she shall answer as in the days of her youth,
as at the time when she came out of the land of Egypt.
16 "And in that day, declares the Lord, you will call me 'My Husband,' and no longer will you call me 'My Baal.' 17 For I will remove the names of the Baals from her mouth, and they shall be remembered by name no more.
18 And I will make for them a covenant on that day with the beasts of the field, the birds of the heavens, and the creeping things of the ground. And I will abolish[2] the bow, the sword, and war from the land, and I will make you lie down in safety. 19 And I will betroth you to me forever. I will betroth you to me in righteousness and in justice, in steadfast love and in mercy. 20 I will betroth you to me in faithfulness. And you shall know the Lord.

21 "And in that day I will answer, declares the Lord,
I will answer the heavens,
and they shall answer the earth, 22 and the earth shall answer the grain, the wine, and the oil, and they shall answer Jezreel,[1] 23 and I will sow her for myself in the land.
And I will have mercy on No Mercy,[2] and I will say to Not My People,[3] 'You are

my people’;
and he shall say, ‘You are my God.’”

Hosea Redeems His Wife

3 [1]†And the Lord said to me, “Go again, love a woman who is loved by another man and is an adulteress, even as the Lord loves the children of Israel, though they turn to other gods and love cakes of raisins.” [2]†So I bought her for fifteen shekels of silver and a homer and a lethech[4] of barley. [3]†And I said to her, “You must dwell as mine for many days. You shall not play the whore, or belong to another man; so will I also be to you.” [4]†For the children of Israel shall dwell many days without king or prince, without sacrifice or pillar, without ephod or household gods. [5]†Afterward the children of Israel shall return and seek the Lord their God, and David their king, and they shall come in fear to the Lord and to his goodness in the latter days.

The Lord Accuses Israel

4 [1]†Hear the word of the Lord, O children of Israel, for the Lord has a controversy with the inhabitants of the land.

There is no faithfulness or steadfast love,
and no knowledge of God in the land; [2]† there is swearing, lying, murder, stealing, and committing adultery;
they break all bounds, and bloodshed follows bloodshed.
[3]† Therefore the land mourns,
and all who dwell in it languish,
and also the beasts of the field and the birds of the heavens, and even the fish of the sea are taken away.

[4]† Yet let no one contend,
and let none accuse,
for with you is my contention, O priest.[1]

[5]† You shall stumble by day;
the prophet also shall stumble with you by night;
and I will destroy your mother.
[6]† My people are destroyed for lack of knowledge;
because you have rejected knowledge,
I reject you from being a priest to me.
And since you have forgotten the law of your God,
I also will forget your children.

7† The more they increased,
the more they sinned against me;
I will change their glory into shame.
8† They feed on the sin[2] of my people;
they are greedy for their iniquity.
9† And it shall be like people, like priest;
I will punish them for their ways
and repay them for their deeds.
10† They shall eat, but not be satisfied;
they shall play the whore, but not multiply,
because they have forsaken the LORD to cherish 11†whoredom, wine, and new wine,
which take away the understanding.
12† My people inquire of a piece of wood,
and their walking staff gives them oracles.
For a spirit of whoredom has led them astray, and they have left their God to play the whore.
13† They sacrifice on the tops of the mountains and burn offerings on the hills, under oak, poplar, and terebinth,
because their shade is good.
Therefore your daughters play the whore,
and your brides commit adultery.
14† I will not punish your daughters when they play the whore,
nor your brides when they commit adultery;
for the men themselves go aside with prostitutes
and sacrifice with cult prostitutes, and a people without understanding shall come to ruin.

15 Though you play the whore, O Israel, let not Judah become guilty.
Enter not into Gilgal,
nor go up to Beth-aven,
and swear not, “As the Lord lives.”
16 Like a stubborn heifer, Israel is stubborn;
can the Lord now feed them
like a lamb in a broad pasture?

17 Ephraim is joined to idols;
leave him alone.
18 When their drink is gone, they give themselves to whoring;
their rulers[1] dearly love shame.
19 A wind has wrapped them[2] in its wings, and they shall be ashamed because of their sacrifices.

Punishment Coming for Israel and Judah

5 [1]† Hear this, O priests!
Pay attention, O house of Israel!
Give ear, O house of the king!
For the judgment is for you;
for you have been a snare at Mizpah
and a net spread upon Tabor.

[2]† And the revolters have gone deep into slaughter,
but I will discipline all of them.

[3]† I know Ephraim,
and Israel is not hidden from me;
for now, O Ephraim, you have played the whore;
Israel is defiled.
[4]† Their deeds do not permit them to return to their God.
For the spirit of whoredom is within them,
and they know not the Lord.

[5]† The pride of Israel testifies to his face;[3]
Israel and Ephraim shall stumble in his guilt;
Judah also shall stumble with them.
[6]† With their flocks and herds they shall go to seek the Lord,
but they will not find him;
he has withdrawn from them.
[7]† They have dealt faithlessly with the Lord;
for they have borne alien children.

Now the new moon shall devour them with their fields.

8† Blow the horn in Gibeah,
the trumpet in Ramah.
Sound the alarm at Beth-aven;
we follow you,[1] O Benjamin!
9† Ephraim shall become a desolation
in the day of punishment;
among the tribes of Israel
I make known what is sure.
10† The princes of Judah have become like those who move the landmark;
upon them I will pour out
my wrath like water.
11† Ephraim is oppressed, crushed in judgment, because he was determined to go after filth.[2]
12† But I am like a moth to Ephraim,
and like dry rot to the house of Judah.

13† When Ephraim saw his sickness, and Judah his wound,
then Ephraim went to Assyria, and sent to the great king.[3]
But he is not able to cure you or heal your wound.
14† For I will be like a lion to Ephraim,
and like a young lion to the house of Judah.
I, even I, will tear and go away;
I will carry off, and no one shall rescue.

15† I will return again to my place, until they acknowledge their guilt and seek

my face,
and in their distress earnestly seek me.

Israel and Judah Are Unrepentant

6 [1]† “Come, let us return to the Lord;
for he has torn us, that he may heal us;
he has struck us down, and he will bind us up.

[2]† After two days he will revive us;
on the third day he will raise us up,
that we may live before him.
[3]† Let us know; let us press on to know the Lord;
his going out is sure as the dawn;
he will come to us as the showers,
as the spring rains that water the earth.”

[4]†† What shall I do with you, O Ephraim?
What shall I do with you, O Judah?
Your love is like a morning cloud,
like the dew that goes early away.
[5]† Therefore I have hewn them by the prophets;
I have slain them by the words of my mouth,
and my judgment goes forth as the light.
[6]† For I desire steadfast love[1] and not sacrifice, the knowledge of God rather than burnt offerings.

[7]† But like Adam they transgressed the covenant;
there they dealt faithlessly with me.
[8]† Gilead is a city of evildoers, tracked with blood.

9† As robbers lie in wait for a man,
so the priests band together;
they murder on the way to Shechem;
they commit villainy.
10† In the house of Israel I have seen a horrible thing;
Ephraim's whoredom is there; Israel is defiled.

11† For you also, O Judah, a harvest is appointed,
when I restore the fortunes of my people.

7 1† When I would heal Israel,
the iniquity of Ephraim is revealed,
and the evil deeds of Samaria;
for they deal falsely;
the thief breaks in,
and the bandits raid outside.

2† But they do not consider that I remember all their evil.
Now their deeds surround them;
they are before my face.
3† By their evil they make the king glad,
and the princes by their treachery.
4† They are all adulterers;
they are like a heated oven whose baker ceases to stir the fire, from the kneading of the dough
until it is leavened.
5† On the day of our king, the princes became sick with the heat of wine;
he stretched out his hand with mockers.

6 † For with hearts like an oven they approach their intrigue;
all night their anger smolders;
in the morning it blazes like a flaming fire.
7 All of them are hot as an oven,
and they devour their rulers.
All their kings have fallen,
and none of them calls upon me.

8 † Ephraim mixes himself with the peoples;
Ephraim is a cake not turned.
9 † Strangers devour his strength,
and he knows it not;
gray hairs are sprinkled upon him,
and he knows it not.
10 † The pride of Israel testifies to his face;[1]
yet they do not return to the Lord their God, nor seek him, for all this.

11 † Ephraim is like a dove, silly and without sense,
calling to Egypt, going to Assyria.
12 † As they go, I will spread over them my net;
I will bring them down like birds of the
heavens;
I will discipline them according to the report made to their congregation.
13 †† Woe to them, for they have strayed from me!
Destruction to them, for they have rebelled against me!
I would redeem them,
but they speak lies against me.

14 † They do not cry to me from the heart, but they wail upon their beds;
for grain and wine they gash themselves;
they rebel against me.
15 † Although I trained and strengthened their arms,
yet they devise evil against me.
16 † They return, but not upward;[2]
they are like a treacherous bow;
their princes shall fall by the sword
because of the insolence of their tongue.
This shall be their derision in the land of Egypt.

Israel Will Reap the Whirlwind

8 [1]† Set the trumpet to your lips!
One like a vulture is over the house of the LORD,
because they have transgressed my covenant
and rebelled against my law.

[2]† To me they cry,
"My God, we—Israel—know you."
[3]† Israel has spurned the good;
the enemy shall pursue him.

[4]† They made kings, but not through me.
They set up princes, but I knew it not.
With their silver and gold they made
idols
for their own destruction.
[5]† I have[1] spurned your calf, O Samaria.
My anger burns against them.
How long will they be incapable of innocence?
[6]† For it is from Israel;
a craftsman made it;
it is not God.
The calf of Samaria
shall be broken to pieces.[2]

[7]† For they sow the wind, and they shall reap the whirlwind.
The standing grain has no heads;
it shall yield no flour;
if it were to yield,

strangers would devour it.
8 Israel is swallowed up;
already they are among the nations
as a useless vessel.
9 For they have gone up to Assyria,
a wild donkey wandering alone;
Ephraim has hired lovers.
10 Though they hire allies among the nations,
I will soon gather them up.
And the king and princes shall soon writhe
because of the tribute.

11 Because Ephraim has multiplied altars for sinning,
they have become to him altars for sinning.
12 Were I to write for him my laws by the ten thousands,
they would be regarded as a strange
thing.
13 As for my sacrificial offerings,
they sacrifice meat and eat it,
but the LORD does not accept them.
Now he will remember their iniquity and punish their sins;
they shall return to Egypt.
14 For Israel has forgotten his Maker and built palaces,
and Judah has multiplied fortified cities;
so I will send a fire upon his cities,
and it shall devour her strongholds.

The Lord Will Punish Israel

9 [1] Rejoice not, O Israel!
Exult not like the peoples;
for you have played the whore, forsaking
your God.
You have loved a prostitute's wages
on all threshing floors.

[2] Threshing floor and wine vat shall not feed
them,
and the new wine shall fail them.
[3] They shall not remain in the land of the Lord,
but Ephraim shall return to Egypt,
and they shall eat unclean food in Assyria.

[4] They shall not pour drink offerings of wine to the Lord,
and their sacrifices shall not please him.
It shall be like mourners' bread to them;
all who eat of it shall be defiled;
for their bread shall be for their hunger only;
it shall not come to the house of the Lord.

[5] What will you do on the day of the appointed festival,
and on the day of the feast of the Lord?
[6] For behold, they are going away from destruction;
but Egypt shall gather them;
Memphis shall bury them.
Nettles shall possess their precious things of silver;

thorns shall be in their tents.

7† The days of punishment have come;
the days of recompense have come;
Israel shall know it.
The prophet is a fool;
the man of the spirit is mad,
because of your great iniquity and great hatred.
8† The prophet is the watchman of Ephraim with my God;
yet a fowler's snare is on all his ways,
and hatred in the house of his God.
9† They have deeply corrupted themselves as in the days of Gibeah:
he will remember their iniquity;
he will punish their sins.

10†† Like grapes in the wilderness,
I found Israel.
Like the first fruit on the fig tree
in its first season,
I saw your fathers.
But they came to Baal-peor and consecrated themselves to the thing of shame,
and became detestable like the thing they loved.
11† Ephraim's glory shall fly away like a bird—
no birth, no pregnancy, no conception!
12† Even if they bring up children,
I will bereave them till none is left.
Woe to them
when I depart from them!

13† Ephraim, as I have seen, was like a young palm[1] planted in a meadow;
but Ephraim must lead his children out to slaughter.[2]
14† Give them, O LORD—what will you give?
Give them a miscarrying womb
and dry breasts.

15† Every evil of theirs is in Gilgal;
there I began to hate them.
Because of the wickedness of their deeds
I will drive them out of my house.
I will love them no more;
all their princes are rebels.

16† Ephraim is stricken;
their root is dried up;
they shall bear no fruit.
Even though they give birth,
I will put their beloved children to death.
17† My God will reject them because they have not listened to him;
they shall be wanderers among the nations.

10 1† Israel is a luxuriant vine
that yields its fruit.
The more his fruit increased,
the more altars he built;
as his country improved,
he improved his pillars.

2† Their heart is false;
now they must bear their guilt.

The Lord [3] will break down their altars and destroy their pillars.

3† For now they will say:
"We have no king,
for we do not fear the Lord;
and a king—what could he do for us?"
4† They utter mere words;
with empty oaths they make covenants;
so judgment springs up like poisonous weeds
in the furrows of the field.
5† The inhabitants of Samaria tremble for the calf[4] of Beth-aven.
Its people mourn for it, and so do its idolatrous priests—
those who rejoiced over it and over its glory—
for it has departed[5] from them.
6† The thing itself shall be carried to Assyria as tribute to the great king.[6] Ephraim shall be put to shame, and Israel shall be ashamed of his idol.[7]

7† Samaria's king shall perish like a twig on the face of the waters.
8† The high places of Aven, the sin of Israel, shall be destroyed.
Thorn and thistle shall grow up on their altars,
and they shall say to the mountains,
"Cover us,"
and to the hills, "Fall on us."

9† From the days of Gibeah, you have sinned, O Israel;
there they have continued.
Shall not the war against the unjust[1] overtake them in Gibeah?
10† When I please, I will discipline them, and nations shall be gathered against them when they are bound up for their double iniquity.

11† Ephraim was a trained calf that loved to thresh,
and I spared her fair neck;
but I will put Ephraim to the yoke;
Judah must plow;
Jacob must harrow for himself.
12† Sow for yourselves righteousness;
reap steadfast love;
break up your fallow ground,
for it is the time to seek the LORD, that he may come and rain righteousness
upon you.

13† You have plowed iniquity;
you have reaped injustice;
you have eaten the fruit of lies.
Because you have trusted in your own way
and in the multitude of your warriors, 14† therefore the tumult of war shall arise among your people,
and all your fortresses shall be destroyed,
as Shalman destroyed Beth-arbel on the day of battle;

mothers were dashed in pieces with their children.
15 † Thus it shall be done to you, O Bethel, because of your great evil.
At dawn the king of Israel shall be utterly cut off.

The Lord's Love for Israel

11 [1]†† When Israel was a child, I loved him, and out of Egypt I called my son.

[2]† The more they were called,
the more they went away;
they kept sacrificing to the Baals
and burning offerings to idols.

[3]† Yet it was I who taught Ephraim to walk;
I took them up by their arms,
but they did not know that I healed them.
[4]† I led them with cords of kindness,[1]
with the bands of love, and I became to them as one who eases the yoke on their jaws,
and I bent down to them and fed them.

[5]† They shall not[2] return to the land of Egypt,
but Assyria shall be their king,
because they have refused to return to me.
[6]† The sword shall rage against their cities, consume the bars of their gates,
and devour them because of their own counsels.
[7]† My people are bent on turning away from me,
and though they call out to the Most High,
he shall not raise them up at all.

[8]† How can I give you up, O Ephraim?
How can I hand you over, O Israel?

How can I make you like Admah?
How can I treat you like Zeboiim?
My heart recoils within me;
my compassion grows warm and tender.
9 I will not execute my burning anger;
I will not again destroy Ephraim;
for I am God and not a man,
the Holy One in your midst,
and I will not come in wrath.[3]

10 They shall go after the Lord;
he will roar like a lion;
when he roars,
his children shall come trembling from the west;
11 they shall come trembling like birds from Egypt,
and like doves from the land of Assyria,
and I will return them to their homes,
declares the Lord.
12 [4] Ephraim has surrounded me with lies,
and the house of Israel with deceit,
but Judah still walks with God and is faithful to the Holy One.

12 1 Ephraim feeds on the wind and pursues the east wind all day long;
they multiply falsehood and violence;
they make a covenant with Assyria,
and oil is carried to Egypt.

The Lord's Indictment of Israel and Judah

2 The Lord has an indictment against Judah and will punish Jacob according to his ways;
he will repay him according to his deeds.
3 In the womb he took his brother by the heel,
and in his manhood he strove with God.
4 He strove with the angel and prevailed;
he wept and sought his favor.
He met God[1] at Bethel, and there God spoke with us—5 the Lord, the God of hosts,
the Lord is his memorial name:
6 "So you, by the help of your God, return, hold fast to love and justice,
and wait continually for your God."

7 A merchant, in whose hands are false balances,
he loves to oppress.
8 Ephraim has said, "Ah, but I am rich;
I have found wealth for myself;
in all my labors they cannot find in me iniquity or sin."
9 I am the Lord your God
from the land of Egypt;
I will again make you dwell in tents,
as in the days of the appointed feast.

10 I spoke to the prophets;
it was I who multiplied visions,

and through the prophets gave parables.
11† If there is iniquity in Gilead,
they shall surely come to nothing:
in Gilgal they sacrifice bulls;
their altars also are like stone heaps on the furrows of the field.
12† Jacob fled to the land of Aram;
there Israel served for a wife,
and for a wife he guarded sheep.
13† By a prophet the LORD brought Israel up from Egypt,
and by a prophet he was guarded.
14† Ephraim has given bitter provocation;
so his Lord will leave his bloodguilt on him and will repay him for his disgraceful deeds.

The Lord's Relentless Judgment on Israel

13 [1]† When Ephraim spoke, there was trembling;
he was exalted in Israel,
but he incurred guilt through Baal and died.

[2]† And now they sin more and more,
and make for themselves metal images,
idols skillfully made of their silver,
all of them the work of craftsmen.
It is said of them,
"Those who offer human sacrifice kiss calves!"
[3]† Therefore they shall be like the morning mist or like the dew that goes early away, like the chaff that swirls from the threshing floor
or like smoke from a window.

[4]† But I am the Lord your God
from the land of Egypt;
you know no God but me,
and besides me there is no savior.
[5]† It was I who knew you in the wilderness,
in the land of drought;
[6]† but when they had grazed,[1] they became full,
they were filled, and their heart was lifted up;
therefore they forgot me.
[7]† So I am to them like a lion;
like a leopard I will lurk beside the way.
[8]† I will fall upon them like a bear robbed of her cubs;
I will tear open their breast,

and there I will devour them like a lion,
as a wild beast would rip them open.

9† He destroys[2] you, O Israel,
for you are against me, against your helper.
10 Where now is your king, to save you in all your cities?
Where are all your rulers—
those of whom you said, “ Give me a king and princes”?
11† I gave you a king in my anger,
and I took him away in my wrath.

12† The iniquity of Ephraim is bound up; his sin is kept in store.
13† The pangs of childbirth come for him, but he is an unwise son,
for at the right time he does not present himself
at the opening of the womb.

14† Shall I ransom them from the power of Sheol?
Shall I redeem them from Death?
O Death, where are your plagues?
O Sheol, where is your sting?
Compassion is hidden from my eyes.

15† Though he may flourish among his brothers, the east wind, the wind of the Lord, shall come,
rising from the wilderness,
and his fountain shall dry up;
his spring shall be parched;

it shall strip his treasury
of every precious thing.
16† [1] Samaria shall bear her guilt, because she has rebelled against her God;
they shall fall by the sword;
their little ones shall be dashed in pieces,
and their pregnant women ripped open.

A Plea to Return to the Lord

14 [1]† Return, O Israel, to the Lord your God, for you have stumbled because of your iniquity.

[2]† Take with you words
and return to the Lord;
say to him,
“ Take away all iniquity;
accept what is good,
and we will pay with bulls
the vows[2] of our lips.
[3]† Assyria shall not save us;
we will not ride on horses;
and we will say no more, ‘Our God,’
to the work of our hands.
In you the orphan finds mercy.”

[4]†† I will heal their apostasy;
I will love them freely,
for my anger has turned from them.
[5]† I will be like the dew to Israel;
he shall blossom like the lily;
he shall take root like the trees of Lebanon;
[6]† his shoots shall spread out;
his beauty shall be like the olive,
and his fragrance like Lebanon.
[7]† They shall return and dwell beneath my[3] shadow;
they shall flourish like the grain;
they shall blossom like the vine;
their fame shall be like the wine of Lebanon.

8† O Ephraim, what have I to do with idols?
It is I who answer and look after you.[1]
I am like an evergreen cypress;
from me comes your fruit.
9† Whoever is wise, let him understand these things;
whoever is discerning, let him know them;
for the ways of the LORD are right,
and the upright walk in them,
but transgressors stumble in them.

Introduction to Hosea

Reading Hosea

Lamplight reached into the corners of the alley, revealing a woman's face beside a wretched pool. The watchman had seen her before. She used to pass through the streets at twilight, dressed in shimmering garments, strings of beads clinking about her neck as she hurried to reach a man who held out a ring and a cup of wine. Later, the watchman had seen her with bloodshot eyes receiving a stranger who offered her a mere loaf of bread and a wink. Now no one noticed her stumble and fall in the darkness except the watchman, who unpinned his wool cloak and covered her shame.

The prophet Hosea recorded how excess and idolatrous feasts caused the shameless leaders of Israel to stumble. Assyria would descend upon them in their stupor and rob them of all the goods and land the Lord had given them. Though the leaders knew of God's love and faithfulness, they failed to teach the people and so led them to destruction.

Luther on Hosea

Hosea lived and preached, as he himself indicates in the title [1:1], at the time of the second and last Jeroboam, king of Israel. This was the same time in which Isaiah and also Amos and Micah were living in Judah; but Hosea was the oldest of them.

Jeroboam too was a fine and prosperous king who did much for the kingdom of Israel, as II Kings 14[:23–27] testifies. Nevertheless he persisted in the old idolatry of his ancestors, the kings of Israel. Thus although there were truly many fine men in the nation at that time, they still could not make the people righteous. For the devil had to inflict this misery on the people, that they always killed the prophets and sacrificed their children to the idols, and so filled the land with bloodguiltiness, because of which he here in chapter 1[:5] threatens Jezreel.

It appears, however, as though this prophecy of Hosea was not fully and entirely written, but that pieces and sayings were taken out of his preaching and brought together into a book. Nevertheless we can trace and discover in it this much at least, that he performed the two offices fully and boldly. First he preached vigorously against the idolatry of his time and bravely rebuked the people, together with the king and his princes and priests. It was surely for this reason that he, like the others, tasted death. He had to die as a heretic against the priests and as a rebel against the king, for that is a prophetic and apostolic death, and in this way Christ himself had to die. Second he also prophesied powerfully and most comfortingly about Christ and his kingdom, as is shown particularly in chapters 2, 13, and 14.

But no one should think because he uses the words “harlot” and “harlotry” many times, and in chapter 1[:2–3] takes a “wife of harlotry,” that he was unchaste in words and deeds. For Hosea is speaking allegorically; this “wife of harlotry” is his lawfully wedded wife, and with her he begot legitimate children. The wife and children, however, had to bear those shameful names as a sign and rebuke to the idolatrous nation. For it was full of spiritual harlotry, that is, idolatry, as Hosea himself says in the text, “The land commits great harlotry by forsaking the Lord” [1:2]. In the same way Jeremiah wore the wooden yoke and carried the cup [Jer. 27:2; 25:17]. Indeed it was common for all the prophets to be doing some strange thing as a sign to the people. So here Hosea’s wife and children had to have names of harlotry as a sign against the whoring, idolatrous nation. For it is incredible that

> God should order a prophet to practice harlotry, as some interpret this passage in Hosea to mean. (AE 35:317–18)

For more of Luther's insights on this Book, see Lectures on Hosea (AE 18:1–76).

Challenges for Readers

Outline. Hosea is a collection of oracles without a clear, logical sequence. See outline notes at right.

Gomer. The Lord urged Hosea to marry a woman known for her unfaithfulness. She is described as a prostitute, whom Hosea would have to rescue from enslavement (ch 3). Since the Law condemned prostitutes to death by stoning, interpreters have struggled with how the Lord told Hosea to marry such a woman (see Luther's comments above). It appears that the Lord commanded exceptional action in this case in order to illustrate His exceptional love and mercy for Israel.

Violence against Samaria. At the end of Hosea, the Lord describes the merciless destruction of Israel's capital by the Assyrians (13:16), whom He had appointed to mete out judgment. Readers may wonder how the Lord could permit such violence against even women and children. See pp 320, 879.

Blessings for Readers

Hosea's message is not for the faint of heart. His descriptions of prostitution, war, substance abuse, and corruption easily match the worst police and news reports of our day. He reminds us that simple neglect of what is wholesome and blessed leads to wholehearted sin and self-destruction. Wealth and armies do not deliver a nation. Only the Lord can redeem and restore us. Hosea shows how the spiritual dry rot that caused Israel to collapse contrasts fully with the generous dew of God's life-giving mercy.

As you study Hosea, look heavenward and anticipate that the Lord will rain down righteousness for you. No matter what your past is, your forgiving Lord is present to apply His grace fully and restore you as a member of His people. Though you wince at the roar of His wrath (11:10), the Holy One will welcome you home as His child.

OUTLINE

The organization of Hosea presents complex problems. Commentators agree that the first three chapters revolve around Hosea's personal issues. Beyond ch 3, various oracles are added. The following outline provides an overview:

I. Superscription (1:1)
II. Hosea's Personal Issues as Prophecies (1:2–3:5)
  A. Names of Hosea and Gomer's Children Presage Israel's Judgment (1:2–9)
  B. Great Reversal of the Curse (1:10–2:1)
  C. Divorce Proceedings with New Betrothal and Marriage (2:2–15)
  D. Images of Great Reversal (2:16–23)
  E. A Second (?) Marriage to Gomer (ch 3)
III. Various Oracles (4:1–14:9)
  A. Yahweh's Lawsuit against Israel (ch 4)
  B. Court Called to Order (5:1–7)
  C. Warfare and False Repentance (5:8–6:6)
  D. Israel's Guilt Congenital, but Not Incurable (6:7–11)
  E. Israel Becomes like All Nations in Apostasy and Judgment (ch 7)

F. Sow the Wind, Reap the Whirlwind (ch 8)
G. Days of Festival and Punishment (ch 9)
H. Israel's Utter Destruction (ch 10)
I. Possibility of "Second Exodus" (11:1–11)
J. Israel as Deceiver (11:12–13:1)
K. Israel's Final Judgment (13:2–16)
L. Promise of Restoration (ch 14)

Three possible explanations for the arrangement are noted below.

Chronological divisions: Relatively peaceful and prosperous last years of Jeroboam II (chs 1–3); political and economic problems in the Northern Kingdom, as Assyrian pressure grows (chs 4–9); and Israel's last days before the fall of Samaria in 722 BC (chs 10–14).

Theological divisions: Accent Israel's guilt (chs 4–8); accent Israel's punishment (chs 9–11); and accent both, but end with promise or hope in ch 14 (chs 12–14).

Weal and woe themes: Hosea's first marriage is presented as a threat (1:2–9) and then as a promise (1:10–2:1); commentary with similar themes follows (2:2–23). Hosea's second marriage is presented as a threat (3:1–4), then as a promise (3:5); threat and promise commentary follows (4:1–5:15 and 6:1–3; 6:4–11:7 and 11:8–11; and 13:12–13, 16 and 14:1–9).

Study Notes

HOSEA—NOTE ON 1:1 word of the LORD that came. Refers to the total message of Hosea. See p 1080. Hosea. Means "salvation" or "he has helped/delivered." The names of Hosea's children also play an important role in his prophecy's rhetoric. See notes, vv 4, 6, 19. The manner of God's revelation to Hosea is not given in detail. He simply states that his prophecy came by God speaking (v 2). son of Beeri. A prophet typically introduces himself with the name of his father (Jl 1:1; Jnh 1:1; Zep 1:1; Hg 1:1; Zec 1:1). Beeri. Means "my wellspring" or "my well" and likely reflects the family's joy at the birth of a child. the days of … kings of … Israel. This mention of kings Uzziah (792–740 BC), Jotham (750–735 BC), Ahaz (735–715 BC), and Hezekiah (715–686 BC) makes plain that Hosea had a lengthy ministry and prophesied at the same time as Isaiah, Amos, and Micah. See pp 1077–83. Jeroboam. Only ruler of the northern tribes listed here (793–753 BC).

HOSEA—NOTE ON 1:2 spoke through. Hosea was the conduit of God's message, not its source. See note, v 1. Iren: "It was not by means of visions alone which were seen, and words which were proclaimed, but also in actual works, that He was beheld by the prophets, in order that through them He might prefigure and show forth future events beforehand" (ANF 1:492). wife of whoredom. Whether Hosea's wife was actually a prostitute/adulteress or whether this characterization is merely a figure of speech is a matter of debate. Luther favored a symbolic understanding (see pp 1427–28). Many modern commentators hold that Hosea's wife committed adultery; this is the simplest understanding of the text. Either way, the troubled marriage of Hosea and Gomer underscores the prophet's message of God's judgment against Israel for her unfaithfulness. On a related issue, the importance of women in Israelite society and in biblical literature is demonstrated by the way the Lord describes His relationship to Israel as being like the relationship between a husband and a wife. See note, Pr 31:10–31. the land. Though directed primarily at Israel (the Northern Kingdom), the judgment announced by Hosea extends to all those included in the covenant relationship with the Lord. forsaking. The people no longer followed after the Lord or walked in His ways. Instead, they abandoned Him and followed after pagan gods. Cf Dt 31:16; Hos 3:1; 9:1.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 1:3 Gomer. Unlike the names of his children, the name of Hosea's wife appears not to have symbolic meaning. Diblaim. Geographic reference unclear; perhaps an undiscovered village.
HOSEA—NOTE ON 1:4 Jezreel. "God sows"; has a double meaning. On the one hand, it recalls that God caused the people of Israel to multiply into the uncountable seed of Abraham (Gn 12:2; 15:5). It also brings to mind God's judgment against Ahab and the house of Jehu. house of Jehu. King Jeroboam II, king of the northern tribes at the time, sprang from Jehu's family tree. The end of this royal line is an important focus of Hosea's prophecy. blood. Much blood was shed in Jezreel, including that of Naboth and his sons (2Ki 9:26), King Ahab (1Ki 22:38), King Joram (2Ki 9:24), and Jezebel (2Ki 9:33). an end to the kingdom. Unfortunately, the royal house of Jehu turned out to be no better than its predecessors. This line ended when Zechariah was murdered (2Ki 15:10).
HOSEA—NOTE ON 1:5 break the bow. Figurative for the destruction of an opponent's military strength (e.g., 1Sm 2:4). Assyria destroyed Israel's military power and devastated its land in 723/2 BC (2Ki 17:5–6). Valley of Jezreel. Triangular valley southwest of the Sea of Chinnereth, with Mount Tabor at the northeast point. Owing to its adequate rainfall and rich soil, and its location on the main roads running east/west and north/south, it was an important part of Israel's territory. See color map 2.
HOSEA—NOTE ON 1:6 No Mercy. Symbolic name emphasizing that, due to Israel's persistent unfaithfulness, God will withdraw His compassion. Such threats of judgment are not Hosea's final word, however; 2:23 promises a future love for the people.
HOSEA—NOTE ON 1:7 mercy on … Judah. God's covenant with Abraham's descendants will continue through the remnant of Judah. Though the Babylonians did in fact take the Judeans into exile in 587 BC, the captives were allowed to return to Jerusalem 70 years later. save them by the LORD. God pledges to save Judah by His own hand rather than by their armaments. This reminds the northern tribes as well that their military strength, even if multiplied, is worthless (10:13). A fulfillment of God's promise to deliver Judah from the Assyrians miraculously is recounted in 2Ki 19:32–36.
HOSEA—NOTE ON 1:8 weaned. Occurred by age 2 or 3. Normally a time of celebration for the family and community (cf Gn 21:8; 1Sm 1:24). No Mercy's weaning coincides with the conception of Not My People and so reinforces that the distance between God and His children is steadily increasing.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 1:9 Not My People. Breach between God and Israel continues to widen. It can still be restored, however, through the people's repentance and God's restorative action (2:1, 23).

HOSEA—NOTE ON 1:10 like the sand. Recalls the covenant God gave to Abraham, whereby his descendants are promised to become as numerous as the sand and the stars (cf Gn 32:12). Children of the living God. Even amid an announcement of judgment, God promises to spare many. Later, He extends His covenant promises to all peoples, so that "all Israel" might be saved in Christ (Rm 11:25–26; cf Eph 2:12–15, 19–20).

HOSEA—NOTE ON 1:11 gathered together. Anticipates a day when tribal divisions will end. they shall go up from the land. Depicts seeds growing up into an abundant harvest (cf v 10). one head. A single king over a united nation is predicted in 3:5. There, the head is foreseen as belonging to the house of David. This promise of a single head over a unified body is ultimately fulfilled by Jesus (Eph 1:22; 4:15–16; 5:23; Col 1:18).

HOSEA—NOTE ON 1:2–11 Hosea's tragic marriage and the suffering it inflicts on his children dramatically depict the wretched condition of God's people at that time. Sadly, the waywardness exhibited by God's people still happens today; unless the Spirit continues to grant us repentance and faith, we fall into the same kind of unfaithfulness and apostasy. Through Hosea's ministry, God shows mercy, pledging to gather, restore, and lead His people into a better future. • Heavenly Father, through Your beloved Son, You have forgiven all unfaithfulness and restored Your people to wholeness. May we be gathered under this Son, who gives us new birth and restores us as Your children. Amen.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 2:1 your brothers … your sisters. Hosea calls for his message to be heard by all Israel, recalling not only a common lineage through Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob, but esp God's constant blessing and favor. You are My people … You have received mercy. God's promise, even before Israel promises to change (cf Eph 2:13). Wordplay of the names of Hosea's children (Not My People and No Mercy). Hosea artfully emphasizes God's promise to show mercy and restore His people. Cf 1Pt 2:10.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 2:2 Metaphor of Hosea's marriage and family life is extended; Israel is identified as the Lord's unfaithful wife. Plead. Hbr rib,

"contend" or "strive," as in a legal setting. she is not My wife. Because Israel has been as guilty of adultery as Gomer, the nation has thus proven itself wholly unworthy of a committed husband. However, the Lord remains faithful (cf 2Tm 2:13).

HOSEA—NOTE ON 2:3 The Lord warns with increasing severity that shame, desertion, and death will come if Israel refuses to repent. The graphic imagery employed here recalls Israel's miserable status in Egypt and the desperate conditions she experienced during the wilderness wanderings of Exodus. Cf 11:1, where Hosea reminds the people that "out of Egypt" God called His beloved son, Israel.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 2:4 her children. Though earnestly invited to a restored relationship in v 1, God's children will yet be left without mercy if their rebellion continues. children of whoredom. Just as husbands typically feel little obligation for children conceived in adultery, so also the Lord warns the tainted children of Israel that He may desert them. Cf 5:7.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 2:5 Israel acts as though its food and clothing come from the surrounding pagan nations. The people completely ignore the Lord's generous provision. Consequently, Hosea warns that these sustaining gifts may be removed (vv 8–9). During the exodus, God miraculously provided His people manna and quail daily (Ex 16; Nu 11:1–15). The people ought to have remembered God's goodness and thankfully depended on Him.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 2:6 hedge … a wall. Before acting on His threat to kill Israel (v 3), the Lord acts to restrain her wickedness. By erecting a hedge, God means to block His people's pursuit of Baal. Cf Is 5:1–5 for similar imagery.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 2:7 She shall … not find them. Sadly, Israel will end up frustrated within the protective maze of the restraining wall, since she will persist in the pursuit of other gods. Cf 5:6 for a contrasting image. first husband. Just as Hosea took Gomer (1:3), so the Lord would take back Israel. This is remarkable since God's Word allowed for divorce in cases of adultery (Dt 24:1–4).

HOSEA—NOTE ON 2:8 I who gave. Despite Israel's preposterous claims that her food and clothes came from other nations and gods (v 5), the Lord here sets the record straight. He is the source of Israel's well-being. used for Baal. See note, Nu 25:3. Ironically, Israel was taking the gold and silver

God lavished on her and offering them to images of Baal. The people were even fashioning these precious metals into idols (8:4; cf 1Ki 12:28–30).
HOSEA—NOTE ON 2:10 uncover her lewdness. A return to the warning of v 3. Israel's nakedness contrasts starkly with her boast that she is well-supplied by the gods of other nations (v 5). When God removes the fruitfulness of the land, the fertility god Baal will be useless to cover Israel.
HOSEA—NOTE ON 2:11 The annual celebrations of Passover, Pentecost, and the Feast of Booths. The new-moon celebrations were monthly; the Sabbath, weekly. Such weekly, monthly, and annual celebrations will come to an abrupt halt when God allows a pagan invader, the Assyrians, to take Israel into exile. See pp 200–201.
HOSEA—NOTE ON 2:12 my wages. Israel foolishly considered the fertility of her land to be the result of her illicit relationship with Baal. Accordingly, God threatens to overthrow such folly by laying waste to Israel's vines and fig trees. Cf Lv 26:22; Dt 11:13–17 for similar warnings. a forest. A place of danger.
HOSEA—NOTE ON 2:13 feast days of the Baals. See note, Nu 25:3. Israel abandoned the Lord's festivals (v 11) and began offering sacrifices to Baal. The abundance of individual shrines to Baal likely explains the plural "Baals." burned offerings. Numerous places in the OT refer to Israel offering burnt sacrifices to Baal and Asherah (e.g., 4:13; 1Ki 11:7–8; 12:28–33; 16:32–33; 2Ki 17:7–13). ring and jewelry. Israel continues to act as a harlot, dressing in finery to attract attention, pursuing Baal instead of her faithful Lord. For an ironic contrast between God's steadfast knowledge and Israel's willful forgetfulness, cf 13:4–6.
HOSEA—NOTE ON 2:1–13 God warns Israel that He will punish her for the idolatrous insistence that Baal will provide for her needs. At the same time, the Lord more earnestly urges Israel to repent and avoid judgment. Today, God warns us similarly through the preaching of His Law. He also unfailingly adds the promises of His Gospel, wherein grace and every blessing are assured. • Lord, all goodness comes from You alone. We embrace the Gospel in faith, give You thanks for Your enduring gifts, and so enjoy the benefits of Your unfailing compassion. Amen.
HOSEA—NOTE ON 2:14 allure. Hbr pathah, "to persuade," "entice." God thus turns from threatening Israel to pursuing her winsomely. wilderness. Recalls the exodus and a time when Baal had not intruded into the relationship of God and Israel (cf Jer 2:2). tenderly. God speaks with the kindness of a loving spouse.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 2:15 Valley of Achor. Southwest of Jericho. God judged Israel here during the entry into the Promised Land (Jsh 7). door of hope. Achor means "trouble"; God ironically reverses the name of the valley by calling it a door of hope. This rhetorical move follows the transformation of Hosea's children's names (1:6, 8; 2:1) and anticipates the reversal of the way Israel will address the Lord in v 16. answer as in … her youth. Recalls Israel's acts of faithfulness, as when she rejoiced to follow the Lord out of Egypt (Ex 15:1–21) and worshiped Him after entering Canaan (Jsh 4).

HOSEA—NOTE ON 2:16 Baal. Hbr ba'al means both "husband" and "lord." Here both senses nuance the meaning. See note, Nu 25:3.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 2:17 Baals. See notes, v 13; Nu 25:3.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 2:18 Acting as a third party, God establishes a covenant between Israel and the wild creatures. He demonstrates both His rule over the created order and His compassion for Israel. on that day. A key phrase appearing elsewhere (cf vv 16, 18, 21) that makes plain that the end of time is in view, when a new heaven and earth will be established. Cf Is 11:6–9; 25:6–9; 65:17–25. See p 1079. abolish. God will break the bow that endangers the animals and humankind, though for now it is still needed. See note, 1:5. safety. This promised peaceful coexistence between people and beasts is a complete reversal of the conditions described in v 12, where wild animals are a threat.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 2:19 betroth. Hbr 'aras, not only the engagement proper, but also the compensation for the bride's family. Cf Dt 22:23–27. Betrothal usually lasted several months and was considered as binding as marriage, from which it was hardly distinguished. righteousness … justice … steadfast love … mercy. See pp 842–43; cf 1:6–7; 2:4, 23. These four qualities may profitably be understood as the price God pays for His Bride.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 2:21–22 answer. The Lord pledges to respond to His Bride, esp her words of desertion (v 5), her eventual promise to return (v 7), and her predicted calling on the Lord as her "Husband" (v 16). they shall answer the earth. God's response to a repentant Israel will be to renew and multiply Jezreel's agricultural capabilities. The fruit once withheld from that region (vv 8–9) will be restored, thus demonstrating the Lord's love for His people.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 2:22–23 Jezreel … sow. This wordplay emphasizes that Jezreel will someday no longer be the scene of bloodshed (1:4). Instead, God Himself will cultivate the land and so assure that His people will reap a bountiful harvest. Cf 14:4–7.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 2:23 sow. Hbr zara'. Related to the word Jezreel (v 22). No Mercy … Not My People. See notes, 1:6–9. The meanings of these names will also turn around, so that Israel will once again be accepted as the Lord's children and Bride. he. Singular. May refer to the last child, Not My People, who speaks for all.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 2:14–23 Despite Israel's complete disregard for the covenant, the Lord promises to renew His marriage with her. To this end, He will even marshal creation as His witness and servant. Though it pains us to admit it, our wealth often begins to lead us into the same failings as those of Israel in Hosea's day, putting our trust in things rather than in the Lord. Fortunately for us, however, the God of Israel never wavers in His commitments. God's Law continues to show us our sins and to make us want to be rid of them. Through Christ, all our waywardness and idolatry is forgiven, and a new and all-inclusive covenant has been enacted. • Though we are unworthy of Your love, O Lord, renew our relationship with You through the strength of Your faithfulness and commitment. May we always say, "You alone are our God." Amen.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 3:1 God directs Hosea to love Gomer despite her unfaithfulness. This act dramatically depicts God's faithfulness to an adulterous Israel. turn to other gods and love cakes of raisins. Devotion and offerings to Baal. This recalls Israel's boast that the fruit of the land comes through Baal (2:5).

HOSEA—NOTE ON 3:2 Beyond the emotional burden of his marriage to an adulteress, Hosea also had to pay a price for her: 15 shekels of silver and c 9 bushels of barley. This may be compared to the fine imposed for injuring a female slave (30 silver shekels; Ex 21:32) or the offering given by a woman fulfilling her vow (30 silver shekels; Lv 27:4).

HOSEA—NOTE ON 3:3 Though Israel will never cease to belong to the Lord, the fullness of their relationship will obviously not be enjoyed until after the return from the impending Assyrian exile. many days. Cf v 4. belong … be to you. Gomer is expected to be exclusively devoted to Hosea, just as he will be to her. This relationship symbolizes the one between the Lord and Israel.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 3:4 Such privations will remind the exiles of their broken relationship with God. king. Cf 1:4; 10:15; 13:10–11. prince. Cf 5:10; 7:3–5; 8:4. sacrifice. Cf 6:6; 8:13. pillar. Cf 10:1–2. ephod. A priestly mantle or cape, either costly and elaborate or relatively simple. Cf 1Sm 2:18; 23:6–11, where it is used when seeking a sign of the future. household gods. Hbr teraphim, small, human-shaped idols. Micah used some in conjunction with an ephod in order to ordain his son as priest (Jgs 17:5); they were also used to divine the future (Ezk 21:21).

HOSEA—NOTE ON 3:5 return and seek the LORD. See p 843. David their king. Though Israel had not been under David's line since Solomon's death, the promised messianic descendant of David (Jesus Christ) would someday become the King for all people. fear. Hbr pachad, "to dread or be in awe" (e.g., Ps 27:1; 119:161; Is 19:16–17). See p 1001. latter days. Conventional prophetic term for the messianic age, when both God's people and the Gentiles would be gathered to Him (cf Dt 4:30; Ezk 34:11–24).

HOSEA—NOTE ON Ch 3 In obedience to the Lord's request, Hosea redeems Gomer and renews his commitment to her, despite her unfaithfulness. This prophesies God's desire to restore Israel as a pure people after the exile. We are sometimes challenged to swallow our pride and forgive others in similar difficult ways. At such times, we are strengthened by the knowledge that God gave His own Son to forgive and restore us. • We give thanks to You, O Lord, that Your patience toward us covers all our sins and restores us perfectly to the image of Your Son. Amen.

HOSEA—NOTE ON Ch 4 God still addresses Israel as part of His children but does so here within the context of a legal suit He brings against them.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 4:1 controversy. Hbr rib (see note, 2:2). faithfulness or steadfast love. These often appear together in descriptions of God (e.g., Ex 34:6; Ps 40:10–11; 86:15; Is 16:5). See p 843. knowledge. Also translated "wisdom" or "discernment." Often refers to the revealed knowledge God imparts to His covenant people. See note, v 6.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 4:2 List of many of the sins forbidden by the Mosaic covenant (Ten Commandments). Adultery, a major theme in this Book, comes last for emphasis.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 4:3 Rather than finding natural and material abundance through her pursuit of Baal (2:5), Israel will find only hunger as the true Lord of creation removes His provision (2:9, 12). the land mourns.

All creation witnesses against Israel and sorrows over her condemnation. Cf Gn 3:17–18; Is 24:3–6; Rm 8:20–22.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 4:4 no one contend … accuse. God will not allow Israel's religious leaders, esp its priests, to challenge or otherwise address His court while He judges. Rather, they stand accused. priest. Unnamed; he represents the whole of Israel's religious establishment. Ironically, he fulfills his duty as priest, since he stands to represent the many. Unfortunately, he is found incompetent and is not allowed to intercede. He can only listen while God speaks His righteous condemnation. Cf Am 7:10–17.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 4:5 stumble. Action of one standing under God's judgment (cf 5:5). Significantly, this is the final verb of the entire Book (14:9). Nevertheless, those who stumble can still be restored (14:1–2). I will destroy your mother. See imagery of 2:2, 5. Faithless Israel is here portrayed as the mother of the representative accused priest.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 4:6 destroyed for lack of knowledge. Because the priests failed to instruct and correct the people, all will perish together (cf v 1; 6:5). Instead of hearing God's Word from the divinely appointed priesthood, the people seek knowledge from idols (v 12). you. The individual priest being addressed embodies the entire nation's rejection of God, who deposes him. Hus: "No one does more injury in the church than he who acts perversely and yet has the name and order of sanctity" (The Church, p 148). law. The Law is God's entire revelation and was to be taught day and night (Dt 6:1–9). See p 971.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 4:7 they increased. This numerical growth only resulted in greater iniquity. glory into shame. The idolatrous behaviors that were once the people's boast will soon become their condemnation. Cf Ps 106:20; Rm 1:21–23; Php 3:19.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 4:8 They feed on the sin. The priests both plant the seed of sin and feed on its harvest. Though Baal was thought to be the source of food (2:5), the people's idolatrous worship, led by the priests, yields only a harvest of increasing sin. Tragically, both priests and people are eager for this illicit fruit. This image ironically contrasts with Lv 6:26, where Israel's priests consume portions of the sacrifices offered to the Lord.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 4:9 like people, like priest. Rather than leading, the priests are following the people into idolatry and so will receive a similar punishment. Cf 10:5. The kings and princes will not escape this judgment (13:9–11).

HOSEA—NOTE ON 4:10 They shall eat … not multiply. The Lord's judgment renders the people's gain unrewarding. Rather than growing, they shall waste away. Cf 8:7; Dt 28:1–63.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 4:11 wine … new wine. Hbr has two words for wine. "New wine," tirosh, appears also in 7:14; 9:2. Inflamed by wine and urged on by the priests, the people engage in illicit sexual relations that rob them of their understanding (lit, "heart") so that they lust after idols. Then, as now, substance abuse brings self-destructive sin. God's people must clearly see how excess leads to destruction (Eph 5:17–18).

HOSEA—NOTE ON 4:12 Having forsaken God and provoked His abandonment of them (v 6), the people seek spiritual knowledge through the created order rather than through the Creator. Cf Rm 1:25. inquire of a piece of wood. Divination likely involved the casting of rods on the ground and the interpretation of the resultant pattern. Note the contrast of possessive pronouns here. Though the Lord speaks of "My people," they are described as having left "their God" in favor of "their walking staff."

HOSEA—NOTE ON 4:13 They sacrifice … shade is good. High places were common sites for the worship of idols (cf Dt 12:2; 1Ki 14:23; Jer 2:20). See p 526. From tree wood they fashioned idols, and in the shade of the trees they found comfort. whore … adultery. The pagan sacrifices likely included ritual prostitution. This fact adds further nuance to Hosea's recurring imagery of Israel's unfaithfulness to her husband, the Lord.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 4:14 not punish. God shows a degree of forbearance toward the women involved, esp the daughters, because the husbands and fathers are considered most responsible for this sexual abomination. This follows the logic of the Lord's singling out the priests in vv 4–9, because they were also guilty of failure in leadership. cult prostitutes. Men had illicit sexual relations with women at the high places, believing Baal would then ensure the fertility of the land. Cf Gn 38:21–22. a people … to ruin. A proverb. Cf Pr 10:8, 10 for other uses of "ruin."

HOSEA—NOTE ON 4:15 Gilgal … Beth-aven. The main shrines in Israel, just west of Jericho and north of Jerusalem. See color map 1. Beth-aven. Means "house of wickedness." Ironic pun on the name Bethel, "house of God." swear not, "As the LORD lives." This oath had a proper use (e.g., Jgs

8:19; Ru 3:13; 1Sm 14:39), but not in unfaithful worship of idols. That would violate the Second Commandment. See note, Nu 30:2.
HOSEA—NOTE ON 4:16 stubborn heifer. Refusing to be led by its owner. Israel rebels against her Creator. Cf Am 4:1. broad pasture. Often signifies a place of security (e.g., Ps 18:19; 31:8). A lamb might be counted on to remain near her shepherd in an open space. Israel, however, cannot be trusted to stay with the Lord because of her past unfaithfulness.
HOSEA—NOTE ON 4:17 Ephraim. Strongest of the 10 northern tribes; stands as an embodiment of Israel. See p 1079.
HOSEA—NOTE ON 4:18 When their drink is gone. Even as Israel finishes one sin, another is quickly undertaken. Be it drunkenness or prostitution, the people's pursuit of wickedness is boundless. rulers. Hbr magen, lit, "shield," but often used for princes or kings (e.g., Ps 47:9; 89:18).
HOSEA—NOTE ON 4:19 A wind. Hbr ruach. Also means "spirit" (cf v 12, where "spirit" impels the people into whoredom). wrapped them in its wings. Just as wind drives the chaff into dispersion, so the coming exile will sweep away the people of Israel. Cf 8:7; 13:3, 15; Ps 1:4–5. sacrifices. Hbr usually translated "altar," but here refers to the sacrifices being made to Baal.

HOSEA—NOTE ON Ch 4 God's judgment against Israel focuses on the priests and their failure of leadership, because they have permitted and even encouraged the people to engage in gross idolatry. Today we see similar failures in leadership, not only among the clergy and secular leaders, but also in parents. It is a great comfort, then, to know that the Church ultimately depends on Christ, the true Good Shepherd. The Resurrected One promises that He will never lose any of the sheep the Father has given Him but will keep them and raise them up on the Last Day. • Lord, preserve us from abuse and from abusing others. Direct us with Your wisdom, satisfy us with Your pasture, and lead us to worship You alone. Amen.
HOSEA—NOTE ON 5:1 Israel's religious and political leaders will be held particularly responsible. The sentences they ought to have meted out to the wayward ones committed to their care will then be laid on them. Mizpah … Tabor. Locations of pagan shrines. See color map 1; see also map, p 558.
HOSEA—NOTE ON 5:2 revolters. Hbr setim, difficult to translate. Means "mutineers" or "rebels," but may also refer to Shittim (near the mouth of the Jordan River), where Israel agreed to serve Baal of Peor (Nu 25:1–4; cf Hos 9:10); Shittim would join Mizpah and Tabor (v 1) as the third site of Israelite apostasy.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 5:3 Ephraim. See note, 4:17.
HOSEA—NOTE ON 5:4 Though the Lord has already tried to rescue His people and stands ready to forgive (e.g., 2:14–23), Israel remains immersed in rebellion.
HOSEA—NOTE ON 5:5 pride. "Majesty" or "excellence," but also pride in the negative sense (e.g., Ps 59:12; Pr 8:13; Is 16:6). his face. Israel makes no attempt to hide its willful sin from God; we might call this sin "bald-faced." his guilt. Singular. Includes all the people of the wayward tribes.
HOSEA—NOTE ON 5:6 seek the LORD. See p 843. Israel might halfheartedly try to appease God, but He will not be deceived (cf 1Sm 15:10–23). withdrawn. Though God promises that He will eventually gather and restore His people (2:14–23; 11:8–9; 14:4–7), He will remain withdrawn from them so long as they remain rebellious. This recalls not only the names of Hosea's children (No Mercy and Not My People) but also other threats of withdrawal (e.g., Dt 31:16–18).
HOSEA—NOTE ON 5:7 alien children. Those who have abandoned the Lord and sacrificed to Baal have relinquished their birthright. This again recalls the symbolic name of Hosea's second son (Not My People). new moon shall devour. New-moon sacrifices are equated with impending judgment. See note, Is 1:13.
HOSEA—NOTE ON 5:8 horn … trumpet … alarm. See p 993. Sound the alarm. Hbr describes a trumpet blast that commenced hostilities and served as a call to arms (Jsh 6:4–5). At other times, it summoned the people to a celebration (Nu 10:7). Gibeah … Ramah … Beth-aven. Towns in southern Israel on the road from south to north. See note, 4:15; see also map, p 451.
HOSEA—NOTE ON 5:9 Ephraim. See note, 4:17. day of punishment. Likely refers to the Syro-Ephraimite war that pitted Israel against Judah, weakened the northern tribes, and led to defeat by the Assyrians in 722 BC. punishment. Hbr yakach; can mean "to decide," "to reprove," or "to reason" (cf Is 1:18).
HOSEA—NOTE ON 5:10 princes. Royal family and military leaders. See p 228. move the landmark. See note, Pr 22:28.
HOSEA—NOTE ON 5:11 Ephraim. See note, 4:17. filth. Uncleanness and consequent destruction. God will judge Israel esp for its drunkenness and sexual sins (cf 4:18).

HOSEA—NOTE ON 5:12 Dissolution caused by inner corruption. moth. Calling someone "moth-eaten" emphasized that person's fragility (Is 50:9; 51:8). dry rot. Caused by worms or fungi, applied to decay in the bones (Pr 12:4; Hab 3:16).

HOSEA—NOTE ON 5:13 Ephraim. See note, 4:17. sickness … wound. The Northern Kingdom would see the judgment that God brings on them. went to Assyria. To appease Assyria and protect their power for a brief time, the kings of Israel would pay tribute to Assyria (2Ki 17:3). great king. Specific reference unclear, though it almost certainly refers to one of the Assyrian rulers of the late eighth century BC, to whom Israel turned for help. The reference may be intentionally general in order to condemn the futility of turning to a pagan king.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 5:14 like a lion. Though Israel and Judah were right to dread Assyria's might, the Lord is the real power they should have feared. (Note the contrasts with God's likeness to the silent moth in v 12.) Ironically, 11:10 compares the Lord with a lion that leads, gathers, and defends Israel. I, even I. The impending destruction of Israel and Judah, though coming by the hands of other nations, will, in fact, be the result of the Lord's will.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 5:15 to My place. Pictures a lion retiring to its den after the hunt. Due to the people's ongoing apostasy, God's place is now far from Israel. seek Me. See p 843. When Israel repents, God will welcome her back. This good news prepares for 6:1–3, where Israel is encouraged to return to a gracious Lord (cf Lk 15:11–32).

HOSEA—NOTE ON Ch 5 God warns Israel and Judah that putting their hope in foreign kings is useless. As long as they continue in idolatry, they may seek God, but they will not find Him; only in repentance can they be healed. We similarly try to play both sides of the fence, claiming to be children of God while living as friends of the world. It is a great comfort, therefore, to know that the Lord stands as near as the word of Absolution. • Lord Jesus, spare us from the judgment we deserve, for we admit that we, too, have turned to other gods. Accordingly, work in us true repentance, return us to You, and lead us to Your side by Your gracious Son. Amen.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 6:1 Come, let us return to the LORD. Hosea invites Ephraim and Judah to do right. See "turn," p 1080. heal … bind. See note, Dt 32:39.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 6:2 two days ... third day. A coming day of deliverance. We would say "in a few days." God acted in a special way on the third day on other occasions as well, most notably when He gave the Law at Sinai (Ex 19:16) and when Christ rose from the dead. On numerical sayings, see note, Pr 30.
HOSEA—NOTE ON 6:3 press on to know the LORD. Hosea urges the people to strive for knowledge that begins with "the fear of the LORD." See p 1001. Israel demonstrates a distinct lack of this knowledge by chasing after Baal. dawn … showers … spring rains. Guaranteed natural events. For sinners, the daily and seasonal rhythms of repentance and faith bring renewal. See p 320.
HOSEA—NOTE ON 6:4–8:14 The Lord speaks.
HOSEA—NOTE ON 6:4 When Ephraim and Judah join the prophet in confessing sincerely, the Lord will be very pleased. But this was not yet the case. The severity of God's anguish is evident in the two questions He poses. Ephraim. See note, 4:17. morning cloud ... dew. In contrast to the Lord's reliability (v 3), the love of God's people was transient, here today and passing away tomorrow.
HOSEA—NOTE ON 6:5 hewn them. "Struck or cut them down," as one would a tree. The Lord thus sent prophets to pierce the stubborn hearts of His people by the preaching of His Law. by the words of My mouth. The prophets were God's spokesmen. Their refrain was "Hear the word of the LORD" (4:1). judgment goes forth as the light. See note, v 3. Ter: "Justice is the very fulness of the Deity Himself, manifesting God as both a perfect father and a perfect master: a father in His mercy, a master in His discipline" (ANF 3:308).
HOSEA—NOTE ON 6:6 steadfast love. See p 843. The Catechism speaks of such love when it introduces the meaning of each commandment: "We should fear and love God so that …" (see p xxxv–xxxvi). not sacrifice. God had commanded sacrifices, yet they were pleasing to Him only if they came from the heart. Jesus quotes this passage in order to condemn the Pharisees' insincerity. burnt offerings. See pp 170–71. Iren: "It is evident that God did not seek sacrifices and holocausts from them, but faith, and obedience, and righteousness, because of their salvation" (ANF 1:484).
HOSEA—NOTE ON 6:7 like Adam. Possibly a city near the Jordan River (Jsh 3:16) rather than the first human being, as evidenced by the word "there" and by the fact that other cities are named in the next two verses.

That said, Scripture does not recount specifics about the people of that town breaking faith with God. covenant. See p 127.
HOSEA—NOTE ON 6:8 Gilead. Possibly refers to the 50 men that came from Gilead to help Pekah assassinate the Israelite king Pekahiah (cf 2Ki 15:25). See color map 2.
HOSEA—NOTE ON 6:9 priests band together. See notes, 4:4, 6, 9; 5:1. Hosea calls attention to a particularly heinous crime, i.e., when a gang of priests committed murder on the road to Shechem. Shechem. Major religious and political center, located near Mount Gerizim, just southeast of the capital city of Samaria. Joshua called the 12 tribes to a covenant renewal ceremony at Shechem just after they had occupied the Promised Land. See color map 1.
HOSEA—NOTE ON 6:10 Ephraim's whoredom. See notes, 4:10–16, 18, 19.
HOSEA—NOTE ON 6:11 a harvest is appointed. The judgment (e.g., Mt 13:30, 39). In contrast to the devastation in store for Israel, however, the Lord promises a good harvest for Judah. This will come after the Babylonian exile, when He will restore the fortunes of His remnant, including the sending of Jesus, the Messiah, a descendant of the tribe of Judah.
HOSEA—NOTE ON 7:1 revealed. Ironically, the more earnestly the Lord seeks to heal Israel, the more the iniquity of Ephraim becomes evident. Samaria. Capital of the Northern Kingdom of Israel, this city reeked of evil deeds. See color map 1. the thief ... bandits raid outside. Terror reigns in town and countryside, as thieves plunder houses and bandits rob travelers on the highways.
HOSEA—NOTE ON 7:2 Nothing is hidden from the Lord. He sees and remembers even secret misdeeds.
HOSEA—NOTE ON 7:3 The deplorable spiritual condition of the nation is revealed in the fact that the king and princes actually delight in the evil being done.
HOSEA—NOTE ON 7:4 Sinful Israel is compared to an oven stoked so hot that the baker no longer needs to stir the fire while kneading the dough and letting it rise.
HOSEA—NOTE ON 7:5 the day of our king. Likely the day on which an Israelite king ascended the throne. princes became sick. Self-indulgent princes downed so much wine that they became sick. he. Sadly, the king himself joined with those whose drunken festivities effectively mocked the Lord.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 7:6–7 Like the fire in an oven that does not go out overnight, so the hearts of those planning intrigue continue to smolder as they sleep, only to blaze up again in the morning. Sinful desires flame up into sinful deeds. devour their rulers. During Hosea's ministry, four Israelite kings were overthrown within 12 years. calls upon Me. Neither king nor prince nor people called on the only One able to help in this time of upheaval. The Lord was utterly forgotten. See p 842.
HOSEA—NOTE ON 7:8 mixes himself. Refers to Israel's attempts to ally with foreign nations rather than the Lord. These alliances proved to be entangling snares rather than means of escape. cake. Griddle cake, probably sweetened with honey or a syrup made from grapes, dates, or figs. not turned. Burned on one side and raw on the other, i.e., defective and unusable.
HOSEA—NOTE ON 7:9 Strangers. Foreign nations (e.g., Assyria and Egypt) are strangers because they do not know the Lord. he knows it not. Sums up the feeble, blinded spiritual condition of Ephraim. gray hairs. Sign of aging and loss of vigor.
HOSEA—NOTE ON 7:10 pride of Israel testifies to his face. See note, 5:5. Israel's arrogant disdain for the Lord is clear and brings no positive effect. return ... seek. Hosea's emphasis. See p 843.
HOSEA—NOTE ON 7:11 dove. The people lack discernment. They desperately flutter in all directions, looking for help. Scripture does not always use symbols in the same sense. Contrast with Mt 3:16.
HOSEA—NOTE ON 7:12 spread over them My net. Like a fowler. See notes, 9:8; Ps 91:3. report. The discipline should come as no surprise, since the prophets often warned the assembled people of impending judgment.
HOSEA—NOTE ON 7:13–15 against Me! The Lord repeats this phrase to show how deeply grieved He is by His children's sin.
HOSEA—NOTE ON 7:13 Woe. Mournful cry heard at the death of a loved one. The Lord laments the destruction of His people. redeem. See p 843.
HOSEA—NOTE ON 7:14 not ... from the heart. Insincere. wail. Might refer to a ritual performed during Baal worship. gash themselves. On Mount Carmel, the prophets of Baal cut themselves as part of their idolatrous ritual (1Ki 18:28). The Israelites did the same here, hoping to ensure good crops.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 7:15 The Lord strengthened Israel militarily, yet Israel betrays its ally, the Lord.
HOSEA—NOTE ON 7:16 not upward. Israel turned to Baal and to other nations for help rather than to the Lord. treacherous bow. Such a weapon is incapable of shooting straight; its arrows do not hit the target. princes. High-ranking officials who, when captured by the enemy, were among the first to be executed. derision in the land of Egypt. When Israel's leaders fell, Egypt laughed in ridicule.
HOSEA—NOTE ON Chs 6–7 Though Hosea earnestly encourages Ephraim and Judah to return to the Lord, his pleas continue to fall on deaf ears. Rather than trusting the Lord, Israel's leaders persist in seeking help from foreign nations such as Assyria and Egypt. Sadly, even committed Christians manifest the same kind of stubbornness and inability to overcome their weaknesses. And so it is that the Lord still deals with us today as He dealt with wayward Israel. He continues to call us to repentance so that we might return to Him, confess our sin, trust in His pardoning love, and again be reminded that Jesus, the Lamb of God, has forgiven us. • Come, then, let us return to the Lord. Let us press on to know Him and His steadfast love. May we humbly pray, "Lord, have mercy on me, a sinner, and grant me peace." Amen.
HOSEA—NOTE ON 8:1 trumpet. See note, 5:8. One like a vulture. Likely refers to Tiglath-pileser III, king of Assyria, who invaded Israel c 733–732 BC. house of the LORD. Probably the whole land of Israel, including the Jerusalem temple. covenant ... law. See p 971.
HOSEA—NOTE ON 8:2 know You. Presumptuous and self-deluded claim.
HOSEA—NOTE ON 8:3 enemy. See note, v 1.
HOSEA—NOTE ON 8:4–5 made kings, but not through Me. The northern tribes rejected the legitimate heirs to the throne of David and instead made Jeroboam their king. Thereafter, all of Israel's kings were illegitimate because they ruled outside the messianic line of Judah. made idols ... calf. Jeroboam, the first king of the northern tribes, made calves of gold and set them in the cultic shrines of Dan and Bethel. See note, 1Ki 12:28. The twin sins of establishing a kingly line in opposition to the messianic dynasty and worshiping idols ultimately led to Israel's destruction in 722 BC.
HOSEA—NOTE ON 8:5 anger burns. See note, Ex 32:10.
HOSEA—NOTE ON 8:6 craftsman. See notes, Is 44:12–17. broken to pieces. Underlines the fragility of this idol formed by human hands.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 8:7 they sow the wind ... reap the whirlwind. Proverb stresses the futility of turning away from God and trusting in idols. One sowing the wind can hardly expect any harvest but a whirlwind. no heads ... no flour. Wheat or oat stalks without heads of grain cannot feed the sower because they yield no flour. Investing in the nothingness of idolatry guarantees only bankruptcy. strangers would devour. Third depiction of the futility of idol worship through farming imagery.
HOSEA—NOTE ON 8:8 swallowed up. Like the crop devoured by strangers (v 7), so Israel is to be swallowed up by Assyrian invaders. a useless vessel. Under David and Solomon, Israel was a strong nation, possessing at least 2,000 chariots. But now the fractured nation is a mere shell of what it once was, an emptied vessel headed for the garbage heap.
HOSEA—NOTE ON 8:9 a wild donkey. Image of unbridled promiscuity. See note, Ezk 23:20.
HOSEA—NOTE ON 8:10 hire allies. Refers to alliances Ephraim made with nations such as Syria and Assyria. These were her illicit "lovers" (v 9), to whom she would vainly look for help. writhe because of the tribute. Israelite King Menahem paid Tiglath-pileser III of Assyria 1,000 talents (c 37 tons) of silver as tribute (2Ki 15:19–20), an attempt to stave off Israel's destruction. One can understand how kings and princes would have squirmed as they paid such a large sum of extortion money.
HOSEA—NOTE ON 8:11 Though the Lord had commanded Israel to offer different sacrifices (see pp 170–71), Ephraim's multiplication of altars resulted in an increase of sinning in the land because the people were using most of these altars for idol worship.
HOSEA—NOTE ON 8:12 laws by the ten thousands. Israel's disobedience was not simply the result of a lack of knowledge (cf 4:6) but a conscious disregard of God's will. Thousands of new laws would not have helped. strange thing. The people are so far from the Lord that His teachings now seem foreign to them.
HOSEA—NOTE ON 8:13 they sacrifice meat and eat it. In some of the sacrifices and offerings prescribed by Moses, the worshiper and priests were supposed to eat part of the meat. The rest was considered to be the Lord's portion and was burned (e.g., Lv 7:11–27; Dt 12:7; see pp 170–71). return to Egypt. For Israelites, the mention of Egypt called to mind captivity. When Hosea speaks of that nation here, therefore, the people instantly understood his warning that a new captivity was coming, this time in Assyria.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 8:14 built palaces ... fortified cities. The rich and powerful built luxurious palaces. Therein, they sought comfort and security. Cf Am 6:4–7. fire. Palaces and cities of Israel were burned to the ground by the enemies whom the Lord sent.

HOSEA—NOTE ON Ch 8 Topping the list of Israel's misdeeds is idolatry—their rejection of the Creator and their devotion to calves made of gold. Sadly, we, too, begin to fall into idolatry whenever we fear, love, and trust anything or any person more than the true God. Admitting that, we should also remember that the same God threatening to punish idolatry is also the One whose forgiving love and sustaining Spirit never fails. • Heavenly Father, may Your grace, which works powerfully in Word and Sacraments, strengthen our determination to have You first in our lives. May we ever think and pray, "Lord, keep me true to You in thought, word, and deed. Help me to fear, love, and trust in You above all things." Amen.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 9:1–9 Hosea speaks.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 9:1 Rejoice not, O Israel! Given the seriousness of the warnings, this was no time for making merry. a prostitute's wages. See note, Pr 6:26. on all threshing floors. The large, flat, open areas where grain was threshed (see note, Ru 3:2) were also used for religious ceremonies honoring Baal. Israel was expecting "wages" from Baal for its adulterous worship, i.e., its ritual prostitution.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 9:2 new wine shall fail them. Far from receiving bounty in return for its worship of pagan idols, Israel will find the vines so bare that the grapes produce hardly any wine. See note, 4:11.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 9:3 the land of the LORD. The same Lord who had given Israel the Promised Land was about to take back this blessing. return to Egypt. See note, 8:13. eat unclean food in Assyria. Ritually unclean, because the crops could not be grown in the Lord's land or be consecrated with the firstfruits offering (Dt 26:1–11).

HOSEA—NOTE ON 9:4–5 See pp 170–71. Living as captives in a foreign country would totally disrupt the worship rituals prescribed by the Lord. mourners' bread. Bread touched by a mourner who had been in contact with a dead body was unclean (Nu 19:11–22). defiled. Those who ate mourners' bread would themselves become unclean. for their hunger only. Defiled bread would still serve to relieve physical hunger. the house of the LORD.

Defiled bread could not be brought into the Lord's temple. festival … feast. See pp 200–201. Feast of Booths, an autumn harvest festival, was an esp joyful occasion.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 9:6 Egypt. Some in Israel fled from destruction by going to Egypt (cf Jer 44:1). However, they found no lasting refuge there. Memphis. Egyptian city famous for its pyramids and huge graveyard. Many expatriated Israelites were buried there. See color map 3. Nettles. Weeds with jagged leaves, covered with stinging hairs. See note, Jgs 9:8–15.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 9:7 recompense. The punishment on Israel is payback for rejecting the Lord and rebelling against His Law. The prophet is a fool. Reflects what many in Ephraim were saying about Hosea's prophetic warnings. man of the spirit is mad. Hosea responds to this charge of being a fool by asserting that he, a righteous man full of God's Spirit, is at wit's end because of the people's sin and hatred.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 9:8 watchman. See notes, Is 21:6–12; Ezk 3:17. a fowler's snare. A fowler is one who hunts birds by setting traps; see note, Ps 91:3. Hosea feels as though he is a hunted man in Ephraim. hatred. The prophet, who by rights should have been loved for proclaiming the Lord's Word, is hated. house of his God. See note, 8:1.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 9:9 days of Gibeah. Refers to the appalling sexual crime committed years earlier by some residents of Gibeah. These Benjaminites, thwarted in their attempt to rape a visiting Levite, abused the man's concubine all night until she fell dead. As a consequence, all Israel attacked the tribe of Benjamin, killing 25,000 men (Jgs 19:1–20:48).

HOSEA—NOTE ON 9:10–13 The Lord speaks.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 9:10 Like grapes … your fathers. The Lord likens Himself to a traveler in the wilderness who unexpectedly finds a vineyard. Such was His initial pleasure in the first Israelites. But that feeling changed as Israel became more and more apostate. first fruit. See note, Na 3:12. Baal-peor. Mountain in Moab, c 12 mi NE of the northern end of the Salt Sea. See Peor on map, p 250. consecrated themselves to the thing of shame. Refers to the episode in which Israel joined with the Moabites in worshiping Baal (Nu 25:1–3). This worship may have included child sacrifice (cf Ps 106:37–38). thing they loved. A baneful consequence of idolatry is that the worshiper begins to resemble his or her idol. Cf Ps 115:8.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 9:11 glory shall fly away. Israel enjoyed renown among the surrounding nations, but that glory was fleeting. no birth, no pregnancy, no conception! One of the most devastating results of sin is its effect on children. The birthing process is traced backward to show how life will be turned upside down when war descends on Israel.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 9:12 Woe. See note, 7:13.
HOSEA—NOTE ON 9:13 Israel's glory days have been compared to a productive vine, a fruitful fig tree (v 10), and a thriving palm (v 13). In those days, God's faithful people did right and so produced much fruit, including children. But when the invading Assyrians strike, Ephraim's children will be mercilessly slaughtered.
HOSEA—NOTE ON 9:14 Hosea asks the Lord what He will give His people. He then prays that the Lord will grant His people a lesser evil than seeing their children slaughtered—no children at all.
HOSEA—NOTE ON 9:15 Gilgal. Across the Jordan River from Baal-peor; it was the site of Saul's inauguration as the first king. It long served as an illegitimate worship center, even after the temple was built in Jerusalem. Cf Am 4:4. hate them. Hbr verb involves rejection and distancing (cf v 17). drive them out. The Lord threatens to divorce Himself from Ephraim on account of the people's incessant wickedness. My house. The entire Promised Land. Cf 8:1. their princes are rebels. See notes, 5:1, 2.
HOSEA—NOTE ON 9:16 Cf Ex 34:7. The Lord permitted Assyria to conquer Israel, inevitably causing innocent children to be put to death for the sins of their parents.
HOSEA—NOTE ON 9:17 Summary. wanderers. God's people will be dispersed, first by the hands of the Assyrians and later the Babylonians. These exiles fulfilled the prophetic warning, spoken as early as Moses, that apostasy would cause the Lord to scatter His people.
HOSEA—NOTE ON 10:1 more altars. Again, Israel is compared to a luxuriant vine (cf 9:10). The more the people's fruit increased, however, the more altars they built to worship Baal. pillars. Stone pillars or columns marking places that Baal was worshiped. The Lord hated such pillars (Dt 16:22).
HOSEA—NOTE ON 10:2 break down ... destroy. Some years later, the Lord used King Josiah of Judah to destroy these altars and pillars (2Ki 23:14–15).
HOSEA—NOTE ON 10:3 We have no king ... what could he do for us? The people of Israel had no fewer than six kings within a period of c 20 years during the ministry of Hosea. This rapid succession no doubt prompts their cynical question. The basic problem, however, is not their lack of a king. Rather, it is their failure to fear the One who truly is King, the Lord.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 10:4 empty oaths. Covenants, or contracts, between two parties were typically sealed with a binding oath (e.g., Eng: "so help me God"). In Hosea's day, such oaths had become hollow. See p 7. poisonous weeds. These contrast to the luxurious vines mentioned in v 1, which yielded delicious fruit. Poisonous weeds, on the other hand, diminished the harvest and caused illness and even death for those consuming them.
HOSEA—NOTE ON 10:5 Samaria. See note, 7:1. calf of Beth-aven. See note, 4:15. idolatrous priests. Foreign word for "priest," not Hbr, is used here to emphasize that these were rogue priests who served Baal. rejoiced … departed. Up to this point, the people rejoiced and gave glory to Baal while worshiping his image. Soon, however, mourning rather than rejoicing would be heard, since the calf would soon be removed.
HOSEA—NOTE ON 10:6 carried to Assyria. The calf would be carried off to Assyria with other Israelite treasures as tribute to the Assyrian monarch. the great king. King of Assyria, either Tiglath-pileser III (744–727 BC) or Shalmaneser V (726–722 BC).
HOSEA—NOTE ON 10:7 Samaria's king. The last king to rule in Samaria was Hoshea (732–722 BC). The Assyrians locked him up in prison for failing to pay tribute (2Ki 17:4). like a twig on the face of the waters. The king is swept away, powerless to resist.
HOSEA—NOTE ON 10:8 high places. The Canaanites usually chose high places, such as prominent hills, for the worship of their god Baal. Many in Israel did the same. See p 526. Aven. See note, 4:15. Thorn and thistle. Weeds would overgrow the altars on the high places once the Israelites were carried off into captivity. Cover us … on us. People facing divine judgment will actually ask to be buried by a mountain rather than face the full fury of God's wrath. Jesus quotes these words while speaking to the weeping women on the road to Calvary. This cry also accompanies the opening of the sixth seal and judgment that follows.
HOSEA—NOTE ON 10:9 days of Gibeah. See note, 9:9. war against the unjust. Shalmaneser V became king of Assyria in 726 BC and attacked Israel a few years later. He put King Hoshea into prison and captured the capital, Samaria, in 722 BC after a three-year siege (2Ki 17:3–6). People as far away as Gibeah felt the effects of this crushing blow.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 10:10 double iniquity. Israel's failure was complete. Cf v 15.
HOSEA—NOTE ON 10:11 loved to thresh. Threshing grain was easy work for an ox and opportunity for mouthfuls of fodder. I spared her fair neck. Refers to the Lord's long-suffering and patience with Israel. Thus far, He had not made the yoke of the covenant onerous ("a pain in the neck," we say). yoke ... plow ... harrow. The days of the Lord's forbearance are over. Henceforth, He will expect His people to shoulder the full weight of the covenant, even though they will chafe under its yoke, and toil so as to produce the fruit He desires.
HOSEA—NOTE ON 10:12 Bern: "This knowledge is taught, not by the reading of books, but by grace; not by the letter, but by the spirit; not by learning, but by the practice of the commandments of God…. You see that the light of knowledge cannot be duly attained, except the seed of righteousness [first] enter the soul, so that from it may grow the grain of life, and not the mere husk of vainglory" (SLSB, p 162). righteousness. See p 843. Not simply social justice but forgiveness and renewal.
HOSEA—NOTE ON 10:13 Root failure of Israel was a lack of trust in the Lord. This resulted in the false worship of Baal, general lawlessness, and a reliance on human resources for national security.
HOSEA—NOTE ON 10:14 tumult of war. Punishment for Israel's failure to keep the covenant. Shalman. No other mention of a person named Shalman in the Bible or in other historical records; it may be a shortened name for the Assyrian king Shalmaneser. Beth-arbel. Location unknown, though possibly in Gilead, east of the Jordan River. dashed in pieces. Imagery of the horrifying atrocities that accompany the tumult of war. Cf 13:16; see p 879.
HOSEA—NOTE ON 10:15 O Bethel. See note, 8:4–5. great evil. The worship of the golden calf (1Ki 12:27–29). Again and again, Israel broke the First Commandment, the root cause of all subsequent sins. At dawn ... cut off. People normally look forward to dawn with the hope of a new beginning. In this case, however, dawn marked the end: the king would be utterly cut off.
HOSEA—NOTE ON Chs 9–10 Hosea alternately speaks about Israel's past and future. He reminds the people of how faithfully the Lord has treated His children. At the same time, however, Hosea warns Israel of impending judgment as a result of the nation's apostasy. We need to hear similar prophetic exhortations today, not only to prevent us from slipping into thanklessness, but also to check our inclinations toward willful sins and outright rebellion. The prophetic word we need to hear most, however, is that in Christ God has rained down righteousness upon us, forgiving all sin, and thus we have the very hope of glory. • May all Your past faithfulness, O Lord, continually strengthen our conviction that on Judgment Day You will speak for us, not against us. Then we will eagerly long for the day when You will finally and completely free us from sin, death, and the devil. Amen.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 11:1 Hosea repeatedly reminds Israel of how graciously God has dealt with them in the past (cf 9:10a, 13a; 10:1a, 11a). out of Egypt I called My son. Recalls the time nearly seven centuries before Hosea's time when God elected Israel as His "firstborn son" (Ex 4:22–23) and rescued him from bondage in Egypt. This event anticipated the appearance of God's only-begotten Son and the Father's care during the Christ Child's return from Egypt, after He narrowly escaped Herod's attempt to destroy Him. See note, Mt 2:15.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 11:2 called. The Lord continuously raised up prophets to urge trust and obedience in the one true God. Baals. See note, Nu 25:3. Baal was the most alluring pagan deity for Israel and during the reign of Ahab was actually decreed the national idol (1Ki 16:29–34).

HOSEA—NOTE ON 11:3 I who taught Ephraim to walk. Continuing the parental imagery of v 1, God is pictured as a father tenderly holding his child by the arms as the little one learns to walk.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 11:4 cords of kindness … bands of love. Possibly imagery for a guide rope, halter, or lead rope. the yoke on their jaws. A yoke can impede an animal's ability to chew, esp as it leans forward to eat from a trough. I bent down. God compares Himself to a caring master who ensures that His animals' basic needs (and even comfort) are supplied.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 11:5 Assyria shall be their king. God forewarns Israel of impending judgment by means of the Assyrian invasion. return. See p 1080.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 11:6 bars of their gates. Crossbeams used to lock doors and gates. their own counsels. Plans and deeds made without dependence on the Lord and His Word.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 11:7 bent on turning away. To pursue wickedness. Constitutes original sin, which is the root of all unbelief and disobedience.

Luth: “Where, do you think, lies the reason why we cannot believe the Word of God although everything up to the article of the resurrection of the dead has happened as Scripture says? The reason is original sin” (WLS § 1442). they call out. Although they pray, they more steadfastly turn away from Him.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 11:8 Admah … Zeboiim. Two cities in the Valley of Siddim destroyed along with Sodom and Gomorrah. See map, p 33. My heart. Using anthropomorphic language to emphasize His fatherly love for Israel, God again underscores His abiding mercy and unending concern for His people.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 11:9 burning anger. See note, Jnh 3:9. I am God and not a man. Humans often permit emotions to control their actions and even pervert justice. Not so with God. While angered, He still deals with people in accord with a perfect balance of justice and mercy. Holy One in your midst. See p 1227. God is true to His promise to preserve His people. He is also personal, making Himself known in the midst of His people. He continues to do the same through the Church’s preaching of the Word and the administration of the Sacraments.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 11:10–11 God will gather His people from the nations. roar like a lion. Lions announce their arrival and mark their territory by roaring. This metaphorical roar not only declares to the world that God has returned for His people but also announces His rule and power. trembling. See p 1001. from the west. Lit, “from the waters,” the seas over which they dispersed. Egypt … Assyria. South and east of Israel, respectively. When He returns, all of His faithful people will be gathered from every corner of the world.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 11:12 walks with God. See p 7. Holy One. See p 1227.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 12:1 feeds on the wind. Israel’s spiritual eating and drinking is frivolous, empty, and undiscerning. See note, 8:7. a covenant with Assyria. Reflects Israel’s vain pursuits to establish alliances with heathen nations such as Assyria. See notes, 5:13; 7:11. oil is carried to Egypt. Olive trees did not grow in Egypt, so Israel exported olive oil to secure an ally against potential threats from Assyria in the east.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 11:1–12:1 Even as the Lord continues to speak of His unrequited love and longing for Israel, His firstborn, He anguishes over the people’s unceasing iniquity and willful disobedience. Unfortunately, many today follow the lead of Hosea's generation, closing their ears to God's Law and imagining that judgment will never come upon them. Hear the Father's roar! Tremble and return by faith in Christ, who bore God's judgment for us and for our peace. • Heavenly Father, I believe. Help me in my weakness and unbelief, for the sake of Your only-begotten Son, my Savior. Amen.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 12:2 God's punishment for sin is equitable. Jacob. Synonymous with "Israel" (cf Gn 32:28), of which Judah is a tribe (cf 10:11).

HOSEA—NOTE ON 12:3–4 Various episodes of Jacob's life are recalled in order to encourage Israel to struggle with God in a good way, that they remain rightful heirs of the promise given to the patriarch.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 12:3 In the womb. Recalls Jacob's struggle with Esau before the twins were born and alludes to the historical fact that Israel is ever contending and striving—even with God—just as its forefather Jacob did.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 12:4 strove with the angel. Cf Gn 32:22–28. he wept. Jacob fervently asked for the angel's blessing. He met God at Bethel. Jacob received a dream from God at Bethel (a theophany; see p 39), after which he erected a sacred pillar or stone as a place of worship (Gn 28:18–22; see note, Jsh 24:26).

HOSEA—NOTE ON 12:5 In addition to revealing Himself gloriously as the "God of hosts" (see p 1291), the Lord also revealed Himself personally to the patriarchs, promising that through Jacob's descendants all the earth would be blessed (Gn 28:14). The faithful of Israel were continually to reinforce their community's faith in the promises given their forefathers, i.e., memorialize the Lord who had revealed Himself to them.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 12:6 return. See p 1080. love. Hbr chesed. See "steadfast love," p 843. wait continually for your God. An OT phrase meaning "patiently trust Him to act." See notes, Ps 25:3; Is 40:31.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 12:7 false balances. Or, dishonest scales. See note, Am 8:5.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 12:8 Ephraim was so steeped in sin that its people had convinced themselves that they had acquired their wealth justly. they. Likely other nations.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 12:9 By referring to the historical events of the exodus, God reminded Israel that He had elected them as His children, caused them to become a great nation, and then freed them from their servitude. The Lord was prepared to make Israel again "dwell in tents," just as during the 40-year sojourn in the wilderness. the appointed feast. Feast of Booths, which commemorated Israel's nomadic journey through the wilderness. See pp 200–201.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 12:10 visions … parables. Not only had God provided ample warning through the sermons of the prophets, but He had also multiplied His disclosures to Israel in other forms of speech and literature. Iren: "God the Father is shown forth through all these [operations], the Spirit indeed working, and the Son ministering, while the Father was approving, and man's salvation being accomplished" (ANF 1:489). See notes, Ps 78:1–2; Mt 13:3.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 12:11 Gilead. Land east of the Jordan River; overrun by Assyria in 732 BC. Gilgal … sacrifice bulls. See note, 4:15. stone heaps on the furrows. When they plowed their fields, Israelite farmers gathered the stones that they uncovered and piled them in the depressions. God warns that He will reduce altars used for idolatrous worship to mere piles of stones, resembling such landfill.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 12:12 Jacob tended flocks for Rachel's father, Laban, in exchange for her hand in marriage. Aram. Located northeast of Canaan in contemporary Syria. See color map 2. Israel. Synonymous with "Jacob," who received his new name after he wrestled with God (Gn 32:28).

HOSEA—NOTE ON 12:13 a prophet … brought Israel up from Egypt. Israelites were led out of Egypt by God's greatest OT prophet, Moses. guarded. Jacob's tending of Laban's flocks (see note, v 12) is contrasted with God's shepherding of the Israelites through Moses' leadership.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 12:14 bloodguilt. See note, 1Ki 2:31; cf Lv 20:11–27.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 12:2–14 Rather than follow the example of their forefather Jacob, who in faith strove with God and so received a blessing, the Israelites of Hosea's day set themselves in a fight against the Lord and so inevitably fell under a crushing defeat. This leads us to ask, "Are our spiritual struggles borne of faith or of unbelief?" Sadly, there are times that our spirits knowingly fight against the Lord and His Word rather than battle against our true enemies: sin, death, the flesh, and the devil. In such times, the Gospel's promise calls to us: "If we are faithless, He remains faithful—for He cannot deny Himself" (2Tm 2:13). • Give me discernment, O Lord, so that when I lash out in anger and despair, I do not make You my enemy.

Because You lived, died, and rose again for me, teach me to know You as my ally. Amen.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 13:1 trembling. In Israel's glory days, when David and Solomon ruled over a united kingdom, the surrounding nations shuddered before their might. guilt through Baal. See note, Nu 25:3. After Israel became such a powerful nation, King Solomon allowed the spread of idolatrous practices. Under Jeroboam, his illegitimate successor in the north, worship began to be offered unabashedly to golden calves (1Ki 12:28). Later, during Ahab's reign, the king himself "served Baal and worshiped him," even setting up a temple for him (1Ki 16:31–32). Such departures marked the beginning of the end for Israel.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 13:2 King Jeroboam introduced worship of the twin golden calves c 200 years earlier. After that, the propagation of man-made idols accelerated. See note, 1Ki 12:28. Those who offer human sacrifice kiss calves! This ironic passage juxtaposes two aspects of Baal worship. Idolatrous practices could include human sacrifice. At the same time, this sentence underscores the frivolity of those worshiping Baal, since they showed greater respect for images of animals than for human life.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 13:3 mist … dew. Evaporates as soon as the sun rises. chaff … smoke. Blown away by even a puff of wind. A picture of how quickly and completely rebellious Israel will be destroyed. window. Buildings did not have chimneys; smoke exited through a window.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 13:4 from the land of Egypt. Israel is again reminded of their deliverance from Egypt. This redemptive intervention is repeatedly evoked amid Hosea's admonitions, reminding Israel that they should refuse to know any other God besides the One who rescued them from bondage. know. Hbr yada', implies an evidential-experiential knowledge, i.e., a familiarity based on relationship. besides Me there is no savior. See "salvation," p 843. The exodus event is the greatest way that God revealed Himself as Savior in the OT. The greatest redemptive act in all of history, however, is the death and resurrection of the Lord Jesus Christ, which results in the world's salvation from sin, death, and the devil. Christianity, unlike all other religions of the world, can point to factual events and historical persons as the basis for knowing God and, most important, knowing the certainty of salvation.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 13:5 in the wilderness. Israel's 40-year wandering.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 13:6 Haughty and deluded into believing they had no need of the Lord, they failed to appreciate all that the Lord had done for them. Moses warned them against this.
HOSEA—NOTE ON 13:7–8 lion … leopard … bear. Not commonly found in the Near East today. Asiatic lions and leopards, found only in India, are on the verge of extinction. Similarly, Asiatic black bears are found only in China. These animals conjure up the image of a voracious beast tearing a tame flock of sheep or goats to pieces, illustrating just how angry God was with Israel.
HOSEA—NOTE ON 13:8 robbed of her cubs. Mother bears are notoriously fierce as they protect their cubs. tear open their breast. Laying bare the heart.
HOSEA—NOTE ON 13:9 He destroys. "The beginning and cause of evil is not God's foreknowledge. (For God does not create and do evil, neither does He help or promote it.) The cause of this evil is the wicked, perverse will of the devil and of people" (FC SD XI 7). helper. Hbr 'ezer, "ally." Not only did the Lord bring the Israelites out of Egypt, but He also continued to bless and sustain His chosen people. See note, Gn 2:18.
HOSEA—NOTE ON 13:11 gave you a king in My anger. See notes, 1Sm 8:7, 17. After King Solomon's death, the Lord's warnings about kings came to fruition. For more than two centuries, Israel languished under terrible leadership. took him away. When the Lord had endured enough of Israel's apostate kings, he allowed the Assyrians to destroy the Northern Kingdom and bring their royal line to an end.
HOSEA—NOTE ON 13:12 bound up. Their sin is preserved or collected so it can be taken into consideration when the time for punishment comes.
HOSEA—NOTE ON 13:13 pangs of childbirth. The judgment awaiting Israel would be, at least figuratively, as great as the trauma one experiences at birth. In Israel's case, however, this travail would last an abnormally long time. unwise son. God's "firstborn son" resists being born.
HOSEA—NOTE ON 13:14 ransom. See "redeem," p 843. Sheol? See p 792. redeem. See p 843. O Death … your sting? Obviously, only God can overcome the final and destructive power of death. He alone can loosen its hold on humankind. "Christ's death is a satisfaction not only for guilt, but also for eternal death" (Ap XIIB 43). Compassion is hidden. Although the Lord will indeed redeem His people and bring His great plan of salvation to fulfillment in His time, for the moment the theme of judgment and doom predominate. Paul repeats these questions at the climax of his greatest chapter on the meaning of Christ's resurrection and then answers them: "But thanks be to God, who gives us the victory through our Lord Jesus Christ" (1Co 15:57).

HOSEA—NOTE ON 13:15 the east wind. See note, Jb 1:19. An apt metaphor for God's destructive vengeance through the Assyrians, from the east. strip his treasury. When the Assyrians conquered the northern tribes, they plundered the Israelites' personal and national wealth.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 13:16 Samaria. See note, 7:1. their little … ripped open. See note, 10:14.

HOSEA—NOTE ON Ch 13 Israel's never-ending idolatry and disobedience provoked this most violent description of judgment. The children offered to Baal would be ripped away. Today, offer yourself, your family, and your congregation to the Lord in repentant prayer. Acknowledge lack of control and beg God's forgiveness, restoration, and health. By grace, God's Holy Spirit will enable you to see things aright. He will ransom and redeem His people through His Son's compassionate love. • Thank You, Jesus, for opening my eyes to Your compassion. May I always trust in You when faced with sin, death, and the power of the devil. Amen.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 14:1 Israel's sin is here compared to a misstep, which leaves the possibility for regaining one's balance. The Lord continues to reach out in love and hope to a wayward people. Return. See p 1080.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 14:2 Take with you words. Approach the Lord with words of confession. pay with bulls. The prophet exhorts Israel to offer the sacrifices prescribed in the Books of Moses. At the same time, they must understand that such external signs of repentance are secondary to redirecting one's heart and mind to God. They do not contribute to the redemption or ransom, which comes from God's initiative. See notes, Ps 51:17, 19.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 14:3 not ride on horses. Warns Israel against relying on alliances with worldly powers (such as Assyria and Egypt). Only a return to God and trusting in Him can avert their doom. the work of our hands. Israel's idols are the creation of their imagination and the work of their hands. In You the orphan finds mercy. Not Baal, but the Lord is the hope of the orphan.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 14:4–7 The Lord's tone changes here. He begins to announce good news to Israel. Specifically, He promises to heal the people, love them freely, and turn away His righteous anger. The imagery contrasts with the heat and dryness of the judgment in 13:15.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 14:4 heal their apostasy. Restore them from their rebellious ways.
HOSEA—NOTE ON 14:5 like the dew to Israel. Land of Israel is very hot, which makes the morning dew an important means of relief and refreshment. Although the Lord would scorch the land in judgment, He would also refresh and restore it afterward. blossom like the lily. White lilies of Palestine are still known for their fruitfulness and fragrance. The ancient botanist Pliny the Elder observed in the first century that they produced as many as 50 bulbs from a single root. take root like the trees of Lebanon. Lebanon was covered with oak, pine, and esp cedar trees. Ancient Phoenicians built ships from the wood of these forests. God promises not only to heal Israel but also to allow the nation to sink new roots into the land.
HOSEA—NOTE ON 14:6 his shoots shall spread out. God promises His people stability and security in the future. They will experience abundant growth, like the giant trees whose branches made up the vast canopy of Lebanon's forests. fragrance like Lebanon. Area is known for cedar trees and various spices.
HOSEA—NOTE ON 14:7 return. Implicitly the motive for Israel's return and future trust in the Lord is God's gracious outpouring of forgiveness, love, and blessings. beneath My shadow. In returning to God, Israel would find protection and solace. their fame shall be like the wine of Lebanon. Pliny the Elder notes the international repute of Lebanese wine in his Naturalis Historia.
HOSEA—NOTE ON 14:8 Ephraim. See note, 4:17. answer. The one, true, and only living God answered Israel's prayers. To this very day, He hears our cries of worship and devotion. like an evergreen cypress. Only time in the OT that God compares Himself symbolically to a tree. Fittingly, the Eastern Cypress tree was renowned for its graceful form and enormous size. As such, it provides an immense amount of shade and even protection from the elements. from Me comes your fruit. Israel's provision and blessings come from the Lord.
HOSEA—NOTE ON 14:9 ways of the LORD … walk. See p 844. stumble. See note, 4:5.

HOSEA—NOTE ON Ch 14 The overwhelming evidence of Israel's apostasy showed that Hosea's indictment was true. In our own cases, the verdict is similarly clear. However, Jesus Christ has borne our sentence for us. The dew of His mercy and the shade of His cross heal our apostasy. He renders us innocent before God's holy tribunal. • We thank You, Lord Jesus, for all that You have done to make us holy and righteous. Enable us to walk in Your ways now and always. Amen.

1 [1] † The word of the LORD that came to Joel, the son of Pethuel:

An Invasion of Locusts

2 Hear this, you elders;
give ear, all inhabitants of the land!
Has such a thing happened in your days,
or in the days of your fathers?
3 Tell your children of it,
and let your children tell their children,
and their children to another generation.

4 What the cutting locust left,
the swarming locust has eaten.
What the swarming locust left,
the hopping locust has eaten,
and what the hopping locust left,
the destroying locust has eaten.

5 Awake, you drunkards, and weep,
and wail, all you drinkers of wine,
because of the sweet wine,
for it is cut off from your mouth.
6 For a nation has come up against my land, powerful and beyond number;
its teeth are lions' teeth,
and it has the fangs of a lioness.
7 It has laid waste my vine and splintered my fig tree;
it has stripped off their bark and thrown it down;
their branches are made white.

8 Lament like a virgin[1] wearing sackcloth for the bridegroom of her youth.

9† The grain offering and the drink offering are cut off from the house of the Lord.
The priests mourn,
the ministers of the Lord.
10† The fields are destroyed,
the ground mourns,
because the grain is destroyed,
the wine dries up,
the oil languishes.

11† Be ashamed,[2] O tillers of the soil;
wail, O vinedressers,
for the wheat and the barley,
because the harvest of the field has perished.
12† The vine dries up;
the fig tree languishes.
Pomegranate, palm, and apple,
all the trees of the field are dried up,
and gladness dries up from the children of man.

A Call to Repentance

13 Put on sackcloth and lament, O priests;
wail, O ministers of the altar.
Go in, pass the night in sackcloth,
O ministers of my God!
Because grain offering and drink offering are withheld from the house of your God.

14 Consecrate a fast;
call a solemn assembly.
Gather the elders
and all the inhabitants of the land to the house of the Lord your God, and cry out to the Lord.

15 Alas for the day!
For the day of the Lord is near,
and as destruction from the Almighty[1]
it comes.
16 Is not the food cut off
before our eyes,
joy and gladness
from the house of our God?

17 The seed shrivels under the clods;[2]
the storehouses are desolate;
the granaries are torn down
because the grain has dried up.
18 How the beasts groan!
The herds of cattle are perplexed

because there is no pasture for them;
even the flocks of sheep suffer.[3]

19 † To you, O Lord, I call.
For fire has devoured
the pastures of the wilderness,
and flame has burned
all the trees of the field.
20 † Even the beasts of the field pant for you because the water brooks are dried up, and fire has devoured
the pastures of the wilderness.

The Day of the Lord

2 [1]†††Blow a trumpet in Zion;
sound an alarm on my holy mountain!
Let all the inhabitants of the land tremble, for the day of the Lord is coming; it is near,

[2]† a day of darkness and gloom,
a day of clouds and thick darkness!
Like blackness there is spread upon the mountains
a great and powerful people;
their like has never been before,
nor will be again after them through the years of all generations.

[3]† Fire devours before them,
and behind them a flame burns.
The land is like the garden of Eden before them,
but behind them a desolate wilderness,
and nothing escapes them.

[4]† Their appearance is like the appearance of horses, and like war horses they run.
[5]† As with the rumbling of chariots,
they leap on the tops of the mountains,
like the crackling of a flame of fire
devouring the stubble, like a powerful army
drawn up for battle.

6† Before them peoples are in anguish;
all faces grow pale.
7† Like warriors they charge;
like soldiers they scale the wall.
They march each on his way;
they do not swerve from their paths.
8† They do not jostle one another;
each marches in his path;
they burst through the weapons
and are not halted.
9† They leap upon the city,
they run upon the walls,
they climb up into the houses,
they enter through the windows like a thief.

10† The earth quakes before them;
the heavens tremble.
The sun and the moon are darkened,
and the stars withdraw their shining.
11† The LORD utters his voice
before his army,
for his camp is exceedingly great;
he who executes his word is powerful.
For the day of the LORD is great and very awesome;
who can endure it?

Return to the Lord

12 “Yet even now,” declares the Lord, “return to me with all your heart, with fasting, with weeping, and with mourning;
13 and rend your hearts and not your garments.”
Return to the Lord your God,
for he is gracious and merciful,
slow to anger, and abounding in steadfast love;
and he relents over disaster.
14 Who knows whether he will not turn and relent,
and leave a blessing behind him,
a grain offering and a drink offering for the Lord your God?

15 Blow the trumpet in Zion;
consecrate a fast;
call a solemn assembly;
16 gather the people.
Consecrate the congregation;
assemble the elders;
gather the children,
even nursing infants.
Let the bridegroom leave his room,
and the bride her chamber.

17 Between the vestibule and the altar let the priests, the ministers of the Lord, weep
and say, “Spare your people, O Lord, and make not your heritage a reproach,

a byword among the nations.[1]
Why should they say among the peoples, ‘Where is their God?’”

The Lord Had Pity

18 Then the Lord became jealous for his land and had pity on his people.
19 The Lord answered and said to his people,
"Behold, I am sending to you grain, wine, and oil,
and you will be satisfied;
and I will no more make you a reproach among the nations.

20 "I will remove the northerner far from you, and drive him into a parched and desolate
land,
his vanguard[2] into the eastern sea,
and his rear guard[3] into the western sea;
the stench and foul smell of him will rise,
for he has done great things.

21 "Fear not, O land;
be glad and rejoice,
for the Lord has done great things!
22 Fear not, you beasts of the field, for the pastures of the wilderness are green;
the tree bears its fruit;
the fig tree and vine give their full yield.

23 "Be glad, O children of Zion, and rejoice in the Lord your God, for he has given the early rain for your vindication;
he has poured down for you abundant

rain,
the early and the latter rain, as before.

24† “The threshing floors shall be full of grain;
the vats shall overflow with wine and oil.
25† I will restore to you the years that the swarming locust has eaten,
the hopper, the destroyer, and the cutter,
my great army, which I sent among you.

26† “You shall eat in plenty and be satisfied, and praise the name of the Lord your God,
who has dealt wondrously with you.
And my people shall never again be put to shame.

27† You shall know that I am in the midst of Israel,
and that I am the Lord your God and there is none else.
And my people shall never again be put to shame.

The Lord Will Pour Out His Spirit

28 [1] “And it shall come to pass afterward, that I will pour out my Spirit on all flesh;
your sons and your daughters shall prophesy,
your old men shall dream dreams,
and your young men shall see visions.
29 Even on the male and female servants
in those days I will pour out my Spirit.

30 “And I will show wonders in the heavens and on the earth, blood and fire and columns of smoke. 31 The sun shall be turned to darkness, and the moon to blood, before the great and awesome day of the Lord comes. 32 And it shall come to pass that everyone who calls on the name of the Lord shall be saved. For in Mount Zion and in Jerusalem there shall be those who escape, as the Lord has said, and among the survivors shall be those whom the Lord calls.

The Lord Judges the Nations

3 1 ‡ † [1] “For behold, in those days and at that time, when I restore the fortunes of Judah and Jerusalem, 2 † I will gather all the nations and bring them down to the Valley of Jehoshaphat. And I will enter into judgment with them there, on behalf of my people and my heritage Israel, because they have scattered them among the nations and have divided up my land, 3 † and have cast lots for my people, and have traded a boy for a prostitute, and have sold a girl for wine and have drunk it.

4 † “What are you to me, O Tyre and Sidon, and all the regions of Philistia? Are you paying me back for something? If you are paying me back, I will return your payment on your own head swiftly and speedily.
5 † For you have taken my silver and my gold, and have carried my rich treasures into your temples.[2] 6 † You have sold the people of Judah and Jerusalem to the Greeks in order to remove them far from their own border.
7 † Behold, I will stir them up from the place to which you have sold them, and I will return your payment on your own head. 8 † I will sell your sons and your daughters into the hand of the people of Judah, and they will sell them to the Sabeans, to a nation far away, for the Lord has spoken.”

9 † Proclaim this among the nations:
Consecrate for war;[3]
stir up the mighty men.
Let all the men of war draw near;
let them come up.
10 † Beat your plowshares into swords,
and your pruning hooks into spears;
let the weak say, “I am a warrior.”

11 † Hasten and come,
all you surrounding nations,
and gather yourselves there.
Bring down your warriors, O Lord.

12† Let the nations stir themselves up and come up to the Valley of Jehoshaphat;
for there I will sit to judge
all the surrounding nations.

13† Put in the sickle,
for the harvest is ripe.
Go in, tread,
for the winepress is full.
The vats overflow,
for their evil is great.

14† Multitudes, multitudes,
in the valley of decision!
For the day of the Lord is near
in the valley of decision.
15† The sun and the moon are darkened,
and the stars withdraw their shining.

16† The Lord roars from Zion,
and utters his voice from Jerusalem,
and the heavens and the earth quake.
But the Lord is a refuge to his people,
a stronghold to the people of Israel.

The Glorious Future of Judah

17 “So you shall know that I am the Lord your God, who dwells in Zion, my holy mountain.
And Jerusalem shall be holy,
and strangers shall never again pass through it.

18 “And in that day
the mountains shall drip sweet wine,
and the hills shall flow with milk,
and all the streambeds of Judah shall flow with water;
and a fountain shall come forth from the house of the Lord and water the Valley of Shittim.

19 “Egypt shall become a desolation and Edom a desolate wilderness, for the violence done to the people of Judah,
because they have shed innocent blood in their land.
20 But Judah shall be inhabited forever,
and Jerusalem to all generations.
21 I will avenge their blood, blood I have not avenged,[1] for the Lord dwells in Zion.”

Introduction to Joel

Reading Joel

The bright green fields give way to mounting darkness. Black waves of locusts roll and swell across the fields. A farm family stares through tears as everything they have worked for slowly disappears. The father clutches a jar of wheat seed, which becomes more precious by the moment. He will have to hide the jar until planting season lest it be eaten or stolen. They will make do without bread until the following harvest.

Today, the hand-to-mouth existence of nations such as Judah may seem worlds apart. For them, a plague of locusts could mean the difference between life and death. Today, if a crop freezes in one part of the country, we can always receive our food from another part. The Judeans lived with a much clearer sense of their dependence on heaven. Yet they were still slow to repent, even in the face of disaster. As you read Joel, hear his alarm. Tighten your belt and take his call to repentance to heart.

Luther on Joel

Joel was a kindly and gentle man. He does not denounce and rebuke as do the other prophets, but pleads and laments; he tried with kind and friendly words to make the people righteous and to protect them from harm and misfortune. But it happened to him as to the other prophets: the people did not believe his words and held him to be a fool.

Nevertheless Joel is highly praised in the New Testament, for in Acts 2 St. Peter quotes him. Thus Joel had to provide the first sermon ever preached in the Christian Church, the one on Pentecost at Jerusalem when the Holy Spirit was given [Acts 2:1–16]. St. Paul too makes glorious use of the saying, "Everyone who calls upon the name of the Lord will be saved" [Rom. 10:13], which is also in Joel 2[:32].

In the first chapter he prophesies the punishment which is to come upon the people of Israel. They are to be destroyed and carried away by the Assyrians; and he calls the Assyrians cutting, swarming, hopping, and destroying locusts [1:4]. For the Assyrians devoured the kingdom of Israel bit by bit until they had completely destroyed it. In the end, however, King Sennacherib had to suffer defeat before Jerusalem; Joel touches on that in chapter 2[:20] when he says, "I will remove the northerner far from you."

In the second place, at the end of the second chapter and from that point on [2:28–3:21] he prophesies of the kingdom of Christ, and of the Holy Spirit, and speaks of the everlasting Jerusalem.

He speaks of the valley of Jehoshaphat [3:12] and says that the Lord will summon all the nations thither for judgment. The ancient fathers understand that to refer to the Last Judgment. I do not condemn this interpretation, but hold, nevertheless, that this is really Joel's meaning: even as he calls the Christian Church the everlasting Jerusalem, so he calls it also the valley of Jehoshaphat. He does so because through the word all the world is summoned to the Christian Church and is there judged, and by the preaching is reproved as being all together sinners in the sight of God, as Christ says, "The Spirit of truth will reprove the world of sin" [John 16:8]. For valley of Jehoshaphat means valley of judgment. Thus also does Hosea call the Christian Church the valley of Achor. (AE 35:318–19)

For more of Luther's insights on this Book, see Lectures on Joel (AE 18:77–123).

Challenges for Readers

Historical Context. Scholars are not sure when the prophet Joel wrote, providing dates ranging from the ninth century to the second century BC. Since the prophet likely mentioned King Jehoshaphat (see note, 3:2), the prophecy would date no earlier than the ninth century. He describes the temple services and addresses the priests as empathetic to his concerns, conditions that did not always exist for later prophets (e.g., the temple was not functioning from 587 to 516 BC). In view of these things, an earlier date is preferred.

Plague of Locusts. Interpreters have struggled with Joel's vision and description of invading locusts, wondering whether he meant a literal locust plague or was giving a figurative description of invading armies, such as the Assyrians or Babylonians (see Luther's comments above). Since the prophet nowhere clearly describes the Assyrians or Babylonians, the notes treat the prophecy as a warning about an actual locust plague, which the prophet used as a picture of Judgment Day.

Blessings for Readers

As you read Joel's prophecy, consider carefully his call to repentance. Consider your life, beliefs, and plans in view of God's Holy Word. Pray for the Lord's forgiveness, and ask for the blessing of His Holy Spirit (2:28–29), which He poured out in Holy Baptism. His Spirit will help you understand the Word and put it into practice.

When you read Joel's comments about the day of the Lord, consider them with all earnestness. Let them encourage you to share the good news of God's love and forgiveness with those who have not yet heard or believed in the Lord. Though He is coming to judge the world and to condemn the unrepentant, He is also coming to declare "not guilty" all who trust in His mercy through the Lord Jesus Christ (3:16).

Study Notes

JOEL—NOTE ON 1:1 Throughout the ages, God has used various means to inspire His prophets to write (Heb 1:1). On some occasions, such divine inspiration came through dreams or visions (Dn 7:1–2; 8:1). At others, it came through an audible voice (Ezk 2:1–2; 3:1–3). Joel, however, does not specify how the Lord revealed His Word to him. At the same time, this verse unequivocally affirms that what follows is God's Word, not merely the prophet's impression or best approximation. God's wisdom and power are such that even though He uses imperfect men to reveal His will, each finished book of Scripture is a perfectly reliable revelation of the Lord's will. Joel. Lit, "Yahweh is God." Pethuel. Nothing more is known of him.
JOEL—NOTE ON 1:2 elders. Joel begins by directing a rhetorical question to the "old-timers," since they were best able to affirm the unprecedented nature of the agricultural disaster Joel predicted. See note, Ex 3:16. See p 228. all inhabitants. The entire nation of Judah. such a thing. Unprecedented invasion of locusts (v 4), followed by wildfires and drought (vv 19–20). No one familiar with Judah's past could recall a comparable disaster.
JOEL—NOTE ON 1:3 Tell your children. So that future generations learn from the impending disaster and avoid similar punishments.
JOEL—NOTE ON 1:4 locust. Not to be confused with grasshoppers or cicadas, locusts are terribly destructive insects 2–3 inches long. In the adult stage, they are capable of full flight. Joel predicts the invasion of four distinct kinds of locusts. cutting locust. From Hbr gazaz, "to cut off." swarming locust. Name resembles word for "multitude." hopping locust. Immature locusts. destroying locust. Notorious for obliterating crops (cf Dt 28:38). After these four successive invasions of locusts, no edible leaf, twig, or bark would remain in Judah.
JOEL—NOTE ON 1:5 drunkards. By destroying Judah's wine production, the invading locusts would force those addicted to drink to undergo the dreaded pains of withdrawal. sweet wine. New wine that has not yet gone into storage. Once the sweet wine was exhausted, there would be no more new stores of wine in Judah.
JOEL—NOTE ON 1:6 nation. Personification of locusts. Underscores the dreadful fact that, though they are small individually, huge swarms of these insects are as devastating as an invading army. its teeth. Owing to their immense numbers, these locusts' teeth are far more destructive than the fangs of a lion.

JOEL—NOTE ON 1:7 Locust hordes will leave no vegetation. Trees will be stripped of their bark.

JOEL—NOTE ON 1:8 Judah's reaction to the upcoming devastation will be like that of a bride whose fiancé is killed just before the marriage ceremony.

JOEL—NOTE ON 1:9 grain offering … drink offering. Regularly used in thanksgiving for God's provision (Lv 2; 6:14–23), in the daily sacrifices (Ex 29:40–41), with the firstfruit offering (Lv 23:13), and with other sacrifices (Nu 15:5–7, 10). See pp 170–71; see also note, Lv 23:37. The famine produced by the locust invasion would threaten to put an end to these sacrifices and the blessings they provided. ministers. Priests serving in God's house would mourn the cessation of the grain and drink offerings because of the loss of their own sustenance and also because the people's fellowship with the Lord would be broken.

JOEL—NOTE ON 1:10 the ground mourns. As with Adam and Eve's sin (Gn 3:17), and again in the days of Noah (Gn 6:13), so also here the earth is depicted as suffering the consequences of human wickedness (cf Rm 8:20–23).

JOEL—NOTE ON 1:11 Be ashamed, O tillers. As those responsible for the agricultural production of the land, farmers will be esp grieved by the impending locust plague and resultant famine.

JOEL—NOTE ON 1:12 apple. Or, apricot, as some botanists maintain. all the trees of the field. Even larger, tougher plants, such as vines and trees, will not be spared. They, too, will be stripped bare by locusts, then consumed by fire (v 19).

JOEL—NOTE ON 1:2–12 Joel summons the people of Judah to assemble and hear the Lord's judgment for their sin: successive waves of locust swarms will come and devastate their land. When we replicate the failures of Joel's generation, God warns us to live in godly fear. In repentance, we are heartened by the promise that God's mercy is greater than any disaster. His grace, received through the Word and Sacraments, restores us and gives life. • Heavenly Father, even when every earthly blessing is cut off from us, there remains an eternal gift that atones for our unrighteousness—the spotless Lamb of God, Jesus Christ. For His sake, forgive and restore us to holiness. Amen.

JOEL—NOTE ON 1:13 sackcloth. Rough fabric, worn as sign of repentance. See note, Jb 16:15. lament, O priests. Impending crop failure threatened to end grain and drink sacrifices they offered, which was the basis of their livelihood. Go in. Priests are urged to enter the temple ("the house of your God"). withheld. See note, v 9.

JOEL—NOTE ON 1:14 Consecrate a fast … assembly. The priests are to assemble the people and lead them in making a public confession of sin. Fasting was part of penitential observance. See note, Lv 16:29. elders. Along with the priests, these men exercised a leadership role. See note, v 2. all the inhabitants of the land. All the people suspended their activities for the national observance. cry out to the LORD. Sincerely begging for forgiveness was the central part of such national days of repentance and prayer. See "call," p 842.

JOEL—NOTE ON 1:15 the day of the LORD. Here, the expression refers simply to the day when God will punish Judah by sending the locusts. However, see p 1079.

JOEL—NOTE ON 1:16 See notes, vv 9, 13.

JOEL—NOTE ON 1:17 The seed shrivels under the clods. With no moisture, planted seeds dry up instead of germinating. storehouses … granaries. Useless in a famine. Grain reserves for lean times and for planting will run out, guaranteeing long-term starvation.

JOEL—NOTE ON 1:18 beasts groan! Lowing and bleating for their owners to feed them. even the flocks of sheep suffer. Sheep feed closer to the ground and can scrounge grass too short to be grazed by cattle. Because the locusts will leave virtually no grass, however, sheep will suffer along with cattle.

JOEL—NOTE ON 1:19 fire. After the locusts ravage Judah's vegetation, wildfires will ignite and consume what is left in the fields, orchards, and woods.

JOEL—NOTE ON 1:20 beasts of the field. Depicts the depth of the coming misery. Even hardy, wild animals desperately search for any sign of water. pant for you. The animals' desperation mimics the prayers of the people.

JOEL—NOTE ON 1:13–20 Joel predicts that hordes of locusts will devour the vegetation, and then wildfires and drought will dispose of what remains. Desperation and starvation will result from the people's refusal to repent. In our own lives, unchecked sins bring about disastrous consequences. In such times of sorrow and despair, however, never forget that God often uses bad things to bring us to repentance and to accomplish His good and gracious will. The ultimate example of this is Christ's mournful death, which atoned for the sin of the world. • Whenever our hearts are tempted to turn away from You, O Lord, bring us back. Turn us away from evil toward good, and restore us to the right relationship with You and with one another; for the sake of Your Son, Israel's Redeemer. Amen.

JOEL—NOTE ON 2:1–11 Continuation of the earlier vision, which foreshadows the character of the judgment at the end of time.

JOEL—NOTE ON 2:1 trumpet … alarm. Alert people to the coming disaster. See p 993. Zion. See p 844. day of the LORD. See note, 1:15.

JOEL—NOTE ON 2:2 great and powerful people. Another personification. Locusts are so numerous that they blacken the sky and bring as much devastation as an invading army. See note, 1:6.

JOEL—NOTE ON 2:3 Fire. Like the wildfires coming afterward (cf 1:19), locusts consume everything in their path. like the garden of Eden … a desolate wilderness. A vivid "before and after" picture. Compared to the desolation that Judah will become after the locusts and wildfires pass through, the land now seems lavishly abundant.

JOEL—NOTE ON 2:4 Compares the sound of the locusts to the din and destruction of charging chariots.

JOEL—NOTE ON 2:5 chariots. As war horses and chariots were often covered with armor, so the exoskeletons of the locusts give them the appearance of an armored force.

JOEL—NOTE ON 2:6 People are so struck with dread and despair that the blood leaves their faces and they look pallid.

JOEL—NOTE ON 2:7 Further examples of Joel personifying the locust swarms follow. Cf 1:6; 2:2. like soldiers they scale the wall. The city walls are no obstacle to them. In fact, they will overrun Judah more quickly than a human army.

JOEL—NOTE ON 2:8 burst through the weapons. Armies would clash as units in a great shoving match. The army that broke the others' wall of shields and spears would win.

JOEL—NOTE ON 2:9 they climb up into the houses. Nothing will keep them out, so their invasion will be total.

JOEL—NOTE ON 2:10 The sun and the moon are darkened. Signs in the heavens of the day of the Lord, as also predicted of the Last Day.

JOEL—NOTE ON 2:11 His army. Ironically, the locusts rather than the angelic hosts serve as God's army. See p 1291. executes His word. God sends these locusts in order to judge Judah's unfaithfulness. the day of the LORD. See note, 1:15. who can endure it? Question is also posed in Na 1:6 and Mal 3:2. Ultimately, only those who trust in the Lord's promised Messiah will be spared when God's judgment is revealed.

JOEL—NOTE ON 2:1–11 The locust hordes that God threatens to unleash on Judah will be as devastating as the invasion of a human army. The scorched earth Joel describes continues to have relevance today, with natural disasters and warfare looming ever larger. We do well to place our trust in the world's only hope, the Creator and Redeemer of all. Through His Son's death and resurrection, God promises to raise us from the dead and give us eternal life in a new heaven and new earth. • Heavenly Father, help us to see the Day of Judgment as the revelation of our final deliverance, and our last day here as the portal that leads to ineffable joy and splendor; through Your Son, Jesus Christ, our Lord. Amen.

JOEL—NOTE ON 2:12 return. See p 1080. Just as God's people have turned away from the Lord in their hearts, so also they are to return to Him with sincerity and full conviction.

JOEL—NOTE ON 2:13 rend your hearts and not your garments. The Lord wants inner sincerity, not just outward show (Ps 51:17). See note, Jb 1:20. Chem: "What is the rationale for true conversion? He adds, 'Do not rend your garments,' as the hypocrites do, but 'rend your hearts,' that is, let your conversion be a genuine one and show this by the fruits worthy of repentance" (LTh 2:642). He is gracious and merciful. It is God's nature to forgive; thus, He forgives because of who He is, not in exchange for our repentance.

JOEL—NOTE ON 2:14 Who knows. Chem: "In the area of temporal punishments we must humble ourselves under the mighty hand of God and let God be free either to punish or withhold punishment, totally or in part" (LTh 2:642). turn and relent. See note, v 12. God's real purpose in sending this disaster is to work repentance in His people, so that they might receive forgiveness and avert disaster. leave a blessing behind Him. Along with the Lord's mercy comes every other blessing, among them sustenance and protection. See "bless," p 842. a grain offering. Offering such sacrifices to God would acknowledge Him as Creator and Provider of all good things. See pp 170–71.

JOEL—NOTE ON 2:15 trumpet in Zion. See note, 2:1. consecrate a fast. See note, 1:14. Ath: "When we fast, we should hallow the fast. For not all those who call upon God, hallow God, since there are some who defile Him; yet not Him—that is impossible—but their own mind concerning Him; for He is holy, and has pleasure in the saints" (NPNF 2 4:507).

JOEL—NOTE ON 2:16 Consecrate. Entailed having the people prepare themselves for worship by abstaining from work, food, and sexual relations (1:14; Ex 19:15). The people would also bathe and wash their clothes (Ex 19:14). gather the children, even nursing infants. This sacred purification included everyone, regardless of age or circumstances. See p 1369. Let the bridegroom … bride. Even newlyweds were to postpone their honeymoon in order to observe this sacred fast. chamber. The wedding canopy.

JOEL—NOTE ON 2:17 Between the vestibule and the altar. The raised area between the great altar standing in front of the temple and the entrance to the Holy Place. See diagram, p 541. Note the intercessory role the priests should play. Your heritage. A covenant name for God's people (Dt 4:20; Ex 34:9). This title was a special basis of confidence for Israel (Ps 94:14; 37:18; Mi 7:14, 18) and so was often invoked in prayer (Dt 9:26, 29; Ps 28:9; 33:12). See "portion," p 7. reproach, a byword. If the Lord does not spare His people, the surrounding nations will ridicule them, saying, "Where is their God?" Such taunts imply that Yahweh, the God of Israel, is not powerful.

JOEL—NOTE ON 2:12–17 In light of the impending locust plague, Joel urges the people to repent of their sin and return to the Lord, offering the hope that He might yet relent and hold off the disaster. When our own sins likewise kindle God's wrath and threaten to bring us under His judgment, consider the question posed by Joel: "Who can endure the awesome day of the Lord?" Thanks be to God, we have a Savior, our risen Lord Jesus Christ, who has already endured God's wrath and judgment for us. • "Jesus Christ, our blessed Savior, Turned away God's wrath forever; By His bitter grief and woe He saved us from the evil foe." Amen. (LSB 627:1)

JOEL—NOTE ON 2:18–19 jealous for His land. Joel's prophecy sounds markedly more hopeful. The Lord promises to show compassion for His people, even as they prepare to suffer the natural consequences of their sin (cf Ezk 36:1–15). Though they richly deserve the impending punishment, the Lord will not allow the pagan nations to mock His people and so denigrate the name of Yahweh, the one true God.

JOEL—NOTE ON 2:20 northerner. Most logically refers to the threatening locust swarms. In later centuries, enemy armies from Syria, Assyria, and Babylon would sweep down from the north. See pp 1447–48. parched and desolate land. The desert, where the locusts cannot harm Judah's people. vanguard … eastern sea. The foremost ranks of the locust swarm are driven into the Salt Sea. rear guard … western sea. Rearmost ranks of locusts are driven into the Great Sea. stench and foul smell. Smell of drowned locusts washed up on the shore. he has done great things. This characterization of the locusts is ironic, since their swarms can only do "great things" in the sense of massive destruction. God, on the other hand, can do "great things" to save and preserve life (v 21).

JOEL—NOTE ON 2:21 the LORD has done great things! God will foil the locust hordes by the breath of His mouth, carrying them away in a powerful wind (v 20). Then the people will exult in the Lord's great things, i.e., His mighty deliverance (cf Is 25:9).

JOEL—NOTE ON 2:22 Just as the land and its animals were subjected to this plague because of the people's sin (see note, 1:10), so also the plants and animals share in this deliverance.

JOEL—NOTE ON 2:23 vindication. By sending badly needed rainfall instead of a locust invasion, the Lord powerfully vindicates those who placed their faith in His goodness. the early and the latter rain. Refers to the seasonal pattern of precipitation, on which Judean agriculture was completely dependent. When the spring and fall rains came in sufficient amounts, the people received a powerful reminder of God's trustworthiness. See calendar, p 262.

JOEL—NOTE ON 2:24 threshing floors. See note, Ru 3:2. vats. Containers in which new wine and freshly pressed olive oil were stored. Their fullness would reflect God's overflowing grace.

JOEL—NOTE ON 2:25 years … eaten. Harvests lost to the locusts. swarming … hopper … destroyer … cutter. See note, 1:4.

JOEL—NOTE ON 2:26 praise the name. After the famine produced by the locust swarms, the future abundance of food would powerfully remind the people of God's grace. Cf Dt 8:1–10; see "name," p 843. never again be put to shame. This phrase, repeated in v 27 for emphasis, assured God's people that their enemies would never get the final word. Ultimately, this promise looks forward to the abundance of the consummation of the messianic age, when God will make permanent provision for both earthly and spiritual needs. When Christ returns to usher in the fullness of the new heaven and earth, hunger and death will no longer exist. See note, Is 25:6–8.

JOEL—NOTE ON 2:27 I am in the midst of Israel. God's dwelling in the midst of His people is both the cause and a result of their salvation. none else. The Lord is the only God and Savior of Israel.

JOEL—NOTE ON 2:18–27 Along with dire predictions about a locust plague and famine, Joel assures the people that the Lord will not abandon them or allow them to be mocked by their pagan neighbors. To be sure, the Lord will not tolerate rebellion, and He fully expects us to sincerely repent of our sins. Nevertheless, when we return to the Lord, He is faithful and just and forgives us of all our unrighteousness. • O Lord of heaven and earth, turn us from ingratitude and sinful self-sufficiency. By Your Holy Spirit, move us to acknowledge You as the source of every good and perfect gift, especially the forgiveness of sins. Then we shall never be put to shame. Amen.

JOEL—NOTE ON 2:28 afterward. The earthly abundance the Lord promises His people will be accompanied by spiritual outpouring as well. pour out My Spirit. Fulfilled on Pentecost (Ac 2:1–33). Ambr: "Who, then, can dare to say that the substance of the Holy Spirit is created, at Whose shining in our hearts we behold the beauty of divine truth, and the distance between the creature and the Godhead, that the work may be distinguished from its Author? … [God] said not Spirit but 'of My Spirit' " (NPNF 2 10:105). Mel: "The fact that He uses the word 'My' shows that it was not some created movement which had been sent, but something of the essence of God. Further, it is necessary that He be a distinct person … and yet is not the Father" (Chem, LTh 1:130). all flesh. God's judgment affected the entire nation of Judah (v 16). His promised future blessings will extend to all nations. No one is excluded on the basis of age, gender, or any other factor. Cyr Jer: "Let neither the rich be puffed up, nor the poor dejected, but only let each prepare himself for reception of the Heavenly gift" (NPNF 2 7:129). prophesy. Knowing and communicating God's will. This ability is only given by God. See p 1493. dreams … visions. Revelatory dreams and prophetic visions show God's will. God fulfilled this promise in numerous unmistakable ways at the beginning of the age of the Church (e.g., Ac 7:55–56; 9:1–16; 10:1–33; 16:6–10; 18:9–10; 23:11).

JOEL—NOTE ON 2:29 male and female servants. Joel emphasizes that the spiritual gifts God pours out will extend to all people, both men and women. Cf Ac 21:8–9. in those days. Ter: "It was characteristic of Him (only) to wait patiently for the fulness of time, to whom belonged the end of time no less than the beginning" (ANF 3:436). pour out. The Spirit is given by pouring, rather than specifying immersion. See note, Mt 28:19. My Spirit. Mel: "[The Father] rules you through the Holy Spirit and restores you to eternal life, as His divine promises guarantee" (Chem, LTh 1:51).

JOEL—NOTE ON 2:30–31 wonders. Refers to the signs that accompany the coming "day of the LORD." See note, 1:15. darkness … blood … great and awesome day of the LORD. Cosmic disturbances will serve as unmistakable signs on the Last Day, when Christ comes to judge the world. In anticipation of that final day, however, the Lord periodically sent similar signs while revealing judgment on His enemies and saving His own people, e.g., the heavenly disturbances and earthquake on Good Friday (Mt 27:45, 51–54). Similar phenomena also accompanied Jesus' earthly ministry (Mt 28:2; Jn 12:27–32). These powerfully foreshadowed the ultimate "great and awesome day of the LORD."

JOEL—NOTE ON 2:32 calls on the name. See p 842. shall be saved. See "salvation," p 843. Mount Zion … Jerusalem. See p 844. Though this promise was originally directed to the Judean people of Joel's generation, Jesus extended it to all, including Gentiles, through His apostles (Ac 2:38–39; 10:43). escape. Spared from condemnation on the Day of Judgment. survivors. The saved are those who have been called by God's grace and delivered by Him. the LORD calls. He chooses them by grace. The climactic promise of this wonderful section is that all those called by the Lord are given the gift of faith.

JOEL—NOTE ON 2:28–32 After the devastation wrought by the threatened locust plagues, the Lord promises to pour out His life-giving Spirit. His purpose in so doing is to deliver the gifts of salvation. Knowing that the Lord's judgment may come anytime, we should remain ever watchful and strive to be ready for that day. By His grace, the Lord enables us to do this very thing, as we call on Jesus' name and trust that He shall save us. • Heavenly Father, the day is quickly approaching when You shall judge all people. Because we cannot stand before You on the basis of our own strength or works, we pray that You would move us to trust in Your promised Redeemer, in whose name we will be saved. Amen.

JOEL—NOTE ON 3:1 those days and at that time. Envisions not only the restoration of Joel's generation after the locust plague but also the final deliverance of God's people and the judgment of all nations on the Last Day (cf Mt 25:31–46). fortunes. Refers not only to the things of value taken from Israel (cf vv 3, 5–6), but indeed the eternal destiny of those who trust in God for their salvation.

JOEL—NOTE ON 3:2 Valley of Jehoshaphat. Wordplay. Jehoshaphat means "the judgment of Yahweh." Tradition has regarded this as the Kidron Valley. The site is best taken symbolically, signifying the place of the final judgment, since the Bible mentions this valley only here and in v 12. Some aspects of Joel's prophecy are similar to events of Jehoshaphat's reign, recorded in 2Ch 20, when the people of the Transjordan region rose up against this king of Judah. Jehoshaphat called for a national fast and assembled the people at the temple, including the children. The enemy, described as a great horde, is defeated in a valley. However, the Transjordan nations would be easterners, not northerners as Joel describes (2:20). The prophet may have borrowed his imagery from the events during Jehoshaphat's reign, reminding the people of the blessings that come from calling on the Lord. This could also commend a ninth-century date for the prophecy (see pp 1447–48). enter into judgment. The Lord's verdict will be on behalf of His people but against those persecuting the elect. My heritage. God's chosen people (Ex 34:9; Dt 4:20; cf Ac 15:16; Eph 1:3–4). The privilege afforded by the election of God's people was the basis for special petitions (Dt 9:26, 29; Ps 28:9) and confidence (Ps 94:14; Mi 7:14, 18; cf Ps 37:18). See p 7. scattered. God's people were taken captive and exiled at various points in their history and so ended up dispersed throughout the world. For them, this promise of returning to their land was obviously precious.

JOEL—NOTE ON 3:3 cast lots. See note, Jsh 14:2. traded a boy for a prostitute. God's people were sometimes sold as slaves and traded for goods or services, as if they were not human but merely chattel.

JOEL—NOTE ON 3:4 Tyre and Sidon. Twin cities of Phoenicia, known for their wealth and foreign trade. See color map 1. Philistia? Longtime enemy of Israel; it dealt in the slave trade. paying Me back. For some perceived injustice done to them by God's people.

JOEL—NOTE ON 3:5 Philistines bedeviled God's people over and over (Jgs 10:7; 13:1; 1Sm 31:1). Once, they managed to capture the ark of the covenant and set it in the temple of their god Dagon (1Sm 5:1–2).

JOEL—NOTE ON 3:6 Greeks … remove them. When sold into slavery by the Greeks, the people ended up very far from Judah. The exile described by Joel is fundamentally different from what occurred later under Assyria and Babylon.
JOEL—NOTE ON 3:7 No matter how far removed the exiled captives might be, the Lord promises to gather and return them to Israel.
JOEL—NOTE ON 3:8 I will sell your sons and your daughters. Some of God's people were taken captive by the Greeks (v 6); the Lord would bring the same hardships on the coastal people that they had brought on Judeans. Sabeans. Controlled the Arabian trade routes south of Judah. See note, Jb 1:15.
JOEL—NOTE ON 3:9 The Lord summons all the enemies of His people to prepare for battle. Consecrate for war. During the conquest, cities of the Canaanites were devoted (consecrated) to destruction. See p 6. mighty men. See note, Jsh 1:14.
JOEL—NOTE ON 3:10 God incites His people's enemies to rise and arm themselves with whatever is available. the weak. Even the feeblest among God's enemies are summoned to this battle.
JOEL—NOTE ON 3:11 Your warriors. Angelic hosts coming to fight for God's people. The Bible contains other passages depicting God's angels coming to render such aid (Dn 10:13, 20–21; 12:1; Rv 19:14).
JOEL—NOTE ON 3:12 Valley of Jehoshaphat. See note, v 2. judge. When He judges, the Lord will separate the whole world into two groups, His people and His enemies (Mt 25:31–46).
JOEL—NOTE ON 3:13 sickle … winepress. Just as the wheat falls before the sickle and the ripe grapes are mashed in a winepress, so God's enemies will be cut down and crushed on the Day of Judgment. Sickles could be finely crafted with bronze or crudely crafted with small, chisel-shaped pieces of flint stuck in pottery or the lower jawbone of an ox or donkey. their evil is great. God's enemies shall receive what their deeds have earned.
JOEL—NOTE ON 3:14 valley of decision! God renders His verdict on all peoples, pronouncing punishment for unbelievers and revealing the final deliverance of His people. the day of the Lord is near. See note, 1:15. On a personal level, the day of the Lord is always near, since we do not know when we will die and be judged according to what we believed and practiced during our earthly days.

JOEL—NOTE ON 3:15 See note, 2:30–31.
JOEL—NOTE ON 3:16 roars from Zion. God's pronouncements of judgment are repeatedly compared to the terrifying roar of a lion. a refuge … stronghold. The day of the Lord will not harm His people in any way. Sheltered in the Lord and safe in Him, they will, on this day, be brought into the fullness of God's glory. See note, Jgs 6:25–26.
JOEL—NOTE ON 3:1–16 Prophesying about Judgment Day, Joel announces that the Lord will punish His enemies, while vindicating and finally delivering His people. Though thoughts of judgment naturally produce dread in us, by faith we need not fear God's verdict. After all, the Lord is coming to usher us into heaven, not to punish us. • Judge of all the earth, grant us full confidence for Judgment Day, for we believe that there is no longer any condemnation for those who are in Christ Jesus. Come, Lord Jesus. Come quickly. Amen.
JOEL—NOTE ON 3:17 Zion, My holy mountain. Here, the temple mountain of Jerusalem represents both the people of God (the spiritual Israel) and the new heaven and earth (Rv 21:1–2). See p 844. strangers shall never again pass through it. There shall be no unbelievers in God's everlasting kingdom. There will be no enemies left to torment God's people in paradise (Rv 21:4, 8).
JOEL—NOTE ON 3:18 mountains shall drip … hills shall flow. Picture language describing the overflowing abundance and well-being enjoyed in God's presence. a fountain … from the house of the LORD. In the NT, Jesus is the source of such "living water" (Jn 4:14). Valley of Shittim. The overflow of life-giving water will be so great that even a desert area like this valley west of Jerusalem will abound.
JOEL—NOTE ON 3:19 Egypt … Edom. Traditional nemeses of Israel represent all those opposed to God and His people.
JOEL—NOTE ON 3:20 inhabited forever. The heavenly Jerusalem will be a place of undisturbed peace and eternal life for God's people.
JOEL—NOTE ON 3:21 avenge. The Lord will not allow any evil committed against His people to go unpunished. Thus Satan and his cohorts will be cast into the lake of fire (Rv 20:7–10). the LORD dwells in Zion. The ever-present Lord of Israel will accomplish all these glorious things. Zion. See p 844.
JOEL—NOTE ON 3:17–21 Joel promises a final vindication and everlasting abundance for God's people. Given the inevitability of judgment, dreadful punishments await those who reject God and His purposes. Repent daily and strive continually to enter by the narrow gate. Receive limitless grace from the One who is the way, the truth, and the life. Through Him, you shall indeed come home to the Father. • Lord Jesus Christ, when You return, You will judge the world in righteousness. Therefore, keep us in the one true faith and be our refuge and stronghold against all who hate us on account of You and Your Word. Amen.

1 [1] ✝✝The words of Amos, who was among the shepherds[1] of Tekoa, which he saw concerning Israel in the days of Uzziah king of Judah and in the days of Jeroboam the son of Joash, king of Israel, two years[2] before the earthquake.

Judgment on Israel's Neighbors

2 † And he said:

"The Lord roars from Zion
and utters his voice from Jerusalem;
the pastures of the shepherds mourn,
and the top of Carmel withers."

3 † Thus says the Lord:

"For three transgressions of Damascus, and for four, I will not revoke the
punishment,[3]
because they have threshed Gilead with threshing sledges of iron.
4 † So I will send a fire upon the house of Hazael,
and it shall devour the strongholds of Ben-hadad.
5 † I will break the gate-bar of Damascus, and cut off the inhabitants from the Valley of Aven,[4]
and him who holds the scepter from Beth-eden;
and the people of Syria shall go into exile to Kir,"
says the Lord.

6 † Thus says the Lord:

"For three transgressions of Gaza,
and for four, I will not revoke the
punishment,
because they carried into exile a whole people to deliver them up to Edom.

[7]† So I will send a fire upon the wall of Gaza,
and it shall devour her strongholds.
[8]† I will cut off the inhabitants from Ashdod, and him who holds the scepter from Ashkelon;
I will turn my hand against Ekron, and the remnant of the Philistines shall perish," says the Lord God.

[9]†Thus says the Lord:

"For three transgressions of Tyre, and for four, I will not revoke
the punishment,
because they delivered up a whole people to Edom,
and did not remember the covenant of brotherhood.
[10]† So I will send a fire upon the wall of Tyre,
and it shall devour her strongholds."

[11]†Thus says the Lord:

"For three transgressions of Edom,
and for four, I will not revoke the
punishment,
because he pursued his brother with the sword
and cast off all pity,
and his anger tore perpetually,
and he kept his wrath forever.
[12]† So I will send a fire upon Teman, and it shall devour the strongholds of Bozrah."

[13]†Thus says the Lord:

"For three transgressions of the Ammonites,

and for four, I will not revoke the punishment,
because they have ripped open pregnant women in Gilead,
that they might enlarge their border.
14† So I will kindle a fire in the wall of Rabbah,
and it shall devour her strongholds,
with shouting on the day of battle,
with a tempest in the day of the whirlwind; 15† and their king shall go into exile,
he and his princes[1] together,"
says the LORD.

2 1†Thus says the LORD:

"For three transgressions of Moab,
and for four, I will not revoke the punishment,[2]
because he burned to lime
the bones of the king of Edom.
2† So I will send a fire upon Moab, and it shall devour the strongholds of Kerioth,
and Moab shall die amid uproar,
amid shouting and the sound of the trumpet;
3† I will cut off the ruler from its midst, and will kill all its princes[1] with him,"
says the LORD.

Judgment on Judah

4 Thus says the Lord:

"For three transgressions of Judah,
and for four, I will not revoke the
punishment,
because they have rejected the law of the Lord,
and have not kept his statutes,
but their lies have led them astray,
those after which their fathers walked.
5 So I will send a fire upon Judah,
and it shall devour the strongholds of Jerusalem."

Judgment on Israel

6 Thus says the Lord:

"For three transgressions of Israel,
and for four, I will not revoke the
punishment,
because they sell the righteous for silver,
and the needy for a pair of sandals—7 those who trample the head of the poor into the dust of the earth
and turn aside the way of the afflicted;
a man and his father go in to the same girl,
so that my holy name is profaned;
8 they lay themselves down beside every altar
on garments taken in pledge, and in the house of their God they drink
the wine of those who have been fined.

9 "Yet it was I who destroyed the Amorite before them,
whose height was like the height of the cedars
and who was as strong as the oaks;
I destroyed his fruit above and his roots beneath.
10 Also it was I who brought you up out of the land of Egypt
and led you forty years in the wilderness,
to possess the land of the Amorite.
11 And I raised up some of your sons for prophets, and some of your young men for Nazirites.
Is it not indeed so, O people of Israel?"
declares the Lord.

12 “But you made the Nazirites drink wine,
and commanded the prophets,
saying, ‘You shall not prophesy.’

13 “Behold, I will press you down in your place, as a cart full of sheaves presses down.
14 Flight shall perish from the swift,
and the strong shall not retain his strength,
nor shall the mighty save his life;
15 he who handles the bow shall not stand, and he who is swift of foot shall not save
himself,
nor shall he who rides the horse save his life;
16 and he who is stout of heart among the mighty shall flee away naked in that day,”
declares the Lord.

Israel's Guilt and Punishment

3 [1]†† Hear this word that the Lord has spoken against you, O people of Israel, against the whole family that I brought up out of the land of Egypt:

[2]† "You only have I known of all the families of the earth;
therefore I will punish you for all your iniquities.

[3]† "Do two walk together,
unless they have agreed to meet?
[4] Does a lion roar in the forest,
when he has no prey?
Does a young lion cry out from his den,
if he has taken nothing?
[5] Does a bird fall in a snare on the earth,
when there is no trap for it?
Does a snare spring up from the ground,
when it has taken nothing?
[6]† Is a trumpet blown in a city, and the people are not afraid?
Does disaster come to a city,
unless the Lord has done it?

[7]† "For the Lord God does nothing without revealing his secret to his servants the prophets.
[8]† The lion has roared;
who will not fear?
The Lord God has spoken;
who can but prophesy?"

9 † Proclaim to the strongholds in Ashdod and to the strongholds in the land of Egypt,
and say, “Assemble yourselves on the mountains of Samaria,
and see the great tumults within her,
and the oppressed in her midst.”
10 “They do not know how to do right,” declares
the Lord,
“those who store up violence and robbery in their strongholds.”

11 †Therefore thus says the Lord God:

“An adversary shall surround the land and bring down[1] your defenses from you, and your strongholds shall be plundered.”

12 †Thus says the Lord: “As the shepherd rescues from the mouth of the lion two legs, or a piece of an ear, so shall the people of Israel who dwell in Samaria be rescued, with the corner of a couch and part[2] of a bed.

13 † “Hear, and testify against the house of Jacob,” declares the Lord God, the God of hosts, 14 † “that on the day I punish Israel for his transgressions,
I will punish the altars of Bethel,
and the horns of the altar shall be cut off
and fall to the ground.
15 † I will strike the winter house along with the summer house,
and the houses of ivory shall perish,
and the great houses[3] shall come to an end,”
declares the Lord.

4 [1]† “Hear this word, you cows of Bashan, who are on the mountain of Samaria,
who oppress the poor, who crush the needy,
who say to your husbands, ‘Bring, that we may drink!’

[2]† The Lord God has sworn by his holiness that, behold, the days are coming upon you,
when they shall take you away with hooks,
even the last of you with fishhooks.
[3]† And you shall go out through the breaches,
each one straight ahead;
and you shall be cast out into Harmon,”
declares the Lord.

[4]†† “Come to Bethel, and transgress;
to Gilgal, and multiply transgression;
bring your sacrifices every morning,
your tithes every three days;
[5] offer a sacrifice of thanksgiving of that which is leavened,
and proclaim freewill offerings, publish them;
for so you love to do, O people of Israel!”
declares the Lord God.

Israel Has Not Returned to the Lord

6 “I gave you cleanness of teeth in all your cities, and lack of bread in all your places,
yet you did not return to me,”
declares the Lord.

7 “I also withheld the rain from you when there were yet three months to the harvest; I would send rain on one city,
and send no rain on another city;
one field would have rain,
and the field on which it did not rain would wither;
8 so two or three cities would wander to another city to drink water, and would not be satisfied;
yet you did not return to me,”
declares the Lord.

9 “I struck you with blight and mildew;
your many gardens and your vineyards,
your fig trees and your olive trees the locust devoured;
yet you did not return to me,”
declares the Lord.

10 “I sent among you a pestilence after the manner of Egypt;
I killed your young men with the sword,
and carried away your horses,[1]
and I made the stench of your camp go up into your nostrils;

yet you did not return to me,”
declares the Lord.

11 † “I overthrew some of you,
as when God overthrew Sodom and Gomorrah,
and you were as a brand[2] plucked out of the burning;
yet you did not return to me,”
declares the Lord.

12 † “Therefore thus I will do to you, O Israel;
because I will do this to you,
prepare to meet your God, O Israel!”

13 † For behold, he who forms the mountains and creates the wind,
and declares to man what is his thought,
who makes the morning darkness,
and treads on the heights of the earth—
the Lord, the God of hosts, is his name!

Seek the Lord and Live

5 [1]†† Hear this word that I take up over you in lamentation, O house of Israel:

[2]† "Fallen, no more to rise,
is the virgin Israel;
forsaken on her land,
with none to raise her up."

[3]† For thus says the Lord God:

"The city that went out a thousand shall have a hundred left,
and that which went out a hundred shall have ten left to the house of Israel."

[4]† For thus says the Lord to the house of Israel:

"Seek me and live;
[5]† but do not seek Bethel, and do not enter into Gilgal
or cross over to Beersheba;
for Gilgal shall surely go into exile,
and Bethel shall come to nothing."

[6]† Seek the Lord and live, lest he break out like fire in the house of Joseph,
and it devour, with none to quench it for Bethel,
[7]† O you who turn justice to wormwood[1]

and cast down righteousness to the earth!

8 He who made the Pleiades and Orion, and turns deep darkness into the morning and darkens the day into night,
who calls for the waters of the sea
and pours them out on the surface of the earth,
the LORD is his name;
9 who makes destruction flash forth against the strong,
so that destruction comes upon the fortress.

10 They hate him who reproves in the gate,
and they abhor him who speaks the truth.
11 Therefore because you trample on[2] the poor and you exact taxes of grain from him, you have built houses of hewn stone,
but you shall not dwell in them;
you have planted pleasant vineyards,
but you shall not drink their wine.
12 For I know how many are your transgressions and how great are your sins—you who afflict the righteous, who take a bribe,
and turn aside the needy in the gate.
13 Therefore he who is prudent will keep silent in such a time,
for it is an evil time.

14 Seek good, and not evil,
that you may live;

and so the Lord, the God of hosts, will be with you,
as you have said.
15 † Hate evil, and love good,
and establish justice in the gate;
it may be that the Lord, the God of hosts,
will be gracious to the remnant of Joseph.

16 †Therefore thus says the Lord, the God of hosts, the Lord:

"In all the squares there shall be wailing,
and in all the streets they shall say, 'Alas!
Alas!'
They shall call the farmers to mourning and to wailing those who are skilled in lamentation,
17 † and in all vineyards there shall be wailing, for I will pass through your midst,"
the Lord.

Let Justice Roll Down

18 Woe to you who desire the day of the Lord!
Why would you have the day of the Lord?
It is darkness, and not light, 19 as if a man fled from a lion,
and a bear met him,
or went into the house and leaned his hand
against the wall,
and a serpent bit him.
20 Is not the day of the Lord darkness, and not light,
and gloom with no brightness in it?

21 "I hate, I despise your feasts, and I take no delight in your solemn assemblies.
22 Even though you offer me your burnt offerings and grain offerings,
I will not accept them;
and the peace offerings of your fattened animals,
I will not look upon them.
23 Take away from me the noise of your songs;
to the melody of your harps I will not listen.
24 But let justice roll down like waters,
and righteousness like an ever-flowing stream.

25 "Did you bring to me sacrifices and offerings during the forty years in the wilderness, O house of Israel? 26 You shall take up Sikkuth your king, and Kiyyun your star-god—your images that you made for yourselves, 27 and I will send you into exile beyond Damascus," says the Lord, whose name is the God of hosts.

Woe to Those at Ease in Zion

6 [1] “Woe to those who are at ease in Zion, and to those who feel secure on the mountain of Samaria,
the notable men of the first of the nations,
to whom the house of Israel comes!

[2] Pass over to Calneh, and see,
and from there go to Hamath the great;
then go down to Gath of the Philistines.
Are you better than these kingdoms?
Or is their territory greater than your territory,
[3] O you who put far away the day of disaster and bring near the seat of violence?

[4] “Woe to those who lie on beds of ivory and stretch themselves out on their couches, and eat lambs from the flock
and calves from the midst of the stall, [5] who sing idle songs to the sound of the harp and like David invent for themselves instruments of music, [6] who drink wine in bowls and anoint themselves with the finest oils, but are not grieved over the ruin of Joseph!
[7] Therefore they shall now be the first of those who go into exile, and the revelry of those who stretch themselves out shall pass away.”

[8] The Lord God has sworn by himself, declares the Lord, the God of hosts:

"I abhor the pride of Jacob and hate his strongholds, and I will deliver up the city and all that is in it."

9 †And if ten men remain in one house, they shall die. 10 †And when one's relative, the one who anoints him for burial, shall take him up to bring the bones out of the house, and shall say to him who is in the innermost parts of the house, "Is there still anyone with you?" he shall say, "No"; and he shall say, "Silence! We must not mention the name of the Lord."

11 † For behold, the Lord commands, and the great house shall be struck down into fragments,
and the little house into bits.
12 † Do horses run on rocks?
Does one plow there[1] with oxen?
But you have turned justice into poison and the fruit of righteousness into wormwood[2]— 13 † you who rejoice in Lo-debar,[3] who say, "Have we not by our own strength captured Karnaim[4] for ourselves?" 14 † "For behold, I will raise up against you a nation,
O house of Israel," declares the Lord, the God of hosts;
"and they shall oppress you from Lebo-hamath to the Brook of the Arabah."

Warning Visions

7 [1]This is what the Lord God showed me: behold, he was forming locusts when the latter growth was just beginning to sprout, and behold, it was the latter growth after the king's mowings. [2]When they had finished eating the grass of the land, I said,

"O Lord God, please forgive!
How can Jacob stand?
He is so small!"
[3] The Lord relented concerning this:
"It shall not be," said the Lord.

[4] This is what the Lord God showed me: behold, the Lord God was calling for a judgment by fire, and it devoured the great deep and was eating up the land. [5]Then I said,

"O Lord God, please cease!
How can Jacob stand?
He is so small!"
[6] The Lord relented concerning this:
"This also shall not be," said the Lord God.

[7] This is what he showed me: behold, the Lord was standing beside a wall built with a plumb line, with a plumb line in his hand. [8]And the Lord said to me, "Amos, what do you see?" And I said, "A plumb line." Then the Lord said,

"Behold, I am setting a plumb line in the midst of my people Israel;
I will never again pass by them;
[9] the high places of Isaac shall be made desolate,
and the sanctuaries of Israel shall be laid waste,

and I will rise against the house of Jeroboam with the sword.”

Amos Accused

10 ‡ † Then Amaziah the priest of Bethel sent to Jeroboam king of Israel, saying, “Amos has conspired against you in the midst of the house of Israel.
The land is not able to bear all his words. 11 † For thus Amos has said, > “‘Jeroboam shall die by the sword, > and Israel must go into exile > away from his land.’”

12 † And Amaziah said to Amos, “O seer, go, flee away to the land of Judah, and eat bread there, and prophesy there, 13 † but never again prophesy at Bethel, for it is the king’s sanctuary, and it is a temple of the kingdom.”
14 † Then Amos answered and said to Amaziah, “I was[1] no prophet, nor a prophet’s son, but I was a herdsman and a dresser of sycamore figs. 15 † But the Lord took me from following the flock, and the Lord said to me, ‘Go, prophesy to my people Israel.’ 16 † Now therefore hear the word of the Lord.

> “You say, ‘Do not prophesy against Israel, > and do not preach against the house > of Isaac.’

17 † Therefore thus says the Lord:

> “‘Your wife shall be a prostitute in the city, > and your sons and your daughters shall fall
> by the sword,
> and your land shall be divided up with a > measuring line;
> you yourself shall die in an unclean land,
> and Israel shall surely go into exile away > from its land.’”

The Coming Day of Bitter Mourning

8 [1] † This is what the Lord God showed me: behold, a basket of summer fruit.[2] † And he said, "Amos, what do you see?" And I said, "A basket of summer fruit." Then the Lord said to me,

"The end[1] has come upon my people Israel;
I will never again pass by them.
[3] † The songs of the temple[2] shall become wailings[3] in that day,"
declares the Lord God.

So many dead bodies!"
"They are thrown everywhere!"
"Silence!"

[4] † † † Hear this, you who trample on the needy and bring the poor of the land to an end, [5] † saying, "When will the new moon be over,
that we may sell grain?
And the Sabbath,
that we may offer wheat for sale,
that we may make the ephah small and the shekel[4] great and deal deceitfully with false balances, [6] † that we may buy the poor for silver
and the needy for a pair of sandals
and sell the chaff of the wheat?"

[7] † The Lord has sworn by the pride of Jacob:
"Surely I will never forget any of their deeds.

8† Shall not the land tremble on this account, and everyone mourn who dwells in it,
and all of it rise like the Nile, and be tossed about and sink again, like the Nile of Egypt?”

9† “And on that day,” declares the Lord God,
“I will make the sun go down at noon and darken the earth in broad daylight.
10† I will turn your feasts into mourning and all your songs into lamentation;
I will bring sackcloth on every waist
and baldness on every head;
I will make it like the mourning for an only son
and the end of it like a bitter day.

11† “Behold, the days are coming,” declares the Lord God,
“when I will send a famine on the land—not a famine of bread, nor a thirst for water,
but of hearing the words of the Lord.
12† They shall wander from sea to sea,
and from north to east;
they shall run to and fro, to seek the word of the Lord,
but they shall not find it.

13† “In that day the lovely virgins and the young men
shall faint for thirst.
14† Those who swear by the Guilt of Samaria, and say, ‘As your god lives, O Dan,’

and, ‘As the Way of Beersheba lives,’ they shall fall, and never rise again.”

The Destruction of Israel

9 [1]†† I saw the Lord standing beside[1] the altar, and he said:

"Strike the capitals until the thresholds shake,
and shatter them on the heads of all the people;[2]
and those who are left of them I will kill with
the sword;
not one of them shall flee away;
not one of them shall escape.

[2]† "If they dig into Sheol, from there shall my hand take them;
if they climb up to heaven,
from there I will bring them down.
[3]† If they hide themselves on the top of Carmel,
from there I will search them out and take
them;
and if they hide from my sight at the bottom of the sea,
there I will command the serpent, and it shall bite them.
[4]† And if they go into captivity before their enemies,
there I will command the sword, and it shall kill them;
and I will fix my eyes upon them for evil and not for good."

5 The Lord God of hosts,
he who touches the earth and it melts,
and all who dwell in it mourn,
and all of it rises like the Nile,
and sinks again, like the Nile of Egypt;
6 who builds his upper chambers in the heavens and founds his vault upon the earth;
who calls for the waters of the sea
and pours them out upon the surface of the earth—
the Lord is his name.

7 "Are you not like the Cushites to me,
O people of Israel?" declares the Lord.
"Did I not bring up Israel from the land of Egypt, and the Philistines from Caphtor and the Syrians from Kir?
8 Behold, the eyes of the Lord God are upon the sinful kingdom, and I will destroy it from the surface of the ground, except that I will not utterly destroy the house of Jacob,"
declares the Lord.

9 "For behold, I will command, and shake the house of Israel among all the nations
as one shakes with a sieve,
but no pebble shall fall to the earth.
10 All the sinners of my people shall die by the sword, who say, 'Disaster shall not overtake or meet us.'

The Restoration of Israel

11 “In that day I will raise up the booth of David that is fallen and repair its breaches, and raise up its ruins
and rebuild it as in the days of old, 12 that they may possess the remnant of Edom and all the nations who are called by my name,”[1]
declares the Lord who does this.

13 “Behold, the days are coming,” declares the Lord, “when the plowman shall overtake the reaper
and the treader of grapes him who sows the seed;
the mountains shall drip sweet wine,
and all the hills shall flow with it.
14 I will restore the fortunes of my people Israel, and they shall rebuild the ruined cities and inhabit them;
they shall plant vineyards and drink their
wine,
and they shall make gardens and eat their fruit.
15 I will plant them on their land, and they shall never again be uprooted out of the land that I have given them,” says the Lord your God.

Introduction to Amos

Reading Amos

From the high pastures he lifts his eyes to see across the Salt Sea and the Jordan, where the shadows stalk and devour Edom, Moab, and Ammon. Turning toward the sunset, he sees the distant peak of Mount Carmel, the coasts of Philistia, and the way to Egypt engulfed with reddish light. He calls together the sheep and leads them to safety before the day turns to darkness, when predators roam.

The Lord called the shepherd Amos to deliver a surprising and ominous message for Judah and Israel. In his prophecies, Amos pictured the Lord angry, crouching, and focused like a lion stalking the sinful, carefree nations. The kingdoms were prosperous when Amos preached, but his prophecies of destruction were rapidly fulfilled by the invading Assyrians, who besieged Samaria within a few decades.

Luther on Amos

Amos [1:1] does specify his time: he lived and preached in the days of Hosea and Isaiah. He attacks the same vices and idolatry, or false sanctity, as does Hosea, and he also forewarns of the Assyrian captivity.

He is violent too, and denounces the people of Israel throughout almost the entire book until the end of the last chapter, where he prophesies of Christ and his kingdom and closes his book with that. No prophet, I think, has so little in the way of promises and so much in the way of denunciations and threats. He can well be called Amos, that is, "a burden," one who is hard to get along with and irritating, particularly because he is a shepherd and not one of the order of prophets (as he himself says in chapter 7[:14]). Besides he comes out of the land of the tribe of Judah, from Tekoa, into the kingdom of Israel, and preaches there as a foreigner. It is for this reason that they say the priest Amaziah, whom he rebukes in chapter 7[:10–17], beat him to death with a club.

In the first chapter Amos is difficult and obscure, where he speaks of three and four sins. Many have knocked themselves out over it, struggling with it at great length. But the text, I believe, shows clearly that these three and four sins are but one sin. For he always names and cites only one sin. Against Damascus, for example, he names only the sin that "they have threshed Gilead with iron chariots," etc. [1:3].

But Amos calls this sin "three and four" because the people do not repent of the sin or acknowledge it; rather they boast of it and rely upon it as though it were a good deed, as false saints always do. For a sin cannot become more grave, great, or weighty than when it tries to be a holy and godly work, making the devil God and God the devil. So, too, three and four make seven, which is the completeness of numbers in the Scriptures, where one turns back and begins to count again, both the days and the weeks.

Amos is quoted twice in the New Testament. The first time is in Acts 7[:42–43], where Stephen cites Amos 5[:25–27] against the Jews and shows by it that the Jews have never kept God's law from the time they first came out of Egypt. The second time is in Acts 15[:16–17], where St. James in the first council of the apostles quotes from the last chapter of Amos [9:11–12] as a proof of Christian liberty, that the Gentiles under the New Testament are not bound to keep the laws of Moses which the Jews themselves have never kept and could not keep, as St. Peter preaches in Acts 15[:10]. These are the two most important bits in Amos, and they are two very good bits. (AE 35:320–21)

For more of Luther's insights on this Book, see Lectures on Amos (AE 18:125–90).

Challenges for Readers

Outline. Amos's prophecies do not always stand together with clear, logical order, which can make his arguments difficult to follow.

Millennialism. Some interpreters take the promises about the land in ch 9 as a prophecy about a restoration of Israel, fulfilled in 1948 by the creation of modern Israel. However, the NT interprets such prophecies by applying them to the Church because Jesus did not come to set up an earthly kingdom (Jn 18:36) but a spiritual kingdom, the Church (cf Ac 15:15–18; Gal 3:29; 2Pt 3:13). See pp 1565–66, 1906.

Blessings for Readers

Amos demonstrates the character of God's justice, which punishes not only the nations for their sins but also His OT people, Israel and Judah. The Lord insists that people of all nations, classes, and incomes treat one another responsibly and mercifully in accordance with His Word. Though Amos focuses on the Law's condemnation and the imminent fall of Israel, he concludes with a prophecy of the coming Savior (9:11) and a note of enduring hope (9:13–15).

Study Notes

AMOS—NOTE ON Chs 1–2 Text moves in a circle, pronouncing judgment on Israel's neighbors one by one (1:3–2:3) before finally taking aim at Judah (2:4–5) and then Israel (2:6–16). By structuring each oracle in chs 1–2 along similar lines, Amos not only builds dramatic tension but also emphasizes that God's people are acting no better than their pagan neighbors.

AMOS—NOTE ON 1:1 The words … which he saw. Amos received God's Word through visions. Joel and Zephaniah, e.g., simply report that "the word of the LORD" came to them (e.g., Jl 1:1; Zep 1:1). shepherds of Tekoa. Like David, another famous character from the same region, Amos worked as a shepherd before the Lord called him as a prophet. Tekoa. Village in Judah c 5 mi S of Bethlehem. See map, p 1205. Uzziah … Jeroboam. Mention of these two long-reigning monarchs provides evidence that Amos's ministry took place between c 792 and 740 BC. two years before the earthquake. If scholars are correct in dating this quake to c 760 BC, then we can specify the time of Amos's ministry more precisely. Given that his oracles warn that this earthquake is impending (8:8; 9:1, 5), we can reasonably assume that he gave these warnings in the years just prior to this upheaval. This seismic event was so unforgettable that the prophet Zechariah could refer to it several centuries later and count on people recognizing his mention of "the earthquake in the days of Uzziah" (14:5). Archaeologists have found evidence of the earthquake's destructive effects at Hazor.

AMOS—NOTE ON 1:2 roars. Amos compares his prophetic revelations to the terrifying roar of a lion. Such imagery commanded Israel's undivided attention and hints that this prophet's words focus on judgment. Zion. Synonymous with Jerusalem, the site of the Davidic throne and Solomon's temple. See p 844. pastures … mourn. God's judgment will produce a drought that devastates Judah's grazing lands. Carmel. Mountain in the Northern Kingdom; notorious site for Baal worship (cf 1Ki 18:20–29). See color map 2. Amos urges Israel to turn away from idols and return to the Lord, whose temple is in Jerusalem. withers. Verb and image it conveys effectively ridicule Baal, the Canaanite storm-god. Carmel, the peak dedicated to this phony lord of rain and fertility, would soon be parched and bare.

AMOS—NOTE ON 1:3 For three transgressions … for four. This expression recurs throughout the oracles of the first two chapters (1:3–5, 6–8, 9–10, 11–12, 13–15; 2:1–3, 4–5, 6–16). It implies an ongoing escalation of wickedness during Amos's day. See note, chs 1–2; see also note, Pr 30. Damascus. Leading city-state of Aram (modern-day Syria; see color map 2) is the first kingdom to be denounced. Conquered by King David c 250 years earlier (2Sm 8:6), it soon recovered its strength and became a lasting nemesis of Israel (cf 1Ki 11:23–25; 2Ki 8:7–15). I will not revoke. Recurring phrase and constituent part of the oracles of Amos's opening chapters (1:6, 9, 11, 13; 2:1, 4, 6). This vow underlines that the Lord will not rescind the judgment being pronounced. Gilead. Northeast of Jerusalem; part of the Northern Kingdom. See color map 2. It sat in the territory separating Israel and Aram and so was among the first places attacked by Damascus. threshing sledges of iron. Attacks of Damascus on Israel are likened to metal-toothed devices used for ripping the wheat from the chaff on the threshing-room floor. See note, Ru 3:2.

AMOS—NOTE ON 1:4 fire upon the house of Hazael. Destruction by fire is another common thread in the oracles of judgment appearing in chs 1–2. In all but one of these oracles, the Lord threatens to punish by fire (1:7, 10, 12, 14; 2:2, 5). Given that Hazael became king of Syria after murdering Ben-hadad and usurping his throne (2Ki 8:7–15), the penalty here pronounced seems fitting. strongholds of Ben-hadad. Though made of stone, the fortresses at Damascus would be devoured by the fire of God's judgment.

AMOS—NOTE ON 1:5 gate-bar. Bar that secured the fortress gates of a city (cf 1Ki 4:13). Once a city's gate-bar broke, its overthrow was all but guaranteed. Damascus. See note, v 3. Valley of Aven. Location uncertain, but most likely "Valley of Lebanon" spoken of in Jsh 11:17. It extended along the northern border of Israel. Aven. Hbr "vanity," "idolatry"; wordplay (i.e., "valley of sin" or "valley of idolatry"). See note, Ec 1:2. scepter. Symbol of kingship, thus referring to the reigning power. Beth-eden. Aramean city-state north of Damascus, on the banks of the Euphrates. Syria. Also called Aram; empire north of Israel. Its leading city-state was Damascus. go into exile. To be forcibly removed from one's land and taken captive by a conqueror. Such forced relocations were common in ancient conquests. Kir. Location uncertain; the place where the Syrians originated. The Syrians would lose their kingdom and be reduced to their place of origin.

AMOS—NOTE ON 1:6 For three transgressions … for four. See note, v 3. Gaza. Main city in Philistia, located southwest of Israel and Judah, along the coast of the Great Sea. See color map 1. Edom. Kingdom south of Judah. The Edomites descended from Esau and thus from Abraham, through Isaac (Gn 25:23–26; Dt 2:4).

AMOS—NOTE ON 1:7 fire. Amos threatens Gaza with the same fiery destruction as Damascus (v 4).

AMOS—NOTE ON 1:8 Ashdod … Ashkelon … Ekron. Along with Gaza (v 6), these are renowned strongholds of the Philistines. List conveys that all of Philistia will be punished. scepter. See note, v 5.

AMOS—NOTE ON 1:9 For three transgressions … for four. See note, v 3. Tyre. Port city northwest of Israel; important city-state in Phoenicia. See color map 1. delivered up a whole people. Tyre was known for engaging in the slave trade. In particular, Amos is rebuking Tyre for the role it would play in selling Israelite slaves when the northern tribes fell to Assyria in 722 BC. Edom. See note, v 6. covenant of brotherhood. Israel and Tyre made a covenant during the days of King Solomon (1Ki 5:1–12; cf 2Sm 5:11). Motivated by greed, the people of Tyre would soon violate that agreement.

AMOS—NOTE ON 1:10 I will send a fire. See notes, vv 4, 7.

AMOS—NOTE ON 1:11 For three transgressions … for four. See note, v 3. Edom … pursued his brother. See note, v 6. Sadly, biblical history is full of accounts about Edom making war against Israel (1Sm 14; 2Sm 8:12–14; 1Ki 11:14–22; 2Ki 8:20–22). cast off all pity. Wordplay. Lit, Edom "destroyed [Israel's] wombs" through brutal treatment and murder of Israelite women. anger tore. Presents an image of an animal tearing at its prey. The prophet thus characterizes Edom's attacks on Israel as unrelentingly vicious. wrath forever. Edom would never end its outpouring of rage against Israel.

AMOS—NOTE ON 1:12 I will send a fire. See notes, vv 4, 7. Teman. See note, Hab 3:3. Bozrah. Edom's northernmost city. Amos hints that Edom will suffer widespread, or even complete, destruction.

AMOS—NOTE ON 1:13 For three transgressions … for four. See note, v 3. Ammonites. People east of the Jordan. See color map 2. ripped open pregnant women. Ammon's enmity against Israel will express itself in brutal attacks against women and children. Sadly, Israel suffered this fate more than once. Gilead. See note, v 3. enlarge their border. Ammon attempted to capture territory from the Israelites.

AMOS—NOTE ON 1:14 I will kindle a fire. See notes, vv 4, 7. Rabbah. Hbr "great"; Ammon's capital city (cf 1Ch 20:1). tempest … whirlwind. Ammon's judgment is coming in a terrible storm. Ammon will suffer a complete collapse in battle, and this defeat should be understood as divine punishment.

AMOS—NOTE ON 1:15 their king shall go into exile. Defeat of the Ammonites will be such that even their royalty will be captured and carried away.

AMOS—NOTE ON 2:1 For three transgressions … for four. See note, 1:3. Moab. Nation east of Israel, on the southern border of Ammon. See color map 2. burned to lime. Moabites stand accused of burning the bones of a fallen enemy to ash (or, "lime"). Such desecration was obviously an atrocity.

AMOS—NOTE ON 2:2 I will send a fire. See notes, 1:4, 7. Kerioth. Main city of Moab, near Aroer, and site of principal shrine for pagan god Chemosh (cf Jer 48:13, 24). See color map 2. uproar. Violence and tumult of battle.

AMOS—NOTE ON 2:3 I will cut off the ruler … princes. As in 1:15, this pictures a battle of annihilation. Even the king and princes will perish.

AMOS—NOTE ON 1:1–2:3 Amos denounces the nations surrounding Judah and Israel and threatens them with fiery judgment and political defeat. Seeing those around us similarly judged might tempt us to be smug, though it ought to show us that unless we repent and do what is right, the same fate can befall us. In order to learn to abhor all forms of sin and be empowered to walk in the Lord's ways, God has promised us His Spirit. As we hear God's Word and receive His Sacraments, His Spirit transforms us by helping us to grow into Christ's likeness. • "O Holy Spirit, enter in, And in our hearts Your work begin … That we may be Truly living, To You giving Prayer unceasing And in love be still increasing." Amen. (LSB 913:1)

AMOS—NOTE ON 2:4 For three transgressions … for four. See note, 1:3. Judah. Southern tribes of the divided kingdom. See note, chs 1–2; see also map, p 558; cf 1Ki 12; 2Ch 10–11. rejected the law … statutes. Judah is accused of breaking the Sinai covenant. See p 971. lies have led them astray. Falsehood led to idolatry, improper worship, and ethical failures. their fathers walked. Covenant unfaithfulness had persisted for generations. Even from the time of the deliverance from Egypt, the Israelites had continually been tempted to follow other gods (cf Dt 4:3; 1Ki 18:18).

AMOS—NOTE ON 2:5 fire upon Judah. See notes, 1:4, 7.

AMOS—NOTE ON 2:4–5 Like its unbelieving neighbors, Judah is guilty of listening to false prophets and worshiping in ways unbecoming the one true God. Sadly, we, too, are tempted and led astray by false theologies. However, it is the Lord's Word of Gospel alone that washes away our sin and bestows life for the sake of our Savior, Jesus Christ. • "Lord, keep us steadfast in Your Word; Curb those who by deceit or sword Would wrest the kingdom from Your Son And bring to naught all He has done." Amen. (LSB 655:1)

AMOS—NOTE ON 2:6 For three transgressions … for four. See note, 1:3. Israel. See note, chs 1–2. sell the righteous. The Sinai covenant had in place many laws designed to protect the innocent (Ex 23:6–8; Dt 16:18–20). However, justice was being perverted in Amos's day. Judges were regularly taking bribes and depriving the innocent of their rights. See note, 1Sm 2:15–16. In rabbinic tradition, the "righteous one" was Joseph, sold by his brothers to buy sandals. a pair of sandals. Bogus judgments against the needy could be bought for a paltry price.

AMOS—NOTE ON 2:7 trample the head of the poor. Despite the covenant's mandates that the vulnerable of Israel be protected (Ex 22:21–27; Dt 24:12–17), the poor were being mistreated. the same girl. Incestuous behavior was forbidden explicitly (Lv 18:8; 20:11; Dt 22:30); it is an offense against nature. My holy name is profaned. The Lord's name is repeatedly associated with grace, mercy, and holiness (Ex 20:7; 34:6–7). The rampant corruption of Amos's day—Israel's perversion of justice, dishonoring of women, and idol worship—constituted an esp grievous affront to God's holiness.

AMOS—NOTE ON 2:8 beside every altar. Many pagan altars in Israel competed with the Lord's altar in the Jerusalem temple. Because of the popularity of these unauthorized shrines, Amos repeatedly accuses the people of syncretism and idolatry (3:14; 4:4; 7:9–10; 9:1). pledge. Garments were often given as collateral in ancient Israel in order to secure a loan or guarantee an unpaid debt. See note, Pr 20:16. However, out of care and regard for the poor, garments given in pledge were not to be kept overnight (Dt 24:10–13). Amos's rebuke reveals that this command was being ignored. A seventh-century Hbr letter found at a military outpost along the Mediterranean held the complaint of a laborer that his garment was taken away unjustly. He was requesting its return. house of their God. Not the Jerusalem temple, but the pagan and syncretistic shrines erected in the northern territories by the kings of Israel in order to keep their citizens from traveling to the Lord's temple in Judah, at Jerusalem. Cf 1Ki 12:25–29. Though the priests officiating at such unauthorized altars did indeed invoke the Lord's name, they often did so while also praying to pagan gods. wine of those who have been fined. Not the wine offered in the Jerusalem temple (Ex 29:40–41), but wine taken as payment for fines by the priests of unauthorized sanctuaries. Such libations were in turn consumed within the precincts of these illicit sanctuaries. Significantly, drunkenness and debauchery is associated with the worship of false gods elsewhere in the Bible (cf Jgs 9:27).

AMOS—NOTE ON 2:9 destroyed the Amorite. Amos here calls to mind the mighty acts God worked on Israel's behalf while bringing them into the Promised Land. By helping them defeat this powerful and important Canaanite tribe, the Lord not only protected Israel from danger but, more important, allowed them to take possession of the land promised to Abraham and his descendants (Gn 15:12–16). height of the cedars. Symbolic phrase reminding the Israelites of the dread they once felt before the Amorites. In anticipation of the conquest, Moses sent spies into Amorite territories. They came back reporting that this was a giant people (Nu 13:25–33; Dt 1:27–28). fruit above … roots beneath. Couplet denoting total destruction (2Ki 19:30; Ezk 17:9; Hos 9:16). Today we say "from top to bottom."

AMOS—NOTE ON 2:10 brought you up out of the land of Egypt. Continues reminding Israel of God's faithfulness in bringing His people out of Egyptian bondage and into the Promised Land. The Lord's purpose in the exodus and in leading Israel "forty years in the wilderness" was that they would take possession of "the land of the Amorite" and then live under covenant grace. Israel's experience of the exodus and conquest defined its identity as God's chosen people. As such, the story of the exodus and conquest was to be recited faithfully among the Israelites throughout all generations (Lv 11:45; Dt 20:1; Jsh 24:16–18; Mi 6:4–5).

AMOS—NOTE ON 2:11 prophets. See note, 1Sm 9:9. Nazirites. Holy men who took oaths to neither cut their hair nor drink wine. See note, Nu 6:2.
AMOS—NOTE ON 2:12 Nazirites drink wine. Israelites had become so impious that even Nazirites were breaking their vows to God by taking alcohol. See note, Nu 6:3. commanded the prophets. Things had been turned upside down in Amos's day. Instead of listening to the prophetic Word and repenting, people tried to command the prophets, demanding changes in their behavior. On the priest Amaziah's attempt to silence Amos, cf 7:12.
AMOS—NOTE ON 2:13 as a cart full of sheaves presses down. Sheaves seem light, like a prophet's words. But the bottom sheaves are crushed and smothered by the total weight.
AMOS—NOTE ON 2:14–16 Climactic verses containing seven illustrations of what will befall Israel when the judgment comes. These metaphors vividly depict just how completely Israel will be crushed. The concluding image is telling indeed: even Israel's mightiest will flee naked from that terrible defeat.
AMOS—NOTE ON 2:6–16 Amos accuses Israel of breaking virtually every part of the covenant. The people worship other gods, withhold justice from the innocent, and shamefully exploit the poor and vulnerable. Such vices destroy our communities today, despite the great blessings we have enjoyed from God's hand. God calls His Church today to repentance precisely because He wishes to avert the shame and sorrow that will inevitably result when we take the way of selfishness and greed. He daily calls us to receive anew the forgiveness Christ won for us. • Gracious Lord, have mercy on Your people. Make our hearts swift to believe Your Word. Amen.
AMOS—NOTE ON 3:1 whole family. Though Amos has thus far drawn a distinction between the southern and northern tribes, addressing himself to Judah in 2:4–5 and then to Israel in 2:6–16, he here treats all of God's chosen people as one. He does so in order to remind the separated people of God about the intent of the covenant that they are supposed to follow in a right relationship with the Lord and in harmony with one another.
AMOS—NOTE ON 3:2 You only have I known. God's choice of Israel is a unique privilege. As such, breaking the covenant is a terrible offense, deserving the full penalty of God's judgment. known. Often connotes marital intimacy and unity. Cf Gn 4:1, 17.

AMOS—NOTE ON 3:3–6 Six rhetorical questions, each expecting a negative response, lead to a climactic seventh one (v 6b). This rhetorical device emphasizes that the disaster soon to come upon Israel is from the Lord's hand. The people should understand that they are receiving the just penalty for their sin.

AMOS—NOTE ON 3:6 unless the LORD has done it? Sin does not originate with the Holy One, who made all things good. Yet the prophet plainly speaks of a disaster (lit, "evil") coming from the Lord. The Almighty does indeed permit disasters as a natural consequence of sin. Jeremiah later characterized disaster coming upon the people as "the fruit" of their wicked devices and godless plans (Jer 6:19). Jn D: "Sometimes [evil] means what is evil by nature, and this is the opposite of virtue and the will of God: and sometimes it means … afflictions and calamities. Now these are seemingly evil because they are painful, but in reality are good. For to those who understand they become ambassadors of conversion and salvation. The Scripture says that of these God is the Author" (NPNF 2 9:93).

AMOS—NOTE ON 3:7 without revealing His secret. In His mercy, the Lord regularly reveals His judgments and intentions by the mouth of His prophets. This is why Amos was called to ministry: his job was to relay to the people what he received while seeing the Word of the Lord (1:1).

AMOS—NOTE ON 3:8 who can but prophesy? Hypothetical question used as a rhetorical device to state that this prophetic message to Israel is by the Lord's authority. As surely as a lion's roar (cf 1:2) will bring fear, so the Lord's speaking will bring the voice of the prophet.

AMOS—NOTE ON 3:9 Ashdod. See note, 1:8. Egypt. Perennially powerful nation from which the Lord delivered Israel during the exodus. mountains of Samaria. See color map 1. From these mountains, one can see the entire city. A measure of God's disgust with Samaria is that He threatened to assemble Ashdod and Egypt on the surrounding peaks to act as witnesses of the rampant injustice and oppression being perpetuated therein. oppressed. Innocent and the poor were regularly denied justice, as Amos emphasizes (2:6–7; 5:11–12; 8:4–6).

AMOS—NOTE ON 3:11 surround the land. Enemies lay siege. Israel's impending punishment is thus revealed as coming in the form of a military campaign. There will be a prolonged assault, followed by looting and plundering.

AMOS—NOTE ON 3:12 As the shepherd rescues. In reporting a sheep killed by wild beasts, a shepherd would often produce the victim's remains as proof of what happened (cf Gn 31:39). So also the remnant of Israel will similarly be a small and mangled portion of the whole after its enemies lay waste and carry away the people in exile. corner of a couch and part of a bed. The once mighty house of Israel is being reduced to a few scraps of furniture.
AMOS—NOTE ON 3:13 God of hosts. See p 1291. hosts. Describes not only the angelic armies but also the heavenly council. Just as the heavenly hosts hear the Lord's words being pronounced in heaven above, so also these same utterances are delivered on earth by God's servants, the prophets (cf Is 6:1–8; 1Ki 22:19–23).
AMOS—NOTE ON 3:14 punish the altars. Syncretistic shrines of Israel would be destroyed. See note, 2:8. Bethel. C 10 mi N of Jerusalem. See color map 1. One of the main sites of unauthorized worship in Israel. Such shrines were built and supported by the king of the breakaway northern tribes and, as such, were illegitimate. Abraham and Jacob had built altars and worshiped at Bethel much earlier (Gn 12:8; 28:18–22; 35:9–15). But by the time of Amos, the Jerusalem temple was the place that faithful Israelites were expected to worship. horns. Altars at Bethel resembled those of the tabernacle. See note, Ex 27:2. Cutting off the horns would render it useless for sacrifice and for protection (cf 1Ki 1:50; 2:28). See "horn," p 842.
AMOS—NOTE ON 3:15 winter house … summer house. This list of houses—one for every season, each in its own opulent style—emphasizes Israel's indulgent prosperity. However, many of these mansions were built upon the oppression of the innocent and the poor. Destruction of the altar at Bethel (v 14) would then engulf the homes of the wealthy. In that fashion, judgment would come upon temple as well as home, against Israel's religious and economic life. houses of ivory. Phoenician low-relief carved plaques were used to decorate furnishings and other features of a home. The Phoenician artistic style had great influence on Israelite architecture and design, as archaeology and Scripture testify. See note, 1Ki 10:18. See p 544.
AMOS—NOTE ON 4:1 cows of Bashan. Because their appetites are insatiable, prominent women of Samaria are likened to fat cows. Bashan was a fertile plain known for its rich pasture and large, healthy livestock (cf Dt 32:14). See color map 2. say to your husbands. Rich women goaded their husbands to acquire more, even at the expense and suffering of the poor.

AMOS—NOTE ON 4:2 sworn. God has issued His verdict in the form of a legal oath, swearing by the highest referent possible, His own holiness (cf Heb 6:13). See note, Nu 30:2. hooks … fishhooks. Slaves and prisoners were hooked in order to control them.

AMOS—NOTE ON 4:3 breaches. Fortress walls will be breached, and lines of prisoners will march out. Harmon. Possibly Mount Hermon in Bashan. See color map 2.

AMOS—NOTE ON 4:4–5 Sarcasm; sacrifices rightfully belonged to the Lord at His altar in Jerusalem. Amos heightens this sarcasm by urging the people to sacrifice more frequently, "every morning" and "every three days."

AMOS—NOTE ON 4:4 Bethel. See note, 3:14. Gilgal. North of Jericho. One of the main sanctuaries for northern Israel; location of idolatry and syncretism. See color map 1.

AMOS—NOTE ON 3:1–4:5 Because Israel has completely abandoned the covenant—through worshiping idols, perpetrating injustice, and showing indifference to the poor—the Lord threatens to allow an invading enemy to wreak havoc on the land. Wealth, compromise of confession, and indifference to suffering tempt the "new Israel," the Church, still today. Recognizing such failures in ourselves should move us to repentance and increased gratitude for Christ, who was rich, yet became poor for our sakes, so that through His poverty we might become eternally rich (2Co 8:9). • Walk with us, O Lord. Abide with us, and restore us according to Your favor. Amen.

AMOS—NOTE ON 4:6 cleanness of teeth. Hunger and famine make an empty mouth. return to Me. In repentance. See p 1080. This phrase is repeated five times in vv 6–11. Afflictions sent by the Lord were intended to make Israel despair, so that out of their misery they would return to their covenant God, who abounds in compassion, forgiveness, and salvation (Ex 34:6–7).

AMOS—NOTE ON 4:7 months to the harvest. Withholding the latter rains (those coming in Mar/Apr) inevitably resulted in a massive crop failure by the harvest season (May). See calendar, p 262.

AMOS—NOTE ON 4:9 blight and mildew. These diseases destroyed both garden and vineyard. Crop devastations were evidence that Israel had broken the covenant and forfeited the Lord's care and blessing. Cf Solomon's prayer, 1Ki 8:37–40. Since Israel has forsaken the Jerusalem temple, Solomon's petition had fallen on deaf ears.

AMOS—NOTE ON 4:10 pestilence. See notes, Dt 28:60–61; Ps 91:3. horses. Signs of military strength are removed. stench of your camp. Unbearable smell of unburied corpses.
AMOS—NOTE ON 4:11 some of you. Afflictions, plagues, warfare, and death described here are doled out selectively. Yet even those preserved from sickness and death will fail to recognize God's judgment in the afflictions and will not return to Him. Sodom and Gomorrah. Two cities near the Salt Sea, destroyed for their evil at the time of Abraham and Lot (Gn 19:23–28); prototypical examples of God's wrath and judgment. See map, p 33. as a brand. Snatched from total destruction. They should not feel vindicated but should seriously consider what consequences might follow if they continue despising the Lord.
AMOS—NOTE ON 4:12 meet your God. A day of judgment looms. God met with Israel at Sinai amid such terrifying sights and sounds that the people begged to be spared hearing the thunder of God's voice and beholding the brilliance of His nearby presence (Ex 20:18–21). And that was when God was giving the covenant, not calling people to account for breaking it!
AMOS—NOTE ON 4:13 Doxology of judgment. morning darkness. Deepest darkness is said to come just before dawn breaks. As Creator and Sustainer of all things, the Lord is responsible for both the brilliance of the noontime sun and for the deepest darkness of the night. Gr Naz: "The Word [of creation] was given once, but the Action is continuous even now" (NPNF 2 7:313). God of hosts. See p 1291.
AMOS—NOTE ON 4:6–13 Amos intersperses vivid descriptions of divine judgment with the divine lament "yet you did not return to Me." God's reasons for allowing calamities to enter our lives are ultimately good, but people nonetheless refuse to respond in humility and faith. True repentance is always His work, wrought through the Law. Forgiveness is His greatest work. Praise God that all sins, including our slowness to repent, are fully forgiven by Christ's sacrificial death. • Lord Jesus, we thank You for being our advocate with the Father. Because we are often intractably sinful, we are all the more grateful that You plead unceasingly for us in heaven. Lead us to believe in and ever hold fast to the forgiveness You won for us. Amen.

AMOS—NOTE ON 5:1 lamentation. Hbr qinah, a rhythmic dirge (vv 1–3). Such songs of mourning were esp associated with death and were sometimes sung by professional mourners (v 16; Jer 9:17). Remarkably, Amos is mourning the death of his listeners themselves! By intoning this dirge in their hearing, the prophet effectively tells the people of the Northern Kingdom that their nation is doomed. house of Israel. Northern Kingdom.

AMOS—NOTE ON 5:2 Fallen, no more to rise. Assyrians will attack and finally conquer Israel in 722 BC. Once deported by the victors, the survivors of Israel will never return and thus become the famous 10 lost tribes of Israel. virgin Israel. Though the nation ought to be in the flower of its youth and vitality, it is destined to remain unfulfilled, separated from the bridegroom by tragedy.

AMOS—NOTE ON 5:3 a thousand shall have a hundred left. Israel will suffer overwhelming defeat and be left shattered. Here is the reason for the condition described in v 2. house of Israel. Phrase both begins and ends the dirge in vv 1–3, a device to round out the lament.

AMOS—NOTE ON 5:4 Seek Me. God's longing has been unfulfilled (4:6, 8, 10–11). See p 843. The Lord is long-suffering and compassionate (Ex 34:6; Ps 86:15). Whenever sin increases, His grace abounds all the more (Rm 5:20). Further tragedy can still be averted through repentance, which is why this refrain is repeated in vv 6, 14.

AMOS—NOTE ON 5:5 Bethel … Gilgal … Beersheba. Centers of blasphemous worship in Amos's day. See note, 3:14. Note also the literary arrangement: Bethel-Gilgal-Beersheba-Gilgal-Bethel. This chiasm emphasizes Bethel as a prime target of the Lord's wrath. See color map 1. exile. Israel would not go down to defeat while defending its borders. Rather, the people ended up fallen and forsaken on their own land (v 2), with the survivors shamefully deported to foreign lands.

AMOS—NOTE ON 5:6 house of Joseph. Northern Kingdom, Israel. See note, Zec 10:6. devour. Nothing will be able to extinguish the fiery judgment coming upon Israel, for it comes from the Lord Himself.

AMOS—NOTE ON 5:7 wormwood. Bitter plant with a repulsive taste. Accordingly, it represents sorrow (Pr 5:4; Lm 3:15). Once again, Amos rails against the prevalent injustice of his day, esp the abuse of the poor (cf 2:7–8; 3:10; 4:1).

AMOS—NOTE ON 5:8–9 Doxology of judgment.
AMOS—NOTE ON 5:8 made the Pleiades and Orion. Pair of constellations. See note, Jb 38:31. darkness … morning … calls for the waters. The Lord governs light and darkness, creates the seas, and pours them out whenever He wishes. the LORD. See p 1227.
AMOS—NOTE ON 5:9 flash forth. As suddenly and powerfully as lightning bursts forth in the heavens, so also the Lord can send destruction against those who oppose Him and His will. Lightning was associated with God's holiness as revealed at Sinai (Ex 20:18)
AMOS—NOTE ON 5:10 him who reproves in the gate. See p 792. abhor him who speaks the truth. Dishonest oppressors naturally loathed those who dared contradict or expose them. Luth: "Wickedness cannot bear sound doctrine" (AE 18:161).
AMOS—NOTE ON 5:11 Note the change from the indefinite "They" in v 10 to the accusation "you" in vv 11–12—this becomes a pointed, personal rebuke. taxes of grain. Taxes were one way the poor were exploited rather than protected (cf Lv 25:35–37; Dt 23:19). him. The poor who actually worked the land. The unrighteous wealthy not only profited from their labor but also imposed unjust taxes on the poor. houses of hewn stone. Expensive homes, associated with royal households. However, Israel will not enjoy the fruit of these ill-gotten gains.
AMOS—NOTE ON 5:12 needy in the gate. The poor bring lawsuits in order to protect their rights and so secure justice. See p 792. Notice how vv 10–12 begin and end with references to legal proceedings at the city gate.
AMOS—NOTE ON 5:13 Unbridled wickedness forced the wise into resigned silence. Pressing for justice seemed futile and even dangerous.
AMOS—NOTE ON 5:14 God of hosts. See p 1291. This name becomes a refrain (vv 15–16), recurring twice more. with you, as you have said. During the days of the patriarchs, the Lord had made promises to be with people at both Beersheba (Gn 26:24; 46:1–4) and Bethel (Gn 28:15, 19). Incredibly, those showing utter contempt for the Lord and His covenant during Amos's time were still claiming this promise as their own.
AMOS—NOTE ON 5:15 establish justice. Stark contrast to what was happening in Israel. Notice the literary structure of vv 14–15: seek good, not evil/hate evil, love good. remnant of Joseph. These words look beyond the impending destruction of the Northern Kingdom at the hands of the Assyrians and see that a faithful few will be preserved and restored, leaving a mere remnant. Cf Is 10:21–23. Amos's last oracle similarly speaks of God restoring the faithful remnant (9:11–15).

AMOS—NOTE ON 5:16 God of hosts. See note, v 14; see also p 1291. squares. City squares or plazas. Destruction and death will be felt throughout, even within the fortified cities. farmers. Rural areas will not be spared; the whole nation will be ruined. lamentation. Hbr misped, "beating the breast as a sign of grief, esp for the dead." Such outpouring will be heard everywhere and from everyone, from professional mourners to city dwellers to farmhands in the vineyards. Luth: "So great will the wretchedness be that there will be no one who is not sorry to be alive" (AE 18:163).

AMOS—NOTE ON 5:17 pass through. Echoes a portion of the Passover account, when the Lord "pass[ed] through the land of Egypt … strik[ing] all the firstborn" (Ex 12:12). Ironically, God was punishing Israel's enemy in Ex. God is now threatening to treat His own people as He once treated the Egyptians.

AMOS—NOTE ON 5:1–17 Amos sings a funeral dirge over impenitent Israel, for the Lord is soon to come in judgment against the nation for abandoning the covenant. The Lord's judgment still threatens all that would place anyone or anything above Him. At the same time, God remains merciful and long-suffering. He takes no pleasure in the death of the wicked, but rather wishes to see the wicked turn from his evil way and live (Ezk 33:11). • "Though great our sins, yet greater still Is God's abundant favor; His hand of mercy never will Abandon us, nor waver. Our shepherd good and true is He, Who will at last His Israel free From all their sin and sorrow." Amen. (LSB 607:5)

AMOS—NOTE ON 5:18 the day of the LORD*!* See p 1079. Likely refers to the day in which God will allow Israel's enemies to attack and destroy the northern tribes and then take them into exile. darkness, and not light. There will be disaster, not salvation, for Israel.

AMOS—NOTE ON 5:19 A pair of similes portrays things going from bad to worse, like "jumping out of the frying pan into the fire." Israel's condemnation is now inevitable.

AMOS—NOTE ON 5:20 Is not …? The expected affirmative answer to this rhetorical question reinforces the "woe" just pronounced in v 18. darkness

… gloom. See note, v 18. Repetition of "day of the LORD" and "darkness" leave no doubt about Israel's sad outcome.

AMOS—NOTE ON 5:21–23 Though Israel may continue to offer the worship described in these verses, it will do no good. Where simple justice and humility are lacking, even the most orthodox ritual and the finest of music is nothing more than a hypocritical sham. Luth: "The wicked do not please the Lord, regardless of how great and splendid their works may be" (AE 18:165).

AMOS—NOTE ON 5:21 I hate, I despise. Forceful denunciations of Israel's insincere worship. feasts. The three major festivals required by the Law were Passover, Pentecost, and Booths. See pp 200–201. solemn assemblies. Likely refers to the prayers and sacrifices offered on a daily and weekly basis.

AMOS—NOTE ON 5:22 The Lord rejects all sacrifices offered by those acting righteous but lacking a sincere faith. Cf Mi 6:6–8.

AMOS—NOTE ON 5:23 Israel's insincere religiosity and its consequent sham worship have become repugnant to God. The nation's supposedly sacred music is nothing more than noise to Him. Without a right relationship to the Lord, attempting to worship is futile.

AMOS—NOTE ON 5:24 let justice roll down like waters. God's people are to produce justice continually and swiftly, like the flow of a river. Just as plants and animals need a steady supply of water to survive, so also human communities can flourish only when justice and righteousness prevail. See "justice," p 842.

AMOS—NOTE ON 5:25 sacrifices and offerings. Sacrifice from Israel had never been the basis of its relationship to the Lord. From day one, God's chosen people enjoyed His gifts and protection as a free gift of His grace. See pp 170–71. the forty years in the wilderness. Only after Israel was delivered from Egypt and received the covenant did the people begin to offer God regular sacrifices. Amos insists repentance and a right relationship with God are the only basis for worship.

AMOS—NOTE ON 5:26 Sikkuth … Kiyyun your star-god. Deities of Mesopotamia. What folly to worship an imaginary star-god rather than the Creator of "the Pleiades and Orion" (v 8). Note further that Amos alludes to the practice of carrying these deities aloft while marching in religious procession. The punishment for such pagan practice will fit the crime, when Israel is forced to march "into exile beyond Damascus" (v 27).

AMOS—NOTE ON 5:27 beyond Damascus. God's long-suffering is coming to an end. He will send Israel into exile in a foreign land, never to return. This prediction was fulfilled by the Assyrians (2Ki 17:1–23) in 722 BC. God of hosts. See p 1291. Name appears repeatedly in this chapter (vv 14–16).

AMOS—NOTE ON 5:18–27 The people of Israel are living under the delusion that their prosperity is a sign of God's approval and that their perfunctory offering of sacrifices is keeping the Lord satisfied, even though they act unjustly and honor other gods. But God's first expectation has ever been and will always be "You shall have no other gods before Me" (Ex 20:3). Amos teaches us that grace and faith are the true basis for worship and a right relationship to the Lord. His invitation ever stands: "Come to Me, all who labor and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest" (Mt 11:28).
• Lord God, roll down justice and mercy upon us through the righteous sacrifice offered by Your Son for our forgiveness. Amen.

AMOS—NOTE ON 6:1 Zion. Hill on which the Jerusalem temple stood. Here, it stands for the whole Southern Kingdom. See p 844. Samaria. Capital of Israel. Here, it stands for the whole Northern Kingdom. notable men. Those to whom the people came for advice, leadership, and an example to follow. It is doubtful that they were advising as they ought, i.e., the nation needed to heed Amos's warnings and repent.

AMOS—NOTE ON 6:2–3 Calneh … Hamath … Gath. If these three powerful city-states suffered military incursions and defeat, how can Israel expect to be spared the same fate, since by then they were hardly in a better position? See map, p 534. Calneh. Syrian city north of the bend in the Orontes River. Hamath. Important Syrian city north of Damascus. Gath. One of five royal cities of the Philistines on the coastal plain west of Judah.

AMOS—NOTE ON 6:3 the seat of violence? Amos repeats his charge about Israel's pervasive injustice and their oppression of the poor (e.g., 2:6–7; 5:11–12; 8:4–6). As a result of their callous and even brutal behavior, Israel's leaders will bear a special responsibility for precipitating the very disaster they claim will never occur.

AMOS—NOTE ON 6:4 beds of ivory. Symbols of luxury. Numerous pieces of furniture inlaid with ivory in the Phoenician style have been unearthed in Israel. See note, 3:15.eat lambs … and calves. Choicest meat, normally eaten only at feasts. See p 236. Extravagance points to misplaced priorities and hearts far more concerned with opulence than righteousness. Luth:

"The Lord is not condemning the possession of wealth but the misuse thereof" (AE 18:170).
AMOS—NOTE ON 6:5 idle songs. The idle rich frittered away their days singing and making merry. like David invent. An ironic comparison, since David was renowned for his contributions to sacred music, i.e., the compositions he dedicated to the Lord and the provisions he made for the temple worship (1Ch 23:5; 2Ch 29:25–26).
AMOS—NOTE ON 6:6 wine in bowls. Not just cups, but bowls of wine were consumed (see note, v 4). Bowls mentioned here were used in the temple for sprinkling sacrificial blood on the altar, which implies abuse by the priests or Levites. anoint themselves. Hbr mashach, associated with ritual anointing. Hedonistic excesses were ironically dressed up in religious garb. ruin of Joseph! Because of their misplaced priorities, the rich pamper and indulge themselves while ignoring the spiritual depravity and impending destruction of their nation. See note, 5:6.
AMOS—NOTE ON 6:7 first … into exile. Additional irony. The rich, whose attitude was famously "me first," will have the distinction of being punished first. They will be at the head of the column of deportees, leading the march into exile. revelry. Near Eastern version of a drinking party (compare to Gk symposium). Cf Jer 16:5, which describes a funeral. Such gatherings were associated with the cult of the dead in other cultures. stretch themselves out. This opulent class, though at ease and seemingly without a care in the world, will soon stop its partying.
AMOS—NOTE ON 6:8 has sworn. See note, 4:2. God of hosts. See p 1291. abhor … hate. Because Israel's "strongholds" have become a symbol of the people's prideful self-sufficiency, the Lord is revolted by them.
AMOS—NOTE ON 6:9 they shall die. Impending disaster will be unprecedented. No one will escape unscathed.
AMOS—NOTE ON 6:10 relative … who anoints. A family member comes to empty the house of its dead because none at the house are able or willing to perform the duties of burial. innermost parts. Back room of a pillared house, dark and good for hiding. still anyone with you? So many have died that the burying relative has lost track. Silence! Rather than invoking God's name in prayer (as we respond, "Oh, my God" when surprised), they are afraid to speak it, knowing God has brought the punishment. the LORD. See p 1227.

AMOS—NOTE ON 6:11 great house … little house. Neither rich nor poor will be spared. Significantly, Amos repeats why this all-encompassing tragedy came: fed up with Israel's apostasy, the Lord has commanded this destruction.
AMOS—NOTE ON 6:12 Do horses … oxen? Absurd rhetorical questions. Israel's injustice and unrighteousness are so extreme they go against nature. justice into poison … righteousness into wormwood. Israel's wickedness is so perverse that it unnaturally corrupts what is good. wormwood. See note, 5:7.
AMOS—NOTE ON 6:13 Lo-debar. Ammonite city in northern Gilead. See ESV note. Sarcastic wordplay; vanity of Israel is such that they rejoice at nothingness. Karnaim. Aramean city north and east of Lo-debar. Also wordplay; lit, "two horns"; symbolically represents military might. Amos criticizes Israel for placing its trust in human strength rather than in God.
AMOS—NOTE ON 6:14 I will raise up. For the third time, the Lord repeats that Israel's crushing defeat is in accord with His plan (vv 8, 11). God of hosts. See p 1291. Lebo-hamath. City in northern Lebanon, beyond Israel's northern border. Brook of the Arabah. Lower border of Northern Kingdom, not far from northern end of the Salt Sea. By means of these geographical references, Amos conveys yet another way that the impending devastation will be all-encompassing.

AMOS—NOTE ON Ch 6 Many in Israel made pampering themselves a full-time occupation, smugly imagining that material wealth was clear-cut proof that they were right with God. People today make the same mistake, interpreting their material prosperity as a sign that they need not humble themselves and turn away from complacency. However, God desires to give Himself to us. This is why His Son became incarnate for us and for our salvation. • Keep us, dear heavenly Father, from greed and sinful presumption upon Your grace. Lead us to humbly repent of all our sins and to set our hearts on Your Son, Jesus, whose blood cleanses us of all sin and restores us to eternal fellowship with You. Amen.
AMOS—NOTE ON 7:1 He was forming locusts. Description of a vision, a direct revelation from the Lord. Amos was able to see exactly how the land would be judged. latter growth. Crops brought forth by late spring rains. Amos saw that an agricultural catastrophe was in the offing, since both the early grain crop (then maturing) and the second crop (just sprouting) would be destroyed by the locust swarm (see note, Jl 1:4). king's mowings. The king had already exercised his royal prerogative of taking the first reaping. Consequently, nothing was left for the people but famine.

AMOS—NOTE ON 7:2 He is so small! Amos earnestly intercedes for Israel, pleading that the nation is too weak and poor to survive such a crop failure. This is ironic, since the prophet also criticized the people for their greed and materialism (e.g., 4:1; 6:4–7). The only hope that Amos's appeal might succeed is God's compassionate nature (Ex 34:6–7). Cf Gn 18:22–33.
AMOS—NOTE ON 7:3 relented. See note, Jnh 3:10. See p 1079. Remarkably, the Lord answers the prophet's intercessory prayer by agreeing to spare Israel. It shall not be. History shows that Israel's punishment was postponed rather than forever averted. Sadly, the people's obstinacy eventually did them in (2Ki 17:6–18).
AMOS—NOTE ON 7:4 devoured the great deep. The Lord's smoldering anger was ready to send an even more severe judgment, a fire so intense that it would scorch everything, even drying up the subterranean springs. Cf Dt 32:22; Am 1:4, 7, 10, 12, 14; 2:2, 5.
AMOS—NOTE ON 7:5 please cease! Intercession echoing that described in v 2. Previously, a reprieve was given (v 3). However, the people's sinfulness forced Amos to appeal to the Lord's mercy again, this time in order to stave off fiery judgment.
AMOS—NOTE ON 7:6 relented. See note, v 3; cf Jnh 3:9. See pp 1079–80.
AMOS—NOTE ON 7:7–8 the Lord was standing. The Lord revealed Himself to Amos in physical fashion during this series of visions. See p 39. plumb line. Builder's tool used to determine a straight, vertical line. In this comparison, the wall represents Israel. Though the Lord originally set up Israel to be right and true, the nation has become crooked and warped. Israel needs to be remeasured by the Lord's plumb line, since only then can things be set right. pass by. Though He has relented twice in the recent past (vv 3, 6), God's decree of punishment is now final. See note, 8:2.
AMOS—NOTE ON 7:9 high places of Isaac. Worship sites scattered around the Northern Kingdom. See p 526. sanctuaries of Israel. Likely references to Bethel and Dan. See notes, 3:14, 15; 4:4–5. Through Moses, the Lord had warned the people about the consequences of illicit worship (Lv 26:27–33). the house of Jeroboam. Prophecy reveals that the breakaway dynastic line of the Northern Kingdom would be ended by invading enemies. Historically, this was fulfilled when Zechariah, son of Jeroboam II, was assassinated.

AMOS—NOTE ON 7:1–9 By means of symbolic visions involving locusts, fire, and a plumb line, the Lord warns His people that He will punish their apostasy. However, these visions, Amos's repeated intercessions on behalf of the people, and God's forbearance did not result in repentance. People today are just as slow to heed God's Word and are equally intractable in their bad behavior. We, too, would be irretrievably lost and eternally condemned were it not for Christ and His forgiveness. • "Grant us, O Father, that we may also be Your heavenly children. Teach us to think only of our souls and of our heavenly inheritance that our temporal fatherland and earthly lot may not deceive, hold, and hinder us or turn us altogether into children of this world, that we may say with a good and real reason, 'Our heavenly Father,' and may truly be Your heavenly children. Amen." (Luth, TLWA, p 294)

AMOS—NOTE ON 7:10 Amaziah. Priest of Jeroboam's sanctuary at Bethel. priest of Bethel. See notes, 3:14, 15; 4:4–5. This expression was found on a seal from a temple to Yahweh at Dor. conspired. Amaziah charges Amos with inciting insurrection and so overthrowing the dynasty ruling Israel. Apparently, Amos's message was getting through, for Amaziah protests that the land "is not able to bear all his words."

AMOS—NOTE ON 7:11 Jeroboam shall die by the sword. Amaziah probably refers to the oracle appearing in v 9. exile. Amos clearly threatened the nation with this punishment many times (4:2–3; 5:5, 26–27; 6:7; 9:4).

AMOS—NOTE ON 7:12 seer. Underlines the visionary nature of the oracles in vv 7–9. By calling Amos a "seer," Amaziah implicitly recognizes his prophetic gift. See note, 1Sm 9:9. flee away to … Judah. Amaziah indirectly threatens Amos by commanding him to go back to where he came from (cf 1:1).

AMOS—NOTE ON 7:13 never again prophesy at Bethel. Amaziah stops short of forbidding Amos from prophesying altogether. Instead, he forbids Amos from preaching in territories ruled by Jeroboam; he cannot deny that Amos is a true prophet (see note, v 12). a temple of the kingdom. Amaziah makes Bethel the "king's sanctuary" rather than the Lord's house.

AMOS—NOTE ON 7:14 no prophet. Amos became a prophet in the same way as so many others—apart from his own initiative or will. Many of Israel's prophets resisted and tried to get out of their calls when the Lord unexpectedly came to them with a charge for mission (Ex 3:1–4:17; Is 6:1–7; Jer 1:4–10; Jnh 1:1–3). The OT contains no account about a true prophet taking the task upon himself. Gr Naz: "None can see or enter into the Kingdom, except he be born again of the Spirit, and be cleansed from the first birth … by which every one singly is created anew. This Spirit, for He is most wise and most loving, if He takes possession of a shepherd makes him a Psalmist … if he possess a goatherd[er] and scraper of sycamore fruit, He makes him a Prophet" (NPNF 2 7:384). dresser of sycamore figs. Amos readily admits he was not originally a prophet, nor did he come from a family or school of prophets (cf 1Sm 19:19–24; 2Ki 2:1–22). Rather, he engaged in an agricultural vocation, both as a herdsman and as one who scraped the fruit of fig trees in order to hasten their ripening (still practiced today).

AMOS—NOTE ON 7:15 the LORD took me. Cf 2Sm 7:8, David's call. Go, prophesy. Like David, Amos was commanded to leave one flock (his family's herd) and tend another (God's people, Israel).

AMOS—NOTE ON 7:16 Do not prophesy … do not preach. Notice the contrast in the twin commands spoken by Amaziah in v 12 and the Lord in vv 15–16. Amos wisely follows the divine imperative.

AMOS—NOTE ON 7:17 wife … prostitute … daughters shall fall by the sword. Amos responds to Amaziah's command that he stop prophesying by making some of his most horrifying predictions. Wives will be forced into prostitution, and Israel's children will be killed by merciless enemies. This prediction was fulfilled when the Assyrians invaded. measuring line. Assyrians would take possession of Israel's land and parcel it out as they saw fit. unclean land. Amaziah (and the people he represents) face a bleak future in exile. See p 300.

AMOS—NOTE ON 7:10–17 When Amaziah the priest rebukes Amos and orders him out of Israel, the prophet responds by uttering some of his most chilling words of judgment. Amos does so with good reason for, on top of all their other sins, the people of Israel have now dared to openly despise the prophetic word even as it is being spoken to them. This scenario reminds us just how dangerous it is to ignore God's Word and to defy those sent to call us to repentance. Though guilty ourselves of similar failings, we take comfort in Christ's loyalty and unbounded forgiveness. His death has paid the debt of our rebellion, and His resurrection assures us that even as

He lives, so also shall we. • Lord, we know that we should fear and love You so that we do not despise preaching and Your Word, but hold it sacred and gladly hear and learn it. For Jesus' sake, open our hearts and move our wills to do this, dear heavenly Father. Amen.

AMOS—NOTE ON 8:1 Amos continues to report his visions despite Amaziah's attempt to silence him. summer fruit. Likely figs, one of Israel's most important fruits, harvested in Aug/Sept. See note, v 2; see also calendar, p 262.

AMOS—NOTE ON 8:2 The end. Wordplay; Hbr for "figs" sounds like the word for "end." The harvest serves as a metaphor for death and/or judgment (cf Jl 3:12–13; Mt 13:30, 39; Rv 14:14–16). Simply put, Israel is threatened with being plucked, thrown into a basket, and devoured by Assyria. pass by. The curses threatened in the covenant for abandoning the Lord (Dt 28:15–18) will soon begin to materialize. See note, 7:7–8.

AMOS—NOTE ON 8:3 Songs of idolatrous worship will become wailing lamentation when the carnage begins. Corpses will be strewn everywhere. Silence! A typical reaction when God confronts people with their sinfulness. See note, 6:10; cf Ps 107:42; Rm 3:19.

AMOS—NOTE ON 8:4–6 Another list of specific ways that the people—esp the wealthy—pervert justice and oppress the poor. Amos levels similar charges in 2:6–7; 5:11–12.

AMOS—NOTE ON 8:4 trample on the needy … the poor. Cf 2:7. A refrain in Amos's prophecy. The covenant stipulated a very different treatment of the poor (Dt 15:7–11).

AMOS—NOTE ON 8:5 People obviously did not have their hearts in worship. new moon. First day of the lunar month was a regular festival. Sabbath. Cf Ex 20:11; see pp 200–201. false balances. To make matters worse, these people habitually defrauded unsuspecting customers with dishonest weights, measures, and scales (Lv 19:35–36; Dt 25:13–15).

AMOS—NOTE ON 8:6 buy the poor … needy. Some in Israel stooped to trafficking in slave trade. sell the chaff of the wheat? Some merchants were taking sweepings off the threshing floor and mixing them in with the grain in order to "bulk up" their bags of wheat. Beyond the dishonesty and price inflation involved, this was also an unhealthy practice.

AMOS—NOTE ON 8:7 pride of Jacob. Land of Israel. Amos elsewhere depicts the Lord swearing by His holiness (4:2) and Himself (6:8). Swearing by a corrupt and idolatrous land is highly ironic.

AMOS—NOTE ON 8:8 rise like the Nile. Famous for overflowing its banks in the spring and then steadily receding, the Nile is a simile for how the invading Assyrians would flood Israel and then eventually depart, leaving nothing but debris and stench in their wake.
AMOS—NOTE ON 8:9 on that day. The day of the Lord. See notes, 5:18, 20; see also p 1079. the sun go down at noon. Eclipses and darkness are often mentioned in connection with the Lord's judgment and the Last Day (Is 13:10; Jl 2:10; Zep 1:15; cf Lk 23:44–45), when the entire created order will manifest the Creator's outpoured wrath.
AMOS—NOTE ON 8:10 feasts into mourning. Singing and rejoicing of religious celebration would give way to outpourings of grief and sorrow. sackcloth … baldness. In ancient Israel, putting on sackcloth and shaving one's head showed that one was undergoing a period of mourning (see note, Jb 16:15; cf Is 15:2–3; 22:12; Jer 48:37). an only son. Children, esp males, not only embodied a family's aspirations but also helped provide for their parents in old age. Accordingly, the death of an only son constituted one of the greatest and most grievous of all misfortunes, truly "a bitter day."
AMOS—NOTE ON 8:11 famine … of hearing the words. Because the people have rejected and despised God's Word, and even forbidden His prophets from prophesying (2:12; 7:12–13), they will soon receive their just deserts—the Lord will no longer provide "the bread of life," His life-sustaining Gospel (cf Dt 8:3; Jn 4:10, 14; 6:35). Gr Naz: "[Basil] provided the nourishment of the Word … in rich abundance to the relief not of a famine of bread, nor of a thirst for water, but a longing for that Word which is really lifegiving and nourishing, and causes to grow to spiritual manhood him who is duly fed thereon" (NPNF 2 7:407–8). Luth: "For when the Word has been taken away, what else remains but the most terrible darkness of human reason which wants to be our mistress and which can teach nothing else than the doctrines of the demons? … There is no light except through faith in the Word" (AE 18:183). See pp 1081–83.
AMOS—NOTE ON 8:12 w*ander … run … seek*. Desperate but futile search for divine guidance. They will find no word of comfort or consolation.
AMOS—NOTE ON 8:13 lovely virgins and the young men. Coming judgment will be so severe that even those in the prime of life will perish. faint for thirst. Apparently recalls the drought threatened in 7:4.

AMOS—NOTE ON 8:14 Guilt of Samaria. Idolatrous worship of the golden calves at Bethel (see note, 3:14; cf Hos 8:5–6). See color map 1. Dan. Territory of Dan was also home to some of Israel's apostasy. Cf Jgs 18. As the Way of Beersheba lives. See note, 5:5. Oath for false gods and evil practices of Beersheba. A horned, cut-stone altar was discovered there at a "high place" or shrine. See note, Ex 27:2.

AMOS—NOTE ON Ch 8 Amos's vision of the basket of summer fruit points to the Lord's judgment, which will soon cut down the people of Israel for their idolatrous worship, their greed, and their callous mistreatment of their brethren. If we persist in doing evil and despising God's graciousness, we will receive the same reward—punishment from God and eternal separation from His life-giving Word. Treasure the Word! Our God is gracious and continually stands ready to receive the repentant heart and lift it up with His Word of forgiveness and peace in Jesus. • Lord, Your Word assures me that You will not despise a broken and contrite heart (Ps 51:17). Therefore, graciously receive my confession, and cover me with the forgiveness of Him who died and rose again. Amen.

AMOS—NOTE ON 9:1 the Lord standing beside the altar. Not only evokes a portion of a previous oracle (in 7:7) but, more important, sets the stage for Amos's climactic fifth vision. Strike the capitals … thresholds. The Lord will shake Israel's illicit shrines to their very foundations. Their pillars would fall, and then the entire structures would collapse, killing the priests and worshipers. capitals. Knobs at the tops of pillars holding up the roof of the shrine. thresholds. Foundation stones beneath the pillars. not one of them shall escape. Those fleeing the temple's collapse will be killed with the sword.

AMOS—NOTE ON 9:2 Sheol … heaven. Neither the deepest depth (see p 792) nor the highest height will provide a place of refuge. When God pours out His wrath, there is no place to hide (cf 2:14–16; Dt 32:22).

AMOS—NOTE ON 9:3 serpent. Sea monster with a deadly bite stands ready to serve as God's servant of destruction (Ps 74:13–14; Is 27:1).

AMOS—NOTE ON 9:4 if they go into captivity. Even exile in a foreign land will not provide an escape, for the Lord is ruler over all. fix My eyes upon them for evil. Usually, God "fixes" His eyes on His people in order to show favor (Ps 33:18; Jer 24:6; cf Gn 44:21). Here, however, this expression serves to convey the certainty of Israel's punishment.

AMOS—NOTE ON 9:5–6 Last of Amos's three hymnic doxologies of judgment. It begins and ends with God's personal name, Yahweh. See p 1227; see also note, Ex 3:14.
AMOS—NOTE ON 9:5 Lord God of hosts. See note, 3:13; see also p 1291. As Creator and Ruler of all, the Lord has more than sufficient power to carry out His threats, for He controls nature and guides human events. Accordingly, the Assyrians will soon accomplish God's purpose, albeit unwittingly, when they come and destroy the northern tribes. like the Nile. See note, 8:8.
AMOS—NOTE ON 9:6 upper chambers in the heavens … His vault upon the earth. Cosmic imagery emphasizes that God is Creator and Sustainer of all things. As Lord of the universe, nothing can escape His judgment (vv 1–4). Ter: "Christ has prepared for us this ascension into heaven" (ANF 3:462). pours them out. May refer to the great flood (Gn 6:9–9:17). Just as there was no escaping God's judgment in Noah's day, so also it shall be when a flood of Assyrian soldiers overwhelms the land (see note, 8:8).
AMOS—NOTE ON 9:7 Rhetorical questions. The Lord denies that apostate Israel enjoys a position of privilege before Him. By abandoning the covenant, the people have become no better than the Cushites, i.e., descendants of wicked Ham and brothers of the accursed Canaanites (Gn 9:18–25; 10:6). Tragically, most from the northern tribes would lose their privileged covenantal status. Caphtor. Likely modern Crete. See map, p 1396.
AMOS—NOTE ON 9:8 sinful kingdom … I will destroy. All that the Lord now sees in Israel is a wicked nation; they will be punished. I will not utterly destroy the house of Jacob. Yet there is still a word of hope. Since God is just, a faithful remnant will be spared. The messianic line will continue, and people will be saved through Christ. Cf Lv 26:44; Dt 4:31. On the remnant theme in the prophetic writings, cf Is 10:22; 11:1–2, 11; 37:30–32. See also p 1079.
AMOS—NOTE ON 9:9 as one shakes with a sieve. Continues remnant motif of v 8. God will separate the good from the bad. The evil will be punished with death, while the faithful remnant will be preserved for life. sieve. Constructed from a punctured copper bowl or from a screen made with plant fibers.
AMOS—NOTE ON 9:10 sinners. All those doing evil will perish. The final sentence of the vision states Israel's denial.

AMOS—NOTE ON 9:1–10 In his fifth and final vision report, Amos makes two main points: (1) Because Israel has abandoned the covenant, it has forfeited its claim to a privileged status before God. Thus the nation will be destroyed, leaving only a tiny remnant. If you insist on living life on your own terms, arrogantly spurning God's will for your life, you will face judgment. (2) Yet the Lord provides a means of escape: "If we confess our sins, He is faithful and just to forgive us our sins and to cleanse us from all unrighteousness" (1Jn 1:9). • "Have mercy on me, O God, according to Your steadfast love; according to Your abundant mercy blot out my transgressions. Wash me thoroughly from my iniquity, and cleanse me from my sin!" (Ps 51:1–2). We ask this in Jesus' name. Amen.

AMOS—NOTE ON 9:11 I will raise up … repair its breaches. Amos characterizes the royal house of David as having fallen into a weak and decrepit state. Yet the Lord promises to restore its fortunes for the sake of the covenant made with David (2Sm 7:8–16). This restoration of David's line finds its fulfillment in the advent of Jesus, the Messiah and Son of David. Luth: "This is the kingdom of David, from which the Messiah was to rule. … It had fallen, it had been broken. But when Christ came, it was revived" (AE 18:189). booth. Hbr sukkah, a temporary dwelling, a lowly hut.

AMOS—NOTE ON 9:12 remnant of Edom. Edomites were some of Israel's most ancient and hated enemies (see notes, 1:6, 11). Nevertheless, the Lord promises that a remnant of Edom, along with peoples of all nations, will be made part of the restored Davidic kingdom. Then the greatest promise made to Abraham would be fulfilled: through his offspring (Jesus), "all the families of the earth shall be blessed" (Gn 12:3). called by My name. In Christ, believers from every nation are freely granted the honor of being called by the Lord's name. In this connection, note how James uses this passage to prove that all people shall be welcomed into the Church through Baptism and faith in Jesus, without any need for circumcision and the observance of similar rite (Ac 15:1–35, esp 16–17). See "name," p 843.

AMOS—NOTE ON 9:13 overtake. Promised restoration will be so abundant that there will be no breaks in the plowing-seeding-reaping work cycle. drip sweet wine. Hyperbole. The blessings of the messianic kingdom will be overflowing (cf Mi 4:4).

AMOS—NOTE ON 9:14 I will restore the fortunes. God will reverse to well-being all that was destroyed. Thus, people will rebuild and dwell (cf 3:15; 5:11; 6:11), plant and drink (cf 4:9; 5:11), cultivate and eat (4:9). After the Messiah's advent, nations wasting away in unbelief, superstition, and wickedness will be "rebuilt" by the preaching of good news (Is 55:1–5; Zec 9:9–10), thus fulfilling the restoration promised here (cf Dt 30:3–5).

AMOS—NOTE ON 9:15 never again be uprooted. God's restored people are given another promise—they will dwell securely. This pledge constitutes a reversal of the threats appearing in 5:2, 27; 7:17. Those called into relationship with the Messiah will be "the planting of the LORD, that He may be glorified" (Is 61:3). Cf Jn 10:27–30; Rm 8:31–39; Php 1:6.

AMOS—NOTE ON 9:11–15 Following many oracles and visions threatening judgment, Amos's prophecy unexpectedly ends with a word of hope. A day of rich blessing is coming, for the Lord will fulfill His covenant promises, bring about restoration, and establish the eternal kingdom of His Messiah. If it is perilous to despise God's threats of judgment and punishment, as did the people of Amos's day, it is even more foolhardy to refuse such gracious promises as Jn 3:16. • "Blessed Lord, You have caused all Holy Scriptures to be written for our learning. Grant that we may so hear them, read, mark, learn, and inwardly digest them that, by patience and comfort of Your holy Word, we may embrace and ever hold fast the blessed hope of everlasting life; through Jesus Christ, our Lord." Amen. (LSB, p 308)

1 [1] The vision of Obadiah.

Edom Will Be Humbled

Thus says the Lord God concerning Edom:
We have heard a report from the Lord,
and a messenger has been sent among the nations:
"Rise up! Let us rise against her for battle!"
2† Behold, I will make you small among the nations;
you shall be utterly despised.[1] 3† The pride of your heart has deceived you, you who live in the clefts of the rock,[2]
in your lofty dwelling,
who say in your heart,
"Who will bring me down to the ground?"
4† Though you soar aloft like the eagle, though your nest is set among the stars,
from there I will bring you down,
declares the Lord.

5† If thieves came to you,
if plunderers came by night—
how you have been destroyed!—
would they not steal only enough for themselves?

If grape gatherers came to you, would they not leave gleanings?
6† How Esau has been pillaged,
his treasures sought out!
7† All your allies have driven you to your border;
those at peace with you have deceived you;
they have prevailed against you;

those who eat your bread[3] have set a trap beneath you—
you have[4] no understanding.

8 † Will I not on that day, declares the Lord, destroy the wise men out of Edom,
and understanding out of Mount Esau?
9 † And your mighty men shall be dismayed,
O Teman,
so that every man from Mount Esau will be cut off by slaughter.

Edom's Violence Against Jacob

10 Because of the violence done to your brother Jacob,
shame shall cover you,
and you shall be cut off forever.
11 On the day that you stood aloof, on the day that strangers carried off his wealth
and foreigners entered his gates and cast lots for Jerusalem,
you were like one of them.
12 But do not gloat over the day of your brother
in the day of his misfortune;
do not rejoice over the people of Judah
in the day of their ruin;
do not boast[1]
in the day of distress.
13 Do not enter the gate of my
people
in the day of their calamity; do not gloat over his disaster
in the day of his calamity; do not loot his wealth
in the day of his calamity.
14 Do not stand at the crossroads to cut off his fugitives;
do not hand over his survivors
in the day of distress.

The Day of the Lord Is Near

15† For the day of the Lord is near upon all the nations.
As you have done, it shall be done to you;
your deeds shall return on your own head.
16† For as you have drunk on my holy mountain,
so all the nations shall drink continually;
they shall drink and swallow,
and shall be as though they had never been.
17† But in Mount Zion there shall be those who escape,
and it shall be holy,
and the house of Jacob shall possess their own possessions.
18† The house of Jacob shall be a fire, and the house of Joseph a flame,
and the house of Esau stubble;
they shall burn them and consume them,
and there shall be no survivor for the house of Esau,
for the Lord has spoken.

The Kingdom of the Lord

19 † Those of the Negeb shall possess Mount Esau,
and those of the Shephelah shall possess the land of the Philistines;
they shall possess the land of Ephraim and the land of Samaria,
and Benjamin shall possess Gilead.
20 † The exiles of this host of the people of Israel shall possess the land of the Canaanites as far as Zarephath,
and the exiles of Jerusalem who are in Sepharad shall possess the cities of the Negeb.
21 † Saviors shall go up to Mount Zion to rule Mount Esau,
and the kingdom shall be the Lord's.

Introduction to Obadiah

Reading Obadiah

From the safety of a ruddy bluff, he surveys the desert floor, awaiting opportunity. At a great distance, he sees a line of travelers marching southward, wilting in the brutal summer heat. They have descended from the siege in Jerusalem, where Babylonian towers lifted warriors to the tops of the walls. As the walls came down, refugees poured forth. Though these refugees lacked provisions, they fled in any direction a break in the line of soldiers allowed.

The soaring “eagles” of Edom—likely black, bearded, or griffon vultures—properly represented Edom’s soldiers for the prophet Obadiah. Like vultures, the Edomites preyed upon the desperate Judeans who fled from Jerusalem. And even though the Edomites dwelt securely in their rocky kingdom, carved into the cliffs of Mount Seir, the Lord’s judgment would reach them, and He would rule over them.

Luther on Obadiah

Obadiah does not specify the time when he lived. However his prophecy applies to the time of the Babylonian captivity, for he comforts the people of Judah that they shall return to Zion.

His prophecy is directed especially against Edom, or Esau, which bore a special and everlasting hatred against the people of Israel and Judah, as usually happens when friends turn against each other; especially when brothers fall into hatred and hostility against each other, such hostility knows no measure.

So here the Edomites hated the Jewish people beyond all measure, and had no greater joy than to see the captivity of the Jews, boasting and mocking them in their misery and wretchedness. Almost all the prophets denounced the Edomites because of their hateful wickedness. Even Psalm 137[:7] complains of them and says, "Remember, O Lord, against the Edomites the day of Jerusalem, how they said, 'Rase it, rase it! Down to its foundations!' "

This hurts beyond measure when men mock and laugh at those who are wretched and troubled, defying them and boasting against them. It constitutes a great and strong assault [Anfechtung] upon their faith in God and a powerful incentive to despair and unbelief. Therefore God here appoints a special prophet against such vexatious mockers and tempters, and comforts those who are troubled, strengthening their faith with threats and denunciations against such hostile Edomites—those who mock the wretched—and with promises and assurances of future help and rescue. In such distress this is truly a needed comfort, and [the one who brings it] a veritable Obadiah.

At the end he prophesies of Christ's kingdom, that it shall not be at Jerusalem only, but everywhere. For he mixes all the nations together, Ephraim, Benjamin, Gilead, the Philistines, the Canaanites, Zarephath. This cannot be understood to refer to the temporal kingdom of Israel, for according to the law of Moses these tribes and people had to remain separate and distinct in the land. (AE 35:321–22)

For more of Luther's insights on this Book, see Lectures on Obadiah (AE 18:191–204).

Challenges for Readers

Date and Authorship. Obadiah is closely related to Jeremiah's oracle against Edom (cf Ob 1–6; Jer 49:9–10, 14–16; Ob 1 refers to "we" and "a messenger"). Obadiah may have modified Jeremiah's oracle for a specific use. This thematic and literary relationship helps us date Obadiah. The Book fits best in the first half of the exilic period, c 587–555 BC; the earliest date for its writing is the fall of Judah and Jerusalem to the Babylonians (587 BC), while the latest date must be before the campaign of Nabonidus against Edom (553 BC).

Blessings for Readers

Little Obadiah would be easy to overlook. However, carefully consider how this short prophecy is emblematic for all the OT Prophetic Books, emphasizing the Lord's reign on behalf of His people, which He would extend to other nations. This theme anticipated the coming of Jesus, whose merciful rule creates the Church, which now encircles the globe.

Study Notes

OBADIAH—NOTE ON 1 vision. From Hbr chazah, "to see." Occurs elsewhere in titles of prophetic writings as a technical term for divine revelation (Is 1:1; Na 1:1). Obadiah. "Servant (or worshiper) of the Lord." A dozen different men in the OT were so named. Oddly, there is no additional information about this particular prophet who delivered God's message in the years following the fall of Jerusalem (587 BC). Thus says the Lord GOD. This message against an enemy of Israel carried God's authority and was not a matter of Obadiah's wishful thinking. See p 1080. Edom. Located in and around the Seir mountain range south of the Salt Sea and east of the Great Rift Valley, it was 110 mi long, 30 mi wide, SE of Judah. See color map 2. The Edomites were descendants of Esau (v 6), Jacob's brother. God gave Jacob a new name, Israel, and his descendants became the nation of Israel. Edom had been hostile toward Israel for centuries. We. Obadiah and perhaps other prophets of the Lord and their audience. messenger. To achieve His purpose as ruler of history, God used an unidentified messenger to urge nations to attack Edom.

OBADIAH—NOTE ON 2 make you small. God is about to cut Edom down to size (cf Is 34:5–15; Jer 49:7–22 for a description of the severity of God's judgment against Edom).

OBADIAH—NOTE ON 3 live in the clefts of the rock. Hbr sela', "rock," also the name of one of Edom's two principal cities. Edom was a rugged, mountainous territory that any invading army would find difficult to attack. This led to complacency and a false sense of security.

OBADIAH—NOTE ON 4 soar aloft like the eagle. Suggests Edom's pride at her apparent power and invincibility. set among the stars. Some of Edom's fortresses and military defenses were set in high, inaccessible places, yet still within God's reach. I will bring you down. Blunt statement answered Edom's rhetorical question in v 3. The Lord asked His own rhetorical questions in v 5.

OBADIAH—NOTE ON 5 In contrast to what thieves might take, Edom's destruction would be complete despite her supposed security in mountain strongholds (Jer 49:9–10). steal only enough for themselves? Plunderers by night would not take everything out of a house, but only what they wanted most. leave gleanings? Grape gatherers did not harvest the entire crop but

OBADIAH—NOTE ON 6 Esau. Ancestral father of Edomites (v 1). By using Esau's name as a synonym for Edom, Obadiah recalled the history of strife and contention between Esau and Jacob (Gn 25:19–34; 27) and between the nations of Edom and Israel, which descended from them.

OBADIAH—NOTE ON 7 allies. Nearby nations, esp Babylon, with whom Edom collaborated in the attack on Jerusalem in 587 BC. These former friends will now turn against Edom. This prophecy was fulfilled when King Nabonidus of Babylon laid waste to Edom in 553/2 BC (cf Mal 1:4). those who eat your bread. Not true allies but mere "companions" (Lat cum, "with," and panis, "bread"). Eating together implied a covenant of friendship, making an attack by former allies even more stunning.

OBADIAH—NOTE ON 9 Neither Edom's wise men nor her mighty men could save her from God's hand. Teman. Possibly a village in Edom, though the name might refer to Edom as a whole. See note, Jb 2:11.

OBADIAH—NOTE ON 1–9 Esau and his descendants have been arrogant and worldly since Esau sold his birthright to Jacob for a bowl of stew. The nation has a long record of hostility toward God's people Israel and, by extension, toward God. Obadiah announces God's judgment on Edom's behavior. Yet it is easy to forget that God, in His mercy, has given Edom a long time to repent and come to Him. The centuries that have passed demonstrate God's patience with Edom. God continues patiently to offer our world His grace and postpones judgment so that more people may repent (2Pt 3:9). "Now is the favorable time; behold, now is the day of salvation" (2Co 6:2) • Lord, Your grace is a treasure. May I never test Your patience by unrepentance. Amen.

OBADIAH—NOTE ON 10 your brother Jacob. Edom had violated what should have been a brotherly relationship with (Israel) Jacob.

OBADIAH—NOTE ON 11 On the day. Probably refers to when the Babylonians captured Jerusalem in 587 BC. his. Jacob's (v 10). foreigners entered ... one of them. King Nebuchadnezzar of Babylon besieged Jerusalem and finally broke through the gates, burned the temple, and tore down the walls (2Ki 25:1–10). Ps 137:7 implicates Edom in this attack, making her as guilty as Babylon.

OBADIAH—NOTE ON 12–14 do not. Eight times Edom is warned not to gloat over or take advantage of Judah's downfall.

OBADIAH—NOTE ON 12 over the day. Edom had rejoiced over Judah's day of judgment without realizing that her day of reckoning was also coming, a day all nations will face. Cf Is 13–24. Ambr: "Grant that so often as the sin of any one who has fallen is made known to me I may suffer with him, and not chide him proudly, but mourn and weep" (NPNF 2 10:354).

OBADIAH—NOTE ON 13 Edom apparently followed the Babylonian army into Jerusalem to help loot the city.

OBADIAH—NOTE ON 14 fugitives ... survivors. After first standing by and gloating over Jerusalem's downfall and then plundering the city, Edom helped Babylon locate and capture the survivors who tried to escape.

OBADIAH—NOTE ON 10–14 After years of indifference punctuated by hostility, Edom faces a choice when God sends Babylon to punish Israel. Edom could show the compassion Jesus later described in Mt 25:34–40. Instead, Edom chooses destructive, self-serving action. The underlying spiritual hostility that led to such a choice seals Edom's fate. God gives us similar opportunities today (Eph 2:10) either to participate in His good work of compassion or turn our backs on those in need. He has already extended His compassion toward us in the sacrifice and blessing of Jesus. • Dear Jesus, use me as Your agent to help those who are hurting and have suffered misfortune. Relieve their distress, and give them hope. Amen.

OBADIAH—NOTE ON 15 the day of the LORD is near. Edom's brother Jacob had experienced the day of judgment (v 12). The Lord's great day of judgment would finally dawn for all nations (Zep 1:14–16). your deeds shall return on your own head. The hurt that Edom inflicted would now be inflicted on her, by the justice of "an eye for an eye" (Lv 24:20; Dt 19:21). This reversal theme runs through all of Ob (7, 15–21).

OBADIAH—NOTE ON 16 drunk on My holy mountain. Jerusalem invaders drank a cup of triumph as they gloated over their victory. God would soon serve them His cup of wrath. See note, Is 51:17. as though they had never been. God's wrath will destroy nations so that they will no longer exist. For a nation to lose its place in history is much worse than a military defeat.

OBADIAH—NOTE ON 17 Mount Zion. See p 844. In contrast to the devastation wreaked on Edom and the nations, God provides a place of refuge for His people. escape. Obadiah anticipated the faithful remnant God saved from destruction. See "remnant," p 1080. holy. God's judgment against Edom and other nations will cleanse the land, and His presence with His people will make it holy. In the largest sense, Obadiah looked forward to God purifying and restoring all things at the end of history. See p 7. These prophecies describe God's saving intentions rather than setting a timetable for events to happen. their own possessions. Israel will once again enjoy the covenantal blessings God had promised as the inheritance to Jacob. See "portion," p 7.

OBADIAH—NOTE ON 18 house of Jacob ... house of Esau. Language of reversal continues (see notes, vv 1, 4). God will use His faithful people, descended from Jacob, to consume the descendants of Esau. for the LORD has spoken. Although Obadiah's message must have seemed unlikely at the time, the closing statement puts God's stamp of certainty on it.

OBADIAH—NOTE ON 15–18 People are interested in spiritual things, but many remain confused about God's judgment and mercy. Obadiah cuts through the fog to paint a stark picture in these four verses. God will judge nations and individuals according to their deeds, and all will come up short (Rm 3:9–20). However, God in Christ provided the righteousness needed to stand in His holy presence. All who believe His saving promise will receive refuge and deliverance from sin, death, and the power of the devil. • Heavenly Father, my only refuge, strengthen my faith and lead me to show compassion, especially to those who need to hear the Gospel of forgiveness. Amen.

OBADIAH—NOTE ON 19–20 shall possess. This verb is repeated six times, emphasizing the reversal of fortunes for God's people, who will again possess territory they had lost. See note, v 17.

OBADIAH—NOTE ON 19 See color map 2. Negeb. Wilderness area south of Judah. Mount Esau. Mountainous area southeast of Salt Sea. Shephelah. Low foothill area between Judah and Philistia. land of the Philistines. Coastal plain along the Great Sea. Ephraim. Major territory of the former Northern Kingdom of Israel, later called Samaria. Benjamin. Tribe centered just north of Jerusalem. Gilead. Upland area east of Jordan River.

OBADIAH—NOTE ON 20 exiles. Faithful remnant of God's people who returned from the Babylonian captivity. See "remnant," p 1080. Zarephath.

City on the coast of the Great Sea, northwest of the Sea of Chinnereth. Sepharad. Possibly Sardis in Asia Minor or a site in Assyria.

OBADIAH—NOTE ON 21 Saviors. Hbr moshi'im. Cf Jgs 3:9. God will give His people security from their enemies by providing them with good rulers. Greater fulfillment is in the new covenant, when ministers of the Word give believers security against spiritual foes. Luth: "He calls leaders 'saviors,' as we find in the Book of Judges (Judg. 3:9), where He sent them many saviors, that is, leaders to lead them and take charge of them, to be in the lead if they ever had to fight with enemies. So here the apostles and other disciples are called 'saviors,' men who by preaching that joyful Gospel message have certainly freed them from all the assaults of Satan and from the gates of hell; men who have judged them in faith, who have ruled them with just judgment, and thus have prepared the eternal kingdom for the Lord" (AE 18:204). the kingdom shall be the LORD'S. In the end, God will rule all, and His people will serve and worship Him in perfect peace. See pp 1565–66.

OBADIAH—NOTE ON 19–21 Throughout history, God has used people such as Obadiah to speak His words, and He has used nations such as Edom and Israel as object lessons. Edom paid the price for spiritual arrogance and indifference; Israel was punished for unfaithfulness. However, God remained faithful to His people. He kept His promises and preserved a faithful remnant. There are times when we also are spiritually arrogant and deserve punishment. But God keeps calling us to repentance and to believe His promise of salvation. To all who listen to His Word, He has given the privilege of serving as witnesses to point others to His grace in the one Savior, Jesus Christ. • Lord of the Church, the kingdom, the power, and the glory are Yours. Move me to be Your witness and so direct others to Your kingdom. Amen.

Jonah Flees the Presence of the Lord

1 [1]‡‡†††Now the word of the Lord came to Jonah the son of Amittai, saying, [2]†††“Arise, go to Nineveh, that great city, and call out against it, for their evil[1] has come up before me.” [3]†††But Jonah rose to flee to Tarshish from the presence of the Lord. He went down to Joppa and found a ship going to Tarshish. So he paid the fare and went on board, to go with them to Tarshish, away from the presence of the Lord.

[4]††† But the Lord hurled a great wind upon the sea, and there was a mighty tempest on the sea, so that the ship threatened to break up. [5]†††Then the mariners were afraid, and each cried out to his god. And they hurled the cargo that was in the ship into the sea to lighten it for them. But Jonah had gone down into the inner part of the ship and had lain down and was fast asleep. [6]†††So the captain came and said to him, “What do you mean, you sleeper? Arise, call out to your god! Perhaps the god will give a thought to us, that we may not perish.”

Jonah Is Thrown into the Sea

7 ‡†††† And they said to one another, “Come, let us cast lots, that we may know on whose account this evil has come upon us.” So they cast lots, and the lot fell on Jonah. 8 ††† Then they said to him, “Tell us on whose account this evil has come upon us. What is your occupation? And where do you come from? What is your country? And of what people are you?” 9 ††† And he said to them, “I am a Hebrew, and I fear the Lord, the God of heaven, who made the sea and the dry land.” 10 †† Then the men were exceedingly afraid and said to him, “What is this that you have done!” For the men knew that he was fleeing from the presence of the Lord, because he had told them.

11 † Then they said to him, “What shall we do to you, that the sea may quiet down for us?” For the sea grew more and more tempestuous. 12 † He said to them, “Pick me up and hurl me into the sea; then the sea will quiet down for you, for I know it is because of me that this great tempest has come upon you.” 13 † Nevertheless, the men rowed hard[1] to get back to dry land, but they could not, for the sea grew more and more tempestuous against them. 14 †† Therefore they called out to the Lord, “O Lord, let us not perish for this man’s life, and lay not on us innocent blood, for you, O Lord, have done as it pleased you.” 15 † So they picked up Jonah and hurled him into the sea, and the sea ceased from its raging. 16 † Then the men feared the Lord exceedingly, and they offered a sacrifice to the Lord and made vows.

A Great Fish Swallows Jonah

17 †† [2] And the Lord appointed[3] a great fish to swallow up Jonah. And Jonah was in the belly of the fish three days and three nights.

Jonah's Prayer

2 [1]Then Jonah prayed to the LORD his God from the belly of the fish,[2]saying,

"I called out to the LORD, out of my distress,
and he answered me;
out of the belly of Sheol I cried,
and you heard my voice.
[3] For you cast me into the deep,
into the heart of the seas,
and the flood surrounded me;
all your waves and your billows passed over me.
[4] Then I said, 'I am driven away from your sight;
yet I shall again look upon your holy temple.'
[5] The waters closed in over me to take my life;
the deep surrounded me;
weeds were wrapped about my head
[6] at the roots of the mountains.
I went down to the land
whose bars closed upon me forever;
yet you brought up my life from the pit,
O LORD my God.
[7] When my life was fainting away,
I remembered the LORD,
and my prayer came to you,
into your holy temple.
[8] Those who pay regard to vain idols forsake their hope of steadfast love.
[9] But I with the voice of thanksgiving will sacrifice to you;

what I have vowed I will pay.
Salvation belongs to the Lord!”

10 And the Lord spoke to the fish, and it vomited Jonah out upon the dry land.

Jonah Goes to Nineveh

3 [1]Then the word of the LORD came to Jonah the second time, saying,[2]"Arise, go to Nineveh, that great city, and call out against it the message that I tell you." [3]So Jonah arose and went to Nineveh, according to the word of the LORD. Now Nineveh was an exceedingly great city,[1] three days' journey in breadth.[2] [4]Jonah began to go into the city, going a day's journey. And he called out, "Yet forty days, and Nineveh shall be overthrown!" [5] And the people of Nineveh believed God. They called for a fast and put on sackcloth, from the greatest of them to the least of them.

The People of Nineveh Repent

6 †The word reached[1] the king of Nineveh, and he arose from his throne, removed his robe, covered himself with sackcloth, and sat in ashes. 7And he issued a proclamation and published through Nineveh, “By the decree of the king and his nobles: Let neither man nor beast, herd nor flock, taste anything. Let them not feed or drink water, 8but let man and beast be covered with sackcloth, and let them call out mightily to God. Let everyone turn from his evil way and from the violence that is in his hands. 9 Who knows? God may turn and relent and turn from his fierce anger, so that we may not perish.”

10 †When God saw what they did, how they turned from their evil way, God relented of the disaster that he had said he would do to them, and he did not do it.

Jonah's Anger and the Lord's Compassion

4 [1]†But it displeased Jonah exceedingly,[2] and he was angry. [2]†And he prayed to the Lord and said, "O Lord, is not this what I said when I was yet in my country? That is why I made haste to flee to Tarshish; for I knew that you are a gracious God and merciful, slow to anger and abounding in steadfast love, and relenting from disaster. [3]† Therefore now, O Lord, please take my life from me, for it is better for me to die than to live." [4]†And the Lord said, "Do you do well to be angry?"

[5]‡†Jonah went out of the city and sat to the east of the city and made a booth for himself there. He sat under it in the shade, till he should see what would become of the city. [6]†Now the Lord God appointed a plant[1] and made it come up over Jonah, that it might be a shade over his head, to save him from his discomfort.[2] So Jonah was exceedingly glad because of the plant.[7]†But when dawn came up the next day, God appointed a worm that attacked the plant, so that it withered. [8]†When the sun rose, God appointed a scorching east wind, and the sun beat down on the head of Jonah so that he was faint. And he asked that he might die and said, "It is better for me to die than to live." [9]†But God said to Jonah, "Do you do well to be angry for the plant?" And he said, "Yes, I do well to be angry, angry enough to die." [10]†And the Lord said, "You pity the plant, for which you did not labor, nor did you make it grow, which came into being in a night and perished in a night. [11]†And should not I pity Nineveh, that great city, in which there are more than 120,000 persons who do not know their right hand from their left, and also much cattle?"

Introduction to Jonah

Reading Jonah

The ship's rounded prow, made from sturdy juniper, cuts the water's surface and skirts past a float of cedar logs from Lebanon. Through a porthole on the lower deck, a Phoenician sailor works his oar, digging into the harbor and pushing northward toward open sea. In racks beside the sailor stand tall amphora jars, filled with Israelite wine. The 12 tons of cargo hold the ship low in the water. As the ship passes the rocky outcrop, which defines Joppa's harbor, its main sail of goats' hair rises and pushes the ship to the west. Sparkling spray and dolphins leap before the prow, bringing the sailors joy and an omen of good travel.

The prophet Jonah lay in the belly of a ship he boarded at Joppa and was rocked to sleep. But his peace was false. His journey grew more and more arduous, for a westbound ship took him directly opposite from where he would end up: on the border of the Assyrian Kingdom. After landfall, he would still have a 400-mile journey to reach the great city of Nineveh, the object of God's wrath and His mercy.

Luther on Jonah

As Jerome indicates, there are some who contend that this prophet was the son of the widow at Zarephath near Sidon, who fed Elijah in the famine, as described in I Kings 17[:8–24] and Luke 4[:26]. The reason they give is that Jonah [1:1] here calls himself a son of Amittai, that is, a son of the True One, because his mother said to Elijah when he had raised him from the dead, "Now I know that the word of your mouth is true" [I Kings 17:24].

Let anyone believe this who will; I do not believe it. Jonah's father's name was Amittai, in Latin Verax, in German Wahrhaftig; he was from Gath-hepher, a town in the land of the tribe of Zebulun, Joshua 19[:13]. For it is written in II Kings 14[:25], "King Jeroboam restored again the border of Israel from Hamath as far as the Sea of the Arabah, according to the word of the Lord, the God of Israel, which he spoke by his servant Jonah, the son of Amittai, the prophet of Gath-hepher." Moreover the widow at Zarephath was a Gentile, as Christ indicates in Luke 4[:25–26]. But Jonah here in chapter 1[:9] confesses that he is a Hebrew.

So we gather then that this Jonah lived at the time of King Jeroboam [II], the great grandson of King Jehu, at the time when King Uzziah reigned in Judah. This was also the time at which the prophets Hosea, Amos, and Joel were living in the same kingdom of Israel in other places and towns. From this we can readily gather what a splendid and valuable man this Jonah was in the kingdom of Israel. God did great things through him, for it was through his preaching that King Jeroboam was so successful and won back all that Hazael, king of Syria, had taken from the kingdom of Israel [II Kings 10:32–33; 13:3, 7; 14:25].

But greater than all he did in his own nation were his attacks upon the great and mighty kingdom of Assyria and his fruitful preaching among the Gentiles; among them he accomplished more than could have been accomplished among his own people with many sermons. It was as though God willed to demonstrate by him the word of Isaiah, "He who has not heard, shall hear it," as an illustration of the fact that they who have the word richly despise it thoroughly, and they who cannot have it accept it gladly. Christ himself says, in Matthew 21[:43], “The kingdom of God will be taken away from you and given to the nations producing the fruits of it.” (AE 35:323–24)

For more of Luther’s insights on this Book, see Lectures on Jonah (AE 19:1–104).

Challenges for Readers

History or Parable. Critical scholars regard the story of Jonah as a fictional lesson, chiefly because of the miraculous provision of the "fish," by which God rescued Jonah (see note, 1:17). However, every other aspect of the story conforms to the historical setting. When Jesus cited the story (Mt 12:39–42), He did not treat it as a parable but as history.

The Sign of Jonah. Mentioned three times in the Gospels (Mt 12:39; 16:4; Lk 11:29), the "sign" does not refer exclusively to Jonah's deliverance from the fish, which acts for Jonah's punishment and for his deliverance. When Jesus referred to "the sign of Jonah," He meant the paradox that He would soon be under both His Father's judgment and His Father's salvation. Based on Mt 12:40, the parallels are these: (1) Jonah's descent into Sheol and our Lord's experience of death, and (2) Jonah being "driven away" from Yahweh's presence (2:4) and Jesus' crying out on the cross when the Father abandoned Him (Mt 27:46). Jonah and Jesus had to go through judgment, condemnation, and death before they experienced new life.

Blessings for Readers

As you read Jonah, reflect on God's purposes for your life. Day by day we make decisions and plan our future, but the prophet Jonah describes just how far the Almighty will go to fulfill His plans for us and through us. Turn to Him in prayer, seeking His blessing. As you pray, remember that He is a "gracious God and merciful, slow to anger and abounding in steadfast love" (4:2).

Study Notes

JONAH—NOTE ON 1:1 word of the Lord came. Typical introduction to OT prophecy. See p 1080. Jonah the son of Amittai. Jonah means "dove"; Amittai means "loyal" or "faithful." Jonah proclaimed the Lord's decision to allow Israel to expand its borders under King Jeroboam II (793–753 BC). Cf 2Ki 14:25.

JONAH—NOTE ON 1:2 Nineveh. Capital of Assyria, a powerful, ruthless nation more than 500 mi NE of Jonah's hometown in Israel. See map, p 1479. Assyria posed a threat to the entire region including Israel. great city. Nineveh's fortified wall was c 8 mi in circumference. call out against it. Proclaim God's impending judgment. evil. Hbr term used nine times in a variety of ways. come up before Me. Later, Nahum would charge Nineveh with plotting against the Lord, wanton cruelty, prostitution, materialism, and arrogance. See pp 1498–99.

JONAH—NOTE ON 1:3 Jonah rose to flee. Response was a jarring aberration for a servant of the Lord. Scripture nowhere reports that any other prophet disobeyed God's call. Tarshish. Possibly Tarsus in Asia Minor or Tartessus, a mining city in southwest Spain, both far removed from Nineveh. the presence of the Lord. Repeated twice in v 3 and again in v 10 to emphasize Jonah's misconception that somehow he could escape from the Lord by getting out of Israel. Joppa. Seaport on the Great Sea, the closest point of departure for Jonah. See map, p 1479. Joppa was later Peter's point of departure to bring the Gospel to the Gentiles (Ac 10:5). paid the fare. Ships routinely carried passengers as well as cargo.

JONAH—NOTE ON 1:4 God knew Jonah's heart and saw his disobedience. He sent a storm to intercept his getaway.

JONAH—NOTE ON 1:5 each cried out to his god. These experienced sailors realized they needed supernatural help to survive this unusual storm, showing more religious fervor than Jonah did. Luth: "Reason is unable to identify God properly; it cannot ascribe the Godhead to the One who is entitled to it exclusively. It knows that there is a God, but it does not know who or which is the true God. … Reason never finds the true God, but it finds the devil or its own concept of God, ruled by the devil. So there is a vast difference between knowing that there is a God and knowing who or what God is. Nature knows the former—it is inscribed in everybody's heart;

the latter is taught only by the Holy Spirit" (AE 19:54–55). hurled the cargo. Extreme step reflects the storm's severity and the crew's desperation. inner part. Probably a lower deck area set aside for crew or passengers. fast asleep. Jonah may have been rebelliously indifferent or perhaps depressed from the stress of running away from God.

JONAH—NOTE ON 1:6 Arise. Same word the Lord used to call Jonah (v 2; 3:2). Perhaps the god will give a thought to us. The captain's hope was similar to that expressed later by the king of Nineveh (3:9). The captain and crew worshiped many gods and would seek help from every available one.

JONAH—NOTE ON 1:1–6 Jonah turns his back on God, but God stops Jonah from his folly. God could punish Jonah or send someone else to Nineveh. However, God loves Jonah so much that He sends a storm to interrupt his flight and to eventually bring him back into a healthy relationship with his Savior. Our own disobedience merits punishment, but God in His love and mercy works to bring us to repentance and a restored relationship rather than closing the door on us. • Loving Father, hold me close and forgive my rebellion. If I try to slip away, please block my path. Rescue me from my folly, and restore to me the joy of salvation. Amen.

JONAH—NOTE ON 1:7 cast lots. See note, Jsh 14:2. The crew wanted to know whom to blame for such a tempestuous storm. the lot fell on Jonah. God, who controlled the storm, also controlled the outcome of casting lots. Jonah thought he could run away from the Lord's presence, but God demonstrated His reign over every detail of the situation.

JONAH—NOTE ON 1:8 Crew peppered Jonah with questions, probing him to understand why this evil had come on them.

JONAH—NOTE ON 1:9 Hebrew. See pp 1905–6. fear the LORD. See p 1001. Jonah's confession shows that he knew the true God but had disobeyed Him. Jonah described God as Creator and Lord, placing Him above the pagan gods that the sailors worshiped. Paul used a similar approach to introduce God to pagans in Athens (Ac 17:24).

JONAH—NOTE ON 1:10 Sailors were justly astounded at Jonah's audacity in trying to run from the God he had just described as Lord of the entire earth.

JONAH—NOTE ON 1:11 Jonah had so impressed the sailors with his confession and disclosures that they asked him how to calm the storm.

JONAH—NOTE ON 1:12 hurl me into the sea. In resignation, Jonah was ready to forfeit his life so the crew could be saved. This also shows Jonah's personal distress (see note, 4:3).

JONAH—NOTE ON 1:13 rowed hard. Not wanting to sacrifice Jonah's life, the sailors made one last attempt to return to shore. It seems the ship was still close to shore when the storm struck.

JONAH—NOTE ON 1:14–16 Jonah's simple confession of faith (v 9) led these pagan sailors to realize that the Lord had sent the storm. They directed their prayers to the only One who could intervene and save them. Interpreters differ on whether the sailors were truly converted or simply added the Lord (Yahweh) to their list of deities, as clearly happened even in Israel (see notes, 1Ki 11:4, 5, 7).

JONAH—NOTE ON 1:14 called. See p 842. innocent blood. Ironically, Jonah did not care enough about the pagans in Nineveh to preach to them, but the pagan sailors cared enough about him that they did not want to be responsible for his death.

JONAH—NOTE ON 1:15 Confirms God's control as well as Jonah's analysis of the situation (v 12).

JONAH—NOTE ON 1:16 feared the LORD. Just as later the people of Nineveh "believed God" (3:5), so these heathen sailors reverenced the Lord. See p 1001. sacrifice. Sign of thanks to the Lord offered after the crew got back to shore. vows. Religious commitment; cf Nu 30. Jonah concluded his prayer in the belly of the fish with a similar commitment (2:9). Luth: "What pure, God-fearing, and Christian consciences these people now have! The same people who prior to this did not hesitate to commit murder and who were entirely indifferent to obeying God now proceed to make sacrifices to God and to make vows. The various gods on whom they had called earlier are all forgotten. And this was all effected by Jonah and his dying. A servant of God must prove himself so useful that there is nothing about him that does not accrue to the benefit and the welfare of others. We stated earlier that the fear of God is just another term for the service of God; for true service of God is to fear and to honor God" (AE 19:69).

JONAH—NOTE ON 1:7–16 God uses Jonah's disobedience as a learning opportunity for him and for the ship's crew. Jonah has an opportunity to compare his indifference and hostility toward Nineveh with the sailors' concern for his life. And the sailors are able to learn of the true God through Jonah's confession of faith and God's control of the sea.

Amazingly, even when we break God's Law and receive punishment, He often turns the situation into a learning experience and an opportunity for us to confess and praise Him. "Give thanks to the LORD, for He is good, for His steadfast love endures forever" (Ps 136:1). • O Lord, You bring good out of evil circumstances. Lead me to confess Your name before others and testify to Your goodness. Amen.

JONAH—NOTE ON 1:17 appointed. Hbr manah, "to reckon," "number," or "ordain"; favorite term in Jonah. God not only designated this sea creature to rescue Jonah but also later appointed a plant, a worm, and a scorching east wind to further Jonah's schooling (4:6–8). Iren: "He patiently suffered Jonah to be swallowed by the whale, not that he should be swallowed up and perish altogether, but that, having been cast out again, he might be the more subject to God" (ANF 1:449). great fish. We are not told specifically what kind of sea creature God selected to rescue Jonah. Most often people think of a whale, because the animal would need to be very large. Israelites, like other ancient people, did not use the modern classifications for animals (e.g., distinguishing ocean mammals from fish). Their classifications tended to focus on an animal's habitat and locomotion (Gn 1:20–25; 9:2). Some interpreters saw in this beast an emblem of our eternal struggle. Iren: "From the beginning, did God permit man to be swallowed up by the great whale [Satan], who was the author of transgression" (ANF 1:449–50). swallow up Jonah. This miracle causes some interpreters to regard the Book of Jonah as a saga, fiction, or folklore. When Jesus referred to the "sign of Jonah," there is no indication that He considered this to be a parable, legend, allegory, or myth. Jesus spoke of the Book of Jonah as historical (as He likewise spoke of Solomon or of the queen of the South). three days and three nights. Jesus compared Jonah's three-day stay in the belly of the fish to His own stay in the heart of the earth prior to His resurrection.

JONAH—NOTE ON 1:17 Jonah thinks he will die by drowning in the sea, and that should be the outcome of his refusal to obey God. But God has other plans for Jonah. The great fish saves him from drowning and gives him pause to consider his situation and his role in carrying out God's will. Our life is like a tapestry woven by God. We are effective at making holes in that tapestry when we sin and follow our own will. God does not always protect us from ourselves so as to make the holes disappear, but He is skilled at reweaving the loose threads that we create and giving us a chance to move on with Him and His purposes. • God of grace, thank You for saving me, Your undeserving child. Give me eyes of faith to trust Your guidance and direction in my life. Amen.

JONAH—NOTE ON 1:1 Jonah prayed. Psalm of thanksgiving recounting how the Lord heard his cry for help and rescued him from death.

JONAH—NOTE ON 1:2 called. See p 842. answered me. God saved Jonah from drowning, but Jonah had no way of knowing that he would escape the fish. It took faith to believe that God's salvation included restored life for him. Sheol. Place of the dead. Jonah's descent into the sea was like descending into Sheol, the grave. See p 792.

JONAH—NOTE ON 1:3 You cast me into the deep. Jonah recognized that his brush with death by drowning was God's doing.

JONAH—NOTE ON 1:4 driven away from Your sight. Jonah felt forsaken by God, just as Jesus felt separation from His Father while on the cross (Mt 27:46). I shall again look upon Your holy temple. Jonah was confident that he would live and have opportunity to worship at Zion once more.

JONAH—NOTE ON 1:5 waters closed in over me. Graphic description of drowning.

JONAH—NOTE ON 1:6 roots of the mountains. Jonah sunk deeply. bars. Gates were barred to lock them securely. Jonah felt the gates of death closing behind him. the pit. Expression for Sheol, the grave. See p 792.

JONAH—NOTE ON 1:7 I remembered the LORD. At the last moment, Jonah turned to the Lord, who alone could save him. into Your holy temple. Jonah had run from God, but now he longed for God to hear his prayer. See note, 1Ki 8:44; cf 1Ki 8:22–53. Luth: "First God grants grace and spirit to cheer the heart, He reminds it of God's mercy, dismissing thoughts touching on God's wrath, turning the heart from God the Judge to God the Father. But this does not lie in the power of man; for Jonah says here that his soul fainted within him and that faintheartedness was the strength and power of his soul. But the fact that he thinks about himself and begins to have faith is not the work of his soul. The Spirit, and no one else, can bring the Lord to mind. And when it comes to pass that the heart is reminded of the Lord, a new light flares up, life again raises its head, and the heart is emboldened to cry in supplication; and thus its petition also surely finds an ear" (AE 19:79).

JONAH—NOTE ON 1:8 vain. Lacking reality or value. See note, Ec 1:2. The prayers of Jonah's shipmates addressed to idols were worthless. "All confidence is empty, except confidence in mercy. Mercy delivers us; our own merits, our own efforts, do not" (Ap V 209). steadfast love. Idol worshipers fail to experience God's loyal love, which Jonah had again tasted. See p 843.

JONAH—NOTE ON 1:9 with the voice of thanksgiving will sacrifice. Jonah's prayer is just such a sacrifice of thanksgiving to the Lord. Many psalms are offerings of thanksgiving (e.g., Ps 100; 136; 138). vowed. It is not unusual for a person in dire straits to make a pledge to serve the Lord in some special way. Perhaps Jonah's vow was to obey if God should again call him; cf Nu 30. Salvation belongs to the LORD! Statement sums up Book of Jonah. Salvation is God's possession, which He freely bestows. Jonah experienced that for himself and also saw how the Lord saved the sailors and would spare the people of Nineveh. See "salvation," p 843.

JONAH—NOTE ON 1:10 the LORD spoke to the fish. God rules over all creation, including animals and fish. His Word, as at creation (Gn 1:20–22), accomplishes His purposes. The Lord who teaches donkeys to speak (Nu 22:28) likewise teaches fish to listen. vomited. The fish could have become Jonah's tomb, but at God's command it instead provided transportation back to dry land. Though the event was likely terrifying for Jonah, his account has a humorous ring.

JONAH—NOTE ON Ch 2 Jonah deserves death, not deliverance. Yet the Lord graciously rescues him by miraculous intervention. Jonah recognizes the greatness of the Lord's compassion and expresses his thanks in prayer. The apostle Paul, like Jonah, once felt that he had "received the sentence of death," but the God "who raises the dead" delivered him (2Co 1:8–10). All sinners deserve the sentence of everlasting death. But the God to whom salvation belongs has, in Christ, rescued us and given us new life.

• Gracious God and Father, thank You for redeeming me from sin, death, and the power of the devil. Move my tongue to glorify You in praise and witness. Amen.

JONAH—NOTE ON 1:1 second time. God made a new beginning with Jonah, giving him a second chance.

JONAH—NOTE ON 1:2 Arise, go to Nineveh. Repetition of 1:2. the message that I tell you. God would give Jonah the words to speak against Nineveh, reflecting God's will rather than Jonah's.

JONAH—NOTE ON 1:3 went to Nineveh. Jonah had learned his lesson and now followed God's directions. exceedingly great city. Indicates not Nineveh's size, but God's concern for the city. three days' journey in breadth. See ESV note.

JONAH—NOTE ON 1:4 a day's journey. On the first day of Jonah's anticipated three-day visit, the people of Nineveh already responded to his message. overthrown! Or, "overturned." The message that God told Jonah to deliver may be understood in two ways: Jonah hoped that Nineveh would be overturned in destruction; instead, the city was overturned in repentance and faith. See "turn," p 1080. God then overturned His decision for judgment and granted them mercy (v 10). Nineveh changed and God changed His judgment, but Jonah did not. After Jonah delivered God's message, nothing more is heard of him in ch 3.

JONAH—NOTE ON 1:5 believed God. The Holy Spirit working through the Word convinced the people of Nineveh that God would indeed overthrow their city if they did not repent. This miracle of faith was even greater than Jonah's rescue by a great fish. 1 Clem: "Jonah proclaimed destruction to the Ninevites; but they, repenting of their sins … obtained salvation, although they were aliens [to the covenant] of God" (ANF 1:7). fast … sackcloth. Traditional signs of repentance and mourning. See note, Lv 16:29. greatest … least. Every level of Ninevite society responded to God's Word. Their quick response was in stark contrast to Israel's frequent hardness of heart (e.g., Nu 14:11; Dt 1:32; 2Ki 17:14). Luth: "Take note that the people of Nineveh do some things that God does not command them. Yet Jonah relates this. For instance, they fast and put on sackcloth. What does God care about fasting and sackcloth? He wants the heart; He wants to see a person's whole life transformed. Also, God did not demand these things from them through Jonah. All He asked was that they cease their villainy. … Jonah does not praise their fasting and their sackcloth later on, but he reports that 'they turned from their evil way' (v. 10)" (AE 19:86).

JONAH—NOTE ON 1:1–5 God is concerned for all people, even those we might write off. The people of Nineveh hardly seem like "good prospects." However, the message they hear is from God, and God makes sure that it bears the fruit of repentance. Do you assume some people are unable or unwilling to respond to the Gospel? Leave conversion in God's hands and faithfully fulfill your role as His witness. He has promised that His Word will bear fruit, and He is concerned that all people have the opportunity to be saved. Thank God, His Word bore the fruit of repentance in Nineveh and also in your life. • Savior of the nations, keep me from doubting the effectiveness of Your Word. Amen.

JONAH—NOTE ON 1:6 The word reached the king of Nineveh. Messengers probably brought the king news of what the citizens of the city were doing. sat in ashes. Even the king vacated the honor of his throne and joined his people in expressions of repentance.

JONAH—NOTE ON 1:7 issued a proclamation. King and nobles wanted to ensure that everyone in Nineveh got the message and responded to his decree. nor beast, herd nor flock. Including animals underscores urgency of repentance. Greek historian Heroditus reported that in Persian times, animals were sometimes made part of the mourning process. Ter: "[They were] starving out even the cattle with which God was not angry" (ANF 4:106). Let them not feed or drink water. Applied to humans as well as animals, this enforced the completeness of the fast but also suggests it was of short duration.

JONAH—NOTE ON 1:8 call out mightily to God. In contrast to the sailors who "called out to the LORD" (1:14), the king used the general divine term "God" when ordering the people to pray. evil way ... violence. Acknowledgment of Nineveh's sin and truth of God's judgment (1:2; 3:2).

JONAH—NOTE ON 1:9 Assyrian king and citizens hoped God would change His mind, show mercy, and withhold judgment. Pagan sailors had also expressed this hope (1:6). See "turn," p 1080. fierce anger. Ninevites understood that they deserved God's punishment. Luth: "A truly contrite heart wrestles with fear and with doubt. … If there were no faith, it would never be able to stand its ground in this struggle and distress. Therefore these words are, rather, evidence of faith, but of a faith that trembles with fear and that still contends for mastery, but that all the while keeps God's grace before its eyes, saying: 'God may yet repent and turn from His fierce anger, etc.,' that is, grace still hovers in the background, and all is not wrath" (AE 19:88).

JONAH—NOTE ON 3:10 God relented. See note, 1Ch 21:15. See also pp 1079–80. God exercised His mercy. disaster. Lit, "evil." If the Ninevites had not repented, God would have destroyed them. "[The Ninevites] by their repentance (all of repentance) were reconciled to God and received the favor that their city was not destroyed" (Ap XIIB 69).

JONAH—NOTE ON 3:6–10 Jesus declared that "the men of Nineveh will rise up at the judgment … and condemn" His own generation of hearers who failed to repent (Mt 12:41). God continues to call us to repentance for our sins of thought, word, and deed. The men of Nineveh furnish us with an example to follow. May they not condemn us on the Day of Judgment! May the Holy Spirit rather lead us daily to repent of our sins and trust Christ for pardon and peace. • Father in heaven, have mercy on me, a sinner. Grant me full confidence in the truth and power of Your Word, and give me peace. Amen.

JONAH—NOTE ON 4:1 displeased Jonah exceedingly. Lit, "it became evil to Jonah as a great evil." We are not told how Jonah came to realize that God was going to spare Nineveh from destruction. Perhaps 40 days had now elapsed since he had begun preaching that Nineveh would be overturned (3:4). angry. Jonah's anger is mentioned several times (vv 4, 9) and contrasts with God, who is "slow to anger" (v 2). Luth: "We must note first of all how wondrous God is in His saints, lest we be tempted to judge and condemn them thoughtlessly because of any of their actions. This work here may be evil—as indeed it is. But for all of that, I must not despise and reject the person. For if we regard Jonah in this act, we must agree that his actions are surely wrong; for God Himself punishes him. And yet he is God's dear child. He chats so uninhibitedly with God as though he were not in the least afraid of Him—as indeed he is not; he confides in Him as in a father" (AE 19:92).

JONAH—NOTE ON 4:2 That is why. Jonah and God converse with each other for the first time. Jonah revealed why he did not want to preach to Nineveh in the first place. Assyria was Israel's national enemy, so Jonah hoped they would perish. The central conflict was between God's mercy and Jonah's unwillingness to extend to Nineveh the grace of God that had already saved his own life. I knew … relenting from disaster. Cf Ex 34:6.

JONAH—NOTE ON 4:3 take my life … better … to die. Reflection of Jonah's selfish anger. He would rather die than endure the reality of God's pity for Nineveh. See note, 1:12.

JONAH—NOTE ON 4:4 With this rhetorical question, God gently endeavored to get Jonah to reconsider his attitude.

JONAH—NOTE ON 4:5–11 Some consider this section a flashback to the time right after Jonah had finished preaching in Nineveh (3:4). He planned to wait out the 40 days in hopes of seeing Nineveh's destruction.

JONAH—NOTE ON 4:5 booth. Temporary shelter made of branches to protect from the sun and wind.

JONAH—NOTE ON 4:6 appointed a plant. See note, 1:17. ESV note suggests the castor oil plant, which can quickly grow to a height of 15 ft. discomfort. Lit, "evil." Jonah's booth by itself was probably not very good protection from the sun. exceedingly glad. Lit, "rejoiced with a great joy." This is the one time we are told that Jonah was truly happy.

JONAH—NOTE ON 4:7 God appointed a worm. See note, 1:17. In 1:4, 17; 4:6–8, God used elements of His creation to try to change the hard heart of His stubborn prophet.

JONAH—NOTE ON 4:8 God appointed a scorching east wind. See note, 1:17. sun beat down. God made Jonah so miserable that, feeling faint, he wished to die. God was setting the stage to again challenge Jonah's attitude toward Nineveh. It is better for me to die. Repeat of Jonah's words in v 3, but here his wish to die is caused by physical wretchedness. See note, 1:12.

JONAH—NOTE ON 4:9 God's question is a repeat of the one in v 4, except for mention of the plant. Yes, I do well to be angry. Jonah's extreme anger was the result of an inconsequential event, the death of a plant for which he could take no credit and which had only temporary value (v 10). Jonah wanted things his way, even if it was not part of God's plan or if it interfered with God's grace.

JONAH—NOTE ON 4:10 Jonah's concern compared poorly with God's concern for Nineveh. Jonah was preoccupied with his own condition and the fate of a plant, while God was concerned with the condition and fate of human beings.

JONAH—NOTE ON 4:11 should not I pity Nineveh. Hbr is emphatic, yet God's final question is left unanswered. We do not know if Jonah's attitude toward Nineveh changed. This makes the story a challenge for us. It is a reminder that God has every right to show mercy to whom He wishes. We dare not demand that God should favor us and not others. pity. Commonly used negatively (e.g., in Dt, the Lord tells Israel repeatedly not to show pity on the Canaanites). do not know … their left. Expression for extreme degree of spiritual ignorance and vulnerability of Nineveh's population (cf Dt 5:32; 17:20; Jsh 1:7; 23:6; Pr 4:27). much cattle? God probably mentioned livestock to remind Jonah that sparing cattle was more valuable than sparing one little plant.

JONAH—NOTE ON Ch 4 Jonah has a precious opportunity to preach God's Word to Nineveh, but his heart is not in it. He does not seem to understand the extent of God's concern for people who are enemies of Israel, and he hopes that misfortune will come to them. We have the immense privilege of sharing God's Law and Gospel with the world around us. We have opportunities to be part of His plans. May we never be found guilty of neglecting our mission to make disciples of all nations. Praise God, He did not neglect us but appointed His only-begotten Son as our Savior. • O Lord, reveal to me every opportunity I have to share the good news of salvation with others, no matter who they are. Amen.

1 [1]† The word of the LORD that came to Micah of Moresheth in the days of Jotham, Ahaz, and Hezekiah, kings of Judah, which he saw concerning Samaria and Jerusalem.

The Coming Destruction

2 † Hear, you peoples, all of you;[1]
pay attention, O earth, and all that is in it, and let the Lord God be a witness against you,
the Lord from his holy temple.
3 † For behold, the Lord is coming out of his place,
and will come down and tread upon the high places of the earth.
4 And the mountains will melt under him, and the valleys will split open,
like wax before the fire,
like waters poured down a steep place.
5 † All this is for the transgression of Jacob and for the sins of the house of Israel.
What is the transgression of Jacob?
Is it not Samaria?
And what is the high place of Judah?
Is it not Jerusalem?
6 † Therefore I will make Samaria a heap in the open country,
a place for planting vineyards,
and I will pour down her stones into the valley
and uncover her foundations.
7 † All her carved images shall be beaten to pieces,
all her wages shall be burned with fire,
and all her idols I will lay waste, for from the fee of a prostitute she gathered them,
and to the fee of a prostitute they shall return.

[8]† For this I will lament and wail;
I will go stripped and naked;
I will make lamentation like the jackals,
and mourning like the ostriches.
[9]† For her wound is incurable,
and it has come to Judah;
it has reached to the gate of my people,
to Jerusalem.

[10]†† Tell it not in Gath;
weep not at all;
in Beth-le-aphrah
roll yourselves in the dust.
[11]† Pass on your way, inhabitants of Shaphir,
in nakedness and shame;
the inhabitants of Zaanan
do not come out;
the lamentation of Beth-ezel shall take away from you its standing place.
[12]† For the inhabitants of Maroth wait anxiously for good, because disaster has come down from the LORD
to the gate of Jerusalem.
[13]† Harness the steeds to the chariots, inhabitants of Lachish;
it was the beginning of sin
to the daughter of Zion, for in you were found
the transgressions of Israel.
[14]† Therefore you shall give parting gifts[1]
to Moresheth-gath;
the houses of Achzib shall be a deceitful thing to the kings of Israel.

15 I will again bring a conqueror to you, inhabitants of Mareshah;
the glory of Israel
shall come to Adullam.
16 Make yourselves bald and cut off your hair,
for the children of your delight;
make yourselves as bald as the eagle,
for they shall go from you into exile.

Woe to the Oppressors

2 [1]† Woe to those who devise wickedness and work evil on their beds!
When the morning dawns, they perform it,
because it is in the power of their hand.

[2]† They covet fields and seize them,
and houses, and take them away;
they oppress a man and his house,
a man and his inheritance.
[3]† Therefore thus says the Lord:
behold, against this family I am devising disaster,[2]
from which you cannot remove your necks,
and you shall not walk haughtily,
for it will be a time of disaster.
[4]† In that day they shall take up a taunt song against you
and moan bitterly,
and say, “We are utterly ruined;
he changes the portion of my people;
how he removes it from me!
To an apostate he allots our fields.”
[5]† Therefore you will have none to cast the line by lot
in the assembly of the Lord.

[6]† “Do not preach”—thus they preach—
“one should not preach of such things;
disgrace will not overtake us.”
[7]† Should this be said, O house of Jacob?
Has the Lord grown impatient?[1]

Are these his deeds?
Do not my words do good to him who walks uprightly?
8 But lately my people have risen up as an enemy;
you strip the rich robe from those who pass
by trustingly
with no thought of war.[2] 9 The women of my people you drive out from their delightful houses;
from their young children you take away
my splendor forever.
10 Arise and go,
for this is no place to rest,
because of uncleanness that destroys with a grievous destruction.
11 If a man should go about and utter wind and lies,
saying, “I will preach to you of wine and strong drink,”
he would be the preacher for this people!
12 I will surely assemble all of you, O Jacob;
I will gather the remnant of Israel;
I will set them together
like sheep in a fold,
like a flock in its pasture,
a noisy multitude of men.
13 He who opens the breach goes up before them;
they break through and pass the gate,
going out by it.
Their king passes on before them,
the Lord at their head.

Rulers and Prophets Denounced

3 [1]† And I said:
Hear, you heads of Jacob
and rulers of the house of Israel!
Is it not for you to know justice?—

[2]†† you who hate the good and love the evil, who tear the skin from off my people[3]
and their flesh from off their bones, [3] who eat the flesh of my people,
and flay their skin from off them,
and break their bones in pieces and chop them up like meat in a pot, like flesh in a cauldron.

[4]† Then they will cry to the Lord,
but he will not answer them;
he will hide his face from them at that time,
because they have made their deeds evil.

[5]† Thus says the Lord concerning the prophets who lead my people astray, who cry “Peace”
when they have something to eat, but declare war against him who puts nothing into their mouths.
[6]† Therefore it shall be night to you, without vision,
and darkness to you, without divination.
The sun shall go down on the prophets,
and the day shall be black over them;
[7]† the seers shall be disgraced,

and the diviners put to shame;
they shall all cover their lips,
for there is no answer from God.
8 † But as for me, I am filled with power, with the Spirit of the Lord,
and with justice and might,
to declare to Jacob his transgression
and to Israel his sin.

9 † Hear this, you heads of the house of Jacob
and rulers of the house of Israel,
who detest justice
and make crooked all that is straight, 10 † who build Zion with blood and Jerusalem with iniquity.
11 † Its heads give judgment for a bribe;
its priests teach for a price;
its prophets practice divination for money;
yet they lean on the Lord and say,
"Is not the Lord in the midst of us?
No disaster shall come upon us."
12 † Therefore because of you
Zion shall be plowed as a field;
Jerusalem shall become a heap of ruins,
and the mountain of the house a wooded height.

The Mountain of the Lord

4 [1]†††† It shall come to pass in the latter days that the mountain of the house of the Lord shall be established as the highest of the mountains,
and it shall be lifted up above the hills;
and peoples shall flow to it,

[2]† and many nations shall come, and say:
"Come, let us go up to the mountain of the Lord,
to the house of the God of Jacob,
that he may teach us his ways
and that we may walk in his paths."
For out of Zion shall go forth the law,[1]
and the word of the Lord from Jerusalem.
[3]† He shall judge between many peoples, and shall decide for strong nations far away;
and they shall beat their swords into plowshares,
and their spears into pruning hooks;
nation shall not lift up sword against nation,
neither shall they learn war anymore;
[4]† but they shall sit every man under his vine
and under his fig tree,
and no one shall make them afraid,
for the mouth of the Lord of hosts has spoken.
[5]† For all the peoples walk
each in the name of its god, but we will walk in the name of the Lord our God forever and ever.

The Lord Shall Rescue Zion

6 In that day, declares the Lord,
I will assemble the lame and gather those who have been driven away
and those whom I have afflicted; 7 and the lame I will make the remnant,
and those who were cast off, a strong
nation;
and the Lord will reign over them in Mount Zion
from this time forth and forevermore.

8 And you, O tower of the flock, hill of the daughter of Zion,
to you shall it come,
the former dominion shall come,
kingship for the daughter of Jerusalem.

9 Now why do you cry aloud?
Is there no king in you?
Has your counselor perished,
that pain seized you like a woman in labor?
10 Writhe and groan,[2] O daughter of Zion,
like a woman in labor,
for now you shall go out from the city and dwell in the open country;
you shall go to Babylon.
There you shall be rescued;
there the Lord will redeem you from the hand of your enemies.

11† Now many nations are assembled against you, saying, “Let her be defiled, and let our eyes gaze upon Zion.” 12† But they do not know
the thoughts of the Lord;
they do not understand his plan,
that he has gathered them as sheaves to the threshing floor.
13† Arise and thresh, O daughter of Zion,
for I will make your horn iron,
and I will make your hoofs bronze;
you shall beat in pieces many peoples;
and shall devote[1] their gain to the Lord,
their wealth to the Lord of the whole earth.

The Ruler to Be Born in Bethlehem

5 1 Now muster your troops, O daughter[2] of troops;
siege is laid against us;
with a rod they strike the judge of Israel
on the cheek.

2 [3]But you, O Bethlehem Ephrathah, who are too little to be among the clans of Judah,
from you shall come forth for me
one who is to be ruler in Israel, whose coming forth is from of old,
from ancient days.
3 Therefore he shall give them up until the time when she who is in labor has given birth; then the rest of his brothers shall return to the people of Israel.
4 And he shall stand and shepherd his flock in the strength of the Lord, in the majesty of the name of the Lord his God.
And they shall dwell secure, for now he shall be great to the ends of the earth.
5 And he shall be their peace.

When the Assyrian comes into our land and treads in our palaces, then we will raise against him seven shepherds
and eight princes of men;
6 they shall shepherd the land of Assyria with

the sword,
and the land of Nimrod at its entrances;
and he shall deliver us from the Assyrian
when he comes into our land and treads within our border.

A Remnant Shall Be Delivered

7 Then the remnant of Jacob shall be in the midst of many peoples
like dew from the Lord,
like showers on the grass,
which delay not for a man
nor wait for the children of man.
8 And the remnant of Jacob shall be among the nations,
in the midst of many peoples,
like a lion among the beasts of the forest,
like a young lion among the flocks of sheep,
which, when it goes through, treads down and tears in pieces, and there is none to deliver.
9 Your hand shall be lifted up over your adversaries,
and all your enemies shall be cut off.

10 And in that day, declares the Lord,
I will cut off your horses from among you and will destroy your chariots;
11 and I will cut off the cities of your land and throw down all your strongholds; 12 and I will cut off sorceries from your hand, and you shall have no more tellers of fortunes;
13 and I will cut off your carved images and your pillars from among you, and you shall bow down no more to the work of your hands; 14 and I will root out your Asherah images from among you

and destroy your cities.
15 And in anger and wrath I will execute vengeance
on the nations that did not obey.

The Indictment of the Lord

6 [1]†† Hear what the Lord says:
Arise, plead your case before the
mountains,
and let the hills hear your voice.

[2]† Hear, you mountains, the indictment of the Lord,
and you enduring foundations of the earth,
for the Lord has an indictment against his
people,
and he will contend with Israel.

[3]† "O my people, what have I done to you?
How have I wearied you? Answer me!
[4]†† For I brought you up from the land of Egypt and redeemed you from the house of slavery,
and I sent before you Moses,
Aaron, and Miriam.
[5]† O my people, remember what Balak king of Moab devised,
and what Balaam the son of Beor answered
him,
and what happened from Shittim to Gilgal, that you may know the saving acts of the Lord."

What Does the Lord Require?

6 † † † “With what shall I come before the Lord, and bow myself before God on high?
Shall I come before him with burnt
offerings,
with calves a year old?
7 † Will the Lord be pleased with[1] thousands of rams,
with ten thousands of rivers of oil?
Shall I give my firstborn for my transgression,
the fruit of my body for the sin of my soul?”
8 † He has told you, O man, what is good;
and what does the Lord require of you but to do justice, and to love kindness,[2] and to walk humbly with your God?

Destruction of the Wicked

9 The voice of the Lord cries to the city—and it is sound wisdom to fear your name:
"Hear of the rod and of him who appointed it![3]
10 Can I forget any longer the treasures[4] of wickedness in the house of the wicked, and the scant measure that is accursed?
11 Shall I acquit the man with wicked scales and with a bag of deceitful weights?
12 Your[5] rich men are full of violence;
your inhabitants speak lies,
and their tongue is deceitful in their mouth.
13 Therefore I strike you with a grievous blow, making you desolate because of your sins.
14 You shall eat, but not be satisfied,
and there shall be hunger within you;
you shall put away, but not preserve,
and what you preserve I will give to the sword.
15 You shall sow, but not reap;
you shall tread olives, but not anoint yourselves with oil;
you shall tread grapes, but not drink wine.
16 For you have kept the statutes of Omri,[1]
and all the works of the house of Ahab;
and you have walked in their counsels, that I may make you a desolation, and your[2] inhabitants a hissing;
so you shall bear the scorn of my people."

Wait for the God of Salvation

7 [1] Woe is me! For I have become as when the summer fruit has been gathered,
as when the grapes have been gleaned:
there is no cluster to eat,
no first-ripe fig that my soul desires.

[2] The godly has perished from the earth, and there is no one upright among mankind;
they all lie in wait for blood,
and each hunts the other with a net.
[3] Their hands are on what is evil, to do it well;
the prince and the judge ask for a bribe,
and the great man utters the evil desire of his soul;
thus they weave it together.
[4] The best of them is like a brier,
the most upright of them a thorn hedge.
The day of your watchmen, of your punishment, has come;
now their confusion is at hand.
[5] Put no trust in a neighbor;
have no confidence in a friend;
guard the doors of your mouth
from her who lies in your arms;[3] [6] for the son treats the father with contempt,
the daughter rises up against her mother,
the daughter-in-law against her mother-in-law;
a man's enemies are the men of his own house.
[7] But as for me, I will look to the Lord;
I will wait for the God of my salvation;
my God will hear me.

8† Rejoice not over me, O my enemy;
when I fall, I shall rise;
when I sit in darkness,
the LORD will be a light to me.
9† I will bear the indignation of the LORD because I have sinned against him, until he pleads my cause
and executes judgment for me.
He will bring me out to the light;
I shall look upon his vindication.
10† Then my enemy will see,
and shame will cover her who said to me,
"Where is the LORD your God?"
My eyes will look upon her;
now she will be trampled down
like the mire of the streets.

11† A day for the building of your walls!
In that day the boundary shall be far extended.
12† In that day they[1] will come to you,
from Assyria and the cities of Egypt,
and from Egypt to the River, from sea to sea and from mountain to mountain.
13† But the earth will be desolate
because of its inhabitants,
for the fruit of their deeds.

14† Shepherd your people with your staff,
the flock of your inheritance,
who dwell alone in a forest in the midst of a garden land;[2] let them graze in Bashan and Gilead
as in the days of old.
15† As in the days when you came out of the land of

Egypt,
I will show them[3] marvelous things.
16† The nations shall see and be ashamed of all their might;
they shall lay their hands on their mouths;
their ears shall be deaf;
17† they shall lick the dust like a serpent,
like the crawling things of the earth;
they shall come trembling out of their strongholds;
they shall turn in dread to the Lord our God,
and they shall be in fear of you.

God’s Steadfast Love and Compassion

18 Who is a God like you, pardoning iniquity and passing over transgression for the remnant of his inheritance?
He does not retain his anger forever,
because he delights in steadfast love.
19 He will again have compassion on us;
he will tread our iniquities underfoot.
You will cast all our[4] sins
into the depths of the sea.
20 You will show faithfulness to Jacob and steadfast love to Abraham, as you have sworn to our fathers
from the days of old.

Introduction to Micah

Reading Micah

One reclines on the grass. The other stands on a rock. The first lazily eats mutton and drinks wine. The other turns and watches the tree line at the edge of the field. The first snores. The other sees the lion coming.

Micah called out against the leaders of Judah and Israel (1:2), who indulged themselves. They did not see the problems that threatened their subjects, including the threat of exile for the daughters of Zion (1:16; 4:10; 5:7). Yet Micah also prophesied the coming of a faithful Shepherd, who would stand guard over His people and spring to their defense with the strength of a young lion. This Ruler would come from a shepherd's town (Bethlehem), ascend to the "tower of the flock" (David's palace/throne), and renew the kingdom. Micah's Shepherd is Jesus (5:2, 4; Mt 2:6).

Luther on Micah

The prophet Micah lived at the time of Isaiah. Micah [4:1–3] even uses the words of Isaiah 2[:2–4], and thus one notes that these prophets who lived at the same time preached almost the very same word concerning Christ, as though they had consulted one another on the matter.

Micah is one of the fine prophets who rebukes the people severely for their idolatry and constantly refers to the coming Christ and to his kingdom. In one respect he is unique among the prophets, in that he points with certainty to Bethlehem, naming it as the town where Christ was to be born [5:2]. For this reason he was famous under the Old Covenant, as Matthew certainly shows in chapter 2[:3–6].

In short he denounces, he prophesies, he preaches, etc. Ultimately, however, his meaning is that even though Israel and Judah have to go to pieces, Christ will yet come and make all things good. So, too, we now have to rebuke, denounce, comfort, and preach, etc., and then say, "Even though all be lost, Christ will yet come at the Last Day and help us out of all misfortune."

In the first chapter Micah is difficult, a fact to which the original Hebrew contributes. He makes numerous plays on words, such as Zaanan for shaanan, and Achzib and Mareshah, etc., twisting the words to give them an ominous meaning. It is as if I were to say, "Rome, you shall become a room full of emptiness"; or, "Wittenberg, you shall become a weiter Berg," etc. The grammarians will surely notice this and also observe the pains we have taken. (AE 35:324–25)

For more of Luther's insights on this Book, see Lectures on Micah (AE 18:205–77).

Challenges for Readers

Author's Identity. Some 13 biblical figures are named Micah/Micaiah. The writer of this prophecy, a contemporary of Isaiah, came from the village of Moresheth in the Judean foothills southwest of Jerusalem. His name means "Who is like the Lord?" but one could also ask, "Who is Micah?" because we know little more about him.

Relationship to Isaiah. Micah, from the countryside, seems to stand in the shadow of Jerusalem's great prophet Isaiah. They have many points in common, both in wording and in themes (cf Mi 4:1–5; Is 2:2–5), but their relationship to each other is not clearly understood.

Reproaches. The Lord's indictment of Israel (6:1–4), traditionally used during the Easter Vigil, challenges God's people to see themselves in view of God's Law. Specifically, as it challenges and shames them for their faithless and thankless attitudes toward God who redeemed them from Egypt, it creates guilt and threatens punishment. The mention of God's redemption in proclaiming the Law seems strange, since we are usually proclaiming the Gospel when we mention God's redemption.

Blessings for Readers

Micah shows the important role that leaders play in families, congregations, and society in distributing God's blessings for us. As you study Micah, reflect on how your life and future depends on others and how God has placed people under your care or in your sphere of influence. See, ultimately, that all you have and all you are flows from His merciful goodness. Although we look to one another for help, there is no one like the Lord, who alone pardons iniquity and delights in steadfast love (7:18–20).

Justice and Poverty

The OT contains more legal and prophetic material about the poor and the powerless than any other societal problem. In both narrative and prophetic texts, a strong relationship exists between righteousness—the cornerstone of the Christian doctrine of justification—and justice. In Hebrew and Greek, righteousness and justice share root words. As justified believers—made right with God entirely through Jesus Christ—our attitude toward and treatment of the poor is a fundamental justice question. Questions of justice inevitably flow from the faith of the justified ones. God says to His people, "Therefore I command you, 'You shall open wide your hand to your brother, to the needy and to the poor, in your land' " (Dt 15:11). When the weak are oppressed and the needs of the poor come to God's attention, the psalmist writes that God "will now arise … I will place him in the safety for which he longs" (Ps 12:5).

More than half of Jesus' parables (17 of the 29 in the Synoptic Gospels) concern money. These parables lay out the perils of misplaced priorities; they are stories of the disordered, upside-down lives of people whose long-term "investments" expire prematurely. Jesus urges his disciples to invest in the Kingdom, in God's people, in those who are poor and needy in the eyes of the world. Followers of Jesus stock up on true righteousness and justice, rather than on riches that rust or fade away.

God's Word addresses situations that sound similar to our modern context (cf Dt 15:7; 24:14, 17). … In Ps 41:1, we hear a beatitude of brotherly love: "Blessed is the one who considers the poor!" In any society, there will be those who are too weak to "make it"—those who aren't strong or resilient enough, who aren't skilled or tough-willed, who lack the "right stuff" or the right connections. Such individuals often are marginalized. We see, all too clearly, where they stand. The question is Where do we stand? Do we stand with them? …

As God's redeemed people, we have the calling—and opportunity—to be openhanded and tenderhearted toward those in need, not hard-hearted and tightfisted.

Adapted from John Nunes, Voices from the City (St. Louis: Concordia, 1999), 34–36.

Prophecy Foreshadows the Appearing of Christ

Kinds of Prophesying: Direct Description of Events or Persons (Rectilinear)

Foretell (examples of OT prediction): Christ born at Bethlehem: Micah states that the new ruler of Israel would be born in Bethlehem (Mi 5:2). Matthew records that the Jewish scribes plainly understood this prophecy about the Messiah (Mt 2:4–6).

Forth-tell (examples of OT preaching): Angel of Yahweh: Jesus Himself preached to the people of the OT, appearing to them at times as the Angel of the Lord (e.g., Jgs 2:1–5). See p 1227.

Kinds of Prophesying: Symbolism for Events or Persons (Typology)

Foretell (examples of OT prediction): Passover Lamb: When God gave the Passover feast to Israel, He gave them something more than rules of sacrifice (Ex 12). He gave them a prophecy about Jesus. Jesus was arrested and tried on the same day the lambs were sacrificed (Jn 19:14). The death of the lambs to rescue the Israelites from punishment anticipated what God would do through the death of Christ, the Lamb of God (Jn 1:29).

Forth-tell (examples of OT preaching): Priesthood of Christ: In Ps 110, the heavenly Father proclaims the rule of an eternal priest and king. This psalm preaches Christ's work of salvation already in the OT.

The Bible, Reformation, and Mission

Luther lives and thinks with the Bible. Holy Scripture is a book that has transferred its message from the close quarters of the people of Israel into the wider ethnic world. It is a missionary book. [Cf Am 9:12; Jnh 1:16; 3:5, 10; 4:11; Mi 4:1–3; 5:4–5a; 7:11, 17; Zep 3:9; Zec 2:11; 3:10; 8:20; 9:7, 10; 14:16; Mal 1:11.] This could not but have an influence on Luther because of his intensive study of this Scripture. Consequently, Luther takes the missionary witness of every Christian so much for granted that he himself attests to it even where the text itself does not address it. Nearness to Scripture also means for Luther that the missionary expansion, which occurred in biblical times, is neither past nor complete. Instead, it is a living, contemporary, and personal reality of life. From the impact of the biblical message of Law and Gospel on his own person, Luther, who lived outside the biblical geography, professes unequivocally that if it is meant for him, then also all people without exception are in need of this preaching and should hear it. …

Missionary opportunities present themselves, therefore, even in the immediate vicinity. A Christian must at anytime be prepared to lead other people to Christ. Every Divine Service is endowed with a missionary dimension. The whole life of a Christian in the ordinary way he conducts himself possesses a testimonial character because there are always people around that have still not recognized Christ. …

Luther looks at mission as a fundamental life expression of the church, not as some sort of special undertaking that needs to be specially organized. The history of the Christian church, which has existed since the promise to Adam and Eve and which will exist and work until Judgment Day, is identical with the history of the transmissions of the message through missionary proclamation. When Christianity is seen as the original and most ancient religion, the other religions do not appear as neutral territory that has not been reached by the Christian message, but as paths that lead away or deviate from the true religion or that establish themselves in revolt against the Christian faith. …

[Luther] realized that the proclamation of the Gospel was unconditionally necessary for all people without exception. The simple chain of thought: “If

He is to be their God, then they must know Him and believe in Him; if they are to believe, then they must first hear His Word; then preachers must be sent who will proclaim God's Word to them" [AE 14:9] incites undeniably a mission activity. With the Reformation's doctrine of justification, the chruch is at the same time made aware of its missionary mandate. It is no coincidence that the Lutheran renewal in the [nineteenth] century called forth new missionary endeavors everywhere. …

Reformation and mission are not strangers to each other. They are conditioned upon each other, and in both cases it enters deeply into the same thing: The saving message of Christ is given to otherwise lost, sinful people. Just as reformation is always service to the whole church, so also mission is always service to all humanity. Luther desires to make this universal view clear. The Gospel does not belong in a corner, and Christ is Lord of everything.

The last verse of his chorale "Dear Christians, One and All Rejoice" brings this fusion of mission and reformation to expression with poetic precision, when it finally, with the view on the mission, says, "so that the kingdom of God is increased" and immediately appends the Reformation's warning, "But watch lest foes with base alloy, the heav'nly treasure should destroy."

Study Notes

MICAH—NOTE ON 1:1 word of the LORD that came. God revealed His divine message to the prophet Micah. See p 1080. Micah. Common name; it means "Who is like the Lord?" See p 1486. Jeremiah refers to him as prophesying in the days of Hezekiah (Jer 26:18). Moresheth. Probably located near Gath (v 14), southwest of Jerusalem. See color map 1. kings of Judah. Jotham (750–735 BC), Ahaz (735–715 BC), and Hezekiah (715–686 BC). Micah was a contemporary of Isaiah and Hosea. saw. Suggests that the word came to Micah in the form of visions (Hab 1:1). Samaria and Jerusalem. Capitals of the Northern and Southern Kingdoms, Israel and Judah. The two cities are representative of the two nations (v 5). See color map 1.

MICAH—NOTE ON 1:2 all of you. The Lord addressed all nations. All people need to realize that God's testimony against Samaria and Jerusalem applied equally to them. witness. Courtroom imagery. The peoples stand accused, and God gives witness as their accuser. His holy temple. Probably refers to God's heavenly habitation rather than to the earthly temple (Ps 18:6).

MICAH—NOTE ON 1:3–4 Imagery of earthquake and storm (cf Ex 19:16–18; Ps 18:7–12) portrays the Lord's awesome arrival to judge the nations. All creation will tremble before Him. high places. Tops of the mountains.

MICAH—NOTE ON 1:5 God will appear in judgment to punish the house of Israel (Jacob), which was not exempt from His universal verdict: guilty (v 2). Capital cities were most responsible for these transgressions. high place. Hilltops or elevated platforms set aside for idolatrous worship (2Ch 28:25). Term is used here to condemn false worship in the Jerusalem temple. See p 526. Luth: "This expression 'high places' means altars. The sense, then, is this: 'I will uncover for you the sin of both Israel and Judah.' Israel sins in Samaria, Judah in Jerusalem. This is the source of every wickedness—namely, worship and sacrifices which God has not instituted and which the Word of God has not commanded. And here we see again—as we do in all Scripture—how it does not please God, and in fact, how He hates it, if we establish anything outside the Word of God, however good and holy it may appear" (AE 18:213).

MICAH—NOTE ON 1:6 heap. Ruin. Once-densely inhabited place would become open country, fit for planting vineyards. uncover. Destruction would be so complete that only city foundations remain. Term is associated with shame and exposing someone to nakedness (Lv 18:6–18; Ezk 23:10).
MICAH—NOTE ON 1:7 wages ... fee. God would destroy the wealth from fees paid for sacred prostitution at the temple of idols.
MICAH—NOTE ON 1:8 lament and wail. Prophet will weep over the sufferings of his people (Jer 9:1). stripped and naked. Public expression of profound grief and mourning. See note, Is 20:2. jackals ... ostriches. In the Bible, these two creatures, whose calls resemble the howls and groans of mourning, are often linked (Is 34:13; Jer 50:39).
MICAH—NOTE ON 1:9 her wound is incurable. Punishment would destroy even the temple city. reached to the gate ... Jerusalem. Fatal infection that began in Samaria spread unstoppably through the entire body of God's people.
MICAH—NOTE ON 1:10–16 Bible commentators describe the dirge here as difficult to interpret. Micah referred to many towns that are mentioned nowhere else in the OT and whose precise location is unknown. All of them are likely in the area where the prophet lived, southwest of Jerusalem. In the original Hbr, the names of the towns often suggested to Micah puns and plays on words. (See Luther's comments, p 1485.) One needs to imagine a conquering army marching from town to town spreading panic and consternation.
MICAH—NOTE ON 1:10 Tell it not in Gath. David said these very words as he grieved the deaths of Saul and Jonathan (2Sm 1:20). Gath. One of five chief cities of the Philistines and closest to the western border of Judah, not far from Micah's home (v 14). He does not want the Philistines to take pleasure in the suffering of God's people. Beth-le-aphrah. Lit, "house of dust." roll yourselves in the dust. Wordplay on town's name expresses mourning.
MICAH—NOTE ON 1:11 Shaphir. Means "beautiful." nakedness and shame. Suggests a beautiful woman, stripped and violated, being led away captive after military defeat. Zaanan … do not come out. Wordplay on town's name, which means "get out." Beth-ezel. Means "house at the side of." standing place. Location from which to resist attack.
MICAH—NOTE ON 1:12 Maroth. Play on Hbr words for "be bitter" and "be rebellious." disaster ... to the gate of Jerusalem. The Lord's judgment from the heavenly temple (vv 2–3) ultimately reached the gate of the earthly temple (v 9).

MICAH—NOTE ON 1:13 Lachish. Fortress city 25 mi SW of Jerusalem, where horses and chariots were likely kept. it. Lachish was the starting point of Jerusalem's sin, perhaps referring to trust in armed force rather than in the Lord. See note, 2Ki 18:14. daughter of Zion. See note, Ps 9:14.

MICAH—NOTE ON 1:14 parting gifts. Probably the dowry (see ESV note), the parting gift a new bride takes with her to the house of her husband. Moresheth-gath. Micah's hometown (v 1). Sounds like Hbr word for "possession," or "dowry," suggesting that the residents of the city will be led into captivity. Achzib. Sounds like Hbr for "lie," or "falsehood"; hence condemning the town as a "deceitful thing." Probably located east of Moresheth.

MICAH—NOTE ON 1:15 I will again bring a conqueror to you. Possibly refers to Assyrian assault on Judah under King Sennacherib in 701 BC, when many towns were besieged and captured, though Jerusalem was spared (2Ki 18:13). Mareshah. Sounds like Hbr word for "possessor," "heir," or "conqueror." Located south of Moresheth (v 14). glory of Israel shall come to Adullam. When David was fleeing from King Saul, he hid in the cave of Adullam, located c 5 mi NE of Moresheth (1Sm 22:1). See map, p 534. Micah may be suggesting that Israel's royalty will be forced to escape to just such a hideout when the conqueror attacks Jerusalem.

MICAH—NOTE ON 1:16 bald. Drastic ritual expression of mourning (Is 15:2; Jer 47:5; Am 8:10). bald as the eagle. Likely describes a vulture, which has no feathers on its head or neck. they. The children. exile. Prophecy of the coming Babylonian exile after the fall of Jerusalem in 587 BC.

MICAH—NOTE ON Ch 1 The Lord acts as the witness for the prosecution in the case against His sinful people represented by their capital cities, Samaria and Jerusalem. His coming is marked by dramatic signs in the creation, reminding us of what will happen on the Last Day. All the earth needs to take note of what happened to Israel and Judah. Our sinful actions are also witnessed by God and deserve wrathful punishment. God has shown the depth of His justice in Christ Jesus, who in love took on Himself God's just wrath so that we may stand holy and righteous before Him. • Lord Jesus, thank You for declaring me righteous and removing all fear of everlasting judgment against me. Amen.

MICAH—NOTE ON 2:1 Judgment on wealthy oppressors who spent the nighttime scheming how they could use their power to exploit their poor and weak neighbors. At daybreak, they began putting their ungodly plans into practice.
MICAH—NOTE ON 2:2 covet. Rich and powerful kindled God's wrath by breaking the Ninth Commandment (SC, p xxxvi). Their wickedness destroyed the social order in the land and took away the ability of families to provide for themselves. inheritance. See "portion," p 7.
MICAH—NOTE ON 2:3 this family. Oppressors. devising disaster. While the oppressors "devise wickedness" (v 1), the Lord planned to bring disaster on them. cannot remove your necks. Pictures people being led away, their necks collared under a yoke, bound for captivity after defeat (Jer 27:8; 28:14). not walk haughtily. Instead, they will be marched as slaves, legs shackled.
MICAH—NOTE ON 2:4 In that day. Day of God's judgment against those who have oppressed their fellow citizens. taunt song. Sung by enemies leading wealthy citizens into captivity, mocking their lament over lost possessions. changes the portion. Deprives the rich of their property. See p 7. apostate. Heathen outsiders such as the Assyrians, who took over the fields.
MICAH—NOTE ON 2:5 When exiles returned from captivity, their oppressors would not be among those who cast lots to divide the restored land.
MICAH—NOTE ON 2:6 Micah quotes the oppressors, who do not want to hear him preaching about sin, judgment, and future disgrace. See pp 1202–6.
MICAH—NOTE ON 2:7 Should this be said. First of four questions Micah addressed to his hearers, hoping to get them to examine their opposition to his preaching. impatient? Oppressors imagined that God's patience was infinite (Ex 34:6). Do not my words … uprightly? Those who follow God's will in their lives can expect to hear good words from Him.
MICAH—NOTE ON 2:8–9 Spirit of lawlessness had become prevalent among God's people, targeting peaceful travelers, women, and children. This directly violated God's commands (Ex 22:21–24).
MICAH—NOTE ON 2:10 Arise and go. Micah suggested that because of the evil in the land, it was best to leave. uncleanness. Land's holiness had been destroyed by sin. See p 300.

MICAH—NOTE ON 2:11 People who did not like Micah's preaching (v 6) would be happy with a "windy" preacher who told them lies and urged them to indulge in drinking. See notes, Pr 23:29–35.

MICAH—NOTE ON 2:12 assemble ... remnant. In contrast to conditions in Micah's day, the Lord speaks of a future time when He would gather the true Israel (Mt 10:6; Gal 6:16). See p 1080. sheep ... pasture. Remnant is likened to a flock of sheep, gathered in one place, with the Lord as their shepherd (Jer 23:3; Jn 10:1–16). Luth: "He now passes from the kingdom of Israel to the eternal, spiritual kingdom of Christ. You see, it was the custom of all the prophets—something we have seen earlier in those prophets whom we have interpreted—to prophesy first about the destruction of the people and about the external kingdom and then to pass over to the spiritual and eternal kingdom of Christ. This kingdom, they had prophesied, would come after the external kingdom was destroyed. It is very important to notice this in the prophets" (AE 18:227). See p 320.

MICAH—NOTE ON 2:13 He who opens the breach. Probably refers to how the Lord would free His people from captivity and lead them back to the Promised Land. Their king. Although the line of human kings ended when Jerusalem was captured by the Babylonians, the Lord will uphold His promise to David (2Sm 7:1–17). He Himself is the true King. See pp 1565–66.

MICAH—NOTE ON Ch 2 Micah condemns the wickedness of the rich and powerful oppressors and proclaims the Lord's judgment against their covetous behavior. In mercy, God promises to gather a remnant out of Israel and shepherd them. Today, the Lord calls us to help our neighbors protect their house and possessions in fear and love. Jesus is our Good Shepherd, who gave His life to redeem us from sin and everlasting death. He has satisfied our most pressing needs and will free us from covetous desires. • Lord Jesus, my Good Shepherd, guide my feet in the way of Your Commandments. Amen.

MICAH—NOTE ON 3:1 heads ... rulers. Micah addressed the legal officials who acted as judges at the city gates (v 9; see p 792). justice? Impartial judgment. The very people who had the responsibility to understand and execute the law were abusing their authority by oppressing the powerless. See p 842.

MICAH—NOTE ON 3:2–3 skin ... flesh ... bones. Violent and gruesome imagery is a vivid metaphor for the way judges abused their authority. In their greed, they were consuming their own people and destroying social harmony.

MICAH—NOTE ON 3:2 Cf Am 5:14–15 for proper behavior of judges.

MICAH—NOTE ON 3:4 they. Corrupt judges. cry to the LORD. Pray for help esp in time of trouble (Ps 50:15; 107:13). See "call," p 842. hide His face. God would not look with favor on their pleas for deliverance. that time. Time of God's judgment, when wicked leaders would experience God's wrath.

MICAH—NOTE ON 3:5 prophets. False prophets misled the people by telling lies. who cry "Peace." Jeremiah later voiced similar complaints about false prophets who promised peace (Jer 8:11). something to eat. False prophets' message was based on how well the people fed them (v 11).

MICAH—NOTE ON 3:6 Those who abused their prophetic office would totally lose their ability and privilege to speak the true Word of the Lord. They would experience a blackout of God's favor.

MICAH—NOTE ON 3:7 seers ... diviners. Those who claimed to be able to predict the future. See note, 1Sm 9:9. cover their lips. Gesture of uncleanness and mourning (Ezk 24:17, 22). no answer. Cf v 4.

MICAH—NOTE ON 3:8 I am filled with power, with the Spirit of the LORD. Micah, unlike the false prophets, was filled with the Holy Spirit and spoke a message that came from God. transgression ... sin. Micah's message offered no false security to Jacob (Israel) but proclaimed God's wrath and announced His justice. Luth: "He is boasting of his own power and boldness in the ministry of the Word which God has entrusted to him. It is as if he were saying: 'Although all the princes and priests resist me, yet I go on preaching because I must. I do not forsake the established office of teaching, no matter how much their frenzy rages against me. I pay no attention to any outward appearance on their part. I shall finish what I have started with God's help, even if I am going to be killed, because by the efficacy of the Spirit of the Lord I am filled with both power and a sense of justice. This "sense of justice" is that I am sure that I am teaching correct things. Therefore, even if the enemies of the Word of God threaten me with death, I pay no attention to it. The Spirit of the Lord is with me. He enlivens and comforts me.' Surely, to accuse so freely the princes and all those who are in positions of power and who rage against the truth is not characteristic of human boldness but of the boldness of the Spirit of the Lord" (AE 18:232).

MICAH—NOTE ON 3:9 heads ... rulers. Cf v 1.
MICAH—NOTE ON 3:10 build. According to archaeological evidence, much building was going on in Jerusalem during Micah's time. blood … iniquity. Parallel terms suggest oppressive practices such as forced labor and excessive taxes. See note, 1Ki 5:13.
MICAH—NOTE ON 3:11 heads … money. Judges, priests, and prophets abused their authority by giving false judgments, teachings, and oracles. They did this for personal gain, rather than carrying out their duties in the fear of the Lord and for the good of the people, esp for the protection of the needy in the land. divination. See note, Dt 18:10–11. they lean on the LORD. Despite their wickedness, the leaders acted as though they relied on the Lord, claiming that His presence in their midst guaranteed their security.
MICAH—NOTE ON 3:12 Zion. See p 844. heap of ruins. See note, 1:6. wooded height. Ground would go fallow after Babylonian forces conquered Judah and took its inhabitants into captivity. See note, Jgs 9:48. Micah's words were quoted about a century later by defenders of the prophet Jeremiah, who argued that he should not be killed for what he had spoken against the temple (Jer 26:16–19).
MICAH—NOTE ON Ch 3 The very people charged by God to administer justice, to give sound teaching, and to preach His Word are abusing their authority for personal gain. Micah proclaims that God will refuse to hear their cry for deliverance when judgment comes. If we abuse our authority as parents, employers, pastors, or teachers, we kindle God's wrath and displeasure. When we serve our own interests at the expense of others, especially those who are powerless and needy, may we confess our sin and ask forgiveness. And as we have received God's mercy in Christ, may we show mercy by looking after the interests of others (Php 2:1–7). • Lord Jesus, save me from serving only my own needs. Give me freedom to look to the interests of the poor, the sick, and the powerless. Amen.
MICAH—NOTE ON 4:1–3 Nearly identical to Is 2:2–4. Micah envisions complete transformation of the conditions that existed in his day, described in chs 1–3. He pictures a time when all nations will cherish the Word of the Lord, a time of universal peace. This perfect future will be realized only in heaven.
MICAH—NOTE ON 4:1 latter days. Several of the prophets use expressions such as "at that time" (Zep 3:9) or "on that day" (Zec 13:1) when speaking of the future fulfillment of all God's promises. On that day, the Lord will triumph over all His enemies. It will be a day of condemnation for unbelievers but one of salvation for God's people. mountain of the house of the LORD. In contrast with the description of the temple mount in 3:12, this mountain will become the very highest. peoples shall flow to it. See note, Is 2:2.

MICAH—NOTE ON 4:2 come, and say. Micah quotes the nations to show how eager they are to have the Lord teach them His ways. walk in His paths. God's teachings are put into practice (Ps 119:105). law. See p 971. Cypr: "The former law which was given by Moses was to cease. … A new law was to be given" (ANF 5:510).

MICAH—NOTE ON 4:3 judge. War will no longer be necessary to settle disputes and conflicts because the righteous Judge will preside over the nations. beat their swords into plowshares. The Lord will bring perfect peace. Iren: "The law of liberty … preached by the apostles … throughout all the earth, caused such a change in the state of things, that these [nations] did form the swords and war-lances into ploughshares, and changed them … for peaceful purposes" (ANF 1:512).

MICAH—NOTE ON 4:4 Agricultural imagery continues; people enjoy security and contentment, afraid of no one. What a contrast with present conditions in Micah's day.

MICAH—NOTE ON 4:5 we will. Words of an oath. See note, Nu 30:2. walk in the name. See p 7. Believers will respond to this glorious vision of heavenly bliss with their commitment of faithfulness to the Lord (Is 2:5). forever and ever. Common ending to prayers, as in the Lord's Prayer.

MICAH—NOTE ON 4:1–5 Micah prophesies of a time when the Lord will bring about His reign of peace and justice by bringing people from all nations to worship at His heavenly temple. In this world, there is much evidence of hostility, distrust, and conflict among various nations and cultures. Our Father provides the remedy for disunity by leading people to faith in Christ Jesus. As we are baptized into Christ, we are made into God's temple, and cultural and national hostilities are abolished (Gal 3:26–29). In heaven, we will experience this reality in its fullness. • Lord Jesus, thank You for teaching me Your way and for giving me brothers and sisters from every tribe, people, and language. Please bring all people into Your holy temple, so that they may receive Your justice, security, and peace. Amen.

MICAH—NOTE ON 4:6 In that day. See note, v 1. assemble ... gather. The Lord compares Himself to a shepherd gathering lost and hurting sheep

(2:12; Lk 15:4–5).

MICAH—NOTE ON 4:7 remnant. See p 1080. the LORD will reign. Prophecy is fulfilled in the just and merciful rule of Christ, who lives and reigns forever. See pp 1565–66. Luth: "Here is a clear and magnificent passage about the divinity of Christ. For this is the way David used to call Him who was going to sit upon his throne his Seed. Ps. 110. This passage Christ Himself quotes in the Gospel account (cf. Mark 12:36). So also here he calls Him Lord who is going to rule forever over His people on Mount Zion. It is necessary, then, that this be not a physical kingdom but a spiritual and eternal one" (AE 18:241).

MICAH—NOTE ON 4:8 tower of the flock. Jerusalem, a tower of security for the earthly flock of Israel before being destroyed, will give eternal security when it is made new (Rv 21:1–4). daughter of Zion. See note, Ps 9:14. kingship. Kingdom of David will be restored in the person of Christ, the Son of David (Mt 21:5, 9; Lk 1:32).

MICAH—NOTE ON 4:9 Now. Contrasts with "latter days" (v 1); also introduces v 11 and 5:1. counselor. Title for a king whose wisdom is borne out in policies that provide peace and security for the realm. woman in labor? Conveys present pain of the daughter of Zion (v 10).

MICAH—NOTE ON 4:10 open country. Dwelling in open country meant loss of security and companionship found in walled communities. go to Babylon. Prophecy fulfilled in 587 BC. rescued … redeem. The Lord would bring His people deliverance from captivity. Their earthly redemption prefigures the ultimate deliverance in Christ. See p 843.

MICAH—NOTE ON 4:11 nations are assembled against you. Military situation looked hopeless. defiled. Nations plot not only to defeat Jerusalem but also to desecrate the temple. See p 300.

MICAH—NOTE ON 4:12 He has gathered them … to the threshing floor. Day of Judgment is often compared to threshing grain, separating wheat from chaff (Is 41:15; Jer 51:33; Mt 13:30). Micah again uses an agricultural image.

MICAH—NOTE ON 4:13 thresh. Though the Lord Himself is the Judge of the nations (Rv 14:15–17), the people of Jerusalem are pictured as His agents. make your horn iron. Horn, symbol of strength, is made doubly strong to accomplish God's judgment. See "horn," p 842. hoofs bronze. In threshing, oxen trod down the grain with their hoofs, here made of metal.

See pp 422–23. devote. Wealth of the nations would be consecrated to the Lord in acknowledgment of His victory.

MICAH—NOTE ON 4:6–13 Micah proclaims the time when the Lord will gather His faithful people and reign over them as King. Though the nations assemble against Jerusalem, the Lord promises that in the end they will all be threshed out like grain. The forces of evil continue to rage against God's Church, but we have His assurance that the gates of hell shall not prevail against it (Mt 16:18; Rv 6:15–16). When we face difficult times, when the forces of the devil are lined up against us, we may be tempted to give up trusting that God is with us to guide and protect us. We can be certain of His gracious presence whenever we hear His Word and receive the body and blood of Christ. He will not leave us or forsake us. • Father, thank You for giving me Your Son, in whom I have life and security and peace. By the leading of Your Holy Spirit, I devote all that I have to Your service. Amen.

MICAH—NOTE ON 5:1 O daughter of troops. Pictures Jerusalem as a military base. siege is laid. Cf 4:11. judge of Israel. The king, not God's appointed judge. See note, Jgs 2:16. strike ... on the cheek. Insult emphasizing the king's helplessness (Ps 3:7; Lm 3:30).

MICAH—NOTE ON 5:2 But you. The Lord addressed this wonderful promise of a future ruler to a people and king whose situation seemed hopeless. Bethlehem. Birthplace of David and Jesus, 18 mi NE of Moresheth, Micah's hometown (1:1). See color map 1. When the Wise Men came to Jerusalem seeking the king of the Jews, they were directed to Bethlehem based on this passage. Ephrathah. City or region associated with Bethlehem. Jacob's wife Rachel was buried here (Gn 35:19). clans. See pp 54–55. Ephrathites were a small clan in the tribe of Judah (Ru 1:2). for Me. Promise of a Ruler accords with the Lord's own saving purpose. coming forth ... ancient. Origin of Israel's famous King David, born three centuries before Micah's day, was somewhat ancient. But the promised Ruler's origin was even more ancient, because He was begotten of the Father from eternity. See notes, Pr 8:22, 23. Luth: "He does not come forth first from Bethlehem after the Babylonian captivity but came forth a long time ago already. This is just the way John describes the divinity of Christ (John 1:1): 'In the beginning was the Word.' In his song, Ps. 90:2, Moses sings: 'From everlasting to everlasting Thou art God.' There Moses used the same expression that Micah uses here, that is: 'You did not begin with the world, but, when the world began to be, You already were.' Christ also says about Himself: 'Before Abraham was, I am' (John 8:58)" (AE 18:248).

MICAH—NOTE ON 5:3 give them up. Before the promised Ruler would be born, God's people were left to suffer at the hands of their enemies. she. Refers to Mary. The One whom her labor brought forth healed the pain of the daughter of Zion (4:9–10). return. Spiritual return of all Israel, all believers (Rm 11:26). See p 1080.

MICAH—NOTE ON 5:4–5a stand and shepherd. Imagery of the king guiding and protecting his people was common (2:12; 4:6–8; Ezk 34:1–24). strength ... majesty. Qualities attributed to kings are here described as coming from the Lord. to the ends of the earth. All nations will ultimately recognize and acknowledge the authority of the Lord, and so there will be peace and security for the Lord's people (Php 2:10–11; Rv 11:15). peace. The Messiah is the Prince of Peace (Is 9:6; Lk 2:14).

MICAH—NOTE ON 5:5b Assyrian. Micah's contemporaries responded to God's promise of a ruler by boasting of their ability to defeat this powerful nation located some 500 mi NE. In 701 BC, the Assyrian army under King Sennacherib invaded Judah and besieged Jerusalem (2Ki 18:13–17). we will raise ... seven shepherds and eight princes. Not meant as precise figures but to suggest a fairly large number of military leaders. See note, Pr 30.

MICAH—NOTE ON 5:6 Nimrod. Name of this "mighty man" (see note, Gn 10:8) was applied to Assyria. entrances. Troop movements at the borders would be blocked. he shall deliver us. Micah's hearers understood that the promised Ruler (v 2) would assure earthly victory. They failed to foresee that this Ruler was coming to deliver them from all spiritual enemies.

MICAH—NOTE ON 5:1–6 The Lord did not guarantee that the city of Jerusalem would escape capture, but He did promise a ruler from the house of David who would bring lasting peace and security. The Lord has not promised us victory over all our earthly enemies, but He has given us victory over sin, death, and the power of the devil through Jesus, the Son of David, born at Bethlehem in "the fullness of time" (Gal 4:4). He is our mighty fortress (LSB 656). • "Thanks be to God, who gives us the victory through our Lord Jesus Christ" (1Co 15:57). Alleluia!

MICAH—NOTE ON 5:7 remnant. See p 1080. like dew ... like showers. Just as dew and showers are not dependent on human initiative, but are God's doing, so it is God's plan to disperse His people among the nations.

MICAH—NOTE ON 5:8 like a lion. Symbol of ferocious strength, esp of God's power over the nations (Is 31:4; Hos 11:10). See note, Am 1:2. God's people share in His power and are triumphant in the midst of their foes (Lk 10:19; 12:32).
MICAH—NOTE ON 5:10 in that day. See note, 4:1. cut off. The Lord will rid His people of all implements of war because they will not be needed when the Messiah reigns (v 5; Zec 9:10).
MICAH—NOTE ON 5:12 sorceries … tellers of fortunes. Attempts to manipulate divine power according to human will. See note, Dt 18:10–11.
MICAH—NOTE ON 5:13 carved images. Represented deities such as Baal, set up in shrines and high places, that even Israelites had worshiped. pillars. See note, Gn 28:18.
MICAH—NOTE ON 5:14 Asherah. Canaanite vegetation goddess and wife of Baal. Asherah images were usually wooden posts or trees that were seen as access points to the favorable presence of the goddess. See note, Ex 34:13.
MICAH—NOTE ON 5:7–15 The Lord is with His holy remnant (Is 4:3), even when we live in the midst of our enemies. We need not depend on human strength or seek help and direction from some other "divine" being. If we do, we are sure to falter and fail. When we take the Lord at His Word and depend on His might, we will be secure and at peace. God remains present with us even when we feel utterly abandoned to forces beyond our control, such as sickness and death. He uses such times to cleanse us from unbelief and lead us to a deeper trust in Christ Jesus. • Thank You, Father, for always being with me no matter where I find myself in life. Through Your Word and Sacrament, strengthen my faith in Jesus, and make me confident of Your help. Amen.
MICAH—NOTE ON 6:1 Hear. Micah turned his vision away from the future (chs 4–5) and directed the people to hear what God had to say to them (1:2; 6:2, 9). plead your case before the mountains. The Lord put Israel on trial and called on the mountains to be the jury. On court proceedings, see p 792.
MICAH—NOTE ON 6:2 indictment. The Lord, as plaintiff, charged Israel with failure to do what He required (v 8).
MICAH—NOTE ON 6:3 The Lord's questions ironically suggested that possibly He was at fault for Israel's failures.

MICAH—NOTE ON 6:4–5 The Lord reminded His people of four specific examples of His saving acts: He (1) redeemed them from Egypt; (2) provided excellent leaders; (3) guarded from harm; (4) led them into the Promised Land.
MICAH—NOTE ON 6:4 redeemed. See p 843.
MICAH—NOTE ON 6:5 Balak king of Moab ... Balaam. Balak hired Balaam to curse Israel, but the Lord forced him to bless Israel instead (Nu 22–24). Shittim to Gilgal. Locations on the eastern and western sides of the Jordan River, which Israel crossed to enter Canaan (Jsh 3:1; 4:19). See color map 1; see also p 250.
MICAH—NOTE ON 6:1–5 The Lord's indictment of Israel is based on the evidence of His saving acts. Yet by their sins, the people acted as though serving the Lord wearied them. When we think and speak as though God wants to rob us of joy in life, we treat God as our oppressor. We forget His saving acts on our behalf: creation, redemption, and sanctification. The Lord comes to us in His Word, calling us to repentance. The Holy Spirit moves us to confess our sins and trust Jesus for pardon and renewal. • Father, thank You for the love You have shown me in Your Son. By the leading of Your Holy Spirit, may I live each day recalling the great things You have done for me. Amen.
MICAH—NOTE ON 6:6–8 Character of the offerings goes from common to extraordinary to absurd. Some interpreters have argued from this passage that Israelite offerings originally included child sacrifice, commonly practiced by other nations. However, such an interpretation fails to appreciate the prophet's rhetoric.
MICAH—NOTE ON 6:6 come before the LORD. In response to the Lord's indictment, an individual asks what the Lord requires. The four questions, in ascending scale of value, refer to some ritual performance. bow. See p 1276. calves a year old? Burnt offering prescribed by God's law (Lv 9:3).
MICAH—NOTE ON 6:7 thousands of rams. When King Solomon dedicated the temple, countless animals were sacrificed (1Ki 8:5, 63). rivers of oil? Oil was poured on grain offerings (Lv 2:1). my firstborn. Israel was forbidden to sacrifice children (Dt 18:10), something their heathen neighbors did (2Ki 21:6). See pp 170–71.
MICAH—NOTE ON 6:8 O man. Micah directs each individual to the Word, where the Lord tells what He requires. do justice. To be fair and honest. See p 842. love kindness. Hbr chesed, emphasizes a love that is loyal and steadfast. See "steadfast love," p 843. walk humbly. To be modest and reverential, always conscious of one's dependence on the Lord. See p 7. Luth: "God requires no good works from us for Himself; He wants everything to yield to the use and welfare of our neighbor. The glory of such works is enough for God. Faith is the beginning of justification, as all Scripture reveals. Being justified by faith, we neither can nor should offer anything to God other than the sacrifice of praise; that is, that we bear witness with our preaching of the grace we have received, that we magnify God, that we preach His glory, and do this preaching through the Gospel. These are the 'fruits of our lips,' Hos. 14:2. Then let us show mercy to our neighbor" (AE 18:261).

MICAH—NOTE ON 6:6–8 The Lord has clearly revealed in His Word what He requires of us. Our problem is not a failure to know but a failure to do. We "all have sinned and fall short of the glory of God" (Rm 3:23). God showed His steadfast love for us by the sacrifice of His Son on the cross. We are "justified by His grace as a gift, through the redemption that is in Christ Jesus" (Rm 3:24). The Holy Spirit leads redeemed sinners to walk in justice, kindness, and humility. • Lamb of God, You take away the sin of the world. Grant us peace and love toward our neighbors. Amen.

MICAH—NOTE ON 6:9 city. Sins described in vv 10–12 were more common in the city. Perhaps Jerusalem is intended. sound wisdom to fear Your name. Micah interjected a word of advice to the people. See p 1001. Hear. Exhortation of vv 1–2 was repeated because the Lord will again be speaking. rod. Micah had reminded the people of what the Lord required (v 8). Now they will hear from the Lord how the rod of His punishment will fall on them because they failed to do good. See note, Pr 10:13.

MICAH—NOTE ON 6:10 treasures of wickedness. Money, land, and possessions gained by unjust business practices. scant measure. Deceptively lighter weights (v 11) were used by sellers to cheat buyers.

MICAH—NOTE ON 6:11 bag of deceitful weights? Merchants tied their own weights to their belts.

MICAH—NOTE ON 6:12 People grew rich by means of dishonesty, violence, and lies.

MICAH—NOTE ON 6:13 grievous blow. The rod of the Lord would strike those who sinfully oppressed the poor and weak. The image refers to drought or blight.

MICAH—NOTE ON 6:14–15 The Lord inflicted a "futility curse" on the people, which prevented them from ever being satisfied or enjoying the fruits of their labors (Hos 8:7; Am 5:11). Cf Dt 28.

MICAH—NOTE ON 6:16 Omri ... Ahab. Father and son, kings of Israel (885–853 BC) whose wickedness became proverbial (1Ki 16:25, 30). walked in their counsels. Rather than walking humbly with God (v 8), Micah's hearers followed the example of these wicked kings. you. The Lord probably has the city in mind (v 9). hissing. Inhabitants of the city would be objects of derisive hissing.

MICAH—NOTE ON 6:9–16 God would punish the wickedness of powerful city people. They would be cursed, not blessed, and be derided and condemned. Whoever breaks God's laws, especially by using positions of power to exploit the weak, will ultimately face God's judgment. Our sins may not match all that the Lord here condemns, but none of us is innocent in His sight. To walk humbly with our God means to repent daily of our sins and cling to His grace and mercy in Christ. • Lord Jesus, cleanse me from all evil, and give me strength to care for those who are weak and powerless in our world. Amen.

MICAH—NOTE ON 7:1 Woe is me! Micah lamented the sad spiritual decay of the house of Jacob (2:7–10). no cluster to eat. Just as one finds nothing to eat after the harvest is completed, so Micah searched in vain for any righteous person in the land.

MICAH—NOTE ON 7:2 there is no one upright. Micah's pessimistic assessment was shared by Paul (Rm 3:10–12, quoting Ps 14:3). See note, Jb 1:1. Ambr: "Let us, then, mourn for a time, that we may rejoice for eternity. Let us fear the Lord, let us anticipate Him with the confession of our sins, let us correct our backslidings and amend our faults" (NPNF 2 10:352). lie in wait for blood. People prey on one another, committing acts of violence for their own gain. a net. Hunting metaphor picturing how one person trapped another. See note, Ps 91:3.

MICAH—NOTE ON 7:3 evil, to do it well. People excelled in the art of doing evil. great man. The leader should be expected to set a good example. utters the evil. What formerly was unspoken is now discussed and planned openly. weave it together. Like spiders, the wicked weave webs to tangle the weak and unwitting.

MICAH—NOTE ON 7:4 Even the most upright of the leaders were like plants that not only fail to bear good fruit but also snare and entangle anyone who comes close. watchmen. Prophets who warned of the coming day of the Lord (Jer 6:17; Hos 9:8). See notes, Is 21:6–12.

MICAH—NOTE ON 7:5–6 A time of universal suspicion when no one could be trusted. Jesus used similar words to describe a consequence of His ministry (Mt 10:35–36).
MICAH—NOTE ON 7:7 I will look to the LORD. As bad as the sinful conditions were in the land, Micah continued to trust in the Lord's salvation. salvation. See p 843.
MICAH—NOTE ON 7:8 me. Speaker is no longer Micah, but the repentant house of Jacob (4:2; 5:7–8). enemy. The devil and all the forces of evil. fall … rise. Israel certainly did fall, but a remnant would rise (Ezk 37:1–14).
MICAH—NOTE ON 7:9 bear the indignation. Sincere repentance expresses willingness to bear punishment for sins. The Judge determines what is best for the sinner. I have sinned. Confession is similar to those of King David and the prodigal son (Ps 51; Lk 15:21). He pleads my cause. God had challenged His people to plead their case (6:1). Now they look to Him to plead their cause. See note, Jb 13:8. bring me out. God will lead His people out of sin's captivity.
MICAH—NOTE ON 7:10 Where is the LORD your God? Shame will cover the faces of those who had mocked Israel's hope in the Lord (Ps 42:3). mire. Waste was commonly dumped in the streets, which were seen as public sewers (cf 1Sm 25:22, 34 KJV; 1Ki 14:10–11 KJV).
MICAH—NOTE ON 7:11 NT Israel—the Church—reaches to the end of the earth (Ac 1:6, 8; Gal 6:16).
MICAH—NOTE ON 7:12 In that day. Cf 2:4; 4:6; 5:10. they. Remnant of God's people, dispersed in many lands, will be gathered into one flock (2:12; Jn 10:16). River. The Euphrates.
MICAH—NOTE ON 7:13 In contrast to the gathering of God's people, the earth's wicked inhabitants will suffer punishment for their sins.
MICAH—NOTE ON 7:14 Shepherd Your people with Your staff. God's people called on Him to protect and guide them so that they might live in security, without fear of attack from their enemies (Ezk 34:11–16). inheritance. Common OT description of Israel to emphasize how special they were (Ps 79:1). See "portion," p 7. dwell alone. Such a lost person needs to be found by a good shepherd (Lk 15:1–7). Bashan and Gilead. Lands east of the Sea of Chinnereth and Jordan River, noted for fertile pastures. See color map 2.

MICAH—NOTE ON 7:15 As in the days. The Lord responded to His people's prayer by promising a new exodus, with deeds more wonderful than the first. marvelous things. Foreshadows the birth of God's Son, His resurrection from the dead, and the spread of the Gospel into all the world.

MICAH—NOTE ON 7:16 ashamed. Nations will stand dumbstruck before God's saving power. hands on their mouths. Sign of amazement. Luth: "So great will be the course of the Gospel and of this new kingdom, so broadly will it extend, that it will even reach the heathen, who will see the miracles of Christ and of the apostles. They will see so great a power of the Spirit in those miracles that they will become ashamed and quickly cease to trust further in the arm of the flesh. No longer will they glory in their own strength and in the righteousnesses of the flesh in which they used to trust. Rather, they will glory in this, 'that they have known Me,' Jeremiah 9:24" (AE 18:275).

MICAH—NOTE ON 7:17 lick the dust. Picture of humiliation and defeat. See note, Is 49:23. turn in dread. The once-haughty nations will fear divine judgment. See "turn," p 1080. fear. See p 1001. Cypr: "The foundation and strength of hope and faith is fear [of the Lord]" (ANF 5:539).

MICAH—NOTE ON 7:1–17 At the time of Micah's ministry, there was corruption and dissolution in the public and private spheres of life. Yet the prophet spoke of a coming time when God would gather His dispersed people and vindicate them before the nations. Through Word and Sacrament, God continues to gather people into His kingdom, people who confess their sins and look to Him for salvation. What a privilege to be part of God's inheritance and a witness to His saving power! • Come, Holy Spirit, and give me the joy of salvation. Make me an eager witness of the Gospel. Amen.

MICAH—NOTE ON 7:18 Who is a God like You. There is no God like the Lord, who reveals His glory in forgiving sins. The meaning of Micah's name, "Who is like the Lord?" is reflected in this question. remnant of His inheritance? Cf 4:7. See "portion," p 7; see also "remnant," p 1080. steadfast love. God's love differs from human love in that it never ceases (Rm 8:31–39). See p 843.

MICAH—NOTE ON 7:19 tread our iniquities. Military metaphor (cf v 10), picturing how totally God eliminates our enemy, sin. You will cast all our sins. Sincere confession of believers expressing their confidence that God will remove their sins beyond retrieval, just as He removed the threat of Pharaoh's chariots.

MICAH—NOTE ON 7:20 Remnant of Israel was certain that God's faithfulness and steadfast love, sworn to their fathers, was effectual for them as well. Mary and Zechariah expressed this same faith in their songs (Lk 1:54–55; 72–73). faithfulness … steadfast love. See p 843. from the days of old. Because of what God has done in the past, believers are confident about the future (vv 14–15).

MICAH—NOTE ON 7:18–20 In this concluding hymn, the Lord's loving and forgiving nature is described, followed by a confident assertion of faith in Him. To know and trust such a God provokes in us a humble awe of our own unworthiness. With the tax collector in the temple, we are moved to pray, "God, be merciful to me, a sinner!" (Lk 18:13). • I hope in You, O Lord. Never leave me or forsake me. Amen.

1 [1] † An oracle concerning Nineveh. The book of the vision of Nahum of Elkosh.

God’s Wrath Against Nineveh

2 The Lord is a jealous and avenging God;
the Lord is avenging and wrathful;
the Lord takes vengeance on his adversaries and keeps wrath for his enemies.
3 The Lord is slow to anger and great in power, and the Lord will by no means clear the guilty.
His way is in whirlwind and storm,
and the clouds are the dust of his feet.
4 He rebukes the sea and makes it dry;
he dries up all the rivers;
Bashan and Carmel wither;
the bloom of Lebanon withers.
5 The mountains quake before him;
the hills melt;
the earth heaves before him,
the world and all who dwell in it.

6 Who can stand before his indignation?
Who can endure the heat of his anger?
His wrath is poured out like fire,
and the rocks are broken into pieces by him.
7 The Lord is good,
a stronghold in the day of trouble;
he knows those who take refuge in him.
8 But with an overflowing flood he will make a complete end of the adversaries,[1]
and will pursue his enemies into darkness.
9 What do you plot against the Lord?
He will make a complete end;
trouble will not rise up a second time.
10 For they are like entangled thorns,

like drunkards as they drink;
they are consumed like stubble fully dried.
11 From you came one who plotted evil against the Lord,
a worthless counselor.

12 Thus says the Lord,
"Though they are at full strength and many,
they will be cut down and pass away.
Though I have afflicted you,
I will afflict you no more.
13 And now I will break his yoke from off you and will burst your bonds apart."

14 The Lord has given commandment about you:
"No more shall your name be perpetuated;
from the house of your gods I will cut off the carved image and the metal image.
I will make your grave, for you are vile."

15 [1] Behold, upon the mountains, the feet of him
who brings good news,
who publishes peace!
Keep your feasts, O Judah;
fulfill your vows,
for never again shall the worthless pass through you;
he is utterly cut off.

The Destruction of Nineveh

2 [1]† The scatterer has come up against you.
Man the ramparts;
watch the road;
dress for battle;[2]
collect all your strength.

[2]† For the LORD is restoring the majesty of Jacob
as the majesty of Israel, for plunderers have plundered them and ruined their branches.

[3]† The shield of his mighty men is red;
his soldiers are clothed in scarlet.
The chariots come with flashing metal on the day he musters them;
the cypress spears are brandished.
[4] The chariots race madly through the streets;
they rush to and fro through the squares;
they gleam like torches;
they dart like lightning.
[5]† He remembers his officers;
they stumble as they go,
they hasten to the wall;
the siege tower[3] is set up.
[6]† The river gates are opened;
the palace melts away;
[7]† its mistress[4] is stripped;[5] she is carried off,
her slave girls lamenting, moaning like doves
and beating their breasts.
[8]† Nineveh is like a pool whose waters run away.[6]

"Halt! Halt!" they cry, but none turns back.
9 Plunder the silver,
plunder the gold!
There is no end of the treasure or of the wealth of all precious things.

10 Desolate! Desolation and ruin!
Hearts melt and knees tremble;
anguish is in all loins;
all faces grow pale!
11 Where is the lions' den,
the feeding place of the young lions,
where the lion and lioness went,
where his cubs were, with none to disturb?
12 The lion tore enough for his cubs and strangled prey for his lionesses;
he filled his caves with prey
and his dens with torn flesh.

13 Behold, I am against you, declares the LORD of hosts, and I will burn your[1] chariots in smoke, and the sword shall devour your young lions. I will cut off your prey from the earth, and the voice of your messengers shall no longer be heard.

Woe to Nineveh

3 [1]† Woe to the bloody city, all full of lies and plunder—
no end to the prey!

[2]† The crack of the whip, and rumble of the wheel,
galloping horse and bounding chariot!
[3]† Horsemen charging,
flashing sword and glittering spear,
hosts of slain,
heaps of corpses,
dead bodies without end—
they stumble over the bodies!
[4]† And all for the countless whorings of the prostitute,
graceful and of deadly charms,
who betrays nations with her whorings,
and peoples with her charms.

[5]† Behold, I am against you,
declares the Lord of hosts,
and will lift up your skirts over your face;
and I will make nations look at your nakedness
and kingdoms at your shame.
[6]† I will throw filth at you and treat you with contempt and make you a spectacle.
[7]† And all who look at you will shrink from you and say,
Wasted is Nineveh; who will grieve for her?
Where shall I seek comforters for you?

8† Are you better than Thebes[2]
that sat by the Nile,
with water around her,
her rampart a sea,
and water her wall?
9† Cush was her strength;
Egypt too, and that without limit;
Put and the Libyans were her[3] helpers.

10† Yet she became an exile;
she went into captivity;
her infants were dashed in pieces
at the head of every street;
for her honored men lots were cast,
and all her great men were bound in chains.
11† You also will be drunken;
you will go into hiding;
you will seek a refuge from the enemy.
12† All your fortresses are like fig trees with first-ripe figs—
if shaken they fall into the mouth of the eater.
13† Behold, your troops are women in your midst.
The gates of your land
are wide open to your enemies;
fire has devoured your bars.

14† Draw water for the siege;
strengthen your forts;
go into the clay;
tread the mortar;
take hold of the brick mold!

15 There will the fire devour you;
the sword will cut you off.
It will devour you like the locust.
Multiply yourselves like the locust;
multiply like the grasshopper!
16 You increased your merchants
more than the stars of the heavens.
The locust spreads its wings and flies away.

17 Your princes are like grasshoppers, your scribes[1] like clouds of locusts settling on the fences
in a day of cold—
when the sun rises, they fly away;
no one knows where they are.

18 Your shepherds are asleep,
O king of Assyria;
your nobles slumber.
Your people are scattered on the mountains
with none to gather them.
19 There is no easing your hurt;
your wound is grievous.
All who hear the news about you clap their hands over you.
For upon whom has not come your unceasing evil?

Introduction to Nahum

Reading Nahum

Oxen lean into their yoke, slowly drawing a two-wheeled cart between the houses. The cart rattles under its burden as the crude wooden wheels roll over rocks and shards and soft patches in the street. Suddenly, hooves and eight-spoke wheels clatter behind the oxen. Chariots roll up the hill, as rein-lashing drivers and warriors shout for space on the streets. Their warhorses snort and toss their manes, closing rapidly on the oxen. The ox-driver goads his animals to move them aside and let the chariots race past so they can rush toward the battle lines.

The Lord promised Nahum that the yoke burdening Judah—the conquering Assyrian army—would soon be removed (1:13). Though the Assyrians had perfected the strategic use of their chariots, they would not overcome the Babylonians' attacks. The wood, leather, and wicker of the Assyrian chariots would race to their own destruction in the fires of war (2:3–4; 3:13). Nineveh, Assyria's proud capital, would fall as the Lord of hosts declared (3:1–7).

Luther on Nahum

The prophet Nahum prophesies about the destruction that the Assyrians were to inflict upon the people of Israel and Judah, as it was then actually accomplished by Shalmaneser and Sennacherib. This destruction took place because of the people's great sins. It was limited, however, in that the righteous remnant were to be preserved, as Hezekiah and those like him then experienced. Therefore it seems that Nahum came before Isaiah, or was at least his contemporary.

Next Nahum announces the destruction of the kingdom of Assyria, especially of Nineveh. While this city was very righteous in the time of Jonah, it afterward became full of wickedness again, and greatly afflicted the captives of Israel. Therefore even Tobit announces the final ruin of Nineveh's wickedness, and says, "Its iniquity will bring it to destruction." True to his name (for Nahum means consolator, or comforter,) he comforts God's people, telling them that their enemies, the Assyrians, shall in turn be destroyed.

At the end of chapter 1[:15], he talks like Isaiah 52[:7] of the good preachers who proclaim peace and salvation on the mountains, and bids Judah joyfully to celebrate. Though that can be understood to refer to the time of Hezekiah, after Sennacherib, when Judah was rescued and survived against King Sennacherib, nevertheless, this is a general prophecy referring also to Christ. It declares that the good news and the joyous worship of God, taught and confirmed by God's word, shall remain in Judah. Thus he is, and is properly called, a real Nahum. (AE 35:326)

For more of Luther's insights on this Book, see Lectures on Nahum (AE 18:279–315).

Challenges for Readers

Relevance. This prophecy against Assyria and Nineveh might easily be dismissed as irrelevant to people's lives today, as the events addressed here happened so long ago. However, Nahum dramatically illustrates how concerned the Lord is with human affairs, especially matters that affect the lives of His people, the Church.

The Angry Warrior. Nahum describes the Lord as a warrior (1:2–14), which may offend those who view God as only peace loving. Yet Nahum's description of the Lord agrees with other portions of Scripture (e.g., the exodus, the conquest).

Blessings for Readers

As you read this short prophecy, take note of how the Lord cares for His wayward people, calling them back to faithfulness and promising them aid. The Lord has good news for you too! Cling to the promises of His Word and His feasts (1:15), which pointed forward to the revelation of the Prince of Peace, Jesus.

Study Notes

NAHUM—NOTE ON 1:1 oracle. Hbr massa', "burden." A divinely inspired message uttered by a prophet sent by God. God laid a heavy burden on Nahum's shoulders by calling him to speak a terrifying word of judgment against Nineveh. Oracles were most often spoken against a foreign power. Nineveh. Established by Sennacherib (704–681 BC) as the capital of the Assyrian Empire, it was located on the east bank of the Tigris River. See map, p 609. Excavation of its ruins near Mosul (in modern-day Iraq) revealed palaces with stone reliefs of the invasion and ruination of Judah in 701 BC. book. Lit, "scroll." Books of bound pages were not made until the first century. Nahum is committed to writing the entire message God revealed to him. No mention is made of the material on which Nahum is to write his Book, in contrast to Habakkuk, whom God commands to "write the vision" on tablets (Hab 2:2). vision. Hbr chazon. Occurs elsewhere in the titles of prophetic writings as a technical term for divine revelation (Is 1:1; Hab 1:1). Nahum. Little is known about the prophet. His name means "comforter." This suggests that his prophecy, a word of judgment against Nineveh, brought comfort to the people of Judah. of Elkosh. Location unknown, though most likely somewhere in Judah.

NAHUM—NOTE ON 1:2–3 Nahum unmistakably parallels the language of Ex 34:6–7 (cf Nu 14:18), where God reestablishes His covenant after He punishes Israel's idolatrous worship of the golden calf. But Nahum makes one significant change. In Ex 34:6, "slow to anger" is followed by "abounding in steadfast love and faithfulness." In Na 1:3, "slow to anger" is followed by "great in power." All that awaits wicked Nineveh is the raw power of God's judgment.

NAHUM—NOTE ON 1:2 jealous and avenging. God's jealousy means that He will tolerate no rivals; no one may steal His honor. He demands exclusive devotion (Ex 34:14; Dt 4:24). Because He is a jealous God, He aggressively executes vengeance against all wickedness and reveals His wrath and fury against His enemies. He is so possessive of His people that their enemies are His enemies.

NAHUM—NOTE ON 1:3 slow to anger. Hbr idiom (lit, "long of face") is aptly captured by the LXX translation, "long-suffering." It pictures divine restraint. His way … whirlwind and storm, and the clouds. Ominously depicts God's vigorous movement, as He is preparing to take action in an outbreak of fury.

NAHUM—NOTE ON 1:4 Bashan. Transjordanian plateau, east of the Sea of Chinnereth. Carmel. Mountain jutting into the Great Sea south of Phoenicia. Lebanon. Mountainous range north of Phoenicia. These three locales in Israel's northern territory are known for their fruitfulness, with well-watered pastures and forested hills (cf Is 60:13; Jer 50:19). See color map 2.

NAHUM—NOTE ON 1:5 The violent convulsions and upheavals of nature picture how the physical world bows before God, who approaches in wrath and judgment against sin (Ps 29:3–9; Mi 1:4; Hab 3:6, 10).

NAHUM—NOTE ON 1:6 the heat of His anger? God consumes and utterly devastates those who rebel against Him, so hot is the fire of His wrath (Dt 32:22; Jer 7:20). Nahum uses four different Hbr words for "wrath" or "anger" in this verse. God's judgment is no mere slap on the wrist.

NAHUM—NOTE ON 1:7 The Lord is good. In striking contrast to the portrayal of God's anger is this assurance of His goodness to those who take refuge in Him. stronghold. Hbr ma'oz, place of safety or protection. It is used often to describe God's powerful and gracious protection of those who place their trust in Him (Ps 27:1; Jer 16:19; Jl 3:16).

NAHUM—NOTE ON 1:8 darkness. Used figuratively in the OT to characterize distress (Is 5:30), terror (Am 5:18, 20), mourning (Is 47:5), and perplexity (Jb 5:14). Nineveh will experience the terror of being pursued by God into the realm where the light of hope nowhere flickers.

NAHUM—NOTE ON 1:9 trouble will not rise up a second time. Assyrians are reminded of the finality of their destruction. No second destructive blow will be necessary.

NAHUM—NOTE ON 1:10 God's enemies, the Assyrians, are defenseless in their sinful preoccupations and drunken stupor. They will be burned out of existence (Is 5:24).

NAHUM—NOTE ON 1:11 one who plotted evil. Probably a reference to the Assyrian king Sennacherib, who had invaded Judah during Hezekiah's reign (Is 36:1). This "worthless counselor" plotted against the Lord, setting himself up for destruction.

NAHUM—NOTE ON 1:12 they. The Assyrians, whose military power was massive. afflicted. The Lord had allowed the Assyrian army to inflict suffering on Judah, but now Nahum reveals that this oppression is over.

NAHUM—NOTE ON 1:13 yoke. Wooden crosspiece that fastened two animals together; figurative for oppression.
NAHUM—NOTE ON 1:14 you. Singular; the Assyrian king. No more shall your name be perpetuated. The Assyrian king Ashurbanipal (668–627 BC) expressly requested in his annals that his name be perpetuated through inscriptions. Such self-glorification will come to a shattering end. carved image ... metal image. Likely the images of deities such as Ishtar, the fertility goddess worshiped in Nineveh's temples. vile. Of little account (Hbr "you are trifling").

NAHUM—NOTE ON 1:15 The swift messenger who witnessed Nineveh's fall brings the good news that Judah's oppressor will no longer tyrannize or torment her. peace! In its fullest OT sense of well-being under God's blessing, which shall become a reality for God's people. With minor variations, Nahum's text reads like Is 52:7, which is later quoted by St Paul in Rm 10:15. Luth: "There is no other passage in this prophet which we can take as related to Christ except this one" (AE 18:295). feasts. Probably the three annual feasts of Passover, Weeks, and Booths (Dt 16:1–17; see pp 200–201). Ath: "With alacrity and zeal we should come to it, so that having begun joyfully here, we may also receive an earnest of that heavenly feast" (NPNF 2 4:519). vows. Pledges made by the people to the Lord (cf Lv 27; see p 7). the worthless. See note, v 11.

NAHUM—NOTE ON 1:2–15 Nahum foretells God's swift and final destruction of Nineveh and the Assyrian Empire. With mighty power, God executes His avenging wrath against His adversaries, who plot evil against Him and His people. As God mercifully delivered ancient Judah from Assyrian oppression, so He rescued us from sin, death, and the devil through the victory of our Lord Jesus Christ. • Gracious Lord, my stronghold in the day of trouble, fill me with confidence in Your power to save. Amen.
NAHUM—NOTE ON 2:1 scatterer. In light of v 13, the disperser of Nineveh's inhabitants is God Himself through the besieging army. you. Nineveh personified. ramparts. City fortifications. dress for battle. Proud and mighty Nineveh must prepare to receive some of her own medicine.
NAHUM—NOTE ON 2:2 restoring the majesty. The restoration of Israel's splendor finds its ultimate fulfillment in the NT Church (Ps 145:12; Eph

5:27). branches. God's people are a vineyard whose branches were stripped bare of fruit by ravagers.
NAHUM—NOTE ON 2:3 red ... scarlet. Colors may be taken literally or may refer to the blood of battle. flashing metal. Chariots, frightful instruments of warfare in Nahum's time, were covered with steel, which flashed in the sun. cypress spears. The wood of cypress trees was both strong and flexible, ideal for lances or spears.
NAHUM—NOTE ON 2:5 remembers his officers. Luther takes this to mean that the Assyrian king summons his officers to confront the enemy (AE 18:301). siege tower. Hbr term occurs only here in the OT and refers to a movable structure used for shielding those storming the city.
NAHUM—NOTE ON 2:6 river gates. Water gates holding back the river Khoser, which flowed through Nineveh. The invaders opened the gates, flooding the city and bringing down the palace.
NAHUM—NOTE ON 2:7 *mistress. S*ee ESV note. Perhaps a reference to the queen of Nineveh. stripped. Nineveh's inhabitants suffer public humiliation (cf Is 47:1–3, 5). slave girls. Maids serving their mistress. beating their breasts. Like someone beating a drum, these girls beat their chests as an expression of great mourning over the demise of their once-mighty city.
NAHUM—NOTE ON 2:8 like a pool. This once-flourishing city now has the look of a drained pond.
NAHUM—NOTE ON 2:9 Assyrian kings customarily inventoried booty taken from conquered cities. Nineveh had grown rich through the plunder of its foes, but now it is Nineveh's turn to be looted.
NAHUM—NOTE ON 2:10 Paralyzing fear overcomes the inhabitants of Nineveh. Nahum vividly describes the physiological effects of the reign of terror.
NAHUM—NOTE ON 2:11–12 lions. Assyrian kings in their annals and inscriptions often compared themselves to lions, ferocious in battle. The prophet uses this very imagery as a taunt and mocks Nineveh. The one-time predator has now become the prey. With this vivid comparison, Nahum intends to portray Nineveh's documented brutality as beastly.
NAHUM—NOTE ON 2:13 you. Nineveh. Lord of hosts. See p 1291. The Lord is described as the commander of armies to emphasize the truth that He alone is supreme in heaven and on earth. He acts in history to accomplish His sovereign purposes (Is 1:24). young lions. The Assyrian king's subordinates, his officials and troops. your messengers. The Assyrian king Sennacherib sent his messenger to mock Jerusalem during the reign of Hezekiah (2Ki 18:17–37). Now Nineveh's pompous messengers are silenced for good.

NAHUM—NOTE ON Ch 2 Nahum mockingly describes the sudden, devastating siege and capture of Nineveh, the city once known for its ruthlessness and cruelty. God will not leave unpunished those whose way of life is violence and force (cf Mt 26:52). God has revealed a different way, one of mercy and peace through His Son, the Prince of Peace. • Lord, guide our feet into the way of peace. Amen.

NAHUM—NOTE ON 3:1 Woe. Expression of warning (cf Hab 2:6, 9, 12); also used in lamentations. See p 1080. bloody city. Assyrian cuneiform tablets record such fiendish practices as the amputation of heads, hands, feet, ears, and noses, the gouging of eyes, and the flaying alive of conquered victims.

NAHUM—NOTE ON 3:2 Readers can imagine themselves in the midst of a battle, so vividly portrayed are the cracking of whips and the thunderous roar of chariots.

NAHUM—NOTE ON 3:3 Three different Hbr words are used to describe fallen corpses. These gruesome details dramatize the fierceness of God's wrath against the evil that filled Nineveh.

NAHUM—NOTE ON 3:4 whorings ... charms. Nineveh's victimization of other nations is compared to harlotry and sorcery (Ezk 16:15–22). Nahum may be alluding to the cult of Ishtar, the special goddess of Nineveh, whose rituals contained explicit references to sexual activity.

NAHUM—NOTE ON 3:5 Lord of hosts. See p 1291. skirts over your face. God will punish Nineveh by subjecting the city and its inhabitants to public disgrace, just as a prostitute's or unfaithful wife's nakedness is exposed to her shame.

NAHUM—NOTE ON 3:6 throw filth. Throwing detestable, unclean objects evidences God's total contempt for Nineveh. Such objects were readily found on foul city streets.

NAHUM—NOTE ON 3:7 Nineveh will experience the ultimate degradation: even her former lovers and friends will not stop to mourn her or comfort her.

NAHUM—NOTE ON 3:8 Thebes. Hbr no' 'amon, "the city of Amon," the Egyptian god. This magnificent capital city was located on the Nile River c 330 mi S of modern Cairo. See map, p 717. It fell to the Assyrians in c 663 BC, helping us date Nahum's prophecy. water around her. System of canals, lakes, and rivers surrounded the city and provided fortification against invaders.

NAHUM—NOTE ON 3:9 Cush. Nation located c 800 mi S of Egypt, ruled by the Twenty-fifth Dynasty of Nubia (716–663 BC). See color map 3. Put ... Libyans. Exact location of Put is uncertain, though possibly it is an alternate name for Libya, the region west of Egypt. her helpers. Combined power of Thebes's allies made the city seem invincible.

NAHUM—NOTE ON 3:10 exile ... captivity. Despite her seemingly impregnable position, Thebes was unable to withstand the bloody onslaught of the Assyrian army in 663 BC and was captured, her people deported. Nahum makes the point that if Thebes fell, so would Nineveh. dashed in pieces. Brutality against children, not uncommon in ancient conquests, was intended to terrorize the populace into submission and to ensure its complete destruction (cf Ps 137:9; Hos 13:16). lots were cast. Perhaps this selected which honored men should be executed and which were to be bound in chains.

NAHUM—NOTE ON 3:11 drunken. Nineveh is so helpless that she is compared to a drunken person who has lost his senses and is powerless to defend himself.

NAHUM—NOTE ON 3:12 first-ripe figs. Appearing in April, figs are a delicacy for those who have not had fresh fruit since the fall harvest. if shaken they fall. Nineveh's fortifications are "ripe for the taking" and will fall with relatively little effort.

NAHUM—NOTE ON 3:13 troops are women. Figuratively implying that the defenders lack strength, courage, and the will to resist.

NAHUM—NOTE ON 3:14 Draw water. Through the mouth of Nahum, the Lord mockingly commands Nineveh's defenders to store up water in preparation for the severe deprivation soon to follow. go into the clay. Strengthen the city fortifications by making sun-baked bricks. The circumference of Nineveh's city walls, built by Sennacherib, was c 7½ mi.

NAHUM—NOTE ON 3:15 There. Nineveh. Multiply yourselves like the locust. Taunting command suggesting that Nineveh increase its population like rapidly multiplying locusts. Of course, all these defensive efforts would be to no avail.

NAHUM—NOTE ON 3:16 merchants. Through its conquests and power, Assyria had become a center of commerce.
NAHUM—NOTE ON 3:17 princes ... scribes. Military and civic officials with leadership responsibilities in the city. they fly away. Nineveh's cowardly ruling class, like the merchants (v 16), take flight from the city in the heat of battle like a swarm of locusts that have been enlivened by the warm sun.
NAHUM—NOTE ON 3:18 shepherds ... nobles. Slovenly neglect of the rulers' assigned roles has caused their kingdom to collapse and the citizens to scatter.
NAHUM—NOTE ON 3:19 your wound. Addressed to the king of Assyria (your is masculine in Hbr), who suffered a fatal injury as the result of the destructive attack leveled against the city. In 612 BC, Nineveh fell to the combined armies of the Babylonians and the Medes. Her proud temples, palaces, and engineering wonders crumbled and were soon forgotten. clap their hands. Assyria's brutal tyranny over surrounding nations was widespread and well known. When news of the city's downfall is received, applause erupts everywhere as an expression of profound relief and joy. For upon … evil? Only two books in the Bible end with a question (Jnh and Na). Nahum's closing rhetorical question, soliciting the answer "none," forcefully vindicates God's righteous judgment against evil.

NAHUM—NOTE ON Ch 3 For Nineveh, God's patience came to an end. The evil nation of Assyria that had tyrannized surrounding peoples, acquiring wealth and power at their expense, was overthrown, and it disappeared from the annals of history. God's wrath is revealed against all unrighteousness (Rm 1:18). Because of our sins, we also deserve His wrath and displeasure. Yet "God has not destined us for wrath, but to obtain salvation through our Lord Jesus Christ" (1Th 5:9). God's wrath was poured out on Christ, and by faith in Him we have pardon and peace. • Lord, give us contrite hearts so that, trusting in Your mercy, we may know Your forgiving love. Amen.

1 [1] The oracle that Habakkuk the prophet saw.

Habakkuk's Complaint

2 O LORD, how long shall I cry for help, and you will not hear?
Or cry to you "Violence!"
and you will not save?
3 Why do you make me see iniquity,
and why do you idly look at wrong?
Destruction and violence are before me;
strife and contention arise.
4 So the law is paralyzed,
and justice never goes forth.
For the wicked surround the righteous;
so justice goes forth perverted.

The Lord's Answer

5 "Look among the nations, and see;
wonder and be astounded.
For I am doing a work in your days that you would not believe if told.
6 For behold, I am raising up the Chaldeans, that bitter and hasty nation,
who march through the breadth of the earth,
to seize dwellings not their own.
7 They are dreaded and fearsome;
their justice and dignity go forth from themselves.
8 Their horses are swifter than leopards,
more fierce than the evening wolves;
their horsemen press proudly on.
Their horsemen come from afar;
they fly like an eagle swift to devour.
9 They all come for violence,
all their faces forward.
They gather captives like sand.
10 At kings they scoff,
and at rulers they laugh.
They laugh at every fortress,
for they pile up earth and take it.
11 Then they sweep by like the wind and go on, guilty men, whose own might is their god!"

Habakkuk's Second Complaint

12 Are you not from everlasting,
O LORD my God, my Holy One?
We shall not die.
O LORD, you have ordained them as a judgment, and you, O Rock, have established them for reproof.
13 You who are of purer eyes than to see evil
and cannot look at wrong,
why do you idly look at traitors and remain silent when the wicked swallows up
the man more righteous than he?
14 You make mankind like the fish of the sea,
like crawling things that have no ruler.
15 He brings all of them up with a hook;
he drags them out with his net;
he gathers them in his dragnet;
so he rejoices and is glad.
16 Therefore he sacrifices to his net and makes offerings to his dragnet;
for by them he lives in luxury,[1]
and his food is rich.
17 Is he then to keep on emptying his net
and mercilessly killing nations forever?

2 1 I will take my stand at my watchpost and station myself on the tower, and look out to see what he will say to me,
and what I will answer concerning my complaint.

The Righteous Shall Live by His Faith

2 ‡ ‡ And the Lord answered me:

“Write the vision;
make it plain on tablets,
so he may run who reads it.
3 ‡ For still the vision awaits its appointed time;
it hastens to the end—it will not lie.
If it seems slow, wait for it;
it will surely come; it will not delay.

4 ‡ “Behold, his soul is puffed up; it is not upright within him,
but the righteous shall live by his faith.[2] 5 ‡ “Moreover, wine[3] is a traitor, an arrogant man who is never at rest.[4]
His greed is as wide as Sheol;
like death he has never enough.
He gathers for himself all nations and collects as his own all peoples.”

Woe to the Chaldeans

6 ‡ † Shall not all these take up their taunt against him, with scoffing and riddles for him, and say,

"Woe to him who heaps up what is not his own—for how long?—
and loads himself with pledges!"
7 † Will not your debtors suddenly arise, and those awake who will make you tremble?
Then you will be spoil for them.
8 † Because you have plundered many nations, all the remnant of the peoples shall plunder
you,
for the blood of man and violence to the earth,
to cities and all who dwell in them.

9 † "Woe to him who gets evil gain for his house, to set his nest on high,
to be safe from the reach of harm!
10 † You have devised shame for your house
by cutting off many peoples;
you have forfeited your life.
11 † For the stone will cry out from the wall,
and the beam from the woodwork respond.

12 † "Woe to him who builds a town with blood and founds a city on iniquity!
13 † Behold, is it not from the Lord of hosts that peoples labor merely for fire, and nations weary themselves for nothing?

14 For the earth will be filled with the knowledge of the glory of the LORD
as the waters cover the sea.

15 "Woe to him who makes his neighbors drink—you pour out your wrath and make them drunk,
in order to gaze at their nakedness!
16 You will have your fill of shame instead of glory.
Drink, yourself, and show your uncircumcision!
The cup in the LORD's right hand
will come around to you, and utter shame will come upon your
glory!
17 The violence done to Lebanon will overwhelm you,
as will the destruction of the beasts that terrified them,
for the blood of man and violence to the
earth,
to cities and all who dwell in them.

18 "What profit is an idol
when its maker has shaped it,
a metal image, a teacher of lies?
For its maker trusts in his own creation
when he makes speechless idols!
19 Woe to him who says to a wooden thing, Awake;
to a silent stone, Arise!
Can this teach?
Behold, it is overlaid with gold and silver,

and there is no breath at all in it.
20† But the LORD is in his holy temple;
let all the earth keep silence before him.”

Habakkuk's Prayer

3 [1]†† A prayer of Habakkuk the prophet, according to Shigionoth.

[2]† O LORD, I have heard the report of you, and your work, O LORD, do I fear.
In the midst of the years revive it;
in the midst of the years make it known;
in wrath remember mercy.
[3]† God came from Teman,
and the Holy One from Mount Paran.
His splendor covered the heavens,
and the earth was full of his praise. Selah [4]† His brightness was like the light;
rays flashed from his hand;
and there he veiled his power.
[5]† Before him went pestilence, and plague followed at his heels.[1] [6]† He stood and measured the earth;
he looked and shook the nations;
then the eternal mountains were scattered;
the everlasting hills sank low.
His were the everlasting ways.
[7]† I saw the tents of Cushan in affliction;
the curtains of the land of Midian did tremble.
[8]† Was your wrath against the rivers, O LORD?
Was your anger against the rivers,
or your indignation against the sea,
when you rode on your horses,
on your chariot of salvation?
[9]† You stripped the sheath from your bow, calling for many arrows.[2] Selah
You split the earth with rivers.
[10]† The mountains saw you and writhed;

the raging waters swept on;
the deep gave forth its voice;
it lifted its hands on high.
11 The sun and moon stood still in their place at the light of your arrows as they sped,
at the flash of your glittering spear.
12 You marched through the earth in fury;
you threshed the nations in anger.
13 You went out for the salvation of your people, for the salvation of your anointed.
You crushed the head of the house of the wicked, laying him bare from thigh to neck.[1] Selah 14 You pierced with his own arrows the heads of his warriors, who came like a whirlwind to scatter me,
rejoicing as if to devour the poor in secret.
15 You trampled the sea with your horses,
the surging of mighty waters.

16 I hear, and my body trembles;
my lips quiver at the sound;
rottenness enters into my bones;
my legs tremble beneath me.
Yet I will quietly wait for the day of trouble to come upon people who invade us.

Habakkuk Rejoices in the Lord

17 Though the fig tree should not blossom, nor fruit be on the vines,
the produce of the olive fail
and the fields yield no food,
the flock be cut off from the fold
and there be no herd in the stalls, 18 yet I will rejoice in the Lord;
I will take joy in the God of my salvation.
19 God, the Lord, is my strength;
he makes my feet like the deer's;
he makes me tread on my high places.

To the choirmaster: with stringed[2] instruments.

Introduction to Habakkuk

Reading Habakkuk

A scribe's nimble hand carves a row of letters into a sheet of beeswax, which adheres to a pair of boards bound with leather strips. He pauses, awaiting his lord's next sentence—an order for the watchmen along Judah's western border. As the scribe waits, an evening breeze blows from the coast of the Great Sea and up the Judean hills to their high fortress, which guards against the Assyrians. At the doorway stands a messenger, ready to receive the tablets the moment they snap shut and to run the message to the next hilltop outpost.

The prophet Habakkuk waited like a patient scribe or messenger for a vision

the Lord promised him. As he waited, he needed the Lord's encouragement and patience (2:1–3). Habakkuk's style is unique among the prophets in that he never addresses God's people directly. Yet his message would apply very directly, then and now. His homeland—the kingdom of Judah—had suffered grave threats from the Assyrian Empire. When the Lord's message came to Habakkuk, it called the Judeans to sober humility and sincere faith (2:4–5). Though the Lord would destroy the Assyrians, He would raise up the Babylonians to chasten wayward Judah.

Luther on Habakkuk

This Habakkuk is a prophet of comfort, who is to strengthen and support the people, to prevent them from despairing of the coming of Christ, however strangely things may go. This is why he uses every device and stratagem that can serve to keep strong in their hearts the faith in the promised Christ. His message is as follows.

It is indeed true that because of the people's sins the lands shall have to be destroyed by the king of Babylon. But Christ and his kingdom shall not fail to come on that account. On the contrary, the destroyer, the king of Babylon, shall have little good out of his conquest, for he too shall perish. For it is God's nature and work to help when there is need and to come in the midst of the proper season. As Habakkuk's song says, "In wrath he remembers mercy" [3:2]; or as the proverb puts it, "When the rope holds tightest, it breaks."

In the same way we must support Christians with the word of God in anticipation of the Last Day, even though it appears that Christ is delaying long and will not come. For Christ himself says that he will come when men least expect it—when they are building and planting, buying and selling, eating and drinking, marrying and giving in marriage [Luke 17:27–28]—in order that at least some, though not all, can be preserved in faith. For in this matter preaching and believing are essential, as we see every day. …

Habakkuk certainly has a name appropriate to his office, for Habakkuk means an embracer, one who embraces another and takes him in his arms. This is what he does in his prophecy: he embraces his people and takes them in his arms. That is, he comforts them and supports them, as one embraces a weeping child or person to quiet and compose him with the assurance that things will go better, if God so will. (AE 35:327–28)

For more of Luther's insights on this Book, see Lectures on Habakkuk (AE 19:105–237).

Challenges for Readers

The Problem of Evil. Like the prophet Job, Habakkuk questioned why evil existed and why the Lord permitted evil to afflict His people (see pp 779–83). The Lord's answers may not completely satisfy our sense of fairness or goodness, since God's ways transcend ours.

Blessings for Readers

As you read Habakkuk, the Lord will call you to steadfast faith, even in the face of persistent evil. The Book describes how the Lord works through evil circumstances for our good, just as He worked through Jesus' suffering and death for our salvation. No matter what opposes you, take joy in the God of your salvation, who is your strength (3:18–19).

Study Notes

HABAKKUK—NOTE ON 1:1–4 Gr Naz: "[Habakkuk] utters more heated words, and is impatient with God Himself, and cries down, as it were our good Lord, because of the injustice of the judges" (NPNF 2 7:217).
HABAKKUK—NOTE ON 1:1 oracle. See note, Na 1:1. saw. God's revelation to Habakkuk evidently had some visual aspects.
HABAKKUK—NOTE ON 1:2 Addressing God directly, Habakkuk demands to know how long the Lord, who promises to hear the prayers of believers, will remain silent. Like Job (Jb 19:7), the prophet cries, "Violence!" (with regard to the injustice among His people), but his prayer for deliverance remains unanswered.
HABAKKUK—NOTE ON 1:3 why do You idly look at wrong? The prophet is deeply troubled because God seems to tolerate iniquity and wrong—things such as destruction, violence, strife, and contention—and does nothing about it. Sin and its results abound in the land. Habakkuk echoes the sentiments of many faithful people of God who wonder why God does not deal immediately and directly with the evil that surrounds them (cf Ps 73; Jer 12:1).
HABAKKUK—NOTE ON 1:4 law is paralyzed. From the prophet's perspective, the law has become ineffective because of the Lord's failure to act.

HABAKKUK—NOTE ON 1:2–4 Habakkuk experiences firsthand the oppressive policies of Jehoiakim, king of Judah (609–598 BC; 2Ki 23:36–37), and he feels surrounded by unchecked evil because of failure to enforce God's Law. Habakkuk grumbles against God. We need to remember that God hears our prayers and that, though we struggle when facing life's perplexing questions, nothing can separate us from His love (Rm 8:38–39).
• O Lord, teach me to be patient as You carry out Your will in my life in Your own good time. Amen.
HABAKKUK—NOTE ON 1:5 I am doing a work. The Lord's response to the prophet's complaint, addressed as well to the people of Judah, promises divine action.
HABAKKUK—NOTE ON 1:6 I am raising up. God is about to execute judgment against Judah through an enemy nation. Chaldeans. Aramaic group of tribes who appeared in lower Mesopotamia in the ninth century

BC and became one of the main elements in the neo-Babylonian kingdom founded by Nabopolassor (625–605 BC). Nabopolassor's son Nebuchadnezzar II (605–562 BC) rebuilt Babylon, solidified control over the Near East, and defeated Egypt at Carchemish all in the first year of his reign.

HABAKKUK—NOTE ON 1:7 justice and dignity. Sarcasm. The Chaldeans presumptuously and arrogantly demanded obedience and claimed superiority. God used this self-serving nation as the instrument of His judgment against Jerusalem, as incomprehensible as this may seem.

HABAKKUK—NOTE ON 1:8 leopards … wolves … eagle. The cunning, speed, and ferociousness of these ravenous creatures describes the lightning speed with which the Chaldean army pounced on Judah like a predator (Is 5:26–30).

HABAKKUK—NOTE ON 1:9 faces forward. Chaldean army is pictured as pressing forward for the kill. like sand. Innumerable.

HABAKKUK—NOTE ON 1:10 pile up earth. Earthen embankments were used as ramps to conquer walled cities. See note, 2Ki 18:14.

HABAKKUK—NOTE ON 1:11 guilty men. Again, incomprehensibly, a sinful nation that deified itself became the vehicle through which God acts within history to judge (cf v 7). might is their god! Luth: "Habakkuk separates Nebuchadnezzar's idol from the true God. … It is a false god whom we strive to please with our own efforts and works. However, the true God is the One who wants to help us" (AE 19:115).

HABAKKUK—NOTE ON 1:5–11 God's response to Habakkuk's complaint describes the powerful and arrogant nation that He will raise up to punish Judah for the sins in that nation's midst. Human beings dare never sit in judgment of God's ways, which are beyond human discernment (Rm 9:20; 11:33). We, however, can place our trust in Him, confident that in the end He will carry out His beneficial will in our lives. • Lord, at times Your plan and work are unclear to me. Help me to submit to You, O Lord, and trust in Your mercy. Amen.

HABAKKUK—NOTE ON 1:12 Are You not. The question expects a positive answer. The underlying question is how God could possibly cause a cruel nation to punish Judah and still be faithful to His covenant promises. Holy One? See p 1227. We shall not die. The prophet is troubled, but not without confidence and hope. O Rock. Habakkuk confesses God as the One in whom His people can find security, protection, and stability. God is not only like a refuge; He is a refuge (Ps 18:1–3; 62:1–8). See "rock," p 843.

HABAKKUK—NOTE ON 1:13 Habakkuk is asking God an age-old question: Why do You permit evildoers to flourish, allowing them to oppress the righteous? purer eyes. Habakkuk had called the Lord "my Holy One" (v 12). He wonders how such a person is able to look at evil.
HABAKKUK—NOTE ON 1:14 People who have no strong ruler are like fish and crawling things: vulnerable to wicked oppressors.
HABAKKUK—NOTE ON 1:15 Like fishermen who make a big catch, so the Babylonians gloat that they have skillfully trapped and ensnared God's helpless people.
HABAKKUK—NOTE ON 1:16 sacrifices to his net. Babylonian king worships military prowess that made him successful and prosperous.
HABAKKUK—NOTE ON 1:17 forever? Habakkuk's cry to God is "Will this merciless killing never cease?"
HABAKKUK—NOTE ON 2:1 take my stand. In humility and patience, Habakkuk now quietly waits for God to answer the questions he has raised and cannot himself answer. my complaint. Habakkuk has questioned God's actions (and lack of action).
HABAKKUK—NOTE ON 1:12–2:1 Like others of great faith, Habakkuk argues and wrestles with God, waiting for answers to explain God's incomprehensible ways (cf Gn 18:23–32; Jer 20:7–18; 2Co 12:7–9). Yet Habakkuk does not lose patience but waits to hear what God will say. The Lord promises to answer those who call on Him, though in His own time and manner. God's Word is the light for our path (Ps 119:105). • When we are troubled and cry to You for wisdom and understanding, hear our prayer for the sake of Christ Jesus. Amen.
HABAKKUK—NOTE ON 2:2 make it plain. So the words might be easily read (cf Dt 27:8). tablets. Hbr luach, also used for the stone tablets of the Ten Commandments (Ex 24:12; Dt 9:9–11). Habakkuk's tablets may have been wooden, though words of the prophets were also written on stone tablets (Is 30:8), signifying their extreme importance.
HABAKKUK—NOTE ON 2:3 appointed time. The vision imparted to Habakkuk points forward to the completion, or fulfillment, of God's purpose at a time set by Him. wait for it. Waiting for the Lord is an act of faith and hope (Ps 33:20–22). This is an esp important exhortation for people in modern times, when the desire for immediate satisfaction breeds impatience and irritability. 1 Clem: "Compare yourselves to … the vine. First of all, it sheds its leaves, then it buds, next it puts forth leaves, and then it flowers; after that comes the sour grape, and then follows the ripened fruit. You perceive how in a little time the fruit of a tree comes to maturity. Of a truth, soon and suddenly shall His will be accomplished" (ANF 1:11). Bas: "If in all this there is sorrow to be borne, I trust in the Lord that it will not be without its use to you. Therefore, the more have been your trials, look for a more perfect reward from your just Judge. Do not take your present trouble ill. Do not lose hope" (NPNF 2 8:280).

HABAKKUK—NOTE ON 2:4 his soul. Person who, in pride and stubbornness, refuses to believe God's prophetic word. puffed up. Hbr means "to swell" (as a tumor), a vivid picture of bloated pride. Luther described such a person as having "stuffed ears" for refusing to believe God's vision (AE 19:123). the righteous shall live by his faith. This passage summarizes Habakkuk's thought. In contrast to the arrogant person, the one who lives by faith is righteous, trusting in God's promises while waiting for the Lord to act. "People are just by faith. By faith they believe that God is favorable, and he [Habakkuk] adds that the same faith gives life because this faith produces peace and joy in the heart and eternal life" (Ap IV 100). Ter: "[One is] justified by the liberty of faith, not by servitude to the law. … The object, therefore, of the faith whereby the just man shall live, will be that same God to whom likewise belongs the law" (ANF 3:434). Leo: "A mighty bulwark is a sound faith, a true faith. … As righteousness is gained by faith, so too by a true faith is eternal life gained. … May He make you to advance and persevere to the end" (NPNF 2 12:136). Luth: "The godly people are waiting for the Lord; therefore they live, therefore they are saved, therefore they receive what has been promised. They receive it by faith, because they give glory to the God of truth" (AE 19:123). God's word to Habakkuk also formed the heart of the Gospel Paul proclaimed.

HABAKKUK—NOTE ON 2:5 wine is a traitor. See ESV note. Excessive love of wine (or wealth) beset the Chaldeans; this reckless bravado leads to their downfall. His … he. Babylonian Empire (cf 1:15–17). wide as Sheol. The insatiable appetite of Sheol was proverbial (Pr 30:16), gaping with an opened mouth to swallow its victims. See p 792.

HABAKKUK—NOTE ON 2:2–5 God responds to Habakkuk's complaint by urging patient trust, for in due time the instrument of Judah's chastisement (Chaldea) will itself suffer judgment for its cruel misdeeds.

Those intoxicated with pride most often deal treacherously with others and are themselves in danger of destruction (Pr 16:18). However, the Lord declares those righteous who wait for Him, humbly trusting His promises. • O Lord, cleanse my heart of sinful pride, and renew my trust in Your comforting promises. Amen.

HABAKKUK—NOTE ON 2:6 all these. The nations plundered by the Babylonians ("peoples" of v 5). Woe. See p 1080. The first of five taunts (cf vv 9, 12, 15, 19). The word is an attention-getter (like "Hey!" or "Ah!") and introduces an oracle of judgment. loads himself with pledges! Possessions amassed by the greedy Babylonians do not belong to them and are viewed as heavy debts that cannot be repaid. Greg: "To pile up earthly gains into a load of sin" (NPNF 2 12:46).

HABAKKUK—NOTE ON 2:7 be spoil. Chaldean wealth will become the spoils of war for the nations they formerly oppressed.

HABAKKUK—NOTE ON 2:8 remnant of the peoples. Survivors from the "many nations" plundered by the Chaldeans.

HABAKKUK—NOTE ON 2:9 gets evil gain. Babylon is condemned for greedily seizing the possessions of the conquered nations for its own benefit.

HABAKKUK—NOTE ON 2:10 The short-lived kingdom of Babylon will self-destruct, falling in disgrace and shame. Its rulers were eliminated, historical sources tell us, by assassination and murder.

HABAKKUK—NOTE ON 2:11 The very stones and wooden beams of Babylon's supposedly secure "house" will cry out in a litany of destruction. The house crashing down thus becomes a vivid picture of the crumbling of the king's dynasty.

HABAKKUK—NOTE ON 2:12 When the Lord looked at Babylon's thick walls and the grandeur of the city, He saw only bloodshed and wickedness.

HABAKKUK—NOTE ON 2:13 Lord of hosts. See p 1291. labor merely for fire. The sheer vanity of the Babylonians' laboring to build monuments to greatness will be exposed by the Lord's fiery destruction (Gn 19:24–28; Is 1:7).

HABAKKUK—NOTE ON 2:14 Luther sees a contrast between this verse and Is 11:9, which in similar words describes the knowledge of God's grace to be revealed through the Gospel. Habakkuk, however, refers to the knowledge of God's vengeance against the wicked, which will lead all nations to glorify Him (AE 19:129).

HABAKKUK—NOTE ON 2:15 makes his neighbors drink. An exploitive scheme, a metaphor for inflicting punishment on captives. Luth: "Habakkuk, therefore, is speaking about the excessive cruelty and tyrannical rule of the king" (AE 19:129; cf Is 51:17–22). their nakedness! The utter disgrace and shame suffered by conquered people at the hand of their oppressor (Is 47:2–3; Na 3:5).

HABAKKUK—NOTE ON 2:16 show your uncircumcision! Babylon, which had brought shame and disgrace on others, will now be put to shame by naked exposure. cup. See note, Is 51:17. the LORD'S right hand. See p 843.

HABAKKUK—NOTE ON 2:17 violence done to Lebanon. The prophet may be referring to Nebuchadnezzar's deforestation of Lebanon to carry out his military campaigns and building programs (e.g., his palace and the temple of Marduk, the state god of Babylon). See color map 2.

HABAKKUK—NOTE ON 2:19 In this final "woe," Habakkuk denounces the foolishness of worshiping or consulting idols. He ridicules them as the product of human imagination (Is 46:6–7; Hos 4:12). Silent and dead, these idols are able to teach no one.

HABAKKUK—NOTE ON 2:20 In sharp contrast to dead and dumb idols (cf v 19), the Lord is present in His temple and is prepared to act on behalf of His people. The appropriate response is reverent silence.

HABAKKUK—NOTE ON 2:6–20 In a series of five "woes," the prophet derisively pronounces God's judgment against the sins of Babylon: greed, pride, violence, shameful abuse of neighbors, and idolatry. Habakkuk's words remain a sober reminder of God's displeasure with human sin in all of its manifestations. We also need to hear God's "woe" and humbly repent of our sin. As the Lord was present in His holy temple, so He is present with us in His Holy Word and Sacraments to pardon and cleanse. • Lord, we bow before You in humble fear and adoration, crying out, "Have mercy on us." Amen.

HABAKKUK—NOTE ON 3:1 prayer. Hbr tephillah, occurs in heading of five psalms (17; 86; 90; 102; 142). An intercessory prayer in the form of a psalm. In view of the reference to the Lord's presence in His holy temple in the preceding verse (2:20), Habakkuk's prayer was likely used in temple worship. Shigionoth. The meaning of this musical term is uncertain (see note, Ps 7 intro). Some commentators suggest it refers to rapid changes of rhythm; others think it is a kind of lament.

HABAKKUK—NOTE ON 3:2 report. The accounts of God's saving actions in Israel's past history, esp the exodus. In the midst of the years revive it. In the present time, as the Lord chastises His people, Habakkuk prays that He will again bring to life His salvation and punish the oppressor (Ps 89:38–51). in wrath remember mercy. Prophet asks God to temper His fierce wrath with His abundant mercy. wrath. Hbr carries the nuance of "agitation" or "excitement."
HABAKKUK—NOTE ON 3:3 came from Teman. Edomite territory, the home of Esau, south of the Salt Sea (cf Gn 36:9–11; Am 1:12; Ob 9; see color map 2). Holy One. By this name, God reveals Himself and is present as the transcendent God, who rules over all creation, separate from all that is sinful and impure. See p 1227. Mount Paran. Probably the mountainous region west and south of Edom, northeast of Mount Sinai. Selah. See p 993.
HABAKKUK—NOTE ON 3:4 His brightness. In a vision, the prophet experiences a theophany, a visible manifestation of God's glory and power. See p 39. The God who "dwells in unapproachable light" (1Tm 6:16), whom no one can look at and live (Ex 33:20), reveals His radiant presence in bright and flashing rays (Hbr "horns") of light coming from His hand. veiled His power. Cypr: "In the passion and the sign of the cross is all virtue and power" (ANF 5:524).
HABAKKUK—NOTE ON 3:5 pestilence ... plague. A reminder of the 10 plagues that revealed God's glory in death and destruction (cf Ex 7:14–12:30). Pestilence is associated with a burning fever. plague. Hbr word is also name of Canaanite god of disease and healing. Though Habakkuk personifies "plague," Yahweh is the only "Holy One" (v 3).
HABAKKUK—NOTE ON 3:6 See note, Na 1:5. His were the everlasting ways. In contrast to the mountains and the hills, which only appear to be eternal, the Lord's ways are truly everlasting. ways. See p 844.
HABAKKUK—NOTE ON 3:7 Cushan. Occurs only here in the Bible; meaning uncertain. Commentators suggest two possibilities: Ethiopia (usually called Cush; Zep 3:10) or a Midianite tribe of the Sinai peninsula. Midian. A seminomadic people whose central location was probably east of the Gulf of Aqaba in northwest Arabia. Moses lived in Midian for many years (Ex 2:15–22).
HABAKKUK—NOTE ON 3:8 Luther suggests that the questions could be answered either positively (thus a reference to God's wrath against His enemies) or negatively (God's grace by which He saved His people). Luther preferred the negative answer, since the end of the verse points to God's salvation (AE 19:141). You rode on Your horses, on Your chariot of salvation? God is a mighty warrior who conquers the enemies of His people and brings them salvation. salvation? Hbr yeshu'ah, derived from the same root word as the name given to Jesus, the Savior (Mt 1:21). See p 843.

HABAKKUK—NOTE ON 3:9 stripped the sheath. The picture of the warrior taking his bow from its case on the chariot.
HABAKKUK—NOTE ON 3:10 The creation (personified) watches with fear and awe as God acts to punish and to save. See note, Na 1:5.
HABAKKUK—NOTE ON 3:11 light of Your arrows. Apparently lightning (Zec 9:14).
HABAKKUK—NOTE ON 3:12 threshed. Trod or trampled upon. See note, Ru 3:2.
HABAKKUK—NOTE ON 3:13 Your people. Ter: "Those who shall look up and lift their heads, being redeemed in the time of His kingdom" (ANF 3:416). anointed. Hbr mashiach, refers to the kings of Israel, esp to David (2Sm 22:51; Ps 84:9). The coming King, the Messiah, God's Son, is called "His anointed" in Ps 2:2. This King not only is saved, but is the Savior. laying him bare. Describes complete and shameful destruction (see note, Hab 2:15).
HABAKKUK—NOTE ON 3:14 arrows. God will destroy His enemies with their own weapons. me. The prophet, as the divine spokesman to the people, had to bear the brunt of the Lord's punishment inflicted by the Babylonian warriors.
HABAKKUK—NOTE ON 3:15 Reference to how the Lord delivered Israel at the Red Sea and destroyed His enemies (Ex 14–15).
HABAKKUK—NOTE ON 3:16 rottenness. Habakkuk's body trembles and his legs dissolve in decay as he feels helpless at the thought of the trouble to come. quietly wait. Though filled with anxiety, the prophet calmly submits to the inevitable with confidence in God's final victory over the attackers. day of trouble. The invading Babylonian conquerors would later suffer their own day of distress.
HABAKKUK—NOTE ON 3:1–16 As Habakkuk reflects on a terrifying manifestation of God's glory and power, he prays for mercy, quietly confident of God's ultimate deliverance even in the midst of great distress. Much in our lives brings anguish, fear, and even feelings of helplessness to our hearts (Ps 25:16–18; Ac 14:22). God does humble us under His mighty hand, but He does so in order to exalt us (1Pt 5:6). • Lord Jesus Christ, let not the fear of trouble and death overwhelm me, for I trust continually in Your saving help. Amen.

HABAKKUK—NOTE ON 3:17–18 War strips the land of the means of sustenance. Deprived of the essentials of human survival, Judah's faith would be severely tested. The prophet's heartfelt conviction that "the righteous shall live by his faith" (2:4) enables him to rejoice in spite of the dire circumstances. He does so because he knows God is the salvation of His people (v 13). Cypr: "There flourishes with us the strength of hope and the firmness of faith. Among these very ruins of a decaying world our soul is lifted up, and our courage unshaken: our patience is never anything but joyous; and the mind is always secure of its God" (ANF 5:463).

HABAKKUK—NOTE ON 3:19 strength. Hbr chayil, has military connotations and in many passages means "army." Since all who trust in God know He is their strength, they are able to surmount life's difficulties and setbacks. high places. Believers need only to look to the nimble and sure-footed deer and the fortified high places for examples of the kind of security found in God (cf 2Sm 22:34; Ps 18:33). choirmaster. See Ps 46 intro. instruments. See p 993.

HABAKKUK—NOTE ON 3:17–19 The Book that begins with a complaint now ends with an expression of joyful confidence in the God of salvation. When we look to ourselves and our own strength, we have reason only to despair. But when we are cast down and experience inner turmoil, we say, "Yet I will rejoice in the LORD; I will take joy in the God of my salvation" (Hab 3:18). • I will praise You for Your salvation, O Lord, all the days of my life. Amen.

1 [1] † The word of the LORD that came to Zephaniah the son of Cushi, son of Gedaliah, son of Amariah, son of Hezekiah, in the days of Josiah the son of Amon, king of Judah.

The Coming Judgment on Judah

2 “I will utterly sweep away everything from the face of the earth,” declares the
LORD.
3 “I will sweep away man and beast;
I will sweep away the birds of the heavens
and the fish of the sea,
and the rubble[1] with the wicked.
I will cut off mankind
from the face of the earth,” declares the
LORD.
4 “I will stretch out my hand against Judah and against all the inhabitants of Jerusalem;
and I will cut off from this place the remnant of Baal
and the name of the idolatrous priests along with the priests,
5 those who bow down on the roofs
to the host of the heavens, those who bow down and swear to the LORD
and yet swear by Milcom,
6 those who have turned back from following
the LORD,
who do not seek the LORD or inquire of
him.”

The Day of the Lord Is Near

7 Be silent before the Lord God!
For the day of the Lord is near;
the Lord has prepared a sacrifice and consecrated his guests.
8 And on the day of the Lord's sacrifice—
"I will punish the officials and the king's sons
and all who array themselves in foreign attire.
9 On that day I will punish everyone who leaps over the threshold, and those who fill their master's[2] house with violence and fraud.

10 "On that day," declares the Lord,
"a cry will be heard from the Fish Gate,
a wail from the Second Quarter,
a loud crash from the hills.
11 Wail, O inhabitants of the Mortar!
For all the traders[1] are no more;
all who weigh out silver are cut off.
12 At that time I will search Jerusalem with lamps, and I will punish the men who are complacent,[2]
those who say in their hearts,
'The Lord will not do good,
nor will he do ill.'
13 Their goods shall be plundered, and their houses laid waste.
Though they build houses,

they shall not inhabit them;
though they plant vineyards,
they shall not drink wine from them.”

14 † The great day of the Lord is near,
near and hastening fast;
the sound of the day of the Lord is bitter;
the mighty man cries aloud there.
15 † A day of wrath is that day,
a day of distress and anguish,
a day of ruin and devastation,
a day of darkness and gloom,
a day of clouds and thick darkness,
16 † a day of trumpet blast and battle cry against the fortified cities and against the lofty battlements.
17 † I will bring distress on mankind,
so that they shall walk like the blind,
because they have sinned against the Lord;
their blood shall be poured out like dust,
and their flesh like dung.
18 † Neither their silver nor their gold shall be able to deliver them on the day of the wrath of the Lord.
In the fire of his jealousy,
all the earth shall be consumed;
for a full and sudden end he will make of all the inhabitants of the earth.

Judgment on Judah's Enemies

2 [1]† Gather together, yes, gather,
O shameless nation,

[2]† before the decree takes effect[3]
—before the day passes away like chaff—
before there comes upon you
the burning anger of the Lord,
before there comes upon you
the day of the anger of the Lord.
[3]† Seek the Lord, all you humble of the land, who do his just commands;[4] seek righteousness; seek humility;
perhaps you may be hidden
on the day of the anger of the Lord.
[4]† For Gaza shall be deserted, and Ashkelon shall become a desolation; Ashdod's people shall be driven out at noon,
and Ekron shall be uprooted.

[5]† Woe to you inhabitants of the seacoast,
you nation of the Cherethites!
The word of the Lord is against you,
O Canaan, land of the Philistines;
and I will destroy you until no inhabitant is left.
[6]† And you, O seacoast, shall be pastures, with meadows[1] for shepherds and folds for flocks.
[7]† The seacoast shall become the possession of the remnant of the house of Judah,
on which they shall graze,
and in the houses of Ashkelon

they shall lie down at evening.
For the Lord their God will be mindful of them and restore their fortunes.

8† "I have heard the taunts of Moab and the revilings of the Ammonites, how they have taunted my people and made boasts against their territory.
9† Therefore, as I live," declares the Lord of hosts,
the God of Israel,
"Moab shall become like Sodom,
and the Ammonites like Gomorrah,
a land possessed by nettles and salt pits,
and a waste forever.
The remnant of my people shall plunder them,
and the survivors of my nation shall possess them."
10† This shall be their lot in return for their pride, because they taunted and boasted against the people of the Lord of hosts.
11† The Lord will be awesome against them;
for he will famish all the gods of the earth,
and to him shall bow down,
each in its place,
all the lands of the nations.

12† You also, O Cushites, shall be slain by my sword.

13† And he will stretch out his hand against the north and destroy Assyria, and he will make Nineveh a desolation,

a dry waste like the desert.
14 † Herds shall lie down in her midst,
all kinds of beasts;[2]
even the owl and the hedgehog[3] shall lodge in her capitals;
a voice shall hoot in the window;
devastation will be on the threshold;
for her cedar work will be laid bare.
15 † This is the exultant city that lived securely,
that said in her heart,
“I am, and there is no one else.”
What a desolation she has become,
a lair for wild beasts!
Everyone who passes by her hisses and shakes his fist.

Judgment on Jerusalem and the Nations

3 [1]†† Woe to her who is rebellious and defiled, the oppressing city!

[2]† She listens to no voice;
she accepts no correction.
She does not trust in the Lord;
she does not draw near to her God.

[3]† Her officials within her are roaring lions;
her judges are evening wolves that leave nothing till the morning.
[4]† Her prophets are fickle, treacherous men;
her priests profane what is holy;
they do violence to the law.
[5]† The Lord within her is righteous;
he does no injustice;
every morning he shows forth his justice;
each dawn he does not fail;
but the unjust knows no shame.

[6]† "I have cut off nations;
their battlements are in ruins;
I have laid waste their streets
so that no one walks in them;
their cities have been made desolate,
without a man, without an inhabitant.
[7]† I said, 'Surely you will fear me;
you will accept correction.
Then your[1] dwelling would not be cut off according to all that I have appointed against

you.’[2]
But all the more they were eager to make all their deeds corrupt.

8† “Therefore wait for me,” declares the Lord,
“for the day when I rise up to seize the prey.
For my decision is to gather nations,
to assemble kingdoms,
to pour out upon them my indignation,
all my burning anger;
for in the fire of my jealousy
all the earth shall be consumed.

The Conversion of the Nations

9 “For at that time I will change the speech of the peoples
to a pure speech,
that all of them may call upon the name of the Lord
and serve him with one accord.
10 From beyond the rivers of Cush my worshipers, the daughter of my dispersed ones,
shall bring my offering.
11 “On that day you shall not be put to shame because of the deeds by which you have rebelled against me;
for then I will remove from your midst
your proudly exultant ones, and you shall no longer be haughty
in my holy mountain.
12 But I will leave in your midst
a people humble and lowly.
They shall seek refuge in the name of the Lord,
13 those who are left in Israel;
they shall do no injustice
and speak no lies,
nor shall there be found in their mouth
a deceitful tongue.
For they shall graze and lie down, and none shall make them afraid.”

Israel's Joy and Restoration

14 Sing aloud, O daughter of Zion; shout, O Israel!
Rejoice and exult with all your heart,
O daughter of Jerusalem!
15 The Lord has taken away the judgments
against you;
he has cleared away your enemies.
The King of Israel, the Lord, is in your midst;
you shall never again fear evil.
16 On that day it shall be said to Jerusalem:
"Fear not, O Zion;
let not your hands grow weak.
17 The Lord your God is in your midst,
a mighty one who will save;
he will rejoice over you with gladness;
he will quiet you by his love;
he will exult over you with loud singing.
18 I will gather those of you who mourn for the festival,
so that you will no longer suffer reproach.[1] 19 Behold, at that time I will deal with all your oppressors.
And I will save the lame
and gather the outcast,
and I will change their shame into praise
and renown in all the earth.
20 At that time I will bring you in,
at the time when I gather you together;
for I will make you renowned and praised among all the peoples of the earth, when I restore your fortunes
before your eyes," says the Lord.

Introduction to Zephaniah

Reading Zephaniah

The eerie evening light ebbs away beneath a mounting bank of clouds. As the sun blinks on the horizon, winds stir and rush through the shadows. Complacent townspeople now quicken their steps toward home, but the moonless night slows them to a crawl. They feel their way with trips and stubs and jolts. A bolt stabs the earth, thunder trumpets, and light-blinded eyes search the thick darkness again.

Zephaniah prophesied the future storm of God's wrath as a day without light. Though the world has witnessed God's judgment on Judah and its enemies, Zephaniah's darkest prophecy remains unfulfilled, pointing still forward to earth's end: the great day of the Lord.

Luther on Zephaniah

Zephaniah lived in the time of the prophet Jeremiah, for as the title [1:1] shows, he prophesied under King Josiah, as did Jeremiah. For that reason he prophesies the very same things as Jeremiah, namely, that Jerusalem and Judah shall be destroyed and the people carried away because of their wicked life, devoid of repentance.

Unlike Jeremiah, however, he does not name the king of Babylon as the one who is to inflict this destruction and captivity. He says simply that God will bring misfortune and affliction upon the people so that they may be moved to repentance. For none of the prophets was ever able even once to persuade this people that God was angry with them. They relied continually on the claim that they were, and were called, God's people; and whoever preached that God was angry with them had to be a false prophet and had to die, for they would not believe that God would leave his people. It was then as it is today: all who teach that the church errs and sins, and that God will punish her, are denounced as heretics and killed.

Now Zephaniah prophesies this disaster not only for Judah, but also for all the surrounding and neighboring lands, such as the Philistines, Moab, the Ethiopians, and Assyria. The king of Babylon is to be God's rod upon all lands.

In the third chapter Zephaniah prophesies gloriously and clearly of the happy and blessed kingdom of Christ, which shall be spread abroad in all the world. Although he is a minor prophet, he speaks more about Christ than many other major prophets, almost more than Jeremiah even. He does so in order to give the people abundant comfort, so that they would not despair of God because of their disastrous captivity in Babylon, as if God had cast them off forever, but rather be sure that after this punishment they would receive grace again and get the promised Savior, Christ, with his glorious kingdom. (AE 35:328–29)

For more of Luther's insights on this Book, see Lectures on Zephaniah (AE 18:317–64).

Challenges for Readers

Day of the Lord. The theme of Judgment Day dominates Zephaniah's prophecy (1:2–3:8). Readers can easily feel overwhelmed by the descriptions of God's wrath. However, the prophecy ends with sweet emphasis on God's mercy (see p 320).

Rhetoric of Entrapment. At the close of ch 2 and beginning of ch 3, Zephaniah uses a special literary device that other prophets, and Jesus, used as well (cf 2Sm 12:1–13; Is 5:1–7; Am 1–2; Mt 21:33–45). He transitions from condemnation of Nineveh to condemnation of Jerusalem without clearly signaling that his subject has changed until 3:5. This entrapping technique puts evil Nineveh on the same footing as rebellious Jerusalem.

The Remnant. See p 1080.

Blessings for Readers

In just three chapters, Zephaniah describes the classic message of OT prophets, illustrating the destructive effects of sin upon all nations and describing the mercy God plans for them. As you read Zephaniah, seriously consider your own sin, and seek the Lord with a repentant heart. Zephaniah promises that the Lord will take away your fear and quiet you with His love.

Study Notes

ZEPHANIAH—NOTE ON 1:1 The word of the LORD that came. See p 1080. Zephaniah … Hezekiah. Zephaniah traces back his ancestry four generations to Hezekiah. If this is the good King Hezekiah who brought about religious reform in Judah, Zephaniah establishes himself as the connecting link who would help bring about a similar reform at the time of King Josiah. the days of Josiah. Josiah came to the throne of Judah in 640 BC following the religiously disastrous reigns of Manasseh and Amon. The Assyrian Empire was in decline, and Babylon was rising in importance.

ZEPHANIAH—NOTE ON 1:2 sweep away everything. God's final judgment will come upon the entire earth. All life will perish. God promised Noah that He would never again destroy the world by water (Gn 8:21–22; 9:15). The judgment on the Last Day will be by fire.

ZEPHANIAH—NOTE ON 1:3 fish of the sea. The final judgment will exceed even the flood by destroying life in the sea. rubble. Hbr makshelah, "stumbling block" or "idol," i.e., those things that cause people to turn away from the Lord. wicked. The morally corrupt. Human wickedness has polluted the entire creation and is the reason everything is under judgment (Rm 8:19–22).

ZEPHANIAH—NOTE ON 1:4 stretch out My hand. Also used for the judgment God brought on Egypt at the exodus (Ex 7:5). against Judah. After describing the final universal judgment, the Lord turns His attention to Judah. remnant of Baal. See note, Nu 25:3. Those people in the land who still worshiped Baal. See p 345. the name of the idolatrous priests along with the priests. The very memory of the priests of Baal and other false religions will be erased.

ZEPHANIAH—NOTE ON 1:5 God will bring judgment on those who worship the stars and also on those hypocrites who only pretend to worship the Lord. Milcom. Also known as Molech, the Ammonite idol to whom people sacrificed their children. See p 403. Solomon permitted the worship of Molech (1Ki 11:7), which continued until Josiah destroyed the high places dedicated to his worship.

ZEPHANIAH—NOTE ON 1:6 turned back. Judeans who had given up their faith in the Lord. do not seek the LORD. Those who no longer prayed to the Lord to seek His guidance and help. See "seek," p 843.

ZEPHANIAH—NOTE ON 1:2–6 The Lord declares that final judgment will come worldwide, then pronounces specific judgments against faithless Judah. We also deserve God's anger when we replace God and His Word with what we find exciting, entertaining, or perhaps financially beneficial. But God's Law shows us our sin and drives us to repentance. He forgives our sins because Christ, our Savior, suffered judgment in our place. • Lord, forgive me for not always giving You first place in my life. Move me daily to seek Your guidance and help. Amen.

ZEPHANIAH—NOTE ON 1:7 Be silent. God's presence demanded such behavior. See note, Ps 46:10. Lord GOD. Lit, "Lord Yahweh." The two Hbr words usually translated as lord are here used side by side: the first word is comparable to "master," and the second is God's proper name, "Yahweh" (usually written as LORD). See p 1227. day of the LORD. Refers to the time when the Lord will act, anticipating the wrath and salvation of Judgment Day. This phrase is used frequently in Jl and Zep. sacrifice. Nation of Judah. His guests. Foreign nation appointed by God to consume the sacrifice.

ZEPHANIAH—NOTE ON 1:8 officials and the king's sons. Leaders of Judah are singled out as objects of God's wrath. array themselves in foreign attire. Some Judeans chose to imitate the dress of the heathen nations around them.

ZEPHANIAH—NOTE ON 1:9 leaps over the threshold. Possibly refers to the superstitious practice of Philistine priests, who did not dare to step on the threshold of Dagon's temple. violence. Can refer to unjust gain. fraud. Dishonesty and trickery.

ZEPHANIAH—NOTE ON 1:10 Fish Gate. In Jerusalem's north wall. Discovery of fish bones has confirmed that a fish market was here, likely stocked with dried or salted fish, since the Jordan and Great Sea were too far away to provide fresh fish. Second Quarter. Likely the western hill of Jerusalem, an area with newer, wealthier homes. a loud crash. Judah's hills will be filled with the horrible sounds of havoc and destruction.

ZEPHANIAH—NOTE ON 1:11 inhabitants of the Mortar! Possibly a business area located in a shallow valley in Jerusalem. traders. See ESV note. Businesspeople are referred to as Canaanites, who spent their lives in pursuit of money. The Phoenicians dominated regional trade. weigh out silver. Not coins but pieces or "bits" of silver traded as currency. See notes, Jsh 24:32; Ezr 2:69. cut off. The merchants and money-changers will be consumed and destroyed.

ZEPHANIAH—NOTE ON 1:12 search Jerusalem with lamps. As one uses a lamp at night to make a thorough search, so the Lord will search meticulously through Jerusalem. The LORD … do ill. Judeans had become like pagans who believed the Lord would neither help nor harm them.

ZEPHANIAH—NOTE ON 1:13 goods ... houses ... vineyards. Like practical atheists in any age, the people of Judah valued only wealth, real estate, and business. The Lord would destroy it all.

ZEPHANIAH—NOTE ON 1:14 great day of the LORD is near. Some things Zephaniah prophesied took place at the fall of Jerusalem in 587 BC. Other details would be fulfilled later. The ultimate fulfillment will be on Judgment Day. See p 1079. sound … is bitter. To hear and read about the Lord's judgment causes even the bravest soldier to cry out in despair.

ZEPHANIAH—NOTE ON 1:15 day of wrath. Reversal of the days of creation. Instead of light and life, there will be distress and darkness and death. God's anger at sin will be manifested. This phrase served as the title of a long thirteenth-century Latin hymn, "Dies Irae" (TLH 607), which became part of the Requiem Mass famously set to music by Mozart and Verdi. See also LSB 508. distress. Any kind of adversity, affliction, or trouble. anguish. Severe mental or physical suffering.

ZEPHANIAH—NOTE ON 1:16 trumpet. Hbr shophar, "ram's horn." Used to sound alarms and signal the last judgment (1Co 15:52; Rv 8:6). See p 993. fortified cities. Cities deemed inaccessible and unconquerable because of their strong construction. lofty battlements. High towers.

ZEPHANIAH—NOTE ON 1:17 mankind. Hbr 'adam. What follows applies to all Adam's descendants. walk like the blind. Helpless, bewildered, and lost. sinned against the LORD. Sin is serious, not simply because it ruins a person's life or disrupts society, but because it offends the Lord. their blood … like dung. Humanity is totally sinful and deserves to be thrown out like things unclean and worthless.

ZEPHANIAH—NOTE ON 1:18 On Judgment Day, no one will be able to buy salvation. fire of His jealousy. The Lord is a jealous God (Ex 34:14), who demands the full devotion and worship of His people for Himself alone. See note, Ex 20:5.

ZEPHANIAH—NOTE ON 1:7–18 God's day of wrath would come swiftly on the people of Judah because of their materialism, worldliness, and general disobedience. The final Day of Judgment will likewise come unexpectedly, as a thief in the night (1Th 5:2). We have all missed the mark of God's perfection and deserve only His punishment, now and eternally. However, God so loved the world that He sent His only Son to endure the punishment for our sins. All who believe in Jesus have no need to fear the Day of Judgment. • Lord, fill me with joyful anticipation for the day of Your return. Give me confidence that I shall stand before You cleansed and holy because of Jesus. Amen.

ZEPHANIAH—NOTE ON 2:1 O shameless nation. The Lord summons Judah to hear His call to repent.

ZEPHANIAH—NOTE ON 2:2 Synonyms for God's judgment. burning anger. Frightening picture of the fire (1:18) of God's wrath streaming forth from His flared nostrils (cf 2Sm 22:9).

ZEPHANIAH—NOTE ON 2:3 Seek the LORD. The way to escape the Lord's wrath is to turn to Him in humility. See "seek," p 843. seek righteousness; seek humility. The only righteousness that counts before God is the Lord's righteousness, His power to save (Php 3:9). All who humbly trust in Him will be spared on the Day of Judgment. See p 843.

ZEPHANIAH—NOTE ON 2:4 Gaza … Ashkelon … Ashdod … Ekron. Judah's enemies. See note, Zec 9:5–6. See color map 1. at noon. Ashdod will be destroyed in broad daylight. uprooted. Like a weed, Ekron will be pulled up by its roots and left to die.

ZEPHANIAH—NOTE ON 2:5 Cherethites! Related to Crete; Philistine origins are partially linked with this island. See note 2Sm 15:18. Canaan. Ancient name of the land along the eastern shore of the Great Sea, stretching from Sidon in the north to Gaza in the south, and reaching inland as far as the Jordan Valley. Philistines lived in the southwest part of Canaan. See map, p 60.

ZEPHANIAH—NOTE ON 2:6 you, O seacoast, shall be pastures. Following the destruction of Judah's enemies, a peaceful, pastoral scene emerges along the seacoast. folds for flocks. Stone-walled enclosures for sheep and goats.

ZEPHANIAH—NOTE ON 2:7 possession of the remnant. OT prophets often referred to the remnant of the house of Judah, which would again possess the land following the fall of Jerusalem and the Babylonian captivity (Is 37:31–32; see p 1080). be mindful. The Lord will remember

His people with a friendly intent. restore their fortunes. God's people will again enjoy good times. See p 1080.
ZEPHANIAH—NOTE ON 2:8 taunts. Insults and reproaches. Moab. East of the Salt Sea. See color map 2. revilings. Insults hurled at another person. Ammonites. Inhabitants of Ammon, a country north of Moab, east of the Jordan River.
ZEPHANIAH—NOTE ON 2:9 as I live. An oath as certain as the eternal existence of the Lord who swears it. Lord of hosts. See p 1291. Moab shall become … a waste forever. Moab and Ammon would be completely destroyed, as were Sodom and Gomorrah (Gn 19:23–25). remnant … survivors. See note, v 7. God foretells the time when His people would turn the tables on their enemies.
ZEPHANIAH—NOTE ON 2:10 their pride. The downfall of the Moabites and Ammonites.
ZEPHANIAH—NOTE ON 2:11 famish all the gods. The gods were thought to eat the sacrifices of their worshipers, so when their worshipers are swept away in judgment, the gods will starve. Wycl: "Who may see a greater abomination than to see the people to be led away from God, and they be taught to worship for God that thing that is not God nor Saviour of the world?" (TT 275). bow down. All people will fall down to worship the Lord (Php 2:10–11).
ZEPHANIAH—NOTE ON 2:12 Cushites. Cush was the ancient name of the territory south of Egypt, later referred to as Ethiopia. See note, Na 3:9; see also color map 3.
ZEPHANIAH—NOTE ON 2:13 against the north. Turning from Ethiopia in the south, the prophet now directs his attention to the north. Assyria. Located far to the north and east of Judah between the Upper Tigris and Euphrates rivers. Nineveh. Capital of the Assyrian Empire, on the Tigris River. See map, p 609. desolation. Hbr word implies that people will be astonished at the devastation. Over 150 years earlier, Nineveh's destruction had been averted (cf Jnh 3), but this time it would not be spared.
ZEPHANIAH—NOTE ON 2:14 lie down in her midst. Proud Nineveh will become a lair for wild animals. owl … hedgehog. Neither creature is normally a city dweller, which underscores that Nineveh will be abandoned to nature.
ZEPHANIAH—NOTE ON 2:15 exultant. Nineveh once rejoiced in its power and greatness. Now its beautiful architecture will be exposed to the elements. lived securely. Nineveh's citizens believed their city was so secure it could never be conquered. hisses. People would show contempt for the site of Nineveh with shrill whistles as they passed by. The city that once prided itself on its own importance will become an object of scorn. See p 1276.

ZEPHANIAH—NOTE ON Ch 2 Zephaniah urges the people of Judah to seek the Lord, then describes the devastation that will fall on neighboring nations because of their sins. We, too, are guilty of arrogance, pride, and boasting. The Lord calls us to humble repentance and, through trust in Jesus as our Savior, He promises to shield us from His anger. • Lord, may I never boast except in the cross of Jesus, my Savior. Amen.

ZEPHANIAH—NOTE ON 3:1 defiled. Morally polluted, unclean (Is 59:3). oppressing city! Zephaniah's hearers may have thought he was still speaking about Nineveh, but what follows reveals that he is speaking about their own city of Jerusalem, which has oppressed and mistreated people. See "Rhetoric of Entrapment," p 1512.

ZEPHANIAH—NOTE ON 3:2 she does not draw near. The people of Jerusalem refused to enter the Lord's presence in worship and prayer and would not place their confidence in Him.

ZEPHANIAH—NOTE ON 3:3 officials … judges. Civic leaders of Jerusalem are compared to hungry animals that devour everything they find. Officials and judges used power of their offices only for personal gain.

ZEPHANIAH—NOTE ON 3:4 fickle. Hbr word suggests that the prophets were as light as the froth on boiling water. They were unprincipled and imparted worthless teachings. profane what is holy. Priests desecrated God's holy temple and treated the sacred sacrifices disrespectfully. See notes, 1Sm 2:28–32.

ZEPHANIAH—NOTE ON 3:5 Lord within her. See "presence," p 843. righteous. Citizens of Jerusalem failed to recognize that because the Lord is righteous, He would take action against those who knew no shame. no injustice. He is sinless, without error.

ZEPHANIAH—NOTE ON 3:6 I have cut off nations. The Lord reminds Jerusalem of what He has done. battlements. Walled towers for defense. streets … cities. No community is secure when the Lord comes in judgment.

ZEPHANIAH—NOTE ON 3:7 fear Me. Not craven fear but godly reverence shown in obedience to the Lord's will. See p 1001. appointed against you. If Judah would return to the Lord, He would not carry out His planned judgment. make all their deeds corrupt. Rather than repent and seek the Lord's will, they gave themselves completely over to sin.

ZEPHANIAH—NOTE ON 3:8 wait for Me. Most often, God encourages believers to wait for His salvation (Lm 3:26). But here the wait is for that day when the Lord will consume the earth (1:18). the day. The day of wrath (1:15), when God will assemble all people for judgment. indignation. Verb form can describe a camel growling or a person cursing. fire of My jealousy. See note, 1:18.

ZEPHANIAH—NOTE ON 3:1–8 The city of Jerusalem, including its leaders, refuses to return to the Lord. Such impenitence brings upon them God's day of wrath. These things are meant as a warning for us (1Co 10:6), as Jesus preached, "Repent and believe in the gospel" (Mk 1:15). All who believe in Jesus will escape everlasting punishment. • Lord Jesus, be merciful to me, a sinner, and spare me on the Day of Judgment. Amen.

ZEPHANIAH—NOTE ON 3:9 at that time. NT era. Chem: "He brings in a reference to Christ by repeating preceding prophets" (LTh 2:459). a pure speech. Mouths of former idolaters will resound with praises to the Lord. call upon the name of the LORD. See p 842.

ZEPHANIAH—NOTE ON 3:10 Cush. See note, 2:12. My worshipers. Cush is an example of a foreign nation whose people will worship the Lord. Cf Is 19:21. My offering. They shall offer their bodies as living sacrifices (Rm 12:1).

ZEPHANIAH—NOTE ON 3:11 no longer be haughty. Pride has no place in the hearts of those whose rebellion has been forgiven. in My holy mountain. Zion. See p 844.

ZEPHANIAH—NOTE ON 3:12 refuge in the name of the LORD. The humble trust solely in the Lord for salvation.

ZEPHANIAH—NOTE ON 3:13 Believers will have pure speech (v 9); like a flock of sheep, they will enjoy provision and security.

ZEPHANIAH—NOTE ON 3:9–13 Along with the remnant in Israel, nations from around the world will call on the name of the Lord and serve Him. Once proud and haughty, these people will now praise God because Jesus has paid the price for their rebellious deeds. You and I are part of this great communion of saints. • Lord, help me always praise Your name and find refuge in Your protection. Amen.

ZEPHANIAH—NOTE ON 3:14 O daughter of Zion. Citizens of God's Holy City, the heavenly Jerusalem, the Church (Heb 12:22).
ZEPHANIAH—NOTE ON 3:15 judgments against you. The Lord has removed every legal accusation against His people (Rm 8:33). King of Israel, the LORD. See p 1227. in your midst. See "presence," p 843.
ZEPHANIAH—NOTE ON 3:16 On that day. Cf v 9. Zion. See p 844.
ZEPHANIAH—NOTE ON 3:17 quiet you by His love. The Lord lives among His people and guarantees their salvation. Luth: "It happens for the righteous that [the Lord] allows them to be attacked, to be molested in various ways, and to be troubled by many evils, so that they be conformed to their King. Yet He adds that feeling of joy, that security of heart, so that all things may become sweeter, so that nothing can separate them from the love of God, Rom 8:39" (AE 18:361).
ZEPHANIAH—NOTE ON 3:18 the festival. The fall of Jerusalem disrupted the celebration of annual festivals such as the Passover.
ZEPHANIAH—NOTE ON 3:19 your oppressors. Nations that afflict God's people. I will change their shame into praise. God will cause the lame and outcast believers to express praise rather than to wallow in shame.
ZEPHANIAH—NOTE ON 3:20 restore your fortunes. See note, 2:7.
ZEPHANIAH—NOTE ON 3:14–20 Zephaniah urges God's people to fear no evil but instead to rejoice over their coming salvation. Fear may hinder us from witnessing of God's love and mercy; how wrong and foolish that would be! God has redeemed us in Christ. He will always be with us, and someday He will take us to the heavenly Jerusalem. • Lord God, make me a bold witness of Your saving power. Amen.

The Command to Rebuild the Temple

1 [1]‡†In the second year of Darius the king, in the sixth month, on the first day of the month, the word of the Lord came by the hand of Haggai the prophet to Zerubbabel the son of Shealtiel, governor of Judah, and to Joshua the son of Jehozadak, the high priest: [2]†“Thus says the Lord of hosts:
These people say the time has not yet come to rebuild the house of the Lord.” [3]† Then the word of the Lord came by the hand of Haggai the prophet, [4]† “Is it a time for you yourselves to dwell in your paneled houses, while this house lies in ruins? [5]†Now, therefore, thus says the Lord of hosts:
Consider your ways. [6]† You have sown much, and harvested little. You eat, but you never have enough; you drink, but you never have your fill. You clothe yourselves, but no one is warm. And he who earns wages does so to put them into a bag with holes.

[7]†“Thus says the Lord of hosts: Consider your ways. [8]†Go up to the hills and bring wood and build the house, that I may take pleasure in it and that I may be glorified, says the Lord. [9]† You looked for much, and behold, it came to little. And when you brought it home, I blew it away. Why? declares the Lord of hosts. Because of my house that lies in ruins, while each of you busies himself with his own house. [10]†Therefore the heavens above you have withheld the dew, and the earth has withheld its produce.
[11]†And I have called for a drought on the land and the hills, on the grain, the new wine, the oil, on what the ground brings forth, on man and beast, and on all their labors.”

The People Obey the Lord

12 ‡ † Then Zerubbabel the son of Shealtiel, and Joshua the son of Jehozadak, the high priest, with all the remnant of the people, obeyed the voice of the Lord their God, and the words of Haggai the prophet, as the Lord their God had sent him. And the people feared the Lord. 13 † Then Haggai, the messenger of the Lord, spoke to the people with the Lord's message, "I am with you, declares the Lord." 14 † And the Lord stirred up the spirit of Zerubbabel the son of Shealtiel, governor of Judah, and the spirit of Joshua the son of Jehozadak, the high priest, and the spirit of all the remnant of the people. And they came and worked on the house of the Lord of hosts, their God, 15 † on the twenty-fourth day of the month, in the sixth month, in the second year of Darius the king.

The Coming Glory of the Temple

2 [1]‡†In the seventh month, on the twenty-first day of the month, the word of the Lord came by the hand of Haggai the prophet, [2]†“Speak now to Zerubbabel the son of Shealtiel, governor of Judah, and to Joshua the son of Jehozadak, the high priest, and to all the remnant of the people, and say, [3]† ‘Who is left among you who saw this house in its former glory? How do you see it now? Is it not as nothing in your eyes? [4]†Yet now be strong, O Zerubbabel, declares the Lord. Be strong, O Joshua, son of Jehozadak, the high priest. Be strong, all you people of the land, declares the Lord. Work, for I am with you, declares the Lord of hosts, [5]† according to the covenant that I made with you when you came out of Egypt. My Spirit remains in your midst. Fear not. [6]†For thus says the Lord of hosts: Yet once more, in a little while, I will shake the heavens and the earth and the sea and the dry land. [7]†And I will shake all nations, so that the treasures of all nations shall come in, and I will fill this house with glory, says the Lord of hosts. [8]† The silver is mine, and the gold is mine, declares the Lord of hosts. [9]† The latter glory of this house shall be greater than the former, says the Lord of hosts. And in this place I will give peace, declares the Lord of hosts.’”

Blessings for a Defiled People

10 On the twenty-fourth day of the ninth month, in the second year of Darius, the word of the Lord came by Haggai the prophet, 11 "Thus says the Lord of hosts: Ask the priests about the law: 12 'If someone carries holy meat in the fold of his garment and touches with his fold bread or stew or wine or oil or any kind of food, does it become holy?'" The priests answered and said, "No." 13 Then Haggai said, "If someone who is unclean by contact with a dead body touches any of these, does it become unclean?"
The priests answered and said, "It does become unclean." 14 Then Haggai answered and said, "So is it with this people, and with this nation before me, declares the Lord, and so with every work of their hands. And what they offer there is unclean. 15 Now then, consider from this day onward.[1] Before stone was placed upon stone in the temple of the Lord, 16 how did you fare? When[2] one came to a heap of twenty measures, there were but ten. When one came to the wine vat to draw fifty measures, there were but twenty. 17 I struck you and all the products of your toil with blight and with mildew and with hail, yet you did not turn to me, declares the Lord. 18 Consider from this day onward, from the twenty-fourth day of the ninth month. Since the day that the foundation of the Lord's temple was laid, consider: 19 Is the seed yet in the barn? Indeed, the vine, the fig tree, the pomegranate, and the olive tree have yielded nothing. But from this day on I will bless you."

Zerubbabel Chosen as a Signet

20 ‡ † The word of the Lord came a second time to Haggai on the twenty-fourth day of the month, 21 † “Speak to Zerubbabel, governor of Judah, saying, I am about to shake the heavens and the earth, 22 † and to overthrow the throne of kingdoms. I am about to destroy the strength of the kingdoms of the nations, and overthrow the chariots and their riders. And the horses and their riders shall go down, every one by the sword of his brother. 23 † On that day, declares the Lord of hosts, I will take you, O Zerubbabel my servant, the son of Shealtiel, declares the Lord, and make you like a[3] signet ring, for I have chosen you, declares the Lord of hosts.”

Introduction to Haggai

Reading Haggai

A ruler lays his headdress and outer garments in his servant's hands and lifts a gold necklace over his head. He kicks his sandals off his feet and steps to the edge of the basin to wash in the water the servant will pour. On his right hand remains a broad ring with his name, title, and the symbol of his family—a lion—etched in its oval face. The gold and garments he can lay aside, but the ring can never leave him, for by it he dispatches orders and exercises his authority.

When the prophet Haggai began to prophesy, the Judean exiles needed a man of authority. They needed a governor and high priest to rally them away from self-interest and to unite them for rebuilding the ruined walls of the temple. Over the course of three months in 520 BC, the Lord opened the mouth of Haggai 27 times to rebuke and encourage the leaders and the people of Judah, His chosen ones.

Luther on Haggai

Haggai is the first prophet given to the people after the Babylonian captivity, and by his prophecy the temple and the worship of God were set up again. In addition Zechariah was later given to him as a companion for a period of two months, so that by the mouth of two witnesses the word of God might the more surely be believed. For the people had fallen into great doubt whether the temple would ever be rebuilt.

It is our opinion that Daniel is speaking of this prophet, where he says in chapter 9, "From the going forth of the commandment to restore and rebuild Jerusalem to the coming of Christ, the prince, there shall be seven weeks, and three score and two weeks," etc. For although a decree had gone out earlier from King Cyrus that the temple should be rebuilt at Jerusalem at his (the king's) expense, yet it was hindered until the time of Haggai and Zechariah. When God's commandment went out through their prophesying, then the work went ahead [Ezra 1:1–4; 4:4–6:15].

Haggai denounces the people, however, because they had given no thought to setting up the temple and the worship of God, but had feverishly grubbed and scraped only for their own property and houses. For this reason they were afflicted with famine and with loss of produce, wine, grain, and all sorts of crops. This was an example to all the godless, who pay no heed to God's word and worship and are always filling their own bags. It is to them alone that this text applies, when he says, "Their bag shall be full of holes" [1:6].

So we find in all the histories that when men will not support God's servants or help to maintain his word, he just lets them go and grub for themselves, and scrape incessantly. However in the end he punctures the bag full of holes; he blows into it so that it disintegrates and vanishes, and no one knows what has become of it. God intends to share their food or they'll not have any.

He prophesies also of Christ in chapter 2[:6–7], that he shall soon come as a "comfort of all nations," by which he indicates in a mystery that the kingdom and the laws of the Jews shall have an end, and the kingdoms of all the world shall be destroyed and become subject to Christ. This has already taken place, and continues to take place until the Last Day when it will all be fulfilled. (AE 35:329–30)

For more of Luther's insights on this Book, see Lectures on Haggai (AE 18:365–87).

Challenges for Readers

A Specific Mission. Unlike most books of the Bible, Haggai has an especially narrow focus. His prophecies specifically call the Judeans in 520 BC to complete work on the temple, and they finished that work just a few years later. As a consequence, readers today may wonder what this prophecy means for them or even why such a specific matter was included in Holy Scripture.

Blessings for Readers

Haggai illustrates for us the problem of focusing on self-serving priorities to the neglect of God's priorities. It also shows how God rallied this community of faith to accomplish an important work, which united them in hearing God's Word. (The prophet states 27 times that the Word of the Lord came to him.) These are blessings that God's people certainly need today as they consider how to prioritize their life and work together. Also, do not miss how the word to Zerubbabel anticipates the coming of Christ's kingdom (2:20–23).

Study Notes

HAGGAI—NOTE ON 1:1 second year…sixth month. Aug/Sept 520 BC. See pp 1518–19. Darius. Persian king (522–486 BC; see note, Zec 1:1). the word of the LORD came. See p 1080. Haggai recorded God's words. Haggai. Along with Zechariah, this prophet promoted the rebuilding of the temple in Jerusalem. Haggai may have returned from exile in Babylon with the remnant under Zerubbabel. prophet. See note, 1Sm 9:9. Zerubbabel … Joshua. Haggai's first message is directed to these two leaders of the people. Zerubbabel. Led some of the Judeans back from the Babylonian captivity and was appointed governor of Judah by the Persians (2:21). Shealtiel. Also an ancestor of Jesus (Mt 1:12; Lk 3:27). Joshua. Not the son of Nun (Jsh 1:1). As high priest, this Joshua assisted Zerubbabel in rebuilding the temple (Zec 3).

HAGGAI—NOTE ON 1:2 LORD of hosts. See p 1291. rebuild the house of the LORD. The Judeans who returned to Jerusalem in 538 BC built an altar to offer sacrifices to the Lord and laid the foundations for the temple (Ezr 3). But work stopped when they ran into opposition (Ezr 4:4–5).

HAGGAI—NOTE ON 1:3 the word of the LORD came. See p 1080. Repetition of these words (v 1) strengthens Haggai's assertion that the Lord spoke through him. prophet. See note, 1Sm 9:9.

HAGGAI—NOTE ON 1:4 paneled houses … this house lies in ruins? Private dwellings were nicely finished with wood, such as cedar on the walls (Jer 22:14), but God's house was a desolate waste.

HAGGAI—NOTE ON 1:5 Consider your ways. Call to repentance. People were to examine their hearts, looking closely at what they had done since returning from Babylon. See "ways," p 844.

HAGGAI—NOTE ON 1:6 a bag with holes. Hbr refers to a package that had been carefully wrapped but whose contents fell out because it was punctured. Such is the life of people who fail to put the Lord first.

HAGGAI—NOTE ON 1:7 Consider your ways. Repeated (v 5) for emphasis.

HAGGAI—NOTE ON 1:8 bring wood. Though Solomon's temple had been built using cedar from Lebanon (1Ki 5:6), now the Lord orders that wood from nearby hills be used. glorified. Because the place would be ready to welcome worshipers. Even a "second class" worship setting could bring God glory.

HAGGAI—NOTE ON 1:9 it came to little. Their lives lacked fulfillment because the temple lay in ruins. busies himself with his own house. Rather than concern for God's house, the people's number one priority was themselves.

HAGGAI—NOTE ON 1:10 withheld the dew. In dry Israel, dew was an important source of moisture for healthy crops. See calendar, p 262.

HAGGAI—NOTE ON 1:11 drought. Hbr play on words: the Lord punished the people with drought (Hbr choreb) because they had let God's house lie in ruins (Hbr chareb). grain, the new wine, the oil. In the ancient biblical world, these were the basic foods. See p 236.

HAGGAI—NOTE ON 1:1–11 The Lord chastises His people for being concerned about their own houses while His sacred house lies in ruins. The Lord's work suffers today when we take care of our own material wants and needs but fail to support the work of proclaiming the Gospel. Jesus had a different priority. He came to serve, giving His life as a ransom for us. Though He was rich, for our sakes He became poor so that we might become rich (2Co 8:9). The riches we have received in Him move us to become rich in our love for Him and others. • Dear Jesus, fire me with zeal to have You first in my life. Unite me in service with others. Amen.

HAGGAI—NOTE ON 1:12 Zerubbabel … Joshua. See note, v 1. all the remnant. Judeans, some of whom had returned from Babylon. One estimate puts this number at fewer than 4,000 people. See p 1080. obeyed. Responded positively to the Word of the Lord spoken by Haggai. the people feared the LORD. This fear is a profound and worshipful respect that results in obedience. See p 1001.

HAGGAI—NOTE ON 1:13 messenger. Hbr mal'ak, often translated "angel" but could describe preachers. I am with you. The Lord, by assuring His people of His living presence among them, means to give them the needed confidence to carry out the building project.

HAGGAI—NOTE ON 1:14 stirred up the spirit. Emphasizes how completely the people and their leaders have the Lord's support.

HAGGAI—NOTE ON 1:15 twenty-fourth day. Three and a half weeks after the Word of the Lord had come to Haggai (v 1), the people began the work of restoring what had lain in ruins for nearly 70 years.

HAGGAI—NOTE ON 1:12–15 The people of Judah obey the Word of the Lord and begin the task of rebuilding the temple. They demonstrate repentance for their previous selfishness. The Lord in turn promises to be with them, and He stirs up the spirit of the people and their leaders to work hard. Through Word and Sacrament, God is present with us today. His Spirit stirs us to repentance and gives us a burning desire to serve Him. • Lord God, bless my hearing and my doing of Your holy will. Amen.

HAGGAI—NOTE ON 2:1 seventh month. Hbr Tishri (our Sept/Oct; see calendar, p 262), three and a half weeks after the work on the house of the Lord had begun.

HAGGAI—NOTE ON 2:2 Speak now. Directed to the governor, the high priest, and the remnant of the people, some of whom would have had childhood memories of what the temple had looked like before it was destroyed by the Babylonians in 587 BC.

HAGGAI—NOTE ON 2:3 this house in its former glory? Solomon's temple was exceedingly glorious. as nothing. Replacement temple must have seemed inferior to those who remembered the glory of Solomon's temple. Luth: "Many little children had been carried away into captivity, like Daniel, who lived almost until the return from the captivity. Here, too, this text indicates that there were still some survivors who had seen God's earlier house which had been so magnificently and beautifully constructed. So it did seem impossible to them that the temple could be restored. We have had the same experience. In the beginning, the preaching of the Gospel seemed foolish to us, but this is the way God declares His power. You see, at the time when we expect nothing less, when we think that everything is going to pieces, that's when the Lord is near" (AE 18:380).

HAGGAI—NOTE ON 2:4 be strong. Three repetitions of this verb heighten God's call for courage and fortitude. Work, for I am with you. In the strength of the Lord, nothing is impossible for His people. Lord of hosts. See p 1291.

HAGGAI—NOTE ON 2:5 the covenant. At Mount Sinai, God had declared that Israel would be His own possession from among all peoples (Ex 19:5–6), and He had given them the assurance that He would dwell among them and be their God (Ex 25:8). See p 127. My Spirit remains in your midst. In the past, God had given His Holy Spirit to Moses, to Joshua, and to David. This same Spirit would now be among these people to comfort and strengthen them. See p 1815.

HAGGAI—NOTE ON 2:6 shake. First of three occurrences of this word, which refers to events associated with God's effect on human history (vv 7, 21). When God acts, as on the Last Day, all the forces of nature will experience upheaval along with the nations of the world (Mt 24:29).
HAGGAI—NOTE ON 2:7 shake. See note, v 6. glory. The Lord promises that His glory will fill this rebuilt temple as it filled Solomon's temple (1Ki 8:11).
HAGGAI—NOTE ON 2:8 The silver is Mine, and the gold is Mine. Whatever was needed to build the temple, the Lord provided. He will also provide whatever spiritual riches are needed for His more glorious house, the Church.
HAGGAI—NOTE ON 2:9 glory. Luth: "This splendor could not lie in gold or silver or other precious objects, since that first temple had been built much more richly and splendidly. Rather, this is a spiritual splendor, which comes through the preaching of the Gospel. All these things have been fulfilled in Christ" (AE 18:383). greater than the former. What would make the second temple even more glorious than the first was the presence of God's Son in it (Lk 2:27, 46). peace. Hbr shalom, a multipurpose word that can mean "health," "prosperity," or "peace," and may serve as a greeting. God's greatest gift of peace is in the sending of the Messiah (Lk 2:14, 29).
HAGGAI—NOTE ON 2:1–9 The Lord encourages His people to continue their work of rebuilding the temple with the assurance that He will be with them and that in the future, the glory of this house will be greater than the first temple. Do we at times become discouraged thinking that God's Church and the preaching of His Word count for nothing in this world? The Lord assures us that it is here we find our greatest treasure: forgiveness of sins and peace in Christ our Savior. • Praise to You, O Lord, for establishing Your glorious Church and for the peace that she proclaims. Amen.
HAGGAI—NOTE ON 2:10 ninth month. Hbr Chislev, our Nov/Dec. See calendar, p 262. Haggai received his third message exactly three months after work on the Lord's house had begun.
HAGGAI—NOTE ON 2:11 Ask the priests. Priests had the responsibility of distinguishing between what was clean and what was unclean. They were also responsible for interpreting and applying the Law (Dt 17:8–13). law. Hbr torah, "instruction in God's will"; may refer to a ruling or decision based on the Ten Commandments and other laws in the Five Books of Moses. See p 971.

HAGGAI—NOTE ON 2:12 Garments were made holy by contact with holy meat (Lv 6:27) but could not communicate holiness to other items. See pp 170–71. holy meat. Flesh of animals sacrificed to the Lord.

HAGGAI—NOTE ON 2:13 contact with a dead body. Anyone who touched a dead body was unclean (Nu 19:11–13), and everything touched by the unclean person also became unclean.

HAGGAI—NOTE ON 2:14 People were unclean or defiled because the temple had not yet been completed, despite good beginnings. Their previous failure to act according to God's will in one area of life contaminated all other activities in which they engaged, such as trying to raise crops.

HAGGAI—NOTE ON 2:15 consider ... onward. Haggai invites the people to look forward to what is coming in contrast to what had been happening. Repeated in v 18.

HAGGAI—NOTE ON 2:16 how did you fare? People are asked to think about conditions before the temple rebuilding began. Then, they lacked wheat and wine. a heap. Sheaf of grain. wine vat. Where grapes were crushed and juice was drained.

HAGGAI—NOTE ON 2:17 I struck you. The Lord permitted disease, mold, and hail to ruin their crops so that they would turn their hearts to Him in repentance (1:10–11). See note, Dt 32:39.

HAGGAI—NOTE ON 2:18 Repeated from v 15. From the time that the foundation of the temple had been laid until the present day, the people had continued to suffer want.

HAGGAI—NOTE ON 2:19 from this day on I will bless you. Despite all their hard efforts, the people had not enjoyed good harvests. But now, because of their determination to rebuild the temple, they can look forward with hope. The Lord will mark this day as the beginning of showers of blessings on them. bless. See p 842.

HAGGAI—NOTE ON 2:10–19 The people have not received the blessings they expected from the Lord. And the offerings they bring to the Lord are unclean (v 14) because of their earlier failure to rebuild the temple. But now the Lord promises to bless them. The people of Judah need to realize that without this blessing, both the temple building project and their crops will suffer. We also need the Lord to bless us, for without Him, we can do nothing. By His bodily presence in Christ, He has demonstrated His gracious kindness to us. We can depend on Him to provide for all our needs, both spiritual and physical. • Father, forgive me for the times I have lived my life without considering You. Help me depend on You to bless all that I undertake as Your child. Amen.

HAGGAI—NOTE ON 2:20 on the twenty-fourth day of the month. The Lord spoke through Haggai a second time on the same day (v 10).

HAGGAI—NOTE ON 2:21 Zerubbabel. See note, 1:1. Haggai's first message on the 24th day of the month was directed to the people (v 10). Now he addresses Zerubbabel, the one through whom spiritual blessings will be realized in the future. shake. See note, v 6.

HAGGAI—NOTE ON 2:22 throne of kingdoms. Earthly rulers and their dynasties. destroy the strength ... overthrow. There will be a complete overthrow of the kingdoms of this world, together with their charioteers, their cavalry, and all their weapons of war (Ps 46:9–10). by the sword of his brother. The Lord will use one nation to destroy another.

HAGGAI—NOTE ON 2:23 On that day. OT prophets often used this expression when referring to the NT era (Zep 3:9, 11, 16; Zec 13:1). See p 1079. signet ring. Ring engraved with a person's name or symbol and used to make an impression on a clay seal or wax tablet as a way of sealing a decree. To have a signet ring was a mark of authority. See note, Jer 32:10. chosen. The promise made to David (2Sm 7:11–16; Ps 78:70) is repeated to Zerubbabel, a descendant of David, through whom the promised Savior would come (Mt 1:12, 16). Zerubbabel never became a king over Judah, as perhaps some Judeans hoped would happen. Luth: "This applies not so much to the person of the king as it does to the person of Christ, who was born out of his loins, because 'salvation is from the Jews,' as John writes (John 4:22). Therefore, Christ, who came from the Jews, changed everything with His coming, namely, through the preaching of the Gospel. You see, as long as Zerubbabel lived that change did not occur. It came after his death when the new King, Christ, was born. To Him be praise and glory. Amen" (AE 18:386–87). See pp 1565–66.

HAGGAI—NOTE ON 2:20–23 Haggai concludes by looking to the future. The time was coming when the Lord would overthrow the kingdoms of the world and make His chosen servant Zerubbabel the one through whom the promise of the Savior would be realized. When we see the world in turmoil, with wars and rumors of wars across the globe and evil increasing all around, how often do we find ourselves foolishly wondering whether the Lord is in control? We need to remember that just as He did in the past, so today the Lord continues to govern all things in the interest of His kingdom. Through Jesus, the promised descendant of David and Zerubbabel, we receive forgiveness for our sins of doubt and worry. • Heavenly Father, I praise You for sending Jesus to be my Savior from sin, my comfort in affliction, and my reason for living. Amen.

A Call to Return to the Lord

1 [1]In the eighth month, in the second year of Darius, the word of the Lord came to the prophet Zechariah, the son of Berechiah, son of Iddo, saying, [2] “The Lord was very angry with your fathers.[3]Therefore say to them, Thus declares the Lord of hosts: Return to me, says the Lord of hosts, and I will return to you, says the Lord of hosts. [4] Do not be like your fathers, to whom the former prophets cried out, ‘Thus says the Lord of hosts, Return from your evil ways and from your evil deeds.’ But they did not hear or pay attention to me, declares the Lord. [5]Your fathers, where are they? And the prophets, do they live forever? [6] But my words and my statutes, which I commanded my servants the prophets, did they not overtake your fathers? So they repented and said, As the Lord of hosts purposed to deal with us for our ways and deeds, so has he dealt with us.”

A Vision of a Horseman

7 †† On the twenty-fourth day of the eleventh month, which is the month of Shebat, in the second year of Darius, the word of the Lord came to the prophet Zechariah, the son of Berechiah, son of Iddo, saying, 8 † "I saw in the night, and behold, a man riding on a red horse! He was standing among the myrtle trees in the glen, and behind him were red, sorrel, and white horses. 9 † Then I said, 'What are these, my lord?' The angel who talked with me said to me, 'I will show you what they are.' 10 † So the man who was standing among the myrtle trees answered, 'These are they whom the Lord has sent to patrol the earth.' 11 † And they answered the angel of the Lord who was standing among the myrtle trees, and said, 'We have patrolled the earth, and behold, all the earth remains at rest.' 12 † Then the angel of the Lord said, 'O Lord of hosts, how long will you have no mercy on Jerusalem and the cities of Judah, against which you have been angry these seventy years?' 13 † And the Lord answered gracious and comforting words to the angel who talked with me. 14 † So the angel who talked with me said to me, 'Cry out, Thus says the Lord of hosts: I am exceedingly jealous for Jerusalem and for Zion. 15 † And I am exceedingly angry with the nations that are at ease; for while I was angry but a little, they furthered the disaster.
16 † Therefore, thus says the Lord, I have returned to Jerusalem with mercy;
my house shall be built in it, declares the Lord of hosts, and the measuring line shall be stretched out over Jerusalem. 17 † Cry out again, Thus says the Lord of hosts: My cities shall again overflow with prosperity, and the Lord will again comfort Zion and again choose Jerusalem.'"

A Vision of Horns and Craftsmen

18 ‡ † [1] And I lifted my eyes and saw, and behold, four horns! 19 † And I said to the angel who talked with me, “What are these?” And he said to me, “These are the horns that have scattered Judah, Israel, and Jerusalem.” 20 † Then the Lord showed me four craftsmen. 21 † And I said, “What are these coming to do?” He said, “These are the horns that scattered Judah, so that no one raised his head. And these have come to terrify them, to cast down the horns of the nations who lifted up their horns against the land of Judah to scatter it.”

A Vision of a Man with a Measuring Line

2 [1] And I lifted my eyes and saw, and behold, a man with a measuring line in his hand! [2] Then I said, “Where are you going?” And he said to me, “To measure Jerusalem, to see what is its width and what is its length.” [3] And behold, the angel who talked with me came forward, and another angel came forward to meet him [4] and said to him, “Run, say to that young man, ‘Jerusalem shall be inhabited as villages without walls, because of the multitude of people and livestock in it. [5] And I will be to her a wall of fire all around, declares the Lord, and I will be the glory in her midst.’”

[6] Up! Up! Flee from the land of the north, declares the Lord. For I have spread you abroad as the four winds of the heavens, declares the Lord. [7] Up! Escape to Zion, you who dwell with the daughter of Babylon. [8] For thus said the Lord of hosts, after his glory sent me[1] to the nations who plundered you, for he who touches you touches the apple of his eye: [9] “Behold, I will shake my hand over them, and they shall become plunder for those who served them. Then you will know that the Lord of hosts has sent me. [10] Sing and rejoice, O daughter of Zion, for behold, I come and I will dwell in your midst, declares the Lord. [11] And many nations shall join themselves to the Lord in that day, and shall be my people. And I will dwell in your midst, and you shall know that the Lord of hosts has sent me to you. [12] And the Lord will inherit Judah as his portion in the holy land, and will again choose Jerusalem.”

[13] Be silent, all flesh, before the Lord, for he has roused himself from his holy dwelling.

A Vision of Joshua the High Priest

3 [1]†† Then he showed me Joshua the high priest standing before the angel of the Lord, and Satan[2] standing at his right hand to accuse him.
[2]† And the Lord said to Satan, "The Lord rebuke you, O Satan! The Lord who has chosen Jerusalem rebuke you! Is not this a brand[3] plucked from the fire?" [3]† Now Joshua was standing before the angel, clothed with filthy garments. [4]† And the angel said to those who were standing before him, "Remove the filthy garments from him." And to him he said, "Behold, I have taken your iniquity away from you, and I will clothe you with pure vestments." [5]† And I said, "Let them put a clean turban on his head." So they put a clean turban on his head and clothed him with garments. And the angel of the Lord was standing by.

[6]† And the angel of the Lord solemnly assured Joshua, [7]† "Thus says the Lord of hosts: If you will walk in my ways and keep my charge, then you shall rule my house and have charge of my courts, and I will give you the right of access among those who are standing here. [8]† Hear now, O Joshua the high priest, you and your friends who sit before you, for they are men who are a sign: behold, I will bring my servant the Branch. [9]† For behold, on the stone that I have set before Joshua, on a single stone with seven eyes,[1] I will engrave its inscription, declares the Lord of hosts, and I will remove the iniquity of this land in a single day. [10]† In that day, declares the Lord of hosts, every one of you will invite his neighbor to come under his vine and under his fig tree."

A Vision of a Golden Lampstand

4 [1]And the angel who talked with me came again and woke me, like a man who is awakened out of his sleep. [2]And he said to me, “What do you see?” I said, “I see, and behold, a lampstand all of gold, with a bowl on the top of it, and seven lamps on it, with seven lips on each of the lamps that are on the top of it. [3]And there are two olive trees by it, one on the right of the bowl and the other on its left.” [4]And I said to the angel who talked with me, “What are these, my lord?” [5]Then the angel who talked with me answered and said to me, “Do you not know what these are?” I said, “No, my lord.” [6]Then he said to me, “This is the word of the Lord to Zerubbabel: Not by might, nor by power, but by my Spirit, says the Lord of hosts. [7]Who are you, O great mountain? Before Zerubbabel you shall become a plain. And he shall bring forward the top stone amid shouts of Grace, grace to it!’”

[8]Then the word of the Lord came to me, saying, [9] “The hands of Zerubbabel have laid the foundation of this house; his hands shall also complete it. Then you will know that the Lord of hosts has sent me to you.
[10] For whoever has despised the day of small things shall rejoice, and shall see the plumb line in the hand of Zerubbabel.

“These seven are the eyes of the Lord, which range through the whole earth.” [11]Then I said to him, “What are these two olive trees on the right and the left of the lampstand?” [12]And a second time I answered and said to him, “What are these two branches of the olive trees, which are beside the two golden pipes from which the golden oil[1] is poured out?” [13]He said to me, “Do you not know what these are?” I said, “No, my lord.” [14]Then he said, “These are the two anointed ones[2] who stand by the Lord of the whole earth.”

A Vision of a Flying Scroll

5 [1] ‡† Again I lifted my eyes and saw, and behold, a flying scroll!
[2] † And he said to me, “What do you see?” I answered, “I see a flying scroll.
Its length is twenty cubits, and its width ten cubits.”[3] [3] † Then he said to me, “This is the curse that goes out over the face of the whole land. For everyone who steals shall be cleaned out according to what is on one side, and everyone who swears falsely[4] shall be cleaned out according to what is on the other side. [4] † I will send it out, declares the Lord of hosts, and it shall enter the house of the thief, and the house of him who swears falsely by my name. And it shall remain in his house and consume it, both timber and stones.”

A Vision of a Woman in a Basket

5 ‡ † Then the angel who talked with me came forward and said to me, “Lift your eyes and see what this is that is going out.” 6 †And I said, “What is it?” He said, “This is the basket[5] that is going out.” And he said, “This is their iniquity[6] in all the land.” 7 †And behold, the leaden cover was lifted, and there was a woman sitting in the basket! 8 † And he said, “This is Wickedness.” And he thrust her back into the basket, and thrust down the leaden weight on its opening.

9 † Then I lifted my eyes and saw, and behold, two women coming forward! The wind was in their wings. They had wings like the wings of a stork, and they lifted up the basket between earth and heaven. 10Then I said to the angel who talked with me, “Where are they taking the basket?” 11 †He said to me, “To the land of Shinar, to build a house for it. And when this is prepared, they will set the basket down there on its base.”

A Vision of Four Chariots

6 [1] ‡ ‡Again I lifted my eyes and saw, and behold, four chariots came out from between two mountains. And the mountains were mountains of bronze. [2] † The first chariot had red horses, the second black horses, [3] † the third white horses, and the fourth chariot dappled horses—all of them strong.[1] [4] † Then I answered and said to the angel who talked with me,
"What are these, my lord?" [5] † And the angel answered and said to me,
"These are going out to the four winds of heaven, after presenting themselves before the Lord of all the earth. [6] † The chariot with the black horses goes toward the north country, the white ones go after them, and the dappled ones go toward the south country." [7] † When the strong horses came out, they were impatient to go and patrol the earth. And he said, "Go, patrol the earth." So they patrolled the earth. [8] † Then he cried to me, "Behold, those who go toward the north country have set my Spirit at rest in the north country."

The Crown and the Temple

9 ‡ † And the word of the Lord came to me: 10 † “Take from the exiles Heldai, Tobijah, and Jedaiah, who have arrived from Babylon, and go the same day to the house of Josiah, the son of Zephaniah. 11 † Take from them silver and gold, and make a crown, and set it on the head of Joshua, the son of Jehozadak, the high priest. 12 † And say to him, ‘Thus says the Lord of hosts, “Behold, the man whose name is the Branch: for he shall branch out from his place, and he shall build the temple of the Lord. 13 † It is he who shall build the temple of the Lord and shall bear royal honor, and shall sit and rule on his throne. And there shall be a priest on his throne, and the counsel of peace shall be between them both.”’ 14 † And the crown shall be in the temple of the Lord as a reminder to Helem,[1] Tobijah, Jedaiah, and Hen the son of Zephaniah.

15 † “And those who are far off shall come and help to build the temple of the Lord. And you shall know that the Lord of hosts has sent me to you. And this shall come to pass, if you will diligently obey the voice of the Lord your God.”

A Call for Justice and Mercy

7 [1]In the fourth year of King Darius, the word of the Lord came to Zechariah on the fourth day of the ninth month, which is Chislev. [2]Now the people of Bethel had sent Sharezer and Regem-melech and their men to entreat the favor of the Lord, [3] saying to the priests of the house of the Lord of hosts and the prophets, "Should I weep and abstain in the fifth month, as I have done for so many years?"

[4]Then the word of the Lord of hosts came to me: [5]"Say to all the people of the land and the priests, When you fasted and mourned in the fifth month and in the seventh, for these seventy years, was it for me that you fasted? [6]
And when you eat and when you drink, do you not eat for yourselves and drink for yourselves? [7] Were not these the words that the Lord proclaimed by the former prophets, when Jerusalem was inhabited and prosperous, with her cities around her, and the South and the lowland were inhabited?"

[8]And the word of the Lord came to Zechariah, saying, [9]"Thus says the Lord of hosts, Render true judgments, show kindness and mercy to one another, [10] do not oppress the widow, the fatherless, the sojourner, or the poor, and let none of you devise evil against another in your heart." [11]But they refused to pay attention and turned a stubborn shoulder and stopped their ears that they might not hear.[1] [12] They made their hearts diamond-hard lest they should hear the law and the words that the Lord of hosts had sent by his Spirit through the former prophets. Therefore great anger came from the Lord of hosts. [13] "As I[2] called, and they would not hear, so they called, and I would not hear," says the Lord of hosts, [14] "and I scattered them with a whirlwind among all the nations that they had not known. Thus the land they left was desolate, so that no one went to and fro, and the pleasant land was made desolate."

The Coming Peace and Prosperity of Zion

8 [1]‡†And the word of the Lord of hosts came, saying, [2]†“Thus says the Lord of hosts: I am jealous for Zion with great jealousy, and I am jealous for her with great wrath. [3]†Thus says the Lord: I have returned to Zion and will dwell in the midst of Jerusalem, and Jerusalem shall be called the faithful city, and the mountain of the Lord of hosts, the holy mountain. [4]‡†Thus says the Lord of hosts: Old men and old women shall again sit in the streets of Jerusalem, each with staff in hand because of great age. [5]†And the streets of the city shall be full of boys and girls playing in its streets. [6]†Thus says the Lord of hosts: If it is marvelous in the sight of the remnant of this people in those days, should it also be marvelous in my sight, declares the Lord of hosts? [7]†Thus says the Lord of hosts: behold, I will save my people from the east country and from the west country, [8]†and I will bring them to dwell in the midst of Jerusalem. And they shall be my people, and I will be their God, in faithfulness and in righteousness.”

[9]†Thus says the Lord of hosts: “Let your hands be strong, you who in these days have been hearing these words from the mouth of the prophets who were present on the day that the foundation of the house of the Lord of hosts was laid, that the temple might be built. [10]†For before those days there was no wage for man or any wage for beast, neither was there any safety from the foe for him who went out or came in, for I set every man against his neighbor. [11]†But now I will not deal with the remnant of this people as in the former days, declares the Lord of hosts. [12]† For there shall be a sowing of peace. The vine shall give its fruit, and the ground shall give its produce, and the heavens shall give their dew. And I will cause the remnant of this people to possess all these things. [13]†And as you have been a byword of cursing among the nations, O house of Judah and house of Israel, so will I save you, and you shall be a blessing. Fear not, but let your hands be strong.”

[14]‡†For thus says the Lord of hosts: “As I purposed to bring disaster to you when your fathers provoked me to wrath, and I did not relent, says the Lord of hosts, [15]†so again have I purposed in these days to bring good to Jerusalem and to the house of Judah; fear not. [16]†These are the things that you shall do: Speak the truth to one another; render in your gates judgments that are true and make for peace; [17]† do not devise evil in your hearts against one another, and love no false oath, for all these things I hate, declares the Lord."

[18]‡†And the word of the Lord of hosts came to me, saying, [19]†"Thus says the Lord of hosts: The fast of the fourth month and the fast of the fifth and the fast of the seventh and the fast of the tenth shall be to the house of Judah seasons of joy and gladness and cheerful feasts. Therefore love truth and peace.

[20]† "Thus says the Lord of hosts: Peoples shall yet come, even the inhabitants of many cities. [21]†The inhabitants of one city shall go to another, saying, 'Let us go at once to entreat the favor of the Lord and to seek the Lord of hosts; I myself am going.' [22]† Many peoples and strong nations shall come to seek the Lord of hosts in Jerusalem and to entreat the favor of the Lord. [23]†Thus says the Lord of hosts: In those days ten men from the nations of every tongue shall take hold of the robe of a Jew, saying, 'Let us go with you, for we have heard that God is with you.'"

Judgment on Israel's Enemies

9 [1]† The burden of the word of the Lord is against the land of Hadrach
and Damascus is its resting place.
For the Lord has an eye on mankind and on all the tribes of Israel,[1]

[2]† and on Hamath also, which borders on it, Tyre and Sidon, though they are very wise.
[3]† Tyre has built herself a rampart and heaped up silver like dust, and fine gold like the mud of the streets.
[4]† But behold, the Lord will strip her of her possessions
and strike down her power on the sea,
and she shall be devoured by fire.

[5]† Ashkelon shall see it, and be afraid;
Gaza too, and shall writhe in anguish; Ekron also, because its hopes are confounded.
The king shall perish from Gaza;
Ashkelon shall be uninhabited;
[6]† a mixed people[1] shall dwell in Ashdod,
and I will cut off the pride of Philistia.
[7]† I will take away its blood from its mouth, and its abominations from between its teeth;
it too shall be a remnant for our God;
it shall be like a clan in Judah,
and Ekron shall be like the Jebusites.

[8] † Then I will encamp at my house as a guard,
so that none shall march to and fro;
no oppressor shall again march over them,
for now I see with my own eyes.

The Coming King of Zion

9† Rejoice greatly, O daughter of Zion!
Shout aloud, O daughter of Jerusalem!
Behold, your king is coming to you;
righteous and having salvation is he,
humble and mounted on a donkey,
on a colt, the foal of a donkey.
10† I will cut off the chariot from Ephraim and the war horse from Jerusalem;
and the battle bow shall be cut off,
and he shall speak peace to the nations;
his rule shall be from sea to sea, and from the River to the ends of the earth.
11† As for you also, because of the blood of my covenant with you,
I will set your prisoners free from the waterless pit.
12† Return to your stronghold, O prisoners of hope;
today I declare that I will restore to you double.
13† For I have bent Judah as my bow;
I have made Ephraim its arrow.
I will stir up your sons, O Zion, against your sons, O Greece,
and wield you like a warrior's sword.

The Lord Will Save His People

14† Then the Lord will appear over them, and his arrow will go forth like lightning;
the Lord God will sound the trumpet and will march forth in the whirlwinds of the south.
15† The Lord of hosts will protect them, and they shall devour, and tread down the sling stones,
and they shall drink and roar as if drunk with wine,
and be full like a bowl,
drenched like the corners of the altar.

16† On that day the Lord their God will save them, as the flock of his people;
for like the jewels of a crown
they shall shine on his land.
17† For how great is his goodness, and how great his beauty!
Grain shall make the young men flourish,
and new wine the young women.

The Restoration for Judah and Israel

10 [1]† Ask rain from the Lord in the season of the spring rain, from the Lord who makes the storm clouds,
and he will give them showers of rain,
to everyone the vegetation in the field.

[2]† For the household gods utter nonsense,
and the diviners see lies;
they tell false dreams
and give empty consolation.
Therefore the people wander like sheep;
they are afflicted for lack of a shepherd.

[3]† "My anger is hot against the shepherds, and I will punish the leaders;[1]
for the Lord of hosts cares for his flock, the house of Judah, and will make them like his majestic steed in battle.
[4]† From him shall come the cornerstone,
from him the tent peg,
from him the battle bow,
from him every ruler—all of them together.
[5]† They shall be like mighty men in battle, trampling the foe in the mud of the streets;
they shall fight because the Lord is with them,
and they shall put to shame the riders on horses.

6 “I will strengthen the house of Judah, and I will save the house of Joseph.
I will bring them back because I have compassion on them, and they shall be as though I had not rejected them, for I am the Lord their God and I will answer them.
7 Then Ephraim shall become like a mighty warrior,
and their hearts shall be glad as with wine.
Their children shall see it and be glad;
their hearts shall rejoice in the Lord.

8 “I will whistle for them and gather them in,
for I have redeemed them,
and they shall be as many as they were before.
9 Though I scattered them among the nations,
yet in far countries they shall remember me,
and with their children they shall live and return.
10 I will bring them home from the land of Egypt, and gather them from Assyria, and I will bring them to the land of Gilead
and to Lebanon,
till there is no room for them.
11 He shall pass through the sea of troubles and strike down the waves of the sea, and all the depths of the Nile shall be dried up.
The pride of Assyria shall be laid low,
and the scepter of Egypt shall depart.
12 I will make them strong in the Lord, and they shall walk in his name,”
declares the Lord.

The Flock Doomed to Slaughter

11 [1]†Open your doors, O Lebanon, that the fire may devour your cedars!

[2]† Wail, O cypress, for the cedar has fallen,
for the glorious trees are ruined!
Wail, oaks of Bashan,
for the thick forest has been felled!
[3]† The sound of the wail of the shepherds,
for their glory is ruined!
The sound of the roar of the lions,
for the thicket of the Jordan is ruined!

[4]†Thus said the Lord my God: "Become shepherd of the flock doomed to slaughter. [5]† Those who buy them slaughter them and go unpunished, and those who sell them say, 'Blessed be the Lord, I have become rich,' and their own shepherds have no pity on them. [6]†For I will no longer have pity on the inhabitants of this land, declares the Lord. Behold, I will cause each of them to fall into the hand of his neighbor, and each into the hand of his king, and they shall crush the land, and I will deliver none from their hand."

[7]† So I became the shepherd of the flock doomed to be slaughtered by the sheep traders. And I took two staffs, one I named Favor, the other I named Union. And I tended the sheep. [8]† In one month I destroyed the three shepherds. But I became impatient with them, and they also detested me. [9]†So I said, "I will not be your shepherd. What is to die, let it die. What is to be destroyed, let it be destroyed. And let those who are left devour the flesh of one another." [10]†And I took my staff Favor, and I broke it, annulling the covenant that I had made with all the peoples. [11]†So it was annulled on that day, and the sheep traders, who were watching me, knew that it was the word of the Lord. [12]†Then I said to them, "If it seems good to you, give me my wages; but if not, keep them." And they weighed out as my wages thirty pieces of silver. [13]†Then the Lord said to me, "Throw it to the potter"—the lordly price at which I was priced by them. So I took the thirty pieces of silver and threw them into the house of the Lord, to the potter. [14] †Then I broke my second staff Union, annulling the brotherhood between Judah and Israel.

[15] †Then the Lord said to me, “Take once more the equipment of a foolish shepherd. [16] †For behold, I am raising up in the land a shepherd who does not care for those being destroyed, or seek the young or heal the maimed or nourish the healthy, but devours the flesh of the fat ones, tearing off even their hoofs.

[17] † “Woe to my worthless shepherd, who deserts the flock!
May the sword strike his arm
and his right eye!
Let his arm be wholly withered,
his right eye utterly blinded!”

The Lord Will Give Salvation

12 [1] The burden of the word of the Lord concerning Israel: Thus declares the Lord, who stretched out the heavens and founded the earth and formed the spirit of man within him: [2] "Behold, I am about to make Jerusalem a cup of staggering to all the surrounding peoples. The siege of Jerusalem will also be against Judah. [3] On that day I will make Jerusalem a heavy stone for all the peoples. All who lift it will surely hurt themselves.
And all the nations of the earth will gather against it. [4] On that day, declares the Lord, I will strike every horse with panic, and its rider with madness.
But for the sake of the house of Judah I will keep my eyes open, when I strike every horse of the peoples with blindness. [5] Then the clans of Judah shall say to themselves, 'The inhabitants of Jerusalem have strength through the Lord of hosts, their God.'

[6] "On that day I will make the clans of Judah like a blazing pot in the midst of wood, like a flaming torch among sheaves. And they shall devour to the right and to the left all the surrounding peoples, while Jerusalem shall again be inhabited in its place, in Jerusalem.

[7] "And the Lord will give salvation to the tents of Judah first, that the glory of the house of David and the glory of the inhabitants of Jerusalem may not surpass that of Judah. [8] On that day the Lord will protect the inhabitants of Jerusalem, so that the feeblest among them on that day shall be like David, and the house of David shall be like God, like the angel of the Lord, going before them. [9] And on that day I will seek to destroy all the nations that come against Jerusalem.

Him Whom They Have Pierced

10 ‡ † “And I will pour out on the house of David and the inhabitants of Jerusalem a spirit of grace and pleas for mercy, so that, when they look on me, on him whom they have pierced, they shall mourn for him, as one mourns for an only child, and weep bitterly over him, as one weeps over a firstborn. 11 † On that day the mourning in Jerusalem will be as great as the mourning for Hadad-rimmon in the plain of Megiddo. 12 † The land shall mourn, each family[1] by itself: the family of the house of David by itself, and their wives by themselves; the family of the house of Nathan by itself, and their wives by themselves; 13 † the family of the house of Levi by itself, and their wives by themselves; the family of the Shimeites by itself, and their wives by themselves; 14 † and all the families that are left, each by itself, and their wives by themselves.

13 1 † “On that day there shall be a fountain opened for the house of David and the inhabitants of Jerusalem, to cleanse them from sin and uncleanness.

Idolatry Cut Off

2 ‡ † “And on that day, declares the Lord of hosts, I will cut off the names of the idols from the land, so that they shall be remembered no more. And also I will remove from the land the prophets and the spirit of uncleanness.
3 † And if anyone again prophesies, his father and mother who bore him will say to him, ‘You shall not live, for you speak lies in the name of the Lord.’
And his father and mother who bore him shall pierce him through when he prophesies.
4 ‡ † “On that day every prophet will be ashamed of his vision when he prophesies. He will not put on a hairy cloak in order to deceive, 5 † but he will say, ‘I am no prophet, I am a worker of the soil, for a man sold me in my youth.’[1] 6 † And if one asks him, ‘What are these wounds on your back?’[2] he will say, ‘The wounds I received in the house of my friends.’

The Shepherd Struck

7 ✝✝ “Awake, O sword, against my shepherd, against the man who stands next to me,”
declares the Lord of hosts.

“Strike the shepherd, and the sheep will be scattered;
I will turn my hand against the little ones.
8 ✝ In the whole land, declares the Lord,
two thirds shall be cut off and perish,
and one third shall be left alive.
9 ✝ And I will put this third into the fire,
and refine them as one refines silver,
and test them as gold is tested.
They will call upon my name,
and I will answer them.
I will say, ‘They are my people’;
and they will say, ‘The Lord is my God.’”

The Coming Day of the Lord

14 [1]†Behold, a day is coming for the Lord, when the spoil taken from you will be divided in your midst. [2]†For I will gather all the nations against Jerusalem to battle, and the city shall be taken and the houses plundered and the women raped. Half of the city shall go out into exile, but the rest of the people shall not be cut off from the city. [3]† Then the Lord will go out and fight against those nations as when he fights on a day of battle. [4]† On that day his feet shall stand on the Mount of Olives that lies before Jerusalem on the east, and the Mount of Olives shall be split in two from east to west by a very wide valley, so that one half of the Mount shall move northward, and the other half southward. [5]† And you shall flee to the valley of my mountains, for the valley of the mountains shall reach to Azal. And you shall flee as you fled from the earthquake in the days of Uzziah king of Judah. Then the Lord my God will come, and all the holy ones with him.

[6]† On that day there shall be no light, cold, or frost.[1] [7]† And there shall be a unique[2] day, which is known to the Lord, neither day nor night, but at evening time there shall be light.

[8]† On that day living waters shall flow out from Jerusalem, half of them to the eastern sea[3] and half of them to the western sea.[4] It shall continue in summer as in winter.

[9]†And the Lord will be king over all the earth. On that day the Lord will be one and his name one.

[10]† The whole land shall be turned into a plain from Geba to Rimmon south of Jerusalem. But Jerusalem shall remain aloft on its site from the Gate of Benjamin to the place of the former gate, to the Corner Gate, and from the Tower of Hananel to the king's winepresses. [11]†And it shall be inhabited, for there shall never again be a decree of utter destruction.[5] Jerusalem shall dwell in security.

[12]†And this shall be the plague with which the Lord will strike all the peoples that wage war against Jerusalem: their flesh will rot while they are still standing on their feet, their eyes will rot in their sockets, and their tongues will rot in their mouths.

13 †And on that day a great panic from the Lord shall fall on them, so that each will seize the hand of another, and the hand of the one will be raised against the hand of the other. 14 †Even Judah will fight at Jerusalem. And the wealth of all the surrounding nations shall be collected, gold, silver, and garments in great abundance. 15 †And a plague like this plague shall fall on the horses, the mules, the camels, the donkeys, and whatever beasts may be in those camps.

16 †Then everyone who survives of all the nations that have come against Jerusalem shall go up year after year to worship the King, the Lord of hosts, and to keep the Feast of Booths. 17 †And if any of the families of the earth do not go up to Jerusalem to worship the King, the Lord of hosts, there will be no rain on them. 18 †And if the family of Egypt does not go up and present themselves, then on them there shall be no rain;[1] there shall be the plague with which the Lord afflicts the nations that do not go up to keep the Feast of Booths. 19 This shall be the punishment to Egypt and the punishment to all the nations that do not go up to keep the Feast of Booths.

20 †And on that day there shall be inscribed on the bells of the horses, “Holy to the Lord.” And the pots in the house of the Lord shall be as the bowls before the altar. 21 †And every pot in Jerusalem and Judah shall be holy to the Lord of hosts, so that all who sacrifice may come and take of them and boil the meat of the sacrifice in them. And there shall no longer be a trader[2] in the house of the Lord of hosts on that day.

Introduction to Zechariah

Reading Zechariah

A measuring line and filthy garments made pure, a golden lampstand and a flying scroll, a gilded crown and a promise from God—vision by vision, the Lord raised up the second temple to welcome the exiles home and to hold the promise of His presence.

The visions that the Lord gave to Zechariah overtook the wandering Judeans and settled their hearts in Zion. This humble beginning would hail the coming of a lowly King, who would fulfill the old covenant and establish an unbounded kingdom wholly consecrated to the Lord.

Luther on Zechariah

This prophet lived after the Babylonian captivity. With his colleague, Haggai, he helped to rebuild Jerusalem and the temple and to bring the scattered people together again, so that government and order might be set up in the land again. He is truly one of the most comforting of the prophets. He presents many lovely and reassuring visions, and gives many sweet and kindly words, in order to encourage and strengthen the troubled and scattered people to proceed with the building and the government despite the great and varied resistance which they had till then encountered. He does this down to the fifth chapter.

In the fifth chapter, under the vision of the scroll and the bushel, he prophesies of the false teachers who are later to come among the Jewish people, and who will deny Christ; and this still applies to the Jews at the present day.

In the sixth chapter he prophesies of the gospel of Christ and the spiritual temple to be built in all the world, because the Jews denied him and would not have him.

In the seventh and eighth chapters a question arises which the prophet answers, encouraging and exhorting them once more to build the temple and organize the government. And with this he concludes the prophecy about the rebuilding in his time.

In the ninth chapter he proceeds to the coming times, and prophesies first in chapter ten [9:1–6] of how Alexander the Great shall conquer Tyre, Sidon, and the Philistines, so that the whole world shall be opened to the coming gospel of Christ; and Zechariah [9:9] has the King Christ coming into Jerusalem on an ass.

In the eleventh chapter, however, he prophesies that Christ shall be sold by the Jews for thirty pieces of silver [11:12–13], for which cause Christ will leave them, so that Jerusalem will be destroyed and the Jews will be hardened in their error and dispersed. Thus the gospel and the kingdom of Christ will come to the Gentiles, after the sufferings of Christ, in which he, as the Shepherd, shall first be beaten, and the apostles, as the sheep, be scattered. For Christ had to suffer first and thus enter into his glory [Luke 24:26].

In the last chapter [14], when he has destroyed Jerusalem, he abolishes also the Levitical priesthood along with its organization and utensils and festivals, saying that all spiritual offices shall be held in common, for the worship and service of God, and shall not belong to the tribe of Levi only. That is, there shall be other priests, other festivals, other sacrifices, other worship, which other tribes could observe, indeed, even the Egyptians and all the Gentiles. Surely that is the outright abolition and removal of the Old Covenant. (AE 35:330–31)

For more of Luther's insights on this Book, see Lectures on Zechariah (AE 20).

Challenges for Readers

Unity. Chs 1–8 are clearly dated. Chs 9–12 have no dates and also differ in style. As a result, critics have concluded that Zechariah likely wrote the first chapters, but a later prophet wrote the last ones. Though this could have happened, long-standing tradition has testified to the unity of the Book. Defenders of this tradition point out that the first chapters focus on the specific problems of the temple and priesthood, while the later chapters prophesy about the future. The later chapters could have been written years later by Zechariah.

Apocalyptic Style. Chs 1–8 of Zechariah's prophecies are written in a special visionary style that appears in some biblical books of this era (Ezk, Dn), some nonbiblical books (see pp 1562–64), and the Book of Revelation (see p 2193). The Greek term apocalypsis, "revelation," is used to describe visions presented with the help of an angelic messenger. Such visions are highly symbolic and require interpretation. Zechariah usually includes explanations for his visions, but not all apocalyptic literature does this.

Son of Iddo. Some questions about Zechariah's genealogy are raised by Ezk 5:1 and Ne 12:16. Zechariah introduces himself as "the son of Berechiah, son of Iddo" (Zec 1:1, 7), but Berechiah is not mentioned in Ne 12:16, where the prophet is presented simply as the descendant "of Iddo." Biblical writers commonly compressed genealogies, highlighting certain names and omitting others (see p 9). Iddo may be Zechariah's grandfather and a more prominent forebear than his literal father. See note, 1:1

As you study Zechariah, read his visions carefully; interpret them in view of the angels' remarks and their context in history rather than looking for fulfillment in modern events, such as those occurring in the Middle East. Take special note of the comfort and hope Zechariah proclaims as he looks forward to the appearing of the promised Savior.

Study Notes

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 1:1 eighth month … second year. Oct/Nov 520 BC, two months after Haggai began to prophesy. Darius. King of Persia (522–486 BC), Darius I Hystaspes (known as "the Great"); consolidated control of the country after two years of civil war following a rebellion against the previous king, Cambyses. the word of the LORD came. See p 1080. Zechariah … Berechiah … Iddo. Zechariah means "Yahweh has remembered." His grandfather Iddo, head of a prominent priestly family, was among the first Judeans to return from exile in Babylon. The description of Zechariah elsewhere as "son of Iddo" (Ezr 5:1; Ne 12:16) suggests his father (Berechiah) died young, and Zechariah succeeded his grandfather as head of the family. Zechariah, born a priest to intercede for God's people, was called to be His spokesman to them.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 1:2 Hard hearts, deaf ears, and evil deeds of generations of Israelites had brought about God's "alien work" of anger toward them. This culminated in the destruction of Jerusalem and exile to Babylon. People could realize the depth of His anger by glancing around at the war damage still evident almost 20 years after the exiles' return.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 1:3 LORD of hosts. See p 1291. Term occurs three times in this verse and often in Zec. return. See p 1080. Personal return to the Lord is the precondition for properly receiving not only Zechariah's message, but every Word of God. This appeal must do its work in your heart and life before God will perform His "proper work" of returning in forgiving love. Chem: "Just as the turning away of God's face demonstrates a hatred toward actions opposing Him, so His turning toward a person testifies to His benevolence in the way things are going" (LTh 1:259).

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 1:4 former prophets. Preexilic prophets like Isaiah and Jeremiah who had appealed, mainly in vain, for the repentance of the people of Israel.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 1:5–6 Two ironic questions remind the hearers that though people pass away, God's inspired Word remains in force to bear fruit (1Pt 1:25).

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 1:6 words … statutes … commanded. God's will, as revealed in the Law and the Prophets, has enduring authority and power. The moral relativism of our times makes our society similar to that of Israel and Judah, who paid such a high price for tuning out the prophets. overtake your fathers? God was personally present in His Word, which chased, apprehended, and punished Judah's ancestors, who had despised it. they repented. See note, v 3. After experiencing the destruction of Jerusalem and captivity in Babylon, the faithful remnant acknowledged their evil ways and deeds.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 1:1–6 When God's Word produces changes of heart and life, it bears beautiful fruit. The people of Judah have to learn that lesson from their tragic past lest their return from exile end in sorrow. When God's Word meets resistance and rejection, then there will be a repeat of the same shuddering outcome seen in war-damaged Jerusalem. The good news is that God keeps returning with open arms, beckoning us to repent. He pities the guilty with a Father's heart. • Lord, rescue our hearts and minds from the prison of our wrong desires and actions. Connect us to the reality of Your grace that we may return to Your sweet embrace and remain in it forever. Amen.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 1:7 twenty-fourth day of the eleventh month. Feb 15, 519 BC.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 1:8 in the night. First of a series of eight interconnected visions that Zechariah received at night. He learned of God's gracious purposes for His people, which were already taking effect at that time but would be fully realized in Christ and His kingdom. a man … red horse! Angelic figure on horseback with other angels on horseback behind him. Horses symbolize strength and motion. Rv 6:1–8 suggests that the different colors of the horses allude to the various tasks assigned to their riders. myrtle trees. Evergreens, usually c 8 ft tall, symbolizing the holy people. in the glen. Likely alludes to Judah's depressed fortunes at this time, much like a valley.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 1:9 angel who talked with me. This interpreting angel remains with the prophet to explain new features of the revelation given to him. Angels play a prominent role in Zec.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 1:10 man. On the red horse (v 8). sent to patrol. These angels are not simply collectors of information but are instrumental in God's government of the world.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 1:11 angel of the LORD. Central figure of this living tableau, distinct from both the rider on the red horse and the interpreting angel. See p 1227. His dramatic appearance here indicates that God is once again accomplishing mighty saving works for His people. at rest. Order had been restored in the Persian Empire by Darius (v 1).

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 1:12 how long. Angel of the Lord intercedes for His OT people, even as Jesus did in the Upper Room (Jn 17) and as He continues to do at the Father's right hand (Rm 8:34; Heb 7:25). seventy years? Jeremiah's prophecy of 70 years of desolation, beginning with the destruction of the first temple in 587 BC, was now drawing to a close. See notes, 2Ch 36:21; Is 23:15.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 1:13 gracious and comforting words. In contrast to the dire threats that had resulted in the devastation of Jerusalem (Zep 3:1–5).

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 1:14 jealous. God is fiercely protective of His people. See note, Ex 20:5. His message, communicated through the interpreting angel to Zechariah, is a wholehearted commitment to rebuild Jerusalem. Zion. Mount Zion was the site of Solomon's temple. See p 844.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 1:15 furthered the disaster. Though they were God's agents in punishing His people, Israel's enemies relished their task too much, exercising an excess of cruelty.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 1:16 I have returned. God's renewed favor to His people has already begun and will flower in the rebuilding of the temple. measuring line. String that builders use to mark where walls of a house or the walls of a city should go. But see note, 2:1.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 1:17 comfort Zion … choose Jerusalem. God will again make Jerusalem the city of His earthly abode. This declaration brought comfort to the people who felt rejected by the Lord during the exile.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 1:7–17 At a moment when God seems remote and uncaring, Zechariah sees that He is guiding events for good. The Angel of the Lord was among His people, interceding for them and preparing for the rebuilding of the temple and city. If you experience dismal moments, do not succumb to the despairing thought that God has forsaken His people in general or you in particular. God's angels watch over His own, and Christ effectually intercedes for you before His Father's throne. • Open my eyes, Lord, to the care of Your servants. Give me courage and endurance to trust that if Christ is for me, the hosts of hell cannot prevail against me. Amen.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 1:18 four horns! Fearsome weapons (see p 842). Here they signify massive strength and great pride. Four is a number of completeness (four winds, four corners of the earth), suggesting all the military might of the world. We are reminded of Daniel's vision of four beasts (Dn 7:1–8), but it is not possible to identify the world powers pictured in Zechariah's vision.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 1:19 scattered … Jerusalem. People of the Northern Kingdom of Israel were scattered by the Assyrians (2Ki 17:6), and those in Judah and Jerusalem by the Babylonians (2Ki 25:11). Cf v 21.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 1:20 craftsmen. Hbr word refers specifically to blacksmiths or metalworkers, men who bend iron to their will by sheer force. They are divine agents, "brutish men, skillful to destroy" (Ezk 21:31), appointed to cast down the four horns.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 1:21 to terrify them, to cast down the horns of the nations. Just as craftsmen wield power over horns, so God causes kingdoms like Assyria and Babylon to fall before powers like Persia and Rome.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 1:18–21 Zechariah's heart sinks and his soul wilts before the forces arrayed against the holy people from his own day to the end of time. But almighty God stiffens the prophet's backbone and restores his courage by the sight of even mightier powers fighting on the side of God's people. Do not despair over the strength of evil. Instead, lift your eyes to Christ, who sends His mighty warriors to defend Zion so that the gates of hell shall not prevail against it (Mt 16:18). • O Jesus, King of angels, make me ever mindful of Your protecting care. Equip me to resist the hosts of hell, trusting in Your sure deliverance. Amen.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 2:1 lifted my eyes and saw. Zechariah's third vision. measuring line. To measure distances (e.g., tape measure); different from the line in 1:16.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 2:2 measure Jerusalem. That one should measure the width and length of a city is not unusual. Ezekiel had a similar vision (Ezk 40:3), as did John (Rv 21:15–17).

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 2:3 the angel who talked with me. Interpreting angel (1:9). another angel. Likely one of higher rank who would convey supernatural information.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 2:4 young man. The man with a measuring line (v 1). as villages without walls. Lit, "as open country." The prophet was granted a vision that rises above his own time and place. He beheld the universal Church, a city without walls, with inhabitants "from every nation, from all tribes and peoples and languages" (Rv 7:9).

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 2:5 wall of fire. God's personal presence will afford much better protection than any city wall or humanly contrived security system. glory in her midst. New Jerusalem has no need of sun or moon, "for the glory of God gives it light, and its lamp is the Lamb" (Rv 21:23).

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 2:6–13 Not part of the third vision, but an expansion on some of the themes found in the first three visions.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 2:6 Up! Up! There is urgency in the Lord's admonition. Flee from the land of the north. Judeans living in Babylon are encouraged to come to Jerusalem. I have spread you abroad as the four winds. The second vision pictured how the four horns scattered Judah, Israel, and Jerusalem (1:19).

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 2:7 Escape to Zion. The thought of v 6 is repeated for emphasis. daughter of Babylon. For the daughter of Zion (v 10) to remain in this heathen city was to risk spiritual death.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 2:8 His glory. Visible manifestation from which God spoke to Zechariah (cf Ex 40:34; see p 39). sent me. See notes, v 11; 4:9. apple of His eye. See note, Pr 7:2. God's people are compared to the pupil of the eye. Just as a person is protective of this sensitive part of the body, so God hurts when His people hurt.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 2:9 shake My hand. With a wave of the hand, the Lord dismisses those who threaten His people. plunder … them. God will cause servants to overthrow their masters and seize their goods. sent me. See notes, v 11; 4:9.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 2:10 Sing … daughter of Zion. As the opposite of the "daughter of Babylon" (v 7), those who belong to the city of God are encouraged to break into song. Mary is an example of one who did, singing her Magnificat (Lk 1:46–55). dwell in your midst. Not only did God come to the restored temple, but He also came in the fullness of time (Gal 4:4). Jesus is rightly called Immanuel, for He is "God with us" (Is 7:14; Mt 1:23) and remains with us through Word and Sacrament.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 2:11 join themselves to the LORD. Nations' alienation from the God of Israel will become a thing of the past as many of them are added to His people. in that day. Prophets often use this expression when referring to the NT era (cf Zep 3:11, 16; Zec 13:1). sent me. Third occurrence of these words (vv 8–9) suggests that not everyone was ready to accept Zechariah as a prophet sent by the Lord (see note, 4:9). Moses had the same concern (Ex 3:13–15).

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 2:12 inherit Judah as His portion. Faithful remnant needed assurance that God continued to regard them as His special possession (Dt 7:6). See "portion," p 7. holy land. One of two biblical occurrences (cf Ps 78:54) of this term, which has become common today. However, every corner of the earth where the Lord comes and dwells with His faithful people is "holy land." choose Jerusalem. See note, 1:17.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 2:13 Be silent. Appropriate response before the Lord is reverent silence (Hab 2:20). roused Himself. In contrast to dead idols, God is alive. holy dwelling. God's heavenly habitation (Dt 26:15).

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 2:1–13 A measuring line will not do when seeking to determine the extent of God's kingdom. His promise to dwell in Jerusalem's earthly temple pales in splendor to what is to come. Zechariah saw a glorious future for the people of Judah, but he did not understand how great would be the fulfillment of God's promises in Jesus Christ and the heavenly Jerusalem. Likewise, the eyes of our faith see only dimly the glory that will be revealed to us. • Praise to You, O Jesus, for coming to dwell among us with Your grace and truth. Keep our eyes ever focused on the heavenly Jerusalem. Amen.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 3:1 He showed me. The Lord granted His prophet this vision (cf Am 7:1). Joshua the high priest. See note, Hg 1:1. Along with the governor Zerubbabel, he was a leader in the temple rebuilding project (Ezr 5:2; Hg 1:1). "Joshua" is a form of the name "Jesus." angel of the LORD. See p 1227. Satan. Hbr name meaning "obstruct," "oppose." (Cf Jb 1–2; 1Ch 21:1.) at his right hand to accuse. As in Rv 12:10, Satan plays the role of "accuser of our brothers." Here he is about to accuse Joshua.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 3:2 The LORD rebuke you, O Satan! Sharp rebuke showed that the Lord was aware of the charges Satan planned to make. brand plucked from the fire? As one might pull a charred piece of burning wood from a fire, so Joshua was rescued from the fire of Babylonian exile.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 3:3 filthy garments. Joshua was a descendant of sinful and impure people and had been living in Babylon, an unclean land.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 3:4 the angel. The Angel of the Lord, who speaks with full divine authority. See p 1227. those … standing. Other angels. Behold … you. Removal of the filthy garments symbolized the divine absolution Joshua received. God washes away our sin by the Word and water of Baptism (Ac 22:16). clothe you with pure vestments. Holy garments worn by the high priest, designed by the Lord Himself (Ex 28). So is the robe of righteousness worn by believers and the white robes of those in heaven (Rv 7:9).

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 3:5 And I said. A bold intervention by the prophet, who begged that the high priest be completely equipped for effective ministry. turban. Official headdress of the high priest (Ex 28:36–38), on top of which was set a "holy crown" (Ex 29:6).

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 3:6 angel of the LORD. See p 1227.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 3:7 walk in My ways. Joshua could only carry out his office of governing God's people if he diligently followed the Lord's will. See p 844. right of access. An assurance that the petitions Joshua offered on earth would be heard in God's presence.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 3:8 your friends. Joshua's associates in the priesthood. men who are a sign. Priests of Aaron's line point to the coming High Priest descended from David (Heb 8:1–2). My servant the Branch. Two strands of messianic prophecy are beautifully tied together: the Branch will be a king of David's line (Is 4:2; Jer 33:15) and the Servant of the Lord (Is 42:1; 53:11), who by making atonement for sin will undo the damage done by Adam (Is 53:2–12). Christ is the content of Scripture. Chem: "Zechariah is referring to the passages of earlier prophets, where the Messiah is called an offshoot" (LTh 1:106).

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 3:9 a single stone with seven eyes. May symbolize the restored temple and its seven eyes, God's perfect watchful care (Zec 9:8; 12:4). It is also a sign of that living stone, our Lord Jesus Christ (1Pt 2:4). inscription. Though the wording of the inscription is not stated, the engraving on the plate fastened to the high priest's turban would be most appropriate: "Holy to the LORD" (Ex 28:36). single day. Messianic prophecy foretelling the work of the Branch on Good Friday, when the perfect Priest Himself secured eternal redemption (Heb 9:11–12).

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 3:10 vine … fig tree. Figures of speech capturing the peace and safety of prosperity, but esp of the messianic kingdom (Mi 4:4). Here God's peace, the fruit of the atonement, is presented as something to be actively shared through evangelism.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 3:1–10 The Joshua of Zechariah's day would have sunk under Satan's accusations if a greater Joshua (Jesus) had not stepped forward to reverse a grim situation. The first Joshua was no private person but represented his whole people in the filth of their sin. But the promised Branch was on the way, who on Good Friday removed the iniquity of Joshua and his people. We are all like brands plucked from the fire of sin; we all wear filthy garments. But because of the greater Joshua, we have been robed in righteousness. We enjoy the peace and safety of His kingdom. • Holy God, give me eyes to see and confess my filthiness and a heart to believe Your perfect cleansing, through Jesus Christ, my Lord. Amen.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 4:1 woke me. The angel roused the prophet, who then compared his visionary experience to being suddenly awakened from sleep.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 4:2 lampstand. Hbr menorah. Its seven branches would have at once reminded Zechariah of an important furnishing kept in the Holy Place of the original tabernacle (Ex 25:31–40) and later in the temple. The lampstand in Zechariah's vision has several unique features that reveal details about the temple rebuilding project. bowl on the top. Just how this bowl was positioned on the lampstand is not altogether clear, though its function is. Priests had to fill the temple lampstand with oil each day, but this bowl contained an ever-flowing supply from the two olive trees (v 3). seven lamps … seven lips on each. Each of the seven lamps had seven lips into which wicks were placed. Each wick produced a flame, fed by the oil, creating a lampstand of 49 lights in all. Archaeologists have found such seven-lipped lamps. See p 217.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 4:3 two olive trees. Live olive trees supplied the oil needed for lamplight. In v 14 we learn that these olive trees represent the two men holding offices through which God works for His people.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 4:4–5 these. Though Zechariah was familiar with the lampstand as such, he failed to understand the meaning of the special features. The angel's question shows how vital it is for Zechariah (and us) to grasp the meaning of these unique features: the anointed men will continuously serve the people.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 4:6 the word of the LORD to Zerubbabel. See p 1080. Before the interpreting angel explained the meaning of the vision to Zechariah in vv 10b–14, he spoke to Zerubbabel, the civil governor of Judah under the Persian king (Ezr 2:2; Hg 1:1). by My Spirit. Zerubbabel, burdened with the heavy duty of superintending the rebuilding of the temple, needed a divine reminder to depend on God's Spirit rather than human power and might to get the job done. See p 1227. Lord of hosts. See p 1291.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 4:7 mountain? Symbol of all the difficulties encountered during the temple rebuilding project. become a plain. The Lord of hosts promises to smooth the way. top stone. Final stone in the structure, a figure of speech indicating that Zerubbabel would bring to completion the building project that he is overseeing. Grace, grace to it! People would call on the Lord to bless the new temple as if to say, "May it enjoy Your favor and never again be destroyed!"

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 4:9 hands of Zerubbabel. Used figuratively. Zerubbabel was in charge of the rebuilding but did not necessarily do the actual work. sent me to you. Fourth time this statement is made (2:8, 9, 11). Completing the temple would be a sign to the people that the Lord of hosts had sent Zechariah.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 4:10 day of small things. Humanly speaking, Judah's status as a subjected nation and the inferiority of the second temple to the first are well described as "small things." But God was at work preparing the way for great events that would cause people to rejoice. Christ's coming in the flesh is one such great event. plumb line. Weighted string used to determine if the walls were being built straight up and down. seven are the eyes of the LORD. Interpreting angel resumes his explanation (v 5) of what Zechariah's vision means. Seven lamps, each with seven lips (see note, v 2), symbolize the Lord's seven eyes, keeping watch over all the earth (3:9; 9:1). See p 217.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 4:12 Branches and pipes from the olive trees on either side of the lampstand (v 3) furnish a continuing supply of fresh oil for the burning lamps.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 4:13–14 two anointed ones. See ESV note. Israelite high priests (Ex 40:13) and kings (2Sm 2:4) were anointed with oil. Zechariah heard from the angel that the high priest Joshua and the governor Zerubbabel had been chosen as leaders to "stand by the Lord of the whole earth." As leaders, they were to supply the oil to complete the temple rebuilding project. Jesus Christ is the ultimate Anointed One (Messiah), who as Prophet, Priest, and King supplies the oil of joy to all believers (Is 61:3).

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 4:1–14 God used earthly leaders like Joshua and Zerubbabel to accomplish His work in this world. Rebuilding the temple was a most important project for the Jerusalem community of believers, many of whom had returned from exile in Babylon. God continues to use earthly leaders to build His kingdom of believers, the communion of saints. Yet no pastor, teacher, or layperson can keep the lamp of faith and holy living alight by his or her own efforts. The Holy Spirit gives life and strength to believers through Word and Sacrament to build God's holy temple of living stones (1Pt 2:5). • Holy Spirit, open my eyes to see how You are at work in our world. Make me strong in faith so that I may better serve as one of Your instruments. Amen.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 5:1 flying scroll! It comes from heaven and contains God's message. Jeremiah was told to write on a scroll all the words the Lord had spoken, and Ezekiel was supposed to eat a scroll filled with lamentations (Ezk 3:1).

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 5:2 length ... width. Massively oversized, 30 by 15 ft, the scroll had the same dimensions as the Holy Place in the original tabernacle and in Solomon's temple (1Ki 6:3). This links the heavenly scroll and its message to the earthly sanctuary being restored.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 5:3 curse. Interpreting angel revealed to Zechariah that the scroll contained a curse, just as the Lord's covenant with Israel included a series of curses for those who failed to obey His commandments (Dt 27:15–26; 28:15–68). steals. An esp prevalent sin in economically depressed Judah. cleaned out. Hbr naqah, the expression means "purge out" or "empty" from the holy people. one side … the other side. Like the original tablets of the Law (Ex 32:15) and the scroll that Ezekiel ate (Ezk 2:10), this scroll had writing on both sides. swears falsely. Swearing an oath of innocence was one feature of the Israelite system of justice (Ex 22:11; Nu 5:19–21). To swear falsely was likely a common abuse of this legal procedure. See note, Nu 30:2.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 5:4 it. The curse. enter ... remain ... consume. People who steal or swear falsely might escape human punishment but not the Lord's. His curse will enter a house and remain there until the house is consumed. His covenant, including its curses, was still in effect.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 5:1–4 God's curse rests on all who fail to keep His Law perfectly (Gal 3:10), but in Christ, that curse is removed. For "Christ redeemed us from the curse of the law by becoming a curse for us" (Gal 3:13). How blessed we are that our debt was canceled by having it nailed to the cross (Col 2:14)! • Lord Jesus Christ, thank You for removing God's curse, which rested on me because of my sin. Assist me as I share this Good News with others. Amen.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 5:5 Lift your eyes and see. Begins the seventh of Zechariah's eight visions. going out. The angel called attention to the fact that the object in the vision was moving away.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 5:6 basket. Lit, an "ephah," a container roughly the size of a bushel. See p cx. This basket must have been oversized, since a woman was inside and a lid on top (v 7). iniquity in all the land. When the contents of the basket were revealed to Zechariah, he understood better why it was labeled "iniquity" (see notes, vv 7, 8).

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 5:7 leaden cover. Lead is a heavy metal, which unlike gold, silver, bronze, and iron, was considered quite useless in biblical times. A lead cover is most appropriate when confining iniquity. a woman. Some women and female figures posed threats to the worship of the true God in several ways. The foreign wives of Solomon "turned away his heart after other gods" (1Ki 11:4). Marriage to foreign wives was a problem among exiles who returned to Jerusalem from Babylon (Ezr 9:2; 10:18). In Rv, Babylon is called the "mother of prostitutes" (Rv 17:5).

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 5:8 Wickedness. Ultimate wickedness is idolatry, worshiping other gods and goddesses (SC, First Commandment, p xxxv). Judeans taken captive to Babylon would have become familiar with worship of the fertility goddess Ishtar. Queen Athaliah of Judah, who promoted idolatry even within the temple, is called "that wicked woman" (2Ch 24:7). The woman in the basket is the personification of idolatry.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 5:9 two women. Likely angels, though the setting is in a vision, which may not depict heavenly reality; this is the only place in Scripture where female figures have an angelic role. It is fitting that these two carry away the wicked woman. wings. Humanlike angels are not depicted with wings elsewhere in Scripture, though they are described as flying (Rv 14:6). Cherubim and seraphim are winged. See note, Ezk 10:1.

stork. Large white and black bird with powerful wings. The Judeans would think of storks as birds on the move since they were migratory and hatched their eggs elsewhere.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 5:11 land of Shinar. Babylon, the land from which the exiles had come, a land where many Judeans were still living (2:6–7). See map, p 717. house. Temple (Hg 1:9). In Jerusalem, the temple was being restored for the worship of the true God; in Babylon, the people were building a house for an idol. base. The pedestal on which the woman's image was placed.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 5:5–11 The ever-present temptation to idolatry came to the people of Jerusalem who had worked so hard at rebuilding the temple. God made it clear that idolatry had no place among them; that wicked woman had to be carted off to Babylon. Idolatry has no place among us either. "You shall have no other gods" (Ex 20:3). We were baptized in the name of the Father, Son, and Holy Spirit. The triune God has given us life and salvation. Worship and serve Him alone! • Glory be to the Father and to the Son and to the Holy Spirit, as it was in the beginning, is now, and shall be forever. Amen.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 6:1 Again … saw. This eighth and final vision has similarities with the first vision (1:7–17). four chariots. Unlike the first vision, where the horses were at rest, these horses pull chariots, symbolizing military power. There are four in number, corresponding to the four points of the compass, to cover the entire earth. came out from between two mountains … of bronze. Possibly representing the two tall bronze pillars standing on either side of the temple entrance (1Ki 7:15; Jer 52:17). Chariots coming out of the rebuilt temple would obviously belong to the Lord. Luther interpreted the two bronze mountains spiritually as the Law and the Prophets: "They are fixed and constant. For rust does not devour bronze, as it devours iron. Thus the Law and the Prophets are great, strong, constant witnesses of the Gospel" (AE 20:248).

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 6:2 red. Sometimes represents carnage and warfare. black. Usually associated with death and doom.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 6:3 white. Typically represents holiness, purity, and victory; may also represent paleness or fear. dappled. Interpretations vary; may represent famine or catastrophe. all of them strong. Suggests divine power that is about to become active.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 6:4 As in earlier visions, Zechariah asks the interpreting angel the meaning of the vision.
ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 6:5 out to the four winds. The chariots went out in four directions: north, east, south, and west. The Hbr word ruchoth, "wind," anticipates the similar word ruach, "spirit" (v 8). Luth: "No rider is seen here on the horses nor a man in the chariots. For Christ sits and rides on these horses and chariots alone" (AE 20:249).
ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 6:6 The chariot … after them. Two chariots went northward toward Babylon and Persia to show God's rule over these countries. toward the south country. Egypt was south of Israel and also a world power. The destination of the red chariot is not told.
ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 6:7 strong horses. Zechariah's attention is caught by the power and vigor of the horses. patrol. The Lord released His agents to proceed with their mission of patrolling the earth.
ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 6:8 He cried to me. The Ruler of heaven and earth has a special message for the prophet. set My Spirit at rest in the north country. God's Spirit is at rest even in the warlike countries of Persia and Babylon. The Lord wanted His people to know that because He is in charge of world events, He can establish rest in "all the earth" (1:11). Luth: "[Zechariah] comforts and encourages his people, who have been terrified and dejected because of their fear of the nations of the north" (AE 20:63).
ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 6:1–8 In this vision, the Lord reveals to the people of Jerusalem, who have suffered devastation, that He is indeed powerful and active. His authority is likened to strong horses pulling four chariots, patrolling the earth in all directions. This is also our God, powerful and active in controlling the events of this world for the sake of His people and for the sake of the Gospel. God's word to us is that He is our refuge and strength (cf Ps 46:1). • Almighty Father, Creator and Ruler of all that exists, silence our doubts and fears by Your comforting Word. Amen.
ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 6:9 What follows is not a vision but a symbolic act that will incorporate a messianic message.
ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 6:10 Heldai, Tobijah, and Jedaiah. Three men who had recently arrived in Jerusalem from Babylon and who had brought silver and gold, no doubt wishing to support the temple rebuilding effort. Babylon. Ancient capital city of the Babylonian Empire on the Euphrates River, southwest of modern Baghdad. See map, p 717. Many of the Judean exiles continued to live in Babylon (2:7). Josiah, the son of Zephaniah.

Possible descendant of the Zephaniah named as the second priest at the time of the fall of Jerusalem.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 6:11 a crown. Hbr is plural but here translated in the singular. Some commentators suggest that the crown here, set on the head of Joshua the high priest, should be distinguished from the one in v 14. Usually we think of kings being crowned, but here the high priest received this honor. The headgear prescribed for the high priest did include a "holy crown" (Ex 29:6; Lv 8:9), though that Hbr word differs from the one used here.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 6:12 Branch. Hbr tsemach, a term designating the future Messiah. See note, 3:8. The coming Branch will be more than just a king; He will also be a high priest (Heb 9:11). Joshua was a type of the Coming One, who would be a vigorous and fruit-bearing plant. build the temple of the LORD. Not the wood and stone temple currently being constructed under the supervision of Zerubbabel. This Branch will build a spiritual temple, the Church (Eph 2:21; 1Pt 2:5). Luth: "[Tsemach] means a plant or a twig which grows to be a large tree. For Christ at first was a small shrub, or plant, in the Jewish land, but then He grew until He has become a tree which fills all the world with its branches, its top reaching to heaven and its roots reaching to the abyss of hell" (AE 20:255).

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 6:13 royal honor. The Branch will have the majesty and splendor of a king. rule on His throne. Christ's rule as King and Priest will extend over everything and will have no end (Lk 1:32–33; Eph 1:21–22). a priest on His throne. A new concept. In the past, priests and kings did not mix, and rivalries often existed between Israel's civil and religious leadership. the counsel of peace. The union of Priest and King in one person, the Branch, will not only guarantee perfect harmony but will also bring lasting peace.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 6:14 the crown shall be in the temple. Joshua's crown or a second crown (see note, v 11). as a reminder. Both a reminder that God will carry out His purposes through the Branch, and a cherished memorial for those who brought gifts from Babylon. Helem … and Hen the son of Zephaniah. Variations of the names in v 10. Josiah seems also to have had the name Hen.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 6:15 those who are far off. Not a reference to those who might help in the building of Jerusalem's earthly temple, but rather to all those, including Gentiles, who would be active in building

God's spiritual temple. you shall know. Many people in Zechariah's day doubted these promises, but we have seen their fulfillment and know that the Lord of hosts did indeed send this prophet (2:9; 4:9). if you will diligently obey. What is called for is "the obedience of faith" (Rm 1:5). Anna modeled this obedience (Lk 2:38).

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 6:9–15 A crown made from gifts of gold and silver becomes an object lesson to teach about the coming Branch, who will fill the offices of King and Priest. Not everyone in Zechariah's day wholeheartedly believes God's promises that accompany this lesson. But this does not prevent their fulfillment in the person and work of Jesus Christ. Likewise, the obedience of faith is lacking in many today, sometimes even in our own hearts. Jesus' trust-building message keeps coming to us: "Repent and believe in the gospel" (Mk 1:15). • Lord, Your voice calls me to grow in faith and life. Grant me the obedience of faith. Amen.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 7:1 fourth year of King Darius. 518 BC. Two years had elapsed since the beginning of Zechariah's ministry and his series of visions (cf 1:1, 7). By this time, the Israelite presence in Jerusalem had been strengthened, the temple was within two years of completion (Ezr 6:15), and the people were settling into a life of some ease and routine (Hg 1:4). word of the LORD. See p 1080. Chislev. Ninth month, corresponding to our Nov/Dec. See calendar, p 262. This heading marks the beginning of the Book's third section (chs 7–8 are one unit).

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 7:2 Bethel. Important town in Israel's history, located 12 mi N of Jerusalem. See color map 1. Years earlier, King Jeroboam I had set up a golden calf here for citizens of the Northern Kingdom to worship, hoping to keep them from going to Jerusalem (1Ki 12:26–33). Bethel evidently was occupied during the Babylonian exile, and now its people sent delegates to Jerusalem to inquire whether they should continue to observe special days of fasting, something they had done for nearly 70 years. Sharezer and Regem-melech. Delegates from Bethel. entreat the favor of the LORD. Lit, "to soothe the face," an idiom for appeasing someone's anger. Indicates they were hoping for a positive answer to their question, thinking that because of the return of many Judeans and the rebuilding of the temple, the fasts could be discontinued.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 7:3 priests … prophets. Priests were ordinarily the interpreters of the Law (Dt 17:9), but this question was also addressed to the prophets, including Zechariah. Lord of hosts. Name is used 24 times in chs 7–8. See p 1291. weep and abstain. Rituals of humiliation and repentance (cf Jl 1:13–14), involving shedding of tears and fasting, recalled the horrible events of the destruction of Jerusalem and the temple in 587 BC. in the fifth month. See note, 8:19.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 7:4–7 The Lord first asks His own questions before providing an answer to Bethel's question (8:19).

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 7:5 Zechariah is directed to speak the Lord's words not only to the Bethel delegation but also to a much wider audience. What they heard was more than just an answer to the original question. was it for Me that you fasted? The first of three rhetorical questions implying that their fasting was motivated by selfish interests rather than a desire to honor God. seventy years. In 518 BC, the 70-year period that began with the fall of Jerusalem was nearly over (Jer 25:11).

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 7:6 God questions whether the people's daily activities and joyful celebrations were not also motivated solely by the natural desire to satisfy themselves, with no thought given to Him, the Giver of all good things.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 7:7 words … by the former prophets. The final rhetorical question calls to mind what earlier prophets such as Isaiah, Jeremiah, and Micah had spoken. Examples of their admonitions are found in vv 9–10. South. The Negeb, along the southern boundary of Judah. lowland. The low country southwest of Jerusalem, between the seacoast and the central plateau. See color map 2.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 7:8 The Lord inspired Zechariah to restate words spoken by the former prophets. Four commands follow, two positive and two negative.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 7:9 Render true judgments. God's concern for truth and impartiality should also characterize the attitude of His people (cf Jer 22:3; Ezk 18:8). show kindness and mercy. Believers should practice kindness to others that reflects God's faithfulness and demonstrates heartfelt pity and compassion (cf Hos 2:19–20; 6:6). Luth: "Now He, in turn, answers that this is true fasting: when we forgive our enemies, when we remit that with which we have burdened them in an unchristian way, and when in addition we do good to them and help them. Whoever does this, fasts well, though he continue to eat and drink" (AE 20:263).

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 7:10 do not oppress. God's concern for the helpless was emphasized by the former prophets (Is 1:17; Jer 7:6; Ezk 22:7). The weak have a special place in God's heart and should have a similar place in His people's hearts. devise evil. Sin runs deeper than outward actions. It must be stopped at its source, the heart.
ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 7:11 they refused to pay attention. Zechariah reminded his audience of their ancestors' refusal to obey and the consequences of their sin. stubborn shoulder. Pictures someone intending to place a yoke on the neck of an ox, only to have the animal whirl aside. stopped their ears. Lit, "made their ears heavy"; i.e., plugged their ears out of distaste for God's Word.
ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 7:12 diamond-hard. Rare Hbr word suggesting just how obstinately the Israelites resisted God's Word before the exile. Elsewhere, the Lord described Judah's sins as written "with a point of diamond" (Jer 17:1). by His Spirit through the former prophets. The prophets were human agents, and God's Spirit was the divine agent. Zechariah understood that he was inspired by the Holy Spirit (cf 2Pt 1:19–21). great anger. God's patience finally was exhausted. The threatened judgment came upon Israel with devastating force.
ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 7:13 I called … they called. Cf 1:3. Because God's people refused to hear Him speaking, He closed His ears to their prayers as well.
ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 7:14 scattered them. See note, 1:19. whirlwind. Scattering effect of a whirlwind describes the tragic consequences of Israel's past disobedience. they had not known. The destruction of Jerusalem and the temple was bad enough; being scattered among the nations was equally hard to endure. No longer were they a people set apart but strangers without status in a foreign land (cf Dt 28:36; Jer 16:13). no one went to and fro. The land once so prosperous and richly populated (v 7), once "flowing with milk and honey" (Ex 3:8), was left silent and abandoned. pleasant land was made desolate. Judah's disobedience had turned the pleasant land into a wasteland (cf Ps 106:24; Jer 3:19–20).
ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 7:1–14 Bethel's delegation received a far different answer than they anticipated. In Zechariah's day, priest and people alike needed to learn the lessons from Judah's history lest the errors that caused such distress be repeated. God also wants us to examine our actions and ask whether the things we do glorify Him. With David, we must confess, “I know my transgressions, and my sin is ever before me” (Ps 51:3). In Christ alone is complete cleansing from all iniquity. In union with Him, we become fruit-bearing branches (Jn 15:5). • Lord of hosts, may Your Word ever be “a lamp to my feet and a light to my path” (Ps 119:105). Amen.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 8:1 The Lord now speaks words of promise to encourage His people.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 8:2 Thus says the LORD. This phrase, introducing oracles of the Lord, is repeated 10 times in ch 8. See p 1080. jealous for Zion with great jealousy. See note, 1:14. This is not like human jealousy, which is a negative emotion and a destructive force, but rather an intense and absolute commitment. great wrath. Directed at the enemies of His people (1:15), whereas for a time He had been angry with His own people (7:12).

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 8:3 returned to Zion. See note, 1:3. dwell. Hbr shakan, the root for the word “tabernacle.” God had dwelt with His people in the tabernacle and temple. With the rebuilding of the temple, His presence was again assured. faithful city. A name Jerusalem had lost (Is 1:21) would now be restored. God’s faithfulness would be reflected in the transformation of His people.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 8:4–5 streets. Word occurs three times in vv 4–5. Hbr refers to “open places,” such as a city park rather than a modern street.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 8:4 Old men and old women. Tranquil scene of elderly people sitting in city plazas, where soldiers would camp in times of war, recalls the promise of the Fourth Commandment (Ex 20:12). Sociologists estimate that men typically lived less than 40 years, and women even fewer due to the dangers of childbearing. Studies of the king’s chronologies suggest a typical life expectancy of c 46 years for rulers.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 8:5 Imagery of children, who with the elderly (v 4) are among the most vulnerable people in society, happily playing. These words were particularly encouraging to the exiles who had returned, because the city was still sparsely populated (cf 7:7).

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 8:6 Rhetorical question. What might seem humanly impossible was not difficult for the Lord of hosts to accomplish. remnant. Small band of survivors who had returned to Jerusalem from Babylon. See p 1080.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 8:7 I will save My people. This clear statement of the Gospel, repeated in v 13, is key to understanding all of Scripture. God is the one who saves His people (Ex 14:30; Ps 106:8, 10; Acts 16:31). The very name Jesus means "the Lord saves" (cf Mt 1:21). from the east country … west country. People will come from all quarters of the earth to share in the blessings of salvation (Is 2:2–3; Mal 1:11). God will gather His people no matter how far and wide they may be scattered.
ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 8:8 dwell in the midst of Jerusalem. Just as God had a dwelling place among His people (v 3), so they will dwell in Jerusalem, an image of the true Church of God throughout the world (Gal 4:26; Heb 12:22–23). they shall be … I will be. What the Lord had promised in Dt 30:1–6 finds its fulfillment here. He once again affirms the close bond that exists between Him and His people (Jer 30:22; Ezk 36:28; Hos 2:23). faithfulness … righteousness. Two familiar words describing the relationship between covenant partners. See pp 842, 843.
ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 8:9 Let your hands be strong. In this sixth oracle (see note, v 2), the Lord repeats words of encouragement originally addressed to Zerubbabel and Joshua and found again in v 13. mouth of the prophets. Prophets like Haggai and Zechariah had been speaking such words of encouragement since the foundation for the restored temple had been laid.
ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 8:10 no wage. Conditions had improved compared to the early days of the exiles' return. Those were days of scarcity for people and animals (cf Hg 1:10–11). safety from the foe. The returning Judeans experienced intense opposition from their Gentile neighbors. man against his neighbor. Even among the exiles there was disunity and strife, resulting in evil and discouragement.
ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 8:11 not deal … as in the former days. God promised a new day for those exiles who had returned. remnant. See p 1080.
ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 8:12 sowing of peace. The glorious future is described in agricultural terms. God's new day will produce a fruitful harvest of peace (vv 16, 19; Lk 2:14).
ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 8:13 byword of cursing. God's people had been an object of scorn in the eyes of heathen nations (Jer 24:9; 25:18). See note, Gn 12:3. house of Judah and house of Israel. The promised reunion of the previously separated Southern and Northern Kingdoms (Ezk 37:15–22) is an image of the Church's unity (Gal 6:16; Eph 4:4–6). I save you. See note, v 7. blessing. No longer will God's people be a "byword of cursing," but He will bless them and make them a blessing to the world (Gal 3:14). See p 842. be strong. Cf v 9.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 8:14–15 purposed. Hbr term is usually used in a negative manner. However, as God determined to bring disaster on Israel, so now God will supplant disaster with blessing and bring good to Jerusalem and the house of Judah.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 8:14 purposed to bring disaster. In the seventh oracle, God announces a reversal of His previous actions (7:14). The Babylonian exile was God's purposeful punishment for a long history of disobedience. wrath. See note, 7:12. not relent. Because Judah required severe discipline, God stayed the course.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 8:15 fear not. Cf v 13. The promise will not fail.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 8:16 things that you shall do. The Lord had promised good to His people and now tells them what they should do. Two positive obligations are followed by two negatives, similar to those in 7:9–10. These virtues are basic for a well-functioning society. Speak the truth. God puts a high priority on this obligation, one that believers are to love (v 19; Pr 12:22; Eph 4:15). The new Jerusalem is called "the faithful city" (v 3), which might be translated "the city of truth." render in your gates judgments that are true. Civil courts convened at the gate of the city. See p 792. Truthfulness in judicial proceedings was another of God's particular concerns (cf Mi 6:8). make for peace. Fair decisions resulted in peaceful living (v 12).

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 8:17 do not devise evil in your hearts. See note, 7:10. love no false oath. Bearing false witness against a neighbor seems to have been a serious problem and was specifically forbidden in the Eighth Commandment (Dt 5:20; 19:16–19). all these things I hate. The sins mentioned all make the list of the seven "abominations" in Pr 6:16–19. See note, Ps 5:5.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 8:1–17 In a series of seven oracles, the Lord of hosts contrasts His future blessings with the judgment His people had suffered in former days. God was good to Israel, and He has been good to us. We do not deserve His goodness, for there is no merit or worthiness in us. Yet His grace has allowed us to see in Christ the spiritual fulfillment of many of His ancient promises. As people who trust in His mercy, we look forward to a glorious future and seek to serve Him in all we say and do. • Lord, how very good You have been to Your people and to me. Give me a thankful heart, and move me to glorify You in word and deed. Amen.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 8:18 the word of the LORD of hosts. Signals the last of the five sections of chs 7–8, all with similar introductions (7:1, 4, 8; 8:1, 18). Finally the answer is given to the question asked by the delegates from Bethel regarding fasting observances (7:3). Vv 19–23 record the final 3 of the 10 oracles spoken by the Lord of hosts (see note, v 2).

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 8:19 fast of the fourth month. The Judeans evidently observed four fasts connected with the fall of Jerusalem. The fourth-month fast commemorated the breaching of Jerusalem's walls (2Ki 25:3–4). fifth. Lamented the burning of the temple and other important buildings (2Ki 25:8–10). seventh. Marked the anniversary of the assassination of Gedaliah, provisional governor of the occupied territory (2Ki 25:22–25). tenth. Mourned the beginning of the siege of Jerusalem by Nebuchadnezzar (2Ki 25:1). See calendar, p 262. seasons of joy and gladness and cheerful feasts. The deep sorrow associated with memories of the great calamities surrounding Jerusalem's fall will be supplanted by joyful celebrations. The Hbr words call to mind the joy of a wedding celebration (Jer 33:11), the gladness of social festivities (Est 9:17–18; Is 65:18–19), and cheerful feasts. The ultimate fulfillment of this promise will be the heavenly banquet of salvation (Is 25:6–9; Rv 19:6–10). love truth and peace. Proclamation that the fasts will change to feasts ends with the encouragement to love what the Lord loves: truth and peace.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 8:20 Not just an individual here and there, but large groups of peoples, cities, and nations will come (Is 2:1–4). This points to the NT era, when God brings Jews and Gentiles from all nations together into one Body, His Church (Eph 2:11–13; Rv 7:9).

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 8:21 inhabitants of one city. Converts from one city will go to neighboring cities and invite others to join them as they seek God (cf Jn 1:38–51). entreat the favor of the Lord. See note, 7:2; see also "seek," p 843. Note repetition in v 22 in reverse order. I myself am going. Converts will encourage one another by their own examples, a most effective form of evangelism.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 8:22 Many peoples and strong nations. That great multitudes and even powerful nations should seek the Lord is truly amazing (cf Mt 8:11; Rv 11:15). The struggling group of returning exiles who had not yet completely restored the temple would become a great movement with the new Jerusalem as its focal point (Rv 21:2).

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 8:23 Thus says the LORD of hosts. Last of the 10 oracles in this chapter (see note, v 2). In those days. The prophets often use this expression when referring to the NT era (cf Zep 3:9, 16; Hg 2:23; Zec 13:1). ten. Symbolic number to emphasize completeness, a large number of Gentiles. nations of every tongue. A variety of languages were spoken on Pentecost (Ac 2:1–13). take hold of the robe. Gentile nations will come to the Light (Lk 2:32), to Jesus, born in Judah (Mt 2:1–11). Jew. Hbr yehudi, "person of Judah." The tribe of Judah and all Israel had a favored status in the history of salvation (Rm 9:4–5). It is from their history that salvation has come to all people through the preaching of the Gospel. Modern Judaism began to emerge during the time between the OT and the NT, becoming firmly established after the Roman destruction of Herod's temple (AD 70). See pp 1553–56. Luth: "It is as if He were saying: 'The Gospel will be preached throughout the earth. It will bear such great fruit that one apostle … will with his preaching convert many thousands of people to righteousness. They will follow spontaneously, not because the Law compels them but because the Holy Spirit leads them' " (AE 20:87–88). God. Not God's personal name (Hbr yahweh, "LORD," which occurs c 125 times in Zec); Gentile converts use the general Hbr term 'elohim ("God") by itself only here and in 9:7. (Zec sometimes puts the two terms together; e.g., 6:15.) The Gentiles are convinced that the true God is the One worshiped by the Judeans.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 8:18–23 God tells the people of Bethel that their fasts will become joyful worship. He promises a great movement of people from the Gentile world who will seek the Lord and entreat His favor. People of all nations will become one in the Holy Christian Church. Their worship will not be empty ritual but a feast of joy and gladness, remembering God's gracious activity throughout human history. God continues to come to us in Word and Sacrament with His message of repentance and forgiveness, a message for us to proclaim to all nations (Lk 24:47). • Lord of the Church, give me joy in worship and the desire to invite others to come with me. Amen.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 9:1 Some interpreters question whether a different author wrote chs 9–14 because of dissimilarities in vocabulary and style. See “Unity,” p 1524. burden. Hbr massa’, may be translated “oracle.” See p 1079. Hadrach. Not mentioned elsewhere in the Bible, but Assyrian military records identify Hadrach as a country near Damascus. Damascus. Capital of Syria, c 60 mi NE of the Sea of Chinnereth. See color map 2. its resting place. The “burden of the word” rested on Damascus. an eye on mankind. The Lord’s vision was international, seeing all nations of the world.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 9:2 Hamath. City on the Orontes River, c 150 mi N of Damascus. Tyre. Important Phoenician city; port on the Great Sea, c 35 mi NW of the Sea of Chinnereth. Tyre was a trade center for goods from Persia, Greece, Egypt, and other countries. Resting partly on an island, Tyre built strong walls and was able to hold out against many enemy attacks. Sidon. Phoenician city on the Great Sea, c 20 mi N of Tyre. See color map 1. very wise. Despite the earthly wisdom of these two prominent cities, the Lord’s “burden” fell on them.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 9:3 rampart. Defensive fortification of strong, thick walls.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 9:4 strip … strike … be devoured. Commerce had made Tyre a rich city (v 3), but such treasures could not spare it from God’s judgment. In 332 BC, Alexander the Great conquered and sacked the city after a seven-month siege.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 9:5–6 Ashkelon … Gaza … Ekron … Ashdod. Four of the five major Philistine cities (Gath is not mentioned), all located near the coast of the Great Sea, between 20 and 40 mi W of Jerusalem. See color map 1. Hearing of the destruction of Tyre and Sidon, these cities would writhe in fear, knowing that the Lord’s “burden” was coming on them.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 9:6 mixed people. See ESV note. Suggests an unstable, perhaps incestuous population; not upstanding citizens. pride of Philistia. The Lord begins a personal address. The people of Philistia, as well as the other places named, were proud of their power and wealth, which they attributed to their false gods. But the Lord had His eye on them, and His burden fell on them. Babylon conquered Ashdod and other cities in the seventh and sixth centuries BC.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 9:7 blood from its mouth … abominations. The Lord had commanded Israel to “eat neither fat nor blood” (Lv 3:17). Heathen nations like Philistia observed no such restriction in their worship of idols. The Lord promised to take away false worship. remnant. See p 1080. like a clan in Judah. Judah was made up of many clans, or extended families. The day was coming when people of many different nationalities would become members of God's great clan, the Church. like the Jebusites. The original inhabitants of what became the city of Jerusalem were absorbed into the population (Jsh 15:63), just as foreigners are absorbed into God's kingdom.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 9:8 encamp at My house as a guard. The Lord pictures Himself camping at the temple to keep watch over His people. See notes, Is 21:6–12. I see with My own eyes. See note, v 1. The Lord's protective oversight comforted those He had called "the apple of His eye" (2:8).

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 9:9 daughter of Zion! God's people are called to welcome their coming King with joyful shouts (cf 2:10). This is a preview to the depiction of the new Jerusalem as the Bride of Christ (Rv 21:2). your king is coming … humble. This King is unique, one of a kind, the Messiah. Wycl: "Christ mounted these animals to condemn the riding of pope and cardinals, and of the inferior bishops too, who are wont to ride in superfluous pomp on war-horses decked out with gold and silk" (TT, 190). Luth: "Here there is no violence, no armor, no power, no anger, no wrath…. Here there are only kindness, justice, salvation, mercy, and every good thing" (AE 20:94). In His triumphal entry into Jerusalem, Jesus gave public proof that He is this promised King (Mt 21:1–11). donkey. Israelites typically rode donkeys. Horses were reserved for military use. See notes, Jsh 11:4, 6.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 9:10 cut off. War tools have no place in the Messiah's kingdom (cf Ps 46:9). speak peace to the nations. God's Word is the "weapon" by which He brings peace. His rule … ends of the earth. Christ's rule is universal, not limited to geographical boundaries such as earthly kingdoms. We are to be His witnesses "to the end of the earth" (Ac 1:8). See pp 1565–66.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 9:11 blood of My covenant. The Lord will set Zion's prisoners free because of His covenant with them, sealed with blood. We have eternal redemption by Christ's blood (Heb 9:12). waterless pit. Symbolizes the hopeless condition of one under the curse of the Law. See note, Jer 2:13.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 9:12 prisoners of hope. By grace, the Lord invites sinners to return to their stronghold, the Lord Himself. restore to you double. In place of despair, the Lord promises a double blessing: a secure stronghold and victory over all enemies.
ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 9:13 bow … arrow … sword. The Lord wields His people as spiritual weapons against the devil and his angels, here represented by the sons of Greece. The sword of God's Word is effective in waging spiritual warfare (Eph 6:17; Heb 4:12).
ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 9:14 the LORD will appear over them. Just as the Lord hovered over His people in the wilderness (Ex 13:21), so He appears over them as a divine warrior to protect and save them. trumpet … whirlwinds. The Lord's actions are described using the imagery of a thunderstorm.
ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 9:15 LORD of hosts. See p 1291. them. The people of God; Zion. they shall drink. Figurative; they will drink the blood of the enemy (cf Ezk 39:17–20).
ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 9:16 On that day. See p 1079. flock. All believers. jewels of a crown. Each believer brings God honor.
ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 9:17 how great … His beauty! Praise for the Lord's salvation. young men … young women. Luth: "The people of the Gospel will be robust, energetic, and cheerful, both in spirit and in faith. After all, in Christ there is no old age but an everlasting bloom of youth" (AE 20:104).
ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON Ch 9 The Lord's saving work on behalf of His people is foretold using illustrations based on OT history. God's enemies suffer defeat for breaking His Holy Law. They will learn that "the wages of sin is death" (Rm 6:23). But those who repent and cling in faith to the Messiah will be covered with His righteousness and enjoy His rule of peace. • King Jesus, accept my joyful shouts of praise for Your saving work. Rule in my life, now and always. Amen.
ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 10:1 season of the spring rain. In Israel, rain falls mainly in the winter months. Early rain marked the beginning of the season; spring rain (also called latter rain) came at the end of the season and was essential for crop development (cf Jl 2:23). See calendar, p 262.
ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 10:2 household gods. See "idols," p 1079. Prayers addressed to such objects were useless. diviners. People who claimed to be able to tell the future by communicating with some supernatural power. lack of a shepherd. The people failed to turn to the Lord in prayer because they lacked leaders to give them spiritual direction. They were "like sheep without a shepherd" (Mt 9:36).

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 10:3 shepherds. Both kings and other spiritual and political leaders were described as shepherds in the Bible. like His majestic steed. See note, 1:8. The Lord Himself took over leadership of His flock and shaped them figuratively into His majestic horse, with which He fought spiritual battles (cf 6:1–8).
ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 10:4 Christ is from the house of Judah and the cornerstone on whom the Church is built (Eph 2:20; 1Pt 2:5–8). Other terms used here also refer to Him.
ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 10:5 like mighty men in battle. Words of a familiar hymn, "Onward, Christian soldiers, Marching as to war" (LSB 662:1), compare the Church to an army fighting battles with the Lord's help.
ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 10:6 bring them back. The Lord promised to bring back Judah and Joseph (Ephraim), who had been carried off into captivity as a punishment for sin. Luth: "This passage is to be understood about a spiritual conversion" (AE 20:111). I will answer them. The Lord will hear and respond to the prayers of His people.
ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 10:7 their hearts shall be glad … rejoice. Zion was encouraged to "rejoice greatly" because of the coming King (9:9). Ephraim, the Northern Kingdom, will join the celebration. Ephraim. See p 1079.
ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 10:8 whistle for them. God's whistle was His Word summoning Ephraim to come back to Him. redeemed. See p 843.
ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 10:9 In judgment, the Lord scattered His people among the nations. But He says "they shall remember Me" and return. Many did at Pentecost (Ac 2:5–11).
ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 10:10 Egypt … Assyria. Significant numbers of Israelites had been captives in these countries, which are examples of places from which the redeemed will come. Gilead … Lebanon. Small territories east and north, respectively, of the Sea of Chinnereth. See color map 2. Even if this area was joined to Israel, there would not be room for all those who will eventually live in God's kingdom.
ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 10:11 The Lord will lead His people through the sea of troubles, strike down the waves, and dry up the depths of rivers such as the Nile in Egypt.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 10:12 The Lord identifies Himself as the source of strength, life, and guidance for His people.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON Ch 10 There is a vast difference between the OT kingdom of Israel and the kingdom restored by the Messiah. Luther described the former as weak because it was based on Israel's obedience. Of the latter he said: "This kingdom is founded on God's mercy without our own goodness or merit, and therefore it will stand fast to all eternity" (AE 20:304). Like Israel, we all fall short of God's glory. Because of His compassion, He called Israel back to Him and likewise keeps calling us. • Holy Spirit, move me to exclaim with gratitude and awe in my heart, "The LORD … is good, for His steadfast love endures forever" (Ps 136:1). Amen.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 11:1 Open your doors, O Lebanon. Like a general at the enemies' gates, the Lord commanded Lebanon (see note, 10:10) to open its doors to devastation. Judgment was inevitable and could not be stopped. fire. Lebanon was famous for its majestic cedar trees, symbols of strength. But they could not withstand the Lord's fiery destruction (cf Ezk 31:1–17).

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 11:2 Wail, O cypress … Wail, oaks of Bashan. Cypress is a tall evergreen. Bashan, a region east of the Jordan, was famous for its oaks. See color map 2. These trees are called on to lament the ruin of the glorious cedars of Lebanon. All nature is stunned by God's judgment.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 11:3 wail of the shepherds. Shepherds live close to nature. Seeing the ruin of something so stately as the cedars of Lebanon leads them to lament. Note the reference in 10:3 to shepherds who will also be the subject of God's judgment. the thicket of the Jordan. The tropical jungle on both banks of the lower Jordan River, a habitat for lions, was also ruined when God's judgment struck.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 11:4–14 Parable describes how the Lord abandoned His people, the flock doomed to slaughter. These actions were not necessarily in chronological order and likely referred to events that occurred previously in Israel's history. As with Jesus' parables, it is the overall point that is important. Symbolically (not literally), the prophet is commanded to shepherd the flock. He describes their suffering at the hands of external and internal enemies. Finally, the Lord and His prophet, whom the flock came to detest, no longer have pity on them (vv 6, 9).

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 11:5 Those. Sheep traders (v 7); probably referring to wicked rulers (cf Ezk 34:1–10). Blessed be the LORD. Wicked rulers mask their fleecing of the sheep with pious words.
ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 11:6 Neighbor and king violently overwhelmed the inhabitants of the land, the flock was doomed to slaughter, and the Lord did nothing to intervene.
ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 11:7 The prophet/shepherd gave names to his two staffs that describe the Lord's historic relationship with Israel: His favor and the union they enjoyed with Him and one another. Both staffs will be broken (vv 10, 14). Favor. Hbr no'am, "delightfulness," "pleasantness."
ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 11:8 three shepherds. Commentators have offered more than 40 different suggestions as to their exact identity. They probably represent leaders of Israel. detested me. Describes the deterioration of the relationship between shepherd and flock.
ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 11:9 I will not be your shepherd. The prophet gave up caring about the people, just as the Lord had done, and turned them over to their enemies.
ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 11:10 annulling the covenant. The prophet had taken on the responsibility of tending the flock, but now this covenant was annulled. He broke the staff called Favor to symbolize this termination. See note, v 7.
ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 11:11 Wicked rulers (see note, v 5) recognized that the prophet's actions were a revelation of the will of the Lord, who no longer had pity on His people (v 6).
ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 11:12 as my wages thirty pieces of silver. Shepherds expected wages for their work. The prophet's request of the sheep traders is a bit ironic: will you pay me for turning over the flock to destruction? That the wicked rulers were willing to give him 30 pieces of silver, the price of a slave, showed how calloused their hearts were. This is the same amount Judas received for betraying Jesus.
ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 11:13 Throw it to the potter. Possibly a proverbial saying expressing disdain or disgust at the action of the sheep traders. into the house of the LORD, to the potter. The prophet performed this act publicly, throwing down the silver coins in the temple just as Judas would later do (Mt 27:5).
ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 11:14 annulling the brotherhood. The prophet broke the second staff, Union, and so annulled the brotherhood between Judah and Israel. This happened historically when the northern tribes rebelled against Judah after Solomon's death (1Ki 12:16–20).

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 11:15–16 This short proverb makes the same point as the previous section. The Lord commanded the prophet to act out the role of a foolish shepherd who has no fear of the Lord (Pr 1:7). Such a ruler was equipped with all the devices of evil.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 11:16 shepherd. A foolish leader. tearing off even their hoofs. Likely a proverbial saying meaning that the flesh of the fat ones will be totally consumed.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 11:17 Curse on the "worthless shepherd" (cf v 16). arm … right eye! Representing the shepherd's physical and mental abilities. Removing them made him unable to function.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON Ch 11 The chapter begins with a lament over the Lord's coming judgment, followed by a description of how He abandoned His flock and no longer had pity on them. This chastisement is God's "strange" work. His "proper" work is to comfort. "[Isaiah] calls it the 'strange' work of the Lord when He terrifies, because to make alive and comfort is God's own proper work. But He terrifies … for this reason—that there may be a place for comfort and making alive" (Ap XIIA 51). We are accused by God's Law and threatened with punishment for our sins. God intends this to lead us to repentance so that, trusting in Christ's merits, we might enjoy eternal comfort and peace. • Lord, be my Good Shepherd and show me Your favor. Amen.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 12:1 burden. Cf 9:1. Here the burden of God's Word is "concerning Israel," promising salvation to His people. who stretched … within him. The One who makes these promises is no earthly ruler but the Creator of heaven and earth, who gives life to humans. What He did in the beginning shows what He can do at the end. He has global power.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 12:2 a cup of staggering. Cup's contents often symbolize God's wrath, here causing people to stagger (cf Jer 25:15–31). Enemies attacking Jerusalem imagine an easy victory. Luther pictured the Lord saying, "Very well, come on, try your tricks, go on and drink. I will present you with a drink that will serve you well: you will stumble so that you will reel along very violently" (AE 20:324). See note, Is 51:17.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 12:3 On that day. This expression occurs seven times in ch 12 and 17 times in chs 12–14. God is speaking of the end times, when He will destroy all enemies. See p 1079. On that day, the "holy city, new Jerusalem," will come down from heaven (Rv 21:2). Jerusalem and Judah represent the Church. heavy stone. The Lord laid a stone in Zion (Is 28:16) that proves to be a "stone of stumbling" for those who disobey the Word (1Pt 2:8). all the nations … will gather against it. The worldwide gathering of enemies against Jerusalem points to the spiritual nature of what is being described here.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 12:5 strength through the LORD of hosts. The source of strength and victory for Judah and the Church is the Lord of hosts (9:15). Of Him we sing, "A mighty fortress is our God" (LSB 656:1).

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 12:6 I will make. Also vv 2–3. All that happens is God's doing. blazing pot … flaming torch … shall devour. Further images of how the Lord will consume His enemies.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 12:7 salvation to the tents of Judah first. People who lived in Judah outside the capital city of Jerusalem, where the temple was located, may have considered themselves second-class citizens. But the Lord puts them first in line for salvation. glory. See pp 6–7. Jesus was not born in Jerusalem but in the small Judean town of Bethlehem. Here the "glory of the Lord shone" (Lk 2:9).

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 12:8 like David … like God, like the angel of the LORD. Bold comparisons assure believers of the eternal protection the Lord provides, even for the weak. When Christ appears, God's children "shall be like Him" (1Jn 3:2).

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 12:9 I will seek to destroy. The Creator's ultimate purpose "on that day" is to destroy all enemies of His Church (Rv 21:8).

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 12:1–9 The day is coming, declares the Lord, when the enemies of His people, represented here by Jerusalem and Judah, will be destroyed. When confronted by spiritual foes who cause us to feel weak and helpless, we must keep telling ourselves that our strength is in the One "who stretched out the heavens and founded the earth" (v 1). He will protect and save us. • Almighty Father, my refuge and strength, remove all fear from my heart, and make me confident of Your ultimate victory. Amen.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 12:10 pour out … a spirit of grace and pleas for mercy. The Lord will pour out on His people spiritual gifts that will cause them to mourn and plead for mercy when they look on "Him whom they have pierced." pierced. The object of this piercing is God Himself, a prophecy of what happened to Jesus on the cross (Jn 19:34). mourn. This grief is extremely intense, such as for an only child, a firstborn, or a fallen king. Luth: "To mourn for Christ's sake is to imitate the crucifixion, death, and burial of Christ so that we mortify our flesh … [and] say with the apostle Paul: 'Those who belong to Christ have crucified the flesh with its … lusts' " (AE 20:140).

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 12:11 Hadad-rimmon. Only occurrence of this name in the Bible; may refer to a small village located c 60 mi NW of Jerusalem, a place of great mourning. Though "Hadad" and "Rimmon" (2Ki 5:18) are names of a pagan god, the reference here is likely to mourning for the Judean king Josiah, who was killed on the Plain of Megiddo. See color map 2.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 12:12 family by itself … wives by themselves. Translates a Hbr word that means "alone, separate, apart" and indicates the individual nature of this mourning. No one can mourn in place of another. Special mention is made of wives to emphasize that in Israelite society it was the traditional role of women to mourn (cf Jer 9:17; Lk 23:27–29). house of Nathan. Son of David, named in the genealogy of Jesus.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 12:13 house of Levi. Israelite priests were from the tribe of Levi, and Levites served in the temple. Shimeites. Shimei was the son of Gershon, son of Levi (Ex 6:16–17). The four families of David, Nathan, Levi, and Shimei represent the kingdom of holy priests (1Pt 2:5; Rv 1:6) who lament their sin, which caused Jesus to be pierced.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 12:14 all the families. Universal mourning (cf Rv 1:7).

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 13:1 On that day. That day of fulfillment when all things will come to pass according to God's plan of salvation. See p 1079. See also note, Hg 2:23. fountain opened … to cleanse. No amount of mourning can cleanse a person from sin. A fountain is needed that will provide total purification from uncleanness. That fountain is the blood of Jesus, which "cleanses us from all sin" (1Jn 1:7). Though sin afflicts us, Baptism is "the washing of regeneration and renewal of the Holy Spirit" (Ti 3:5) that effects our sanctification.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 12:10–13:1 Zechariah prophesies intense mourning for all people. Can there be any sorrow greater than that of beholding the Son of God, His body pierced and bleeding, hanging on the cross? Such a sight produces contrition in the hearts of believers. The Lutheran Confessions define contrition as "the true terror of conscience, which feels that God is angry with sin and grieves that it has sinned" (Ap XIIA 29). For the contrite sinner, the good news is that the death of Christ opened a fountain that cleanses us from sin and uncleanness. We have good reason to sing, "Glory be to Jesus, Who in bitter pains Poured for me the lifeblood From His sacred veins!" (LSB 433:1). • Lord Jesus Christ, grant that I may always know the grace and life eternal found in Your precious blood. Amen.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 13:2 cut off the names of the idols. Idol worship was a continuing temptation for God's OT people. The Lord promises that He will eliminate idols "on that day" (see note, Hg 2:23) so that their names will no longer be invoked in worship. the prophets and the spirit of uncleanness. Baal's prophets, filled with the spirit of uncleanness, were vanquished by the Lord at Mount Carmel (1Ki 18:20–40). False prophets will be totally absent in the new Jerusalem.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 13:3 You shall not live, for you speak lies. According to God's Law, children who struck or cursed a parent were to be killed (Ex 21:15, 17). To speak lies in the Lord's name deserved the same penalty. pierce. Usually those guilty of a capital crime were stoned, but Jer 26:23 tells of a prophet pierced by a sword.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 13:4–6 On the day that is coming, no person will even desire to pose as a prophet. In the centuries after the return from exile, various sources record that there were no prophets in Israel (1Macc 4:46; 9:27; 14:41). See pp 1077–83.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 13:4 hairy cloak. The prophet Elijah wore a cloak (1Ki 19:13, 19; 2Ki 2:8, 13–14). No one will try to make people think he is a prophet by following Elijah's example.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 13:5 I am no prophet … in my youth. One who was a worker of the soil, in the manner of Amos, will reject the title of prophet.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 13:6 False prophets sometimes cut themselves, hoping their god would be moved to respond (1Ki 18:28). Someone with such wounds would provide an alternate explanation to allay the suspicion that he might be a prophet.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 13:2–6 Zechariah warns about false worship and false prophets. Throughout history, false religion has been a serious problem. People today may not call on Baal or Rimmon for help, but idols and false prophets are still in evidence. Luth: "Many a person thinks that he has God and everything in abundance when he has money and possessions" (LC I 5). Idols may be gone from our eyes but not from our hearts. Only when Christ comes again in glory will there be an end to all false religion. • Lord, keep me steadfast in Your Word, safe from all who would deceive me. Amen.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 13:7 My shepherd. In contrast to the worthless shepherd (11:17), this is the Lord's own shepherd, the Good Shepherd (Jn 10:14), whom the sword would strike. man who stands next to Me. Unique Hbr phrase meaning "a man, my associate/neighbor" and describing the intimate relationship of Father and Son. Strike the shepherd … little ones. Jesus cited these words when He foretold His disciples' defection after His arrest (Mk 14:27).

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 13:8 one third shall be left. In describing what to expect in the future, Zechariah drew on past experiences. The one third was likely a symbolic fraction representing those living in Judah after the Babylonian exile.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 13:9 fire. Used to purify and test precious metals, which are soft enough to work when cold. God leads His people through the fires of affliction to purify them and to test the genuineness of their faith. call upon My name. In worship and prayer. My people. The Lord said to Israel in Egypt, "I will take you to be My people" (Ex 6:7). In the new covenant, this bond is restored: "they shall be my people" (Jer 31:33).

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 13:7–9 That the Lord of hosts should rouse the sword against His very own Shepherd defies rational explanation. Only in the light of divine revelation can one comprehend the truth that Christ's death on the cross was the supreme act of God's love for us sinners. Luth: "To believe in life in the midst of death, to believe in glory in the midst of sin, to believe in the peace and favor of God in the midst of persecution—this is something beyond every capability of reason. It is truly a miracle in our eyes" (AE 20:151). • Dearest Lord, the fires of life test my will to be Your witness. May Your name seal me against sin and show that I belong to You. Strengthen me to bear the cross and follow You. "Take my life and let it be Consecrated, Lord, to Thee." Amen. (LSB 783:1)

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 14:1 day is coming for the LORD. This is a day for the Lord to act, to reveal His power. divided in your midst. The division of spoil gained by the enemies who attack Jerusalem is described prior to the battle itself. The headline comes before the event.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 14:2 Not an actual historical attack on Jerusalem, but rather a vivid reminder that the Lord permits His people to experience afflictions.
ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 14:3 go out and fight. The Lord brings the nations to Jerusalem for the battle, and then He fights against them. The Lord continues to wage just war against all enemies of His people.
ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 14:4 On that day. Refers not to vv 1–3 but rather to what follows. See note, 12:3. stand on the Mount of Olives. A bold example of God described in human form (anthropomorphism) as a giant. split in two. God has power to cause cosmic upheaval (cf Mi 1:4).
ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 14:5 flee to the valley. The Lord provides a wide valley as a way of escape for His people trapped in Jerusalem. Azal. From the tribe of Benjamin (cf Azel, 1Ch 8:37). This reference is likely to where his family lived, east of Jerusalem. earthquake. At Hazor, archaeologists have found many collapsed buildings, the result of such an earthquake. my God will come, and all the holy ones. God's coming with His holy angels (cf Mt 25:31) will initiate the changes described in the following verses.
ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 14:6 no light, cold, or frost. With God's coming (v 5), atmospheric conditions change radically.
ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 14:7 unique day … light. The created light of our present world (Gn 1:3) will be replaced by a light totally different from anything known to humans. Darkness will be eliminated (Is 60:19).
ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 14:8 living waters. Flowing, not stagnant. This water guarantees life. eastern sea … western sea. See ESV notes. The prophet uses the geography of Judah to picture God's new creation. See color map 1. summer as in winter. These waters are not a wadi or gully that dries up in summer.
ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 14:9 king over all the earth. All earthly government will cease, and the Lord will reign as King. the LORD will be one and His name one. Israel's confession, "The LORD our God, the LORD is one" (Dt 6:4), will be on every tongue (Php 2:11) so that "God may be all in all" (1Co 15:28).
ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 14:10 plain. The prophet envisions further geographical changes as he seeks to picture God's new earth. The mountains of Judah become a plain. Geba. C 6 mi NE of Jerusalem. Rimmon. Exact location unknown; somewhere on the southern border of Judah. Jerusalem shall remain aloft. Jerusalem, with its walls and gates, will remain the high point above the surrounding plain (cf Mi 4:1–2). See map, p 971.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 14:11 never again be a decree of utter destruction. The Lord had threatened and even ordered utter destruction on His own people due to their sins (Is 43:28; Mal 4:6), but the new Jerusalem will be safe from such a decree.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 14:12 plague. A strike against all who wage war against Jerusalem (14:2). Cf Ex 7–12. The horrible plague described here pictures God's terrible judgment on all who oppose Him (cf Rv 20:7–10; 21:8).

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 14:13 panic. Plague will create holy terror. seize the hand … one will be raised against the hand of the other. Confusion will reign, causing enemy soldiers to grab hold of each other and fight among themselves.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 14:14 wealth … collected. Reverse of v 1, where the enemy divided the spoil of Jerusalem.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 14:15 Plague of v 12 will fall not only on enemy soldiers but on animals used for war. Enemies of God's kingdom will be utterly destroyed.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 14:16 go up year after year to worship the King. The prophet saw a time in the future when nations who had initially attacked Jerusalem (v 2) would go there to worship the Lord (Zec 8:22). This prophecy is fulfilled in NT times when people of all nations come into God's kingdom. Feast of Booths. This most prominent OT festival in postexilic times would naturally come to mind as an example of worship (Ne 8:13–18; Jn 7:2–10).

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 14:17 no rain. Since rain is such a great blessing for an agricultural society (Jl 2:23), it becomes a symbol of God's favor. The Lord withholds blessing from those who fail to worship Him.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 14:18 Egypt. Specially mentioned because of the oppression Israel experienced there (Ex 1:13–14). plague. Not the same plague described in v 12, which struck those waging war against Jerusalem. Here the plague is "no rain."

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 14:20 on that day. This phrase brackets vv 20–21, which describe the radical changes in the new Jerusalem (see note, 12:3). bells of the horses. Horses, used almost exclusively for war, seem totally out of place in God's kingdom of peace. Yet the bells that adorn them are inscribed with the same words as the gold plate on the turban of the high priest: "Holy to the LORD" (Ex 28:36). pots … bowls before the altar. Bowls (basins) outranked pots in temple ritual, but "on that day" they will be equal.

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON 14:21 every pot … holy. Even the lowly cooking pot used for daily food preparation will be holy to the Lord and may be used in preparing a sacrifice. In heaven, there will be complete holiness. trader. The temple will no longer be a place for economic transactions (Mt 21:12; Jn 2:14–17).

ZECHARIAH—NOTE ON Ch 14 Zechariah's description of Jerusalem's future anticipates John's vision: "I saw the holy city, new Jerusalem, coming down out of heaven from God, prepared as a bride adorned for her husband" (Rv 21:2). Both foresee a day when the Lord will use His mighty power to crush all His enemies and make all things new and holy. Those wearing white robes, whose sins have been washed away in the blood of the Lamb, will reside in that Holy City (Rv 7:13–14). They will "serve Him day and night in His temple" (Rv 7:15). • "Now come, Thou Blessed One, Lord Jesus, God's own Son, Hail! Hosanna! We enter all The wedding hall To eat the Supper at Thy call." Amen. (LSB 516:2)

1 [1] The oracle of the word of the LORD to Israel by Malachi.[1]

The Lord's Love for Israel

2 † "I have loved you," says the Lord. But you say, "How have you loved us?" "Is not Esau Jacob's brother?" declares the Lord. "Yet I have loved Jacob 3 †but Esau I have hated. I have laid waste his hill country and left his heritage to jackals of the desert." 4 †If Edom says, "We are shattered but we will rebuild the ruins," the Lord of hosts says, "They may build, but I will tear down, and they will be called 'the wicked country,' and 'the people with whom the Lord is angry forever.'" 5 † Your own eyes shall see this, and you shall say, "Great is the Lord beyond the border of Israel!"

The Priests' Polluted Offerings

6 † † "A son honors his father, and a servant his master. If then I am a father, where is my honor? And if I am a master, where is my fear? says the Lord of hosts to you, O priests, who despise my name. But you say, 'How have we despised your name?' 7 † By offering polluted food upon my altar.
But you say, 'How have we polluted you?' By saying that the Lord's table may be despised. 8 † When you offer blind animals in sacrifice, is that not evil? And when you offer those that are lame or sick, is that not evil?
Present that to your governor; will he accept you or show you favor? says the Lord of hosts. 9 † And now entreat the favor of God, that he may be gracious to us. With such a gift from your hand, will he show favor to any of you? says the Lord of hosts. 10 † Oh that there were one among you who would shut the doors, that you might not kindle fire on my altar in vain! I have no pleasure in you, says the Lord of hosts, and I will not accept an offering from your hand. 11 † For from the rising of the sun to its setting my name will be[1] great among the nations, and in every place incense will be offered to my name, and a pure offering. For my name will be great among the nations, says the Lord of hosts. 12 † But you profane it when you say that the Lord's table is polluted, and its fruit, that is, its food may be despised.
13 † But you say, 'What a weariness this is,' and you snort at it, says the Lord of hosts. You bring what has been taken by violence or is lame or sick, and this you bring as your offering! Shall I accept that from your hand? says the Lord. 14 † Cursed be the cheat who has a male in his flock, and vows it, and yet sacrifices to the Lord what is blemished. For I am a great King, says the Lord of hosts, and my name will be feared among the nations.

The Lord Rebukes the Priests

2 [1]“And now, O priests, this command is for you. [2] If you will not listen, if you will not take it to heart to give honor to my name, says the Lord of hosts, then I will send the curse upon you and I will curse your blessings. Indeed, I have already cursed them, because you do not lay it to heart. [3] Behold, I will rebuke your offspring,[2] and spread dung on your faces, the dung of your offerings, and you shall be taken away with it.[3] [4] So shall you know that I have sent this command to you, that my covenant with Levi may stand, says the Lord of hosts. [5] My covenant with him was one of life and peace, and I gave them to him. It was a covenant of fear, and he feared me. He stood in awe of my name. [6] True instruction[4] was in his mouth, and no wrong was found on his lips. He walked with me in peace and uprightness, and he turned many from iniquity. [7] For the lips of a priest should guard knowledge, and people[5] should seek instruction from his mouth, for he is the messenger of the Lord of hosts. [8] But you have turned aside from the way. You have caused many to stumble by your instruction. You have corrupted the covenant of Levi, says the Lord of hosts, [9] and so I make you despised and abased before all the people, inasmuch as you do not keep my ways but show partiality in your instruction.”

Judah Profaned the Covenant

10 ‡† Have we not all one Father? Has not one God created us? Why then are we faithless to one another, profaning the covenant of our fathers?
11 † Judah has been faithless, and abomination has been committed in Israel and in Jerusalem. For Judah has profaned the sanctuary of the Lord, which he loves, and has married the daughter of a foreign god. 12 † May the Lord cut off from the tents of Jacob any descendant[1] of the man who does this, who brings an offering to the Lord of hosts!

13 † And this second thing you do. You cover the Lord's altar with tears, with weeping and groaning because he no longer regards the offering or accepts it with favor from your hand. 14 † But you say, "Why does he not?" Because the Lord was witness between you and the wife of your youth, to whom you have been faithless, though she is your companion and your wife by covenant. 15 † Did he not make them one, with a portion of the Spirit in their union?[2] And what was the one God[3] seeking?[4] Godly offspring. So guard yourselves[5] in your spirit, and let none of you be faithless to the wife of your youth. 16 †"For the man who does not love his wife but divorces her, [6] says the Lord, the God of Israel, covers[7] his garment with violence, says the Lord of hosts. So guard yourselves in your spirit, and do not be faithless."

The Messenger of the Lord

17 ‡ † You have wearied the Lord with your words. But you say, “How have we wearied him?” By saying, “Everyone who does evil is good in the sight of the Lord, and he delights in them.” Or by asking, “Where is the God of justice?”

3 1 †“Behold, I send my messenger, and he will prepare the way before me. And the Lord whom you seek will suddenly come to his temple; and the messenger of the covenant in whom you delight, behold, he is coming, says the Lord of hosts. 2 †But who can endure the day of his coming, and who can stand when he appears? For he is like a refiner’s fire and like fullers’ soap.
3 †He will sit as a refiner and purifier of silver, and he will purify the sons of Levi and refine them like gold and silver, and they will bring offerings in righteousness to the Lord.[1] 4 † Then the offering of Judah and Jerusalem will be pleasing to the Lord as in the days of old and as in former years.

5 †“Then I will draw near to you for judgment. I will be a swift witness against the sorcerers, against the adulterers, against those who swear falsely, against those who oppress the hired worker in his wages, the widow and the fatherless, against those who thrust aside the sojourner, and do not fear me, says the Lord of hosts.

Robbing God

6 ‡ † “For I the Lord do not change; therefore you, O children of Jacob, are not consumed. 7 † From the days of your fathers you have turned aside from my statutes and have not kept them. Return to me, and I will return to you, says the Lord of hosts. But you say, ‘How shall we return?’ 8 † Will man rob God? Yet you are robbing me. But you say, ‘How have we robbed you?’ In your tithes and contributions. 9 † You are cursed with a curse, for you are robbing me, the whole nation of you. 10 † Bring the full tithe into the storehouse, that there may be food in my house. And thereby put me to the test, says the Lord of hosts, if I will not open the windows of heaven for you and pour down for you a blessing until there is no more need. 11 I will rebuke the devourer[1] for you, so that it will not destroy the fruits of your soil, and your vine in the field shall not fail to bear, says the Lord of hosts. 12 † Then all nations will call you blessed, for you will be a land of delight, says the Lord of hosts.

13 † “Your words have been hard against me, says the Lord. But you say, ‘How have we spoken against you?’ 14 † You have said, ‘It is vain to serve God. What is the profit of our keeping his charge or of walking as in mourning before the Lord of hosts? 15 † And now we call the arrogant blessed. Evildoers not only prosper but they put God to the test and they escape.’”

The Book of Remembrance

16 ‡ † Then those who feared the Lord spoke with one another. The Lord paid attention and heard them, and a book of remembrance was written before him of those who feared the Lord and esteemed his name. 17 † "They shall be mine, says the Lord of hosts, in the day when I make up my treasured possession, and I will spare them as a man spares his son who serves him. 18 † Then once more you shall see the distinction between the righteous and the wicked, between one who serves God and one who does not serve him.

The Great Day of the Lord

4 [1]†† [2] “For behold, the day is coming, burning like an oven, when all the arrogant and all evildoers will be stubble. The day that is coming shall set them ablaze, says the Lord of hosts, so that it will leave them neither root nor branch. [2]†But for you who fear my name, the sun of righteousness shall rise with healing in its wings. You shall go out leaping like calves from the stall. [3]† And you shall tread down the wicked, for they will be ashes under the soles of your feet, on the day when I act, says the Lord of hosts.

[4]† “Remember the law of my servant Moses, the statutes and rules[1] that I commanded him at Horeb for all Israel.

[5]† “Behold, I will send you Elijah the prophet before the great and awesome day of the Lord comes. [6]†And he will turn the hearts of fathers to their children and the hearts of children to their fathers, lest I come and strike the land with a decree of utter destruction.”[2]

Introduction to Malachi

Reading Malachi

Heat and flame from glowing charcoal caress the bottom of a pot full of powdery ore. Slowly the ore begins to weep drops of lead mixed with silver, which flow to the bottom of the pot, lifting the dirt and debris that resist the heat. When the contents are poured out and cooled, the dirt breaks away, leaving a purer alloy that is ready to be heated and refined yet again.

In the heat of suffering and persecution, Malachi saw the Lord at work to refine and purify the Levites, who were the spiritual leaders of Judah. Their unfaithfulness and impurity had the Lord's attention. Because He loved them, He could not leave them as they were.

Luther on Malachi

The Hebrews believe that this Malachi was Ezra. We let that pass, because we can know nothing certain about him except that, so far as we can gather from his prophecy, he lived not long before Christ's birth and was certainly the last prophet. For he says in chapter 2[3:1] that Christ the Lord shall come soon.

He is a fine prophet, and his book contains beautiful sayings about Christ and the gospel. He calls it "a pure offering in all the world," for by the gospel the grace of God is praised, and that is the true pure thank-offering. Again he prophesies of the coming of John the Baptist, as Christ himself in Matthew 11[:10, 14] interprets that of which Malachi [3:1; 4:5] writes, calling John his messenger and Elijah.

Beyond that he also denounces his people severely because they do not give the priests their tithes and other services [3:8–10]. Even when they gave them, they did it faithlessly; sick and blemished sheep, for example, whatever they did not want themselves, had to be good enough for the poor priests and preachers [1:8–14]. This is the way it usually goes. Those who are true preachers of the word of God must suffer hunger and privation, while false teachers must always have their fill. To be sure, the priests too are denounced along with the offerings, because they accepted those offerings and sacrificed them. Such was the work of dear Sir Avarice.

But God here declares that he is greatly displeased with this. He calls such faithlessness and wickedness an offense against himself. On account of it God threatens to leave them and to take the Gentiles as his people.

Afterward he denounces the priests particularly because they falsified the word of God and taught it faithlessly and thereby deceived many [2:6–10] and because they abused their priestly office by not rebuking those who offered blemished things or were otherwise unrighteous, and by praising them instead and calling them righteous, just to gain contributions and profit from them. In this way avarice and concern for the belly have always injured the word and worship of God; they always turn preachers into hypocrites.

He denounces them also because they grieved [betrübten] their wives and despised them, and thereby defiled their own sacrifices and worship [2:13–16]. For the law of Moses forbade the offering of impure [betrübte] sacrifices to God; and those who were impure dared not sacrifice or eat of the sacrifice. This is what they brought about who grieved their wives and made them weep, and tried to justify their actions by the example of Abraham, who had to cast out and grieve his Hagar [Gen. 21:9–14]. However Abraham had not done this because of ill will, just as he had not taken Hagar to wife because of a whim [Gen. 16:1–4]. (AE 35:332–33)

For more of Luther's insights on this Book, see Lectures on Minor Prophets I (AE 18:389–419).

Challenges for Readers

Identity of the Author. Malachi literally means “my messenger,” and the prophet’s identity is never revealed. He was likely a member of the Levitical priesthood who witnessed the corruption and indifference he rebukes throughout the Book.

Rhetorical Questions. The prophet asks 22 rhetorical questions in just 55 verses. He uses these questions to argue against the Judeans and to accuse them as people who certainly know better than to pursue the sins that were distracting them from true worship.

Blessings for Readers

As you read Malachi, consider and answer his questions honestly in view of the Lord's commands and promises and in view of your life. The fire of His teaching will sear the dross of your indifference and bring forth tears of sincere repentance. Treasure most of all His precious Word about the appearance of Jesus, our Savior (3:1–4), the messenger of a better covenant.

Study Notes

MALACHI—NOTE ON 1:1 oracle. See p 1079. Malachi. See ESV note; see also "angel," p 5. May refer to an actual person named Malachi or to an anonymous prophet whom God called "My messenger." He prophesied after the rebuilding of the temple. Luth: "Almost all the words which are here spoken in the name of the Lord echo a sort of disgust. The Lord has had enough and is, as it were, nauseated by their ceremonies…. But they themselves preserved them for their own gain and profit, not with a sincere heart but with a greedy one, giving no glory to God…. The stomach is the greatest idol in every religion. Unbelief is the cause for greed" (AE 18:391).
MALACHI—NOTE ON 1:2 I have loved you. God wanted Israel to believe this basic truth (Hos 11:1). How have You loved us? Israel challenged God's claim with a confrontational question. Is not Esau Jacob's brother? Rhetorical question referring to a well-known fact. God introduced the names of Esau (Edom) and Jacob (Israel), twin sons of Isaac and Rebekah. Since they were twins, one might suppose equal treatment. I have loved Jacob. Again the Lord affirmed His love for Jacob (Israel), just as Rebekah loved her son Jacob, but Isaac loved Esau (Gn 25:28).
MALACHI—NOTE ON 1:3 Esau I have hated. A surprisingly strange statement. God's love and care for all people and all creation is affirmed throughout Scripture (see note, v 11; cf Ps 104; Jn 3:16; 1Jn 4:16). God's "hatred" of Esau must be understood in light of what Jesus said about hating one's "own father and mother and wife and children" (Lk 14:26). Such hatred refers to the choices a person must make between Jesus and loved ones. So God showed hatred for Esau when He chose the older, Esau, to serve the younger, Jacob (Gn 25:23; Rm 9:12–13). Prophecies around the time of the Judean exile (beginning in 587 BC) are esp condemning of the Edomites. See pp 1473–74. laid waste his hill country ... heritage to jackals. God had given Edom its own territory and commanded Israel to respect this heritage (Dt 2:4–5). But in 553/2 BC, the Babylonian king Nabonidus destroyed Edom, likely the event to which the Lord refers. God's hatred for Esau was shown by permitting this judgment to happen.
MALACHI—NOTE ON 1:4 rebuild the ruins. Just as Israel rebuilt Jerusalem, so Edom vowed to do the same. Lord of hosts. Name for God used more than 20 times in Mal. See note, Zec 7:3. See p 1291. I will tear down. In contrast to blessing the rebuilding of Israel's temple, the Lord declared that the Edomites' building projects would be futile (cf Jer 49:7–22). the wicked country. God's judgment against Edom resulted in a new name that expressed His hatred.

MALACHI—NOTE ON 1:5 Your own eyes shall see. God demonstrated His power and majesty before Israel's very eyes as proof of His love. Great is the Lord. Common refrain in Psalms (35:27; 40:16; 96:4). beyond the border of Israel! The Lord is not an idol, the invention of a particular nation, but the international God, the one and only true God over all creation (Is 46:9).

MALACHI—NOTE ON 1:1–5 God impresses the truth of His love for Israel (Jacob) by contrasting what happened to them with what happened to Edom (Esau). To justify rebellion against God, human beings sometimes question God's love. Despite all rebellion, God maintains His steadfast love for sinners. He demonstrated this love conclusively when Christ died for all on the cross (2Co 5:15). Believers know for certain that nothing can separate us from His love (Rm 8:38–39). • Dear God of love, forgive my doubts and graciously move me to trust You completely. Amen.

MALACHI—NOTE ON 1:6 A son honors ... master. The Lord begins the second part of Malachi, addressed to the priests, by alluding to the Fourth Commandment. where is My honor? ... fear? The honor and reverence due to God was lacking in the priestly worship. See p 1001. despise. Hbr bazah, "to show contempt." Used repeatedly with related terms (vv 7, 12; 2:9). My name. The priests are charged with breaking the Second Commandment. How have we despised Your name? The priests asked for proof just as the people did in v 2.

MALACHI—NOTE ON 1:7 polluted food. See note, v 8. the Lord's table may be despised. By word and deed, the priests made plain to the people that they were despising God's Law and sacrifices.

MALACHI—NOTE ON 1:8 blind ... lame or sick. In Lv 22:20–22 and Dt 15:21, the Lord forbade the sacrifice of animals that were blemished. Present that to your governor. God asks sarcastically if the Persian governor would look favorably on such gifts.

MALACHI—NOTE ON 1:9 entreat ... gracious to us. The Lord expressed what the priests were really saying by their worship practices. If the governor will not show favor because of such gifts, can the priests expect the Lord to do so? favor of God. Lit, "face of God" (cf Nu 6:25–26).

MALACHI—NOTE ON 1:10 shut the doors. An appeal to end this mockery of true worship and sacrifice. Luth: "It would be preferable to abstain from prayer than to pray in an evil manner" (AE 18:396). kindle fire on My altar in vain! The polluted sacrifices being offered by the priests could never gain the Lord's favor. no pleasure in you. As God had "no regard" for Cain and his sacrifice (Gn 4:5), so He was displeased with the priests.

MALACHI—NOTE ON 1:11 from the rising ... setting. All over the world (cf Ps 113:3). My name will be great among the nations. The priests despised the Lord's name (v 6), but the time will come when "at the name of Jesus every knee … in heaven and on earth" will bow (Php 2:10). Not only will Israel cry out, "Great is the LORD!" (v 5), but all nations will do likewise. This reverses the Lord's hatred of Esau described in v 2. incense will be offered. Incense was commonly offered in worship and represented the prayers of God's people (Ps 141:2; Lk 1:9–10; Rv 5:8). "First, his words say this: the name of the Lord will be great. This is accomplished by the preaching of the Gospel. Through this preaching, Christ's name is made known and the Father's mercy, promised in Christ, is recognized. The preaching of the Gospel produces faith in those who receive the Gospel [Romans 10:17]. They call upon God, give thanks to God, bear troubles for their confession, and produce good works for Christ's glory. So the name of the Lord becomes great among the Gentiles [Malachi 1:11]. Therefore, incense and a pure offering means not a ceremony by the outward act, but all those sacrifices through which the name of the Lord becomes great: faith, invocation, the preaching of the Gospel, confession, and so on…. We include the preaching of the Word among the sacrifices of praise…. Malachi speaks about all the services of the New Testament…. He requires services of the heart, through which the name of the Lord becomes truly great" (Ap XXIV 32–33).

MALACHI—NOTE ON 1:12 The priests' words showed that they thought sacrifices commanded by the Lord were nothing special and so could be despised (v 7).

MALACHI—NOTE ON 1:13 weariness. God had commanded morning and evening sacrifices. See pp 170–71. In time, the priests became weary of carrying out their duties. snort. To show contempt. taken by violence. In addition to the blemished animals in v 8, there are stolen animals, a violation of the Seventh Commandment.

MALACHI—NOTE ON 1:14 Cursed be the cheat. A divine curse concludes this series of questions addressed to the priests (vv 6–13). It was their responsibility to make sure that the animals people brought to fulfill a vow had no blemish (Lv 27:9–12). This curse fell on the priests as well as the cheaters. See note, Gn 12:3. I am a great King. More than just a father and master (v 6), the Lord demands the honor due the greatest King of all. See pp 1565–66. feared among the nations. The nations will do what Israel failed to do (cf v 11).

MALACHI—NOTE ON 1:6–14 The Lord calls to account His OT priests for the way they despised Him, as evidenced by their worship practices. Our fallen human nature also makes us quick to serve our own interests by giving leftovers rather than firstfruits. In contrast, God gave us the very best, His One and only Son. People of all nations worship Him because of His love and compassion, His grace and mercy. May we join in the praise of Him who is the great King! • Dear Father in heaven, open my heart to appreciate the abundance of Your grace so that I may serve You with the first and best of all You have given me. Amen.

MALACHI—NOTE ON 2:1 O priests. The Lord continues His condemnation of Jerusalem's worship leaders. command. Used again in v 4; refers to what the priests should be doing.

MALACHI—NOTE ON 2:2 not ... give honor to My name. The nations would honor the Lord's name (1:11), but the priests despised it (1:6). send the curse. The judgment for sin is curses (Dt 28:15). curse. Repeated three times, continuing the thought of 1:14. your blessings. The priests' duty was to bless the people (Nu 6:23–27). The Lord cursed even this blessing. Hus: "The priest who binds and looses others ought himself to be prudent and just, for otherwise he will put to death souls who do not die and revive souls which do not live, and in this way he turns his power of pronouncing judgment into an instrument of cursing" (The Church, p 104). not lay it to heart. The priests did not take the Lord's commands seriously.

MALACHI—NOTE ON 2:3 rebuke your offspring. The priests' children suffered for the sins of their fathers (cf 1Sm 2:27–36). dung. Hbr peresh, the intestinal contents from an animal slaughtered for sacrifice. Spreading dung on their faces is God's way of expressing disdain for these priests. taken away. In Ex 29:14, the Lord ordered that this dung be burned outside the camp.

MALACHI—NOTE ON 2:4 My covenant with Levi. The Lord set apart the descendants of Levi, Jacob's son, to "minister to Him and to bless in His name" (Dt 10:8; cf Nu 3:5–10). In vv 4–7, the Lord describes the service of the ideal Levitical priest. Luth: "The covenant made with the whole tribe of Levi, the command handed down through Moses [was] that they teach rightly and deceive no man" (AE 18:400). See note, v 6.
MALACHI—NOTE ON 2:5 life and peace. OT priests were to bring spiritual life and peace to God's people (Nu 25:12; Dt 30:19–20). covenant of fear. Proper worship and veneration of the Lord. See p 1001. He stood in awe of My name. The ideal Levite, one like Moses, gave honor to the Lord's name.
MALACHI—NOTE ON 2:6 instruction. See note, Pr 1:8; see also pp 775–78. walked with Me. The ideal priest not only talked the talk but walked the walk. See p 7.
MALACHI—NOTE ON 2:7 guard knowledge. To hold it carefully, to protect it from error, to preserve it among the people. Cf Hos 4:6. messenger. Priests and prophets (e.g., Malachi; see note, 1:1) were spokesmen for the Lord of hosts. See pp 1077–83.
MALACHI—NOTE ON 2:8 But you have turned aside. God's condemnation of the current priesthood resumes. They were not measuring up to what an ideal priest should be. stumble. Contrast to "walk" in v 6. See note, Ps 86:11.
MALACHI—NOTE ON 2:9 ways. See p 844. show partiality. Another of the priests' sins was showing favor in their teaching to one group of people, perhaps to the rich.
MALACHI—NOTE ON 2:1–9 The Lord condemns the priests in Malachi's day for failing to live up to the expectations He presented in His Word. God has similar requirements for His pastors and teachers today (cf Ti 1:9). How blessed are those who have such servants of the Lord! And how important it is for us to pray that they remain faithful in their calling. For we all need what a devoted Christian leader proclaims: repentance and the forgiveness of sins in Christ, our Lord. • Thank You, Jesus, for servants who preach and teach Your Holy Word in truth and purity. Amen.
MALACHI—NOTE ON 2:10 one Father ... one God created. Malachi begins the third part of his prophecy with two rhetorical questions about marriage to foreign wives. God is the Father who created humans (Dt 32:6). In marriage, He unites husband and wife as one (v 15; Gn 2:24). Luth:

"These are also two outstanding statements for correcting the cruelty of husbands, namely, if they look at their wives as God's creation and as women who have a God in common with them" (AE 18:403). faithless. Refers to the lack of commitment and fidelity in marriage (used also in vv 11, 14, 16). See "faithfulness," p 842. profaning the covenant. Treating God's covenant Law with disrespect.

MALACHI—NOTE ON 2:11 abomination. See note, Pr 6:16. The prophet charged the people with doing something horrible, completely opposite of what was good. profaned the sanctuary. By continuing to worship the Lord while living in sin, they showed disrespect for the temple. married the daughter of a foreign god. God's Law prohibited marriage to unbelievers (Dt 7:3). This law was being violated after the return from exile (Ezr 9:12). The NT provides similar warnings. See note, 2Co 6:14. Cf 1Co 7:12–16 for those already married.

MALACHI—NOTE ON 2:12 Malachi expressed the wish that the Lord would exclude from the community of Judah those who continued to bring offerings and yet were married to idolaters.

MALACHI—NOTE ON 2:13 second thing. Evidently some were guilty of divorcing their Israelite spouses to marry foreigners. tears. The people wept when they brought their sacrifices to the Lord's altar because He had no regard for their offering (cf Gn 4:5).

MALACHI—NOTE ON 2:14 witness. Marriage was a legal covenant that required witnesses. The Lord clearly sees when husband and wife are united in marriage. wife of your youth ... by covenant. This first marriage was to an Israelite woman, a wife in accordance with God's covenant. faithless. The husband divorced his first wife and married a foreigner. See note, Ezr 10:3.

MALACHI—NOTE ON 2:15 one. See note, v 10. portion of the Spirit in their union? Indicates how important marriage is in God's eyes. See note, Sg 8:6. He wants to inspire love for spouse and for children. Godly offspring. God has in mind not just the conception of human beings, but children who will be raised in the discipline and instruction of the Lord (Eph 6:4). So guard yourselves. This admonition, repeated in v 16, was meant for those who had Israelite spouses.

MALACHI—NOTE ON 2:16 the man who ... divorces. Some translations of these words differ (see ESV note). See note, 1:3. covers his garment with violence. Spattered with blood. A grim description of how a husband's hatred for his wife might play itself out.

MALACHI—NOTE ON 2:10–16 The people of Israel were guilty of breaking one of the covenant laws by marrying foreign, idolatrous wives. The Creator's first command to Adam and Eve was to "be fruitful and multiply" (Gn 1:28). After creating Eve, the Lord brought her to Adam and instituted marriage. He spoke the Sixth Commandment to guard this union (Ex 20:14). Yet throughout history, humans have violated God's rules for marriage. Christians today violate God's will concerning the marriage relationship in various ways. We need His admonition and His forgiveness. With the command and blessing of marriage, the Lord provides a rich portion of His Spirit, who is faithful and keeps us in good faith. • Heavenly Father, forgive my unfaithful desires and tainted love. Direct me by Your Spirit to think and do what is right in Your sight. Amen.

MALACHI—NOTE ON 2:17 wearied the LORD. This accusation introduces the fourth section of the Book. Everyone who does evil ... delights in them. The Lord was charged by some with actually favoring people who did evil, contradicting His statement in Dt 25:16. Similar complaints are expressed in 3:14–15. Where is the God of justice? Not a new question (cf Jb 21:7–16; Hab 1:2–4, 13).

MALACHI—NOTE ON 3:1 My messenger. Not Malachi (see note, 1:1), but a promise that the Lord would send an extraordinary messenger; this was fulfilled in John the Baptist. Luth: "[The Lord] says, 'I will send you the genuine Malachi, that is, a messenger, who is John the Baptist' " (AE 18:408). prepare the way. John prepared the way for Christ by "proclaiming a baptism of repentance for the forgiveness of sins" (Mk 1:4). Lord ... messenger of the covenant. This is an even more distinguished Messenger, our Lord Jesus Christ, who brought the new covenant in His blood. in whom you delight. Jesus is the God of justice whom the people desired (2:17). coming. John and Jesus were born approximately 400 years after the time of Malachi. See timeline, p 1543.

MALACHI—NOTE ON 3:2 who can endure ... appears? When the God of justice appears, all will be found guilty (Rm 3:23). refiner's fire. Fire was used to remove impurities from metals. Everlasting punishment is compared to a lake of fire (Rv 20:14). fullers' soap. A fuller used strong soap made of lye to clean wool and make it white. Luth: "Christ is not merely the Purifier but also the purifying Agent. He is not only the Blacksmith but also the Fire; not only the Cleaner but also the Soap" (AE 18:410).

MALACHI—NOTE ON 3:3 purifier of silver. One who puts silver through fire until all the impurities are burned away. sons of Levi. A prophecy referring to Christians, the "royal priesthood" (1Pt 2:9) who will replace the Levitical priesthood. offerings in righteousness. In contrast to the disgraceful sacrifices of the priests in Malachi's day, God will create a people who are genuinely righteous in faith and who offer Him spiritual sacrifices (Rm 12:1; 1Pt 2:5). "This passage clearly requires the sacrifices of the righteous, and so does not favor the opinion about the outward act (opus operatum). But the sacrifices of the sons of Levi, that is, of those teaching in the New Testament, are the preaching of the Gospel and the good fruit of preaching" (Ap XXIV 34).

MALACHI—NOTE ON 3:4 offering ... will be pleasing. The offerings of God's NT priests will fulfill His purpose in instituting the OT sacrifices (cf Ps 51:17).

MALACHI—NOTE ON 3:5 Then I will draw near to you for judgment. Final judgment, when God will gather all nations before His glorious throne (Mt 25:32; Rm 14:10). witness against ... do not fear Me. One of several biblical catalogs of sins to which the Lord of hosts will testify on the Day of Judgment (Mk 7:21–22; 1Co 6:9–10; Rv 21:8). sojourner. A guest or stranger.

MALACHI—NOTE ON 2:17–3:5 The people in Malachi's day ask, "Where is the God of justice?" (cf 2Pt 3:4). The Lord makes it very clear that the Day of Judgment is coming. He wants all people to be prepared for that day. That's why He sent the Messenger of the new covenant, Jesus Christ, to suffer and die for the sins of the world. Christ will come again, "not to deal with sin but to save those who are eagerly waiting for Him" (Heb 9:28). • Blessed Lord and Savior, help me to wait and pray for Your reappearing with confidence and hope. Amen.

MALACHI—NOTE ON 3:6 I the LORD do not change. This fifth part of Malachi begins with the Lord's assertion that He will never change. He continues to condemn sin, but His mercy also endures forever. O children of Jacob. In 1:2, the Lord assured Jacob's offspring of His love, which remains constant. are not consumed. The Lord refrained from doing what He had every right to do.

MALACHI—NOTE ON 3:7 turned aside. Hbr shub, "to turn off a path, to the right or left." God's people walked in directions contrary to His intended course. Return to Me, and I will return to you. A play on the Hbr term shub, "to turn, turn around, return"; often translated "repent" (see note, Zec 1:3). See p 1080.

MALACHI—NOTE ON 3:8 Will man rob God? Rhetorical question from God, which should be answered no. The question acts as an accusation. tithes and contributions. The Lord had commanded His people to give a tenth of their income for the support of the Levites "as a contribution to the LORD" (Nu 18:24). Ne 13:10 records that this was not being done. The people were stealing from God by failing to support the ministry of the Levites. Luth: "Certainly God does not say this as if He really cared about tithes, etc. Rather He says it to preserve the ministry of the Word" (AE 18:414). The Lord demanded support for the Levitical priesthood even though the priests were derelict in their duties (1:6–2:9).
MALACHI—NOTE ON 3:9 cursed with a curse. God intensified His condemnation by combining a verb and noun form of the same root word. Previously He had cursed the priests. Dt 28:15–68 gives examples of how terrible it is to be cursed by God. See note, Gn 12:3.
MALACHI—NOTE ON 3:10 full tithe. Entire 10 percent. storehouse. Levites maintained places to store the offerings the people brought (Ne 12:44). food in My house. Priests lived off the tithes of food that were brought as they served in the Lord's house. put Me to the test. God's challenge to the people is unusual—in fact, it is the only example in Scripture of God giving humans permission to test Him. He forbids such testing in Dt 6:16 and Mt 4:7, and He condemns those who do test Him (Ps 95:8–11); He does invite a request for a sign in Is 7:11. open the windows of heaven. May refer literally to rain (Gn 7:11), but more likely it indicates the abundance of blessings God promised to Jacob's children.
MALACHI—NOTE ON 3:12 blessed … land of delight. Dt 28:1–14 details the blessings that the people of God could expect.
MALACHI—NOTE ON 3:13 hard. Harsh, critical. Examples of their hard words are found in 1:2; 2:17; and 3:14–15. On the whole, the children of Jacob continued to resist the Lord's Word.
MALACHI—NOTE ON 3:14 vain to serve God. The people said that serving God did no good and offered no benefits. What is the profit of our keeping His charge? Rhetorical question implying that there was no gain for them in following the requirements of God's Law. Cf Ps 73:1–12. walking as in mourning. Participating in rituals of repentance.

MALACHI—NOTE ON 3:15 we call the arrogant blessed. Those who do evil and despise the Lord seem to have His blessing (2:17). See note, Ps 73:4–12. put God to the test and they escape. Some notorious evildoers took up God's challenge by putting Him to the test (see note, v 10), and they prospered. Though sinful, they escaped punishment. This dilemma is addressed in the next section.

MALACHI—NOTE ON 3:6–15 Jeremiah's complaint, "Why does the way of the wicked prosper?" (Jer 12:1), resounds in Malachi's day. Many of Jacob's children think nothing of robbing God by withholding their full tithes because it seems to them that evildoers prosper. It is true that the wicked often prosper in this life. Though God does promise that His people may enjoy worldly blessings, He also warns that they can expect suffering too. Because of Christ's death and resurrection, we can be certain of His eternal blessings (Eph 1:3, 11–14). "The wages of sin is death, but the free gift of God is eternal life in Christ Jesus our Lord" (Rm 6:23). • Lord of heaven and earth, move my heart to honor You with my earthly offerings while keeping my eyes firmly fixed on Your eternal blessings. Amen.

MALACHI—NOTE ON 3:16 The sixth part of the Book begins. those who feared the LORD. See p 1001. paid attention and heard. The Lord was not pleased with many of the hard words spoken against Him (3:13), but He responded positively to the words of these believers. book of remembrance. This is comparable to the Book of Life (Rv 21:27). God will remember and deliver those who fear Him. See "remember," p 843. esteemed His name. In contrast to the priests, who despised God's name (1:6).

MALACHI—NOTE ON 3:17 in the day. The Day of Judgment (cf 4:1, 3, 5). My treasured possession. Those whom God will protect and preserve eternally. as a man spares his son who serves him. The Lord rebuked those scoffers who claimed that "it is vain to serve God" (3:14).

MALACHI—NOTE ON 3:18 These distinctions had been denied by some in the community (2:17; 3:14–15). God makes His justice clear. righteous. See p 843.

MALACHI—NOTE ON 3:16–18 The Lord assures those who fear Him that their service has not been in vain and that they will be spared on the Day of Judgment. God-fearing people know they are guilty according to God's Law, but they also know God's forgiveness leads them to love and trust Him all the more (Ps 130:4). • My soul magnifies You, O Lord, for showing mercy to those who fear You. Amen.

MALACHI—NOTE ON 4:1 the day is coming. The day of the Lord (3:17; 4:3, 5), when He will come to judge the living and the dead. burning like an oven. The Lord uses images of heat, fire, and burning to portray the Day of Judgment (cf Mt 25:41; 2Pt 3:10). stubble. Evildoers who seem to prosper in this life will end up like a plant's stalk after harvest. See note, Ps 1:4. neither root nor branch. The fire will be so intense that nothing of the plant will remain.

MALACHI—NOTE ON 4:2 fear My name. See p 1001. The Lord addresses believers directly (3:16). sun of righteousness. In contrast to the burning fire of judgment, the heat of the sun warms believers with the healing message of God's righteousness in Christ (cf Is 58:8). Bern: "Those whom He called, them also He justified. Over them a Sun arises, though not that sun which may daily be seen arising over good and bad alike, but He of whom the Prophet speaks when addressing himself to those alone who have been called to the counsel" (SLSB, p 151). healing in its wings. Wings are often a symbol of security and shelter (Ps 63:7; 91:4; Lk 13:34). The handles of royal Judean storage jars were impressed with a winged sun disk. Some archaeologists believe this represents Yahweh, the Lord, or His chariot-throne (see note, Ezk 10:1). The sun disk has its origin in Egypt; Israelite artists commonly borrowed Egyptian and Phoenician designs. leaping like calves. Those who experience salvation will be full of joy and excitement, with the same kind of energy as calves at play.

MALACHI—NOTE ON 4:3 ashes under the soles of your feet. Only the ashes of the wicked remain.

MALACHI—NOTE ON 4:4 Remember. See p 843. law. See p 971. My servant Moses. The priests were not faithful servants because they did not teach the Law as Moses had (2:8). statutes and rules that I commanded. God commanded Moses to teach all Israel His statutes and rules (Dt 6:1). These remained valid in Malachi's day. See p 971.

MALACHI—NOTE ON 4:5 I will send you Elijah the prophet. See note, 3:1. "My messenger" (1:1) is identified here as someone like the great prophet Elijah, who had called Israel to repentance and was taken alive to heaven (2Ki 2:1–12). John the Baptist came in the power and spirit of Elijah. Moses and Elijah appeared to Jesus at His transfiguration (Mt 17:3).

MALACHI—NOTE ON 4:6 turn. See p 1080. the hearts … to their fathers. The angel Gabriel used these words to describe John's mission. When fathers and children have a good relationship, the way is prepared for the coming of Christ into their hearts. lest I come ... utter destruction. Though God threatened utter destruction, His ultimate hope is that people will respond in repentance and faith to the message of prophets such as Malachi and John (Lk 3:3–14).

MALACHI—NOTE ON 4:1–6 The last OT Book concludes with the Lord's announcement that Judgment Day is coming. For those who refuse to repent and believe the Gospel, it means utter destruction. But for those who fear His name, this will be a day of rejoicing. John the Baptist called the people of his day to repentance and faith in the coming Savior. How great a message for us to hear! • Dear Lord Jesus, Son of Righteousness, let the light of Your healing grace shine on me, that I may fear, love, and trust in You always. Amen.

THE TIME BETWEEN THE TESTAMENTS AND THE APOCRYPHA

There was great distress in Israel, such as had not been since the time that prophets ceased to appear among them…. And the Jews and their priests decided that Simon should be their leader and high priest for ever, until a trustworthy prophet should arise.

—1Macc 9:27; 14:41

When I went East and came to the place where these things were preached and done, I learned accurately the books of the Old Testament, and send them to you as written below. [He excludes the Apocrypha.]

—Melito, Letter to Onesimus

For greater exactness I add this also, writing of necessity; that there are other books [the Apocrypha] besides these not indeed included in the Canon, but appointed by the Fathers to be read by those who newly join us, and who wish for instruction in the word of godliness.

—Athanasius, Festal Easter Letter (AD 367)

As, then the Church reads Judith, Tobit, and the books of Maccabees, but does not admit them among the canonical Scriptures, so let it read these two volumes [Wisdom of Solomon and Ecclesiasticus] for the edification of the people, [but] not to give authority to doctrines of the Church.

—Jerome, Prefaces

Books [of the Apocrypha are] not held equal to the Scriptures but are useful and good to read.

—Martin Luther, Prefaces to the Apocrypha

When the Prophets Ceased to Speak

The Time between the Testaments (c 430–2 BC)

Who are the Pharisees, and where did they come from? How did the Romans end up in Judea? Who wrote the Dead Sea Scrolls? The Old Testament books do not answer these questions or the many others that naturally come up when you read the New Testament.

This is because there is a gap or "silent period" from the last writing prophet, Malachi (c 430 BC), until the New Testament era. These four centuries abounded with historic, religious, and social developments—the most important being that the prophets ceased to speak (1Macc 4:46; 9:27; 14:41). By learning about this Intertestamental Era, you will gain a much better understanding of the New Testament world and the culture in which Jesus conducted His earthly ministry. (A helpful overview is provided by Raymond F. Surburg, Introduction to the Intertestamental Period [St Louis: Concordia, 1975].)

Historical Events

The setting for the Time between the Testaments was created by the Persian emperor Cyrus the Great (d c 530 BC), who conquered Babylon and allowed the Judeans to return to Jerusalem. Cyrus and other Persian rulers demonstrated a tolerant attitude toward the Judeans and other religious and ethnic groups (see notes, Ezr 1:1–2). Cyrus supported the rebuilding of Jerusalem and its temple, which took several decades. The last Old Testament prophets (Ezra, Nehemiah, Haggai, Zechariah, and Malachi) supported this work. The Judeans made a new commitment to God's Word (see p 751), and life for them was fairly peaceful.

About a century later (332 BC), the Macedonian general Alexander the Great took Judea away from the Persians. Alexander planned to unite his new empire by spreading the Greek language and Greek culture (a policy called "Hellenization," meaning "from the Greek"). But Alexander did not forcefully oppose the Judeans or their religious practices. After Alexander died in 323 BC, his vast empire was divided between four of his generals (see note, Dn 8:22).

Ptolemy, one of Alexander's generals, ruled Israel and Egypt. Ptolemy's descendants allowed the Judeans to practice their religion and culture, while they also continued the policy of Hellenization. In 198 BC, the descendants of Seleucus, another of Alexander's generals, conquered the region of Judea. (See p 1421.) The Seleucid rulers forcefully opposed the religion of the Judeans and outlawed its practice. For example, they made it illegal to possess a copy of the Hebrew Scriptures (1Macc 1:56–57). To circumcise someone was punishable by death (1Macc 1:60–61).

The worst Seleucid ruler, Antiochus IV Epiphanes (175–164 BC), caused a Judean revolt because he erected a statue of Zeus in the Jerusalem temple court, sacrificed a pig on its altar, and insisted that the Lord's priests participate in pagan sacrifices (1Macc 1:44–50; 2:15–18; 2Macc 6:1–2). A Judean named Mattathias rebelled against representatives of the Seleucid Empire (1Macc 2); faithful Judeans supported this rebellion (167 BC). Led by Mattathias's sons, the Judeans won independence. They regained Jerusalem and purified the temple (commemorated by the Jewish festival of Hanukkah).

Mattathias's descendants, the Hasmoneans, ruled the land until the Roman military helped settle a civil war between two Hasmonean brothers, each of whom claimed Israel's throne. The Roman Empire established control of the region in 63 BC. Rome and its Byzantine successors ruled Judea until AD 637. For more on religious and social developments, see pp 1556–58.

Literature

Perhaps the most important work produced during this "silent period" was the Septuagint (LXX). Jewish scholars translated the Hebrew Scriptures into Koine, or "common," Greek, the language used in the Mediterranean world. As a result of Alexander's conquests and the process of Hellenization, this simplified Greek served as the business language for dozens of different people groups.

The LXX receives its name from the tradition that 72 Jewish scholars were responsible for the translation (attested by The Letter of Aristeas). New Testament writers frequently used the LXX when citing Scripture, and even Jesus may have used it (cf Gn 2:24; Mt 19:5).

The Dead Sea Scrolls were also produced during the Time between the Testaments. These were discovered in 1947 near Qumran, near the northwest shore of the Dead Sea, and have added greatly to our knowledge of the time. About one-third of the scrolls are copies of books from the Hebrew Scriptures and generally demonstrate the preciseness with which the Scriptures were passed down. Other scrolls include commentaries on books of Hebrew Scriptures and sectarian documents about the beliefs of the Qumran community.

A wide variety of other works were produced during the centuries leading up to Christ's birth. Most prominent are the Apocrypha, the books of which appear in the LXX. The Apocrypha helps readers understand the world in which the New Testament was born. For a thorough overview of the Apocrypha, see "Luther's Prefaces to the Apocrypha," pp 1562–64. For more on other ancient literature that was not included in the Bible, read "The Holy Scriptures and Other Ancient Writings" (pp 1559–61).

Persons and Groups of Early Judaism and Christianity

The list below will help you identify people groups of the Time between the Testaments and the New Testament so that you may appreciate the variety of religious and political ideas people held.

chief priests. The high priest and other temple officials. Sadducees seem to have dominated these positions during NT times. See Zadokites and Sadducees. See also p 228.

Christians. See note, Ac 11:26.

Council, The. Also known as the Sanhedrin, seventy lay elders, the presiding chief priest, and the scribes who functioned as legal experts in Judaism. They oversaw religious and some civil matters in Judea. See elders.

Dispersion. Gk diaspora, the scattering or "dispersion" of Jews throughout the Near East and Mediterranean regions (i.e., outside the region of Israel) after Jerusalem's fall in the sixth century BC.

Ebionites. Hbr for "poor ones," a sect of Jewish Christians that flourished east of the Jordan River. They did not regard Jesus as the Son of God and of Mary but as a man God anointed as the Messiah (i.e., they denied the virgin birth; NPNF 2 1:158–60). They rejected the Epistles of Paul and had their own version of a gospel (ANF 1:439–40).

elders. In Israel and Judaism, community or national leaders. See p 228. In Christianity, congregational leaders. See note, 1Tm 5:17.

Essenes. Jewish ascetic group known from the time of the Hasmoneans (c 150 BC). They had settlements in Jerusalem, Judea, and around the Dead Sea. They sent gifts to the temple but did not attend its services. They may have been influenced by Gk philosophy. Some scholars believe the Qumran community was an Essene settlement. See Qumran community.

God-fearers. Gentiles who believed that the God of Israel was the true God, but who had not received circumcision. See Proselytes.

Hasideans. Or, Chasidim. Hbr "pious ones," mentioned in 1Macc 2:42 as a broad group of Jews who supported Judas Maccabeus in revolt against Antiochus IV Epiphanes. However, once the Hasideans gained their religious rights, they lost interest in advancing the Hasmonean dynasty.

Hasmoneans. From Gk Hasmonaios, which likely refers to a place-name associated with the priest Mattathias, who led his family in revolt (AD 167) against Antiochus IV Epiphanes. Mattathias's son, Judas Maccabeus ("the hammer") became the leader of the movement and established the Hasmonean dynasty (167 BC–AD 63) over Judea. See map, p 1555. Hasmonean rulers also served as high priests. See Zadokites.

Hellenists. Jews who accepted the Gk language and culture following the rule of Alexander the Great (356–323 BC). When the Ptolemies ruled Judea (323–198 BC), they encouraged Gk ways but did not force their religion on the people. After the Seleucids took over Judea (198 BC), they forced Gk ways on the people under threat of torture and death. This sharply divided the Jewish community. Acts reports that Hellenists readily converted to Christianity (Ac 6:1; 9:29), though the cultural conflict that divided Judaism likewise affected the Early Church. The Hellenist Christians actively spread the Gospel to Gentiles (cf Ac 11:19–20).

Herodians. The dynasty of Herod the Great and its political supporters. Descendants of Herod ruled the region of Israel on behalf of the Romans (63 BC–AD 100).

Hillel, House of. Disciples of Rabbi Hillel the Elder (active c 30 BC–c AD 10). More tolerant toward Gentiles than the House of Shammai. Rabbi Gamaliel, with whom the apostle Paul studied (Ac 5:34; 22:3), may have been Hillel's grandson.

Jews/Judeans. See note, Ezr 4:12. For the use of "Jews" in the NT, see pp 1775, 1905–6.

Maccabees. See Hasmoneans.

Pharisees. Preeminent Jewish sect, representing the Jewish authorities and strict observers and teachers of the Torah. The Pharisees did not control the government or the temple, but they were a large group and popular with the common people, so they were powerful. The Pharisees believed that in order to live under God's favor, as Israel had in the days of Moses and David, the Jews needed to separate themselves from the Gentiles and their ways and return to strict observance of Mosaic Law.

(See Jos, Ant, 13:172, 288–98, 372–76; 18:12–15.) Rabbinic Judaism most likely stems from the Pharisees.

proselytes. Gentile converts to Judaism who were circumcised and likely also received a baptism for cleansing. See p 1369; see also God-fearers.

Ptolemies. See pp 1553–58.

Qumran community. Jewish sect responsible for copying the Dead Sea Scrolls, led by "the Teacher of Righteousness." Flourished near the Dead Sea from the second century BC to c AD 70. The scrolls describe a people alienated from those who ran the Jerusalem temple (see Zadokites). They lived by a different calendar (see p 1567) and by different laws. They awaited a Messiah. Some scholars believe they were Essenes, but others believe they were a distinct group.

rabbi. Hbr rab, "great one"; means "my great one" and thus "my master/teacher." The expression developed into a title describing teachers of the Law of Moses, Jewish traditions, and religious practices (see pp 719–20). Regarding an example of such teaching, see Luther's "Preface to the Book of Jesus Sirach" (p 1563). See also Hillel and Shammai. People addressed Jesus as "rabbi" (e.g., Mt 26:25, 49; Mk 9:5; 11:21; 14:45), but He warned His disciples about accepting such a title (Mt 23:8).

Sadducees. Name thought to derive from Hbr "righteous" or from the Zadokite family. These Jews held to the Law of Moses and the Oral Law but did not accept the traditions of the scribes and Pharisees. They did not believe in the resurrection (Lk 20:27–40; Ac 23:8), in angels, or in spirits. They also did not long for a Messiah the way other Jewish groups did. They were the second largest religious group in Judea.

Samaritans. A people whose Jewish heritage had been adulterated through intermarriage and whose observance of Judaism was regarded as corrupted. Samaritans descended from Israelites left behind after Samaria's destruction (722 BC) and included foreigners imported by Assyrian kings (2Ki 17:24–28, 33–34). They inhabited the area between Judea and Galilee. See color map 4. They accepted only the Five Books of Moses as authoritative, worshiped on Mount Gerizim, and rejected Jerusalem as the proper place of worship. Most Jews regarded Samaritans as outside the bounds of the covenant people and avoided them (Lk 9:52–53). Long-standing and deep-seated hostility existed between Jews and Samaritans.

Sanhedrin. See Council, The.

scribes. See pp 719–20.

Seleucids. See pp 1553–58.

Shammai, House of. Disciples of Rabbi Shammai (c 50 BC–AD 30), founder of a school of Jewish thought. Strongly nationalistic and opposed to Gentile rule.

Sicarii. Jewish revolutionaries who expected a messianic king and supported their leader, Menahem, during the revolt against the Romans in AD 66. See Zealots.

synagogue. Community building where Jews gathered to read the Scriptures, study, and pray. Such gathering places were found throughout the Mediterranean world, since they were typically established wherever 10 Jewish heads of household were present. The NT is one of the most important early witnesses to synagogue activity. The earliest Christian congregations were synagogues of Jews who believed Jesus was the promised Messiah. See "church," pp 1901–2. See also note, Ac 6:9.

Therapeutae. Jewish sect in Egypt known for its interest in healing. Praised by Philo of Alexandria in On the Contemplative Life.

Zadokites. Descendants of the high priest Zadok. In King David's time, there was more than one high priest (see p 228). Zadok supported Solomon's succession as king and was made sole high priest (1Ki 1; 2:35). All high priests were Zadokites from c 970 BC until between 152 and 140 BC, when the Hasmoneans expelled the Zadokites from the temple and made themselves priests. The priests described in the Dead Sea Scrolls are called "sons of Zadok," since some Zadokites apparently retreated to Qumran after they were expelled.

Zealots. Jewish revolutionaries who followed Judas the Galilean in resistance against Herodian rule in AD 6 and revolted against the Romans in AD 66. The Zealots opposed paying taxes to Rome. Jesus' disciple Simon the Zealot (Lk 6:15; Ac 1:13) may have been a part of such a group before following Jesus. See Sicarii.

The Holy Scripture and Other Ancient Writings

Curiosity about books that were not included in the Holy Bible has greatly increased in recent times. The discovery of the Dead Sea Scrolls (Jewish, first and second centuries BC), the Nag Hammadi Codices (Gnostic, AD second and third centuries), and other documents (see below) has also increased media attention on this issue. Just as some scholars and religious groups today question the authority or genuineness of some biblical books, ancient critics and later scholars of Renaissance humanism raised similar questions about books of Scripture.

The Lutheran reformers and theologians were fully familiar with such questions and the methods that the critics used. Although archaeologists have discovered new documents in recent decades, the methods for evaluating the historical and spiritual worth of such documents have changed little since the Renaissance and the Reformation. Like the early Christians and like Luther during the Reformation, we face questions about distinguishing which writings are (1) Sacred Scripture; (2) useful writings, though not the same as Sacred Scripture; or (3) false and spiritually harmful writings.

The following essay summarizes how Lutherans have reflected on these issues. It is followed by Luther's prefaces to the Apocrypha, which illustrate these reflections in use (see pp 1562–64).

What Is Holy Scripture?

> We believe, teach, and confess that the only rule and norm according to which all teachings, together with 'all' teachers, should be evaluated and judged [2 Timothy 3:15–17] are the prophetic and apostolic Scriptures of the Old and New Testament alone. For it is written in Psalm 119:105, "Your word is a lamp to my feet and a light to my path." St. Paul has written, "even if we or an angel from heaven should preach to you a gospel contrary to the one we preached to you, let him be accursed" (Galatians 1:8). However, other writings by ancient or modern teachers—no matter whose name they bear—must not be regarded as equal to the Holy Scriptures. All of them are subject to the Scriptures. (FC Ep Sum 1–2)

The importance of the Holy Scripture for Christian faith and life leads us to consider how it became "holy." What is it about Scripture that makes it sacred? Historically, Lutherans have recognized the following characteristics of the books of Sacred Scripture, summarized by Robert Preus:

> (a) the depth of the mysteries revealed in Scripture, (b) the majesty of God speaking to us in Scripture, (c) the truthfulness of Scripture, (d) the sufficiency of the teachings and precepts of Scripture, (e) the profound and yet simple manner in which Scripture speaks to us, (f) the power of Scripture to bend the hearts of sinful men and give them hope, (g) the fact that Scripture has maintained its authority in the face of time and opposition, (h) the remarkable harmony between the Old and the New Testament. (Preus l:301)

Along with these features of the Scripture, we should note that the Scripture was written by prophets, evangelists, and apostles whom God chose and inspired to lead His people. The congregations of the Old and New Testaments recognized this inspiration and authority so that the books of Scripture continued in use throughout Christian churches from the beginning.[1]

Luther, with his characteristic flair, draws all such thoughts together in his preface to the Old Testament and notes:

> Dismiss your own opinions and feelings, and think of the Scriptures as the loftiest and noblest of holy things, as the richest of mines which can never be sufficiently explored, in order that you may find that divine wisdom which God here lays before you in such simple guise as to quench all pride. Here you will find the swaddling cloths and the manger in which Christ lies, and to which the angel points the shepherds [Luke 2:12]. Simple and lowly are these swaddling cloths [of the Scriptures], but dear is the treasure, Christ, who lies in them. (AE 35:236)

Inspiration

> All Scripture is breathed out by God and profitable for teaching, for reproof, for correction, and for training in righteousness. (2Tm 3:16)

The biblical teaching about inspiration of Scripture deserves special attention. When Paul wrote to Timothy about the inspiration of Scripture, he had in mind particularly the Hebrew Scripture, what we today call the Old Testament.[2] "Inspired" is simply a shorter way of saying "breathed out by God" and indicates the source of Sacred Scripture—God Himself.

God breathed His Spirit into His prophets (OT) and apostles (NT), so that the words they wrote down would be God's words. Inspiration means that, not just the thought or general idea came from God, but also the wording, the sentence structure, and the literary composition flowed from God as well as from the authors onto the written page. God worked with the personalities, skills, and abilities of these writers. As a result, the Scripture reflects the writers' diversity of styles and perception. We get to know the authors as well as the message when we read God's Holy Word. Yet the Holy Scripture also displays a remarkable unity because God inspired it. (See pp xxvi–xxx.)

Authority

Because the words of Holy Scripture come from God, they carry divine authority. The Law and Gospel of Scripture teach us about salvation and life. God's Word always accomplishes His purposes—it is reliable (Is 55:10–11; see p 1646). In the original languages of Hebrew, Aramaic, and Greek, as well as in accurate translations—whether the Word is written, spoken, or signed—the Scripture effectively works faith and salvation in people.

God's Word presents itself with clarity and simplicity (Rm 10:9–11). Ironically, a person can spend a lifetime studying the Scripture and never master it, yet a child can read or hear it and come to faith in Jesus right away (cf Mt 11:25–26). See pp xxvi–xxx.

The early Christians used the term canon (Gk kanon, "measuring rod" or "rule") to describe the collection of Holy Scripture that the Church uses for public reading, for teaching, and for judging doctrine and practice.

The Canon of the Hebrew Scripture

For many years, a list of the books that were considered Holy Scripture was not necessary. God had directed Moses to put a copy of the Ten Commandments into the ark of the covenant (Ex 25:16, 21). He had also told Moses to record the Law and told the priests to teach the Law (Ex 17:14; 34:27; Lv 10:11). The Old Testament often refers to these texts but also mentions some books that were eventually lost (see pp 3–5). Over time, the writings of the prophets and also the Psalms were reserved for use by God's people. Scrolls were likely kept in the temple archives (cf 2Ki 22:8; 1Macc 14:49; 2Macc 2:13; see note, 1Ch 26:20–28).

By the first century BC, the books of Holy Scripture were well established as the books we have in our Old Testament. According to Jewish tradition, in c AD 100 (after the destruction of the Jerusalem temple), Jewish religious leaders in Jamnia composed an authoritative list of the Old Testament books. (See rabbinic opinions in Mishnah Yadayim 3:2–5; Baba Bathra 14b; Shabbath 14a, 30b.)

Old Testament Apocrypha and Pseudepigrapha

During the Time between the Testaments, a variety of books related to themes and figures in the Hebrew Scripture were produced. Some of these documents claimed to be written by people in the Bible from long ago (pseudepigrapha, credited to people such as Enoch, Adam and Eve, and Moses). Other books contained history (1 and 2 Maccabees), supplements to recognized biblical books (Baruch, additions to Daniel and Esther), or contemporary religious thought (wisdom books). A number of the books were translated for the LXX.

Jerome included some of these books in his Latin translation of the Bible (Vulgate) in the fourth century AD. Roman Catholics, Eastern Orthodox, and some Protestants regard these books as a "second canon" (deuterocanonical books) or supplemental list to the Old Testament. Luther thought these books were good to read but did not regard them as Holy Scripture. (See "Luther's Prefaces to the Apocrypha," pp 1562–64.)

Lutherans have labeled these books as Apocrypha (Gk, "hidden away") and separated them from books universally recognized as Holy Scripture. Apocryphal books are not typically read in worship services, nor do they typically serve as sermon texts.

New Testament Pseudepigrapha

Just as many nonbiblical books appeared during the Time between the Testaments, so there were a variety of works that non-Christian sects produced during the Early Church period. Many of these books (e.g., the Nag Hammadi library) came from Gnostic groups that rejected all or part of biblical teaching.

Gnostics varied widely in their teachings and beliefs, but most emphasized the importance of a secret "knowledge" passed on to followers by a founding religious figure. Some Gnostic groups had little or nothing to do with Christianity (e.g., Sethian Gnostics were more Jewish in character), but many borrowed heavily from the New Testament and Christian traditions.

"Christian" Gnostics and other false teachers invented a "Jesus" who is very different from the real Jesus Christ. They preached a "gospel" that eliminated the cross as the atoning sacrifice for the sins of the world. They also produced numerous documents to support their philosophy. But the Gnostics eventually died out and were almost entirely forgotten. Because some of their literature was discovered in the nineteenth and twentieth centuries, people have shown a renewed interest in these odd religious sects. If you hear news reports about a recent or newly discovered "gospel," it is likely one of these Gnostic texts.

In the second century, the heretic Marcion of Sinope rejected the entire Old Testament Scripture and taught that the God who created the physical world was a lower-level spiritual being whose creation ineptly caused the creation of evil. Marcion taught that people should worship the supreme, loving God instead. Marcion created his own version of the Gospel according to Luke and rejected all the New Testament books except for some of Paul's Letters. Marcion denied the Christ of Scripture and taught that Jesus was a middle-level spirit being who came to teach His disciples a body of secret knowledge. Marcion's teachings caused the Church to define and defend the books of the Bible. (See pp 2099–2101.)

Conclusion

The books of the Bible have authenticated themselves over many centuries. People have recognized the divine nature of Holy Scripture and spent time and money to make copies of God's Word, even when this was tedious and expensive. Recognizing Scripture's authority, churches and synagogues have read it in public worship services, preached its message, and taught its contents for generations. People have willingly died rather than surrender these books of Scripture to those who would destroy them.

The Christian Church does not stand over the Scripture and decide what is or is not God's Word. The Christian Church merely recognizes the voice of its Good Shepherd in the biblical books and follows Him through His teaching (cf Jn 10:27–28; 14:23–24).

[1] Though the Church recognized the Scripture as God's Word, it did not "create" the Scripture as God's Word on human authority. The Scripture is self-authenticating. For example, if a child sees an apple and declares, "There's an apple," no one would suggest that the child's declaration created the apple. He simply sees it for what it is.

[2] Paul also considered NT Scripture inspired, as he sets Dt 25:4 and Lk 10:7 on equal footing in 1Tm 5:18.

Luther's Prefaces to the Apocrypha

Books Not Held Equal to the Scriptures but Useful and Good to Read

The German Luther Bible included virtually all the Old Testament apocryphal books but placed them in a separate section, between the Old and New Testaments. This was an important change from the Greek Septuagint and the Latin Vulgate (the Bibles used during the ancient and medieval periods). Luther wrote prefaces for the Apocrypha for different editions of the Bible from 1529 to 1534, when the first complete "Luther Bible" translation was published. In these prefaces, Luther summarized what each apocryphal book was about, its value, and the reasons he saw for distinguishing it from the Old Testament.

Helpful portions of Luther's prefaces for the Apocrypha are included below. The texts are drawn from AE 35:337–54. These prefaces were edited during Luther's lifetime up to 1545, when Luther reviewed the last edition of his German Bible. (See AE 35 for specific dates and textual notes.)

Preface to the Book of Judith

If one could prove from established and reliable histories that the events in Judith really happened, it would be a noble and fine book, and should properly be in the Bible. Yet it hardly squares with the historical accounts of the Holy Scriptures, especially Jeremiah and Ezra…. Thus as to both time and name, error and doubt are still present, so that I cannot reconcile [the accounts] at all.

Some people think this is not an account of historical events [Geschichte] but rather a beautiful religious fiction [Gedicht] by a holy and ingenious man who wanted to sketch and depict therein the fortunes of the whole Jewish people and the victory God always miraculously granted them over all their enemies…. Such an interpretation strikes my fancy, and I think that the poet deliberately and painstakingly inserted the errors of time and name in order to remind the reader that the book should be taken and understood as that kind of a sacred, religious, composition.

Now the names fit into this sort of an interpretation extraordinarily well. [E.g.,] Judith means Judea, (that is) the Jewish people…. It may even be that in those days they dramatized literature like this, just as among us the Passion and other sacred stories are performed…. Therefore this is a fine, good, holy, useful book, well worth reading by us Christians. For the words spoken by the persons in it should be understood as though they were uttered in the Holy Spirit by a spiritual, holy poet or prophet who, in presenting such persons in his play, preaches to us through them.

Preface to the Wisdom of Solomon

For a long time this book has stood in the cross fire of controversy as to whether or not it should be included among the sacred Scriptures of the Old Testament, especially in view of the fact that the author suggests in chapter 9[:7] that throughout the book it is King Solomon speaking—he whose wisdom is also extolled in the Book of Kings [I Kings 4, 10].

The ancient church fathers, however, excluded it outright from the sacred Scriptures…. They contend, however, that Philo is the author of this book. Undoubtedly he was one of the most learned and wisest men the Jewish people have had since the prophets, as he demonstrated in other books and deeds of his…. When the emperor was so embittered against the Jews that he turned them away and would not even hear them, then Philo—a man of courage and confidence—spoke up and said to his fellow Jews, "Well, then, dear brethren, do not be afraid but take heart; just because human help fails us, God's help will surely be with us!"

In my estimation, this book must have come out of such a situation or cause…. It came to be regarded by many as a genuine book of sacred Scripture…. There are many good things in this book, and it is well worth reading…. This book is timely for our day, because tyrants are now cocksurely abusing their authority against him from whom they have it…. It pleases me beyond measure that the author here [6:22] extols the Word of God so highly, and ascribes to the Word all the wonders God has performed, both on enemies and in his saints….

Finally, this book is a proper exposition and illustration of the first commandment. For here you see that the author throughout is teaching you to fear and trust God; he terrifies with examples of divine wrath those who are not afraid and who despise God, and he comforts with examples of divine grace those who believe and trust him.

Preface to the Book of Tobit

What was said about the book of Judith may also be said about this book of Tobit. If the events really happened, then it is a fine and holy history. But if they are all made up, then it is indeed a very beautiful, wholesome, and useful fiction or drama by a gifted poet…. For Judith presents a good, serious, heroic tragedy, and Tobit presents a fine, delightful, devout comedy…. Tobit shows how things may go badly with a pious peasant or townsman, and there may be much suffering in married life, yet God always graciously helps and finally crowns the outcome with joy, in order that married folk should learn to have patience and, in a genuine fear of God and firm faith, put up gladly with all sorts of hardships because they have hope…. Therefore this book is useful and good for us Christians to read.

Preface to the Book of Jesus Sirach

This book has heretofore carried the Latin title, Ecclesiasticus, which has been understood in German to mean "spiritual discipline." … Its real name is otherwise Jesus Sirach, after its author as its own prologue and the Greek [50:27] indicate. This is how the books of Moses, Joshua, Isaiah, and all the prophets are named, after their authors. Yet the ancient fathers did not include this one among the books of sacred Scripture, but simply regarded it as the fine work of a wise man. And we shall let it go at that….

That the book must be a compilation is suggested also by the fact that in it one part is not fitted neatly to the next, as in the work of a single author. Instead it draws on many books and authors and mixes them together, much as a bee sucks juices out of all sorts of flowers and mixes them…. This is a useful book for the ordinary man. The author concentrates all his effort on helping a citizen or housefather to be Godfearing, devout, and wise; and on showing what the relationship of such a man should be to God, the Word of God, priests, parents, wife, children, his own body, his servants, possessions, neighbors, friends, enemies, government, and anyone else. So one might well call this a book on home discipline or on the virtues of a pious householder. This indeed is the proper "spiritual discipline," and should be recognized as such.

Preface to the Book of Baruch

Whoever the good Baruch may be, this book is very skimpy. It is hardly credible that the servant of St. Jeremiah, whose name is also Baruch (and to whom this letter is attributed), should not be richer and loftier in spirit than this Baruch. Furthermore, the book's chronology does not agree with the [accepted] histories. Thus I very nearly let it go with the third and fourth books of Esdras…. Baruch, however, we shall let run with the pack because he writes so vigorously against idolatry and sets forth the law of Moses.

Preface to the First Book of Maccabees

This is another book not to be found in the Hebrew Bible. Yet its words and speech adhere to the same style as the other books of sacred Scripture. This book would not have been unworthy of a place among them, because it is very necessary and helpful for an understanding of chapter 11 of the prophet Daniel. For the fulfilment of Daniel's prophecy in that chapter, about the abomination and misfortune which was going to befall the people of Israel, is here described—namely, Antiochus Epiphanes—and in much the same way that Daniel [11:29–35] speaks of it: a little help and great persecution by the Gentiles and by false Jews, which is what took place at the time of the Maccabees. This is why the book is good for us Christians to read and to know….

We should take heart that God helped those people not only against Antiochus and the Gentiles but also against the traitorous and disloyal Jews who had gone over to the Gentiles and were helping to persecute, kill, and torment their own people and brethren…. However those same enemies and traitors are amply punished by God at the end; their tyranny and treachery does not go undetected.

Preface to the Second Book of Maccabees

This book is called, and is supposed to be, the second book of Maccabees, as the title indicates. Yet this cannot be true, because it reports several incidents that happened before those reported in the first book, and it does not proceed any further than Judas Maccabaeus, that is, chapter 7 of the first book…. But we include it anyway, for the sake of the good story of the seven Maccabean martyrs and their mother, and other things as well.

It appears, however, that the book has no single author, but was pieced together out of many books. It also presents a knotty problem in chapter 14[:41–46] where Razis commits suicide, something which also troubles St. Augustine and the ancient fathers. Such an example is good for nothing and should not be praised, even though it may be tolerated and perhaps explained. So also in chapter 1 this book describes the death of Antiochus quite differently than does First Maccabees [6:1–16]…. However the whole thing is left and referred to the pious reader to judge and to decide.

Preface to Parts of Esther and Daniel

Here follow several pieces which we did not wish to translate [and include] in the prophet Daniel and in the book of Esther. We have uprooted such cornflowers (because they do not appear in the Hebrew versions of Daniel and Esther). And yet, to keep them from perishing, we have put them here in a kind of special little spice garden or flower bed since much that is good, especially the hymn of praise, Benedicite, is to be found in them.

But the texts of Susanna, and of Bel, Habakkuk, and the Dragon, seem like beautiful religious fictions, such as Judith and Tobit…. Be the story as it may, it can all be easily interpreted in terms of the state, the home, or the devout company of the faithful.

Longing for a Kingdom

The dynasty of the House of David lasted 412 years (1009–597 BC). After the Babylonians conquered Jerusalem in 587 BC, the Judeans were ruled by the Persians, Alexander the Great, the Ptolemies, the Seleucids, and later the Romans. The heroic actions of Mattathias and his family gave the Judeans hope for a new dynasty. But the Hasmonean leaders (167–63 BC) became corrupt and ineffective. These experiences left the remnant of Israel and Judah longing for a powerful, victorious king or messiah ("anointed one").

The New Testament opens with John the Baptist proclaiming the "kingdom of heaven is at hand" (Mt 3:2). This article will explore what Scripture says about "the kingdom of God/heaven" and ways God's kingdom has been misunderstood.

What Is the Kingdom of God?

Christians may speak about the kingdom of God in a variety of ways. First, God rules the universe and everything in it, including the affairs of humanity (Ps 66:7; Dn 5:21). Second, we also use the phrase "kingdom of God" to refer to the time after the resurrection of the dead when God rules without opposition ("kingdom come," as some say; Rv 12:10).

We give thanks to God for His powerful rule over all the world, and we pray for the advent of His glorious victory on the Last Day. But when the Bible refers to the "kingdom of God," it usually has a different definition in mind. As Jeffrey Gibbs explains for the Gospel according to Matthew, the kingdom of God is God's righteous reign.

> To speak of a "reign" … is to imply that a king is present to act as such, "to reign." … If "the reign of heaven/God" stands near, then the God of heaven has come down to reign, to perform his kingly deeds. Thus, the reign of God is not primarily a place. Rather, it is a divine action that occurs where Jesus is, through his words and deeds. Nor is the reign of heaven a group of people. Rather, because the God of heaven has begun to manifest his kingly deeds, a group of people are constituted as those who believe in God's reign in Jesus. (CC Mt, 48–49)

Kingdom of God in the Old Testament

Although the phrase "kingdom of God" does not appear in the Old Testament, the Lord is called a king and a ruler (e.g., Ps 47:2; 95:3; Mal 1:14). When God called Abraham, He promised to bless him and to bless all the peoples of earth through him (Gn 12:1–3). Abraham believed Him, and God credited it to him as righteousness (Gn 15:6), granting Abraham a "right status" with God through faith alone (a point Paul makes in Rm 4). Through faith, Abraham and his family entered the "kingdom of God," even though they had no land or earthly kingdom (cf Wisd of Sol 10:5, 9–10). Geography does not define the kingdom/reign of God in either testament.

This Kingdom/reign does take shape in the real world because it exists in the hearts and minds of believers, who inhabit earthly countries and kingdoms. Wherever Abraham traveled, there was the kingdom of God. His faith held on to the promise of a Savior, a "Seed," or Offspring, through whom all the world would be blessed (cf Gal 3:19). The kingdom of God in the Old Testament is received by people who believe this promise, just as in the New Testament. In the Old Testament, God gathered His people together in the land of Israel. Nevertheless, the focus is always on God's work to create a "kingdom of priests" and a nation "holy" to the Lord (Ex 19:6)—not on the land.

One geographical place does play a special role in the Old Testament reign of God—Mount Zion. "Zion" refers to the hill between the Tyropean and Kidron valleys in Jerusalem (see map, p 493; see also p 844). It does not physically dominate the area, but it plays an important role in the history of God and His people because this is where Solomon built the temple. The temple at Zion represents God's gracious presence and the forgiveness of sins made possible by sacrifice and faith (Is 59:19–20; cf Rv 14:1).

God reveals a new dimension when He promises David that one of his descendants will reign forever. David had wanted to build God a "house" (temple), but God refused. Instead, God promised to build David a "house" (a dynasty or kingdom) that would last forever, ruled by a descendant much greater than David himself (2Sm 7:13; see David's response in Ps 110). God's reign becomes focused on this coming King, the Anointed One (Messiah, Christ).

Daniel sees this promised King in a vision several centuries later. The Spirit reveals to Daniel critical information about the kingdom of God and its ruler, a human being ("one like a son of man") who judges with divine authority (Dn 7:13–14). This King will rule over a Kingdom comprised of Gentiles as well as Israelites, individuals from all over the world brought together in faith. (Jesus draws His favorite self-designation, "Son of Man," from this passage, quoting it on trial before Caiaphas in Mk 14:62.)

Kingdom of God in the New Testament

The phrase "kingdom of God" (or "kingdom of heaven") appears nearly one hundred times in the New Testament. All but a few of the occurrences are in Matthew, Mark, and Luke. Between the time of Adam's fall (Gn 3:1–6) and the end of the world, Satan dominates the world. All people are born into Satan's kingdom and are by nature enemies of God and opposed to His kingdom (Eph 2:1–3). When God extends His kingdom, conflict and opposition ensue (cf Mt 11:12). The results are often dramatic, involving powerful displays of God's saving power (sometimes called "signs" because they point to Jesus as the promised Messiah). When God's reign overpowers Satan's, sick people are cured, handicapped people are made whole, demon-possessed individuals are freed, and even the dead are raised. These external signs point to the greater gift of God as He extends His rule —eternal salvation through saving faith in Jesus Christ.

God opens His kingdom to all people, not just a few. Jew and Gentile, wealthy and poor, men and women are all welcomed into God's grace (Gal 3:26–28). Not all people enter the kingdom of God, however. Human pride and a self-righteous attitude block the work of the Spirit. Only after the Law has stripped away all pretense of personal merit can a sinner come to know the grace of God in Christ Jesus (the "poor in spirit" of the first beatitude, Mt 5:3). We enter the Kingdom as helpless children (Mk 10:13–16), born anew by water and the Spirit (Jn 3:1–6).

On the one hand, the kingdom of God is invisible. Saving faith in Jesus Christ cannot be seen by the natural eye, nor can any human being look into the heart of another. Observers may be able to predict a change of weather by watching for certain signs, but the dynamic rule of God by grace through faith takes place within a person (cf Lk 17:20–21). On the other hand, believers live in the world and occupy space and time just like unbelievers. In this sense, God's kingdom is plainly visible because its citizens live in the world as living signposts, pointing to Christ Jesus by what they say and do.

Luke closely connects the Kingdom with the name of Jesus and His work (Ac 8:12; 28:31). The Old Testament prophecies of a messianic King find fulfillment in Jesus, the eternal King promised to David (2Sm 7:13–14; see p 1245). The pious longing of faithful Jews during the Time between the Testaments likewise looked forward to the coming of Jesus. During His ministry, Jesus confronts the rule of Satan and overcomes it, binding Satan and ransacking his "house" (Mt 12:29), drawing people to faith in Himself.

Only Jesus, crucified for the sins of the world and raised again for the justification of sinners, can create the Kingdom that leads to eternal life. Anchored in the cross of Christ (a past event) and actualized in the present through the proclamation of God's Word and the administration of His Sacraments, the kingdom of God also awaits its fulfillment in the visible return of Jesus Christ in glory.

As the messianic King, vested with complete divine authority, Christ Jesus commissions His followers to make disciples by baptizing and by teaching (Mt 28:18–20). He promises to be with His people always, even to the end of the present age, to accomplish this purpose.

Zion served in the Old Testament as a concrete picture for the reign of God; the Church stands in the New Testament as the people through whom outreach and activity take place. Jesus gives the Keys of the Kingdom (the power of forgiveness through the proclamation and application of the Gospel) to His Church (Mt 16:19; 18:18–20), empowering them for the assigned task of making disciples.

The reign of God continues to advance in the world through the work of the local congregation and the witness of every Christian. Wherever the Gospel is preached and the story of Jesus shared, the Holy Spirit works to expand the rule of grace through faith in God's Son.

Time Reckoning in the Bible

For the Israelites, reckoning time was more than a matter of business or convenience. Because a calendar would guide the celebration of religious festivals, reckoning time was a matter of devotion, which became hotly disputed during the Intertestamental Era (see “Qumran community,” p 1557). Below are different calendar systems that affected life for the people of Judea during the Intertestamental and New Testament eras.

Day Reckoning

In general, time reckoning was not so exact as in our modern era. Services for the morning and evening sacrifices were offered at the temple after dawn and before sunset. (On hours of prayer, cf Ps 55:17; 119:164; Ac 3:1; 10:9; 16:25.) The Sabbath began at sunset on Friday and continued 24 hrs until sunset on Saturday (see p 1764). Jews often regarded part of a day as if it were a full day (e.g., the "three days" Jesus was in the tomb, from Friday evening to Sunday morning). The nights were divided into watches, when guards patrolled city streets. Hours could be discerned from one another using water clocks and sundials (see note, Is 38:8). Roman-civil reckoning began from midnight.

THE NEW TESTAMENT

Behold, the days are coming, declares the LORD, when I will make a new covenant with the house of Israel and the house of Judah, … For I will forgive their iniquity, and I will remember their sin no more.

—The Prophet Jeremiah (cf Mt 26:26–28)

Many have undertaken to compile a narrative of the things that have been accomplished among us, just as those who from the beginning were eyewitnesses and ministers of the word have delivered them to us.

—St Luke

Count the patience of our Lord as salvation, just as our beloved brother Paul also wrote to you … in all his letters … which the ignorant and unstable twist to their own destruction, as they do the other Scriptures.

—St Peter

To me Jesus Christ is in the place of all that is ancient: His cross, and death, and resurrection, and the faith which is by Him, are undefiled monuments of antiquity; by which I desire, through your prayers, to be justified.

—Ignatius of Antioch, Epistle to the Philadelphians

[Jesus] called His disciples "scribes" [Mt 13:52] and "teachers of the kingdom of heaven"; … He means by those things … new and old, the two covenants; the old, that giving of the law which took place formerly; and He points out as the new, that manner of life required by the Gospel, of which David says, "Sing unto the LORD a new song."

—Irenaeus, Against Heresies

I shall adopt … the pattern of Luke the Evangelist … ; it seemed good to me also, having been urged thereto by true brethren, and having learned from the beginning, to set before you the books included in the Canon, and handed down, and accredited as Divine…. Thus far constitutes the Old Testament. Again it is not tedious to speak of the [books] of the New Testament…. These are fountains of salvation.

—Athanasius, Festal Easter Letter (AD 367)

MATTHEW, MARK, LUKE, AND JOHN

The Holy Gospel

In his prefaces to the new testament (1522, 1546, etc.), Luther wrote that there is only one Gospel, which is proclaimed throughout the Scriptures. He introduced the four Gospels as follows:

> The notion must be given up that there are four gospels and only four evangelists…. "Gospel" [Euangelium] is a Greek word and means in Greek a good message, good tidings, good news, a good report, which one sings and tells with gladness. For example, when David overcame the great Goliath, there came among the Jewish people the good report and encouraging news that their terrible enemy had been struck down and that they had been rescued and given joy and peace; and they sang and danced and were glad for it [1 Sam. 18:6].
> Thus this gospel of God or New Testament is a good story and report, sounded forth into all the world by the apostles, telling of a true David who strove with sin, death, and the devil, and overcame them, and thereby rescued all those who were captive in sin, afflicted with death, and overpowered by the devil. Without any merit of their own he made them righteous, gave them life, and saved them, so that they were given peace and brought back to God. For this they sing, and thank and praise God, and are glad forever, if only they believe firmly and remain steadfast in faith.
> This report and encouraging tidings, or evangelical and divine news, is also called a New Testament. For it is a testament when a dying man bequeaths his property, after his death, to his legally defined heirs. And Christ, before his death, commanded and ordained that his gospel be preached after his death in all the world [Luke 24:44–47]. Thereby he gave to all who believe, as their possession, everything that he had. This included: his life, in which he swallowed up death; his righteousness, by which he blotted out sin; and his salvation, with which he overcame everlasting damnation. A poor man, dead in sin and consigned to hell, can hear nothing more comforting than this precious and tender message about Christ; from the bottom of his heart he must laugh and be glad over it, if he believes it true.

Now to strengthen this faith, God has promised this gospel and testament in many ways, by the prophets in the Old Testament, as St. Paul says in Romans 1[:1], "I am set apart to preach the gospel of God which he promised beforehand through his prophets in the holy scriptures, concerning his Son, who was descended from David," etc…. [Editor's note: Luther cites Gn 3:15; 22:18; Gal 3:8, 16; Jn 11:26; 2Sm 7:12–14; Mi 5:2; and Hos 13:14 to make this point.]

The gospel, then, is nothing but the preaching about Christ, Son of God and of David, true God and man, who by his death and resurrection has overcome for us the sin, death, and hell of all men who believe in him. Thus the gospel can be either a brief or a lengthy message; one person can write of it briefly, another at length. He writes of it at length, who writes about many words and works of Christ, as do the four evangelists. He writes of it briefly, however, who does not tell of Christ's works, but indicates briefly how by his death and resurrection he has overcome sin, death, and hell for those who believe in him, as do St. Peter and St. Paul.

See to it, therefore, that you do not make a Moses out of Christ, or a book of laws and doctrines out of the gospel, as has been done heretofore and as certain prefaces put it, even those of St. Jerome. For the gospel does not expressly demand works of our own by which we become righteous and are saved; indeed it condemns such works.

Rather the gospel demands faith in Christ: that he has overcome for us sin, death, and hell, and thus gives us righteousness, life, and salvation not through our works, but through his own works, death, and suffering, in order that we may avail ourselves of his death and victory as though we had done it ourselves.

To be sure, Christ in the gospel, and St. Peter and St. Paul besides, do give many commandments and doctrines, and expound the law. But these are to be counted like all Christ's other works and good deeds. To know his works and the things that happened to him is not yet to know the true gospel, for you do not yet thereby know that he has overcome sin, death, and the devil. So, too, it is not yet knowledge of the gospel when you know these doctrines and commandments, but only when the voice comes that says, "Christ is your own, with his life, teaching, works, death, resurrection, and all that he is, has, does, and can do."

Thus we see also that he does not compel us but invites us kindly and says, "Blessed are the poor," etc. [Matt. 5:3]. And the apostles use the words, "I exhort," "I entreat," "I beg," so that one sees on every hand that the gospel is not a book of law, but really a preaching of the benefits of Christ, shown to us and given to us for our own possession, if we believe. But Moses, in his books, drives, compels, threatens, strikes, and rebukes terribly, for he is a lawgiver and driver.

Hence it comes that to a believer no law is given by which he becomes righteous before God, as St. Paul says in I Timothy 1[:9], because he is alive and righteous and saved by faith, and he needs nothing further except to prove his faith by works. Truly, if faith is there, he cannot hold back; he proves himself, breaks out into good works, confesses and teaches this gospel before the people, and stakes his life on it. Everything that he lives and does is directed to his neighbor's profit, in order to help him—not only to the attainment of this grace, but also in body, property, and honor. Seeing that Christ has done this for him, he thus follows Christ's example.

That is what Christ meant when at the last he gave no other commandment than love, by which men were to know who were his disciples [John 13:34–35] and true believers. For where works and love do not break forth, there faith is not right, the gospel does not yet take hold, and Christ is not rightly known. See, then, that you so > approach the books of the New Testament as to learn to read them in this way. (AE 35:357–61)

For more of Luther's insights on the Gospels, see A Brief Instruction on What to Look For and Expect in the Gospels (AE 35:113–24), A Meditation on Christ's Passion (AE 42:3–14), and Sermon at Coburg on Cross and Suffering (AE 51:197–208).

In describing the four Gospels, Luther emphasized the unity of all Scripture and the most basic distinction in its teaching: the Law and the Gospel. Although the Old Testment speaks more about God's Law and the New Testament speaks more about the Gospel, the testaments are united because they proclaim the two ways God works in people's lives according to their needs. (See note, Ex 34:6–7.)

What Is a Gospel?

For readers today, Matthew, Mark, Luke, and John may seem much like biographies. But take note that a Gospel is more than an account of a person's life and achievements. With the inspiration of the Holy Spirit, the evangelists wrote the Gospels to persuade their readers that Jesus is the Christ, God's Son, who came to save sinners (Mt 16:13–16; Mk 10:45; Lk 1:1–4; 24:45–49; Jn 20:30–31). They prepared their accounts with this goal in mind. Although they focused on what happened, they wanted to illustrate why Jesus was born, lived, died, and rose again, even while they told the story. The evangelists commonly cited passages from the Old Testament to demonstrate how Jesus fulfilled the prophecies about the coming Messiah (see pp 1245, 1646).

Differences in the order and style of the Gospels arose because the evangelists were writing to persuade different audiences (see below). For this reason, each Gospel has a different plot and climax that should be respected for its literary genius and treasured for its faith-filled testimony.

The Synoptic Problem

However, since the earliest days of the Church, students of Holy Scripture have also noted the similarity between the Gospels of Matthew, Mark, and Luke. They are often called the Synoptic Gospels because they provide a "common view" of Jesus' life and teaching. In some places, the wording is so similar it appears that the writers borrowed from one another, such as the story of Jesus' Passion.

Early critics saw the relationship between the Gospels as a weakness in the Holy Scripture and asserted that the Gospels did not agree with, and even contradicted, one another. As a result, some early Christians sought to unify the Gospels by blending them into one story (e.g., Tatian's Diatessaron, of which only fragments survive). Others rejected three of the Gospels and used only one (e.g., the heretical teacher Marcion used only Luke). Early Christian teachers rejected these approaches and instead emphasized that the entire Gospel has a fourfold character that must be preserved and respected throughout the four books.

> It is not possible that the Gospels can be either more or fewer in number than they are. For, since there are four zones of the world in which we live, and four principal winds, while the Church is scattered throughout all the world, and the "pillar and ground" of the Church is the Gospel and the spirit of life; it is fitting that she should have four pillars, breathing out immortality on every side, and vivifying men afresh. From which fact, it is evident that the Word, the Artificer of all, He that sits upon the cherubim, and contains all things, He who was manifested to men, has given us the Gospel under four aspects, but bound together by one Spirit. (Iren, ANF 1:428)

Early Christian scribes copied and distributed the Gospels together as one volume, and later interpreters developed systems for comparing the Gospels (e.g., Ammonius and Eusebius). In c AD 400, Augustine wrote The Harmony of the Gospels in an effort to answer questions about their unity. He sorted out many of the issues but, of course, not to the satisfaction of all readers. Various Gospel harmonies continued to be in use throughout the Middle Ages.

The relationship between the Gospels became an issue briefly during the Reformation, when Andreas Osiander introduced some unhelpful claims about how the Gospels were written, assuming they could be fully harmonized. Martin Chemnitz corrected these misunderstandings in his Harmony of the Four Evangelists (further developed by Polycarp Leyser and Johann Gerhard). Chemnitz pointed out that in purpose and in the chief points of history (e.g., Jesus' birth, John the Baptist's ministry, Jesus' Baptism, His ministry in Galilee, the feeding of the five thousand, and the events of the Passion and resurrection), the Gospels agree with one another. However, because the evangelists wished to emphasize different points for different audiences, they narrated the details of Jesus' ministry differently, arranging the material according to their purposes and not always with meticulous attention to chronology (e.g., an evangelist may write, "On the next day," which could mean something very general, such as "later"). The reader should piously consider and respect the work of each evangelist rather than try to merge the accounts. (See Martin Chemnitz, Die Harmonie derer heiligen vier Evangelisten [Magdeburg and Leipzig: Seidel und Scheidhauerschen Buchhandlung, 1794], 1:3.)

The Quest for the Historical Jesus

Critics continued to raise the issue of unity among the Gospels. In 1837, D. F. Strauss published The Life of Jesus, which has inspired nearly endless debate and speculation among liberal scholars about who Jesus really is and whether He can be known and understood through the Gospels.

Many nineteenth-century scholars believed they could search the Gospels to find a common source for them (called "Q" from the German word Quellen, "source"). They believed they could discover the real historical Jesus through these methods. However, these attempts have failed miserably. The more critics speculated about who Jesus was, the more they tended to describe Him as a figure of their own beliefs (e.g., philosophers saw Jesus as a philosopher, socialist revolutionaries saw Jesus as a revolutionary, etc.).

Ultimately, one must return to where the early Christians began: reading the Gospels as faithful and independent accounts of the life and teachings of Jesus. Though many differences between the Gospels can be explained—as Augustine and Chemnitz demonstrated—the relationship between them remains a mystery, which readers should approach as a matter of faith.

Early Christian Testimony Endures

The earliest description of who wrote the Gospels and how they were written was provided by the following Church Fathers: first-century figures Aristion and John the Presbyter; Clement of Rome (flourished c AD 96); and Papias (c AD 60–130), bishop of Hierapolis in Asia Minor. Despite all the efforts of modern critical approaches, the earliest testimonies of the Fathers remain the best means for understanding the history and writing of the Gospels. Eusebius recorded their testimony in his Church History :

> So greatly did the splendor of piety illumine the minds of Peter's hearers that they were not satisfied with hearing once only, and were not content with the unwritten teaching of the divine Gospel, but with all sorts of entreaties they besought Mark, a follower of Peter, and the one whose Gospel is extant, that he would leave them a written monument of the doctrine which had been orally communicated to them. Nor did they cease until they had prevailed with the man, and had thus become the occasion of the written Gospel which bears the name of Mark.
> And they say that Peter when he had learned, through a revelation of the Spirit, of that which had been done, was pleased with the zeal of the men, and that the work obtained the sanction of his authority for the purpose of being used in the churches. Clement in the eighth book of his Hypotyposes gives this account, and with him agrees the bishop of Hierapolis named Papias. And Peter makes mention of Mark in his first epistle which they say that he wrote in Rome itself, as is indicated by him, when he calls the city, by a figure, Babylon, as he does in the following words: "The church that is at Babylon, elected together with you, salutes you; and so does Marcus my son." (NPNF 2 1:116)
> Of all the disciples of the Lord, only Matthew and John have left us written memorials, and they, tradition says, were led to write only under the pressure of necessity. For Matthew, who had at first preached to the Hebrews, when he was about to go to other peoples, committed his Gospel to writing in his native tongue, and thus compensated those whom he was obliged to leave for the loss of his presence. And when Mark and Luke had already published their Gospels, they say that

John, who had employed all his time in proclaiming the Gospel orally, finally proceeded to write for the following reason. The three Gospels already mentioned having come into the hands of all and into his own too, they say that he accepted them and bore witness to their truthfulness; but that there was lacking in them an account of the deeds done by Christ at the beginning of his ministry. (NPNF 2 1:152–53)

As for Luke, in the beginning of his Gospel, he states himself the reasons which led him to write it. He states that since many others had more rashly undertaken to compose a narrative of the events of which he had acquired perfect knowledge, he himself, feeling the necessity of freeing us from their uncertain opinions, delivered in his own Gospel an accurate account of those events in regard to which he had learned the full truth, being aided by his intimacy and his stay with Paul and by his acquaintance with the rest of the apostles. (NPNF 2 1:153–54)

"This also the presbyter said: Mark, having become the interpreter of Peter, wrote down accurately, though not in order, whatsoever he remembered of the things said or done by Christ. For he neither heard the Lord nor followed him, but afterward, as I said, he followed Peter, who adapted his teaching to the needs of his hearers, but with no intention of giving a connected account of the Lord's discourses, so that Mark committed no error while he thus wrote some things as he remembered them. For he was careful of one thing, not to omit any of the things which he had heard, and not to state any of them falsely." These things are related by Papias concerning Mark. But concerning Matthew he writes as follows: "So then Matthew wrote the oracles in the Hebrew language, and every one interpreted them as he was able." (NPNF 2 1:172–73)

Cross-References in TLSB

The study notes in TLSB do not attempt to harmonize the Gospels but treat each one as a separate and valid account that presents the truthful testimony of an evangelist. However, to save space, some references in the study notes lead the reader to notes in another Gospel for common explanations of historical context, culture, and terms.

To discover parallel historical accounts in Jesus' life and teachings, take note of the center-column references. For example, at Mt 3:13, one finds in the center column, "For vv 13–17, see Mk 1:9–11; Lk 3:21–22; [Jn 1:32–34]," which give the parallel accounts of Jesus' Baptism. For each new section heading in the ESV text, you may wish to check for a parallel reference in the center column.

The Genealogy of Jesus Christ

1 [1] †††The book of the genealogy of Jesus Christ, the son of David, the son of Abraham.

[2]Abraham was the father of Isaac, and Isaac the father of Jacob, and Jacob the father of Judah and his brothers, [3]†and Judah the father of Perez and Zerah by Tamar, and Perez the father of Hezron, and Hezron the father of Ram,[1] [4]and Ram the father of Amminadab, and Amminadab the father of Nahshon, and Nahshon the father of Salmon, [5]†and Salmon the father of Boaz by Rahab, and Boaz the father of Obed by Ruth, and Obed the father of Jesse, [6]†and Jesse the father of David the king.

And David was the father of Solomon by the wife of Uriah, [7]and Solomon the father of Rehoboam, and Rehoboam the father of Abijah, and Abijah the father of Asaph,[2] [8]and Asaph the father of Jehoshaphat, and Jehoshaphat the father of Joram, and Joram the father of Uzziah, [9]and Uzziah the father of Jotham, and Jotham the father of Ahaz, and Ahaz the father of Hezekiah, [10]and Hezekiah the father of Manasseh, and Manasseh the father of Amos,[3] and Amos the father of Josiah, [11]†and Josiah the father of Jechoniah and his brothers, at the time of the deportation to Babylon.

[12]And after the deportation to Babylon: Jechoniah was the father of Shealtiel,[4] and Shealtiel the father of Zerubbabel, [13]and Zerubbabel the father of Abiud, and Abiud the father of Eliakim, and Eliakim the father of Azor, [14]and Azor the father of Zadok, and Zadok the father of Achim, and Achim the father of Eliud, [15]and Eliud the father of Eleazar, and Eleazar the father of Matthan, and Matthan the father of Jacob, [16]†and Jacob the father of Joseph the husband of Mary, of whom Jesus was born, who is called Christ.

[17] † So all the generations from Abraham to David were fourteen generations, and from David to the deportation to Babylon fourteen generations, and from the deportation to Babylon to the Christ fourteen generations.

The Birth of Jesus Christ

18 ‡ † Now the birth of Jesus Christ[5] took place in this way. When his mother Mary had been betrothed[6] to Joseph, before they came together she was found to be with child from the Holy Spirit. 19 † And her husband Joseph, being a just man and unwilling to put her to shame, resolved to divorce her quietly. 20 † But as he considered these things, behold, an angel of the Lord appeared to him in a dream, saying, “Joseph, son of David, do not fear to take Mary as your wife, for that which is conceived in her is from the Holy Spirit. 21 † She will bear a son, and you shall call his name Jesus, for he will save his people from their sins.” 22 † All this took place to fulfill what the Lord had spoken by the prophet:

> 23 † “Behold, the virgin shall conceive and bear a son, > and they shall call his name Immanuel”

(which means, God with us). 24 † When Joseph woke from sleep, he did as the angel of the Lord commanded him: he took his wife, 25 † but knew her not until she had given birth to a son. And he called his name Jesus.

The Visit of the Wise Men

2 [1]†† Now after Jesus was born in Bethlehem of Judea in the days of Herod the king, behold, wise men[1] from the east came to Jerusalem, [2]† saying, "Where is he who has been born king of the Jews? For we saw his star when it rose[2] and have come to worship him." [3]† When Herod the king heard this, he was troubled, and all Jerusalem with him; [4]† and assembling all the chief priests and scribes of the people, he inquired of them where the Christ was to be born. [5]† They told him, "In Bethlehem of Judea, for so it is written by the prophet:

[6]† "'And you, O Bethlehem, in the land of Judah, are by no means least among the rulers of Judah;
for from you shall come a ruler
who will shepherd my people Israel.'"

[7]† Then Herod summoned the wise men secretly and ascertained from them what time the star had appeared. [8]† And he sent them to Bethlehem, saying, "Go and search diligently for the child, and when you have found him, bring me word, that I too may come and worship him." [9]† After listening to the king, they went on their way. And behold, the star that they had seen when it rose went before them until it came to rest over the place where the child was. [10]† When they saw the star, they rejoiced exceedingly with great joy. [11]† And going into the house they saw the child with Mary his mother, and they fell down and worshiped him. Then, opening their treasures, they offered him gifts, gold and frankincense and myrrh. [12]† And being warned in a dream not to return to Herod, they departed to their own country by another way.

The Flight to Egypt

13 ††Now when they had departed, behold, an angel of the Lord appeared to Joseph in a dream and said, “Rise, take the child and his mother, and flee to Egypt, and remain there until I tell you, for Herod is about to search for the child, to destroy him.” 14 †And he rose and took the child and his mother by night and departed to Egypt 15 † and remained there until the death of Herod. This was to fulfill what the Lord had spoken by the prophet, “Out of Egypt I called my son.”

Herod Kills the Children

16 Then Herod, when he saw that he had been tricked by the wise men, became furious, and he sent and killed all the male children in Bethlehem and in all that region who were two years old or under, according to the time that he had ascertained from the wise men. 17 Then was fulfilled what was spoken by the prophet Jeremiah:

18 "A voice was heard in Ramah, weeping and loud lamentation,
Rachel weeping for her children;
she refused to be comforted, because they are no more."

The Return to Nazareth

19 † But when Herod died, behold, an angel of the Lord appeared in a dream to Joseph in Egypt, 20 † saying, “Rise, take the child and his mother and go to the land of Israel, for those who sought the child’s life are dead.” 21 And he rose and took the child and his mother and went to the land of Israel. 22 † But when he heard that Archelaus was reigning over Judea in place of his father Herod, he was afraid to go there, and being warned in a dream he withdrew to the district of Galilee. 23 † And he went and lived in a city called Nazareth, that what was spoken by the prophets might be fulfilled: “He shall be called a Nazarene.”

John the Baptist Prepares the Way

3 [1]‡†In those days John the Baptist came preaching in the wilderness of Judea, [2]†"Repent, for the kingdom of heaven is at hand." [3]†For this is he who was spoken of by the prophet Isaiah when he said,

> "The voice of one crying in the wilderness:
> 'Prepare[1] the way of the Lord;
> make his paths straight.'"

[4]†Now John wore a garment of camel's hair and a leather belt around his waist, and his food was locusts and wild honey. [5]†Then Jerusalem and all Judea and all the region about the Jordan were going out to him, [6]†and they were baptized by him in the river Jordan, confessing their sins.

[7]†But when he saw many of the Pharisees and Sadducees coming to his baptism, he said to them, "You brood of vipers! Who warned you to flee from the wrath to come? [8]†Bear fruit in keeping with repentance. [9]†And do not presume to say to yourselves, 'We have Abraham as our father,' for I tell you, God is able from these stones to raise up children for Abraham.
[10]†Even now the axe is laid to the root of the trees. Every tree therefore that does not bear good fruit is cut down and thrown into the fire.

[11]†"I baptize you with water for repentance, but he who is coming after me is mightier than I, whose sandals I am not worthy to carry. He will baptize you with the Holy Spirit and fire. [12]†His winnowing fork is in his hand, and he will clear his threshing floor and gather his wheat into the barn, but the chaff he will burn with unquenchable fire."

The Baptism of Jesus

13 ‡ † Then Jesus came from Galilee to the Jordan to John, to be baptized by him. 14 † John would have prevented him, saying, “I need to be baptized by you, and do you come to me?” 15 † But Jesus answered him, “Let it be so now, for thus it is fitting for us to fulfill all righteousness.” Then he consented. 16 ‡ † And when Jesus was baptized, immediately he went up from the water, and behold, the heavens were opened to him,[1] and he saw the Spirit of God descending like a dove and coming to rest on him; 17 † and behold, a voice from heaven said, “This is my beloved Son,[2] with whom I am well pleased.”

The Temptation of Jesus

4 [1]†† Then Jesus was led up by the Spirit into the wilderness to be tempted by the devil. [2]† And after fasting forty days and forty nights, he was hungry. [3]† And the tempter came and said to him, "If you are the Son of God, command these stones to become loaves of bread." [4]† But he answered, "It is written,

> "'Man shall not live by bread alone, > but by every word that comes from the > mouth of God.'"

[5]† Then the devil took him to the holy city and set him on the pinnacle of the temple [6]† and said to him, "If you are the Son of God, throw yourself down, for it is written,

> "'He will command his angels concerning you,'

and

> "'On their hands they will bear you up, > lest you strike your foot against a stone.'"

[7]† Jesus said to him, "Again it is written, 'You shall not put the Lord your God to the test.'" [8]† Again, the devil took him to a very high mountain and showed him all the kingdoms of the world and their glory. [9]† And he said to him, "All these I will give you, if you will fall down and worship me." [10]† Then Jesus said to him, "Be gone, Satan! For it is written,

> "'You shall worship the Lord your God > and him only shall you serve.'"

[11]† Then the devil left him, and behold, angels came and were ministering to him.

Jesus Begins His Ministry

12 ‡ † Now when he heard that John had been arrested, he withdrew into Galilee. 13 † And leaving Nazareth he went and lived in Capernaum by the sea, in the territory of Zebulun and Naphtali, 14 so that what was spoken by the prophet Isaiah might be fulfilled:

15 ‡ † “The land of Zebulun and the land of Naphtali, the way of the sea, beyond the Jordan,
Galilee of the Gentiles—16 the people dwelling in darkness have seen a great light, and for those dwelling in the region and shadow of death,
on them a light has dawned.”

17 † From that time Jesus began to preach, saying, “Repent, for the kingdom of heaven is at hand.”

Jesus Calls the First Disciples

18 † While walking by the Sea of Galilee, he saw two brothers, Simon (who is called Peter) and Andrew his brother, casting a net into the sea, for they were fishermen. 19 † And he said to them, “Follow me, and I will make you fishers of men.” 20 † Immediately they left their nets and followed him.
21 † And going on from there he saw two other brothers, James the son of Zebedee and John his brother, in the boat with Zebedee their father, mending their nets, and he called them. 22 Immediately they left the boat and their father and followed him.

Jesus Ministers to Great Crowds

[23] ‡† And he went throughout all Galilee, teaching in their synagogues and proclaiming the gospel of the kingdom and healing every disease and every affliction among the people. [24] † So his fame spread throughout all Syria, and they brought him all the sick, those afflicted with various diseases and pains, those oppressed by demons, epileptics, and paralytics, and he healed them. [25] † And great crowds followed him from Galilee and the Decapolis, and from Jerusalem and Judea, and from beyond the Jordan.

The Sermon on the Mount

5 [1]†Seeing the crowds, he went up on the mountain, and when he sat down, his disciples came to him.

The Beatitudes

[2]And he opened his mouth and taught them, saying:

[3]†† "Blessed are the poor in spirit, for theirs is the kingdom of heaven.

[4]† "Blessed are those who mourn, for they shall be comforted.

[5]† "Blessed are the meek, for they shall inherit the earth.

[6]† "Blessed are those who hunger and thirst for righteousness, for they shall be satisfied.

[7]† "Blessed are the merciful, for they shall receive mercy.

[8]† "Blessed are the pure in heart, for they shall see God.

[9]† "Blessed are the peacemakers, for they shall be called sons[1] of God.

[10]† "Blessed are those who are persecuted for righteousness' sake, for theirs is the kingdom of heaven.

[11]† "Blessed are you when others revile you and persecute you and utter all kinds of evil against you falsely on my account. [12]†Rejoice and be glad, for your reward is great in heaven, for so they persecuted the prophets who were before you.

Salt and Light

13 “You are the salt of the earth, but if salt has lost its taste, how shall its saltiness be restored? It is no longer good for anything except to be thrown out and trampled under people’s feet.
14 “You are the light of the world. A city set on a hill cannot be hidden.
15 Nor do people light a lamp and put it under a basket, but on a stand, and it gives light to all in the house. 16 In the same way, let your light shine before others, so that they may see your good works and give glory to your Father who is in heaven.

Christ Came to Fulfill the Law

17 ‡† “Do not think that I have come to abolish the Law or the Prophets; I have not come to abolish them but to fulfill them. 18 † For truly, I say to you, until heaven and earth pass away, not an iota, not a dot, will pass from the Law until all is accomplished. 19 † Therefore whoever relaxes one of the least of these commandments and teaches others to do the same will be called least in the kingdom of heaven, but whoever does them and teaches them will be called great in the kingdom of heaven. 20 † For I tell you, unless your righteousness exceeds that of the scribes and Pharisees, you will never enter the kingdom of heaven.

Anger

21 ✝✝ “You have heard that it was said to those of old, ‘You shall not murder; and whoever murders will be liable to judgment.’ 22 ✝But I say to you that everyone who is angry with his brother[1] will be liable to judgment; whoever insults[2] his brother will be liable to the council; and whoever says, ‘You fool!’ will be liable to the hell[3] of fire. 23 ✝So if you are offering your gift at the altar and there remember that your brother has something against you, 24 ✝leave your gift there before the altar and go. First be reconciled to your brother, and then come and offer your gift. 25 ✝Come to terms quickly with your accuser while you are going with him to court, lest your accuser hand you over to the judge, and the judge to the guard, and you be put in prison. 26 ✝Truly, I say to you, you will never get out until you have paid the last penny.[4]

Lust

27 † “You have heard that it was said, ‘You shall not commit adultery.’
28 †But I say to you that everyone who looks at a woman with lustful intent has already committed adultery with her in his heart. 29 †If your right eye causes you to sin, tear it out and throw it away. For it is better that you lose one of your members than that your whole body be thrown into hell. 30 And if your right hand causes you to sin, cut it off and throw it away. For it is better that you lose one of your members than that your whole body go into hell.

Divorce

31 ‡ † “It was also said, ‘Whoever divorces his wife, let him give her a certificate of divorce.’ 32 † But I say to you that everyone who divorces his wife, except on the ground of sexual immorality, makes her commit adultery, and whoever marries a divorced woman commits adultery.

Oaths

33 ††“Again you have heard that it was said to those of old, ‘You shall not swear falsely, but shall perform to the Lord what you have sworn.’ 34 ††But I say to you, Do not take an oath at all, either by heaven, for it is the throne of God, 35 or by the earth, for it is his footstool, or by Jerusalem, for it is the city of the great King. 36 †And do not take an oath by your head, for you cannot make one hair white or black. 37 †Let what you say be simply ‘Yes’ or ‘No’; anything more than this comes from evil.[1]

Retaliation

38 ‡‡“You have heard that it was said, ‘An eye for an eye and a tooth for a tooth.’ 39 †But I say to you, Do not resist the one who is evil. But if anyone slaps you on the right cheek, turn to him the other also. 40 †And if anyone would sue you and take your tunic,[2] let him have your cloak as well.
41 †And if anyone forces you to go one mile, go with him two miles. 42 †Give to the one who begs from you, and do not refuse the one who would borrow from you.

Love Your Enemies

43 ‡ ‡ “You have heard that it was said, ‘You shall love your neighbor and hate your enemy.’ 44 † But I say to you, Love your enemies and pray for those who persecute you, 45 † so that you may be sons of your Father who is in heaven. For he makes his sun rise on the evil and on the good, and sends rain on the just and on the unjust. 46 † For if you love those who love you, what reward do you have? Do not even the tax collectors do the same?
47 † And if you greet only your brothers,[1] what more are you doing than others? Do not even the Gentiles do the same? 48 † You therefore must be perfect, as your heavenly Father is perfect.

Giving to the Needy

6 [1]†† “Beware of practicing your righteousness before other people in order to be seen by them, for then you will have no reward from your Father who is in heaven.
[2]† “Thus, when you give to the needy, sound no trumpet before you, as the hypocrites do in the synagogues and in the streets, that they may be praised by others. Truly, I say to you, they have received their reward. [3]†But when you give to the needy, do not let your left hand know what your right hand is doing, [4]†so that your giving may be in secret. And your Father who sees in secret will reward you.

The Lord's Prayer

5 ‡ † "And when you pray, you must not be like the hypocrites. For they love to stand and pray in the synagogues and at the street corners, that they may be seen by others. Truly, I say to you, they have received their reward.
6 † But when you pray, go into your room and shut the door and pray to your Father who is in secret. And your Father who sees in secret will reward you.
7 † "And when you pray, do not heap up empty phrases as the Gentiles do, for they think that they will be heard for their many words. 8 † Do not be like them, for your Father knows what you need before you ask him. 9 ‡ † Pray then like this:

"Our Father in heaven,
hallowed be your name.[1] 10 † Your kingdom come, your will be done,[2]
on earth as it is in heaven.
11 ‡ † Give us this day our daily bread,[3] 12 † and forgive us our debts,
as we also have forgiven our debtors.
13 † And lead us not into temptation,
but deliver us from evil.[4]

14 ‡ For if you forgive others their trespasses, your heavenly Father will also forgive you, 15 † but if you do not forgive others their trespasses, neither will your Father forgive your trespasses.

Fasting

16 “And when you fast, do not look gloomy like the hypocrites, for they disfigure their faces that their fasting may be seen by others. Truly, I say to you, they have received their reward. 17 But when you fast, anoint your head and wash your face, 18 that your fasting may not be seen by others but by your Father who is in secret. And your Father who sees in secret will reward you.

Lay Up Treasures in Heaven

19 ‡ ‡ “Do not lay up for yourselves treasures on earth, where moth and rust[1] destroy and where thieves break in and steal, 20 † but lay up for yourselves treasures in heaven, where neither moth nor rust destroys and where thieves do not break in and steal. 21 †For where your treasure is, there your heart will be also.

22 † “The eye is the lamp of the body. So, if your eye is healthy, your whole body will be full of light, 23 †but if your eye is bad, your whole body will be full of darkness. If then the light in you is darkness, how great is the darkness!

24 † “No one can serve two masters, for either he will hate the one and love the other, or he will be devoted to the one and despise the other. You cannot serve God and money.[2]

Do Not Be Anxious

25 ‡ † “Therefore I tell you, do not be anxious about your life, what you will eat or what you will drink, nor about your body, what you will put on.
Is not life more than food, and the body more than clothing? 26 † Look at the birds of the air: they neither sow nor reap nor gather into barns, and yet your heavenly Father feeds them. Are you not of more value than they?
27 † And which of you by being anxious can add a single hour to his span of life?[3] 28 And why are you anxious about clothing? Consider the lilies of the field, how they grow: they neither toil nor spin, 29 † yet I tell you, even Solomon in all his glory was not arrayed like one of these. 30 † But if God so clothes the grass of the field, which today is alive and tomorrow is thrown into the oven, will he not much more clothe you, O you of little faith?
31 † Therefore do not be anxious, saying, ‘What shall we eat?’ or ‘What shall we drink?’ or ‘What shall we wear?’ 32 † For the Gentiles seek after all these things, and your heavenly Father knows that you need them all. 33 † But seek first the kingdom of God and his righteousness, and all these things will be added to you.

34 † “Therefore do not be anxious about tomorrow, for tomorrow will be anxious for itself. Sufficient for the day is its own trouble.

Judging Others

7 [1]†† “Judge not, that you be not judged. [2]† For with the judgment you pronounce you will be judged, and with the measure you use it will be measured to you. [3]† Why do you see the speck that is in your brother’s eye, but do not notice the log that is in your own eye? [4]† Or how can you say to your brother, ‘Let me take the speck out of your eye,’ when there is the log in your own eye? [5]† You hypocrite, first take the log out of your own eye, and then you will see clearly to take the speck out of your brother’s eye.
[6]† “Do not give dogs what is holy, and do not throw your pearls before pigs, lest they trample them underfoot and turn to attack you.

Ask, and It Will Be Given

7 ‡‡“Ask, and it will be given to you; seek, and you will find; knock, and it will be opened to you. 8For everyone who asks receives, and the one who seeks finds, and to the one who knocks it will be opened. 9‡Or which one of you, if his son asks him for bread, will give him a stone? 10Or if he asks for a fish, will give him a serpent? 11‡If you then, who are evil, know how to give good gifts to your children, how much more will your Father who is in heaven give good things to those who ask him!

The Golden Rule

12 “So whatever you wish that others would do to you, do also to them, for this is the Law and the Prophets.
13 “Enter by the narrow gate. For the gate is wide and the way is easy[1] that leads to destruction, and those who enter by it are many. 14 For the gate is narrow and the way is hard that leads to life, and those who find it are few.

A Tree and Its Fruit

15 ‡ ‡ “Beware of false prophets, who come to you in sheep’s clothing but inwardly are ravenous wolves. 16 † You will recognize them by their fruits.
Are grapes gathered from thornbushes, or figs from thistles? 17 † So, every healthy tree bears good fruit, but the diseased tree bears bad fruit. 18 A healthy tree cannot bear bad fruit, nor can a diseased tree bear good fruit.
19 † Every tree that does not bear good fruit is cut down and thrown into the fire. 20 † Thus you will recognize them by their fruits.

I Never Knew You

21 ††“Not everyone who says to me, ‘Lord, Lord,’ will enter the kingdom of heaven, but the one who does the will of my Father who is in heaven.
22 †On that day many will say to me, ‘Lord, Lord, did we not prophesy in your name, and cast out demons in your name, and do many mighty works in your name?’ 23 †And then will I declare to them, ‘I never knew you; depart from me, you workers of lawlessness.’

Build Your House on the Rock

24 “Everyone then who hears these words of mine and does them will be like a wise man who built his house on the rock. 25 And the rain fell, and the floods came, and the winds blew and beat on that house, but it did not fall, because it had been founded on the rock. 26 And everyone who hears these words of mine and does not do them will be like a foolish man who built his house on the sand. 27 And the rain fell, and the floods came, and the winds blew and beat against that house, and it fell, and great was the fall of it.”

The Authority of Jesus

28 And when Jesus finished these sayings, the crowds were astonished at his teaching, 29 for he was teaching them as one who had authority, and not as their scribes.

Jesus Cleanses a Leper

8 [1] ✝When he came down from the mountain, great crowds followed him. [2] ✝And behold, a leper[1] came to him and knelt before him, saying, “Lord, if you will, you can make me clean.” [3] ✝And Jesus[2] stretched out his hand and touched him, saying, “I will; be clean.” And immediately his leprosy was cleansed. [4] ✝And Jesus said to him, “See that you say nothing to anyone, but go, show yourself to the priest and offer the gift that Moses commanded, for a proof to them.”

The Faith of a Centurion

5 ‡ † When he entered Capernaum, a centurion came forward to him, appealing to him, 6“Lord, my servant is lying paralyzed at home, suffering terribly.” 7 † And he said to him, “I will come and heal him.” 8 † But the centurion replied, “Lord, I am not worthy to have you come under my roof, but only say the word, and my servant will be healed. 9 † For I too am a man under authority, with soldiers under me. And I say to one, ‘Go,’ and he goes, and to another, ‘Come,’ and he comes, and to my servant,[3] ‘Do this,’ and he does it.” 10 † When Jesus heard this, he marveled and said to those who followed him, “Truly, I tell you, with no one in Israel[4] have I found such faith. 11 † I tell you, many will come from east and west and recline at table with Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob in the kingdom of heaven, 12 † while the sons of the kingdom will be thrown into the outer darkness. In that place there will be weeping and gnashing of teeth.” 13 † And to the centurion Jesus said, “Go; let it be done for you as you have believed.” And the servant was healed at that very moment.

Jesus Heals Many

14 And when Jesus entered Peter's house, he saw his mother-in-law lying sick with a fever. 15 He touched her hand, and the fever left her, and she rose and began to serve him. 16 That evening they brought to him many who were oppressed by demons, and he cast out the spirits with a word and healed all who were sick. 17 This was to fulfill what was spoken by the prophet Isaiah: "He took our illnesses and bore our diseases."

The Cost of Following Jesus

18 ‡† Now when Jesus saw a crowd around him, he gave orders to go over to the other side. 19 † And a scribe came up and said to him, “Teacher, I will follow you wherever you go.” 20 † And Jesus said to him, “Foxes have holes, and birds of the air have nests, but the Son of Man has nowhere to lay his head.” 21 † Another of the disciples said to him, “Lord, let me first go and bury my father.” 22 † And Jesus said to him, “Follow me, and leave the dead to bury their own dead.”

Jesus Calms a Storm

[23] And when he got into the boat, his disciples followed him. [24] And behold, there arose a great storm on the sea, so that the boat was being swamped by the waves; but he was asleep. [25] And they went and woke him, saying, “Save us, Lord; we are perishing.” [26] And he said to them, “Why are you afraid, O you of little faith?” Then he rose and rebuked the winds and the sea, and there was a great calm. [27] And the men marveled, saying, “What sort of man is this, that even winds and sea obey him?”

Jesus Heals Two Men with Demons

28 ‡ † And when he came to the other side, to the country of the Gadarenes, [1] two demon-possessed[2] men met him, coming out of the tombs, so fierce that no one could pass that way. 29 † And behold, they cried out, “What have you to do with us, O Son of God? Have you come here to torment us before the time?” 30 † Now a herd of many pigs was feeding at some distance from them. 31 † And the demons begged him, saying, “If you cast us out, send us away into the herd of pigs.” 32 † And he said to them, “Go.” So they came out and went into the pigs, and behold, the whole herd rushed down the steep bank into the sea and drowned in the waters. 33 † The herdsmen fled, and going into the city they told everything, especially what had happened to the demon-possessed men. 34 † And behold, all the city came out to meet Jesus, and when they saw him, they begged him to leave their region.

Jesus Heals a Paralytic

9 [1]And getting into a boat he crossed over and came to his own city.
[2]And behold, some people brought to him a paralytic, lying on a bed. And when Jesus saw their faith, he said to the paralytic, "Take heart, my son; your sins are forgiven." [3]And behold, some of the scribes said to themselves, "This man is blaspheming." [4]But Jesus, knowing[1] their thoughts, said, "Why do you think evil in your hearts? [5]For which is easier, to say, 'Your sins are forgiven,' or to say, 'Rise and walk'? [6]But that you may know that the Son of Man has authority on earth to forgive sins"—he then said to the paralytic—"Rise, pick up your bed and go home." [7]And he rose and went home. [8]When the crowds saw it, they were afraid, and they glorified God, who had given such authority to men.

Jesus Calls Matthew

9 ††As Jesus passed on from there, he saw a man called Matthew sitting at the tax booth, and he said to him, “Follow me.” And he rose and followed him.

10 † And as Jesus[2] reclined at table in the house, behold, many tax collectors and sinners came and were reclining with Jesus and his disciples.
11 †And when the Pharisees saw this, they said to his disciples, “Why does your teacher eat with tax collectors and sinners?” 12 †But when he heard it, he said, “Those who are well have no need of a physician, but those who are sick. 13 † Go and learn what this means, ‘I desire mercy, and not sacrifice.’ For I came not to call the righteous, but sinners.”

A Question About Fasting

14 Then the disciples of John came to him, saying, “Why do we and the Pharisees fast,[3] but your disciples do not fast?” 15 And Jesus said to them, “Can the wedding guests mourn as long as the bridegroom is with them?
The days will come when the bridegroom is taken away from them, and then they will fast. 16 No one puts a piece of unshrunk cloth on an old garment, for the patch tears away from the garment, and a worse tear is made. 17 Neither is new wine put into old wineskins. If it is, the skins burst and the wine is spilled and the skins are destroyed. But new wine is put into fresh wineskins, and so both are preserved.”

A Girl Restored to Life and a Woman Healed

18 ‡ † While he was saying these things to them, behold, a ruler came in and knelt before him, saying, “My daughter has just died, but come and lay your hand on her, and she will live.” 19 And Jesus rose and followed him, with his disciples. 20 † And behold, a woman who had suffered from a discharge of blood for twelve years came up behind him and touched the fringe of his garment, 21 † for she said to herself, “If I only touch his garment, I will be made well.” 22 † Jesus turned, and seeing her he said, “Take heart, daughter; your faith has made you well.” And instantly[1] the woman was made well. 23 † And when Jesus came to the ruler’s house and saw the flute players and the crowd making a commotion, 24 † he said, “Go away, for the girl is not dead but sleeping.” And they laughed at him. 25 † But when the crowd had been put outside, he went in and took her by the hand, and the girl arose. 26 † And the report of this went through all that district.

Jesus Heals Two Blind Men

[27] ‡ † And as Jesus passed on from there, two blind men followed him, crying aloud, “Have mercy on us, Son of David.” [28] † When he entered the house, the blind men came to him, and Jesus said to them, “Do you believe that I am able to do this?” They said to him, “Yes, Lord.” [29] † Then he touched their eyes, saying, “According to your faith be it done to you.” [30] † And their eyes were opened. And Jesus sternly warned them, “See that no one knows about it.” [31] † But they went away and spread his fame through all that district.

Jesus Heals a Man Unable to Speak

32 ‡‡‡As they were going away, behold, a demon-oppressed man who was mute was brought to him. 33 ‡And when the demon had been cast out, the mute man spoke. And the crowds marveled, saying, “Never was anything like this seen in Israel.” 34 ‡But the Pharisees said, “He casts out demons by the prince of demons.”

The Harvest Is Plentiful, the Laborers Few

[35] ‡ † And Jesus went throughout all the cities and villages, teaching in their synagogues and proclaiming the gospel of the kingdom and healing every disease and every affliction. [36] † When he saw the crowds, he had compassion for them, because they were harassed and helpless, like sheep without a shepherd. [37] ‡ Then he said to his disciples, “The harvest is plentiful, but the laborers are few; [38]therefore pray earnestly to the Lord of the harvest to send out laborers into his harvest.”

The Twelve Apostles

10 [1] ‡ † And he called to him his twelve disciples and gave them authority over unclean spirits, to cast them out, and to heal every disease and every affliction. [2] ‡ † The names of the twelve apostles are these: first, Simon, who is called Peter, and Andrew his brother; James the son of Zebedee, and John his brother; [3] † Philip and Bartholomew; Thomas and Matthew the tax collector; James the son of Alphaeus, and Thaddaeus;[1] [4] † Simon the Cananaean, and Judas Iscariot, who betrayed him.

Jesus Sends Out the Twelve Apostles

5 ‡ † These twelve Jesus sent out, instructing them, “Go nowhere among the Gentiles and enter no town of the Samaritans, 6 † but go rather to the lost sheep of the house of Israel. 7 † And proclaim as you go, saying, ‘The kingdom of heaven is at hand.’ 8 † Heal the sick, raise the dead, cleanse lepers,[2] cast out demons. You received without paying; give without pay.
9 ‡ Acquire no gold nor silver nor copper for your belts, 10 no bag for your journey, nor two tunics[1] nor sandals nor a staff, for the laborer deserves his food. 11 † And whatever town or village you enter, find out who is worthy in it and stay there until you depart. 12 † As you enter the house, greet it. 13 † And if the house is worthy, let your peace come upon it, but if it is not worthy, let your peace return to you. 14 † And if anyone will not receive you or listen to your words, shake off the dust from your feet when you leave that house or town. 15 † Truly, I say to you, it will be more bearable on the day of judgment for the land of Sodom and Gomorrah than for that town.

Persecution Will Come

16 ✝✝“Behold, I am sending you out as sheep in the midst of wolves, so be wise as serpents and innocent as doves. 17 ✝Beware of men, for they will deliver you over to courts and flog you in their synagogues, 18 ✝and you will be dragged before governors and kings for my sake, to bear witness before them and the Gentiles. 19 ✝When they deliver you over, do not be anxious how you are to speak or what you are to say, for what you are to say will be given to you in that hour. 20 ✝For it is not you who speak, but the Spirit of your Father speaking through you. 21 ✝Brother will deliver brother over to death, and the father his child, and children will rise against parents and have them put to death, 22 and you will be hated by all for my name’s sake.
But the one who endures to the end will be saved. 23 ✝When they persecute you in one town, flee to the next, for truly, I say to you, you will not have gone through all the towns of Israel before the Son of Man comes.

24 ✝“A disciple is not above his teacher, nor a servant[2] above his master.
25 ✝It is enough for the disciple to be like his teacher, and the servant like his master. If they have called the master of the house Beelzebul, how much more will they malign[3] those of his household.

Have No Fear

26 ‡ † “So have no fear of them, for nothing is covered that will not be revealed, or hidden that will not be known. 27 † What I tell you in the dark, say in the light, and what you hear whispered, proclaim on the housetops.
28 † And do not fear those who kill the body but cannot kill the soul. Rather fear him who can destroy both soul and body in hell.[1] 29 † Are not two sparrows sold for a penny?[2] And not one of them will fall to the ground apart from your Father. 30 † But even the hairs of your head are all numbered.
31 † Fear not, therefore; you are of more value than many sparrows. 32 † So everyone who acknowledges me before men, I also will acknowledge before my Father who is in heaven, 33 † but whoever denies me before men, I also will deny before my Father who is in heaven.

Not Peace, but a Sword

34 ††“Do not think that I have come to bring peace to the earth. I have not come to bring peace, but a sword. 35 For I have come to set a man against his father, and a daughter against her mother, and a daughter-in-law against her mother-in-law. 36 † And a person’s enemies will be those of his own household. 37 †Whoever loves father or mother more than me is not worthy of me, and whoever loves son or daughter more than me is not worthy of me. 38 †And whoever does not take his cross and follow me is not worthy of me. 39 †Whoever finds his life will lose it, and whoever loses his life for my sake will find it.

Rewards

40 “Whoever receives you receives me, and whoever receives me receives him who sent me. 41 The one who receives a prophet because he is a prophet will receive a prophet’s reward, and the one who receives a righteous person because he is a righteous person will receive a righteous person’s reward. 42 And whoever gives one of these little ones even a cup of cold water because he is a disciple, truly, I say to you, he will by no means lose his reward.”

Messengers from John the Baptist

11 [1]When Jesus had finished instructing his twelve disciples, he went on from there to teach and preach in their cities.
[2]Now when John heard in prison about the deeds of the Christ, he sent word by his disciples [3]and said to him, “Are you the one who is to come, or shall we look for another?” [4]And Jesus answered them, “Go and tell John what you hear and see: [5]the blind receive their sight and the lame walk, lepers[1] are cleansed and the deaf hear, and the dead are raised up, and the poor have good news preached to them. [6]And blessed is the one who is not offended by me.”
[7]As they went away, Jesus began to speak to the crowds concerning John: “What did you go out into the wilderness to see? A reed shaken by the wind? [8]What then did you go out to see? A man[2] dressed in soft clothing?
Behold, those who wear soft clothing are in kings’ houses. [9]What then did you go out to see? A prophet?[3] Yes, I tell you, and more than a prophet.
[10]This is he of whom it is written,

> “‘Behold, I send my messenger before your > face,
> who will prepare your way before you.’

[11]Truly, I say to you, among those born of women there has arisen no one greater than John the Baptist. Yet the one who is least in the kingdom of heaven is greater than he. [12]From the days of John the Baptist until now the kingdom of heaven has suffered violence,[4] and the violent take it by force. [13]For all the Prophets and the Law prophesied until John, [14]and if you are willing to accept it, he is Elijah who is to come. [15]He who has ears to hear,[5] let him hear.
[16]“But to what shall I compare this generation? It is like children sitting in the marketplaces and calling to their playmates,

17 † “‘We played the flute for you, and you did not dance;
we sang a dirge, and you did not mourn.’

18 † For John came neither eating nor drinking, and they say, ‘He has a demon.’ 19 † The Son of Man came eating and drinking, and they say, ‘Look at him! A glutton and a drunkard, a friend of tax collectors and sinners!’ Yet wisdom is justified by her deeds.”[6]

Woe to Unrepentant Cities

[20] Then he began to denounce the cities where most of his mighty works had been done, because they did not repent. [21] “Woe to you, Chorazin! Woe to you, Bethsaida! For if the mighty works done in you had been done in Tyre and Sidon, they would have repented long ago in sackcloth and ashes. [22] But I tell you, it will be more bearable on the day of judgment for Tyre and Sidon than for you. [23] And you, Capernaum, will you be exalted to heaven? You will be brought down to Hades. For if the mighty works done in you had been done in Sodom, it would have remained until this day. [24] But I tell you that it will be more tolerable on the day of judgment for the land of Sodom than for you.”

Come to Me, and I Will Give You Rest

25 ††At that time Jesus declared, “I thank you, Father, Lord of heaven and earth, that you have hidden these things from the wise and understanding and revealed them to little children; 26 † yes, Father, for such was your gracious will.[1] 27 †All things have been handed over to me by my Father, and no one knows the Son except the Father, and no one knows the Father except the Son and anyone to whom the Son chooses to reveal him.
28 †Come to me, all who labor and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest.
29 †Take my yoke upon you, and learn from me, for I am gentle and lowly in heart, and you will find rest for your souls. 30 †For my yoke is easy, and my burden is light.”

Jesus Is Lord of the Sabbath

12 [1]At that time Jesus went through the grainfields on the Sabbath. His disciples were hungry, and they began to pluck heads of grain and to eat. [2]But when the Pharisees saw it, they said to him, “Look, your disciples are doing what is not lawful to do on the Sabbath.” [3]He said to them, “Have you not read what David did when he was hungry, and those who were with him: [4]how he entered the house of God and ate the bread of the Presence, which it was not lawful for him to eat nor for those who were with him, but only for the priests? [5]Or have you not read in the Law how on the Sabbath the priests in the temple profane the Sabbath and are guiltless? [6]I tell you, something greater than the temple is here. [7]And if you had known what this means, ‘I desire mercy, and not sacrifice,’ you would not have condemned the guiltless. [8]For the Son of Man is lord of the Sabbath.”

A Man with a Withered Hand

9 ‡ † He went on from there and entered their synagogue. 10 † And a man was there with a withered hand. And they asked him, “Is it lawful to heal on the Sabbath?”—so that they might accuse him. 11 † He said to them, “Which one of you who has a sheep, if it falls into a pit on the Sabbath, will not take hold of it and lift it out? 12 † Of how much more value is a man than a sheep!
So it is lawful to do good on the Sabbath.” 13 Then he said to the man, “Stretch out your hand.” And the man stretched it out, and it was restored, healthy like the other. 14 † But the Pharisees went out and conspired against him, how to destroy him.

God’s Chosen Servant

15 ✝✝Jesus, aware of this, withdrew from there. And many followed him, and he healed them all 16 ✝and ordered them not to make him known. 17 ✝This was to fulfill what was spoken by the prophet Isaiah:

18 ✝✝ “Behold, my servant whom I have chosen, my beloved with whom my soul is well pleased.
I will put my Spirit upon him,
and he will proclaim justice to the Gentiles.
19 ✝ He will not quarrel or cry aloud,
nor will anyone hear his voice in the streets;
20 a bruised reed he will not break,
and a smoldering wick he will not quench,
until he brings justice to victory;
21 and in his name the Gentiles will hope.”

Blasphemy Against the Holy Spirit

22 ‡† Then a demon-oppressed man who was blind and mute was brought to him, and he healed him, so that the man spoke and saw. 23 † And all the people were amazed, and said, “Can this be the Son of David?” 24 † But when the Pharisees heard it, they said, “It is only by Beelzebul, the prince of demons, that this man casts out demons.” 25 ‡† Knowing their thoughts, he said to them, “Every kingdom divided against itself is laid waste, and no city or house divided against itself will stand. 26 And if Satan casts out Satan, he is divided against himself. How then will his kingdom stand? 27 † And if I cast out demons by Beelzebul, by whom do your sons cast them out?
Therefore they will be your judges. 28 † But if it is by the Spirit of God that I cast out demons, then the kingdom of God has come upon you. 29 † Or how can someone enter a strong man’s house and plunder his goods, unless he first binds the strong man? Then indeed he may plunder his house.
30 † Whoever is not with me is against me, and whoever does not gather with me scatters. 31 † Therefore I tell you, every sin and blasphemy will be forgiven people, but the blasphemy against the Spirit will not be forgiven.
32 † And whoever speaks a word against the Son of Man will be forgiven, but whoever speaks against the Holy Spirit will not be forgiven, either in this age or in the age to come.

A Tree Is Known by Its Fruit

33 ‡ ‡ “Either make the tree good and its fruit good, or make the tree bad and its fruit bad, for the tree is known by its fruit. 34 ‡ You brood of vipers!
How can you speak good, when you are evil? For out of the abundance of the heart the mouth speaks. 35 ‡ The good person out of his good treasure brings forth good, and the evil person out of his evil treasure brings forth evil. 36 ‡ I tell you, on the day of judgment people will give account for every careless word they speak, 37 ‡ for by your words you will be justified, and by your words you will be condemned.”

The Sign of Jonah

38 ‡ † Then some of the scribes and Pharisees answered him, saying, “Teacher, we wish to see a sign from you.” 39 †But he answered them, “An evil and adulterous generation seeks for a sign, but no sign will be given to it except the sign of the prophet Jonah. 40 †For just as Jonah was three days and three nights in the belly of the great fish, so will the Son of Man be three days and three nights in the heart of the earth. 41 †The men of Nineveh will rise up at the judgment with this generation and condemn it, for they repented at the preaching of Jonah, and behold, something greater than Jonah is here. 42 †The queen of the South will rise up at the judgment with this generation and condemn it, for she came from the ends of the earth to hear the wisdom of Solomon, and behold, something greater than Solomon is here.

Return of an Unclean Spirit

43 “When the unclean spirit has gone out of a person, it passes through waterless places seeking rest, but finds none. 44 Then it says, ‘I will return to my house from which I came.’ And when it comes, it finds the house empty, swept, and put in order. 45 Then it goes and brings with it seven other spirits more evil than itself, and they enter and dwell there, and the last state of that person is worse than the first. So also will it be with this evil generation.”

Jesus’ Mother and Brothers

46 ✝✝While he was still speaking to the people, behold, his mother and his brothers stood outside, asking to speak to him.[1] 48 But he replied to the man who told him, “Who is my mother, and who are my brothers?” 49 ✝And stretching out his hand toward his disciples, he said, “Here are my mother and my brothers! 50 ✝For whoever does the will of my Father in heaven is my brother and sister and mother.”

The Parable of the Sower

13 [1]That same day Jesus went out of the house and sat beside the sea. [2]And great crowds gathered about him, so that he got into a boat and sat down. And the whole crowd stood on the beach. [3]And he told them many things in parables, saying: “A sower went out to sow. [4]And as he sowed, some seeds fell along the path, and the birds came and devoured them. [5]Other seeds fell on rocky ground, where they did not have much soil, and immediately they sprang up, since they had no depth of soil, [6]but when the sun rose they were scorched. And since they had no root, they withered away. [7]Other seeds fell among thorns, and the thorns grew up and choked them. [8]Other seeds fell on good soil and produced grain, some a hundredfold, some sixty, some thirty. [9]He who has ears,[1] let him hear.”

The Purpose of the Parables

10 Then the disciples came and said to him, “Why do you speak to them in parables?” 11 And he answered them, “To you it has been given to know the secrets of the kingdom of heaven, but to them it has not been given.
12 For to the one who has, more will be given, and he will have an abundance, but from the one who has not, even what he has will be taken away. 13 This is why I speak to them in parables, because seeing they do not see, and hearing they do not hear, nor do they understand. 14 Indeed, in their case the prophecy of Isaiah is fulfilled that says:

> “‘You will indeed hear but never understand,
> and you will indeed see but never perceive.
> 15 For this people’s heart has grown dull,
> and with their ears they can barely hear,
> and their eyes they have closed, > lest they should see with their eyes > and hear with their ears > and understand with their heart > and turn, and I would heal them.’

16 But blessed are your eyes, for they see, and your ears, for they hear.
17 For truly, I say to you, many prophets and righteous people longed to see what you see, and did not see it, and to hear what you hear, and did not hear it.

The Parable of the Sower Explained

18 ‡ ‡ “Hear then the parable of the sower: 19 † When anyone hears the word of the kingdom and does not understand it, the evil one comes and snatches away what has been sown in his heart. This is what was sown along the path. 20 As for what was sown on rocky ground, this is the one who hears the word and immediately receives it with joy, 21 † yet he has no root in himself, but endures for a while, and when tribulation or persecution arises on account of the word, immediately he falls away.[1] 22 † As for what was sown among thorns, this is the one who hears the word, but the cares of the world and the deceitfulness of riches choke the word, and it proves unfruitful.
23 † As for what was sown on good soil, this is the one who hears the word and understands it. He indeed bears fruit and yields, in one case a hundredfold, in another sixty, and in another thirty.”

The Parable of the Weeds

24 ††He put another parable before them, saying, “The kingdom of heaven may be compared to a man who sowed good seed in his field, 25 †but while his men were sleeping, his enemy came and sowed weeds[2] among the wheat and went away. 26So when the plants came up and bore grain, then the weeds appeared also. 27And the servants[3] of the master of the house came and said to him, ‘Master, did you not sow good seed in your field?
How then does it have weeds?’ 28 †He said to them, ‘An enemy has done this.’ So the servants said to him, ‘Then do you want us to go and gather them?’ 29But he said, ‘No, lest in gathering the weeds you root up the wheat along with them. 30 †Let both grow together until the harvest, and at harvest time I will tell the reapers, Gather the weeds first and bind them in bundles to be burned, but gather the wheat into my barn.’”

The Mustard Seed and the Leaven

31 He put another parable before them, saying, “The kingdom of heaven is like a grain of mustard seed that a man took and sowed in his field. 32 It is the smallest of all seeds, but when it has grown it is larger than all the garden plants and becomes a tree, so that the birds of the air come and make nests in its branches.”
33 He told them another parable. “The kingdom of heaven is like leaven that a woman took and hid in three measures of flour, till it was all leavened.”

Prophecy and Parables

34 All these things Jesus said to the crowds in parables; indeed, he said nothing to them without a parable. 35 This was to fulfill what was spoken by the prophet:[1]

> “I will open my mouth in parables;
> I will utter what has been hidden since the > foundation of the world.”

The Parable of the Weeds Explained

36 ‡ † Then he left the crowds and went into the house. And his disciples came to him, saying, “Explain to us the parable of the weeds of the field.” 37 He answered, “The one who sows the good seed is the Son of Man. 38 †The field is the world, and the good seed is the sons of the kingdom. The weeds are the sons of the evil one, 39 and the enemy who sowed them is the devil.
The harvest is the close of the age, and the reapers are angels. 40 †Just as the weeds are gathered and burned with fire, so will it be at the close of the age.
41 †The Son of Man will send his angels, and they will gather out of his kingdom all causes of sin and all law-breakers, 42 †and throw them into the fiery furnace. In that place there will be weeping and gnashing of teeth.
43 †Then the righteous will shine like the sun in the kingdom of their Father.
He who has ears, let him hear.

The Parable of the Hidden Treasure

44 “The kingdom of heaven is like treasure hidden in a field, which a man found and covered up. Then in his joy he goes and sells all that he has and buys that field.

The Parable of the Pearl of Great Value

45 “Again, the kingdom of heaven is like a merchant in search of fine pearls, 46 who, on finding one pearl of great value, went and sold all that he had and bought it.

The Parable of the Net

47 “Again, the kingdom of heaven is like a net that was thrown into the sea and gathered fish of every kind. 48 When it was full, men drew it ashore and sat down and sorted the good into containers but threw away the bad.
49 So it will be at the close of the age. The angels will come out and separate the evil from the righteous 50 and throw them into the fiery furnace.
In that place there will be weeping and gnashing of teeth.

New and Old Treasures

51 ‡† “Have you understood all these things?” They said to him, “Yes.”
52 † And he said to them, “Therefore every scribe who has been trained for the kingdom of heaven is like a master of a house, who brings out of his treasure what is new and what is old.”

Jesus Rejected at Nazareth

53 ‡ † And when Jesus had finished these parables, he went away from there, 54 † and coming to his hometown he taught them in their synagogue, so that they were astonished, and said, “Where did this man get this wisdom and these mighty works? 55 † Is not this the carpenter’s son? Is not his mother called Mary? And are not his brothers James and Joseph and Simon and Judas? 56 † And are not all his sisters with us? Where then did this man get all these things?” 57 † And they took offense at him. But Jesus said to them, “A prophet is not without honor except in his hometown and in his own household.” 58 † And he did not do many mighty works there, because of their unbelief.

The Death of John the Baptist

14 [1]‡‡‡At that time Herod the tetrarch heard about the fame of Jesus, [2]†and he said to his servants, “This is John the Baptist. He has been raised from the dead; that is why these miraculous powers are at work in him.” [3]†For Herod had seized John and bound him and put him in prison for the sake of Herodias, his brother Philip’s wife,[1] [4]† because John had been saying to him, “It is not lawful for you to have her.” [5]And though he wanted to put him to death, he feared the people, because they held him to be a prophet. [6]† But when Herod’s birthday came, the daughter of Herodias danced before the company and pleased Herod, [7]†so that he promised with an oath to give her whatever she might ask. [8]†Prompted by her mother, she said, “Give me the head of John the Baptist here on a platter.” [9]And the king was sorry, but because of his oaths and his guests he commanded it to be given. [10]He sent and had John beheaded in the prison, [11]and his head was brought on a platter and given to the girl, and she brought it to her mother.
[12]†And his disciples came and took the body and buried it, and they went and told Jesus.

Jesus Feeds the Five Thousand

13 ‡ ‡ ‡ Now when Jesus heard this, he withdrew from there in a boat to a desolate place by himself. But when the crowds heard it, they followed him on foot from the towns. 14 † When he went ashore he saw a great crowd, and he had compassion on them and healed their sick. 15 † Now when it was evening, the disciples came to him and said, “This is a desolate place, and the day is now over; send the crowds away to go into the villages and buy food for themselves.” 16 † But Jesus said, “They need not go away; you give them something to eat.” 17 † They said to him, “We have only five loaves here and two fish.” 18 And he said, “Bring them here to me.” 19 † Then he ordered the crowds to sit down on the grass, and taking the five loaves and the two fish, he looked up to heaven and said a blessing. Then he broke the loaves and gave them to the disciples, and the disciples gave them to the crowds. 20 † And they all ate and were satisfied. And they took up twelve baskets full of the broken pieces left over. 21 † And those who ate were about five thousand men, besides women and children.

Jesus Walks on the Water

22 ‡ † Immediately he made the disciples get into the boat and go before him to the other side, while he dismissed the crowds. 23 † And after he had dismissed the crowds, he went up on the mountain by himself to pray.
When evening came, he was there alone, 24 † but the boat by this time was a long way[1] from the land,[2] beaten by the waves, for the wind was against them. 25 † And in the fourth watch of the night he came to them, walking on the sea. 26 † But when the disciples saw him walking on the sea, they were terrified, and said, "It is a ghost!" and they cried out in fear. 27 † But immediately Jesus spoke to them, saying, "Take heart; it is I. Do not be afraid."

28 † And Peter answered him, "Lord, if it is you, command me to come to you on the water." 29 He said, "Come." So Peter got out of the boat and walked on the water and came to Jesus. 30 † But when he saw the wind,[3] he was afraid, and beginning to sink he cried out, "Lord, save me." 31 † Jesus immediately reached out his hand and took hold of him, saying to him, "O you of little faith, why did you doubt?" 32 † And when they got into the boat, the wind ceased. 33 † And those in the boat worshiped him, saying, "Truly you are the Son of God."

Jesus Heals the Sick in Gennesaret

[34] ‡ † And when they had crossed over, they came to land at Gennesaret.
[35] † And when the men of that place recognized him, they sent around to all that region and brought to him all who were sick [36] † and implored him that they might only touch the fringe of his garment. And as many as touched it were made well.

Traditions and Commandments

15 [1]†† Then Pharisees and scribes came to Jesus from Jerusalem and said, [2]† "Why do your disciples break the tradition of the elders? For they do not wash their hands when they eat." [3]† He answered them, "And why do you break the commandment of God for the sake of your tradition? [4]† For God commanded, 'Honor your father and your mother,' and, 'Whoever reviles father or mother must surely die.' [5]† But you say, 'If anyone tells his father or his mother, "What you would have gained from me is given to God,"[1] [6]† he need not honor his father.' So for the sake of your tradition you have made void the word[2] of God. [7]† You hypocrites! Well did Isaiah prophesy of you, when he said:

[8]† "'This people honors me with their lips,
but their heart is far from me;
[9] in vain do they worship me, teaching as doctrines the commandments of men.'"

What Defiles a Person

10 And he called the people to him and said to them, “Hear and understand: 11 it is not what goes into the mouth that defiles a person, but what comes out of the mouth; this defiles a person.” 12 Then the disciples came and said to him, “Do you know that the Pharisees were offended when they heard this saying?” 13 He answered, “Every plant that my heavenly Father has not planted will be rooted up. 14 Let them alone; they are blind guides.[1] And if the blind lead the blind, both will fall into a pit.” 15 But Peter said to him, “Explain the parable to us.” 16 And he said, “Are you also still without understanding? 17 Do you not see that whatever goes into the mouth passes into the stomach and is expelled?[2] 18 But what comes out of the mouth proceeds from the heart, and this defiles a person. 19 For out of the heart come evil thoughts, murder, adultery, sexual immorality, theft, false witness, slander. 20 These are what defile a person. But to eat with unwashed hands does not defile anyone.”

The Faith of a Canaanite Woman

21 ‡†And Jesus went away from there and withdrew to the district of Tyre and Sidon. 22 †And behold, a Canaanite woman from that region came out and was crying, “Have mercy on me, O Lord, Son of David; my daughter is severely oppressed by a demon.” 23 †But he did not answer her a word. And his disciples came and begged him, saying, “Send her away, for she is crying out after us.” 24 †He answered, “I was sent only to the lost sheep of the house of Israel.” 25 †But she came and knelt before him, saying, “Lord, help me.” 26 †And he answered, “It is not right to take the children’s bread and throw it to the dogs.” 27 †She said, “Yes, Lord, yet even the dogs eat the crumbs that fall from their masters’ table.” 28 †Then Jesus answered her, “O woman, great is your faith! Be it done for you as you desire.” And her daughter was healed instantly.[3]

Jesus Heals Many

[29] †† Jesus went on from there and walked beside the Sea of Galilee. And he went up on the mountain and sat down there. [30] † And great crowds came to him, bringing with them the lame, the blind, the crippled, the mute, and many others, and they put them at his feet, and he healed them, [31] † so that the crowd wondered, when they saw the mute speaking, the crippled healthy, the lame walking, and the blind seeing. And they glorified the God of Israel.

Jesus Feeds the Four Thousand

[32]†† Then Jesus called his disciples to him and said, “I have compassion on the crowd because they have been with me now three days and have nothing to eat. And I am unwilling to send them away hungry, lest they faint on the way.” [33]† And the disciples said to him, “Where are we to get enough bread in such a desolate place to feed so great a crowd?” [34]† And Jesus said to them, “How many loaves do you have?” They said, “Seven, and a few small fish.” [35]And directing the crowd to sit down on the ground, [36]† he took the seven loaves and the fish, and having given thanks he broke them and gave them to the disciples, and the disciples gave them to the crowds.
[37]† And they all ate and were satisfied. And they took up seven baskets full of the broken pieces left over. [38]† Those who ate were four thousand men, besides women and children. [39]† And after sending away the crowds, he got into the boat and went to the region of Magadan.

The Pharisees and Sadducees Demand Signs

16 [1]And the Pharisees and Sadducees came, and to test him they asked him to show them a sign from heaven. [2]He answered them,[1] "When it is evening, you say, 'It will be fair weather, for the sky is red.' [3]And in the morning, 'It will be stormy today, for the sky is red and threatening.' You know how to interpret the appearance of the sky, but you cannot interpret the signs of the times. [4]An evil and adulterous generation seeks for a sign, but no sign will be given to it except the sign of Jonah." So he left them and departed.

The Leaven of the Pharisees and Sadducees

5 When the disciples reached the other side, they had forgotten to bring any bread. 6 Jesus said to them, “Watch and beware of the leaven of the Pharisees and Sadducees.” 7 And they began discussing it among themselves, saying, “We brought no bread.” 8 But Jesus, aware of this, said, “O you of little faith, why are you discussing among yourselves the fact that you have no bread? 9 Do you not yet perceive? Do you not remember the five loaves for the five thousand, and how many baskets you gathered? 10 Or the seven loaves for the four thousand, and how many baskets you gathered? 11 How is it that you fail to understand that I did not speak about bread? Beware of the leaven of the Pharisees and Sadducees.” 12 Then they understood that he did not tell them to beware of the leaven of bread, but of the teaching of the Pharisees and Sadducees.

Peter Confesses Jesus as the Christ

13 ‡†Now when Jesus came into the district of Caesarea Philippi, he asked his disciples, “Who do people say that the Son of Man is?” 14 †And they said, “Some say John the Baptist, others say Elijah, and others Jeremiah or one of the prophets.” 15 †He said to them, “But who do you say that I am?”
16 †Simon Peter replied, “You are the Christ, the Son of the living God.”
17 †And Jesus answered him, “Blessed are you, Simon Bar-Jonah! For flesh and blood has not revealed this to you, but my Father who is in heaven.
18 †And I tell you, you are Peter, and on this rock[1] I will build my church, and the gates of hell[2] shall not prevail against it. 19 †I will give you the keys of the kingdom of heaven, and whatever you bind on earth shall be bound in heaven, and whatever you loose on earth shall be loosed[3] in heaven.” 20 †Then he strictly charged the disciples to tell no one that he was the Christ.

Jesus Foretells His Death and Resurrection

21 ‡ † From that time Jesus began to show his disciples that he must go to Jerusalem and suffer many things from the elders and chief priests and scribes, and be killed, and on the third day be raised. 22 † And Peter took him aside and began to rebuke him, saying, “Far be it from you, Lord![1] This shall never happen to you.” 23 † But he turned and said to Peter, “Get behind me, Satan! You are a hindrance[2] to me. For you are not setting your mind on the things of God, but on the things of man.”

Take Up Your Cross and Follow Jesus

[24] Then Jesus told his disciples, “If anyone would come after me, let him deny himself and take up his cross and follow me. [25] For whoever would save his life[3] will lose it, but whoever loses his life for my sake will find it. [26] For what will it profit a man if he gains the whole world and forfeits his soul? Or what shall a man give in return for his soul? [27] For the Son of Man is going to come with his angels in the glory of his Father, and then he will repay each person according to what he has done. [28] Truly, I say to you, there are some standing here who will not taste death until they see the Son of Man coming in his kingdom.”

The Transfiguration

17 [1]‡†And after six days Jesus took with him Peter and James, and John his brother, and led them up a high mountain by themselves. [2]†And he was transfigured before them, and his face shone like the sun, and his clothes became white as light. [3]†And behold, there appeared to them Moses and Elijah, talking with him. [4]†And Peter said to Jesus, “Lord, it is good that we are here. If you wish, I will make three tents here, one for you and one for Moses and one for Elijah.” [5]†He was still speaking when, behold, a bright cloud overshadowed them, and a voice from the cloud said, “This is my beloved Son,[1] with whom I am well pleased; listen to him.” [6]†When the disciples heard this, they fell on their faces and were terrified. [7]†But Jesus came and touched them, saying, “Rise, and have no fear.” [8]† And when they lifted up their eyes, they saw no one but Jesus only.

[9]†And as they were coming down the mountain, Jesus commanded them, “Tell no one the vision, until the Son of Man is raised from the dead.” [10]† And the disciples asked him, “Then why do the scribes say that first Elijah must come?” [11]†He answered, “Elijah does come, and he will restore all things. [12]†But I tell you that Elijah has already come, and they did not recognize him, but did to him whatever they pleased. So also the Son of Man will certainly suffer at their hands.” [13]†Then the disciples understood that he was speaking to them of John the Baptist.

Jesus Heals a Boy with a Demon

14 ‡ † And when they came to the crowd, a man came up to him and, kneeling before him, 15 † said, “Lord, have mercy on my son, for he is an epileptic and he suffers terribly. For often he falls into the fire, and often into the water. 16 † And I brought him to your disciples, and they could not heal him.” 17 † And Jesus answered, “O faithless and twisted generation, how long am I to be with you? How long am I to bear with you? Bring him here to me.” 18 † And Jesus rebuked the demon,[2] and it[3] came out of him, and the boy was healed instantly.[4] 19 † Then the disciples came to Jesus privately and said, “Why could we not cast it out?” 20 † He said to them, “Because of your little faith. For truly, I say to you, if you have faith like a grain of mustard seed, you will say to this mountain, ‘Move from here to there,’ and it will move, and nothing will be impossible for you.”[1]

Jesus Again Foretells Death, Resurrection

22 ‡‡As they were gathering[2] in Galilee, Jesus said to them, “The Son of Man is about to be delivered into the hands of men, 23 ‡and they will kill him, and he will be raised on the third day.” And they were greatly distressed.

The Temple Tax

[24] ‡ † When they came to Capernaum, the collectors of the two-drachma tax went up to Peter and said, “Does your teacher not pay the tax?” [25] † He said, “Yes.” And when he came into the house, Jesus spoke to him first, saying, “What do you think, Simon? From whom do kings of the earth take toll or tax? From their sons or from others?” [26] † And when he said, “From others,” Jesus said to him, “Then the sons are free. [27] † However, not to give offense to them, go to the sea and cast a hook and take the first fish that comes up, and when you open its mouth you will find a shekel.[3] Take that and give it to them for me and for yourself.”

Who Is the Greatest?

18 [1]‡†At that time the disciples came to Jesus, saying, “Who is the greatest in the kingdom of heaven?” [2]And calling to him a child, he put him in the midst of them [3]†and said, “Truly, I say to you, unless you turn and become like children, you will never enter the kingdom of heaven. [4]†Whoever humbles himself like this child is the greatest in the kingdom of heaven.

[5]† “Whoever receives one such child in my name receives me, [6]† but whoever causes one of these little ones who believe in me to sin,[4] it would be better for him to have a great millstone fastened around his neck and to be drowned in the depth of the sea.

Temptations to Sin

7 ‡ † “Woe to the world for temptations to sin![1] For it is necessary that temptations come, but woe to the one by whom the temptation comes!
8 ‡ And if your hand or your foot causes you to sin, cut it off and throw it away. It is better for you to enter life crippled or lame than with two hands or two feet to be thrown into the eternal fire. 9 And if your eye causes you to sin, tear it out and throw it away. It is better for you to enter life with one eye than with two eyes to be thrown into the hell[2] of fire.

The Parable of the Lost Sheep

10 ‡ ‡ “See that you do not despise one of these little ones. For I tell you that in heaven their angels always see the face of my Father who is in heaven.[3] 12 ‡ What do you think? If a man has a hundred sheep, and one of them has gone astray, does he not leave the ninety-nine on the mountains and go in search of the one that went astray? 13 And if he finds it, truly, I say to you, he rejoices over it more than over the ninety-nine that never went astray. 14 † So it is not the will of my[4] Father who is in heaven that one of these little ones should perish.

If Your Brother Sins Against You

15 ‡‡“If your brother sins against you, go and tell him his fault, between you and him alone. If he listens to you, you have gained your brother.
16 †But if he does not listen, take one or two others along with you, that every charge may be established by the evidence of two or three witnesses.
17 †If he refuses to listen to them, tell it to the church. And if he refuses to listen even to the church, let him be to you as a Gentile and a tax collector.
18 †Truly, I say to you, whatever you bind on earth shall be bound in heaven, and whatever you loose on earth shall be loosed[5] in heaven. 19 †Again I say to you, if two of you agree on earth about anything they ask, it will be done for them by my Father in heaven. 20 †For where two or three are gathered in my name, there am I among them.”

The Parable of the Unforgiving Servant

21 ‡ † Then Peter came up and said to him, “Lord, how often will my brother sin against me, and I forgive him? As many as seven times?” 22 † Jesus said to him, “I do not say to you seven times, but seventy times seven.[1] 23 ‡ “Therefore the kingdom of heaven may be compared to a king who wished to settle accounts with his servants.[2] 24 † When he began to settle, one was brought to him who owed him ten thousand talents.[3] 25 † And since he could not pay, his master ordered him to be sold, with his wife and children and all that he had, and payment to be made. 26 † So the servant[4] fell on his knees, imploring him, ‘Have patience with me, and I will pay you everything.’ 27 † And out of pity for him, the master of that servant released him and forgave him the debt. 28 † But when that same servant went out, he found one of his fellow servants who owed him a hundred denarii,[5] and seizing him, he began to choke him, saying, ‘Pay what you owe.’ 29 † So his fellow servant fell down and pleaded with him, ‘Have patience with me, and I will pay you.’ 30 † He refused and went and put him in prison until he should pay the debt. 31 When his fellow servants saw what had taken place, they were greatly distressed, and they went and reported to their master all that had taken place. 32 † Then his master summoned him and said to him, ‘You wicked servant! I forgave you all that debt because you pleaded with me. 33 And should not you have had mercy on your fellow servant, as I had mercy on you?’ 34 † And in anger his master delivered him to the jailers,[6] until he should pay all his debt. 35 † So also my heavenly Father will do to every one of you, if you do not forgive your brother from your heart.”

Teaching About Divorce

19 [1] Now when Jesus had finished these sayings, he went away from Galilee and entered the region of Judea beyond the Jordan. [2] And large crowds followed him, and he healed them there.

[3] And Pharisees came up to him and tested him by asking, "Is it lawful to divorce one's wife for any cause?" [4] He answered, "Have you not read that he who created them from the beginning made them male and female, [5] and said, 'Therefore a man shall leave his father and his mother and hold fast to his wife, and the two shall become one flesh'? [6] So they are no longer two but one flesh. What therefore God has joined together, let not man separate." [7] They said to him, "Why then did Moses command one to give a certificate of divorce and to send her away?" [8] He said to them, "Because of your hardness of heart Moses allowed you to divorce your wives, but from the beginning it was not so. [9] And I say to you: whoever divorces his wife, except for sexual immorality, and marries another, commits adultery."[1]

[10] The disciples said to him, "If such is the case of a man with his wife, it is better not to marry." [11] But he said to them, "Not everyone can receive this saying, but only those to whom it is given. [12] For there are eunuchs who have been so from birth, and there are eunuchs who have been made eunuchs by men, and there are eunuchs who have made themselves eunuchs for the sake of the kingdom of heaven. Let the one who is able to receive this receive it."

Let the Children Come to Me

13 ‡ † Then children were brought to him that he might lay his hands on them and pray. The disciples rebuked the people, 14 † but Jesus said, “Let the little children come to me and do not hinder them, for to such belongs the kingdom of heaven.” 15 † And he laid his hands on them and went away.

The Rich Young Man

16 ‡ † And behold, a man came up to him, saying, “Teacher, what good deed must I do to have eternal life?” 17 † And he said to him, “Why do you ask me about what is good? There is only one who is good. If you would enter life, keep the commandments.” 18 ‡ He said to him, “Which ones?” And Jesus said, “You shall not murder, You shall not commit adultery, You shall not steal, You shall not bear false witness, 19 † Honor your father and mother, and, You shall love your neighbor as yourself.” 20 † The young man said to him, “All these I have kept. What do I still lack?” 21 † Jesus said to him, “If you would be perfect, go, sell what you possess and give to the poor, and you will have treasure in heaven; and come, follow me.” 22 † When the young man heard this he went away sorrowful, for he had great possessions.
23 ‡ And Jesus said to his disciples, “Truly, I say to you, only with difficulty will a rich person enter the kingdom of heaven. 24 Again I tell you, it is easier for a camel to go through the eye of a needle than for a rich person to enter the kingdom of God.” 25 † When the disciples heard this, they were greatly astonished, saying, “Who then can be saved?” 26 † But Jesus looked at them and said, “With man this is impossible, but with God all things are possible.” 27 † Then Peter said in reply, “See, we have left everything and followed you. What then will we have?” 28 † Jesus said to them, “Truly, I say to you, in the new world,[1] when the Son of Man will sit on his glorious throne, you who have followed me will also sit on twelve thrones, judging the twelve tribes of Israel. 29 † And everyone who has left houses or brothers or sisters or father or mother or children or lands, for my name’s sake, will receive a hundredfold[2] and will inherit eternal life. 30 † But many who are first will be last, and the last first.

Laborers in the Vineyard

20 [1]†††“For the kingdom of heaven is like a master of a house who went out early in the morning to hire laborers for his vineyard. [2]After agreeing with the laborers for a denarius[3] a day, he sent them into his vineyard. [3]†And going out about the third hour he saw others standing idle in the marketplace, [4]†and to them he said, ‘You go into the vineyard too, and whatever is right I will give you.’ [5]†So they went. Going out again about the sixth hour and the ninth hour, he did the same. [6]†And about the eleventh hour he went out and found others standing. And he said to them, ‘Why do you stand here idle all day?’ [7]†They said to him, ‘Because no one has hired us.’ He said to them, ‘You go into the vineyard too.’ [8]†And when evening came, the owner of the vineyard said to his foreman, ‘Call the laborers and pay them their wages, beginning with the last, up to the first.’ [9]† And when those hired about the eleventh hour came, each of them received a denarius. [10]‡Now when those hired first came, they thought they would receive more, but each of them also received a denarius. [11]And on receiving it they grumbled at the master of the house, [12]saying, ‘These last worked only one hour, and you have made them equal to us who have borne the burden of the day and the scorching heat.’ [13]†But he replied to one of them, ‘Friend, I am doing you no wrong. Did you not agree with me for a denarius? [14]†Take what belongs to you and go. I choose to give to this last worker as I give to you. [15]†Am I not allowed to do what I choose with what belongs to me? Or do you begrudge my generosity?’[1] [16]†So the last will be first, and the first last.”

Jesus Foretells His Death a Third Time

17 ✝✝And as Jesus was going up to Jerusalem, he took the twelve disciples aside, and on the way he said to them, 18 ✝ “See, we are going up to Jerusalem. And the Son of Man will be delivered over to the chief priests and scribes, and they will condemn him to death 19 ✝and deliver him over to the Gentiles to be mocked and flogged and crucified, and he will be raised on the third day.”

A Mother's Request

20 ‡ † Then the mother of the sons of Zebedee came up to him with her sons, and kneeling before him she asked him for something. 21 † And he said to her, "What do you want?" She said to him, "Say that these two sons of mine are to sit, one at your right hand and one at your left, in your kingdom." 22 † Jesus answered, "You do not know what you are asking. Are you able to drink the cup that I am to drink?" They said to him, "We are able." 23 † He said to them, "You will drink my cup, but to sit at my right hand and at my left is not mine to grant, but it is for those for whom it has been prepared by my Father." 24 † And when the ten heard it, they were indignant at the two brothers. 25 † But Jesus called them to him and said,
"You know that the rulers of the Gentiles lord it over them, and their great ones exercise authority over them. 26 † It shall not be so among you. But whoever would be great among you must be your servant,[2] 27 † and whoever would be first among you must be your slave,[1] 28 † even as the Son of Man came not to be served but to serve, and to give his life as a ransom for many."

Jesus Heals Two Blind Men

[29]†† And as they went out of Jericho, a great crowd followed him. [30]† And behold, there were two blind men sitting by the roadside, and when they heard that Jesus was passing by, they cried out, “Lord,[2] have mercy on us, Son of David!” [31]† The crowd rebuked them, telling them to be silent, but they cried out all the more, “Lord, have mercy on us, Son of David!” [32]† And stopping, Jesus called them and said, “What do you want me to do for you?” [33]They said to him, “Lord, let our eyes be opened.” [34]† And Jesus in pity touched their eyes, and immediately they recovered their sight and followed him.

The Triumphal Entry

21 [1] † † Now when they drew near to Jerusalem and came to Bethphage, to the Mount of Olives, then Jesus sent two disciples, [2] †saying to them, "Go into the village in front of you, and immediately you will find a donkey tied, and a colt with her. Untie them and bring them to me. [3] †If anyone says anything to you, you shall say, 'The Lord needs them,' and he will send them at once." [4] †This took place to fulfill what was spoken by the prophet, saying,

> [5] "Say to the daughter of Zion,
> 'Behold, your king is coming to you,
> humble, and mounted on a donkey,
> and[3] on a colt, the foal of a beast of > burden.'"

[6]The disciples went and did as Jesus had directed them. [7] †They brought the donkey and the colt and put on them their cloaks, and he sat on them.
[8] † Most of the crowd spread their cloaks on the road, and others cut branches from the trees and spread them on the road. [9] †And the crowds that went before him and that followed him were shouting, "Hosanna to the Son of David! Blessed is he who comes in the name of the Lord! Hosanna in the highest!" [10]And when he entered Jerusalem, the whole city was stirred up, saying, "Who is this?" [11] †And the crowds said, "This is the prophet Jesus, from Nazareth of Galilee."

Jesus Cleanses the Temple

12 ✝ ✝ And Jesus entered the temple[1] and drove out all who sold and bought in the temple, and he overturned the tables of the money-changers and the seats of those who sold pigeons. 13 ✝ He said to them, “It is written, ‘My house shall be called a house of prayer,’ but you make it a den of robbers.”
14 ✝ And the blind and the lame came to him in the temple, and he healed them. 15 ✝ But when the chief priests and the scribes saw the wonderful things that he did, and the children crying out in the temple, “Hosanna to the Son of David!” they were indignant, 16 ✝ and they said to him, “Do you hear what these are saying?” And Jesus said to them, “Yes; have you never read,

> “‘Out of the mouth of infants and nursing babies
> you have prepared praise’?”

17 ✝ And leaving them, he went out of the city to Bethany and lodged there.

Jesus Curses the Fig Tree

18 ‡ †In the morning, as he was returning to the city, he became hungry.
19 ‡And seeing a fig tree by the wayside, he went to it and found nothing on it but only leaves. And he said to it, “May no fruit ever come from you again!” And the fig tree withered at once.
20 When the disciples saw it, they marveled, saying, “How did the fig tree wither at once?” 21 ‡And Jesus answered them, “Truly, I say to you, if you have faith and do not doubt, you will not only do what has been done to the fig tree, but even if you say to this mountain, ‘Be taken up and thrown into the sea,’ it will happen. 22 And whatever you ask in prayer, you will receive, if you have faith.”

The Authority of Jesus Challenged

23 ✝✝And when he entered the temple, the chief priests and the elders of the people came up to him as he was teaching, and said, “By what authority are you doing these things, and who gave you this authority?” 24 ✝Jesus answered them, “I also will ask you one question, and if you tell me the answer, then I also will tell you by what authority I do these things. 25The baptism of John, from where did it come? From heaven or from man?” And they discussed it among themselves, saying, “If we say, ‘From heaven,’ he will say to us, ‘Why then did you not believe him?’ 26✝But if we say, ‘From man,’ we are afraid of the crowd, for they all hold that John was a prophet.”
27 ✝So they answered Jesus, “We do not know.” And he said to them, “Neither will I tell you by what authority I do these things.

The Parable of the Two Sons

[28] “What do you think? A man had two sons. And he went to the first and said, ‘Son, go and work in the vineyard today.’ [29] And he answered, ‘I will not,’ but afterward he changed his mind and went. [30] And he went to the other son and said the same. And he answered, ‘I go, sir,’ but did not go.
[31] Which of the two did the will of his father?” They said, “The first.” Jesus said to them, “Truly, I say to you, the tax collectors and the prostitutes go into the kingdom of God before you. [32] For John came to you in the way of righteousness, and you did not believe him, but the tax collectors and the prostitutes believed him. And even when you saw it, you did not afterward change your minds and believe him.

The Parable of the Tenants

33 ‡‡‡“Hear another parable. There was a master of a house who planted a vineyard and put a fence around it and dug a winepress in it and built a tower and leased it to tenants, and went into another country. 34 ‡When the season for fruit drew near, he sent his servants[1] to the tenants to get his fruit. 35 ‡And the tenants took his servants and beat one, killed another, and stoned another. 36 ‡Again he sent other servants, more than the first. And they did the same to them. 37 ‡Finally he sent his son to them, saying, ‘They will respect my son.’ 38 ‡But when the tenants saw the son, they said to themselves, ‘This is the heir. Come, let us kill him and have his inheritance.’ 39 ‡And they took him and threw him out of the vineyard and killed him. 40 ‡When therefore the owner of the vineyard comes, what will he do to those tenants?” 41 They said to him, “He will put those wretches to a miserable death and let out the vineyard to other tenants who will give him the fruits in their seasons.”

42 ‡Jesus said to them, “Have you never read in the Scriptures:

> “‘The stone that the builders rejected > has become the cornerstone;[2]
> this was the Lord’s doing, > and it is marvelous in our eyes’?

43 ‡Therefore I tell you, the kingdom of God will be taken away from you and given to a people producing its fruits. 44 ‡And the one who falls on this stone will be broken to pieces; and when it falls on anyone, it will crush
him.”[1]

45 ‡When the chief priests and the Pharisees heard his parables, they perceived that he was speaking about them. 46 ‡And although they were seeking to arrest him, they feared the crowds, because they held him to be a prophet.

The Parable of the Wedding Feast

22 [1]‡‡And again Jesus spoke to them in parables, saying, [2]†“The kingdom of heaven may be compared to a king who gave a wedding feast for his son, [3]†and sent his servants[2] to call those who were invited to the wedding feast, but they would not come. [4]†Again he sent other servants, saying, ‘Tell those who are invited, See, I have prepared my dinner, my oxen and my fat calves have been slaughtered, and everything is ready. Come to the wedding feast.’ [5]‡But they paid no attention and went off, one to his farm, another to his business, [6]while the rest seized his servants, treated them shamefully, and killed them. [7]†The king was angry, and he sent his troops and destroyed those murderers and burned their city. [8]†Then he said to his servants, ‘The wedding feast is ready, but those invited were not worthy. [9]†Go therefore to the main roads and invite to the wedding feast as many as you find.’ [10]†And those servants went out into the roads and gathered all whom they found, both bad and good. So the wedding hall was filled with guests.

[11]‡“But when the king came in to look at the guests, he saw there a man who had no wedding garment. [12]And he said to him, ‘Friend, how did you get in here without a wedding garment?’ And he was speechless. [13]†Then the king said to the attendants, ‘Bind him hand and foot and cast him into the outer darkness. In that place there will be weeping and gnashing of teeth.’ [14]†For many are called, but few are chosen.”

Paying Taxes to Caesar

15 ‡ † Then the Pharisees went and plotted how to entangle him in his words. 16 † And they sent their disciples to him, along with the Herodians, saying, “Teacher, we know that you are true and teach the way of God truthfully, and you do not care about anyone’s opinion, for you are not swayed by appearances.[1] 17 † Tell us, then, what you think. Is it lawful to pay taxes to Caesar, or not?” 18 † But Jesus, aware of their malice, said, “Why put me to the test, you hypocrites? 19 ‡ Show me the coin for the tax.”
And they brought him a denarius.[2] 20 And Jesus said to them, “Whose likeness and inscription is this?” 21 † They said, “Caesar’s.” Then he said to them, “Therefore render to Caesar the things that are Caesar’s, and to God the things that are God’s.” 22 When they heard it, they marveled. And they left him and went away.

Sadducees Ask About the Resurrection

[23] The same day Sadducees came to him, who say that there is no resurrection, and they asked him a question, [24] saying, “Teacher, Moses said, ‘If a man dies having no children, his brother must marry the widow and raise up children for his brother.’ [25] Now there were seven brothers among us. The first married and died, and having no children left his wife to his brother. [26]So too the second and third, down to the seventh. [27]After them all, the woman died. [28] In the resurrection, therefore, of the seven, whose wife will she be? For they all had her.”

[29] But Jesus answered them, “You are wrong, because you know neither the Scriptures nor the power of God. [30] For in the resurrection they neither marry nor are given in marriage, but are like angels in heaven. [31] And as for the resurrection of the dead, have you not read what was said to you by God: [32]‘I am the God of Abraham, and the God of Isaac, and the God of Jacob’? He is not God of the dead, but of the living.” [33] And when the crowd heard it, they were astonished at his teaching.

The Great Commandment

[34] ‡ † But when the Pharisees heard that he had silenced the Sadducees, they gathered together. [35] † And one of them, a lawyer, asked him a question to test him. [36] † “Teacher, which is the great commandment in the Law?” [37] ‡ ‡ And he said to him, “You shall love the Lord your God with all your heart and with all your soul and with all your mind. [38] This is the great and first commandment. [39] † And a second is like it: You shall love your neighbor as yourself. [40] † On these two commandments depend all the Law and the Prophets.”

Whose Son Is the Christ?

41 †Now while the Pharisees were gathered together, Jesus asked them a question, 42 †saying, “What do you think about the Christ? Whose son is he?” They said to him, “The son of David.” 43 †He said to them, “How is it then that David, in the Spirit, calls him Lord, saying,

> 44 “‘The Lord said to my Lord, > Sit at my right hand,
> until I put your enemies under your feet’?

45 †If then David calls him Lord, how is he his son?” 46 †And no one was able to answer him a word, nor from that day did anyone dare to ask him any more questions.

Seven Woes to the Scribes and Pharisees

23 [1] Then Jesus said to the crowds and to his disciples, [2] "The scribes and the Pharisees sit on Moses' seat, [3] so practice and observe whatever they tell you—but not what they do. For they preach, but do not practice. [4] They tie up heavy burdens, hard to bear,[1] and lay them on people's shoulders, but they themselves are not willing to move them with their finger. [5] They do all their deeds to be seen by others. For they make their phylacteries broad and their fringes long, [6] and they love the place of honor at feasts and the best seats in the synagogues [7] and greetings in the marketplaces and being called rabbi[2] by others. [8] But you are not to be called rabbi, for you have one teacher, and you are all brothers.[3] [9] And call no man your father on earth, for you have one Father, who is in heaven. [10] Neither be called instructors, for you have one instructor, the Christ. [11] The greatest among you shall be your servant. [12] Whoever exalts himself will be humbled, and whoever humbles himself will be exalted.

[13] "But woe to you, scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites! For you shut the kingdom of heaven in people's faces. For you neither enter yourselves nor allow those who would enter to go in.[1] [15] Woe to you, scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites! For you travel across sea and land to make a single proselyte, and when he becomes a proselyte, you make him twice as much a child of hell[2] as yourselves.

[16] "Woe to you, blind guides, who say, 'If anyone swears by the temple, it is nothing, but if anyone swears by the gold of the temple, he is bound by his oath.' [17] You blind fools! For which is greater, the gold or the temple that has made the gold sacred? [18] And you say, 'If anyone swears by the altar, it is nothing, but if anyone swears by the gift that is on the altar, he is bound by his oath.' [19] You blind men! For which is greater, the gift or the altar that makes the gift sacred? [20] So whoever swears by the altar swears by it and by everything on it. [21] And whoever swears by the temple swears by it and by him who dwells in it. [22] And whoever swears by heaven swears by the throne of God and by him who sits upon it.

23 † “Woe to you, scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites! For you tithe mint and dill and cumin, and have neglected the weightier matters of the law: justice and mercy and faithfulness. These you ought to have done, without neglecting the others. 24 † You blind guides, straining out a gnat and swallowing a camel!
25 ‡ “Woe to you, scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites! For you clean the outside of the cup and the plate, but inside they are full of greed and self-indulgence. 26 You blind Pharisee! First clean the inside of the cup and the plate, that the outside also may be clean.
27 ‡ † “Woe to you, scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites! For you are like whitewashed tombs, which outwardly appear beautiful, but within are full of dead people’s bones and all uncleanness. 28 † So you also outwardly appear righteous to others, but within you are full of hypocrisy and lawlessness.
29 ‡ † “Woe to you, scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites! For you build the tombs of the prophets and decorate the monuments of the righteous, 30 ‡ saying, ‘If we had lived in the days of our fathers, we would not have taken part with them in shedding the blood of the prophets.’ 31 † Thus you witness against yourselves that you are sons of those who murdered the prophets. 32 † Fill up, then, the measure of your fathers. 33 † You serpents, you brood of vipers, how are you to escape being sentenced to hell?
34 † Therefore I send you prophets and wise men and scribes, some of whom you will kill and crucify, and some you will flog in your synagogues and persecute from town to town, 35 † so that on you may come all the righteous blood shed on earth, from the blood of innocent Abel to the blood of Zechariah the son of Barachiah,[1] whom you murdered between the sanctuary and the altar. 36 † Truly, I say to you, all these things will come upon this generation.

Lament over Jerusalem

37 ‡ ‡ “O Jerusalem, Jerusalem, the city that kills the prophets and stones those who are sent to it! How often would I have gathered your children together as a hen gathers her brood under her wings, and you would not!
38 ‡ See, your house is left to you desolate. 39 ‡ For I tell you, you will not see me again, until you say, ‘Blessed is he who comes in the name of the Lord.’”

Jesus Foretells Destruction of the Temple

24 [1]†††Jesus left the temple and was going away, when his disciples came to point out to him the buildings of the temple. [2]† But he answered them, “You see all these, do you not? Truly, I say to you, there will not be left here one stone upon another that will not be thrown down.”

Signs of the Close of the Age

3 †As he sat on the Mount of Olives, the disciples came to him privately, saying, “Tell us, when will these things be, and what will be the sign of your coming and of the close of the age?” 4 †And Jesus answered them, “See that no one leads you astray. 5 †For many will come in my name, saying, ‘I am the Christ,’ and they will lead many astray. 6 †And you will hear of wars and rumors of wars. See that you are not alarmed, for this must take place, but the end is not yet. 7 For nation will rise against nation, and kingdom against kingdom, and there will be famines and earthquakes in various places. 8 †All these are but the beginning of the birth pains.

9 †“Then they will deliver you up to tribulation and put you to death, and you will be hated by all nations for my name’s sake. 10 †And then many will fall away[1] and betray one another and hate one another. 11 †And many false prophets will arise and lead many astray. 12 †And because lawlessness will be increased, the love of many will grow cold. 13 †But the one who endures to the end will be saved. 14 † And this gospel of the kingdom will be proclaimed throughout the whole world as a testimony to all nations, and then the end will come.

The Abomination of Desolation

15 ‡ † “So when you see the abomination of desolation spoken of by the prophet Daniel, standing in the holy place (let the reader understand), 16 † then let those who are in Judea flee to the mountains. 17 ‡ Let the one who is on the housetop not go down to take what is in his house, 18 and let the one who is in the field not turn back to take his cloak. 19 And alas for women who are pregnant and for those who are nursing infants in those days!
20 † Pray that your flight may not be in winter or on a Sabbath. 21 † For then there will be great tribulation, such as has not been from the beginning of the world until now, no, and never will be. 22 † And if those days had not been cut short, no human being would be saved. But for the sake of the elect those days will be cut short. 23 ‡ Then if anyone says to you, ‘Look, here is the Christ!’ or ‘There he is!’ do not believe it. 24 For false christs and false prophets will arise and perform great signs and wonders, so as to lead astray, if possible, even the elect. 25 † See, I have told you beforehand. 26 † So, if they say to you, ‘Look, he is in the wilderness,’ do not go out. If they say, ‘Look, he is in the inner rooms,’ do not believe it. 27 † For as the lightning comes from the east and shines as far as the west, so will be the coming of the Son of Man. 28 † Wherever the corpse is, there the vultures will gather.

The Coming of the Son of Man

29 ✝ ✝ “Immediately after the tribulation of those days the sun will be darkened, and the moon will not give its light, and the stars will fall from heaven, and the powers of the heavens will be shaken. 30 ✝ Then will appear in heaven the sign of the Son of Man, and then all the tribes of the earth will mourn, and they will see the Son of Man coming on the clouds of heaven with power and great glory. 31 ✝ And he will send out his angels with a loud trumpet call, and they will gather his elect from the four winds, from one end of heaven to the other.

The Lesson of the Fig Tree

32 ††“From the fig tree learn its lesson: as soon as its branch becomes tender and puts out its leaves, you know that summer is near. 33 †So also, when you see all these things, you know that he is near, at the very gates.
34 †Truly, I say to you, this generation will not pass away until all these things take place. 35 †Heaven and earth will pass away, but my words will not pass away.

No One Knows That Day and Hour

36 “But concerning that day and hour no one knows, not even the angels of heaven, nor the Son,[1] but the Father only. 37 For as were the days of Noah, so will be the coming of the Son of Man. 38 For as in those days before the flood they were eating and drinking, marrying and giving in marriage, until the day when Noah entered the ark, 39 and they were unaware until the flood came and swept them all away, so will be the coming of the Son of Man. 40 Then two men will be in the field; one will be taken and one left. 41 Two women will be grinding at the mill; one will be taken and one left. 42 Therefore, stay awake, for you do not know on what day your Lord is coming. 43 But know this, that if the master of the house had known in what part of the night the thief was coming, he would have stayed awake and would not have let his house be broken into. 44 Therefore you also must be ready, for the Son of Man is coming at an hour you do not expect.

45 “Who then is the faithful and wise servant,[1] whom his master has set over his household, to give them their food at the proper time? 46 Blessed is that servant whom his master will find so doing when he comes. 47 Truly, I say to you, he will set him over all his possessions. 48 But if that wicked servant says to himself, ‘My master is delayed,’ 49 and begins to beat his fellow servants[2] and eats and drinks with drunkards, 50 the master of that servant will come on a day when he does not expect him and at an hour he does not know 51 and will cut him in pieces and put him with the hypocrites. In that place there will be weeping and gnashing of teeth.

The Parable of the Ten Virgins

25 [1]‡‡“Then the kingdom of heaven will be like ten virgins who took their lamps[3] and went to meet the bridegroom.[4] [2]† Five of them were foolish, and five were wise. [3]†For when the foolish took their lamps, they took no oil with them, [4]but the wise took flasks of oil with their lamps. [5]†As the bridegroom was delayed, they all became drowsy and slept. [6]† But at midnight there was a cry, ‘Here is the bridegroom! Come out to meet him.’
[7]†Then all those virgins rose and trimmed their lamps. [8]‡And the foolish said to the wise, ‘Give us some of your oil, for our lamps are going out.’ [9]But the wise answered, saying, ‘Since there will not be enough for us and for you, go rather to the dealers and buy for yourselves.’ [10]†And while they were going to buy, the bridegroom came, and those who were ready went in with him to the marriage feast, and the door was shut. [11]‡Afterward the other virgins came also, saying, ‘Lord, lord, open to us.’ [12]But he answered, ‘Truly, I say to you, I do not know you.’ [13]†Watch therefore, for you know neither the day nor the hour.

The Parable of the Talents

14 ‡ ‡ “For it will be like a man going on a journey, who called his servants[1] and entrusted to them his property. 15†To one he gave five talents, [2] to another two, to another one, to each according to his ability. Then he went away. 16‡He who had received the five talents went at once and traded with them, and he made five talents more. 17So also he who had the two talents made two talents more. 18† But he who had received the one talent went and dug in the ground and hid his master’s money. 19†Now after a long time the master of those servants came and settled accounts with them.
20† And he who had received the five talents came forward, bringing five talents more, saying, ‘Master, you delivered to me five talents; here I have made five talents more.’ 21† His master said to him, ‘Well done, good and faithful servant.[3] You have been faithful over a little; I will set you over much. Enter into the joy of your master.’ 22‡And he also who had the two talents came forward, saying, ‘Master, you delivered to me two talents; here I have made two talents more.’ 23His master said to him, ‘Well done, good and faithful servant. You have been faithful over a little; I will set you over much. Enter into the joy of your master.’ 24† He also who had received the one talent came forward, saying, ‘Master, I knew you to be a hard man, reaping where you did not sow, and gathering where you scattered no seed, 25so I was afraid, and I went and hid your talent in the ground. Here you have what is yours.’ 26‡ But his master answered him, ‘You wicked and slothful servant! You knew that I reap where I have not sown and gather where I scattered no seed? 27Then you ought to have invested my money with the bankers, and at my coming I should have received what was my own with interest. 28‡So take the talent from him and give it to him who has the ten talents. 29For to everyone who has will more be given, and he will have an abundance. But from the one who has not, even what he has will be taken away. 30† And cast the worthless servant into the outer darkness. In that place there will be weeping and gnashing of teeth.’

The Final Judgment

31 ‡ † “When the Son of Man comes in his glory, and all the angels with him, then he will sit on his glorious throne. 32 † Before him will be gathered all the nations, and he will separate people one from another as a shepherd separates the sheep from the goats. 33 † And he will place the sheep on his right, but the goats on the left. 34 † Then the King will say to those on his right, ‘Come, you who are blessed by my Father, inherit the kingdom prepared for you from the foundation of the world. 35 ‡ For I was hungry and you gave me food, I was thirsty and you gave me drink, I was a stranger and you welcomed me, 36 I was naked and you clothed me, I was sick and you visited me, I was in prison and you came to me.’ 37 † Then the righteous will answer him, saying, ‘Lord, when did we see you hungry and feed you, or thirsty and give you drink? 38 † And when did we see you a stranger and welcome you, or naked and clothe you? 39 † And when did we see you sick or in prison and visit you?’ 40 † And the King will answer them, ‘Truly, I say to you, as you did it to one of the least of these my brothers,[1] you did it to me.’

41 † “Then he will say to those on his left, ‘Depart from me, you cursed, into the eternal fire prepared for the devil and his angels. 42 ‡ For I was hungry and you gave me no food, I was thirsty and you gave me no drink, 43 I was a stranger and you did not welcome me, naked and you did not clothe me, sick and in prison and you did not visit me.’ 44 † Then they also will answer, saying, ‘Lord, when did we see you hungry or thirsty or a stranger or naked or sick or in prison, and did not minister to you?’ 45 † Then he will answer them, saying, ‘Truly, I say to you, as you did not do it to one of the least of these, you did not do it to me.’ 46 † And these will go away into eternal punishment, but the righteous into eternal life.”

The Plot to Kill Jesus

26 [1] When Jesus had finished all these sayings, he said to his disciples, [2] "You know that after two days the Passover is coming, and the Son of Man will be delivered up to be crucified."

[3] Then the chief priests and the elders of the people gathered in the palace of the high priest, whose name was Caiaphas, [4] and plotted together in order to arrest Jesus by stealth and kill him. [5] But they said, "Not during the feast, lest there be an uproar among the people."

Jesus Anointed at Bethany

6 Now when Jesus was at Bethany in the house of Simon the leper,[2] 7 a woman came up to him with an alabaster flask of very expensive ointment, and she poured it on his head as he reclined at table. 8 And when the disciples saw it, they were indignant, saying, “Why this waste? 9 For this could have been sold for a large sum and given to the poor.” 10 But Jesus, aware of this, said to them, “Why do you trouble the woman? For she has done a beautiful thing to me. 11 For you always have the poor with you, but you will not always have me. 12 In pouring this ointment on my body, she has done it to prepare me for burial. 13 Truly, I say to you, wherever this gospel is proclaimed in the whole world, what she has done will also be told in memory of her.”

Judas to Betray Jesus

14 ‡ ‡ Then one of the twelve, whose name was Judas Iscariot, went to the chief priests 15 † and said, “What will you give me if I deliver him over to you?” And they paid him thirty pieces of silver. 16 † And from that moment he sought an opportunity to betray him.

The Passover with the Disciples

17 ✝ ✝ Now on the first day of Unleavened Bread the disciples came to Jesus, saying, “Where will you have us prepare for you to eat the Passover?” 18 ✝ He said, “Go into the city to a certain man and say to him, ‘The Teacher says, My time is at hand. I will keep the Passover at your house with my disciples.’” 19 And the disciples did as Jesus had directed them, and they prepared the Passover.

20 ✝ When it was evening, he reclined at table with the twelve.[1] 21 ✝ And as they were eating, he said, “Truly, I say to you, one of you will betray me.”
22 ✝ And they were very sorrowful and began to say to him one after another, “Is it I, Lord?” 23 ✝ He answered, “He who has dipped his hand in the dish with me will betray me. 24 ✝ The Son of Man goes as it is written of him, but woe to that man by whom the Son of Man is betrayed! It would have been better for that man if he had not been born.” 25 ✝ Judas, who would betray him, answered, “Is it I, Rabbi?” He said to him, “You have said so.”

Institution of the Lord's Supper

[26]†† Now as they were eating, Jesus took bread, and after blessing it broke it and gave it to the disciples, and said, "Take, eat; this is my body." [27]† And he took a cup, and when he had given thanks he gave it to them, saying,
"Drink of it, all of you, [28]† for this is my blood of the[1] covenant, which is poured out for many for the forgiveness of sins. [29]† I tell you I will not drink again of this fruit of the vine until that day when I drink it new with you in my Father's kingdom."

Jesus Foretells Peter's Denial

[30] ‡ † And when they had sung a hymn, they went out to the Mount of Olives. [31] † Then Jesus said to them, "You will all fall away because of me this night. For it is written, 'I will strike the shepherd, and the sheep of the flock will be scattered.' [32] But after I am raised up, I will go before you to Galilee." [33] † Peter answered him, "Though they all fall away because of you, I will never fall away." [34] † Jesus said to him, "Truly, I tell you, this very night, before the rooster crows, you will deny me three times." [35] † Peter said to him, "Even if I must die with you, I will not deny you!" And all the disciples said the same.

Jesus Prays in Gethsemane

[36]†† Then Jesus went with them to a place called Gethsemane, and he said to his disciples, “Sit here, while I go over there and pray.” [37]† And taking with him Peter and the two sons of Zebedee, he began to be sorrowful and troubled. [38]† Then he said to them, “My soul is very sorrowful, even to death; remain here, and watch[2] with me.” [39]† And going a little farther he fell on his face and prayed, saying, “My Father, if it be possible, let this cup pass from me; nevertheless, not as I will, but as you will.” [40]† And he came to the disciples and found them sleeping. And he said to Peter, “So, could you not watch with me one hour? [41]† Watch and pray that you may not enter into temptation. The spirit indeed is willing, but the flesh is weak.” [42]Again, for the second time, he went away and prayed, “My Father, if this cannot pass unless I drink it, your will be done.” [43]And again he came and found them sleeping, for their eyes were heavy. [44]† So, leaving them again, he went away and prayed for the third time, saying the same words again. [45]† Then he came to the disciples and said to them, “Sleep and take your rest later on.
[1] See, the hour is at hand, and the Son of Man is betrayed into the hands of sinners. [46]Rise, let us be going; see, my betrayer is at hand.”

Betrayal and Arrest of Jesus

47 ‡ † While he was still speaking, Judas came, one of the twelve, and with him a great crowd with swords and clubs, from the chief priests and the elders of the people. 48 † Now the betrayer had given them a sign, saying,
"The one I will kiss is the man; seize him." 49 † And he came up to Jesus at once and said, "Greetings, Rabbi!" And he kissed him. 50 † Jesus said to him, "Friend, do what you came to do."[2] Then they came up and laid hands on Jesus and seized him. 51 † And behold, one of those who were with Jesus stretched out his hand and drew his sword and struck the servant[3] of the high priest and cut off his ear. 52 † Then Jesus said to him, "Put your sword back into its place. For all who take the sword will perish by the sword.
53 † Do you think that I cannot appeal to my Father, and he will at once send me more than twelve legions of angels? 54 † But how then should the Scriptures be fulfilled, that it must be so?" 55 † At that hour Jesus said to the crowds, "Have you come out as against a robber, with swords and clubs to capture me? Day after day I sat in the temple teaching, and you did not seize me. 56 † But all this has taken place that the Scriptures of the prophets might be fulfilled." Then all the disciples left him and fled.

Jesus Before Caiaphas and the Council

57 ‡† Then those who had seized Jesus led him to Caiaphas the high priest, where the scribes and the elders had gathered. 58 † And Peter was following him at a distance, as far as the courtyard of the high priest, and going inside he sat with the guards to see the end. 59 † Now the chief priests and the whole Council[4] were seeking false testimony against Jesus that they might put him to death, 60 † but they found none, though many false witnesses came forward. At last two came forward 61 † and said, “This man said, ‘I am able to destroy the temple of God, and to rebuild it in three days.’” 62 And the high priest stood up and said, “Have you no answer to make? What is it that these men testify against you?”[5] 63 † But Jesus remained silent. And the high priest said to him, “I adjure you by the living God, tell us if you are the Christ, the Son of God.” 64 † Jesus said to him, “You have said so. But I tell you, from now on you will see the Son of Man seated at the right hand of Power and coming on the clouds of heaven.” 65 † Then the high priest tore his robes and said, “He has uttered blasphemy. What further witnesses do we need? You have now heard his blasphemy. 66 † What is your judgment?”
They answered, “He deserves death.” 67 † Then they spit in his face and struck him. And some slapped him, 68 † saying, “Prophesy to us, you Christ!
Who is it that struck you?”

Peter Denies Jesus

69 ‡ † Now Peter was sitting outside in the courtyard. And a servant girl came up to him and said, “You also were with Jesus the Galilean.” 70 But he denied it before them all, saying, “I do not know what you mean.” 71 And when he went out to the entrance, another servant girl saw him, and she said to the bystanders, “This man was with Jesus of Nazareth.” 72 † And again he denied it with an oath: “I do not know the man.” 73 † After a little while the bystanders came up and said to Peter, “Certainly you too are one of them, for your accent betrays you.” 74 † Then he began to invoke a curse on himself and to swear, “I do not know the man.” And immediately the rooster crowed. 75 † And Peter remembered the saying of Jesus, “Before the rooster crows, you will deny me three times.” And he went out and wept bitterly.

Jesus Delivered to Pilate

27 [1] ‡† When morning came, all the chief priests and the elders of the people took counsel against Jesus to put him to death. [2] † And they bound him and led him away and delivered him over to Pilate the governor.

Judas Hangs Himself

3 ‡ † Then when Judas, his betrayer, saw that Jesus[1] was condemned, he changed his mind and brought back the thirty pieces of silver to the chief priests and the elders, 4 † saying, “I have sinned by betraying innocent blood.” They said, “What is that to us? See to it yourself.” 5 † And throwing down the pieces of silver into the temple, he departed, and he went and hanged himself. 6 † But the chief priests, taking the pieces of silver, said, “It is not lawful to put them into the treasury, since it is blood money.” 7 † So they took counsel and bought with them the potter’s field as a burial place for strangers. 8 † Therefore that field has been called the Field of Blood to this day. 9 ‡ Then was fulfilled what had been spoken by the prophet Jeremiah, saying, “And they took the thirty pieces of silver, the price of him on whom a price had been set by some of the sons of Israel, 10 and they gave them for the potter’s field, as the Lord directed me.”

Jesus Before Pilate

11 ✝✝Now Jesus stood before the governor, and the governor asked him, “Are you the King of the Jews?” Jesus said, “You have said so.” 12 ✝But when he was accused by the chief priests and elders, he gave no answer.
13Then Pilate said to him, “Do you not hear how many things they testify against you?” 14But he gave him no answer, not even to a single charge, so that the governor was greatly amazed.

The Crowd Chooses Barabbas

15 ‡ † Now at the feast the governor was accustomed to release for the crowd any one prisoner whom they wanted. 16 † And they had then a notorious prisoner called Barabbas. 17 † So when they had gathered, Pilate said to them, “Whom do you want me to release for you: Barabbas, or Jesus who is called Christ?” 18 † For he knew that it was out of envy that they had delivered him up. 19 † Besides, while he was sitting on the judgment seat, his wife sent word to him, “Have nothing to do with that righteous man, for I have suffered much because of him today in a dream.” 20 † Now the chief priests and the elders persuaded the crowd to ask for Barabbas and destroy Jesus. 21 The governor again said to them, “Which of the two do you want me to release for you?” And they said, “Barabbas.” 22 † Pilate said to them, “Then what shall I do with Jesus who is called Christ?” They all said, “Let him be crucified!” 23 And he said, “Why, what evil has he done?” But they shouted all the more, “Let him be crucified!”

Pilate Delivers Jesus to Be Crucified

24 ††So when Pilate saw that he was gaining nothing, but rather that a riot was beginning, he took water and washed his hands before the crowd, saying, “I am innocent of this man’s blood;[1] see to it yourselves.” 25 †And all the people answered, “His blood be on us and on our children!” 26 †Then he released for them Barabbas, and having scourged[1] Jesus, delivered him to be crucified.

Jesus Is Mocked

27 ✝ ✝ Then the soldiers of the governor took Jesus into the governor's headquarters,[2] and they gathered the whole battalion[3] before him. 28 ✝ And they stripped him and put a scarlet robe on him, 29 ✝ and twisting together a crown of thorns, they put it on his head and put a reed in his right hand. And kneeling before him, they mocked him, saying, "Hail, King of the Jews!"
30 ✝ And they spit on him and took the reed and struck him on the head.
31 And when they had mocked him, they stripped him of the robe and put his own clothes on him and led him away to crucify him.

The Crucifixion

32 ✝✝As they went out, they found a man of Cyrene, Simon by name. They compelled this man to carry his cross. 33 ✝And when they came to a place called Golgotha (which means Place of a Skull), 34 ✝they offered him wine to drink, mixed with gall, but when he tasted it, he would not drink it. 35 ✝And when they had crucified him, they divided his garments among them by casting lots. 36 ✝Then they sat down and kept watch over him there. 37 ✝And over his head they put the charge against him, which read, “This is Jesus, the King of the Jews.” 38 ✝Then two robbers were crucified with him, one on the right and one on the left. 39 ✝And those who passed by derided him, wagging their heads 40 ✝and saying, “You who would destroy the temple and rebuild it in three days, save yourself! If you are the Son of God, come down from the cross.” 41 ✝So also the chief priests, with the scribes and elders, mocked him, saying, 42 ✝“He saved others; he cannot save himself.
He is the King of Israel; let him come down now from the cross, and we will believe in him. 43 ✝He trusts in God; let God deliver him now, if he desires him. For he said, ‘I am the Son of God.’” 44 ✝And the robbers who were crucified with him also reviled him in the same way.

The Death of Jesus

45 ‡ † Now from the sixth hour[4] there was darkness over all the land[5] until the ninth hour.[6] 46 † And about the ninth hour Jesus cried out with a loud voice, saying, “Eli, Eli, lema sabachthani?” that is, “My God, my God, why have you forsaken me?” 47 † And some of the bystanders, hearing it, said, “This man is calling Elijah.” 48 † And one of them at once ran and took a sponge, filled it with sour wine, and put it on a reed and gave it to him to drink. 49 † But the others said, “Wait, let us see whether Elijah will come to save him.” 50 † And Jesus cried out again with a loud voice and yielded up his spirit.

51 ‡ † And behold, the curtain of the temple was torn in two, from top to bottom. And the earth shook, and the rocks were split. 52 ‡ The tombs also were opened. And many bodies of the saints who had fallen asleep were raised, 53 † and coming out of the tombs after his resurrection they went into the holy city and appeared to many. 54 † When the centurion and those who were with him, keeping watch over Jesus, saw the earthquake and what took place, they were filled with awe and said, “Truly this was the Son[1] of God!”

55 † There were also many women there, looking on from a distance, who had followed Jesus from Galilee, ministering to him, 56 † among whom were Mary Magdalene and Mary the mother of James and Joseph and the mother of the sons of Zebedee.

Jesus Is Buried

57 ‡† When it was evening, there came a rich man from Arimathea, named Joseph, who also was a disciple of Jesus. 58 † He went to Pilate and asked for the body of Jesus. Then Pilate ordered it to be given to him. 59 † And Joseph took the body and wrapped it in a clean linen shroud 60 † and laid it in his own new tomb, which he had cut in the rock. And he rolled a great stone to the entrance of the tomb and went away. 61 † Mary Magdalene and the other Mary were there, sitting opposite the tomb.

The Guard at the Tomb

62 ‡ † The next day, that is, after the day of Preparation, the chief priests and the Pharisees gathered before Pilate 63 † and said, “Sir, we remember how that impostor said, while he was still alive, ‘After three days I will rise.’ 64 ‡ Therefore order the tomb to be made secure until the third day, lest his disciples go and steal him away and tell the people, ‘He has risen from the dead,’ and the last fraud will be worse than the first.” 65 Pilate said to them, “You have a guard[2] of soldiers. Go, make it as secure as you can.”
66 So they went and made the tomb secure by sealing the stone and setting a guard.

The Resurrection

28 [1]‡†Now after the Sabbath, toward the dawn of the first day of the week, Mary Magdalene and the other Mary went to see the tomb. [2]† And behold, there was a great earthquake, for an angel of the Lord descended from heaven and came and rolled back the stone and sat on it. [3]† His appearance was like lightning, and his clothing white as snow. [4]† And for fear of him the guards trembled and became like dead men. [5]But the angel said to the women, “Do not be afraid, for I know that you seek Jesus who was crucified. [6]† He is not here, for he has risen, as he said. Come, see the place where he[1] lay. [7]† Then go quickly and tell his disciples that he has risen from the dead, and behold, he is going before you to Galilee; there you will see him. See, I have told you.” [8]† So they departed quickly from the tomb with fear and great joy, and ran to tell his disciples. [9]† And behold, Jesus met them and said, “Greetings!” And they came up and took hold of his feet and worshiped him. [10]† Then Jesus said to them, “Do not be afraid; go and tell my brothers to go to Galilee, and there they will see me.”

The Report of the Guard

11 ‡† While they were going, behold, some of the guard went into the city and told the chief priests all that had taken place. 12 † And when they had assembled with the elders and taken counsel, they gave a sufficient sum of money to the soldiers 13 ‡ and said, “Tell people, ‘His disciples came by night and stole him away while we were asleep.’ 14 And if this comes to the governor’s ears, we will satisfy him and keep you out of trouble.” 15 So they took the money and did as they were directed. And this story has been spread among the Jews to this day.

The Great Commission

16 ‡ † Now the eleven disciples went to Galilee, to the mountain to which Jesus had directed them. 17 † And when they saw him they worshiped him, but some doubted. 18 ‡ † And Jesus came and said to them, “All authority in heaven and on earth has been given to me. 19 † Go therefore and make disciples of all nations, baptizing them in[1] the name of the Father and of the Son and of the Holy Spirit, 20 † teaching them to observe all that I have commanded you. And behold, I am with you always, to the end of the age.”

Introduction to Matthew

Reading Matthew

A brilliant halo of white light envelops the walls of Herod's temple. The white limestone blocks gleam at the edges as the light slips around them. Travelers camping on the Mount of Olives wonder at the temple's beauty. As the sun descends, the color of the heavens paints the temple yellow, then red, then purple, until finally heaven and earth meld in darkness. The great, glorious building that seemed so permanent has disappeared.

When Jesus taught in Galilee, "The kingdom of heaven is at hand" (4:17), and at the temple, "There will not be left here one stone upon another" (24:2), it must have seemed like a dream to His disciples. The ways of the world and their glory must have seemed permanent. And yet, as Jesus preached, the sun was setting on the old ways because God had promised He would come to reign. In the Gospel according to Matthew, Jesus reveals the glorious appearing of the kingdom of heaven.

Jeffrey Gibbs characterizes Matthew's account as follows:

> Addressing a broad Christian audience of Jewish and Gentile worshiping communities in Syria and Palestine during the middle of the first century AD, Matthew the apostle extended the Scriptures of Israel by authoritatively narrating how the end-time reign of God had broken into the world through the historical deeds and the words of Jesus of Nazareth, God's Son and God's Christ. The former tax gatherer's narrative reflected the common apostolic proclamation about Jesus' ministry, culminating in His vicarious death and resurrection. At the same time, Matthew of Capernaum independently portrayed with special emphasis that (1) Jesus, Son of David and true King of Israel, fulfilled God's dealings with His people in the OT, and that (2) this Jesus is the mighty Judge whose return on the Last Day will usher in both final salvation for all God's people and final judgment for all God's enemies, and that (3) until the age's consummation, the disciples of the Son of God are to occupy themselves with extending Jesus' own mission to save both Jew and Gentile. This mission takes place by telling the Good News of Jesus' reign-of-God ministry among human beings (Mt 26:13), by baptizing in the triune name of Father, Son, and Holy Spirit (28:19), and by instructing Jesus' disciples in the whole revelation of God, especially that revealed in Jesus' own teaching (28:20).

Challenges for Readers

Relationship to Other Gospels. See pp 1571–74.

Jesus and the Community of Faith. Since the Gospel according to Matthew is the only Gospel to directly mention congregations (16:18; 18:17), some interpreters have emphasized the role of the early Christian churches in writing this Gospel. A typical critical argument is that Matthew strongly reflects the needs, interests, and interpretations of early congregations and that members of these congregations made up the stories and teachings about Jesus' life to address issues of their time and place. Although Matthew does focus more on the community of faith than do the other Gospels, that does not mean his Gospel is about early churches rather than the actual events and teachings of Jesus. Matthew answers questions about congregational life while faithfully describing Jesus' ministry, which founded the community of faith.

Order and Meaning in the Story. In the Gospels, the teachings and events of Jesus' life are not simply gathered together randomly but are presented (narrated) for the instruction of the reader. Matthew's account illustrates this clearly by the five sermons, or discourses, that organize Jesus' teaching into blocks (chs 5–7; 10; 13; 18; 24–25). The passages before and after each saying or event often help the reader interpret their meaning and role in the larger story. The study of these relationships (narrative criticism) is important for interpreting and applying the Gospel message. In other words, it is important to study the story as Matthew presents it before comparing his account with other Gospels. See pp 1571–74.

The Sermon on the Mount. A long-standing debate questions whether the Sermon on the Mount (chs 5–7) presents Law or Gospel. Jesus did not present this sermon specifically to convict people of their sins (though that may certainly happen as people read the sermon). In its context in Matthew, the sermon describes the way people who have received the reign of God now live.

Interpreting and Applying Parables. See note, 13:3.

Eschatology. Matthew emphasizes that the life and teachings of Jesus fulfill God's plan to reign over His people from heaven. In Jesus, the end-times reign of God has come. In Matthew, Jesus mentions the "kingdom of God" or the "kingdom of heaven" 48 times. This is the single most important theme of the Gospel.

Blessings for Readers

As you read the Gospel according to Matthew, rejoice especially in the very full accounting he gives of Jesus' teachings. His five discourses record more of Jesus' parables and sayings than are recorded by Mark and Luke. Also take special note of the promise that Christ is coming again to reign eternally. As you face struggles, dwell on this sure and certain hope in your Savior.

OUTLINE

Matthew divides at 4:17 and again at 16:21 with these words: "From that time Jesus began to …" Another important dividing phrase appears at the end of each discourse: "And when Jesus had finished …" (7:28; 11:1; 13:53; 19:1; 26:1). The Parables of Our Lord

The differences between parables, allegories, similes, and metaphors are not easily defined. Often there is scarcely any difference. In a technical sense, the word parable (Gk parabole) ordinarily means "a complete, imaginary story that illustrates some spiritual truth." But the word originally signified the placing of two or more objects together for the sake of comparison. In the Gospels, parables are typically (1) allegorical stories that reveal how God is inaugurating His heavenly reign on earth through Jesus, or (2) such a story teaching disciples how they should live in view of God's reign.

The public preaching of our Lord assumed the general characteristic of speaking in parables. For example, "All these things Jesus said to the crowds in parables; indeed, He said nothing to them without a parable" (Mt 13:34). This is clearly seen in the Synoptic Gospels. However, only one parabolic saying appears in the Gospel of John: the Good Shepherd (10:1–21). The chart at right lists Jesus' parabolic sayings in the Synoptics, though it does not necessarily list all His parabolic sayings. For more on parables and their interpretation, see note, Mt 13:3. See also "Enigmatic Sayings," p 1775.

[*] Jesus used parables to warn about God's final judgment (punishment and bliss). But accounts of God's judgment are never portrayed as mere stories or illustrations. Interpreters must distinguish between the parables and the very real judgment they teach. For example, the parable of the weeds (Mt 13:24–30) and the parable of the net (Mt 13:47–48) clearly stand in a list of parabolic stories. But when Jesus interprets these parables, He explains God's real, coming judgment (Mt 13:37–43, 49–50). Likewise, the stories of the lost sheep and the lost coin (Lk 15:3–10) are clearly labeled as parables (Lk 15:3). But the rejoicing of the angels describes a heavenly reality (15:7, 10). Interpreters often label the story of the rich man and Lazarus (Lk 16:19–31) and the dividing of the sheep and goats (Mt 25:31–46) as parables because they fit with Jesus' style of storytelling.

But the Gospels do not call them parables, as though they were simply illustrations with no basis in reality (see note, Lk 16:19–31). Like the passages above, they warn about God's very real and coming judgment and His promise of eternal life for the righteous.

The Keys of the Kingdom

The Ministry of the Keys and Confession

> I will give you the keys of the kingdom of heaven, and whatever you bind on earth shall be bound in heaven, and whatever you loose on earth shall be loosed in heaven. (Mt 16:19)

Almost everyone uses some kind of key every day. We have car keys and house keys. Children have keys to their lockers at school and keys to secure their bikes. We may not think much about our keys—until we lose them or lock them inside the trunk.

In Mt 16:19, our Lord Jesus talks about the most important Keys of all. He calls them the "keys of the kingdom of heaven." Elsewhere, Christ said to all His disciples, "If you forgive the sins of any, they are forgiven them; if you withhold forgiveness from any, it is withheld" (Jn 20:23). And in Mt 18:18, Christ speaks to Christian congregations in every place and every time when He says, "Whatever you bind on earth shall be bound in heaven, and whatever you loose on earth shall be loosed in heaven." Amazing as it may seem, Jesus has entrusted the Keys of the kingdom of heaven to His Church. We have received the authority of our Lord Himself to distribute the gift of divine pardon to all penitent sinners.

The Key That Locks Up Heaven

Jesus speaks of two Keys. The first is used for "binding," or locking, the gates of heaven. Scripture itself gives us a striking example of this use of this Key. A member of the congregation in Corinth began living in incest with his father's wife—probably his stepmother. Apparently, this fellow would have been content to continue living in this sin. By his impenitent lifestyle, he trampled Christ's blood underfoot. He spat upon the cross, figuratively speaking. St Paul warned the congregation, "Purge the evil person from among you" (1Co 5:13). The wake-up call worked. It shook up the entire body of believers in Corinth and brought the sinner to his knees in grief and fear (2Co 2:5–11).

Jesus makes it clear that we have enough "logs" in our own eyes and need not go snooping around to discover "specks" in the eyes of fellow believers (Mt 7:4). Nevertheless, some sins compel us to confront the sinner. Just as compassion compels a doctor to care for an injured person who has fallen unconscious, so believers must deal in compassion with those in their fellowship who live in sin, seemingly oblivious to its consequences.

First of all, we pray for those who show no concern for their own souls. We visit with them about the danger, following the directions Jesus gives in Mt 18. We work patiently to win them back. Sometimes, erring brothers or sisters are brought back to Christ in repentance and faith. This brings us joy, even as it evokes a celebration in heaven! (Lk 15:7).

At other times, heaven weeps over sinners who refuse to acknowledge their sin and who continue to reject God's Word. Such people may even come right out and say, "I do not believe anymore." In cases like this, we must tell the truth. Since they reject Christ and the salvation He has won for them, the gate of heaven is locked to them. If they die in their unbelief, they will be lost forever. Nevertheless, if such individuals repent and return, Christ's heart is open to them—as are the hearts of everyone in His family.

Someone may object, saying that only God can look into someone's heart to judge whether penitent faith lies within. That is clearly true. But Jesus has directed us—commanded us—to deal with the facts as we know them. We have no choice but to obey Him. This use of this Key serves as the strongest possible warning that no sinner dare take sin lightly or treat it flippantly.

The Key That Opens Heaven

Happily, Christ speaks of another Key: "Whatever you loose on earth shall be loosed in heaven" (Mt 16:19). The second Key "looses," or opens, the gate to heaven. We use this Key whenever we tell someone, "Your sins are forgiven." Christ authorizes every Christian to share this Good News of the Gospel. Whenever a troubled sinner shares his burden with us, we can remind him of Christ's death and what it accomplished for him.

Congregations call pastors to use this Key in public on their behalf. The pastor uses it in almost every worship service. The congregation prays a prayer of general confession of sins, and the pastor pronounces Absolution. That Absolution, spoken in Christ's name and at His command, opens for us the gates of heaven.

All believers struggle with their own pet sins. We may fall into sins of gossip, hatred, jealousy, lust, laziness, greed, or pride. Satan continually accuses our conscience of these sins. We may find our hearts flooded with shame over hurt that we have caused or harm that we have brought into someone else's life. At times like these, private confession can restore our peace and deepen our faith in our Savior's love for us.

When we confess our sins privately to our pastor, we need not mention every single sin. For one thing, that would be impossible. We commit sins of which we are not even aware. In Ps 19, David prayed, "Who can discern his errors? Declare me innocent from hidden faults" (v 12).

Scripture promises that we can trust the Absolution spoken in the stead and by the command of Christ by our pastor as confidently as if we heard our Lord Jesus Himself speaking from heaven: "I therefore forgive you all your sins in the name of the Father and of the Son and of the Holy Spirit." What relief that Absolution gives! What power it conveys as we combat Satan's temptations to unbelief and despair!

How thankfully we should use the Keys Christ has given us as we extend His pardon to others and also receive that pardon for ourselves!

> What do you believe according to these words [John 20:22–23]?
> I believe that when the called ministers of Christ deal with us by His divine command, in particular when they exclude openly unrepentant sinners from the Christian congregation and absolve those who repent of their sins and want to do better, this is just as valid and certain, even in heaven, as if Christ our dear Lord dealt with us Himself. (SC, Confession, p xl)

Faithful to Christ—and to Caesar

> Render to Caesar the things that are Caesar's, and to God the things that are God's. (Mt 22:21)

In the days of Jesus' earthly ministry, the land of Israel lay under the control of the powerful Roman Empire, whose ruler held the title "Caesar." Most Jews hated the Roman occupation. We can understand this hatred when we stop to think about what it might be like to have troops from a foreign nation keeping order on the corners of the streets in our town or city.

Our Lord's enemies used the hatred of the Jews in an attempt to trap Jesus. They asked Him, "Is it lawful to pay taxes to Caesar, or not?" (Mt 22:17). If Jesus said yes, He would seem to be taking sides with the Roman occupation, a stance bound to deflate His popularity with the people. On the other hand, if Jesus said no, His enemies could charge Him with sedition and inciting rebellion. Rome would take that kind of charge seriously indeed. But Jesus knew His enemies' motives. He would not allow hypocrites like these to trap Him.

Pointing to a coin with Caesar's image and name on it, Jesus replied, "Render to Caesar the things that are Caesar's." In other words, pay your taxes; you owe it to Caesar. Scripture teaches that every government is established by God. Ultimately, this is why citizens owe government their obedience and allegiance (Jn 19:11; Rm 13:1–7). Democracies; kingdoms; dictatorships. Some governments rule with an iron fist; others, with an open hand. Regardless of their approach, God holds the nations and their rulers in His hands (cf Is 40:15–24).

Our Lord raises up earthly governments to prevent anarchy and injustice. Martin Luther and other reformers called these earthly governments "the kingdom of the left hand." As bad as conditions in society can get, they would be much worse if no one made laws and enforced them. Still, because all human beings, including human rulers, are sinners, no earthly government will enact and enforce perfect laws. If we live in a country in which government officials at least attempt to act in justice, we have plenty for which to thank God.

Even so, whether we believe our government acts justly or not, Jesus makes our obligations to it clear. "Rendering to Caesar" involves much more than simply paying taxes. It includes obeying the laws enacted by the government and serving in the military if called to such duty. If we live under some form of democracy, it means taking seriously our responsibility to vote. It involves praying for our nation, that God will give us wise and good rulers and that He will bless our land with peace and prosperity. In addition, Christians are to speak out against injustice when we see it. This, too, is a duty of Christians—a duty perhaps we have often neglected.

The Kingdom of the Right Hand

Our Lord did not stop at saying, "Render to Caesar the things that are Caesar's." He concluded with these words: "Render … to God the things that are God's" (Mt 22:21). Here, Jesus expands our citizenship beyond the earthly country in which we live. Although we live in an earthly state, we also live under another flag. This Kingdom is far superior to any earthly nation.

Jesus taught His disciples many things about this Kingdom. Matthew's Gospel records many of these teachings. Jesus began His ministry with this message: "Repent, for the kingdom of heaven is at hand" (Mt 4:17). Toward the end of His ministry, just before He instituted the Lord's Supper, our Savior talked about the culmination of His kingdom in heaven. He promised, "I will not drink again of this fruit of the vine until that day when I drink it new with you in My Father's kingdom" (Mt 26:29).

Unlike the governments of the earth, God's kingdom has different purposes and different means to carry out its ends. This "kingdom of the right hand," the kingdom of God, is a kingdom of love, founded by the One who on the cross poured out His blood as a sacrifice for all human sin. This mighty Kingdom is ruled by the King of kings and Lord of lords, who holds the whole world and the entire universe in His hand. It is an everlasting Kingdom, established by the One who on Easter Sunday broke the iron grip of death and opened the gates of paradise to all believers. People from every nation under the sun belong to this Kingdom, for the King has commanded us, "Go therefore and make disciples of all nations" (Mt 28:19).

God's kingdom does not spread by force of arms or physical threats. Rather, it uses spiritual means to accomplish its ends. Through the means of grace (Word and Sacraments), our mighty King delivers people from the devil's clutches, brings them to Himself, and keeps them loyal to Him in faith.

In faith and love for the Savior, Christians want to serve God and their neighbors faithfully. When we worship, when we give money to help the poor, when we rake a shut-in's lawn or prepare a meal for a grieving family, we exercise our citizenship in Christ's kingdom. We do not do these things to avoid paying a fine. We do not serve because we fear imprisonment.

Rather, we live our lives to please our heavenly King. Our loyalty to Christ's kingdom always comes first. We must disobey any earthly government that demands we compromise our Christian discipleship.

Just how do believers "render to God the things that are God's"? Everything we have—our life, our possessions, our families, our children, our health, our wealth—belongs to Him already. How can we ever repay the Savior whose blood has washed away our sins? We thank and praise, serve and obey our gracious God by showing love to all those whom God puts in our life to respect, care for, and live with.

God's Reliable Word

The problem posed by Mt 27:9–10 has interested critics and defenders of the Holy Scriptures for at least 1,700 years (see Eusebius, The Proof of the Gospel 10:4). Critics have attacked the Bible's reliability by pointing to what seems like an obvious mistake in its text. Matthew writes, "Then was fulfilled what had been spoken by the prophet Jeremiah" but follows immediately with words from Zec 11:13.

Augustine was among the earliest to provide an explanation (NPNF 1 6:191–93). Medieval interpreters and also Luther followed his opinion, even saying that the Holy Spirit allowed the evangelist to make a "slight error" (Latin levis error; see AE 20:321). Modern critics have loved to point out this passage and the Church Fathers' description of it as proof positive that the Holy Scriptures are unreliable and filled with errors.

Chains of Biblical Quotations

The critics overlook a number of points on this issue. First, at a time when manuscripts were very rare and expensive, readers resorted to a variety of ways for studying and remembering key passages. Scribes often prepared collections of texts on a topic as a means for exploring and learning the teachings of Scripture. In The Harmony of All Sacred Scripture, Michael Walther provided numerous examples of this practice and the writers' habit of merging quotations (Harmonia Totius S. Scripturae [Strasbourg: Eberhard Zetzner, 1626], 416). Below is Walther's list with some additions:

> Mt 21:5 contains Is 62:11; Zec 9:9
> Mt 21:13 contains Is 56:7; Jer 7:11
> Mk 1:2–3 contains Mal 3:1; Is 40:3
> Ac 1:20 contains Ps 69:25; 109:8
> Rm 3:10–18 contains Ps 14:1–3; 53:1–3; 5:9; 140:3; Pr 1:16; Is 59:7–8; Ps 36:1
> 1Pt 2:7 contains Ps 118:22; Is 8:14

The example from Mk 1:2–3 is especially helpful for understanding Mt 27:9–10. Mark ascribes his quote to Isaiah, but the full quote is actually a mixture of Malachi and Isaiah—and Malachi gets quoted first. When we carefully consider Mt 27:9–10, we see that the first words of the text come from Zec 11:13. But there is also wording from Jer 32:6–9. It appears that both Matthew and Mark named their lists by the larger prophetic books cited in the lists. (Zechariah and Malachi were perhaps less likely to suggest themselves for the titling, since they stood in the scroll of the minor prophets.)

God's Word Cannot Err

A second matter the critics overlook is that, even after the Fathers described Mt 27 as containing a "slight error," they still confessed that God's Word does not err, which will be explained below. Here are some quotes of the Fathers from the first century through the Reformation:

> 1 Clem: "Look carefully into the Scriptures, which are the true utterances of the Holy Spirit. Observe that nothing of an unjust or counterfeit character is written in them." (ANF 1:17)
>
> Aug: "If we are perplexed by an apparent contradiction in Scripture, it is not allowable to say, The author of this book is mistaken; but either the manuscript is faulty, or the translation is wrong, or you have not understood…. For the utterances of Scripture, harmonious as if from the mouth of one man, commend themselves to the belief of the most accurate and clear-sighted piety, and demand for their discovery and confirmation the calmest intelligence and the most ingenious research…. So that, if any one is perplexed by the apparent contradiction, the only conclusion is that he does not understand." (NPNF 1 4:180)
> Gratian: "In the canonical Scriptures falsehood is not admitted." (Decreta Dist IX)
>
> Thomas Aquinas: "Our faith rests upon the revelation made to the apostles and prophets who wrote the canonical books, and not on the revelations (if any such things there are) made to other doctors. Hence Augustine says (Epis. ad Hieron. xix, 1): 'Only those books of Scripture which are called canonical have I learned to hold in such honor as to believe their authors have not erred in any way in writing them.' " (Summa Theologica I, Q1, art 8)
> Luth: "The saints could err in their writings and sin in their lives, but the Scriptures cannot err." (AE 36:137)

> Luth: “God does not lie [Titus 1:2]. I and my neighbor and, in short, all people, may err and deceive. But God’s Word cannot err.” (LC IV 57)

This last quote from Luther connects us to some of his favorite passages as a writer. He often refers to Nu 23:19 or Ti 1:2 to emphasize how reliable God’s Word is. As the Lord Himself confesses, “My word … shall accomplish that which I purpose, and shall succeed in the thing for which I sent it” (Is 55:11), including our edification and salvation.

The Two Natures of Holy Scripture

As you study the Scripture, bear in mind its two natures: human and divine. At times, the human nature of Scripture shows through in loose quotations (Mt 27:9–10), round figures (1Ki 7:23), and examples of human weakness (1Co 1:16). People speak and write in these ways daily without anyone accusing them of error. For example, would you attack someone for saying, "The sun will rise in the morning" when everyone knows the earth actually revolves around the sun? Of course not! This "slight error" is just a customary expression for our perspective from earth. The examples given here are perfectly natural ways to communicate, which everyone understands.

Even Jesus—God in the flesh—displayed typical human characteristics (e.g., Mt 24:36; Mk 4:38; Jn 19:28). Yet He did not err or sin by them (Heb 4:15; 1Pt 2:22; 1Jn 3:5). Instead, He lived as one of us and bore our sins (2Co 5:21).

As you recognize and identify with the human nature of Scripture, rejoice also in its divine nature! Across the centuries, Holy Scripture has prophesied God's plan and purpose in our salvation; we see those promises fulfilled. We hear the testimony of a great host of witnesses across the ages who have been blessed, encouraged, enlightened, and strengthened by reading or hearing God's miraculous and life-giving Word. Take in hand these sacred texts with confidence and read them in faith. Although Scripture was written by men and has a human nature, we may rightly call it divine—God's inerrant Word.

Which Tomb?

Matthew, Mark, Luke, and John all tell us that Jesus was crucified at "the Place of a Skull." We also know the place as Calvary or Golgotha; both words mean "skull," in Latin and Aramaic respectively. Matthew tells us that Joseph of Arimathea "took the [Lord's] body … and laid it in his own new tomb" (Mt 27:59–60). John adds the detail that our Savior's tomb was nearby Calvary, "in the place where He was crucified" (Jn 19:41).

So where was the place called Calvary? Where was Christ's tomb? Strange as it may sound, we do not know for sure. First-century Christians, of course, were in no position to erect historic markers. As a persecuted minority, many of them eventually fled from Jerusalem. Furthermore, in AD 70, Roman legions, commanded by General Titus, destroyed the city. Given all this, as well as the 2,000-year gap that separates us from our Lord's death and resurrection, it is not surprising that no one today can claim to know for certain the exact locations of our Savior's death and burial. However, two sites vie for the honor.

The Garden Tomb

A place called "the Garden Tomb" is situated about 200 yards north of the old walled city of Jerusalem. (See diagram, p 1627.) Many cars, taxis, and donkeys travel past this site on their way to and from the city's busiest entrance, the Damascus Gate. Children skip by. Friends stop and greet each other, "Salaam alaikum. Peace be with you!" As Jesus hung dying, much traffic passed by the Place of the Skull also. But those greetings had no friendly tone. Scripture tells us, "Those who passed by derided Him" (Mt 27:39).

Once a visitor stands inside the garden, the hustle and bustle of the city seem a thousand miles away. The wall around the garden creates a world of peace and tranquillity within. In this restful setting, the visitor can sit on wooden benches in the shade. From this vantage point, one can see a tomb in the side of a hill, just as Matthew describes it, "cut in the rock" (27:60). To one side lies a piece of the large round stone that may once have blocked the entrance.

Seen from the inside, this tomb was clearly meant to serve as a site for family burials. Shelflike burial places cut in the rock line three walls. (See diagram, p 1823.) In fact, the entire tomb is bare rock. A rocky hill rises behind this tomb. Caves in the hillside look like the eye sockets of a human skull. Some think this hill was Golgotha. Because the British General Charles Gordon investigated the site of the so-called Garden Tomb in 1883, the hill located behind it is often called "Gordon's Calvary."

The Holy Sepulchre

While the Garden Tomb brings forth thoughts of "Joseph's lovely garden," the Church of the Holy Sepulchre disappoints many visitors. The Garden Tomb is fresh and restful. The Holy Sepulchre is dismal and musty. Its ancient stones have suffered so much destruction and rebuilding that one observer has described the building as "one of the most complicated architectural, stylistic, and chronological jumbles on the face of the earth."

Immediately inside the church's entrance lies a long reddish slab of stone. This is the Stone of Unction where, according to tradition, Jesus' body was anointed for burial. To the right of this stone, steps ascend the traditional site of Calvary, now crowned with two chapels. The first chapel is Roman Catholic and is said to mark the place where soldiers nailed Jesus to the cross. The other chapel is Greek Orthodox, with portions of it belonging to the Armenian, Coptic, Ethiopian, and Syrian branches of Christendom. It is replete with gold and silver-encased icons and hundreds of candles. A silver disk beneath the altar marks the spot where the Lord's cross supposedly stood. See "Traditional Crucifixion Site," p 1627.

Down the steps and beneath the chapel's rotunda stands a large alabaster structure known as the "edicule." Inside is a room big enough for only three or four people. This room houses the tomb, with a marble slab marking the place where Jesus is said to have lain. Instead of bare rock, this tomb is a conglomeration of candlesticks, silver pictures, and marble. Amid all the ornamentation hangs a white cloth with a cross and the words "Christ is risen" (Greek Christos aneste).

Which Is the Real Site?

The Garden Tomb appeals to the senses and satisfies the imagination. But tradition favors the Church of the Holy Sepulchre. Although it now lies within Jerusalem's walls, in Christ's day the site was outside them. Thus both tombs fit the words of Heb 13:12: "So Jesus also suffered outside the gate in order to sanctify the people through His own blood."

But does it really matter which is the real tomb? In one sense, no. What matters is that Christ shed His blood and died for us. He Himself has borne the world's sins and removed them from the people. No matter where we live, our sins are now "outside the gate." As a result, Jesus Christ Himself, not any particular plot of earth, deserves our veneration.

Yet the tombs do serve a purpose. They remind us that the crucifixion and death of our Savior were not myths that took place in some never-never land. As we confess in the Apostles' Creed, Jesus Christ, our Lord, "was crucified, died and was buried"—in fulfillment of God's prophetic Word—on a real cross, in a real tomb, in the city of Jerusalem.

There remains, of course, the possibility that neither of these two sites is authentic. Still, both tombs have much to back their claims. And, yes, there is one more piece of evidence that could fit either tomb. Both of them are empty!

Study Notes

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 1:1–17 See note, Lk 3:23–38.
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 1:1 book. A written document, often rolled up as a scroll (cf Lk 4:20). The book as we know it today (bound pages; Lat codex) was an emerging technology at this time. Jesus. Personal name meaning "the Lord is salvation" (see note, v 21). Christ. See p 2098. son of David. Jesus was a descendant of King David, from whose family the Messiah was to come. See note, Ru 4:17; see also p 2098. Abraham. Father of the Israelites, through whom all nations were to be blessed. This blessing is realized in Jesus. See note, Gn 12:2.
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 1:3 Tamar. Daughter-in-law of Judah; possibly a Gentile. Cf Gn 38. Tamar is one of four mothers mentioned in the genealogy of Jesus, none of whom were typical Judean women—a sign of God's grace to all people.
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 1:5 Rahab. This Gentile prostitute aided the Israelites who spied on Canaan before the conquest (Jsh 2:1–21). After Jericho was destroyed, Rahab and her family lived with the Israelites, and she became an ancestor of the Messiah.
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 1:6 David the king. See note, v 1. wife of Uriah. Bathsheba, with whom David committed adultery.
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 1:11 deportation. Babylon captured and destroyed Jerusalem in 587 BC and deported many Judeans into exile. This humbling experience was one of the most significant events in Israelite history. See "captivity," p 1079; see also map, p 717.
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 1:16 husband of Mary. Joseph was not the biological father of Jesus but the stepfather. See note, v 20. Christ. Cf v 1; see p 2098. This genealogy demonstrated that Jesus had the proper ancestors to be the Christ, though His claim was denounced as blasphemy by the Jewish high priest (26:63–65). Wycl: "He was without beginning, and without ending, and in his manhood begotten and not made" (TT, p 279).
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 1:17 fourteen. Matthew did not list every generation in this family tree but rather created a three-part structure that communicates a sense of completeness and fulfillment. See "Genealogies and Ages," p 9. The birth of the promised Messiah marked the end of the OT.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 1:1–17 In the genealogy of Jesus Christ, Matthew makes no effort to hide sinners and scandals. Instead, he highlights them. Jesus' ancestors include prostitutes, adulterers, violent men, and other sinners of all descriptions. Though this might surprise us, the truth is that there were no people other than sinners to make up His genealogy. Jesus' ancestors needed a Savior just as much as we do. If God, in His grace, can use such flawed and sinful people, how much more can He bless and use sinners who witness the Messiah's sinless sacrifice and believe in Him today! • Lord Jesus Christ, thank You for including me, a sinner, among those whom You came to save. Amen.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 1:18 betrothed. According to Jewish custom, betrothal was a legally binding relationship, the first stage of marriage. See pp 54–55. before they came together. Though betrothed, Joseph and Mary did not live together or have sexual relations. from the Holy Spirit. Mary became pregnant by a divine miracle, not through human means. See note, Lk 1:35.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 1:19 just man. Joseph, who wrongly assumed that Mary had been unfaithful to him, wished to live according to God's Law. See "righteous," p 843. divorce her quietly. The Law called for a betrothed woman to be stoned if she was guilty of adultery (Dt 22:23–24). See application note, Dt 24:1–4. Joseph felt compassion for Mary and planned to dissolve their marriage contract as quietly as possible.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 1:20 angel of the Lord. The Lord's messenger revealed to Joseph the divine origin of Mary's pregnancy. The angel is mentioned again in 2:13, 19. See p 1227. dream. A common means of revelation in the OT (see p 74), esp in the story of the patriarch Joseph (Gn 37–50). son of David. As Jesus' legal father, Joseph brought Him into the royal line of David. See note, v 16. from the Holy Spirit. See note, v 18.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 1:21 save His people. The personal name of the Messiah indicated what He would do (see note, v 1). See p 1904. Chrys: "[Matthew] darkly signified the Gentiles too. For 'His people' are not the Jews only, but also all that draw nigh and receive the knowledge that is from Him" (NPNF 1 10:26).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 1:22 fulfill … prophet. First of 10 times where Matthew introduces an OT passage with these words. See pp 1245, xlv–

xlvii.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 1:23 virgin ... Immanuel. Isaiah's Immanuel prophecy was originally addressed to the unbelieving King Ahaz of Judah, but its fulfillment came only with Mary's virginal conception and Jesus' birth. See notes, Is 7:14, 16. God with us. Cypr: "Christ is God" (ANF 5:517). The name Immanuel revealed that the human child born in Bethlehem was none other than the "Mighty God" (Is 9:6). Ter: "He who was going to consecrate a new order of birth, must Himself be born after a novel fashion…. This is the new nativity; a man is born in God. And in this man God was born" (ANF 3:536).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 1:24 took his wife. In contrast to King Ahaz, who doubted Isaiah's prophecy (see notes, Is 7:11–13), Joseph showed that he believed the word of the Lord.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 1:25 knew her not. Hbr expression. They did not have sexual intercourse. See note, Gn 19:5.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 1:18–25 Joseph serves as a model for believers. Before he knew the reason for Mary's pregnancy, he wanted to treat her justly but mercifully. However, when God's angel reveals the unique miracle of a virginal conception, Joseph believes, and he fulfills his responsibilities by marrying his betrothed and raising Jesus. Some people today struggle to believe the virgin birth, but it takes no more faith for us to believe than it did for Joseph. In fact, we have the evidence of Joseph's testimony to help us. He saw and believed that God can do what He promises. Likewise, the Holy Spirit works faith in our hearts to believe that God can do anything good and that Jesus is truly both God and man. • O Holy Spirit, strengthen my faith, and fill me with joy as I reflect on the miracle of Christ's birth. Amen.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 2:1 Bethlehem of Judea. C 5 mi S of Jerusalem. See map, p 1584. Town where David was born and anointed king (1Sm 16:1–13). Herod the king. Named king of Judea by the Roman Senate in 40 BC. Called "the Great" to distinguish him from his sons. He was a ruthless ruler whose paranoia caused him to kill family members and close associates. He likely died c 1 BC (the year of Jesus' birth was calculated erroneously by later historians). behold. This word, repeated in v 9, alerts the reader to something startling. wise men. See ESV note. Gk term loosely referred to a wide variety of people interested in dreams, astrology, and magic. On the timing of their arrival, see note, v 16. from the east. These Gentiles probably came from Persia, Babylon, or Arabia. Their kind of wisdom was not always God-pleasing. See note, Dt 18:10–11.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 2:2 king of the Jews? It is surprising that these Gentile Magi would be looking for a Jewish king. Jesus comes for all nations. His star. The Magi may have seen a natural astronomical phenomenon, but more likely the appearance of the star was a miraculous event (cf v 9). They may have linked the star with a Jewish king through acquaintance with OT prophecy. See note, Nu 24:17. when it rose. See ESV note. Gk term for "east" and "rising" is the same. worship. Though the Gk word may also describe the reverence one would show a king, it commonly describes divine worship in the NT.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 2:3 all Jerusalem with him. Herod feared that his rule might be challenged. The people dreaded Herod's rage (see note, v 1) and his cruel reaction to this report (v 16). As an Idumean (Edomite), Herod continued the relationship of rivalry with God's chosen people (see note, Gn 27:39–40).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 2:4 chief priests. Current and former high priests. scribes. Students of God's Word who interpreted and taught the Scriptures. See pp 719–20. where the Christ was to be born. Herod's question indicated his awareness of OT promises of a Messiah.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 2:5 prophet. Micah. See note, Mi 5:2.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 2:6 you, O Bethlehem ... a ruler. Micah spoke this prophecy more than 700 years earlier, at a time when Assyria threatened Judah. The birth of Christ fulfilled the promise of a ruler from Bethlehem. who will shepherd My people Israel. Wording based on the Lord's commissioning of David as king of Israel. See note, 2Sm 5:2.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 2:7 Herod calculated that the child was born when the Magi first observed the star.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 2:8 Herod sought to deceive the Magi, hoping they would report back to him what they found, that he might finalize his plan to kill the infant king.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 2:9 The star the Magi had seen in their homeland now guided them from Jerusalem to the very house where Joseph, Mary, and Jesus were living (v 11). God was obviously leading these Gentiles in their quest for the King of the Jews.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 2:10 rejoiced exceedingly with great joy. Matthew piles one expression of joy on another to emphasize the Magi's feelings.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 2:11 Unclear whether the Magi worshiped Jesus as true God or revered Him only as an earthly king. "Worship" implies they realized that Jesus was more than just a human king. See note, v 2. The Magi's gifts to Jesus were expensive but not uncommon presents for a king. frankincense. See note, Lv 2:1. myrrh. See note, Sg 3:6.
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 2:12 warned in a dream. To allow time for the Holy Family to escape to Egypt, God kept Herod in the dark about where Jesus was. See p 74.
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 2:1–12 God uses a star, Scripture, and a dream to guide the Magi on their way to and from Bethlehem. They are the first of many Gentiles to worship Jesus. Today, through His Word, the Father guides people of all nations to Christ. Jesus is the "star" the Father provided for us so that we can see our Savior. The Holy Spirit works faith in our hearts through the Gospel, and like the Magi, we joyfully offer our gifts of thanksgiving to Jesus. • "Holy Spirit, light divine, Shine upon this heart of mine; … Let me see my Savior's face, Let me all His beauties trace; Show those glorious truths to me Which are only known to Thee." Amen. (LSB 496:1–2)
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 2:13 flee to Egypt. C 175 mi SW of Jerusalem, outside Herod's jurisdiction. Joseph was told to stay in Egypt till he received further instructions.
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 2:14 by night. Joseph obeyed the angel's command that very night.
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 2:15 death of Herod. See note, v 1. prophet. Hosea. Out of Egypt I called My son. In Hos 11:1, the Lord referred to Israel as "My son," whom He called out of Egypt at the time of the exodus. Jesus is here named as God's one and only Son, who was the representative and substitute for all Israel. God would also call this Son out of Egypt to redeem His sinful people.
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 2:13–15 After God's warning, Joseph immediately flees with his family in the middle of the night. This is an example of how God protects His people. When threatening challenges surround us, we trust that God is in control and that He will protect us. Most of all, we know that He has already protected us from our greatest enemies: sin, death, and the devil. • Heavenly Father, keep me from ever doubting Your protecting care. Amen.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 2:16 saw that he had been tricked. Herod waited in vain for the Magi to return and report where the new king was living. all the male children ... two years old or under. The figure probably reflects how long it had been since the Magi first saw the star. Since Herod did not know which young boy might be his potential rival, he ordered a mass killing of all male children up to two years old in Bethlehem and the surrounding region. These young boys, traditionally called "The Holy Innocents," are regarded as the first martyrs in the NT.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 2:18 A voice was heard in Ramah ... they are no more. Rachel, the beloved wife of Jacob, died in childbirth and was buried in Ramah, just north of Jerusalem (Gn 35:16–20). Years later, Jeremiah pictured Rachel weeping for the Israelites who were exiled to Babylon. These OT stories of suffering anticipated the suffering caused by Herod. The sound of weeping was heard again when Herod slaughtered the infant boys of Bethlehem. See note, Jer 31:15.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 2:16–18 The young boys of Bethlehem die, but Jesus escapes. He escapes death at the hands of Herod, that later He might die on the cross for all sinners, even ones so cruel as Herod or so young as two-year-olds. Jesus sacrificed His innocent life to redeem all people from sin, death, and the power of the devil. Trusting in Jesus, we have perfect innocence before our Father in heaven. • We praise You, Jesus, for willingly giving up Your life at the proper time for our salvation. Amen.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 2:20–21 land of Israel. This expression, used nowhere else in the NT, suggests that Jesus' return from Egypt was like ancient Israel's leaving Egyptian slavery to dwell in the Promised Land.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 2:22 Archelaus. After Herod's death, this son was made ruler of Judea, Samaria, and Idumea. A brutal tyrant, he was deposed and exiled in AD 6. warned. Joseph had evidently planned to go back to Bethlehem in Judea, but God directed him elsewhere. district of Galilee. Territory north of Judea and Samaria. The temple authorities in Jerusalem tended to look down on people living in Galilee because they came into contact with many more Gentiles.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 2:23 Nazareth. Former home of Joseph and Mary. Small, insignificant town not mentioned in the OT. Hardly the place from which to expect the Messiah. See notes, Jn 1:46; 7:52. prophets. Does not refer to one prophet but to OT prophets in general. called a Nazarene. Because Nazareth was a despised place, someone coming from there would also be despised. Matthew's comment reflects the surprising character of the outcome of these prophecies. That many would despise the Messiah is reflected in various OT prophecies (cf Ps 22:6–8, 13; Is 53:2–3, 8).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 2:19–23 God's revelation leads Joseph to take Mary as his wife. He later flees to Egypt and finally settles permanently in Nazareth with God's guidance. These events may have seemed confusing to Joseph, but God had a plan. All of the Lord's leading was to fulfill OT prophecies. We do not always know where God is leading us, but we can be sure that He will be with us and that His plans are for our good. • Loving Father, help me to pray with Jesus, "Your will be done," and follow where You lead. Amen.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 3:1 John the Baptist. Son of Zechariah, an elderly priest, and his wife, Elizabeth, Mary's relative (cf Lk 1:36; 57–66). Baptist. See note, Lk 7:20. preaching. God called John to prepare the way for Jesus (v 3). wilderness. See note, Mk 1:4.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 3:2 Repent. This exhortation, which John addressed to all Israel, called for a radical transformation of the entire person, a fundamental turnabout. To repent meant to be converted from unbelief to faith. See p 1080. "With one bolt of lightning, he hurls together both 'those selling and those buying works'. He says: 'Repent!' [Matthew 3:2]. Now one group imagines, 'Why, we have repented!' The other says, 'We need no repentance' " (SA III III 30–31). kingdom of heaven. This expression, used 32 times in Mt, means the same as "kingdom of God." "Kingdom" might better be translated "reign" because it refers not to a geographical location but to God's act of ruling. See pp 1565–66. at hand. God's rule was near in Christ.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 3:3 The voice. The prophet Isaiah so described the Lord's forerunner, John. paths straight. Repentance is compared to building a straight road.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 3:4 See note, Mk 1:6.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 3:5 going out to him. John's preaching caused enormous excitement.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 3:6 baptized. The goal of John's Baptism at the Jordan River was to produce repentance (see note, Mk 1:4). confessing their sins. Those who were baptized and confessed their sins could be certain of the forgiveness of sins (cf Mk 1:4; Lk 3:3). Chrys: "When the sacrifice was not yet offered … how was remission to take place? … Had they not condemned themselves, they could not have sought after His grace; and not seeking, they could not have obtained remission. Thus that baptism led the way for this; wherefore also he said, that 'they should believe on Him which should come after him' " (NPNF 1 10:62–63).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 3:7 Pharisees. See note, Mk 2:18. Sadducees. See p 1557. brood of vipers! ... wrath to come? See note, Lk 3:7.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 3:8 The Pharisees and Sadducees wanted John to baptize them without having repented and confessed their sins. Their works should give evidence of sincere repentance (cf Lk 3:10–14). "Confession, too, cannot be false, uncertain, or fragmentary. A person who confesses that everything in him is nothing but sin includes all sins, excludes none, forgets none. Neither can the satisfaction be uncertain, because it is not our uncertain, sinful work. Rather, it is the suffering and blood of the innocent Lamb of God, who takes away the sin of the world" (SA III III 37–38).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 3:9 Abraham as our father. Spiritual confidence based on biological descent from Abraham was no substitute for repentance. stones ... children. See note, Lk 3:8.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 3:10 See note, Lk 3:9.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 3:11 with water for repentance. See note, v 2. sandals I am not worthy. See note, Mk 1:7. baptize you with the Holy Spirit and fire. Jesus will baptize with the Holy Spirit those who repent, but the unrepentant will experience the fire of eternal punishment. Jesus baptized His disciples with the Holy Spirit at Pentecost (Ac 2:33) and continues to pour out the Spirit on believers through Word and Sacrament. See p 1815.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 3:12 winnowing fork … threshing floor. John compared the final judgment to threshing. See pp 422–23. wheat into the barn. Just as the harvester saved the wheat, God will save His people. barn. Pit or silo for storing grain. chaff He will burn. Likely refers to cleanup at the end of threshing season. Chaff had no value and so was burned. This is the eternal fate of those who refuse to repent. unquenchable fire. God's judgment (cf Is 30:27; Mal 3:2).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 3:1–12 John was a preacher of repentance, as was Martin Luther, who often emphasized that we believers must not only sincerely confess our sins but also be certain of forgiveness. Thank God for such preachers. • Almighty God, be merciful to me, a sinner. Burn my chaff, but quench my sinful passions in the daily washing of Holy Baptism. Amen.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 3:13 Jesus traveled at least 15 mi, perhaps much farther, to receive John's Baptism. The two were cousins (Lk 1:36–45) and likely knew each other.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 3:14 would have prevented. John refused to baptize the Pharisees and Sadducees because they failed to repent (v 8). Because Jesus was without sin, John also wanted to refuse Baptism to this One who was mightier than he (cf v 11). I need to be baptized. In Jesus' presence, John felt unclean (cf Is 6:1–5). He recognized that Jesus could do for him what no one else could.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 3:15 Jesus answered. First recorded words of Jesus in Mt. now. In the present context of Jesus' mission to save sinners (1:21). fitting for us to fulfill all righteousness. Jesus submitted to John's Baptism, the same that sinners were undergoing, in order to affirm His identity with sinners and to provide them with perfect righteousness (2Co 5:21). Hipp: "I am the Fulfiller of the law; I seek to leave nothing wanting to its whole fulfillment…. Baptize Me, John, in order that no one may despise baptism" (ANF 5:236). Jesus' Baptism marked the beginning of His public ministry and anticipated His death on the cross (cf Mk 10:38; Rm 6:3). The fact that all four Gospels report the Baptism of Jesus points to its importance. Luther captured the primary meaning for His Baptism: "[Christ] accepted it from John for the reason that he was entering into our stead, indeed, our person, that is, becoming a sinner for us, taking upon himself the sins which he had not committed, and wiping them out and drowning them in his holy baptism" (AE 51:315).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 3:16–17 What happened after the Baptism of Jesus was startling and completely unexpected. The entire Trinity was revealed when the Father's voice declared Jesus to be His beloved Son and the Spirit descended on Him. Mel: "In the New Testament the three persons are most clearly revealed in the baptism of Christ, where the Father says, 'This is My beloved Son,' and the Son is seen standing publicly in the river, and the Holy Spirit sits in visible form upon the Son" (Chem, LTh 1:51).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 3:16 up from the water. See note, Mk 1:10. behold. Cf v 17; see note, 2:1. opened to Him, and He saw. Matthew emphasizes that the Spirit's descent was for Jesus' benefit. Spirit. See note, Mk 1:10; cf Jn 14:26.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 3:17 voice. The Father's voice, so often heard in the OT, was heard anew. My beloved Son. The Father's declaration is for all to hear, including us today. Even John was not fully aware of Jesus' divine origin till now (Jn 1:31–34). well pleased. As the Father's beloved Son, Jesus fulfilled all righteousness (v 15), something that Israel, God's OT son, failed to do.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 3:13–17 Because Jesus is our substitute, we need not fear God's wrath and punishment for our sins. We are washed clean by the blood of the Lamb (Rv 7:14), who prepared the waters of Baptism for us. • Lord Jesus, You stood next to sinners in the waters of the Jordan. Stand with me now, and wash away my sins. Amen.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 4:1 Then ... led up by the Spirit. The Holy Spirit, whom Jesus received at His Baptism (3:16), at once led Him to be tested. wilderness. In Judea. See map, p 1584. A place associated with demons (cf 12:43). God also led Israel into the wilderness to wander 40 years (Dt 8:2). to be tempted. These temptations were not willed by the devil but by God, whose eternal plan called for the Savior to be tempted and to triumph. Jesus met the test as Israel had not (Ex 15:25; 20:20). As true man, Jesus experienced genuine temptation. As true God, He could overcome temptation. devil. Means "slanderer." Also called the tempter (v 3) and Satan (v 10), which means "adversary."

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 4:2 hungry. Israel had also experienced great hunger in the wilderness (Ex 16:3; 24:18). The devil's first temptation attacked a basic need.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 4:3 See note, Lk 4:3. If You are the Son of God. The devil attempted to get Jesus to prove what the Father had just declared (3:17) and so satisfy His hunger. loaves of bread. Jesus was tempted to provide bread miraculously for His own needs, just as God had miraculously provided manna for Israel.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 4:4 It is written. Repeated by Jesus in vv 7, 10. Here, Jesus quoted Moses' explanation to Israel of why God had let them hunger in the wilderness. Life does not depend on food alone but on the Word of God. Jesus did not exhibit His own glory by performing a miracle but displayed trust in the Word of His Father.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 4:5 took Him. The devil only seemed to be in charge. Ultimately, it was the Spirit who continued to lead Jesus (v 1). holy city. Jerusalem. pinnacle of the temple. See note, Lk 4:9.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 4:6 Son of God. See note, v 3. throw Yourself down. Such a rash action would likely result in death or severe injury. it is written. The devil sought to overthrow Jesus' previous use of Scripture by quoting a psalm in which God promises to command His angels to protect those who trust in Him (though significantly Satan omitted the phrase "in all your ways").

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 4:7 Jesus met this temptation by quoting Moses' warning to Israel against testing God as they had done at Massah (cf Ex 17:2–7). Jesus would have been guilty of the same sin had He felt it necessary to prove God's power by jumping from the temple pinnacle in an attempt to gain personal glory and fame.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 4:8 very high mountain. In this climactic temptation, the devil was permitted to create for Jesus a spiritual vision of "all the kingdoms of the world and their glory." An earthly mountain from which one could see all this does not exist. The nearest high point likely would have been Hebron in Judea. See color map 4.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 4:9 Though Satan has some dominion in this world (Col 1:13; 1Jn 5:19), here he offered things that were not his to give. Satan demanded that the Son of God worship him rather than do His Father's will.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 4:10 Be gone, Satan! Jesus had heard enough from Satan and ordered him to leave. This demonstrates the true extent of Jesus' authority as manifested later (cf 7:29). it is written. Jesus' third quotation of Scripture was from a passage where, with similar words, Moses admonished Israel to fear and serve the Lord rather than idols when they entered the Promised Land. If Jesus had worshiped the devil and rejected the way of the cross, He might well have gained earthly glory for Himself.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 4:11 the devil left Him. Satan was forced to depart. The Son of God had vanquished the old evil foe. Cf Jas 4:7. angels came and were ministering. Jesus had refused to relieve His hunger with a miracle (v 4). Now, miraculously, the angels served Him, probably also with food (cf 1Ki 19:6–7).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 4:1–11 The devil tempts Jesus to seek His own glory. Jesus refuses this path to walk the way of the cross. In love, He "did not count equality with God a thing to be grasped, but made Himself nothing, taking the form of a servant, being born in the likeness of men. And being found in human form, He humbled Himself by becoming obedient to the point of death, even death on a cross" (Php 2:6–8). He did all this for the sake of Israel, who had failed God's test. He did all this for our sake, because we, too, have failed God's test. Jesus is our substitute who defeated Satan for us, setting us free from sin, death, and the devil's power. • Mighty Hero, though devils fill the world, we do not fear because You have won the victory. Amen.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 4:12 arrested. Herod Antipas, son of Herod the Great and ruler of Galilee, imprisoned John for condemning his adulterous relationship with his brother's wife (cf 14:1–12). withdrew. Gk word can mean simply "departed" (2:12), with no idea of escape. As John's public ministry ended, Jesus' began.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 4:13 Capernaum. Modern Tel Hum. Fishing village and important garrison on the northwest shore of the Sea of Galilee. See map, p 1584. Home of Peter (8:14) and also the town where Matthew collected taxes (9:9). Capernaum served as Jesus' base of operations. Zebulun and Naphtali. Two of Israel's 12 tribes originally occupied this territory west of the Sea of Galilee. See map, p 365.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 4:15–16 The land of Zebulun ... light has dawned. The prophet Isaiah foretold that this land, through which the conquering Assyrian army had marched, would later see a "great light." Jesus, the light of the world (Jn 8:12), dispelled the darkness in which these people had walked. Hipp: "The two peoples [were] being brought together into one fold and under the hand of one chief Shepherd, the good (Shepherd) by nature, that is, Christ" (ANF 5:165).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 4:15 Galilee of the Gentiles. See note, 2:22. Galilee had a significant Gentile population. Here in despised Galilee, light dawned.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 4:17 began to preach. Marks a major transition in Mt, announcing the beginning of Jesus' public ministry. Repent ... is at hand. Cf 3:2, where John spoke identical words. The Church proclaims this same message today. See p 1080.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 4:18 Sea of Galilee. Freshwater fishing lake, c 13 mi by 8 mi, 682 ft below sea level. See map, p 1584. Simon (who is called Peter) and Andrew. Brothers originally from Bethsaida. See map, p 1584. Peter. Name given him by Jesus. See ESV note, 16:18. net. See notes, 13:47–48; Mk 1:16.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 4:19 See note, Mk 1:17.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 4:20 Immediately. These brothers responded at once to the overwhelming authority of Jesus' call. Their priorities would never again be the same.
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 4:21–22 James ... John ... followed Him. See note, Mk 1:19.
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 4:23–24 healing every disease … affliction. Mt and Lk emphasize that early in His ministry, Jesus healed everyone who came to Him (8:16; 9:35; 12:15; Lk 4:40; 6:19). (Mk writes "many" in 3:10.) Thus the Gospels set out the general character of Jesus' ministry in Galilee. They later note exceptions to those general trends: growing skepticism (Mt 12:22–32; Lk 11:14–23) and few miracles in Nazareth (Mt 13:54; Mk 6:5). Healings are emphasized less and less as Jesus journeys toward the cross. The miracles adorned Jesus' ministry to demonstrate that He is God's servant (Jn 3:2; Ac 2:22). They are not a witness that God will work wonders for all people, everywhere, at all times, as St Paul learned in 2Co 12:7–10.
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 4:23 First general summary of Jesus' ministry in Galilee. teaching. Important Gk term in Mt, used 14 times. See p 1904; cf Dt 6:7; Pr 1:8. synagogues. Places for reading and studying Scripture, perhaps in private homes. See p 1557. proclaiming. Also translated "preaching." gospel of the kingdom. Jesus announced the nearness of the reign of God (v 17; 3:2). See pp 1902, 1565–66. healing. The various diseases and afflictions cataloged in v 24 are evidence of how sin has spoiled God's creation. Jesus' healing miracles showed the nearness of God's reign and gave a foretaste of our final deliverance from disease and death. Cf Rv 22:2.
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 4:24 Syria. Refers loosely to the region north of Galilee, where both Jews and Gentiles lived. all the sick. Jesus gained instant fame from His healing powers. Five categories of illness are mentioned, and Jesus had power over all of them.
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 4:25 great crowds. An emphasis in Mt; "crowd" occurs 50 times. followed. The crowds physically followed Jesus, but not necessarily as disciples (cf v 19). Decapolis. Refers to 10 cities east of the Jordan with large Gentile populations. beyond the Jordan. The east bank, to which reference is made in Isaiah's prophecy (v 15). See color map 4.
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 4:12–25 Isaiah described the sinful state of this world: people walking in darkness and the shadow of death, unable to find their way and lacking the ability to help themselves. Into this black hole comes Jesus, the light of the world. His great light shines first in Galilee, where He calls disciples, teaches, preaches, and heals. His great light continues to shine in our darkness. The good news of God's reign continues to be sounded in Word and Sacrament. To sinful, hurting people, Jesus gives life, hope, and deliverance. • May Your light shine in us as we share Your Gospel with the world, O Christ, our light. Shine on us and through us. Amen.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON Chs 5–7 See pp 1575–77.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 5:1 Seeing the crowds. Jesus separated Himself from the "great crowds" (4:25), though some did hear His teaching (7:28). mountain. Location unknown. Mountains were common sites for significant events (cf 17:1). Jesus' teaching in chs 5–7 has long been known as the Sermon on the Mount. It is the first of five major sermons, or discourses, in Mt (cf ch 10; 13:1–52; ch 18; chs 24–25). Aug: "The sermon before us is perfect in all the precepts by which the Christian life is moulded" (NPNF 1 6:3). sat down. Rabbis typically sat to teach. disciples. Gk mathetes; "learner," "apprentice." Common in Gospels and Ac, but never used in Epistles. Often means the 12 called "apostles" (10:1–2), but can also mean a larger group of adherents. The feminine form appears once (see note, Ac 9:36). Here, the term includes the four fishermen (cf 4:18–22) plus others from the crowds who responded to Jesus' call to repent.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 5:3–11 Blessed. Jesus began His sermon by nine times declaring His disciples blessed because of what God had in store for them. Jesus was not making ethical demands of His followers but was describing blessings they would fully enjoy in the new heaven and new earth (Rv 21:1). The beatitudes are a common literary form found throughout Scripture (e.g., Ps 1:1; Lk 11:28; Rv 19:9). See p 842.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 5:3 poor in spirit. The spiritually poor who acknowledge their moral bankruptcy. Cf Lk 4:18. theirs is the kingdom of heaven. A possession that disciples enjoy even now by faith. This blessing is repeated in v 10. Aug: "The one reward, which is the kingdom of heaven, is variously named [in the Beatitudes]" (NPNF 1 6:7). See pp 1565–66.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 5:4 mourn. Over sin; similar to the spiritually poor (see note, v 3). comforted. The comfort the Messiah brings will be fully realized in heaven.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 5:5 meek. Lowly, humble. inherit the earth. See "portion," p 7. We will inherit the new heavens and new earth after our bodies are resurrected on the Last Day.
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 5:6 hunger and thirst for righteousness. Fervent desire for God's righteousness, or salvation (Is 51:5–8; cf 3:15). On "righteousness," see p 1904. satisfied. Luth: "We have the clear assurance that God does not cast aside sinners, that is, those who recognize their sin and desire to come to their senses, who thirst for righteousness (Matt. 5:6)" (AE 2:41).
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 5:7 merciful ... receive mercy. A disciple who truly appreciates God's blessings will be a merciful person and will receive mercy (cf 18:33). See p 1903.
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 5:8 pure in heart. Those who do not worship false gods. Aug: "A pure heart … is a single heart: and just as this light cannot be seen, except with pure eyes; so neither is God seen, unless that is pure by which He can be seen" (NPNF 1 6:5). see God. The worshiper in Ps 24 who sought the face of God experienced the coming of the King of glory (vv 7–10). Such disciples look forward to seeing God. See note, Jn 1:18.
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 5:9 peacemakers. Jesus would send out His disciples to bring peace to those who were worthy (10:13). called sons of God. The Son of God is named the Prince of Peace (Is 9:6). Those who trust in Him are blessed by being God's sons and daughters (Gal 3:26–28).
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 5:10 persecuted for righteousness' sake. Jesus later warned the disciples He sent out as peacemakers (v 9) that persecution would also be their lot (10:16–22). Aug: "Where there is no sound faith, there can be no righteousness, for the just [righteous] man lives by faith" (NPNF 1 6:7). theirs ... heaven. See note, v 3.
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 5:11 Blessed are you. Jesus spoke the first eight beatitudes using the third person ("they"). In this final beatitude, He addressed His disciples directly using the second person ("you") for emphasis. He continued using "you" until 7:13. on My account. For being Christ's disciple. "Troubles are not always punishments for certain past deeds, but they are God's works, intended for our benefit, and that God's power might be made more apparent in our weakness" (Ap XIIB 63).
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 5:12 Rejoice and be glad. The source of joy for a disciple who suffers persecution is the promise of heaven. reward. Though Jesus used this term when referring to heavenly blessings, He taught that the reward would be based on God's goodness, not the amount of work done (cf 20:1–15). Any reward our heavenly Father gives is an expression of His grace. "We confess that eternal life is a reward; it is something due because of the promise, not because of our merits" (Ap V 242). Hus: "When [a disciple] has patiently continued to endure[,] it helps to purify him as tools [purify] iron, and fire gold, and it helps to increase his reward of beatitude" (The Church, p 270). See notes, 1Co 3:8, 14. prophets. OT prophets were persecuted (cf 2Ch 24:21; Jer 20:2).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 5:1–12 Jesus introduces His Sermon on the Mount with nine beatitudes that detail the future blessedness of His disciples. These promised blessings are God's gracious gifts to those who repent of their sins and trust Christ for righteousness. Only after Jesus has assured His disciples of God's goodness to them does He call on them, in the rest of His sermon, to be good and do good. When we recognize our own spiritual poverty, when the Lord leads us to hunger and thirst for God's righteousness, when He makes us pure in heart so that we seek to worship only the true God, then we are blessed, now and forever. • Gracious Savior, keep my eyes ever focused on You and Your blessings, which are mine by grace alone. Amen.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 5:13–16 Jesus commands His disciples to be salt and light. In the rest of the sermon, He will spell out specific ways in which they fulfill this calling.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 5:13 You. See note, v 11. salt of the earth. By their way of life, Jesus' disciples are to be as useful as salt is. See note, Lv 2:13. lost its taste. Becoming useless. saltiness be restored? Lit, "How shall it [humankind] be salted?" Humanity will not benefit if salt—or disciples—become useless. One might as well throw it out to be trampled underfoot.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 5:14 light of the world. Light is a universal symbol for what is beneficial to people. Jesus, the light of the world, called on His followers to fulfill that function for the world. Aug: "By the world must be understood not the heavens and the earth, but the men who are in the world or love the world" (NPNF 1 6:9). hidden. Just as there is no hiding the light of a city on a hill, the light of a true disciple cannot be hidden.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 5:15 on a stand. The light of a lamp is meant to illuminate a dark house.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 5:16 they may see your good works. Jesus urged His disciples to do good works for the people of this world to see. Luth: "What [Jesus] calls 'good works' here is the exercise, expression, and confession of the teaching about Christ and faith…. Shining is the real job of believing or teaching, by which we also help others to believe" (AE 21:65; see FC Ep IV 18). glory to your Father. Good works are meant to lead others to glorify our heavenly Father, not to bring praise to the one who does them. Leading people to worship the true God is the whole purpose of doing good deeds.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 5:13–16 Words without deeds are like salt that has become useless or like a light put under a basket. The words we speak in praise of our heavenly Father need the support of our deeds. Jesus wants us to witness by both words and deeds, even as God bears witness that He is our Father when He calls us His children. • Lord Jesus, help me to be good salt and a shining light wherever I am. Amen.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 5:17 Law or the Prophets. All OT Scriptures. fulfill them. Jesus fulfilled all that was written of Him in the Law and the Prophets. See "Eschatology," p 1577. Likewise, He kept the commands of the Law perfectly (cf Heb 4:15).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 5:18 truly. Gk amen; used 31 times by Jesus in Mt. See p 1901. pass away. At the last judgment. iota … dot. Refers to the smallest Hbr letter (yod) and even smaller markings in the sacred text. accomplished. The Messiah's work, esp His death and resurrection.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 5:19 relaxes. By teaching that the commandments were no longer applicable in their fullness. This was the error of the scribes and Pharisees (vv 21–48). least in the kingdom of heaven. Such a false teacher will not be excluded from God's kingdom but will have a lesser status, something we will understand only in heaven. See note, 1Co 3:8.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 5:20 righteousness exceeds. See p 1904. True righteousness is the result of a right relationship with Jesus. Good works are a fruit of faith in Him (Eph 2:8–10), something that most scribes and Pharisees did not possess. scribes. See note, 2:4. Pharisees. See note, Mk 2:18.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 5:17–20 The scribes and Pharisees read and study the Law and the Prophets. They accept the fact that "Scripture cannot be broken" (Jn 10:35), but they do not believe that Jesus is the fulfillment of the Scriptures (cf Jn 5:39). They seek to achieve righteousness by keeping the Law, for which they have a high regard. But Jesus goes on to point out just how defective their righteousness really is (vv 21–48). "Christ takes the Law into His hands and explains it spiritually" (FC SD V 10). When judged by the true intent of God's Law, our righteousness is likewise defective. Only in Christ do we have true righteousness. • Jesus, when I read and study the Scriptures, help me to see my sin and to see You, my Savior. Amen.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 5:21 You have heard. What the disciples heard from Jewish religious teachers such as the scribes and Pharisees. liable to judgment. From a human court.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 5:22 But I say to you. Jesus stated His own teaching with the voice of authority (cf vv 28, 32, 34, 39, 44; 7:29). "Christ takes the Law into His hands and explains it spiritually" (FC SD V 10). brother. A fellow believer. See p 1901. liable to judgment. God's judgment. council. Religious court. You fool! Another term expressing anger and abuse. hell of fire. Lit, rubbish pit near Jerusalem, where fire always smoldered. See ESV note. Symbolic of eternal punishment. See p 792. "He says that we must not kill, neither with hand, heart, mouth, signs, gestures, help, nor counsel" (LC I 182).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 5:23 gift at the altar. An offering to be sacrificed on the temple altar. Aug: "We may interpret the altar spiritually, as being faith itself in the inner temple of God, whose emblem is the visible altar. For whatever offering we present to God, whether prophecy, or teaching, or prayer, or a psalm, or a hymn, and whatever other such like spiritual gift occurs to the mind, it cannot be acceptable to God, unless it be sustained by sincerity of faith" (NPNF 1 6:12–13). something against you. A fellow believer has a grievance against the worshiper.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 5:24 The first priority for a worshiper is to seek reconciliation with an offended believer.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 5:25 Come to terms quickly with your accuser. Jesus urged immediate action in resolving disputes. On legal proceedings, see p 792.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 5:26 paid the last penny. See ESV note. The end for someone who is angry with a fellow believer (v 22) and does not seek reconciliation (vv 24–25) is imprisonment. See note, 18:34.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 5:21–26 Jesus teaches that not only murder but also anger makes one liable to the hell of fire. He urges His disciples to energetically seek reconciliation with fellow believers who might be vexed with them. This stern preaching of the Law causes us to take stock of our own behavior and to confess that we often, through sinful anger, fall. Our only hope for salvation is to trust the reconciliation that Christ accomplished by His sacrificial death (cf 2Co 5:19). Having been reconciled to God, we may be reconciled with one another. • Mighty Judge, cover my outbursts of sinful anger with the embrace of Your reconciling peace. Amen.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 5:28 lustful intent. Burning sexual desire (1Co 7:9). already committed adultery ... in his heart. Sin is not merely outward action. Jesus identified the sinful heart as the source of all evil (15:19). See notes, Gn 6:5; Ex 20:17. Aug: "There are three things which go to complete sin: the suggestion of, the taking pleasure in, and the consenting to" (NPNF 1 6:15). Cf Gn 3:6; 1Jn 2:16.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 5:29–30 Hyperbole, though such a punishment was known (Jos, Life, 169). Jesus used strong and exaggerated language to emphasize the seriousness of sexual sins. Such sins (and other abuses) wreak havoc with personal relationships. If an eye or hand leads one to commit sin, it would be better to get rid of these body parts than go into hell (cf 18:8–9). hell. See note, v 22.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 5:27–30 The question asked in Pr 6:27 depicts the dangers that arise from lustful intentions: "Can a man carry fire next to his chest and his clothes not be burned?" Christ wants us to exhibit sexual purity in our inner thoughts as well as our outward deeds. When we are guilty of sexual sins, Christ calls us to repentance and faith, to look to His cross for pardon and cleansing. • "Create in me a clean heart, O God, and renew a right spirit within me" (Ps 51:10). Amen.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 5:31 The essential wording of a divorce certificate was "Lo, you are free to marry any man." Cf 19:3–9, where the Pharisees question Jesus about divorce.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 5:32 sexual immorality. Gk word refers to adultery—sexual intercourse between a married man or woman and someone other than a spouse. Cf Lv 18 regarding other sexual sins. makes her commit adultery. See note, Dt 24:4. Because marriage was often arranged for economic purposes, frequent divorces forced women into adulterous remarriages. whoever marries ... commits adultery. A man who married a divorced woman was guilty of adultery. However, Scripture acknowledges that in some cases a believer may not be at fault in a divorce (see note, 1Co 7:15). In such circumstances, forbidding the believer to remarry could double his sorrow. "Unjust is the tradition forbidding an innocent person to marry after divorce" (Tr 78).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 5:31–32 Jesus condemns the easy divorce practices of His day that resulted in adulterous relationships. He teaches that the sacred union of marriage is lifelong. Jesus' authoritative teaching concerning divorce has often been violated, as have His teachings about other sins (cf vv 21–42). As God's children, we all need Jesus' teaching and encouragement to let our lights shine as we faithfully fulfill our marriage vows and honor the vows of others. The child of God who is guilty of a sinful divorce has the assurance that Jesus bore this sin also. • Lord Jesus, take away our sin. Be the cord that binds together Christian wives and husbands. Amen.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 5:33 not swear falsely. Just as OT Law permitted divorce, so also the swearing of oaths was allowed. Jesus condemned swearing falsely and breaking an oath. See "vow," p 7.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 5:34–35 heaven … earth … Jerusalem. When taking an oath, many Jews refrained from using God's name but substituted some other significant term. Jesus pointed out that these other terms were closely related to God (e.g., His "throne," "footstool," "city "). Some people believed that swearing by an object other than God lessened their responsibility for keeping the oath or vow (cf 23:16–22).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 5:34 Do not take an oath at all. Jesus instructed His disciples to refrain from taking any foolish oaths (see p 7). "We are not to swear in support of evil, that is, to support falsehood, or to swear when there is no need or use. But we should swear for the support of good and the advantage of our neighbor" (LC I 66).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 5:36 your head. Another example of substituting a lesser object for God. But even the hairs on one's head are under God's governance.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 5:37 The truthfulness of a believer's yes or no cannot be enhanced by swearing an oath, as Peter found out (26:72–74). evil. See ESV note.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 5:33–37 Jesus tells His disciples not to take an oath at all, expressing a general rule of conduct for them. The bottom line for Jesus is truthfulness. When believers lie or exaggerate commitment, they are not letting their light shine. This rule applies especially when believers converse with fellow Christians. However, there may be times when Christians will be asked to take an oath in their earthly affairs or contacts with governing authorities. Out of loving consideration for this request, Christians may comply. Thanks be to God that He vowed to save us (cf Ti 1:2) and fulfilled that vow by His Son's life, death, and resurrection for our salvation. • Lord Jesus, help me speak the truth in all my conversations and testimony. Amen.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 5:38 eye for an eye. Law of equal retaliation (Lat lex talionis) is based in Scripture and is an attitude deeply rooted in the human heart.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 5:39 Do not resist. Jesus prescribed a totally different attitude for His disciples, one He practiced. He illustrated this nonresistance with four examples. He is not teaching pacifism or that governing authorities cannot exert force (see note, Lk 3:14) but is describing the response of someone facing persecution. slaps ... turn. More of an insult than an attempt to do physical harm (cf 26:67–68).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 5:40 sue you. Take you to court. See p 792. tunic. See ESV note. cloak. Outer garment, which was more essential. See note, Ex 22:26.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 5:41 Roman military forced some civilians to carry baggage. Jesus told His disciples to go the extra mile in serving these foreign soldiers.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 5:42 Jesus' final example of not resisting evil requires reckless generosity. His words are meant to instill a deeper insight into how He intends His disciples to act. Jesus wants us to be willing to make sacrifices, to think twice before we refuse a request for help. Ter: "Who fears not to lose, finds it not irksome to give" (ANF 3:712). Luth: "Christ is not telling me to give what I have to any scoundrel that comes along and to deprive my family of it or others who may need it and whom I am obliged to help" (AE 21:117). Cf Mk 7:9–13.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 5:38–42 Jesus instructs His disciples not to resist evil people, a teaching that has provoked much debate over the centuries. As with some other statements Jesus made in this portion of the Sermon on the Mount, there is a degree of exaggeration in what He says. We need to grasp His essential point. Jesus provokes self-examination in every Christian's heart: have I always been generous in sharing with the needy, whether they are good or evil? Jesus was totally generous in giving His life for us. In Him, we receive forgiveness and renewal. • Show me Your face, dear Jesus, in the hurting eyes of the needy, that I may help them as You helped me. Amen.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 5:43 love your neighbor. Cf Lv 19:18, where the "neighbor" was a fellow Israelite, which prompted a lawyer to ask Jesus, "Who is my neighbor?" (Lk 10:29). hate your enemy. Those who wrote the Dead Sea Scrolls commanded hatred for the outsider (see 1QS 1.4). See pp 1553–58.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 5:44 Love your enemies. Jesus was commanding not so much an emotion as loving actions. pray ... persecute. Christ on the cross and the martyr Stephen did this. Hus: "When he himself was stripped, beaten and blasphemed by the soldiers, scribes, Pharisees, officers, and priests, not even then did he pronounce any malediction, but he prayed, saying: 'Father forgive them' " (The Church, p 285).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 5:45 be sons of your Father. Sons of God will be like their Father, whose nature it is to love the world (Jn 3:16; cf 1Jn 4:16). Jesus died for God's enemies (Rm 5:10). To love one's enemies is to share in God's peacemaking (v 9). sun ... rain. Examples from nature demonstrate that God has mercy on all. just. See p 842.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 5:46 reward do you have? Rhetorical question; the answer is none. tax collectors. Romans (and local rulers such as Herod Antipas) awarded the right to collect taxes to the highest bidder, allowing local tax gatherers to levy a surcharge on the taxes they collected. Tax collectors typically abused the practice and were generally considered dishonest, traitorous, and "sinners." Yet, even they returned love for love.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 5:47 brothers. See ESV note; see also p 1901. what more are you doing. Jesus asked this series of questions to show the difference between common human behavior and His teachings. Luth: "Do you see now how pious you are if you are friendly and kind only to your friends? You are just about as pious as the thieves and the scoundrels, as the whores and the criminals, or as the devil himself" (AE 21:127).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 5:48 You. See note, v 11. perfect, as your heavenly Father. Jesus, who previously cited the Father's example (v 45), concluded His teaching on love of enemies by commanding His disciples to imitate the Father's perfection (cf Eph 5:1–2).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 5:43–48 When we contemplate the six authoritative teachings of Jesus in vv 21–48, we must agree with Luther's verdict: "At this point you will discover how hard it is to do the good works God commands…. You will find out that you will be occupied with the practice of this work for the rest of your life" (AE 44:109). Some people, when confronted with the strict demands of the Law, will whittle off a point here, another there. They suggest that we do the best we can, and God will be satisfied. But God demands perfection, which sinners cannot achieve (cf Rm 7:21–25; 1Tm 1:15). Our perfection is in Christ alone. As God's redeemed people, Jesus declares that we are salt of the earth and light of the world. • Heavenly Father, though I often fall short of Your perfection, forgive my sins for Jesus' sake, and strengthen me for greater service. Amen.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 6:1 righteousness. See p 1904. Three important acts of Jewish piety were giving to the needy, praying, and fasting. Jesus warned His disciples not to do these righteous acts with the wrong intentions. seen. Jesus did not want the good works of His disciples to bring them personal glory but to glorify the Father (5:16). no reward. See note, 5:12.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 6:2 needy. The poor were cared for mainly through private almsgiving (cf Dt 15:11). sound no trumpet. No other record for this practice when giving alms. Jesus may have spoken figuratively: "Don't blow your own horn." hypocrites. People who outwardly appeared to be righteous but were not (cf 7:5; 22:18; 23:13). See note, Lk 6:42. reward. Public acclaim.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 6:3 left hand ... right hand. To scarcely remember the acts of mercy done.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 6:4 secret. Not known to humans. See note, v 6. Father ... will reward you. Cf vv 1, 6, 18; see note, 5:12.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 6:1–4 Jesus calls us to hide our good works when we are tempted to show them. Our works must glorify the Father. The only blessing that counts is the one received from His generous hand. His grace perfects even the least of our good works. • Loving Father, may my giving to the needy always bring You glory. Amen.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 6:5 stand and pray. Jesus was not criticizing this posture for prayer but the ostentatious motive behind it. See p 1277.
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 6:6 secret ... secret. With this wordplay, Jesus made the point that God, who is invisible, sees and hears us even when what we do is invisible to other people.
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 6:7 empty phrases. Meaningless babble. Prayer at this time might have included incantations. See note, Ac 19:18. Jesus does not condemn repeating prayers. See note, 26:44. Gentiles. Idolaters whose gods were alleged to thrive on incantation and repetition. Aug: "Gentiles … make it their endeavour to exercise the tongue rather than to cleanse the heart" (NPNF 1 6:37).
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 6:8 your Father knows. Economy of expression in prayer is acceptable to our Father because He knows all our needs. See note, Is 65:24. Prayer is based on trust, not on magic or manipulation. Make your request, and trust that He will act. Yet, our Lord also taught us to pray persistently from our hearts.
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 6:9–13 See SC, pp xxxvii–xxxix.
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 6:9 Pray then like this. Jesus gave His disciples a model or general pattern for prayer, one that has become a fixed part of Christian worship. The version in Lk is slightly different. Our Father. Disciples pray as a community to their true Father. See p 2098. hallowed be Your name. See ESV note. God's name and Word are not now kept holy on earth. We pray for the day when this will come to pass (cf Php 2:9–11).
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 6:10 Your kingdom come. See note, 3:2. God's reign is near in Christ for all who believe His Holy Word. We pray for His final victory. See pp 1565–66. Aug: "The kingdom of God, though it never departs from the earth, is yet absent to those who are ignorant of it" (NPNF 1 6:40). Your will be done. Already now our Father breaks and hinders Satan's evil will. When Christ comes again, all enemies will be defeated (cf 1Co 15:26; Heb 2:14–15). on earth as it is in heaven. Applies equally to the three initial petitions. We on earth pray that God would act on behalf of His name, His kingdom, and His will. These three petitions will be perfectly fulfilled only on the Last Day.
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 6:11–13 In the second set of petitions, we ask God to do what is important for us today.
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 6:11 this day our daily bread. We ask our Father to supply our daily needs. Preparing bread was a daily task. See note, Dt

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 6:12 debts. Sin is a moral debt owed to God. If He would not forgive us, we would have to pay "the last penny" (5:26). See p 959. have forgiven our debtors. Our power to forgive comes from having been forgiven. One who refuses to forgive turns away from God's forgiveness (vv 14–15; cf 18:23–35).
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 6:13 lead us ... deliver us. Separate petitions, but joined in one sentence. We realize that God could allow the devil to tempt us, as Jesus was led into temptation by the Spirit (4:1). But we pray that our Father would guard and keep us from the evil one (see ESV note). Ter: "[Jesus], when tempted by the devil, demonstrated who it is that presides over and is the originator of temptation" (ANF 3:684). A doxology for the Lord's Prayer may have been added as early as the first century in the Didache ; in Gk Bible manuscripts, as early as the fifth century (see ESV note). These words were likely a liturgical response when the prayer was used in worship.
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 6:14–15 if you forgive ... not forgive. Jesus added these words to reinforce the Fifth Petition, which is key to the prayer (v 12) and to discipleship. He emphasizes the importance of mutual forgiveness in the community of believers. He does not mean that forgiveness is somehow earned. On forgiveness, see Jesus' extensive teaching in ch 18.
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 6:15 trespasses. Word for sin meaning to step over the line. See p 959.
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 6:5–15 After Jesus warns His disciples not to pray in an ostentatious or merely repetitious manner, He provides them with a prayer of which Luther wrote, "There is no nobler prayer to be found upon earth" (LC III 23). Luther also called the Lord's Prayer "the greatest martyr" because "everybody tortures and abuses it; few take comfort and joy in its proper use" (AE 43:200). We may at times utter the Lord's Prayer thoughtlessly. Yet, our Father is fully attentive at all times to our needs and desires. This is our comfort and our joy. • Father, thank You for listening when I come to You in prayer. Amen.
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 6:16 fast. Common practice in first-century Judaism (cf 9:14; Lk 18:12). It was done for various reasons: as a spiritual discipline, an aid to prayer, or a form of self-punishment for sin. Sometimes it was evidence of disdain for the body. The wording here implies that Jesus assumed His disciples would fast. See note, Mk 2:18. See also p 189.

gloomy … disfigure. Hypocrites disfigure their faces because they want others to notice them. See note, v 2.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 6:17 Usual hygienic steps that help create a normal appearance.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 6:18 in secret … Father … will reward you. See notes, vv 4, 6; 5:12.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 6:16–18 Fasting is only one of many practices that are susceptible to religious hypocrisy. Jesus does not command His disciples to discontinue acts of piety such as fasting, but to make sure that they are done to God's glory (cf 1Co 10:31). Jesus practiced what He preached by giving generously, praying, and fasting for our salvation. • Holy Father, to You belongs all glory, praise, and honor, now and forever. May my deeds reflect Your mercy and Your glory. Amen.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 6:19–24 Jesus urged a right attitude toward possessions by presenting contrasting pictures of treasures, eyes, and masters.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 6:20 treasures in heaven. Eternal rewards are free and cannot be taken away. See note, 5:12.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 6:21 heart. The center of one's personality, including the mind, emotions, and will. The heart will dwell on whatever a person treasures most. See notes, Gn 6:5; Ps 103:1–2.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 6:22 eye is the lamp. In Jesus' day, people believed that light shone out from the body through the eye. See note, Jb 17:7. healthy. Refers to spiritual health producing a "bountiful eye" (Pr 22:9). full of light. Such an eye means the whole person is healthy and generous. Hus: "[His work] is pure from the standpoint of a holy purpose" (The Church, p 224).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 6:23 bad. A morally bad eye is stingy (cf Pr 23:6; see ESV note). light in you is darkness. Such a person may see physically but is in total spiritual darkness.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 6:24 two masters. Jesus portrayed both God and money as slave owners. Obviously a slave has only one master. See p 101. money. See ESV note; see also note, Jsh 24:32.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 6:19–24 Humans everywhere, whether rich or poor, are prone to collecting earthly treasures. Yet, only heavenly treasures are eternal. As children of light, God calls us to be generous with our possessions and to serve God as our master rather than live as slaves to possessions. For our sake, Christ became the servant of all—to save all—by bearing all of our sins and granting us rich, surpassing, eternal forgiveness. • Heavenly Father, lead me to "seek the things that are above, where Christ is, seated at the right hand of God" (Col 3:1). Amen.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 6:25 Therefore. Conclusion to be drawn from vv 19–24. anxious. Worry, dread, and fear. Is not ... clothing? The first of five rhetorical questions that compare or contrast greater and lesser things. This was a typical teaching method of the rabbis.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 6:26 birds ... feeds them. Luth: "He is making the birds our schoolmasters and teachers. It is a great and abiding disgrace to us that in the Gospel a helpless sparrow should become a theologian and a preacher" (AE 21:197). more value. This second question compares the lesser to the greater.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 6:27 span. Gk word means "cubit"; see ESV note. Suggests adding a short extension to your life.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 6:29 Solomon. Israelite king known for his splendor. See pp 1048–49.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 6:30 God so clothes. See note, Lk 12:28. grass ... oven. Grass was used for fuel. little faith? See note, Lk 12:28. Those who worry about food, drink, and clothing (as well as other things) show little faith in the heavenly Father's providential care. Jesus also refers to great faith (cf 15:28). Paul describes faith organically, as "growing" (see note, 2Th 1:3).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 6:31 Therefore. Jesus concluded His argument by repeating elements of v 25.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 6:32 Gentiles seek. They did not believe in a generous, loving Creator. See note, v 7. your heavenly Father knows. See note, v 8.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 6:33 seek first the kingdom. Desire above all to live under the rule of the one true God (cf 3:2; 4:17). See pp 1565–66. righteousness. God's righteousness, or His salvation (cf 5:6). See p 1904. all … added to you. Jesus again compared the greater to the lesser blessing (cf Rm 8:32).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 6:34 Jesus concluded this portion of His teaching with a commonsense proverb. We would say, "Take one day at a time."

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 6:25–34 If Jesus' words are taken literally, it seems as if He encourages irresponsibility and laziness. And is it true that all birds are adequately fed and all flowers are beautiful? As with Jesus' parables, we need to look for His central teaching here: seek God's salvation, and then entrust your daily life to His loving care. We do this by faithfully making use of the Word and Sacraments, through which the Spirit leads us to repent of our sins and to trust Jesus for forgiveness. Convinced of our salvation, we commit our daily lives into the caring hands of our heavenly Father. • Good Shepherd, because You laid down Your life for me, grant that I may trust You to provide my daily needs. Amen.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 7:1 Judge not. Jesus is not referring to a decision rendered by a human judge, nor does He mean that Christians should never confront others with God's Law. He refers to the condemnation of a fellow believer by one who has not first practiced proper self-examination (cf Rm 2:1; 14:10). According to Augustine, when we do not know the intentions behind a person's actions, "We are to put the better construction on them" (NPNF 1 6:54). be not judged. By God.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 7:2 judgment ... measure. Probably a proverbial saying about fairness, similar to the Golden Rule (v 12).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 7:3 Jesus used a grotesque exaggeration to illustrate how absurd it was for His disciples to pick out the sins of others when they have not repented of their own. The Lord calls us to daily repentance (see note, 6:12).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 7:4 brother. See p 1901.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 7:5 hypocrite. Usually describes unbelievers (see note, 6:2); applied here to a sinning disciple. then you will see clearly. Jesus did not rule out speaking to fellow believers about their sins (cf 18:15; Gal 6:1), but it should be done only after proper self-examination and repentance. See note, v 1.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 7:6 Jesus may be quoting a proverbial saying, which He applies to His previous teaching. He compares His disciples to "what is holy" and to "pearls." He warns that hypocritical condemnation of fellow believers (vv 1–5) is tantamount to throwing these precious persons out of the fellowship to the dogs and pigs. trample … attack. Disciples thrown out of the fellowship would obviously suffer spiritual harm, and the congregation would be attacked for its hypocrisy.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 7:1–6 One of the most difficult tasks for a Christian is to speak to a fellow believer about some personal fault (cf 18:15). This is especially difficult within a family or a congregation. Jesus sets forth a basic rule that needs to be observed: first, practice self-examination. If you do not realize your own sins and faults, you cannot offer admonition to a fellow Christian. One who assumes the task of taking the speck out of his brother's eye must do so with sincere love, deep humility, and the prayer "Forgive us our debts, as we also have forgiven our debtors" (6:12). • Lord Jesus, help me see the log in my own eye before I seek to take the speck from another's eye. Amen.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 7:7–8 Ask … seek … knock. The disciples have heard from Jesus that He expects them to be lights of the world (5:14) and to show compassion, humility, purity, and love. For aid in doing such good things, He exhorted them to pray fervently for the Father's blessing. receives … finds … be opened. Stunning unconditional assurances that the Father will hear and answer the prayers of His children; therefore, we can pray boldly. Like a Father, He will answer according to His good purposes.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 7:9–10 See note, Lk 11:11–13.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 7:11 evil. Jesus took for granted the sinfulness of all human beings. See note, 15:19. how much more. Again, Jesus compares the lesser truth to the greater (see note, 6:26). good things. These good things include the Holy Spirit (Lk 11:13), daily necessities (Mt 6:33), and finally heaven itself (Heb 10:1). Luth: "[Christ] also wants to indicate that because of all the temptations and hindrances we face, nothing is more necessary in Christendom than continual and unceasing prayer that God would give His grace and His Spirit" (AE 21:228–29).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 7:7–11 Jesus emphasizes the blessings and importance of prayer. Most important is our heavenly Father's eagerness to give His children "good things." Because we are evil, we do not always recognize that God answers every prayer for our good (Rm 8:28). Jesus guarantees that we receive God's mercy and blessings (2Co 1:20). • Father in heaven, You give only good things to me. Increase my trust and confidence in Your goodness. Amen.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 7:12 Summary of 5:17–7:11; often called the Golden Rule. Luth: "He concludes the teaching He has been giving in these three chapters, and wraps it all up in a little package where it can all be found" (AE 21:235). Law and the Prophets. See note, 5:17. Jesus' teachings demonstrated that He had not come to abolish the OT but to fulfill it. See pp 1575–77.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 7:13–14 Jesus contrasted the two gates and ways that lay before His disciples (cf Dt 30:19; Ps 1). See pp 775–78; see also "way," p 844.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 7:13 Enter. Cf 5:20.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 7:14 hard. Gk is related to the word for "tribulation" (cf Ac 14:22). Persecution and ill-treatment awaited Jesus and His disciples.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 7:12–14 Jesus' teachings in the Sermon on the Mount show us our sins and describe the path on which we, as repentant children of God, seek to walk. Luth: "The true disciples remain on the hard path or enter through the narrow gate (Matt. 7:14), namely, the Word of God, saying: 'I am helpless. May God help me. It all rests in His hands. He promised and said: "Just cling to the Word, and I will uphold you. When you find yourself in any extremity or distress, you will learn to continue in God's Word. This will liberate you and make you a true disciple" ' " (AE 23:401). • Dear Jesus, walk with me on the narrow way that leads to life, lest I stumble or stray. Amen.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 7:15 false prophets. Such prophets seek to lead astray those on the narrow way (cf 24:4–11, 24). See note, Dt 18:22. See p 307. sheep's clothing ... ravenous wolves. Outwardly, these prophets seem to be followers of Jesus, but their goal is to devour the sheep. Hus: "Consider the two sect[ion]s of the clergy, namely, the clergy of Christ and the clergy of antichrist.... [Laymen] may sit in judgment on the works of their superiors" (The Church, pp 159, 225).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 7:16 fruits. Used seven times in vv 16–20. Does not refer to good deeds but to what the prophet says—his preaching and teaching (cf 2Pt 2:1). grapes gathered. Rhetorical question. On judging a prophet, see note, Dt 18:22.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 7:17 diseased tree bears bad fruit. False prophets and their teachings.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 7:19 thrown into the fire. Hell fire. See note, 5:22.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 7:20 recognize ... fruits. See note, v 16.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 7:15–20 Just as there are two ways, the good and the bad, so there are two kinds of prophets. One can identify false prophets by what they teach, especially by what they teach about the person and mission of Jesus. Luth: "You must hold on to the chief part, the summary, of Christian teaching and accept nothing else: That God has sent and given Christ, His Son, and that only through Him does He forgive us all our sins, justify and save us" (AE 21:254). • Preserve me, O Lord, from all false prophets who would take away my trust for salvation in You alone. Amen.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 7:21 says … will enter. Saying the right words does not guarantee entrance into heaven. does the will of My Father. Cf Jn 6:40.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 7:22 On that day. Judgment Day. say to Me. Jesus will be the judge (25:31–32; see SC, Second Article, p xxxvii). prophesy … cast out demons … mighty works in Your name? They trust in their works. With its threefold repetition, the question asked by the false prophets indicates their expectation to enter heaven because of their use of the Lord's name in what they did.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 7:23 I never knew you. They never had a faith relationship with God. The Lord spoke similar words to the foolish virgins (25:12). lawlessness. The ultimate lawlessness is the failure to believe in the One whom the Father sent (cf Jn 3:18).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 7:21–23 Jesus describes the fate of the false prophets as it will be revealed on Judgment Day. Christ will condemn those who call attention to their own works and expect God to receive them into heaven on that basis. On the other hand, those who are saved will be surprised to hear Jesus call attention to their good works (cf 25:37–39). God regards those works as good that give evidence of saving faith in Jesus, our Lord. • "Lord, … when I appear before Your throne, Your righteousness shall be my crown." Amen. (LSB 438:4)

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 7:24–27 Jesus ends His sermon with a parable about two builders who illustrate two kinds of hearers. The wise man hears Jesus' words and does them. The foolish man hears Jesus' words and does something else. Aug: "If Christ is the rock, … that man builds in Christ who does what he hears from Him" (NPNF 1 6:63). See note, Lk 6:47–49.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 7:24 wise man. See p 775–78.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 7:27 it fell. Describes the foolish man's life on Judgment Day (cf v 19).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 7:24–27 Jesus begins this sermon by declaring that God blesses the poor in spirit, the mourning, the meek, and those who are hungry for God's saving righteousness (5:3–12). These are the ones who receive Jesus and His teaching with understanding (cf 13:23). Saving faith in Jesus is living and active, eager to do what He says. "Good works certainly and without doubt follow true faith" (FC Ep IV 6). Jesus concludes His sermon by picturing the secure future guaranteed to the wise disciple who hears His words and does them. • Jesus, my Teacher and Master, bless my hearing and doing of Your Word. Amen.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 7:28 finished. Each of Jesus' five long discourses in Mt ends with similar words (11:1; 13:53; 19:1; 26:1). The crowds were astonished by the unparalleled authority with which Jesus taught (v 29).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 7:29 authority. Evidence of Jesus' authority is seen throughout Mt (e.g., 9:6; 21:23; 28:18). scribes. See note, 2:4. When the scribes taught, they quoted other authorities. See pp 719–20.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 7:28–29 Jesus was not merely a wise teacher, but He speaks with the voice of God. Our Lord and Savior addresses us in the Sermon on the Mount. He declares us blessed and calls us to be lights of the world because we are enlightened by His Word. • Blessed Lord, grant that I may hear, read, mark, learn, and inwardly digest Your Holy Word. Amen. (Adapted from LSB, p 308)

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 8:2 behold. See note, 2:1. leper. See ESV note. People believed God was punishing those afflicted by such diseases (cf Nu 12:10). Lepers were ritually unclean and excluded from the community. You can make me clean. This leper believed because of the healing authority Jesus had shown (4:23–24). Lepers who were healed could be pronounced clean and were allowed to reenter society.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 8:3 touched him. See note, Lk 5:13.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 8:4 See "Secrecy," p 1653.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 8:1–4 Cleansing the leper is the first of 10 miracles that Jesus performs in chs 8–9. In the Sermon on the Mount, Jesus had demonstrated His teaching authority (7:29). Jesus uses that same divine authority in working miracles. His miracles are signs that anticipate the day when every disease and even death itself will be no more (Rv 21:4). Then, as forgiven sinners, we will rejoice with all those who have been cleansed. • Precious Savior, heal me. Fill me with anticipation for that day when You will heal every illness. Amen.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 8:5 Capernaum. See note, 4:13. centurion. Commander of 80–100 soldiers in the service of Herod Antipas (see note, 4:12). This Gentile centurion, like the leper (vv 2–4), was an outsider in Jewish society.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 8:7 Some translate Jesus' words as a question: "Shall I come and heal him?" Jews did not usually enter the home of a Gentile (cf Ac 10:28).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 8:8 See note, Lk 7:6. only say the word. The centurion was confident that Jesus could heal from a distance by His word.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 8:9 under authority. The centurion was part of a chain of command. He needed only to speak a word, and the soldiers under him would obey. He believed Jesus had even greater authority, even over creation.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 8:10 Nowhere among the Jews had Jesus found a faith superior to that of the centurion (cf 15:28). See notes, 6:30; Lk 7:9.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 8:11 Jesus had in mind the messianic banquet of salvation in heaven (cf 22:2; Is 25:6–8; Rv 19:9). many ... from east and west. Gentiles from all over the world. recline. It was customary to eat while lying on one's left side, esp in formal settings (cf Jn 13:23).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 8:12 sons of the kingdom. Those descendants of Israel who supposed that their earthly heritage guaranteed them a place at the banquet (v 11). outer darkness. Hell. gnashing. Grinding one's teeth because of the spiritual and emotional pain and anger accompanying this torturous ordeal (cf 13:42). See p 1276.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 8:13 believed ... healed. Jesus healed the servant just as the centurion believed He could.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 8:5–13 Jesus' words possess power and authority. The centurion believes this, and his faith is not in vain. Jesus' words still possess power and authority. Water, joined to the Word of Jesus in Holy Baptism, washes away sin. Bread and wine, joined to the Word of Jesus in Holy Communion, is His body and blood for the forgiveness of sins, life, and salvation. What marvels God can do! We sinners rejoice at these miracles of grace. • Lord Jesus, grant me full confidence in the power of Your Word. Amen.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 8:14 Peter's house. Archaeologists discovered an ancient building in Capernaum (v 5) that may have been Peter's house. It later became a church. mother-in-law. Peter was married (cf 1Co 9:5). fever. See note, Lk 4:38.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 8:15 she rose ... serve him. See note, Mk 1:31.
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 8:16 evening. See note, Lk 4:40. oppressed by demons. Lit, "demonized." Demon possession was common during the earthly ministry of Jesus. with a word ... healed all. The powerful healing word of Jesus is again emphasized (cf v 8). See note, 4:23–24. Luth: "All the wretchedness and misery rampant in the world is the work of the devil, who delights in bringing ruin and death on man; for it was he who plunged all human nature into sin and death" (AE 24:73–74). See note, Gn 3:15.
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 8:17 Matthew's translation of Is 53:4 brings out the truth that the saving work of Jesus, the Suffering Servant, includes final victory over all illness and disease. Cf Is 35:5–7; 53:5.
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 8:14–17 Take heart! Jesus came "to destroy the works of the devil" (1Jn 3:8): sin, disease, and death. • Divine Healer, keep hope alive in my heart, that no sickness can separate me from Your love. Amen.
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 8:18 other side. Jesus went from Capernaum to the east side of the Sea of Galilee. See map, p 1584.
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 8:19 scribe. See note, 2:4. Teacher. Gk didaskalos corresponds to Hbr*rabbi.* Strangers and critics (e.g., scribes) used this term when addressing Jesus to show they did not regard Him as an authority (cf 12:38). Jesus' disciples seldom used this term (cf vv 2, 6).
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 8:20 Son of Man. See p 2098. nowhere to lay His head. Wycl: "In his humanity, [Jesus] had not any such place; in a worldly sense, in his own proper right of possession" (TT, p 167). Jesus and His disciples were constantly on the move. Potential volunteers needed to count the cost of discipleship.
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 8:21 bury my father. A request to honor a parent, a duty Jesus encouraged on another occasion (15:4–6).
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 8:22 Jesus' harsh-sounding answer to this would-be disciple should not be understood as a general rule, since honoring one's parents was required by the Commandments (Ex 20:12). This particular man needed to hear that following Jesus should take precedence over everything else in his life (cf 10:35–39; 19:21; cf 1Ki 19:19–21).
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 8:18–22 Neither one of these would-be disciples of Jesus has counted the cost. One is too quick in promising to follow, while the other is too slow to follow. We are not told if either one followed Jesus. The examples invite us to ask, What kind of disciple am I?

When we evaluate our lives as Jesus' disciples, we must confess that we often fail in our words and actions. Though we fall short, our Savior did not. He went all the way to the cross for us and grants us sincere repentance, faith, and life. • Lord Jesus, make me a better disciple and a more faithful witness. Amen.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 8:24 storm. Gk seismos, which may also mean "earthquake." This violent squall contrasts with the "great calm" that followed (v 26). See note, Mk 4:37. sea. See note, Mt 4:18. asleep. Jesus was unaffected by the storm and its danger.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 8:26 little faith? Jesus did not chide His disciples for disturbing Him but for disturbing themselves with their fears (cf 14:31; 16:8). See note, 6:30. rebuked. See note, Mk 4:39.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 8:27 The disciples' question speaks also to you as a reader, inviting you to consider and confess what you have learned of Jesus.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 8:23–27 Jesus shows His divine authority by doing what only God can do (cf Ps 65:7; 89:9). The great calm that the disciples experienced was a foretaste of the truly blessed conditions that all believers will enjoy in the new creation. By nature, we have no right to live in that world. We are citizens of God's kingdom only because of what Jesus has done for us. • Dear Jesus, when danger threatens and my heart trembles, remind me of Your presence and Your power. Amen.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 8:28 country of the Gadarenes. Gadara was southeast of the Sea of Galilee in Gentile territory. See map, p 1584; see also note, Mk 5:1. demon-possessed. See note, v 16. Two violent men confronted Jesus and blocked His way. tombs. Caves. Even Gentiles would be repelled by people living among the remains of the dead. See notes, Gn 23:19; 1Ki 2:10.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 8:29 behold. Repeated in vv 32, 34. See note, 2:1. Son of God? See note, Mk 1:24. The demons knew the answer to the question that the disciples had asked about Jesus' identity (v 27). See p 2098. the time? Final judgment. Jesus does not answer their questions.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 8:30 See note, Lk 8:32–33.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 8:31 Unclean spirits sought refuge in unclean animals.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 8:32 Go. With a single word, Jesus cast out the demons. This contrasts with the complicated formulas employed by human exorcists (cf 12:22–28). drowned in the waters. Unclean spirits sought refuge in waterless places (cf 12:43). These demons were plunged into a watery tomb.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 8:33 See note, Lk 8:34. city. Possibly Gadara (see note, v 28).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 8:34 begged. The demons had done the same thing (v 31). leave their region. The presence of so powerful an exorcist frightened these superstitious Gentiles. They did not thank or praise Him for mercifully healing two demon-possessed men.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 8:28–34 Demons are especially active in opposing Jesus' ministry. But they cannot stymie God's Son, who repeatedly shows His authority over them. We cannot reject the possibility that demon possession causes some afflictions today. However, baptized children of God do not need to fear demonic possession. For our Lord Jesus Christ has redeemed us "from all sins, from death, and from the power of the devil" (SC, Second Article, p xxxvii). Baptism into Christ ensures that His victory is our victory. • Thank You, Lord Jesus, for manifesting Your power over all demonic forces. Amen.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 9:1 own city. Capernaum. See note, 4:13.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 9:2 bed. Stretcherlike mat. saw their faith. Both the paralytic and the people who brought him to Jesus showed their faith. Take heart, My son. Affectionate encouragement. your sins are forgiven. That the Lord God forgives sins is taught throughout the OT (e.g., Ex 34:6–7). See p 1902. Jesus speaks directly and immediately with God's authority. Chrys: "He discloses also another sign, and that no small one, of His own Godhead, and of His equality in honor with the Father" (NPNF 1 10:196).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 9:3 scribes. See note, 2:4. blaspheming. To demean or malign God in some way. Here, the accusation is that Jesus claimed divine authority, since forgiveness must come from God. This was the beginning of long-standing conflict between followers of Jesus and heirs of the Pharisees in rabbinic Judaism. Rabbinic writers would describe Jesus as a sinful magician who would not listen to wisdom and sought to destroy the Law of Moses. A similar scandal may occur when pastors forgive sins by Jesus' authority. E.g., when a pastor states, "As a called and ordained servant of Christ, and by His authority, I therefore forgive you all your sins" (LSB, p 151). See note, Jn 20:23.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 9:4 knowing. Many Gk manuscripts have the same word as in v 2: "saw." Just as Jesus saw the faith of the paralytic, He saw the thoughts of the scribes. think evil. Jesus' question brought out the growing malice of the scribes against His gracious ministry.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 9:5 which is easier. Obviously, it was easier to declare someone forgiven than to tell a paralytic to rise and walk.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 9:6 Son of Man. See p 2098. authority ... to forgive sins. Jesus proved His authority to forgive sins on earth by commanding the paralytic to get up and go home. This was another example of the power of His words (cf 8:8, 16, 27, 32).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 9:8 afraid. Sinful mortals react with fear when confronted with evidence of God at work (cf 28:8; Lk 1:30; 2:9–10). See p 1001. glorified God. In contrast to the Gadarenes (8:34), these people responded to Jesus' authority by giving God the glory.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 9:1–8 The paralytic who is brought to Jesus no doubt hopes for physical healing. He receives an even greater blessing: absolution. The word "absolve" comes from Lat ab ("from") and solvere ("loose") and refers to the sacred act of loosening a person from sin, to free one from guilt. When we confess our sins, whether publicly or privately, and hear God's word of forgiveness spoken to us, then, like the paralytic, we are absolved. Luther called absolution "a great and precious and magnificently splendid treasure" and urged believers "to accept it with all praise and thanksgiving to God" (BEC 22). • Jesus, precious Savior, cheer me with Your Word that I am washed clean from all my sins. Amen.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 9:9 Matthew. Also called Levi. One of the 12 apostles. tax booth. Possibly on the border between the territories of Philip and Herod Antipas, where commercial tolls were levied. Matthew's administrative occupation likely helped prepare him for writing his Gospel. followed Him. In contrast to those who only volunteered to follow Jesus (8:19–22), Matthew responded immediately to Jesus' call (cf 4:18–22).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 9:10 reclined at table. See note, 8:11. the house. Matthew's (cf Lk 5:29). tax collectors. See note, 5:46. sinners. Disreputable people. See p 959.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 9:11 Pharisees. See note, Mk 2:18. The intent behind their question was to find fault with Jesus, something they did increasingly (cf v 34; 12:2). eat. See note, Mk 2:16.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 9:12 physician. Jesus is the sinners' "doctor." See note, Dt 32:39.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 9:13 Jesus told the Pharisees, who were proud of their knowledge of Scripture, to go back to school. They failed to see that mercy was the point of God's work. mercy, and not sacrifice. Hosea condemned Israel for supposing that God desired obedience to ritual laws (sacrifice) more than the practice of mercy. The Pharisees were equally guilty of this sin. See note, 1Sm 15:22–23. righteous, but sinners. Those proud of their own righteousness will not respond positively when Jesus calls sinners. See p 843.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 9:9–13 That Jesus ate with tax collectors and sinners may not shock Bible readers today. We think of Him as the friend of sinners. But it was shocking to many first-century Jews that Jesus would practice table fellowship with such people (cf 11:19). Jesus is unlike any other Jewish rabbi. This festive banquet is His opportunity to call to faith people who are conscious of their unrighteousness. Jesus sits with them, not because they are worthy, but because He is merciful. He wants sinners included in His kingdom. • Dear Jesus, thank You for inviting me, a sinner, to Your marriage supper. Amen.
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 9:14 See note, Mk 2:18. disciples of John. John was in prison (4:12) but still had disciples. fast. Matthew's banquet may have prompted this question (v 10).
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 9:15 See note, Mk 2:19–20.
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 9:16–17 Jesus illustrated the significance of His presence with two short parables, both of which communicated that someone new is here. Jesus compared His ministry to unshrunk (new) cloth and new wine. His Gospel message tore away and burst the old traditions and practices about fasting and table fellowship. See p 1671. wineskins. Goatskin bags that, when new, could withstand the pressure of fermenting wine.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 9:14–17 John the Baptist compared Jesus to a bridegroom (Jn 3:29). Jesus does the same here and in His parable of the 10 virgins (25:1–13). Marriage imagery also figures prominently in Rv (e.g., 19:9; 21:9). The Bride of Christ is the Church—all those who by repentance and faith are united with the Bridegroom. The Church sings with anticipation: "The Bridegroom comes, awake! Your lamps with gladness take! Alleluia! With bridal care Yourselves prepare To meet the Bridegroom, who is near" (LSB 516:1). • Come, heavenly Bridegroom, and make all things new. Amen.
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 9:18 ruler. See note, Lk 8:41. lay Your hand on her. See note, Mk 5:23.
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 9:20 discharge of blood. See note, Mk 5:25. touched the fringe. See note, Mt 14:36.
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 9:21 Due to her gender and affliction, the woman was probably ashamed to speak to Jesus directly, but inwardly she expressed great faith in His healing power.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 9:22 Take heart, daughter. Affectionate encouragement. your faith has made you well. A repeated emphasis (8:2, 10; 9:2, 29). Only the disciples showed "little faith" (8:26). See note, 6:30.
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 9:23 Even poor families hired two flute players and a wailing woman to express grief when a loved one died. See p 993.
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 9:24 sleeping. See note, Mk 5:39. laughed. The crowd, including the professional mourners, ridiculed Jesus.
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 9:25 The healing touch of Jesus (8:3, 15; 9:21, 29) had power to raise the dead.
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 9:26 district. Area around the Sea of Galilee. See map, p 1584.
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 9:18–26 These miracles benefit a woman and a girl. Generally, girls were not as highly prized by families. Among pagans, infant daughters were more likely than their brothers to be abandoned after birth. But Jesus does not see women and girls this way. See note, Lk 8:2–3. In His sight, all alike have sinned, and all alike are justified by His grace (Rm 3:23–24). • Jesus, Savior of all, cheer me by touching my heart with Your saving power. Amen.
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 9:27 two blind men. They followed Jesus after He left the ruler's house (v 23). Have mercy. Common prayer for help based on Ps 51:1. See pp 842–43. Son of David. See note, 1:1. Well-known title for the promised Messiah. See p 2098.
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 9:28 house. Possibly where Jesus lived (cf 4:13). came to Him. They followed Jesus into the house. Do you believe. Jesus' question brings out the importance of faith (see note, v 22).
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 9:29 According to your faith. Jesus spoke similar words to the centurion (8:13) and the Canaanite woman (15:28).
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 9:30 no one knows. Jesus did not want too much publicity, because many Jews misunderstood His messianic mission (cf 16:20). See "Secrecy," p 1653.
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 9:31 spread His fame. With their sight restored, these men disregarded the Lord's warning. district. See note, v 26.
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 9:27–31 Jesus answers the blind men's cry for mercy by restoring their sight. He urges the Pharisees to acquire the same virtue (9:13; 12:7). In the OT, God describes Himself as "merciful and gracious" (Ex 34:6), and His Son demonstrates this same divine attribute. We are truly blessed to receive God's mercy (5:7). • Heavenly Father, may we who have received mercy also show mercy. Forgive me for the many times I have failed to show mercy to others. Amen.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 9:32–34 Miracle reported with great brevity, rushing to explain the conflict described in v 34.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 9:32 demon-oppressed. See note, 8:16; cf 8:28. mute. Unable to speak.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 9:33 The crowds responded positively to what Jesus had done.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 9:34 Pharisees. Cf 3:7; see note, v 11. They responded negatively as their opposition to Jesus increased (cf 12:2, 14, 24). prince of demons. Beelzebul (see note, 10:25).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 9:32–34 When the mute man speaks, the crowds recognize that Jesus is someone special. But the Pharisees have a negative explanation for His power over demons. Today, people are still divided in their reactions to Jesus. Yet, the Gospel speaks clearly that He is the Christ (16:16), the Savior. • Holy Spirit, strengthen my faith in Jesus as my Savior and Lord. Loose my tongue, that I may bear witness to His mercy. Amen.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 9:35 This second summary leads into the calling of the 12 apostles (10:1–4) and the missionary discourse (10:5–42). healing every disease … affliction. See note, 4:23–24.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 9:36 compassion. Lit, "moved with pity"; based on a term referring to the belly, regarded as the seat of the emotions. harassed and helpless, like sheep without a shepherd. The people had spiritual leaders like the Pharisees, who charged Jesus with being a pawn of Satan (v 34).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 9:37–38 disciples. Not just the Twelve (10:1), but a larger group. harvest. Various harvests would occur throughout the year. See calendar, p 262. Jesus used this agricultural metaphor to picture the many people who needed to hear the Gospel. pray earnestly … send out laborers. The plentiful harvest continues to require our prayers for workers today. It also calls us to bear witness ourselves.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 9:35–38 As Jesus travels around Galilee, the need for partners to preach the Gospel becomes more and more obvious. He urges His disciples to pray for laborers, and He sends out 12 of them as His personal ambassadors (ch 10). Jesus' desire to save Jewish people and to "make disciples of all nations" (28:19) has not changed. All Christians are called to be witnesses of the surpassing compassion Jesus shows them by the forgiveness, life, and salvation He offers. • Good Shepherd, make me faithful, and bless my every effort to enlarge Your flock. Amen.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 10:1 twelve disciples. See notes, 5:1; Lk 22:30; see also p 217. Jesus granted His disciples the kind of power that He had abundantly demonstrated (7:29; 9:6, 8; Mk 1:21–28). The spiritual authority Jesus grants them anticipates their role and calling as leaders in the Early Church. See notes, Jn 20:22, 23; Ac 1:25; 6:3; 15:2.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 10:2–4 Apostles are listed in pairs; Jesus sent them out "two by two" (Mk 6:7).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 10:2 apostles. See p 1901. Only time Mt uses this term. Simon … Andrew. Former fishermen and brothers. Most prominent among the Twelve. Peter. See note, Mk 3:16. Andrew. Not mentioned again in Mt. James … John. Also former fishermen. Peter, James, and John formed Jesus' inner circle (17:1; 26:37).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 10:3 Philip. Greek-speaking disciple from Bethsaida (Jn 1:43–44; 12:20–21) who found Nathanael (Jn 1:45). Bartholomew. Perhaps Nathanael (Jn 1:45–51). Thomas. Prominent in Jn (Jn 11:16; 14:5; 20:26–29). Matthew. Former tax collector. James the son of Alphaeus. Referred to as "James the younger" (Mk 15:40) to distinguish him from John's brother. Thaddaeus. Probably the person Luke called "Judas, son of James" (Lk 6:16; Ac 1:13).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 10:4 Simon the Cananaean. Aram qane'an, "zealous one"; name given to Jewish nationalist groups opposed to Roman rule (see "Zealots," p 1558). Judas Iscariot. See note, Lk 22:3.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 10:1–4 Jesus selects representatives to extend His gracious kingdom. They are named individually and given divine authority, demonstrating Jesus' personal care for each disciple. The compassionate authority of forgiveness is given to each of Christ's followers. We are sent with the message of God's love to a world of sinners. Through the waters of Baptism, God called us by name and made us His dear children. • Thank You, Jesus, for making me one of Your followers. Help me to carry out Your mission as Your representative. Amen.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 10:5 sent out, instructing. Jesus' second discourse (vv 5–42) concerns the upcoming mission of His disciples. This training would prepare them to serve the Church in the future. Go nowhere among the Gentiles. The disciples were to concentrate their immediate efforts on Jewish people living in Galilee. Only later would Jesus give them the command to go to all nations (v 18; 28:19). Samaritans. See p 1557.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 10:6 lost. Jesus had observed the spiritual misery of the house of Israel during His own tour through Galilee. He recognized how necessary it was for laborers to proclaim "the gospel of the kingdom" (9:35–38). sheep. Jesus would train the apostles as shepherds, from which the office/title of "pastor" would come (cf Jn 21:15–16; Eph 4:11; 1Pt 2:25; 5:1).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 10:7 The disciples' message would be identical to that of Jesus and John the Baptist (Mk 1:14–15).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 10:8 Heal the sick ... cast out demons. Cf v 1. Jesus lists four ways the disciples are to use their authority. These miracles were signs of the nearness of God's kingdom. cleanse. See "Clean and Unclean," p 1653. received … give without pay. The healing power was not for personal financial gain.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 10:9–10 The disciples were to travel light, carrying no excess baggage or provisions. laborer deserves his food. Jesus approved the commonsense rule that those who benefit from the labors of another are obliged to provide something in return.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 10:11 stay there. See note, Lk 9:4. worthy. A person receptive to the Gospel and willing to provide food. Luke terms this person a "son of peace" (Lk 10:6). See note, v 13.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 10:12 greet. Luke provides the wording of such a greeting: "Peace be to this house!" (Lk 10:5).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 10:13 your peace. The peace the disciples gave was the peace found in Christ. See p 7. not worthy ... return. The disciples were unable to know for certain which persons were worthy. If they had extended the peace of Christ to an unworthy person, the blessing would be ineffective. Later in this sermon, Jesus described people who are "not worthy of Me" (vv 37–38). He also spoke of guests invited to a banquet as being not worthy (22:8).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 10:14 shake off the dust. See note, Lk 9:5.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 10:15 day of judgment. Catastrophic judgment meted out on Sodom and Gomorrah (Gn 19:24) was nothing compared to the eternal end-times punishment for those who refuse Christ's Gospel. See "day of the LORD," p 1079.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 10:5–15 Jesus sends out 12 apostles and warns them that not everyone will receive them hospitably or listen to their message. We who witness to Christ have the same experience. The Gospel is foolishness to many, "but to those who are called, both Jews and Greeks, [it is] Christ the power of God and the wisdom of God" (1Co 1:24). • Lord Jesus, strengthen my determination to serve as Your ambassador of peace, even when I encounter opposition. Amen.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 10:16 wolves. Jesus sent His disciples into a dangerous environment. wise as serpents. Shrewd when facing danger. innocent as doves. Without guile.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 10:17 Beware of men. The disciples would face hostile people and betrayers. flog you in their synagogues. Whipping was a Jewish form of punishment, one that Paul experienced five times (2Co 11:24).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 10:18 The training would prepare the apostles for the future mission to all the world. See note, v 5.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 10:19 The disciples would not be left speechless. No preplanned defense was necessary because divine assistance would be provided.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 10:20 Spirit of your Father speaking through you. God's Son speaks of a time after Pentecost, when His disciples will be filled with the Holy Spirit, who will testify through them (cf Ac 1:8; 2:32).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 10:21–22 Jesus knew that His disciples might be tempted to give up their mission and their faith when even family members turned against them because of their loyalty to Him (see note, Mk 13:12). Jesus encouraged the disciples to stand firm, always keeping in mind the highest goal, salvation.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 10:23 If persecution became too severe in one town, Jesus told His disciples to move to the next one. At times, Jesus Himself withdrew to escape danger (4:12). Son of Man comes. Likely refers to Jesus' coming in judgment on Jerusalem, which was captured and destroyed by the Romans in AD 70 (24:2).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 10:24 Teachers and disciples, servants and masters suffer the same.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 10:25 Beelzebul. See note, 2Ki 1:2. Jesus, the true Master of God's house, was labeled demonic. Jesus' disciples will be equally maligned.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 10:16–25 Jesus warns His disciples to expect persecution as they carry out their mission of being His witnesses. This opposition to the Gospel is evidence of sin's grip on the human heart. When we experience abuse because of our loyalty to Jesus, we have His assurance that the Holy Spirit will help us to speak the right words. He will use our Gospel testimony to soften the hard hearts of unbelievers. • Holy Spirit, help me to stand firm to the end and faithfully witness to Christ in word and deed. Amen.
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 10:26 no fear. Since it was Jesus who sent His disciples into the world, they could depend on His protection. revealed … known. As the disciples carry out their mission, they need to be convinced that ultimately the truth of the Gospel will emerge.
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 10:27 Jesus often told His disciples to keep quiet about who He was (12:16; 16:20; 17:9). See "Secrecy," p 1653. However, the time was coming when He wanted them to proclaim the Gospel openly and boldly. housetops. See note, Jsh 2:6.
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 10:28 fear. See p 1001. those. Earthly persecutors. Him. God. What mortals can do to a believer is nothing compared to what God can do. He alone is capable of punishing a person, body and soul, in hell. Not fear of humans but fear of the Lord is the beginning of wisdom (Pr 9:10).
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 10:29 sparrows sold for a penny? The very poor purchased sparrows for food, paying c 1/16 of a day's wage. This illustrates how little meat was eaten by the common people. See p 236. apart from your Father. No sparrow, seemingly so worthless, will fall from its nest or experience harm in flight without God's knowledge and will. "He foresees and foreknows everything that is or will be" (FC SD XI 4).
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 10:30 What no person would want to do, our Father has done: counted each hair on our heads. He knows us down to the minutest detail.
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 10:31 Fear not. For the third time, Jesus tells His disciples not to be afraid (vv 26, 28). more value. The disciples had vastly greater value than a small bird. They had nothing to fear, because God blesses and rules over all creation.
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 10:32 Jesus promised His disciples that if they fearlessly confessed Him on earth, He would stand up for them before His heavenly Father at the last judgment and accept them into eternal life. See LSB, p 272.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 10:33 Those who, from fear or doubt, deny Jesus will be denied by Jesus on Judgment Day. To deny Jesus is to reject the One who brings us to the Father (Jn 14:6; Eph 2:18).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 10:26–33 Enemies of the Gospel can persecute believers only within limits set by our heavenly Father. Because He is in charge of our lives, we need not be afraid of those who oppose us because we confess Christ. At the last judgment, our Lord will recognize faithful service and acknowledge us as His followers. We are confident of His love not because of what we have done but because He died and rose to redeem us from sin, death, and the power of the devil. • Heavenly Father, through Word and Sacrament, assure me of Your loving care and drive fear from my heart. Amen.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 10:34 not … peace, but a sword. Likely surprised the disciples, because earlier Jesus had told them to "let your peace come" on the houses they entered (v 13). Jesus wanted them to realize that His coming was like a sword that split families in two: some were for Him, some were against Him. See note, Ac 14:22. This same division will be evident in the last judgment.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 10:36 person's enemies … own household. Cf v 21. Jesus distanced Himself from His own family, some of whom did not believe in Him (12:46–50; Mk 3:21; Jn 7:5).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 10:37 loves … more than Me. More important than loving parents and other family members is loyalty to Christ. not worthy of Me. Cf vv 11, 13. To value family more than Jesus means that one is not fit to be a disciple. Bern: "Although it is impious to despise a mother, yet to despise her for Christ's sake is most pious" (SLSB, p 212).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 10:38 take his cross and follow. The cross represented death; it was common for Romans to crucify criminals. Jesus expected His followers to be willing to die, if necessary, rather than to give up their commitment to Him.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 10:39 Contrasts earthly and eternal life. Clinging to earthly life forfeits eternal life, but losing one's life for Christ's sake gains real life.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 10:34–39 The radical nature of following Jesus may result in conflict and divisions within families. Jesus wants His disciples to strive for eternal life, even if this means sacrificing earthly benefits. In all honesty, we must confess that we often fail to put Jesus first in our lives, that we do not take up His cross and follow Him. What we fail to do, Jesus did for us. He took up His cross and paid the penalty for the sins of the world. In Him, we have peace. • Thank You, Jesus, for bearing my cross on Calvary and making me Your highest priority. Amen.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 10:40 The disciples were authorized messengers of Jesus. To receive them was the same as receiving Christ and the Father who sent Him (cf v 14).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 10:41 Not only the apostles but also others served as Gospel witnesses. receives a prophet ... righteous person. See p 1904. reward. See note, 5:12.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 10:42 little ones. Jesus was likely gesturing to young children, but may have been referring also to those who believe in Jesus with a simple, childlike faith (cf 18:1–14). cup of cold water ... reward. Someone who performs even a small act of love will be rewarded.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 10:40–42 Jesus says much about the difficulties that the disciples will encounter as they carry out their mission. But He concludes His sermon by promising a reward to those who support the Gospel message and fellow disciples. Yet no reward can match the blessings of grace given to those who repent of their sins and believe in Jesus as their Savior (Eph 2:8–10). He gives peace with God, patience in time of tribulation, confidence to pray, and finally eternal life. • Loving Savior, I deserve no reward for my words and actions. Yet You promise rich blessings to those who receive the Gospel. Thank You. Amen.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 11:1 After Jesus finished giving mission instructions to His disciples (ch 10), He resumed His travels in the cities and villages of Galilee (9:35).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 11:2 John heard in prison. John the Baptist had been imprisoned by King Herod Antipas about a year earlier. he sent word. John wanted to verify the reports he had heard about Jesus.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 11:3 John the Baptist had used images of judgment to describe the ministry of the One who was coming (3:10–12). Jesus seemed not to be living up to John's expectations of the Coming One, a title for the Messiah.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 11:5 Jesus pointed to His mighty works of healing (chs 8–9) and His proclamation of the Good News to the poor as the fulfillment of Isaiah's messianic prophecies (cf Is 26:19; 29:18; 35:5–6; 42:18; 61:1–2). These words and deeds verified that He was the promised Christ.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 11:6 blessed. Jesus' beatitude (cf 5:3–12) promised spiritual tranquility to John and anyone else who was not repelled by Him. not offended by Me. Bern: "The Lord intimated that He was about to die, and by such a death as might be to the Jews a stumbling block and to the Greeks foolishness" (SLSB, p 174).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 11:7–9 What did you go out ... to see? Jesus had established who He was. He now asks the same rhetorical question three times to explain John's mission. Each moves closer to the purpose described in Mal 3:1 (cf Mt 11:10).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 11:7 shaken. See note, Lk 7:24.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 11:8 soft clothing? John's ascetic garb of camel's hair and leather belt were hardly the silk and satin garments of noble courtiers (3:4). See note, Mk 1:6. kings' houses. See note, Lk 7:25.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 11:9 John surpassed all other prophets because he was God's chosen messenger, specifically identified as such in the OT, to prepare the way for the Messiah (v 10). He played a unique role in God's plan of salvation.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 11:10 My messenger. See note, Lk 7:27.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 11:11 See note, Lk 7:28.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 11:12 kingdom of heaven has suffered violence. John experienced violence; Jesus and His disciples expected violent opposition as they carried out their mission (ch 10). violent take it by force. See note, Lk 16:16.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 11:13 OT era, with its writings that foretold the coming of both John and Jesus, had come to an end.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 11:14 Malachi had predicted that a prophet like Elijah would come "before the great and awesome day of the LORD" (Mal 4:5). John the Baptist was that prophet.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 11:15 Outwardly hearing what Jesus said about Himself and John was not sufficient. Real hearing called for faith, something that Jesus' contemporaries lacked (vv 16–24).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 11:16 Jesus was often critical of the people of His day (12:38, 41–42, 45; 16:4; 17:17). Like children who did not want to play either happy or sad games, people were dissatisfied with both John and Jesus.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 11:17 His own people would not listen. Cf Lk 11:32; see note, Lk 7:32.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 11:18 See note, Lk 7:33.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 11:19 glutton ... drunkard ... friend of ... sinners! See note, Lk 7:34. wisdom is justified by her deeds. What a person does demonstrates wisdom. Because of what Jesus did (v 2), one was justified in believing that He was the Messiah. See pp 775–78.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 11:1–19 People commonly experience disappointment because of false or unfulfilled expectations. We hope God will act in a certain way, but He does not. We then wonder why. To guard against false expectations, focus on Jesus and on what He has said and done. He is the fulfillment of all our hopes. "All the promises of God find their Yes in Him" (2Co 1:20). • Lord Jesus, when I struggle with doubts and unfulfilled hopes, remind me of Your words and works that assure me of Your saving love. Amen.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 11:20 denounce the cities. Both John and Jesus exhorted their hearers to repent (3:2; 4:17). Jesus expressed indignation against the cities; though crowds flocked to hear Him, they remained unmoved by His proclamation. These cities refused to respond positively to Jesus' messianic presence and message.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 11:21–22 See note, Lk 10:13–14.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 11:23 Capernaum. See note, 4:13. exalted … brought down. Capernaum's inhabitants may have felt a sense of pride because Jesus had adopted it as His hometown. But their failure to heed His message would plunge them into the depths of Hades, a term that here designates hell. Sodom. One of the cities destroyed by sulfur and fire (Gn 19:24); proverbial for wickedness. See map, p 33.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 11:24 more tolerable. See note, Lk 10:11–12.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 11:20–24 Jesus is deeply grieved that some who have had the greatest opportunity to hear the Gospel stubbornly refuse to repent and believe. His warning to the Galilean cities is one for us to take to heart as well. Many of us have been blessed to drink often of the water of life. We must respond eagerly and sincerely. Day by day, Jesus patiently invites us to repent of our sins and hear His word of forgiveness. • Turn my heart daily, O Holy Spirit, to confess my sins and receive the full and free forgiveness earned by Jesus. Amen.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 11:25 Jesus thanked His Father for revealing the truth of the Gospel to little children rather than having the knowledge of salvation depend on human wisdom. Jesus referred to His followers as the "little ones" (10:42) and pointed to a child as the greatest in the kingdom of heaven (18:1–4). Those considered wise by earthly standards regard the word of the cross as folly (cf Is 29:14). Bern: "Those who are led by this Spirit, they are sons, and cannot be kept from their Father's council" (SLSB, p 150).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 11:26 gracious will. God gives grace to the humble but opposes the proud (Jas 4:6). Cf Lk 1:52.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 11:27 See note, Lk 10:22. "The majesty of the divine nature is communicated to the human nature" (CT I).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 11:28 rest. The peace of God, which surpasses all understanding and guards our hearts and minds in Christ Jesus (Php 4:7). "Here there are two parts. The 'labor' and the burden signify the contrition, anxiety, and terrors of sin and death. To 'come to' Christ is to believe that sins are forgiven for Christ's sake. When we believe, our hearts are brought to life by the Holy Spirit through Christ's Word. Here, therefore, are these two chief parts: contrition and faith" (Ap XIIA 44–45).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 11:29 yoke. Wooden crosspiece fastened over the necks of two animals. Jewish rabbis spoke of the "yoke of the Law" as glorious obedience to God, which freed one from obligations to the world and gave rest. (Cf Ecclus 24:23; 51:26.) Jesus described this yoke as heavy (Mt 23:4) and offered His alternative, to be yoked with Him to the Gospel. One yoked to Jesus will find rest. See note, 12:7. Luth: "The yoke that Christ lays upon us is sweet, and His burden is light (Matt. 11:30). When sin has been forgiven and the conscience has been liberated from the burden and the sting of sin, then a Christian can bear everything easily. Because everything within is sweet and pleasant, he willingly does and suffers everything" (AE 26:133).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 11:30 Jesus has carried all our sins and sorrows to the cross. His presence and forgiveness lightens every load. Bern: "Testimonies of the Truth console me, which wonderfully raise up those whom they make humble, instruct while they humiliate. Thus this same Hand that casts me down raises me up again and makes me sing with joy….

This marvel the word of God, living and efficacious, produces" (SLSB, p 62).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 11:25–30 The thing hidden from the wise and understanding is God's gracious plan of salvation, the message that both Jesus and John the Baptist proclaimed. Jesus' contemporaries by and large rejected Him, preferring to live under the heavy yoke of the Law as the way to salvation. Jesus invites us to receive the yoke of the Gospel, which guarantees true rest. • Dearest Jesus, I praise You that when I am yoked to You, no burden is too heavy. Amen.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 12:2 The Pharisees resumed their faultfinding (9:11, 34). The Law of Moses forbade all forms of work on the Sabbath (Ex 31:13–15), including the harvesting of grain (Ex 34:21; Dt 5:14), which the Pharisees accused the disciples of doing.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 12:3–4 what David did. Jesus cited a biblical example familiar to the Pharisees in order to claim authority as great as Israel's greatest king. (See note, Lk 1:32–33.) David demanded five loaves of bread from the priest at the tabernacle in Nob, a village just east of Jerusalem. bread of the Presence ... only for the priests? Twelve sacred loaves were placed before the Lord every Sabbath as a thank offering and were to be eaten only by the priests. However, only this "holy bread" was available for David and his men, and so they ate it. Jesus, the Son of David, likewise allowed that it was more important on this occasion for His followers to eat than to rest on the Sabbath.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 12:5 To fulfill their religious duties of offering sacrifices, priests were required to work on the Sabbath. Their worship responsibilities took priority over the Sabbath.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 12:6 Jesus was greater even than the temple and its worship. His comparisons in vv 3–5 made the case.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 12:7 mercy, and not sacrifice. People in Hosea's day put a greater priority on offering sacrifices than on steadfast love of the heart. The Pharisees prioritized the details of the Sabbath law over mercy. guiltless. This principle of mercy over sacrifice and the authority of Jesus shielded His disciples from guilt.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 12:8 The Father had handed all things over to Jesus (11:27), the Son of Man. His lordship extended also over the Sabbath Day law. See notes, Mk 2:28; Lk 6:5. Son of Man. See p 2098.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 12:1–8 God's purpose in giving the Sabbath law was to provide physical rest for His people. But those in Jesus' day who tried to follow all the Sabbath regulations imposed by the Pharisees found that the law had become a heavy burden, a yoke on their necks. We keep the Sabbath Day holy when "we do not despise preaching and His Word, but hold it sacred and gladly hear and learn it" (SC, p xxxv). Jesus offers true rest, the yoke of the Gospel (11:29–30). • Loving Savior, keep me from quibbling about trivial things and from neglecting Your Word. Amen.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 12:9 entered their synagogue. Possibly at Capernaum or another Galilean town (cf 11:21, 23).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 12:10 withered hand. Lit, "dry." Paralyzed, shrunken, and atrophied because of disease or accident. they. Pharisees (vv 1–8). accuse Him. See note, Mk 3:2.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 12:11 Jesus assumed that His hypothetical question about lifting a sheep out of a pit on the Sabbath would have a positive answer. The Pharisees would certainly rescue their sheep.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 12:12 Humans have greater value than animals. Jesus declared that doing good on the Sabbath took priority over a too-strict application of the Law. Jewish religious law did permit medical treatment when life was in danger.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 12:14 Jesus' messianic claims drove the Pharisees to plot Jesus' death. See notes, v 8; Mk 3:6.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 12:9–14 The Pharisees' eagerness to find fault with Jesus is a common sin. Jesus warns His disciples about seeing the speck in another's eye while overlooking the log in one's own eye (7:3–5). That Jesus was the victim of false accusations is another example of how He took on Himself the sins of the world. Though we have many faults, for which we deserve condemnation, He has washed them all away by His innocent suffering and death. • Dearest Jesus, forgive me for the times I unlovingly find fault with others. Move me to do good as You have done good for me. Amen.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 12:15 As Jesus had done after John's arrest, He withdrew from a confrontation with the Pharisees. His hour had not yet come (Jn 13:1). healed them all. Gentiles may have been among the many who followed Jesus (cf Mk 3:8). Jesus demonstrated His compassion by turning away none who needed healing. See note, Mt 4:23–24.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 12:16 As on previous occasions (e.g., 9:30), Jesus downplayed His ministry of physical healing so that His disciples would better understand that He came, above all, to bring spiritual healing. See "Secrecy," p 1653.
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 12:17 fulfill. Mt often refers to OT Scriptures fulfilled in Christ's coming (e.g., 2:14, 17, 23). See p 1245.
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 12:18–21 Quotation based on Is 42:1–4, though not word for word.
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 12:18 servant. Gk pais; may also be translated "son." Jesus was revealed as the Servant/Son of the Father at His Baptism, and the Spirit descended on Him (3:13–17). justice. God's righteousness to condemn and forgive is revealed in His Law and Gospel. See "righteousness," p 1904. Gentiles. Though Jesus had forbidden His disciples to go to the Gentiles (10:5), proclamation to all nations was very much a part of God's plan (28:19). The quotation concludes with a second mention of the Gentiles (v 21).
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 12:19–20 Jesus described Himself as "gentle and lowly in heart" (11:29).
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 12:15–21 Jesus, the Servant of the Lord, proclaimed justice to all nations, a justice that rightfully condemns sinners. Yet Jesus fulfilled the demands of that justice by His perfect life and innocent death on the cross. We, Christ's present-day ambassadors, do well to follow His example as we proclaim His message. We will not save anyone by being argumentative and quarrelsome. The Gospel of Christ alone is the power of God for salvation (Rm 1:16). • Grant me patience, Lord, not to quarrel or cry aloud as I share the Gospel with others. Amen.
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 12:22 demon-oppressed … blind and mute. See note, 8:16. Another example of how Jesus "healed them all" (v 15).
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 12:23 Son of David? See p 2098.
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 12:24 The Pharisees rejected the people's conclusion and asserted that Jesus' power to heal had a different source. Beelzebul. See note, 2Ki 1:2.
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 12:25–26 First of four arguments Jesus raised against the Pharisees' charge. He suggested that their accusation was absurd and self-destructive. Satan would not undercut his own princely dominion.
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 12:25 Knowing their thoughts. See note, Lk 11:17.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 12:27 by whom ... cast them out? Attempted expulsion of evil spirits, or demons, is called exorcism and was practiced in the biblical world (Ac 19:11–20) and also today. Jesus' question and second argument suggested that sons or students of the Pharisees claimed this power. they will be your judges. See note, Lk 11:19.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 12:28 Jesus' third argument was the bold assertion that He cast out demons by the power of the Holy Spirit. This proved that God's kingdom was at hand (4:17; 10:7), present in His very person among the unbelieving Pharisees.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 12:29 Jesus' fourth argument is a brief parable. Jesus pointed out that Satan was very strong and must first be bound before anyone could plunder his house. Only One stronger than Satan can plunder Satan's household and rescue those held captive by his demonic hosts. Cf Col 1:13–14.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 12:30 not with Me is against Me. Although directed specifically against the Pharisees, this general principle stands for all time. There is no middle ground when it comes to being either for or against Jesus (Rv 3:15–16). Hus: "Men may easily recognize the wicked by their outward works which are contrary to Christ; but the good cannot be so known because hypocrisy may lurk in them" (The Church, p 160).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 12:31 Therefore I tell you. What Jesus said to the Pharisees was a solemn warning to beware of blaspheming the Holy Spirit. blasphemy. Extreme slander or curse of the deity. OT law pronounced death (no forgiveness) on anyone who blasphemed God (Lv 24:16). This was the charge against Jesus that led to His crucifixion (Mt 26:65–66). against the Spirit will not be forgiven. Jesus declared that those who slandered Him as a human being could be forgiven, but those who called His miracles "the devil's work" were blaspheming the Holy Spirit and could not be forgiven. The Holy Spirit is true God. See note, Mk 3:29–30. No one who worries about having committed this unforgivable sin is guilty of it.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 12:32 speaks against. Synonym for blasphemy. either in this age ... to come. Forceful way of saying "never."

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 12:22–32 The Pharisees claim that Beelzebul, the prince of demons, has enabled Jesus to overpower demons. This leads Jesus to declare: "Whoever is not with Me is against Me" (v 30). One cannot be neutral in spiritual matters. To be indifferent or apathetic about Jesus is to be on the side of those who refuse to confess that He is the Messiah. He alone saves the world from sin, death, and the power of the devil. • Lord Jesus Christ, continue to send Your Holy Spirit through Word and Sacrament to strengthen my faith in You as my only Savior. Amen.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 12:33 tree is known by its fruit. Words one speaks (cf v 32) are fruit that determine whether one is good or bad.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 12:34 brood of vipers! Pharisees. out of the abundance of the heart the mouth speaks. "The First Commandment has instructed the heart and taught the faith. This commandment now leads us forward and directs the mouth and tongue to God. For the first things that spring from the heart and show themselves are words" (LC I 50).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 12:35 good treasure … evil treasure. Speech reveals character: good from good; bad from bad. See note, v 33.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 12:36 careless word. Gk adjective means "lazy, idle (KJV), insignificant." Jesus possibly had in mind the Pharisees' remark that He cast out demons by Beelzebul (v 24). He warned that they would be held accountable for this word on the Day of Judgment.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 12:37 you will be justified. Jesus spoke these final words not just to the Pharisees but to all hearers (and readers). Each individual is accountable for the words that flow from one's heart. They prove a person either righteous or guilty. However, cf Rom 10:10.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 12:33–37 Jesus reminds us that words are important. Good words come from good hearts, and evil words come from evil hearts. What do our words tell others about our hearts? James said quite a bit about controlling our tongues (Jas 3:1–12). Such control begins with a repentant heart. Only faith in Jesus, the Word of God, produces good hearts, from which flow words of praise and confession. • Guard my mouth, O Lord, from speaking words that would detract others from Your truth. Amen.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 12:38 scribes … Pharisees. See p 1557. Teacher. See note, 8:19. sign. The Jewish legal scholars asked for some compelling miracle to verify Jesus' messianic claims. The healing of the demon-oppressed man was not sufficient for them (v 22).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 12:39 adulterous generation. Jesus described His contemporaries with a term often used by OT prophets (Jer 3:8; 13:27; Ezk 16:15). seeks for a sign. To seek a sign from Jesus after all He had already done revealed the spiritual impurity and wickedness of these religious leaders. Like Satan, they wanted Jesus to certify that He was the Son of God (4:3, 6). This certification would come in the sign of Jonah (v 40).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 12:40 Son of Man. See p 2098. Jesus cites what happened to Jonah as a preview of His own death, burial, and resurrection. Jonah was the only OT prophet to whom Jesus directly compared Himself. three days and three nights. Ancient way of referring to any parts of three calendar days. See p 1567.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 12:41 men of Nineveh ... condemn. These Gentiles repented because of Jonah's preaching; on Judgment Day, they will condemn unbelievers for rejecting Jesus. something greater. Jesus was a greater prophet than Jonah (cf 10:1; 12:6).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 12:42 queen of the South. The queen of Sheba, a Gentile, traveled great distances to hear Solomon's wisdom (1Ki 10:1–10). What she sought, a great king and sage, was surpassed by Jesus, the messianic King who will sit at the Father's right hand (Col 3:1; Heb 12:2). She also will condemn the contemporaries of Jesus at the final judgment. See note, Lk 11:31.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 12:38–42 The people of Nineveh heard Jonah, and the queen of Sheba saw Solomon. But greater than either that prophet or that king is our Lord Jesus Christ. We are privileged to hear and receive Him in His Word. Sometimes, like the unbelieving leaders, we seek signs of God's goodness in success, wealth, and health. One sign is sufficient for faith, the sign of Jonah. In this sign we find peace, joy, and hope. • O Jesus, my Prophet, Priest, and King, accept the praise I bring because You revealed to me the sign of salvation. Amen.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 12:43–45 With this parable, Jesus returned to the subject of demonic possession (vv 22, 27). See "Clean and Unclean," p 1653.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 12:43 passes through waterless places. People in Jesus' day believed that evil spirits inhabited desert places (cf 4:1). If they found no resting place there, they would seek out some human habitation.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 12:44 house. Person who formerly had the demon. empty. When a state of neutrality exists, when a person is neither for or against Christ (v 30), the demon regains possession. Emptiness invites occupation. swept, and put in order. See note, Lk 11:25.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 12:45 Jesus applied the parable to His contemporaries who refused to acknowledge Him as God's chosen Servant

(v 18). They were missing an opportunity to amend their sinful lives and would end up being condemned at the final judgment (vv 41–42). last state. See note, Lk 11:26.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 12:43–45 Jesus describes how a person delivered from a demon becomes worse when there is failure to fill the emptiness with goodness. We can also relapse into old and habitual sins when we fail to nourish our spiritual lives through Word and Sacrament. Only the Holy Spirit can replace the evil spirits that are constantly "seeking someone to devour" (1Pt 5:8). With words from Luther's baptismal service, we cry out: "Depart thou unclean spirit and make room for the Holy Spirit" (AE 53:107). • Come, Holy Spirit, and make my heart Your dwelling place. Amen.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 12:46 brothers. See note, Mk 6:3.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 12:49 The spiritual family of believers took priority for Jesus over His earthly family.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 12:50 To do the Father's will includes believing (Jn 6:29). By doing what pleases the Father, we identify ourselves as members of the family of Jesus (7:20–21).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 12:46–50 Jesus' family comes to speak with Him, but He gently rebuffs them in order to make the point that all Christians are His sisters, brothers, and mother. None of us deserves to be included in this sacred relationship. But our Savior's arms, once extended on the cross, now embrace us with His forgiving love and empowering grace. • My Brother, Jesus, assure me of Your presence, and guide me as I seek to do my Father's will. Amen.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 13:1 same day. Jesus' third major discourse followed immediately after He experienced rejection from "this evil generation" (12:45). See "Order and Meaning in the Story," p 1577. house. The owner is not named but may have been Peter (v 36; 8:14). sea. Galilee.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 13:2 into a boat. See note, Mk 3:9. sat down. In biblical times, teachers taught while sitting (5:1; 24:3). crowd stood. Those assembled onshore.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 13:3 parables. Matthew's first use of this term, which refers to short stories or wise sayings in a variety of literary forms, including proverbs, maxims, allegories, fables, comparisons, and riddles (cf Ps 78:2; Ezk 17:2). See note, Jgs 9:8–15. All of Jesus' parables here focus on the working of God's kingdom (cf 6:9). Four parables in this chapter were spoken to the crowd (vv 3–9; 24–35) and four to the disciples (vv 36–52). sower. Farmer planting seeds. See note, Mk 4:14. sow. See note, Mk 4:3. Jesus interpreted this parable of the sower in vv 18–23. Some modern interpreters have argued that parables are best interpreted by reducing them to a single point or truth. However, the way Jesus interpreted and applied some of His own parables (e.g., vv 36–43, 49–50) should guide how we interpret and apply them today.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 13:4 path. Packed-down soil.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 13:5–6 See note, Mk 4:5–6.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 13:7 See note, Mk 4:7.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 13:8 produced. See note, Mk 4:8.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 13:9 Cf 11:15. Jesus meant this agricultural example to have a deeper spiritual meaning, which His hearers needed to carefully consider. See note, Mk 4:9.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 13:1–9 Jesus earlier told His disciples: "The harvest is plentiful, but the laborers are few" (9:37). This parable gives encouragement that when a laborer faithfully sows the seed, a plentiful harvest may follow, even if some seed goes to waste. We are tempted to give up a task when we experience little success. That is also true of our efforts to share the Gospel. Let us not grow weary in doing good, knowing that at the right time we will reap, because God provides the harvest (Gal 6:9). • Give me patience, dear Lord, when the tasks of life seem hard and unending. Amen.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 13:10 came. Later, Jesus taught His disciples privately in the house (see note, Mk 4:10). Likely vv 10–23 were included in this instruction. them. Crowd of people (v 2).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 13:11 given to know the secrets. The disciples were the "little children" to whom the Father revealed the secrets of the kingdom of heaven (11:27). See note, Mk 4:11.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 13:12 Jesus quoted a proverbial saying that contrasts those people who have with those who have not. The disciples had been given the secrets of the kingdom (v 11) and would learn more. Those who opposed Jesus would lose even what knowledge they had.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 13:13 why I speak to them in parables. Parables both reveal and conceal. For the unbeliever, parables were a form of God's judgment, because they refused to listen to the clear Gospel message (v 34).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 13:14–15 Jesus quoted Is 6:9–10 to show that He was fulfilling Scripture when He spoke in parables. The Lord commissioned Isaiah to preach to Israel, knowing that the people would not understand what they heard or saw. Jesus taught the unbelieving crowds in parables because they continued to reject Him.
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 13:16 blessed. See p 842.
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 13:17 longed to see. Past generations looked forward in faith to the fulfillment of God's messianic promises. did not see it … did not hear it. These OT prophets and righteous people died before Christ came.
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 13:10–17 Jesus pronounces His disciples blessed because they have seen and heard and believed. Christians today are also blessed, for the Holy Spirit has given us eyes that see and ears that hear. We dare never take our spiritual blessings for granted, for then we put ourselves in danger of losing them. Let us daily praise God for His goodness. In the Holy Scriptures we have everything we need for salvation and life together. There we learn of Jesus and His completed work of salvation for us sinners. • I stand in awe of Your goodness to me, dear Savior, and ask You to keep me faithful to the end. Amen.
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 13:18 Jesus will interpret vv 3–8 for His disciples.
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 13:19 word. Note the sixfold repetition in vv 19–23. See note, Mk 4:14. of the kingdom. Gospel message that Christ is the messianic King who rules (4:17; 9:35). God's rule springs from His Word. See pp 1565–66. not understand. Jesus uses the examples of three different soil conditions to explain why hearers failed to understand the Word, something Isaiah also experienced (vv 14–15). evil one. Satan. sown in his heart. The Word is heard but quickly rejected. See note, Mk 4:15. "Those fussy spirits are to be rebuked who, after they have heard a sermon or two, find hearing more sermons to be tedious and dull. They think that they know all that well enough and need no more instruction" (LC I 99).
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 13:21 no root in himself. The Word is heard but does not produce a vigorous root because the soil lacks depth. tribulation or persecution. See note, Mk 4:16–17.
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 13:22 See note, Mk 4:18–19.
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 13:23 understands. Understanding the Word is the Father's gift to His children (v 11; 11:25). bears fruit and yields. The seed of the Word of God is good and will produce abundant fruit.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 13:18–23 Jesus explains the parable of the sower for His disciples. He wants them to understand that as they go out and preach the Gospel, not all the seed they sow will produce fruit. But what keeps a farmer sowing and a disciple proclaiming is Jesus' promise that some seed will produce a wonderful harvest. The lesson for us is obvious: the blessings of God's kingdom come through the seed of God's Word. • O divine Sower, keep me from becoming discouraged as I entrust my life to Your Word and seek to share Your message of salvation with others. Amen.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 13:24 them. The crowd (vv 2, 34). kingdom of heaven. Remaining parables in this chapter make comparisons to aspects of God's kingly rule (cf v 11; 3:2; 4:17). See pp 1565–66. compared to a man. Another parable about a sower, but one with a different problem. Jesus will interpret this parable in vv 37–43.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 13:25 weeds. Likely bearded darnel, which is botanically close to wheat and difficult to distinguish from it when the plants are young.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 13:28–29 The master's servants inquired whether they should collect the weeds prior to the harvest. But pulling darnel weeds, with their strong and deep roots, would uproot the emerging wheat plants.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 13:30 burned. To prevent the weeds from spreading seed and causing future damage, they were burned after being separated from the wheat. On harvesting, see pp 422–23. barn. Wheat was stored for future use.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 13:24–30 The master does not seem overly upset by what his enemy has done and shows great patience in delaying until the harvest the separation of weeds from wheat. He warns his servants not to judge prematurely by assuming they can distinguish between these plants. A mark of God's rule is His patience (2Pt 3:8–15). For us sinners, this is a great comfort and also an encouragement for us to endure evil patiently (2Tm 2:24). • O God, help me to accept the fact that in this world good and evil will grow side by side. Lead me also to count on Your wise timing and judgment. Amen.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 13:31–32 Jesus compared kingdom growth to how a very small seed becomes a tree. mustard seed. See note, Mk 4:31.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 13:32 smallest. See note, Mk 4:31. larger ... branches. See note, Mk 4:32.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 13:33 leaven. Yeast or a bit of leavened dough causes dough to rise. Leaven often symbolized evil (1Co 5:7), but here Jesus pictured it as a transforming agent that works quietly and almost unnoticed. hid. Hidden in the dough as God's kingdom is hidden in the world. three measures. Probably c 84 cups, as much as a woman could work at one time.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 13:31–33 These two parables contrast the small beginnings of the kingdom of heaven with its exceptional, though hidden, growth. God is active in small things, even though His presence may not be evident. Jesus' ministry had humble beginnings, but its expansion has been miraculous. God uses even our small efforts to accomplish His purposes. • Lord Jesus, use my feeble testimony to further the growth of Your great kingdom. Amen.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 13:35 fulfill ... prophet. Cf Ps 78, which relates the history of Israel. The story of Israel needed interpretation to be properly understood. The truths that Jesus told also needed explanation (11:25).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 13:34–35 Historians point out that simply knowing the facts about an event is not enough. One must interpret the facts correctly for proper understanding. This is true with Jesus and the events of His life. We need the revelation that the Holy Spirit has provided in the Word of God to understand Jesus and put our faith in Him. • Lord, draw near to me in Your Word, and open my heart to hear. Amen.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 13:36 house. See note, v 1. Explain. In contrast to those who rejected Jesus, the disciples persisted in seeking understanding. Jesus explained vv 24–30, interpreting seven key elements: sower, field, seed, weeds, enemy, harvest, and reapers (vv 37–39). "You must always have God's Word in your heart, upon your lips, and in your ears. But where the heart is idle and the Word does not make a sound, the devil breaks in and has done the damage before we are aware" (LC I 100).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 13:38 field. Represents the world, where "the sons of the evil one" continue to live. See Ap VII and VIII 17–19.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 13:40 Parable illustrated the final judgment.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 13:41 gather ... all law-breakers. Hus: "They gather up from the kingdom of holy church all that offend, that is, those who commit iniquity, namely, the sin of final impenitence" (The Church, p 41).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 13:42 fiery furnace. Image of punishment in hell (cf 3:12; 18:8–9). gnashing. See note, 8:12.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 13:43 shine like the sun. The righteous will reflect light similar to Jesus at His transfiguration (17:2; 1Co 15:39–49). their Father. Jesus referred to the righteous in the third person to indicate a future event.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 13:36–43 At the close of this present age, the Son of Man will send His angels to gather all people. The law-breakers will suffer eternal punishment, and the righteous will enjoy the Father's heavenly glory. Since all people are law-breakers, all deserve to be cast into the fiery furnace. Only those who have faith in Christ will escape this fate. They are declared righteous (Rm 3:21–26). "He who has ears, let him hear" (v 43). • Bless me, Jesus, with a believing heart, that I may remain a child of Your kingdom. Amen.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 13:44–52 Jesus told these last four parables, found only in Mt, to His disciples.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 13:44 Different interpretations of this short parable exist. One may naturally see the man as any man and the treasure as the kingdom that he discovers. However, a more Christological interpretation describes the field as the world, the treasure as you (the hearer), and the man as Christ, who gives up the glory of heaven to win you.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 13:45–46 one pearl of great value. In contrast to the previous parable, this merchant was busily seeking to discover fine pearls. When he found one perfect in size, shape, and color, he sold all he had and bought it.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 13:44–46 In the parables of both the hidden treasure and the precious pearl, Jesus reinforces this basic truth: earthly possessions cannot compare with the immense value and cost of God's kingdom. We must not press the details of these parables to say that one can buy entrance into God's kingdom by sacrificing all possessions. We inherit the kingdom by grace through faith in Christ, who purchased and redeemed us with His precious blood. • Heavenly Father, grant me Your kingdom and Your righteousness. Amen.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 13:47–48 net. A dragnet was drawn through the water between two boats and onto the shore. fish of every kind ... good ... bad. When the net was full, edible and inedible fish were sorted from one another.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 13:49–50 Jesus interpreted this parable in a way similar to the parable of the weeds (cf vv 37–43). However, the weeds were allowed to grow over a period of time, whereas there was no delay in the sorting of the fish. Both parables teach clearly that God's rule includes a final judgment at the close of this age.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 13:47–50 Jesus' parable illustrates what will happen at the close of the age. Believers need not worry about that day, for God is gracious to us through His Son, our Savior, in whom we are chosen (Eph 1:4). • Let not my heart be troubled, dear Lord, by thoughts of the final judgment. I know that You have prepared a place for me in heaven. Amen.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 13:51 The disciples had earlier asked Jesus to explain the parable of the weeds (v 36). Now Jesus asked them whether they understood, something that was vital for a disciple (vv 13–15, 19, 23). Yes. The disciples would later show that their confident answer was overstated (15:16).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 13:52 scribe. See pp 719–20. trained. Lit, "has become a disciple." Jesus trained disciples so that they could make disciples of others (28:19–20). master. Owner of the house. treasure. Storeroom. what is new and what is old. Fresh food items and aged ones, such as cheese and wine.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 13:51–52 With this parable, Jesus encourages His disciples to imitate the master of a house who brings out food for his family and guests. Jesus had trained His disciples to be teachers for the kingdom of heaven. In their teaching, they were to bring out both old and new. Without giving up the OT, they were to add the NT. The OT needed to be understood on the basis of the new revelation that they had received from the Father (11:25). Christian pastors, teachers, and students of God's Word continue to follow this practice today. All the Holy Scriptures teach Law and Gospel and "are able to make [us] wise for salvation through faith in Christ Jesus" (2Tm 3:15). • Lord, keep me steadfast in Your Word, and lead me out of death to life. Amen.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 13:53 there. House probably in Capernaum, where Jesus had been teaching His disciples (v 36).
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 13:54 hometown. Nazareth. taught. Jesus did what His disciples would be doing in the future (v 52). wisdom and these mighty works? Townspeople questioned the source of authority and power for Jesus' teachings and miracles.
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 13:55 See note, Mk 6:3. brothers. Four brothers are named who earlier had come asking to speak to Jesus. See "Authorship and Context," p 2132.
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 13:56 sisters. See note, Mk 6:3. all these things? See note, v 54.
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 13:57 offense. Gk skandalizo, "stumble or trip over something or someone" (Eng "scandalize"; 16:23; 1Pt 2:8). Jesus' neighbors were skeptical because of their prior acquaintance with Him and His family. prophet is not without honor… own household. Proverb similar to "familiarity breeds contempt." Jesus was saying that a prophet is more honored away from home than by His native town and family. Jesus' family had made a similar mistake (Mk 3:21).
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 13:58 did not do many mighty works. See note, Mk 6:5. unbelief. Jesus refrained from doing many miracles because the people of Nazareth showed the lack of understanding that Jesus would increasingly face (cf v 13).
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 13:53–58 Just as the people of Nazareth took offense at Jesus and refused to believe in Him, so today many are skeptical of His claims. They may agree that Jesus was a good religious teacher whose example we should follow. But they refuse to believe that He is "true God, begotten of the Father from eternity, and also true man, born of the Virgin Mary." If we hear and understand, it is not by our own reason or strength but because the Holy Spirit has created faith in our hearts by the Gospel. Only the Spirit, working through the Word, can change an unbeliever's heart. • Spirit of God, thank You for calling me by the Gospel and enlightening my heart. Amen.
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 14:1–12 Herod had arrested John the Baptist (4:12) and kept him in prison (11:2), probably at the palace-fortress of Machaerus. This report of John's beheading is a flashback to what Herod had ordered earlier.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 14:1 Herod. Called Antipas, son of Herod the Great (2:1) by his Samaritan wife, Malthace. Ruled region of Galilee and Perea (4 BC–AD 39). tetrarch. Roman title for a ruler of secondary rank, though sometimes called "king" (Mk 6:14).
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 14:2 raised from the dead. Herod's fear may have grown out of his own guilty conscience.
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 14:3 Herodias. See note, Mk 6:17.
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 14:4 John condemned Herod's adultery with Herodias, the wife of Herod's half brother Philip, as contrary to divine Law.
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 14:6 Herod's birthday. Public celebration with invited guests. daughter of Herodias. Josephus identifies her as teenage Salome. danced. Perhaps seductively. This would reflect the Greco-Roman cultural influence in Herod's court.
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 14:7 Herod was reckless and foolish to swear that he would do whatever this girl desired. He also sinned in fulfilling an evil oath. See "oath," p 7.
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 14:8 Image of John's head on a serving dish is gruesome. Herod went through with this macabre act to satisfy the hatred of Herodias for John, who had dared to criticize her immorality.
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 14:12 The gory death of John anticipated Jesus' impending crucifixion (16:21; 17:12–13).
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 14:1–12 Throughout history, wicked earthly rulers have attacked Christ and His kingdom (cf 2:16–18). But their rage is in vain (Ps 2:1–2). Believers might at times be concerned about the outcome of this warfare between God and Satan, but have no fear. Christ has won the victory (1Co 15:57). • Lord Jesus, when I fear the might of those who oppose Your kingdom, comfort me with the knowledge that You live and rule eternally. Amen.
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 14:13–21 Significant event recorded in all four Gospels.
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 14:13 when Jesus heard this. Matthew notes Jesus' personal response to the news of John's execution. withdrew. See note, 12:15. desolate place. Jesus and His disciples (Mk 6:32) crossed the Sea of Galilee to an isolated place on the northeast shore near Bethsaida (Lk 9:10).
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 14:14 compassion. See note, Lk 7:13; cf Mt 15:32.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 14:15 desolate place. See note, v 13. send the crowds away. The disciples' suggestion makes sense from a human point of view.
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 14:16 Unexpectedly and forcefully, Jesus challenged the disciples to provide food for this vast crowd. He planned to teach them an important lesson.
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 14:17 five loaves here and two fish. Staple foods in Galilee, esp for the poor, but barely enough to feed the 12 disciples and Jesus. See p 236.
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 14:19 looked up ... a blessing. Jesus probably spoke a traditional Jewish blessing such as "Blessed are You, O Lord our God, King of the universe! You bring forth bread from the earth." At the Last Supper, Jesus likewise spoke a blessing before giving the bread. See "bless," p 842.
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 14:20 satisfied. All of the people had enough to eat, and none went hungry. twelve baskets. That Jesus had provided an abundance of food was impressed on the disciples, whose baskets were full of leftovers. (See the heavenly banquet described in 8:11; Is 25:6–9.) See also p 217.
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 14:21 five thousand men. See note, Lk 9:14.
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 14:13–21 This miracle is obviously important because all four evangelists have recorded it. The account here makes no mention of the crowd's reaction. They seem not to realize that a miracle has taken place. But the disciples know. Each has a basketful of leftovers to testify to what Jesus has done. They will also be privileged to feed the nations spiritually with the bread of life, a resource that will satisfy and never be exhausted. Whenever you have doubts about God's power to supply your needs, whether physical or spiritual, recall this miracle. Jesus is able to provide. • Heavenly Father, thank You for abundantly answering my prayer: "Give us this day our daily bread." Amen.
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 14:22 Immediately. Cf vv 27, 31. Emphasizes key events in Mt: Baptism of Jesus (3:16), call of the first disciples (4:20, 22), Palm Sunday (21:2), some healings (8:3; 20:34). made the disciples. See note, Mk 6:45. other side. To the northwest shore of the sea, the Plain of Gennesaret (v 34). See map, p 1584.
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 14:23 mountain. Or, hill, of which there are several in the area. by Himself to pray. See note, Mk 1:35. Matthew's report that Jesus prayed by Himself suggests that an important moment in His ministry was about to take place. Lk often notes that Jesus prayed at significant times in His life (see note, Lk 6:12).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 14:24 long way. Jn 6:19 reports that they had rowed c 3–4 mi.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 14:25 fourth watch. Early morning; 3 to 6 a.m. Romans divided nighttime into four segments of three hours each. See p 1567. walking on the sea. Jesus revealed His divine nature when He made His presence known to His disciples in this way.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 14:26 ghost! See note, Mk 6:49–50. fear. Exhausted, wet, and windblown, these experienced fishermen saw something that terrified them. When God reveals Himself, mortals tremble (Ex 3:6; 20:18; Is 6:5).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 14:27 Take heart. Jesus spoke a word of encouragement and self-revelation. it is I. Gk ego eimi. God made Himself known to Moses using similar words: "I AM WHO I AM" (Ex 3:14). See pp 1784–85. Do not be afraid. See note, Mk 6:49–50.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 14:28 First of three scenes where Peter's role is prominent (16:13–23; 17:24–27). Peter's request exhibits his impetuous yet genuine faith. if it is You. Or, "since it is You," an expression of Peter's faith.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 14:30 Peter's fear resulted from his failure to concentrate on the object of faith: Jesus. Lord, save me. Peter's shout for help repeated the disciples' prayer during an earlier storm.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 14:31 Jesus rebuked Peter for his lack of faith (cf 8:26). Peter still had much to learn, as will become evident. See note, 2Th 1:3.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 14:32 wind ceased. Abrupt evidence of a divinely wrought miracle.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 14:33 worshiped. Lit, "bow low," "fall at another's feet." See p 1276. The disciples' expression of reverence for Jesus right there in the boat is striking. In their worship, they joined the Magi who had honored the child Jesus (2:2, 8, 11). The women (28:9) and the 11 disciples (28:17) would also worship the risen Savior. Son of God. When Jesus had previously calmed a storm, the disciples wondered what sort of man He was (8:27). Now they confidently confess that He is the Son of God (cf 3:17; 4:3, 6; 8:29). See p 2098.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 14:22–33 When Jesus reveals His divine presence to His disciples by walking on the sea, they can only conclude: "Truly You are the Son of God." As long as Peter keeps his eyes on Jesus, he also is able to walk on the water. Like Peter, we often look away from the object of our faith and focus on our problems and doubts. Although we know the Son of God is with us and provides for all our needs, we still worry and fear. Jesus states, "Take heart; it is I. Do not be afraid." His powerful arm reaches out to steady us and guide us into His safe harbor. • Divine Savior, when the storms of life threaten to shipwreck my faith, assure me of Your loving presence and protecting care. Amen.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 14:34 Gennesaret. Populated plain south of Capernaum along the Sea of Galilee, 3 mi long and 1 mi wide, known for its fertility. See map, p 1584.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 14:35 Jesus did not seek to escape the crowds of needy and hurting people who flocked to Him. Cf vv 13–14.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 14:36 touch. Jesus often touched those with maladies to effect healing (8:3, 15; 9:29; 20:34). On this occasion, the sick were made well after begging to touch His garment (cf 9:20–22). See note, Mk 5:23. fringe. May refer to the tassel that Israelite men were to wear on the four corners of their outer garment (Nu 15:38–39; Dt 22:12).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 14:34–36 Surprisingly, Jesus heals many who only touch the tassel of His garment. What about today? Does not God permit both believer and unbeliever to be healed through medications that are derived from His creation? (Cf 5:45.) What happens on the Plain of Gennesaret demonstrates Christ's exceeding goodness to all. Yet because we know Jesus and trust Him as our Savior and Lord, we thank and praise Him for the multitude of undeserved favors that we daily receive. • "Oh give thanks to the LORD, for He is good; for His steadfast love endures forever!" (Ps 118:1). Amen.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 15:1 Pharisees and scribes. See p 1557. from Jerusalem. Though Pharisees and scribes are mentioned together in 5:20 and 12:38, this sounds like an official inquiry from temple headquarters.
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 15:2 tradition of the elders? Rules of conduct derived from an interpretation of OT Law. The Pharisees considered this tradition as having nearly equal authority to Scripture. In Jesus' time, these traditions were being passed down orally. However, they were later written down in the Mishnah, where an entire chapter deals with hand washing. wash their hands. Cf Ex 30:17–21; Lv 22:4–7 for laws intended for priests.
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 15:3 Jesus questioned how His critics dared subordinate God's moral commandment to humanly instituted rules.
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 15:4 Jesus quoted the Fourth Commandment given at Mount Sinai and another law that mandated death for reviling a parent (Lv 20:9). On the basis of OT laws, Jesus taught that grown children had an obligation to provide for their aging parents.
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 15:5–6 Jesus faulted the Pharisees and scribes for teaching that one could avoid financial support of parents by vowing this money to God as a gift. Such a vow might not be fulfilled until much later (if at all), allowing continued use of the money.
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 15:6 void the word of God. Jesus accused His opponents of setting aside God's revealed will for the sake of their human traditions. Hus: "They … sit ill … who teach good things and do them not. Worst are those who neither teach nor do. Worst are those who prevent the teaching of good things. And still worst of all are they who live ill, forbid the teaching of good things and teach their own things" (The Church, p 201).
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 15:7 hypocrites! Though Jesus harshly criticized hypocrites in the Sermon on the Mount (6:2, 5, 16; 7:5), this is the first time in Mt that He applied this term to the Pharisees and scribes. Their hypocrisy included self-deception, assuming that they were serving God by their conduct and rules when in fact they were not. See note, Lk 6:42.
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 15:8–9 LXX translation of Is 29:13. People in Isaiah's day imagined that they were worshiping God, even though they were, in fact, teaching human commandments. The Pharisees and scribes made the same mistake. See p 1557. "We unanimously believe, teach, and confess that some ceremonies or Church practices are neither commanded nor forbidden in God's Word, but have been introduced only for the sake of fitting and good order. Such rites are not in and of themselves divine worship. They are not even a part of it" (FC Ep X 3).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 15:1–9 Jesus is dealing with questions of Law when He criticizes placing man-made traditions above God's Commandments. God's Law and Gospel dare never be subordinated to human teachings and rules. Jesus came to fulfill every aspect of the Law, that He might be our perfect Savior. • Lord Jesus Christ, keep me faithful to Your Word, which is a lamp to my feet and a light to my path (Ps 119:105). Amen.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 15:10 Jesus wanted all people, not just His opponents, to hear and understand what He said about defilement.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 15:11 See note, Mk 7:20. "Neither sin nor righteousness should be placed in meat, drink, clothing, and like things. Christ wished the use of such things to be left free" (Ap XXVIII 7).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 15:12 offended. See note, 13:57.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 15:13 The Father planted Israel (Is 5:1–7). But Jesus implied that because He had not planted the Pharisees, they would be uprooted.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 15:14 The Pharisees considered themselves spiritual guides for the common Jew. But since the guides were themselves blind to Jesus' teachings, both they and their followers were doomed. Hus: "A subject, in obeying his prelate [leader] in that which is evil, is not excused from sin … they both fall into the pit of error" (The Church, p 224).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 15:15 Peter referred to Jesus' statement in v 11, which is a kind of riddle. parable. See note, 13:3.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 15:16 Jesus was concerned that even His disciples did not understand the argument He was making (v 10; 13:51).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 15:17–18 Jesus elaborated His statement in v 11, adding this important point: "What comes out of the mouth proceeds from the heart."

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 15:19–20 See note, Mk 7:21–22.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 15:19 heart. Spiritual inner being of a person (6:21). The mouth speaks what is in the heart (12:34). The heart is the moving force that leads a person to commit the other sins that Jesus mentioned. "Original sin is born in us because of the sinful seed and is a source of all other actual sins, such as wicked thoughts, words, and works" (FC Ep I 21).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 15:20 Sins of the heart are what defile a person, not eating with ritually unclean hands (vv 2–3).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 15:10–20 People are unholy because of sin, not from some external defilement. Sin originates in the heart. Jesus mentioned a few of these sins, and one could easily add many more. At our birth, we were already sinful. But through Holy Baptism and the Word, the Spirit has renewed our hearts and washed away all our sins (Ti 3:4–7). Although our hearts will never be completely free from sinful desire in this life, God's Spirit continues to lead us on the path of holiness. • Create in me a clean heart, O God, and renew a right spirit within me. Amen.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 15:21 withdrew. See note, 12:15. One of the few times that Jesus ventured beyond the borders of Galilee. Tyre and Sidon. See note, Lk 10:13–14; see also color map 4.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 15:22 Canaanite. Descendant of the OT race that Israel was ordered to exterminate because of their idol worship (Dt 20:17). Have mercy. Typical cry for help in a desperate situation (17:15; 20:30). Son of David. See p 2098. This Gentile woman addressed Jesus in the same way as did two Jewish blind men (9:27). In contrast to the Pharisees who were spiritually blind, she was not (v 14). oppressed by a demon. Cf 4:24; 12:22. The daughter's ailment is not further specified.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 15:23 When Jesus remained silent, making no response to the woman's cry for mercy, the disciples begged Him to help her and so get rid of her.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 15:24 Jesus reminded His disciples that His mission was limited to the people of Israel (see notes, 10:5–6).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 15:25 knelt. Same Gk word translated "worship" in 14:33. Lord, help me. This woman would simply not be turned away.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 15:26 Jesus answered the mother with a pithy statement expressing a general truth or rule of conduct. Because of the proverbial nature of His statement, He may not be calling her a dog. See note, Mk 7:27.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 15:27 This astute woman matched Jesus' maxim with one of her own: Pets get the scraps that fall from the table.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 15:28 O woman, great is your faith! Second time Jesus commended the faith of a Gentile (cf 8:10). In contrast, Jesus repeatedly chided His disciples for their lack of faith (8:26; 14:31; 17:20).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 15:21–28 This persistent Canaanite woman gains Jesus' praise for believing that He will help her sick daughter. In time of need, we often either fail to pray with such determination or only ask hesitantly. Instead, we ought to "pray without ceasing" (1Th 5:17). Jesus hears all prayers offered in His name, and He will answer in His own time and way as is best for us. Therefore, we can pray with confidence. • Lord, sometimes I have not because I ask not. Move me to pray with confidence. Amen.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 15:29 mountain. Jesus taught on the mountain (5:1), prayed on the mountain (14:23), and here healed on an unnamed mountain in the Decapolis (Mk 7:31). Since many Gentiles lived in this area, some may have been among the great crowds.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 15:30 Jesus fulfilled Isaiah's prophecy of what to expect in the days of the Messiah (Is 35:5–6). Summarizes the events of Mt 4:23–25; 8:16–17; 9:35–36; 14:13–14, 34–36. The number of miracles drops off after 16:21.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 15:31 wondered … glorified the God of Israel. This expression of praise is another hint that Gentiles were among those healed.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 15:29–31 Jesus shows that He is the promised Messiah by the healings He performs. Far too often we take our physical health for granted and fail to glorify God when we recover from illness or injury. Jesus brings eternal salvation, but He also helps and heals us when we are physically afflicted. • O Great Physician of body and soul, accept my humble thanks and praise for all the blessings I receive from Your bountiful hand. Amen.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 15:32 compassion. See note, Lk 7:13. three days … lest they faint. Unlike the situation in 14:15, here it is Jesus who speaks to His disciples about the people's need for food.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 15:33 desolate place. Region of the Decapolis (v 29), southeast of the Sea of Galilee; a high plateau with few towns. See color map 4.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 15:34 Seven. See note, Mk 8:5–6.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 15:36 given thanks. Gk verb eucharisteo (Eng "eucharist"), also used to describe what Jesus did before giving the cup at the Last Supper. See note, Mk 6:41.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 15:37 satisfied. Jesus never skimped in supplying people's needs but gave in abundance. baskets. Gk word differs from the one used in 14:20, where the disciples gathered the leftovers in the kind of baskets Jews commonly used to carry kosher food. Jesus also makes this distinction in 16:9–10.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 15:38 four thousand. Though Mt nowhere states that those fed on this mountain included many Gentiles, there are hints in the text that this was the case. Cf vv 33, 37.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 15:39 Magadan. Location unknown; probably on the western shore of the Sea of Galilee.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 15:32–39 The two great feeding miracles of Jesus remind us of how God miraculously fed His people Israel with manna and quail in the wilderness (Ex 16; Nu 11). God works through His creation to provide our daily bread. We dare not take this blessing for granted. Luther urges us in his explanation of the Fourth Petition "to receive our daily bread with thanksgiving" (SC, p xxxviii), for our Lord constantly cares for us. • Thank You, heavenly Father, for daily food and drink. Lead me to share my abundance with those in need. Amen.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 16:1 Pharisees and Sadducees. See p 1557. test. Jesus' opponents, like Satan (4:1, 7), tempted Him to prove His identity by doing something miraculous. sign from heaven. See note, 12:38.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 16:2–3 sky is red. Common and helpful way to anticipate fair weather or a storm. interpret the signs of the times. Jesus' opponents were blind to the spiritual signs of the times: the advent of the Messiah and the nearness of God's kingdom.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 16:4 no sign. See note, Mk 8:12. sign of Jonah. See note, 12:40. left them and departed. Because Jesus was again confronted by His enemies on His return to Jewish territory, He crossed the sea by boat (Mk 8:13) on His way to the district of Caesarea Philippi (v 13). See color map 4.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 16:1–4 Jesus points the Jews of His day to the sign of Jonah, His death and resurrection. St Paul wrote that the "Jews demand signs … but we preach Christ crucified" (1Co 1:22–23). When plagued by doubts or fears, look to this sign of assurance. The sign of Jesus' cross and resurrection sustains us in our faith and is the sign to which we must point in our witness (Ac 2:23, 31–32). • Ascended Lord, when I falter, comfort me in faith with the sign of Jonah. Amen.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 16:5 other side. Northern shore of the Sea of Galilee near Bethsaida (Mk 8:22). bread. The disciples' thoughts were focused on their failure to bring bread.
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 16:6 leaven of the Pharisees and Sadducees. Jesus' thoughts were focused on how the Jewish religious leaders continued to reject Him (vv 1–4). leaven. See note, 13:33.
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 16:8–10 little faith. Jesus did not reproach His disciples for forgetting bread, but for forgetting His miracles. Jesus urged them to remember how twice He had fed thousands with a few loaves of bread.
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 16:11 Beware of the leaven. See note, 13:33.
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 16:12 The disciples finally understood what Jesus meant by leaven. Jesus warned against skeptics like the Pharisees and Sadducees, who seek signs but "cannot interpret the signs of the times" (v 3).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 16:5–12 The disciples worried about their failure to bring bread rather than guarding against the teaching of the Pharisees and Sadducees, which should have been their primary concern. Too often, like the disciples, earthly needs and worries distract us. Jesus makes it clear that one thing is necessary: a focus on His teaching (Lk 10:38–42). When we abide in the Word of Jesus, we will know the truth (Jn 8:31–32). • Lord Jesus, help me to hear Your Word and gladly keep it. Amen.
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 16:13 Caesarea Philippi. New city built by Philip, son of Herod the Great. See note, Mk 8:27; see also color map 4. Son of Man. See p 2098.
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 16:14 People in Jesus' day expected the reappearance of some notable prophet, but opinions differed as to who this would be (Dt 18:15; Mal 3:1; 4:5–6).
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 16:15 See note, Mk 8:29. you. Plural. "Peter is the representative of the entire assembly of apostles, as appears from the text itself. Christ does not ask Peter alone" (Tr 23).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 16:16 Christ. Mt clearly identifies Jesus as the promised Messiah (1:1, 16, 18). John the Baptist questioned whether Jesus was the Christ (11:2–3). Now Peter, as representative of the Twelve, boldly confessed that Jesus was the Messiah, the Christ. See p 2098. Hus: "Faith, which properly is the foundation of the church, excelled in Peter"

(The Church, p 84). Son of the living God. After Jesus came walking on the sea to His disciples, they confessed that He was the Son of God. living. Emphasizes that God is the source of life, as later evidenced in Christ's resurrection. Bede: "He calls Him the 'living' God by way of distinction from the false gods which heathendom in its various delusions made to itself to worship, either of dead men, or—greater folly still—of insensate matter" (VB, p 151). This passage is the climax of chs 4–16.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 16:17 Blessed. See p 842. Simon Bar-Jonah! Peter's Aram birth name, "Simon, son of Jonah." flesh and blood has not revealed … Father. Peter's confession did not result from his request for a sign (v 1) or his own superior understanding. He was one of the "little children" to whom the Father had revealed this truth. Hil: "The Father revealed to Peter that he should say, 'You are the Son of the living God' [Matthew 16:17]. Therefore, the building of the Church is upon this rock of confession. This faith is the foundation of the Church" (Tr 29).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 16:18 Peter. See note, Mk 3:16. on this rock. Peter's rocklike confession of faith was the solid foundation on which Christ would build His Church (7:24–27; Eph 2:19–22). "Certainly the Church has not been built upon the authority of a man. Rather, it has been built upon the ministry of the confession Peter made, in which he proclaims that Jesus is the Christ, the Son of God" (Tr 25). Hus: "Christ is therefore the foundation by whom primarily and in whom primarily the holy catholic church is founded, and faith is the foundation with which it is founded—that faith which works through love" (The Church, p 73). I will build My church. The Church is the assembly, or gathering, of all believers. Christ is the builder of the Church, and each individual member is a living stone (1Pt 2:5). This passage and 18:17 are the only times "church" is used in the Gospels. See pp 1901–2. gates of hell. Figure of speech, meaning what causes a person to enter hell (Ps 9:13; 107:18). Bede: "The gates of Hell are wicked doctrines, which seduce men and bring them to Hell" (VB, p 154). Death will not overcome the Church because it rests on the living Son of God (1Tm 3:15). "God's eternal election does not just foresee and foreknow the salvation of the elect. From God's gracious will and pleasure in Christ Jesus, election is a cause that gains, works, helps, and promotes our salvation and what belongs to it. Our salvation is so founded on it that 'the gates of hell shall not prevail against it' (Matthew 16:18)" (FC SD XI 8).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 16:19 keys of the kingdom. Keys are used to lock and unlock doors. See notes, Sg 5:4; Is 22:22. The door of heaven is opened through the forgiveness of sins. See p 1617. bind … loose. To forgive or to refuse to forgive sins. "Our people are taught that they should highly prize the Absolution as being God's voice and pronounced by God's command" (AC XXV 3). "The Keys are an office and power given by Christ to the Church for binding and loosing sin" (SA III VII 1). "These words show that the Keys are given to all the apostles alike and that all the apostles are sent forth alike" (Tr 23). Bede: "Without the slightest doubt it is given to the other Apostles also. Christ Himself bears witness to this, for after the triumph of His Passion and Resurrection He appeared to them, and breathing on them said 'Receive the Holy Ghost [Jn 20:22]' " (VB, p 156). See note, 18:20; cf 23:13.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 16:20 tell no one. Because so many people thought that the Messiah would be a political leader to free them from Roman domination, Jesus likely wanted His disciples to refrain from proclaiming Him as the Christ until after His death and resurrection (Lk 24:46–48). See "Secrecy," p 1653.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 16:13–20 Peter's confession of Jesus as the Messiah and Son of God was a key event in Jesus' ministry. To confess Jesus as Savior and Lord is also essential in every believer's life. Some Christians will remember the very moment this first happened. Other Christians, baptized in infancy, have made this confession again and again in worship and daily life. Like Peter, none of us can by our own reason or strength believe in Jesus Christ. The Holy Spirit has called us by the Gospel (SC, p xxxvii). As royal priests of God, we "proclaim the excellencies of Him who called [us] out of darkness into His marvelous light" (1Pt 2:9). • Grant us grace, heavenly Father, to confess Jesus and so remain on the unshakable rock of our salvation. Amen.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 16:21 From that time. Jesus now set His eyes on Jerusalem, where He must suffer, die, and on the third day be raised in order to fulfill His Father's will (first Passion prediction recorded in Mt).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 16:22 rebuke. Peter's harsh rebuke resulted from his failure to envision a Christ who must suffer and die. Such a Messiah was not part of Jewish thinking at that time. See pp 1565–66.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 16:23 Peter … Satan! Jesus addressed Peter as Satan's spokesman because his counsel would keep Jesus from fulfilling

God's purposes. hindrance. Gk skandalon. See note, 13:57. Peter, whose name means rock (v 18), had become Peter the stumbling block. things of God … things of man. Peter's thoughts were governed by human values rather than divine values. He did not yet understand the theology of the cross. See p 837.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 16:21–23 Peter genuinely thinks he is helping Jesus when he tries to talk Him out of suffering and death. At times, we also fail to understand God's ways, thinking we know better. Jesus knows that He has to take up the cross for our salvation. Peter will learn that truth later, a truth that continues to give us comfort and peace. • Lord, thank You for being willing to suffer and die that I might be forgiven. Lead me to speak Your Word aright. Amen.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 16:24 come after Me. To follow. deny himself. To affirm that the self has no claim or value worth comparing with Christ (Php 3:8–9). take up his cross and follow Me. See note, 10:38. Jesus led and taught by example. When Jesus called disciples, His usual invitation was "Follow Me" (4:19; 9:9). "Without faith, human nature cannot, in any way, do the works of the First or Second Commandment [1 Corinthians 2:14]. Without faith, human nature does not call upon God, nor expect anything from Him, nor bear the cross" (AC XX 36–37).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 16:25 save his life … loses his life. See note, 10:39.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 16:26 The answer to these rhetorical questions is "nothing." In both questions, Jesus referred to eternal life.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 16:27 Son of Man. See p 2098. come with His angels. When Jesus returns to judge the living and the dead, His angels will accompany Him (13:40, 49; 25:31). glory of His Father. Jesus' heavenly glory and divine nature will be clearly evident at the final judgment. repay. Those who lose their life for Jesus' sake will receive public vindication on the Last Day (25:31–46).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 16:28 coming in His kingdom. This coming is not the same as the coming in glory to which Jesus referred in v 27. Jesus assured His little band of followers that some of them would see His kingdom come in His resurrection, Pentecost, and the growth of the Church (cf Col 1:6). The disciples were not to expect the end of the world until "this gospel of the kingdom will be proclaimed throughout the whole world" (24:14). See pp 1565–66.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 16:24–28 Talk of suffering and death, taking up one's cross, and losing one's life sounds strange and foreboding to Jesus' disciples. It does to us too. Yet the end is not the cross; the end is life in God's kingdom. To live in His kingdom must be our ultimate purpose. Many of the first disciples saw the glorious unveiling of that Kingdom when Christ rose from the dead. Peter saw the fulfillment of the promise on Pentecost. We continue to behold the spread of the message of Christ's cross into all the world. • Blessed Savior, give me the will and strength to take up the cross and follow You to life eternal. Amen.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 17:1 after six days. Indication that Peter's confession of faith and the transfiguration are closely connected. Peter and James, and John. Three of the first disciples called (4:18–22). Jesus selected them several times to be with Him at key moments (26:37; Mk 5:37). high mountain. Possibly Mount Tabor or Hermon. See color map 4. Mountains were common sites for significant events: temptation (Mt 4:8), sermon (5:1), prayer (14:23), feeding of 4,000 (15:29); God revealed Himself to both Moses and Elijah on Mount Sinai (Horeb; Ex 19:3; 1Ki 19:8).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 17:2 transfigured. Gk metamorphoo¯, "to change into a wholly different form or appearance" (Eng "metamorphosis"). Christ's human appearance became dazzlingly bright as He displayed His divine glory.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 17:3 Moses and Elijah. The great lawgiver and the outstanding prophet were representative of the OT Scriptures, the Law and the Prophets (5:17; 11:13). See application note, Dt 34.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 17:4 Peter's proposal gives Jesus the same honor shown for Moses and Elijah, thus implying that Jesus was equal with them.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 17:5 bright cloud. God also revealed His presence on Mount Sinai with a cloud (Ex 19:9). This is My beloved Son, with whom I am well pleased. The Father answers the question Jesus had asked His disciples in 16:15. What Peter, James, and John had not heard at the Baptism of Jesus (3:17), they hear now. listen. Moses had foretold that God would raise up a prophet to whom the people should listen (Dt 18:15). Jesus was that prophet. He alone knows the Father, who has handed over all things to His Son (11:27). "All who want to be saved ought to listen to this preaching. For the preaching and hearing of God's Word are the Holy Spirit's instruments. By, with, and through these instruments the Spirit desires to work effectively, to convert people to God, and to work in them both to will and to do" (FC SD II 52).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 17:6 fell on their faces. The disciples were overcome with awe at what they saw and heard. See p 1276.
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 17:7 touched. Jesus moved the disciples out of their dazed state by this human gesture.
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 17:8 Moses and Elijah had vanished; Jesus had resumed His normal appearance.
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 17:9 What the three disciples had seen was obviously out of the ordinary. Until Jesus rose from the dead, the general public and the other disciples could not properly understand it. See "Secrecy," p 1653. Son of Man. See p 2098.
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 17:10 Elijah must come? The scribes taught, on the basis of OT prophecy (Mal 4:5–6), that before the Messiah came, Elijah would reappear. If Jesus was the Messiah, the disciples wondered whether Elijah's appearance in this vision fulfilled the prophecy.
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 17:11 Jesus agreed with the scribes' interpretation.
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 17:12 Elijah has already come. John the Baptist did the work of the new Elijah. Unfortunately, John's ministry ended abruptly (14:10). suffer at their hands. Jesus knew He would suffer the same fate as John. See note, 4:12; cf 11:12.
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 17:13 The disciples now grasped what Jesus had taught earlier about John (11:14).
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 17:1–13 The transfiguration of Jesus confirms for the disciples that He truly is the Messiah, the Son of the living God, as Peter confessed (16:16). The transfiguration is a foretaste of coming glory: Christ's resurrection and His earthly appearances afterward, His ascension, and finally heaven. Comfort one another with these words. Though we are still troubled by the cares and ills of earthly life, every believer shares in the vision of what is to come (1Jn 3:2). • "'Tis good, Lord, to be here! Yet we may not remain; But since Thou bidst us leave the mount, Come with us to the plain." Amen. (LSB 414:5)
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 17:14 when they came. The next morning. See note, Lk 9:37.
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 17:15 have mercy. This father's desperate plea echoed the cry of the Canaanite woman (15:22). See pp 842–43. epileptic.

See note, Mk 9:18.
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 17:16 Perhaps took place when Jesus was on the mountain (v 1). Their failure to heal the boy while Jesus was transfigured would emphasize the contrast between heavenly glory and the grip the devil still has on earthly affairs.
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 17:17 faithless and twisted generation. Jesus lumped His disciples with all those whom He had previously denounced with similar words (12:39, 45; 16:4). how long. He would not be with them much longer. The disciples' lack of faith prompted Jesus to ask these rhetorical questions, which expressed His disappointment.
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 17:18 The disciples cast out demons (cf 6:13), but they could not overcome this one (cf v 19). Jesus, who had just heard the voice of His Father, readily conquered this mute demon. "[The devil] often breaks men's necks or drives them to insanity, drowns some, and moves many to commit suicide and to many other terrible disasters [e.g., Mark 9:17–22]. So there is nothing for us to do upon earth but to pray against this archenemy without stopping. For unless God preserved us, we would not be safe from this enemy even for an hour" (LC III 115–16).
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 17:19 They had previously been successful in casting out demons (10:8).
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 17:20 little faith. Jesus had several times admonished His disciples for their weak faith (8:26; 14:31; 16:8). See notes, 6:30; 2Th 1:3. He had given them authority to cast out demons (10:8), but their doubts prevented them from healing this boy. mustard seed. See note, Mk 4:31. Jesus used figurative language to teach that faith as tiny as a mustard seed could do great things, such as moving a huge mountain. nothing will be impossible for you. Jesus made this promise to His disciples in the context of their mission as His representatives (10:1–8; Php 4:13).
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 17:21 Included as footnote 1 above. prayer. Cf Mk 9:29.
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 17:14–20 Jesus heals a demon-possessed boy whom His disciples have been unable to help. Their faltering faith has let down a seriously afflicted person. Sometimes our weak faith may do the same. When we express our own doubts and fears, family members and friends may be led to question God's promises. Yet the strength of our faith does not flow from us but is the work of the Holy Spirit through Word and Sacrament. Our prayer must ever be: "Lord, increase our faith." • Lord Jesus, give me great faith, that I may receive the fullness of the gifts You promise. Amen.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 17:22 gathering. Apparently Jesus and His disciples separated for a time prior to their journey to Jerusalem for Passover (19:1). Son of Man. See p 2098. delivered. Gk paradidomi. Lit, "handed over." Term used throughout Jesus' Passion (cf LXX Is 53:6, 12). Jesus foretold His death and resurrection for a second time (cf 16:21).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 17:23 greatly distressed. Peter had rebuked Jesus when He first spoke of His death (16:22). Now the disciples felt helpless in grief and sorrow with no comprehension of the resurrection. Cf Jn 11:16.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 17:22–23 Jesus has to tell His disciples repeatedly that He is going to suffer, die, and rise. Love prompts our Lord to repeat those things the disciples need to hear. Christians hear these same events proclaimed again and again. We annually observe the Lenten season and relive Christ's suffering and death. Each year, we celebrate His glorious resurrection. We never grow weary of hearing this story of God's love and our salvation. • Dear Jesus, lead me to ponder and love those truths that declare my salvation. Amen.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 17:24 Capernaum. See note, 4:13. two-drachma tax. Every adult Jewish male paid this annual tax (about two days' wages) to support the Jerusalem temple.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 17:25 Jesus referred to the practice of earthly kings, who did not collect taxes from their own sons.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 17:26 sons are free. Just as the sons of earthly kings were not obligated to pay taxes, so Jesus, as the Son of the heavenly King, was free from the temple tax.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 17:27 not to give offense. See note, 13:57. Jesus did not want to give others a reason to fault Him for refusing to pay the temple tax. hook. Cf Jb 41:1; Ezk 29:4; Am 4:2. find a shekel. The way in which Jesus provided for payment of the tax showed how much greater than the temple He was (12:6).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 17:24–27 Jesus submits to paying the temple tax so as not to cause offense. He who calmed the stormy sea and fed the multitudes with scant provisions humbled Himself to the requirements of the Law. Likewise, He humbled Himself to death on the cross (Php 2:6–8) to pay the penalty for our sins of pride and tax evasion and all the rest. His righteousness sets us free. • Lord Jesus Christ, keep me humble in my words and actions, ever walking in Your ways. Amen.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON Ch 18 Extensive teaching on sin, forgiveness, and the community of faith.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 18:1 The disciples seem to have had a recurring dispute about who was the greatest (20:21; Lk 22:24). Jesus used their question as the occasion for His fourth major discourse, in which He taught how Christians should act toward one another.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 18:3 turn. See p 1080. To change one's thinking as to what makes for greatness in God's kingdom. become like children. The child served Jesus as an object lesson in humility.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 18:4 A child's humility is evident esp in dependence on and trust in a superior. Greatness in the kingdom is characterized by humble trust in the Lord. "Just as a child neither takes nor seeks sovereignty for himself, so this shows that there is not to be sovereignty among ministers" (Tr 8).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 18:5 one such child. One who humbly trusts in the Lord (v 4). Jesus identified Himself with such children (11:25; 25:40, 45).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 18:6 causes ... to sin. Prompting a fellow believer to sin through tempting words or bad examples. who believe. Faith and the kingdom of God are not limited by age or mental abilities. They are gracious gifts of God. See notes, 19:14; Lk 18:16. better. Better to die by drowning than to suffer eternal punishment (cf v 9) for causing a little one to sin. millstone. Cf Dt 24:6; see notes, Jgs 9:53; Jb 41:24.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 18:1–6 Jesus demonstrates that humility is the hallmark of greatness in the Kingdom of heaven. Humility means confessing our inability to do anything at all to become worthy before God and earn salvation. Humility depends entirely on God's mercy for forgiveness. It looks to Jesus Christ as the Savior who became one with sinners to redeem them. • Daily teach me, dear Jesus, to turn and become like a child. Amen.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 18:7 temptations to sin! Gk word is also translated "take offense" (11:6; 15:12; 17:27) and "cause to sin" (vv 6, 8–9). See note, 13:57. The world sets up numerous stumbling blocks over which people trip and fall into sin. necessary. Because sin has corrupted this world, temptations will persist until Judgment Day (1Jn 2:16). Jesus pronounced doom on anyone who causes another person to sin.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 18:8–9 Cf 5:29–30, where Jesus spoke similar words to warn against sexual sins. He used such strong and hyperbolic language to emphasize the seriousness of sin.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 18:7–9 One need look no further than these words of Jesus to see how much the holy God hates sin. Here, the Law strikes us with all its fury. Who of us can say that our hand or foot or eye has not caused us to sin? We all deserve to be thrown into the hell of fire. Thank God that Jesus' hands and feet were pierced for our iniquities and that His eyes beheld our sin in order to turn the Father's face from it. By His wounds and precious death, we enter life. • Holy Father, I confess my sins of thought and word and deed. Forgive me for Jesus' sake. Amen.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 18:10 despise. E.g., cause a fellow believer to sin (v 6). their angels. Believers can be certain that angels keep watch over them (Ps 91:10–11). This text is the basis for the depictions of "guardian angels" common in art. see the face. Angels have direct access to our Father in heaven, who cares greatly for each of His little ones.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 18:12–13 God, like the good shepherd, will search for a single lost sheep and rejoice when it is found.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 18:14 The heavenly Father wants all to be saved (cf 1Tm 2:4).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 18:10–14 Jesus compares the Father's love for His little ones to that of a shepherd who left his 99 sheep to search for the one who went astray. Do we show similar concern when fellow Christians stray from faith in Christ? May we never despise one of the little ones for whom Christ died. God did everything He could to seek and to save the lost. He spared not His only Son but gave Him up for us all. • Give me a heart, O Father, that cares about each of Your little ones. Amen.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 18:15–17 If your brother sins against you. Context is important here. After Jesus had stressed the seriousness of sin (vv 8–9), He warned against despising a little one (v 10), told the parable about seeking the lost sheep (vv 12–13), and stated that His Father did not want a single little one to perish (v 14). The entire process that Jesus here describes must be carried out in humility (v 4) with the goal of gaining your brother. See LC I 276–78. Hus: "Teach, counsel, punish, console, remit, bear, pray" (The Church, p 92).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 18:16 take one or two others. To serve as witnesses that the accusation of sin was well-founded. See notes, Dt 17:6; 19:15.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 18:17 tell it to the church. If a brother refused to listen and repent, the Church was informed of his sin. The entire believing community had the opportunity to regain him. On "church," see note, 16:18. Gentile and a tax collector. After all efforts had failed to convince the sinner to repent, he was to be regarded as outside the Christian fellowship. This did not preclude future efforts to regain him. See LC I 279–83. Hus: "A notorious sinner after the third warning or public citation, when he refuses to be corrected, ought on account of his criminal offence to be kept from [communion]" (The Church, p 271).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 18:18 bind … loose. See notes, 16:19; Jn 20:23. The action that the Church took regarding the sinning brother was valid in heaven. "He means sin being forgiven, eternal death taken away, and eternal life bestowed. 'Whatever you bind' does not speak of requiring punishments, but of retaining the sins of those who are not converted" (Ap XIIB 41).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 18:19 two. See note, v 16. anything. Gk pragma, "an issue," as in a common legal case (Eng "pragmatic"). Likely refers to church matters such as dealing with a sinning brother. they ask, it will be done. The heavenly Father will ratify the Church's actions done in Christ's name (v 20).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 18:20 Jewish Mishnah states that God's glory is present when two or three men consider the Torah together (Avot 3:2). Here, the actions of believers are valid in heaven because of Jesus' presence among them. Cf 6:10. "God is superabundantly generous in His grace: First, through the spoken Word…. Also through the mutual conversation and consolation of brethren" (SA III IV). "The Keys have been given to the Church, and not merely to certain persons" (Tr 68).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 18:15–20 Jesus commands the Church to do all it can to regain an unrepentant sinner. To humbly and lovingly speak to such a brother or sister is to follow the example of the shepherd who searched for one lost sheep. Christ has promised to stand behind the actions of the Church in either forgiving or refusing to forgive sins. We need personally to cherish His gifts and to present His Law and Gospel to anyone caught in the grip of sin. Through the precious gift of forgiveness, the door of heaven is opened to each repentant sinner. • Loving Lord, help me to act as my brother's keeper, even as You care for me and keep me by grace. Amen.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 18:21 Peter's question was a follow-up to the instructions Jesus had given on how to treat a sinning brother (vv 15–20). seven times? Peter probably regarded his suggestion as quite lenient since some rabbis taught that one needed to forgive the same sin only three times.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 18:22 seventy times seven. Jesus meant that forgiveness has no limits.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 18:23–35 Jesus also told this parable to make His point that forgiveness has no limits for those who repent.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 18:24 ten thousand talents. ESV note indicates that the debt of one servant was fantastically high, more than what one individual could ever hope to repay.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 18:25 sold. The king ordered a most degrading and protracted punishment for this debtor and his family—slavery. See p 101.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 18:26 This servant could never repay his debt, though he promised to do so.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 18:27 Out of pity, the king forgave the gigantic debt. So our heavenly Father has forgiven the enormous debt of our sin.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 18:28 hundred denarii. See ESV note. This debt is thousands of times less than what the king had forgiven the first servant.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 18:29 Second debtor made almost the same appeal as had the forgiven servant (v 26).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 18:30 Forgiven servant showed no pity to his fellow servant. until he should pay the debt. See note, v 25.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 18:32 wicked servant! Not for running up an enormous debt but for refusing to forgive his fellow servant.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 18:34 jailers. Jailers often tortured inmates. The servant who refused to forgive was doomed. This condemnation represents eternal punishment.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 18:35 Jesus summed up His teaching about how Christians should act toward one another (see note, v 1) by repeating that our heavenly Father expects those whom He has forgiven to forgive others

(6:15). The blessing of forgiveness is the defining gift of the Church. No other institution can offer this heavenly blessing.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 18:21–35 Jesus teaches that God has forgiven us far more than we will ever be called on to forgive. Our willingness to forgive a brother or sister is grounded in God's abundant mercy toward us (see note, Lk 23:34). To forgive is to exercise our childlike faith (v 3). Pray for such simplicity of heart; trust likewise in the simple, enduring love of your gracious heavenly Father, who daily forgives all your debts. • Jesus, Your forgiveness for my sin has no limits. Move me likewise to forgive those who sin against me. Amen.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 19:1 Judea beyond the Jordan. On the east side of the Jordan River, also known as Perea. See color map 4.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 19:2 Reinforces the picture of Jesus performing countless healings during His earthly ministry. Cf Mk 1.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 19:3 tested. As on numerous other occasions, Jesus' opponents try to lure Him into self-incrimination (see note, 16:1; cf 22:18, 35). divorce. Then, as now, divorce presented special challenges for God's people. any cause? Some rabbis argued that men were completely free to divorce their wives.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 19:4–5 Rather than immediately answering His opponents' question, Jesus first underlines God's intent for marriage. Quoting Gn 1:27; 2:24, Jesus emphasizes God's will that married couples share a lifelong, monogamous union, and that gender is an essential feature of God's created order. See notes, Gn 1:27; 2:24.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 19:6 God has joined. Marriage is a divine institution, not merely a cultural institution that can be changed at will. On the issue of same-sex relationships, see p 1911. let not man separate. God desires that married couples remain together until parted by death.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 19:7 Divorce was common. See Jos, Life, 414–28. certificate of divorce. Written statement given by a husband to a wife as evidence of a legal divorce. Cf Dt 24:1.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 19:8 Because of the perennial problem of failed marriages, the Law given to Moses made provision for divorce. Even so, Jesus shows divorce was never a part of God's intention, but a concession made because of "hardness of heart." This also illustrates why the civil laws of the OT could not remain in force forever—they were designed to meet the needs of Israel. See note, Gal 3:22–23.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 19:9 except for sexual immorality. Jesus does not teach that divorce is required if husband or wife has sexual contact with another outside of marriage. In some cases, through repentance and forgiveness, couples are able to overcome such immorality. This exception clause simply allows for the possibility. commits adultery. Divorce and remarriage for reasons other than sexual immorality result in a union that is inherently adulterous. Jesus permits remarriage only if one is widowed or the victim of a spouse's sexual immorality. See notes, 1Co 7:10–13, 15.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 19:10 better not to marry. Jesus' disciples blurt this out because they are shocked by His strictness.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 19:11–12 Jesus changes the subject a bit, speaking about those who opt to remain unmarried for positive reasons. to whom it is given. Clear that some receive a special gift so that they can happily and chastely choose to remain unmarried. See note, Rm 12:3.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 19:12 eunuchs … from birth. For a variety of physical and psychological reasons, some seem destined from birth to lead a single life. On eunuchs, see note, 2Ki 9:32. made eunuchs. Others undergo life experiences or losses that lead them to see singleness as the better option for them. made themselves eunuchs. Some do not marry for the sake of the Kingdom. Paul may have been such a person (cf 1Co 7). A single lifestyle allowed him to devote all his time and effort to his missionary calling. receive this. According to God's created order (vv 4–5), the Church cannot forbid a person to marry, not even a church worker. Staying unmarried will only be a blessing if God has prepared that person to wholeheartedly embrace the single life. "The law of nature in human beings cannot be removed by vows or enactments" (Ap XXVII 51).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 19:1–12 Few problems afflict the Church and society more than those of marital infidelity and divorce. Sin has deeply affected our human relationships to the point that its effects seem normal, but they are not. When questioned about marriage and divorce, Jesus emphasizes that a lifelong, monogamous union is God's intent for a man and a woman. He instituted marriage to be a gift and a blessing. He also affirms the value of a single lifestyle. With His forgiveness, grace, and guidance, our relationships can be a blessing. • Be with all Christian families, Lord, granting them strength, mutual affection, and the grace to raise their children in faith. Amen.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 19:13 lay His hands on them and pray. OT associates the imposition of hands most often with sacrificial (Lv 1:4) and consecratory rites (Dt 34:9). However, examples in Gn 27:23; 48:14–18 show that blessings and inheritance were bestowed on family members in this way. rebuked. Ironically, in 18:5, Jesus had told the disciples to receive children, the weak, and the humble in His name.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 19:14 to such belongs the kingdom. Cf 18:1–5; only those exhibiting childlike humility and dependence on God can enjoy the benefits of His kingdom. See "portion," p 7. belongs. See note, Lk 18:16.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 19:15 laid His hands on them. Jesus often touched those whom He was healing (8:3, 15; 9:29; 20:34); here He imparts another kind of blessing.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 19:13–15 Jesus welcomes children and makes it clear that they, too, have a place in the Kingdom. For a variety of reasons —some unavoidable and others the result of selfishness—many children today are not nurtured as they ought to be. Because of His special love for children, Jesus not only allows children into His kingdom, but He also gives them pride of place! • Give us childlike simplicity, O Lord, so that we not only love little ones as ourselves but also please You through our humility. Amen.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 19:16 Teacher. See note, 8:19. what good deed. Like many in Jesus' day, this young man assumed that eternal life is earned by fulfilling God's Law. Elsewhere, Scripture explains that this idea is wrong (Gal 3:1–14).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 19:17 one who is good. Jesus' response echoes Israel's creed: "Hear, O Israel: the LORD our God, the LORD is one" (Dt 6:4). By answering in this way, Jesus shifts the focus away from human works and toward God, the source of grace. If you would … commandments. Jesus next challenges the young man with God's Law. Fulfilling God's commands earns eternal life only when perfect obedience is rendered. After the fall of Adam and Eve, of course, such perfection is impossible. "Without Christ the commandments are not kept and cannot please" (Ap V 149).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 19:18–19 Jesus summarizes the Second Table of the Law (Commandments 4–10). Though Jesus fulfilled on our behalf the ceremonial aspects of the Mosaic Law (circumcision, clean/unclean, Sabbath observance, and the like), He strictly upheld the enduring validity of the Law's moral code, which has to do with our treatment of fellow human beings. That emphasis fits perfectly with the demand Jesus will lay upon this young man in v 21.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 19:19 See notes, 5:43–48.
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 19:20 The young man's answer demonstrates hypocrisy, naivete, or both. What do I still lack? A telling question, for it shows that he is aware of his imperfections.
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 19:21 perfect. See p 1903. Perfection involves not only avoiding sins but also actively fulfilling acts of sacrificial love. sell. Jesus addresses the man's greatest weakness. Though he claimed to keep all the Commandments, he failed to keep the first one because he loved his wealth more than he loved God. See note, Ex 20:5. give to the poor. Jesus proclaims a harsh Law. Though this expectation is tailored to this young man, Jesus does expect charity from all disciples. treasure in heaven. Faithful generosity here on earth will result in the Lord rewarding us in heaven (cf 25:31–46; see note, 1Co 3:8), but it does not cause us to be in heaven. That is the gift of Christ's grace alone. Neither are these rewards the best motive for serving others; that is a response of a grateful faith. follow Me. How Jesus invited people into discipleship (4:19–22; 9:9; 16:24).
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 19:22 Jesus' proclamation of the Law overwhelms the young man, yet he is not prepared to repent.
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 19:23–24 Jesus does not state that rich people cannot be saved. camel … needle. Hyperbolic imagery to impress upon His hearers just how serious an impediment riches can be. Significantly, the NT depicts numerous wealthy people becoming disciples and using their money and influence in a God-pleasing way (e.g., Joseph of Arimathea, 27:57–61; Zacchaeus, Lk 19:1–10; Lydia, Ac 16:13–15). See note, Mk 10:25.
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 19:25 The disciples were amazed by the rigor of Jesus' demand. Their reaction implies that they were having doubts about their own salvation.
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 19:26 Stark contrast between human weakness and divine power. Salvation is only possible through God's power and grace.
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 19:27 Though based on a misunderstanding, Peter's anguished cry is nonetheless poignant, for he had left everything to follow Jesus. Owing to the heartfelt nature of Peter's exclamation, Jesus responds not with a rebuke but with a wonderful promise and reassurance (vv 28–30).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 19:28 new world. How things will be after His second coming, when all will be perfectly restored. Cf Rv 21:1–22:5. Son of Man … glorious throne. Based on the vision recorded in Dn 7, where Jesus' glorious final enthronement is prophesied. twelve thrones. In heaven, they will join Him in ruling the restored people of God. A similar promise is made to all believers (2Tm 2:12; Rv 22:5).
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 19:29 See note, Mk 10:29. left. "Christ does not mean that leaving parents, wife, and siblings is a work that must be done because it merits the forgiveness of sins and eternal life…. When Christ speaks about leaving wife and children, it becomes clear that He does not approve this kind of leaving. We know that God's commandment forbids leaving wife and children. God's command to leave is different, that is, when power or tyranny pushes us either to leave or to deny the Gospel" (Ap XXVII 40–41). for My name's sake. Jesus will reward every matter suffered on account of faith and love for Him (cf 25:34–40). See p 842. hundredfold. Reward for following Jesus far outweighs any sacrifice that it requires. inherit eternal life. Jesus' description of the way eternal life is gained contrasts with that of the young man (v 16). See "portion," p 7.
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 19:30 Within this context, this means that many poor and humble will be exalted in the age to come, while many of this world's rich and powerful will be brought low.
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 19:16–30 We cannot earn eternal life through our good works; we can only receive it by God's grace. But Jesus still rewards our sacrifices and service for Him. Trying to earn eternal life is a losing proposition. The perfection this requires is impossible for us sinners. Through faith in Christ, God freely gives us the gift of eternal life. And if that were not enough, He rewards the sacrifices made for His kingdom a hundredfold! • By Your grace, Father, You have adopted us and made us heirs of eternal life. Move us to respond to such kindness by willingly sacrificing for You. Amen.
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 20:1–16 Wording of 19:30 and 20:16 surround this parable. This bracketing structure (an inclusio) suggests that God's mysterious way of reversing things is the parable's point.
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 20:1 master of a house. Owner and manager of the household. hire laborers. Day laborers would be delighted for any work, because they had no other steady income.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 20:3 third hour. C 9 a.m. See p 1567. idle. They desperately need work. marketplace. See note, Jb 29:7.
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 20:4 Household master sets no specific wage for this and the subsequent groups hired. He merely promises to pay fairly.
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 20:5 sixth hour … ninth hour. Noon to 3 p.m. See p 1567.
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 20:6 eleventh hour. An hour before quitting time.
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 20:7 Hiring these men to work only an hour was an act of charity, ensuring they would eat that day.
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 20:8 foreman. Supervisor who oversaw the laborers.
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 20:9 Supervisor paid each worker the same, regardless of the number of hours worked.
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 20:10–12 The expectation that those hired first would receive more seems reasonable. Recall, however, that they agreed to their denarius wage beforehand.
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 20:13 Friend. Implies association, not necessarily personal affection. See note, 26:50.
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 20:14 I choose. Or, "I will." Emphasizes that the master's decision regarding the pay of those hired later lies completely within his discretion.
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 20:15 Master's decision to be generous with those hired last does not mean he has shortchanged those hired first. On the contrary, those hired first receive the wage mutually agreed upon. Being part of God's kingdom is not based on earning or deserving anything, but rather on grace (cf 19:16–30).
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 20:16 See note, vv 1–16.
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 20:1–16 Serving the Lord's kingdom is a privilege and labor of love, not something undertaken to gain a reward. When we begin to think that God's kingdom needs or depends on us, we get it completely backward. We need and depend on it! Through forgiveness and the renewing work of God's Spirit, we can indeed be used by God for vital service in His kingdom. • Keep me ever mindful, Lord, that it is only by grace that I have been included in Your kingdom and am privileged to serve in it. Amen.
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 20:17 going up. See color map 4.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 20:18 Son of Man. See p 2098. delivered. Betrayed; see note, 17:22. chief priests and scribes. In the end, the religious establishment will push hardest for Jesus to be crucified (27:1). See p 1556, 719–20.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 20:19 Gentiles. Pontius Pilate, the highest Roman authority in Jerusalem, would write Jesus' death sentence.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 20:17–19 For a third and final time, Jesus predicts His Passion. Ironically, Jesus' three predictions match the number of Peter's denials. The depth of humanity's sin is such that only the death of God's Son can atone for it. No one took Jesus' life from Him, as His Passion predictions make clear. Rather, He willingly laid down His life in order to save us. • "Forbid it, Lord, that I should boast Save in the death of Christ, my God…. Love so amazing, so divine, Demands my soul, my life, my all!" Amen. (LSB 426:2, 4)

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 20:20 sons of Zebedee. Cf 4:21–22. kneeling. Posture seems ironic, for the request being made has little to do with humility. See p 1276.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 20:21 right hand … left. Positions of highest authority. in Your kingdom. Refers to the time when Jesus will exercise the fullness of His messianic authority. Jesus had already promised that all 12 apostles would share in this rule (19:28).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 20:22 drink the cup. See note, Mk 10:38; cf Jer 25:15–29.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 20:23 not Mine to grant. Jesus once again defers to His Father's authority.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 20:24 They, too, hoped to sit in the seats of the highest honor.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 20:25 lord it over them. Abuse their power by exploiting those less powerful.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 20:26 great … servant. Greatness in God's kingdom is characterized by willingness to serve others rather than insistence on being served.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 20:27 slave. See p 1904.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 20:28 Son of Man. See p 2098. to serve. Jesus' service is complete. He gave His very life for the salvation of the world. ransom. See "redeem," p 843; see also p 1178. for many. Hbr idiom meaning "all."

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 20:20–28 Jesus continues to convince His disciples that in His kingdom, humility and service, not acclaim and power, are most highly valued. Just as it was among the Twelve, so also today the lust for power and control over others continues to be a problem in the Christian community. Though many things make Jesus great—among them His role in creating and preserving all things—it is His sacrificial death that is most wonderful for us. • We thank You, Lord Jesus, for though You were unspeakably rich, You willingly became poor, that by Your great poverty we might become rich. Amen.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 20:29 Jericho. C 15 mi from Jesus' destination, Jerusalem. See color map 4.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 20:30 Lord, have mercy. Echoing others in great need (15:22; 17:15), these blind men do not waste words. See note, Lk 17:13. Son of David! See p 2098.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 20:31 rebuked. See note, Lk 18:39.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 20:32 Jesus' question emphasizes His willingness to serve them.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 20:34 pity. See note, Lk 7:13. touched their eyes. Cf 8:3, 15; 9:29; 19:15; see notes, Mk 3:10; 7:33. His touch would have been esp important to the blind men. followed. See note, Mk 8:34.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 20:29–34 Though the nearness of the crowd and His own impending death weigh heavily on Him, Jesus is not too preoccupied to help two men in desperate need. Like the people in Jericho who tried to silence the two blind men, we also may tend to treat persons in need as nuisances. Yet Jesus painstakingly extended His ministry to all in need, showing care and concern for them. We, too, have received His grace. • "Amazing grace—how sweet the sound—That saved a wretch like me! I once was lost but now am found, Was blind but now I see!" Amen. (LSB 744:1)

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 21:1 Bethphage. See note, Lk 19:29; see also map, p 1584. two disciples. Not identified. Jesus frequently sent paired workers for a task (Mk 6:7; Lk 10:1).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 21:2–3 Jesus needed only a single mount. He commanded that the donkey and her colt be brought to Him in order to fulfill the prophecy recorded in Zec 9:9 (cf vv 4–5). See notes, Mk 11:2; Lk 19:30.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 21:3 Jesus could have entered Jerusalem under His own power. However, He rode the donkey to fulfill prophecy and reenact the kind of royal inaugurations described in 1Ki 1:32–40.
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 21:4–5 Jesus entered Jerusalem as the promised Messiah. Zec had much to say about the advent of the messianic age (cf Mt 26:31). See notes, Zec 9:9; Jn 12:16.
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 21:7–8 Outer garments on the animals were used as saddles. Shortly thereafter, the crowds laid their cloaks on the road where Jesus passed, much as the crowds had done at Jehu's inauguration (2Ki 9:12–13).
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 21:8 Branches, particularly palms, were used to adorn processions, esp religious ones. Descriptions of this custom are found in 1Macc 13:51; 2Macc 10:6–7.
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 21:9 Hosanna. See note, Jn 12:13. Blessed. See p 842. comes in the name of the Lord! Jesus is openly acclaimed as the promised Messiah, with a divinely appointed destiny to fulfill. See "name," p 843.
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 21:11 the prophet Jesus, from Nazareth. Title recalls the Galilean phase of Jesus' ministry, when He was just becoming famous for His teaching and healing (13:57; 14:5; 16:14). By this time, however, the crowds unabashedly acclaim Him as Messiah.
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 21:1–11 Palm Sunday is a high point, as a crowd at the Jewish capital openly acclaims Jesus as Messiah. It is also a turning point, however, since it galvanizes His opponents. Like the crowds in Jerusalem, we are prone to fickleness—today all for the Lord, tomorrow turning from Him. Though we often prove faithless, Jesus remains constant. His love and forgiveness never falter. • " 'Hosanna in the highest!' That ancient song we sing; For Christ is our Redeemer, The Lord of heav'n our King." Amen. (LSB 443:3)
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 21:12 entered the temple. Here, at the sacrificial center of Judaism, Jesus will complete His earthly ministry. sold and bought. In the court of the Gentiles (see diagram, p 1627), merchants sold animals to the pilgrims coming to offer sacrifice, as it was impractical for travelers to transport animals. money-changers. See note, Jn 2:14.
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 21:13 Cf Is 56:7, originally meant to assure Gentiles that they, too, could offer sacrifices to the Lord. This was part of the reason for the court of the Gentiles (see diagram, p 1627). By converting some of the temple precincts into a trading post, however, the religious leaders were thwarting God's design. house of prayer. On temple services, see note, Ac 3:1.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 21:14 In contrast to the religious leaders, who were failing in their sacred duties by allowing the temple to be so misused, Jesus used the temple exactly as the Messiah ought: for healing.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 21:15 chief priests … scribes. See pp 1556–57. indignant. Children grasp what is occurring as the blind receive sight. Yet the supposed experts refuse to see.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 21:16 Jesus underlines the irony of children grasping the situation while their leaders fail. He also highlights another fulfillment of prophecy. See note, Ps 8:2.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 21:17 Bethany. C 2 mi E of the temple. Because Mary, Martha, and Lazarus lived there, it is possible that Jesus lodged with them. See color map 4.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 21:12–17 Immediately after being acclaimed Messiah, Jesus further provokes the Jewish leaders by driving merchants and money-changers out of the temple. Sometimes financial concerns eclipse the Church's real priority: faithfully teaching the Word and administering the Sacraments. Jesus responds to our misuse of holy things not by yanking them away from us but rather by correcting us and calling us to receive them worthily, unto faith and salvation. • "Almighty, ever-living God, grant that … all my worship may be acceptable unto Thee; through Jesus Christ, my Lord." Amen. (TLH, p 4)

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 21:18 After spending the night in Bethany, Jesus returned to the temple. He would spend the next several days there teaching the people and debating with religious authorities.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 21:19–20 See note, Mk 11:13.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 21:21–22 Jesus' cursing of the fig tree is an "enacted prophecy" that foreshadows the judgment God will visit on the unbelievers of Jerusalem. Jer 8:13 and Mi 7:1 compare faithless Israel to a barren fig tree (cf Hos 9:10). Just as Jesus punished this fig tree, so also unbelieving Jerusalem and its temple would be destroyed in AD 70. But even as Jesus acts in judgment against fruitlessness, He also promises great reward for faithfulness. Faith moves mountains and knows that its prayers are heard and answered by God.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 21:18–22 By cursing a fruitless fig tree, Jesus reveals symbolically God's judgment against the faithless and fruitless portion of His covenant people. Though we are saved by faith alone, producing fruit for God and His kingdom is not optional. Though faithlessness rightly deserves God's wrath, God Himself works faithfulness in us and grants a rich reward of blessings. • Lord Jesus, You are the true vine. Apart from You, we can do nothing. Keep us united to You, that we produce abundant fruit to Your glory. Amen.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 21:23 chief priests … elders. See p 1556. Leaders continue to watch Jesus closely, hoping to find grounds to accuse Him. Within a few days, they will have succeeded in their plan to do away with Him. authority. Chief concern of Jerusalem leaders.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 21:24–25 baptism of John. John the Baptist came, announcing the advent of the Kingdom and calling for repentance. From heaven or from man? Jesus asks the same question concerning John that His accusers have just posed about Him: what was the source of His authority? not believe him? They admit to rejecting the divine origin of John's message. In this rejection, they proved more hard-hearted than the common people.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 21:26 prophet. See note, 11:9.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 21:27 Answer given by Jesus' opponents is insincere and cowardly. Even worse is the fact that they deny the authority of God's Messiah.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 21:23–27 When His opponents challenge the source of His authority, Jesus exhibits a wisdom that powerfully attests to His status as one sent by God. Like Jesus' opponents, we sometimes challenge the Lord's authority and attempt to stand in judgment of Him. But God rightly judges us, not vice versa. Jesus willingly submitted to the authority of those who falsely accused Him and unjustly condemned Him to death. By His death, He won our salvation. • Give us grace always to submit to Your authority, O Lord, for it comes from heaven and so can lead us there, where we will reign with You forever. Amen.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 21:28–32 Parable contrasts the more pious reaction of tax collectors and prostitutes to John's preaching with the hard-heartedness of His adversaries (vv 23–27).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 21:29 changed his mind. Gk term also expresses regret or remorse. The son changes his behavior and does his father's will.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 21:30 Though he appeared to be the good son, the second one was the more disobedient.
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 21:31 will of his father? The father represents God. Jesus implicitly asks who within Israel has better discerned and fulfilled God's will. tax collectors … prostitutes. Notorious sinners. See note, 5:46. go … before you. By presenting such vile characters as more pious than His opponents, Jesus puts the opponents in the worst possible light.
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 21:32 the way of righteousness. According to John the Baptist, this involved preparing to receive the coming Messiah, turning from sin, and producing the fruit of repentance (3:1–12). See p 843. believed him. Many people embraced John's message, including some notorious sinners. Jesus' opponents, however, persist in their rejection of John and the One whose way he prepared.
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 21:28–32 Jesus graphically depicts the obstinance of His opponents and the depth of their sin in rejecting Him. There are times that our stubborn refusals to change our behavior are just as obstinate. In God's kingdom, no repentant sinner is ever turned away. Repentant tax collectors and prostitutes were welcomed; so are we! • "Chief of sinners though I be, Jesus shed His blood for me, Died that I might live on high, Lives that I might never die. As the branch is to the vine, I am His, and He is mine." Amen. (LSB 611:1)
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 21:33–41 Parable in vv 28–32 was quite critical of Jesus' accusers. He continues with a parable that is even more devastating, borrowing imagery the prophets repeatedly used to depict Israel's relationship to God (e.g., Is 5:1–5). See note, Lk 20:9–15.
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 21:33 master. Landowner who leases out his land; symbolizes God. vineyard. See notes, Is 5:2–5. tenants. Sharecroppers who represent the unbelieving religious leaders opposing Jesus.
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 21:34 season for fruit. See calendar, p 262. his fruit. Previously specified portion of the harvest for payment.
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 21:35 stoned. The servant killed by stoning represents the OT prophets. Stoning was the punishment for a variety of religious infractions in ancient Israel, including defiling holy space (Ex 19:13), idolatry (Lv 20:2), practicing satanic arts (Lv 20:27), and blasphemy (Lv 24:14–16, 23). This underlines that the rebellious tenants and their master held different religious beliefs and practices.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 21:36 God sent many prophets to wayward Israel. Many of them were rejected, and many were treated violently. See pp 1081–83.
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 21:37 respect my son. As emissary par excellence. As God's own Son, Jesus deserves the highest respect.
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 21:38 have his inheritance. See note, Mk 12:7.
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 21:39 Jesus was similarly put to death outside the wall of Jerusalem, as was the first Christian martyr, Stephen (Ac 7:54–60).
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 21:40–41 Jesus' rhetorical question about the fate of the wicked tenants forces His opponents to pronounce their own sentence. put those wretches to a miserable death. The harsh punishment perfectly fits such a wicked crime. Even at that, forgiveness is repeatedly offered to those who condemned Jesus (Ac 3:17–26; 5:29–32).
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 21:42 Second time the messianic Ps 118 is quoted in this section of Mt (cf 21:9). stone … cornerstone. See note, Lk 20:17.
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 21:43 taken away … given to a people. Jewish rejection will hasten the Gentiles' inclusion in the Kingdom. They are the new people who will produce fruit. producing its fruits. Remaining in Jesus and obeying His commands (Jn 15:1–9).
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 21:44 Jesus warns that anyone rejecting Him will face being broken and crushed by the weight of that most grievous sin.
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 21:45 chief priests … Pharisees. See pp 1556–57. speaking about them. Jesus' hearers understood perfectly well how and where they were represented in this parable.
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 21:46 Jesus was indeed a prophet, but also much more. Thus this parable (vv 33–46), as well as the following one (22:1–14), identifies Him as God's Son.
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 21:33–46 Jesus warns His opponents that rejecting Him will ultimately lead to their exclusion from the Kingdom. Judgment is based on one's reaction to Jesus. Those rejecting Him are excluded from God's kingdom and are consigned to the only other option: an eternity apart from God in hell. In His great wisdom and mercy, God used the murder of His Son to work salvation, and He used the rejection of Israel's leaders to hasten the extension of the Kingdom to Gentiles. • Heavenly Father, keep us united by faith to Christ, our source of life, lest we ever turn away, reject Him, and so lose our hope of salvation. Amen.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 22:1–11 Parable repeats three important themes from the previous one (21:33–46), specifically Jesus' divine Sonship, Israel's persistent rejection of its prophets, and the inclusion of Gentiles in God's kingdom.
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 22:2 wedding feast. Is 25:6–9 compares the messianic age to a great feast hosted by God. That imagery, along with Jesus' self-identification as the Bridegroom in Mt 9:15, makes it plain that in the parable the father represents God and Jesus is the Bridegroom.
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 22:3 Those invited represent the people of Israel. Inexplicably, they refuse to come to the banquet prepared for them.
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 22:4 my oxen and my fat calves. Compare the sumptuous fare laid out at this feast with the fare prophesied in Is 25.
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 22:5–6 Some of those invited to the feast ignore the second invitation. Others greet these messengers with violence. Such refusals represent Israel's reaction toward the prophets sent to them. "The cause for this contempt for the Word is not God's foreknowledge, but the perverse human will. The human will rejects or perverts the means and instrument of the Holy Spirit, which God offers it through the call. It resists the Holy Spirit, who wants to be effective, and who works through the Word" (FC SD XI 41).
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 22:7 Anticipates the Roman destruction of Jerusalem in AD 70 during the first Jewish revolt.
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 22:8 not worthy. Their steadfast refusal to accept the invitation disqualified them.
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 22:9 as many as you find. This invitation represents the inclusion of the Gentiles in God's kingdom.
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 22:10 bad and good. Parables in Mt repeatedly depict the Kingdom as including "bad people" or hypocrites (cf 13:24–30, 36–43, 47–50). In the end, however, there is always a separation of the true and false believers. wedding hall. Representation of the earthly Church.
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 22:11–12 wedding garment. Israelites expected invited guests to wear festive wedding garments, which the host could provide. Thus, this fellow's failure to dress in appropriate clothing, which was freely given to him, offends the host. This garment signifies the righteousness of God, which covers our sin (cf Is 61:10; Gal 3:27).
MATTHEW—NOTE ON 22:13 outer darkness. Jesus is not talking about an earthly party but about salvation. The exclusion and punishment is a description of hell. gnashing. See note, 8:12.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 22:14 Many of those called into God's kingdom miss out because they refuse to respond to the invitation properly—in faith. "This does not mean that God is unwilling to save everybody. But the reason some are not saved is as follows: They do not listen to God's Word at all" (FC Ep XI 12).

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 22:1–14 Though God earnestly invites all to His Son's feast, some refuse to accept His invitation and so fail to enjoy its richness. Coming from a long line of believers does not guarantee anyone a place in God's kingdom. Ingratitude and presumption ever threaten to lead us away. Though we in no way deserve mercy, the Gospel earnestly invites us to come and join the Lord in His eternal heavenly banquet. • Heavenly Father, thank You for preparing a table before us in the presence of our enemies and graciously calling us to dwell in Your house forever. Amen.

MATTHEW—NOTE ON 22:15 Once again, Jesus' adversaries set a trap for Him, by means of a trick question.
